Hogs And Calves Gain 25-50 On Week's Sales

TORONTO, Feb. 17.—(CP)—Cattle prices opened 25 cents higher on a light run on Toronto Livestock market this week, the Dominion Livestock Branch reported, but heavier following receipts, mostly off truck, cancelled the early gains. Calves were strong to 50 cents higher in spots. Hogs gained 25 to 40 cents. Lambs were up 15 to 25 cents with sheep steady.

Opening run of cattle was only 980 head but there were 5,400 cattle received by Thursday. Early prices were up on all killers with top steers at $7.75 and best butchers at $7 cwt. Except on weighty steers, the gain was lost Tuesday and closing trade was draggy with a few hundred head unsold.

Weighty steers closed at $6-$7.50 with a few heavies at $7.75. Good butcher steers and heifers traded at $6.25-$6.60 with most sales from $6.50 downward to $5.50. Butcher cows made $3.35-$4.75, canners and cutters $2.50-$3. A few butcher bulls brought $4.50-$5, Bologna bulls were $4-$4.40.

Medium to good fed calves sold at $6.50 - $8 while a few choice reached $9.35. Small lots of medium quality stockers brought $5-$5.50. Milkers and springers were slow at $70-$75 for tested tops.

Calves Up To $11.

Calves opened steady at $10.50 for tops but strengthened Tuesday with several as high as $11. Most of the veal calves were $8 to $10.50. A few lights and rough heavies were as low as $5 cwt.

Hogs moved up on a light run, starting at $9-$9.15 off trucks for bacons and closing at $9.25-$9.35. Sows brought $6.75-$7.25 off trucks. Several lots of light pigs made $4-$5 each and some 80-pound chunks brought $8 each.

Sheep and lamb receipts included 1,800 from the west. The market on western lambs was 15 cents higher with the Tuesday offering of 1,000 head going at $8.90. No western lambs came out in the later trading but a few Ontario feed lot lambs reached a top of $9 cwt. Other grades ranged from $8.75 downward to $5 for culls. Sheep were $2.50-$5 cwt. for Ontarios with light western ewes at $5.50.

Hanbury Resigns

OTTAWA, Feb. 16—(CP).—Resignation of Wilfred Hanbury, former Liberal member of the House of Commons for Vancouver-Burrard, from the transport commission, was tendered to transport minister Howe today. Mr. Hanbury was appointed to the commission some months ago but he has never functioned on it.

The resignation confirms a Canadian Press report of Tuesday that Mr. Hanbury would not accept the position because of business reasons.

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist one ounce of Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing, rumbling, hissing sounds in their ears, should give this recipe a trial.—(Advt.)

was concered and Bradley had arranged to have a sleigh and team ready to drive the officers the two mile from his place to the station. Everything went accordingly to schedule and when the police reached the railway they found Champagne outside the station and Peters inside the building.

Stolen Money Found

The two men were questioned closely. Then Champagne was searched, the officers found $96 in bills in an Epsom salts tin in an inner pocket. The man was placed under arrest and then his companion took the police outside and showed them where he had hidden his share of the loot in a snow pile. A similar Epsom salts tin was uncovered; it was found to contain $120.

The two men were handcuffed, taken by sleigh to the Bradley home and then into Peterborough by automobile reaching the station at 5.25 o'clock.

In the guardroom they were searched again amid a barrage of questions. Asked as to the gun Peters replied: "We didn't have a gun. We used a piece of axle shaft. It was shiny."

The two were roughly dressed in several layers of shabby clothing, each wearing several pairs of trousers and two or three ragged sweaters. Evidence of their night of exposure following the holdup was furnished by the fact that Peters was suffering from a frozen ear and a frozen foot.

From statements made to the police it is not difficult to decide that the men must have arrived at the conclusion that crime did not pay even before they were caught because in their effort to make a clean getaway they walked nearly all night in the fact of a cold northwest wind with the thermometer at its second lowest point of the winter. While it is impossible to trace their movements in detail their story to the police was that after the holdup they started west along the C.P.R. tracks, stopped for a while in a box car on a siding where the money was roughly divided between them, and then followed the track again to Kendry where they turned off unto the highway and walked south for some distance. The men were not quite clear as to their route for some time after that but they finally found themselves back on the C.P.R. tracks again and continued to walk west.

Ten Minutes Late

They arrived at Dranoel station just in time to miss the local morning train for Toronto, and that ten minutes on the wrong side spelled the difference between escape and capture.

They continued on to Manvers and determined to wait there for the afternoon train. Then fate and young Bradley took a hand in the game, the police arrived before the train and it was all over—except to face the consequences.

Champagne and Peters had been in town for several days. On Saturday night and again on Monday night they applied for shelter at the police station and were given lodgings with a number of other transients, Champagne giving his name on both occasions as Paul Martin while his companion was booked as Peters on one visit and Peterson on the other.

"We Took A Chance"

"You get desperate when you are down-and-out," Champagne said last night. "I tried eleven houses in this town yesterday before I could get a bite to eat. The other fellow was desperate too and we decided to take a chance—and here we are. I was sorry for the fellow we held up. He thought it was a joke at first but he soon changed his tune. Anyway he's got his money back and it should be a lesson to him not to keep so much of it around."

Police are loud in their praises of the Bradleys for their promptness in notifying the local department of the presence of suspicious strangers. In so doing they made possible a quick and complete cleanup of a serious crime and relieved the Peterborough force of the pressure that always is associated with unsolved major cases. Citizens will probably feel that the police themselves earned commendation by their speedy action on the information received and on the fact that instead of quibbling about jurisdiction, they chose to go out of their territory and clean up the job.

Oyster Supper Held In Hall's Glen Hall

The "Willing Workers" of Hall's Glen United Church held their annual oyster supper on Tuesday, in the Orange Hall. About one hundred guests sat down to attractively decorated and well-laden tables. After supper was served everyone went to the church, where a "Major Bowes" amateur hour was put on by the young people. Garfield Crowe took the part of Major Bowes exceptionally well. The program included:

A song, "Because I Love Jesus," by Jean Dunford, Betty and Doris Matthews; instrumental by Billie Batten; recitation by May Moore; solo by Lenore McIlvena; instrumental duet by Ruth and John Wilkinson; selections from the "Rippling Rythmiers" orchestra; instrumental by Barbara Parsons; solo by Iverne Mathews; dialogue, "Reading the Pleasant Plains Review," given by Margot Clysdale, Barbara Parsons and Ernie Dethor, caused a good deal of humor; song by Doris and Liverne Mathews and David Millar; reading by Mr. Trevor Little; darky orchestra, "the Hall's Glen Hill-Billies."

After the National Anthem, Geo. Crowe auctioned off several cakes and pies at the hall. The proceeds amounted to $25.00.

Further summarizing the government's plans, Mr. Gardiner said a bill would be introduced to deal with emergencies "which we hope will make home-building on the prairies more secure." The bill would be drafted on the principle "that assistance will be given in proportion to need and calculated on an acreage basis rather than increased wheat production."

It would be the government's aim to develop a system which would ensure a return to the farmers sufficient to enable them to live comfortably and educate their families rather than a system that encouraged maximum production of all commodities.

While the total cost to the government of the guaranteed fixed price of 80 cents a bushel based on No. 1 Northern at Fort William, will be about $48,000,000 this crop year, there are great areas which will receive nothing because of crop failures, while others, where little assistance is needed in producing a crop, will benefit, the minister said.

All the total crop failure area was in Saskatchewan but that province, out of the $48,000,000, would receive only $18,000,000. Based on acreage, the assistance worked out from nothing, where there were complete crop failures, to $4.90 an acre in one municipality.

"A system making possible that difference in the distribution of money from the federal treasury is not a system that can be advocated or maintained by the government of Canada," Mr. Gardiner declared.

He believed that the government should not aim at the maximum possible production but at the maintenance of as many families as possible on the land, in comfortable circumstances.

"I am not at all interest in encouraging the production of wheat at 35 cents a bushel by putting into operation as many tractors as possibly can be operated," the minister said.

Favors 5 Family System.

"Even if it costs 40 cents a bushel or if it costs 45 cents to raise the same amount of wheat or a lesser amount while other products are being produced on the same land with five families up, say two and a half sections, instead of one family and three tractors and two hired men, then I am in favor of the five families.

"Encouragement of the placing of more and more families upon our land rather than the production of more and more wheat, will assist in solving the labor problem of this country.

"It will assist in solving every national problem confronting Canada at this time. For that reason I believe that any policy which we follow should be based upon the idea that we want to put families on the land."

M. J. Coldwell (C.C.F. Rosetown-Biggar) said he would be in disagreement with the minister in some of his statements, but he congratulated Mr. Gardiner "on having placed before Parliament at least some constructive proposals" to deal with a pressing problem.

intimation that officials of the Bank of Canada would come before the Banking and Commerce Committee for a discussion of monetary policy with members of the House. He was looking forward to this, he said, as it would permit members who had ideas to examine them in the light of the information the bank officials would be able to furnish.

Includes Social Crediters.

In this category he included Social Credit members and Walter Tucker (Lib., Rosthern) who spoke urging an increase in the amount of currency in circulation in place of government borrowing.

The management of currency presented difficulties to financial authorities never experienced in the days of the gold standard, Mr. Dunning admitted, adding he could not find monetary problems as simple as they appeared to some members.

"Management means the operation by men's minds, as they are at present, with respect to the segment of monetary management which is under their control—the segment which relates to their own country," he said.

No domestic monetary question could be settled without a careful consideration of the international exchange situation and the policies of other countries. The people managing currencies in other countries today might not be the same six months from now.

Speaking directly to the Social Credit group he said: "Monetary management in this country alone, along any line very much more radical than that now pursued, creates a welter of problems, because the monetary management of countries with which Canada must do business is not carried on along the same lines."

Within the past five years, said Mr. Dunning, Canada's indebtedness outside the country, governmental and otherwise, had been reduced by $524,000,000, and 75 per cent. of the funded governmental debt was now payable in Canada.

This was in reply to Mr. Stevens' suggestion Canada had over borrowed from the United States. Mr. Dunning agreed it would be unwise to borrow much more in that country but said there was no means of separating the debt due in the United States from the general international indebtedness.

A moderate increase in the amount of currency in circulation and greater use of treasury bills were suggestions offered by Mr. Stevens.

OBITUARY

MRS. MATILDA EMMA BAPTIE

The death of Mrs. Matilda Emma Baptie, R.R. No. 1, Lakefield, occurred on Thursday afternoon. In her 89th year, she had been in declining health for some time due to her age.

Born Matilda Barrie, she was a daughter of David Barrie and Mary Hurl. Her birthplace was Dummer township and she moved to Smith township almost half a century ago. She was a member of the United church.

She was the widow of James Baptie. Surviving are one son, Howard James Baptie; one sister, Mrs. Victoria Todd of Manitoba; and one brother, Thomas Barrie of Campbellford.

Mrs. Baptie was a kind and loving mother and is possessed of a host of friends who will mourn her passing.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock from the Duffus Funeral Parlors. Interment will be at Lakefield cemetery.

Pefferlaw Man Badly Frozen

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Feb. 17.—Michael Laviolette, an aged resident of Pefferlaw, was found Thursday about seven o'clock beside a hedge near that hamlet in an unconscious condition. The unfortunate man left Pefferlaw for home around eleven o'clock and had evidently become confused along the highway. Both legs were found to be frozen to the knees and both arms to the elbows. His face was also badly frozen. He was rushed to the hospital, where little hope is held out for his recovery.

Called to Pension.

Rev. F. W. Newell of United Church, Hastings, has received a call to the United Church, Fenlon Falls, depending on the settlement committee of the Bay of Quinte Conference.

Mrs. Stewart Dies

Mrs. Archibald Stewart, town, passed away at the residence of her son, Fulton Stewart, on Wednesday in her eighty-third year. She was born near Oshawa, and has been a resident of Lindsay for forty-five years.

Fire Put 2 Out In Cold

As a result of a fire at an early hour Thursday Joseph and Robert McConnell, Queen street, were forced to flee from their home in their night attire and in bare feet. The blaze started from hot ashes placed in the wood shed, and the house was badly damaged. The fire was fought with the thermometer registering sixteen below zero, and members of the fire brigade suffered rather severely from frost.

Deer Killed By Wolves

Members of the C.N.R. Haliburton train discovered the carcass of a deer along the roadbed between that village and Kinmount on Wednesday morning. The deer had been run to earth by wolves, the carcass and a patch of blood being mute evidence of the slaughter.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 17—Mrs. J. Heffernan was winner of the bridge prize at the weekly bridge and euchre party held under auspices of the Parish Guild of Christ church. The prizes for euchre went to Mrs. J. C. Anderson and Rev. T. S. Gault. Among those assisting the president and general convener, Mrs. S. Hopping, were Mrs. H. Beatty and Miss Gertrude Maynard.

S.S. No. 2 Party Jolly Affair

(Examiner Correspondence.)

GILMOUR, Feb. 17. — A Valentine concert and party was held at S.S. No. 2, Smith, on Tuesday afternoon with a good attendance.

The Maple Leaf; A Valentine, Wilfred Monorief; Come Let Us Be Joyful, folk dance by girls; My Message, Wilma Darling; song by seven small girls, Here We Go Round the Valentine Box; Winter's Valentine, Jimmy Fife; choruses by the school, I Don't Want to March with the Infantry, Mammy's Little Baby Loves Shortening Bread, The Hunter, White Coral Bells, I Went to the Teller and I Walked Around the Block; A Valentine exercise, Eunice and Merle Monorief, Ruby Kerr, and Maxine Kidd; Mary Had a Little Cold, George Johnston; The Way of Valentines, Jimmy McManus; Irlo, The Umbrella Man; folk dance, Jenny Creck Horns; Hear the Pennies Dropping was played while the collection for Red Cross work, amounting to $1.00, was collected.

The Valentine post office was opened by Barrie Deyell and Oswald Westlake, from which everyone received a Valentine. Refreshments of candy, cookies, and popcorn were served to the children and visitors. Games were enjoyed by everyone, and the singing of "God Save the King" closed the entertainment, under the direction of the teacher, Miss Ruth Jones.

A meeting of co-operation was held in S.S. No. 2 School on Tuesday night, with a fair attendance present. The speakers were Mr. Black of Kent County and Miss Graham of Perth County. These young people are trying to help the farmers to co-operate.

TRUCK IS BURNED.

A truck belonging to Sam Gray of Toronto and laden with apples, caught fire two miles and a half west of Norwood on Highway No. 7 early on Thursday morning, and was almost completely destroyed.

BICYCLE CASES ADJOURNED.

Once again several cases involving a breach of the township by-law in regard to riding bicycles on North Monaghan sidewalks were adjourned this morning, but Magistrate Langley served warning that they must be cleared up next week.

WILL VISIT TORONTO.

Fire Chief George Gimblett will go to Toronto on Saturday to attend a Board of Directors meeting of the Dominion Fire Chief's Association. Chief Gimblett is second vice-president of the Association.

MUFFS OR SOMETHING

If another cold dip comes along before winter ends, Max Sloan, assistant assessor, should be in the market for ear muffs after the painful defrosting of both his ears when he arrived at the office the other morning with both of them considerably whitened.

COURSE NEARING END

The agricultural short course is winding up with a dinner in Keene Community Hall next Thursday, February 23. These studies in elementary agriculture and home economics began on November 22 and will be concluded on Friday, February 24.

STOP RUNAWAY.

Ed. Wigg, a member of the Peterborough Fire Department, stopped a frightened horse as it raced down George street at eight o'clock this morning. The horse was drawing a bread waggon and became frightened at the corner of George and Hunter. Wigg, with two other firemen, were going off duty and waiting for the bus at Simcoe street when they noticed the horse approaching and headed it off.

FROSTED WINDOWS.

The heating system at Ivan Lilico's new garage on Charlotte Street went haywire three days ago, during the severe cold spell and the employees had some difficulty keeping the place warm. A battery of small coal oil heaters were placed in action and did some good, but the show windows for the past two days were frosted from top to bottom. The system is now functioning properly.

CASE DISMISSED.

When an assault case against Donald Ellis of Havelock was called in Police Court this morning Magistrate Langley was informed by D. F. Miller of Havelock, counsel for the complainant, Alexander McLaughlin, that the latter wanted to withdraw the case. The expenses involved, including the doctor's bill, had been paid, he said. Magistrate Langley objected to the procedure, declaring that it looked as if the court were being used as a collecting agency. "I think the case should be dismissed," said Crown Attorney McElderry. Accordingly Ellis was formally arraigned, elected summary trial, and pleaded not guilty, Crown Attorney McElderry offered no evidence, and the case was dismissed.

CARNIVAL TONIGHT

Some of the best figure skaters in Canada will take part in the colorful skating carnival in Brock Street Rink tonight when 46 members of the Toronto Skating Club will give a memorable and beautiful display on gaily colored ice. The affair is under the auspices of the Winter Sports Committee and the Peterborough Ski Club and while there has been a brisk demand for tickets, many choice seats are still available to the public. The opportunity to see this galaxy of ice talent perform is one that is not often offered outside the larger cities and Peterborough folk should not miss the chance that the enterprise of the two local organizations has brought to their doors. The skating carnival will be staged on the grand scale and will undoubtedly prove a striking spectacle.

Youth Is Given Six Months On Assault Counts

Pleading guilty to three charges of indecent assault upon women, seventeen-year-old Lloyd Spinks was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in Police Court this morning to six months' determinate and six months' indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory on each count, the sentences to run concurrently.

"Because of your youth I am not going to give you lashes, nor am I going to send you to Kingston Penitentiary," Magistrate Langley told the young prisoner.

W. B. Gordon, who appeared for Spinks this morning, made a plea for lenieny, suggesting that the sentences run concurrently and that the prisoner be given minimum sentence.

"There is no minimum," Magistrate Langley stated. "The maximum is two years' imprisonment and lashes."

Mr. Gordon argued that the assaults complained of were close to the nature of an ordinary assault.

"I am sorry I cannot agree with my learned friend in that statement," said Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C. "My information is that in each of these cases there was an indecent assault. One girl was struck violently under the chin in an effort to render her insensible and in other cases the girl was not released until her screams caused the accused to let her go."

Magistrate Langley said that the offence was a most serious one. The law recognized that fact by giving the courts power to order lashes in cases of offences against women. In imposing sentence, however, he said that he was taking into consideration the youth of the prisoner.

Kerr Champions Grand Juries

Grand juries have a champion in F. D. Kerr, K.C., according to the current issue of Bench and Bar, legal newspaper, in a report of the mid-winter meeting of the Ontario section of the Canadian Bar Association at Hamilton held last month.

Mr. Kerr is reported as defending the grand jury system, which he said was a safeguard against injustice that might be created "especially at present when the tendency is to do away with democratic institutions."

More than 300 members of the bench and bar of Ontario attended the meeting.

Lumbermen Pledge Support Of Act

TORONTO, Feb. 17 (CP) — F. J. Overend, Peterborough, pledged support of the lumber business to the Dominion Housing Act in his presidential address yesterday to open the annual convention of the Ontario Retail Lumber Dealers Association.

Service Club Singing Classed By Director Lowest Form Of Music

ACCORDING to Roy Fenwick, director of education for the province of Ontario, the lowest form of music in the province at the present time is the community singing indulged in by members of service clubs. Or so, at least, he told a group of students at the Peterborough Normal School this morning.

At noon today, when he was addressing members of the Kiwanis club, he qualified his remarks to some degree. After listening to the club's community singing he said the remark did not apply to them. "I assure you I was not referring to your club. Your singing here inspired me," he said, smiling.

Injured Youth Returns Home

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Feb. 17. — Oral George, who was injured about ten days ago while sleigh-riding and who was removed to Cobourg General Hospital for observation and treatment, returned home on Thursday. The boy suffered internal injuries, but it is believed they are not critical, and complete recovery is expected.

He is fourteen years old and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred George.

Farm Meetings Are Largely Attended

Most largely attended of the Thursday night meetings in the co-operative education program that is being conducted in the county under the auspices of Peterborough County United Farmers' Club was at Stewart's Hall in Otonabee where Harold Ghent of Mt. Forest and Alex Anderson of Guelph, were the speakers. Fifty men and women of the neighborhood displayed by their questions not only a spirited interest in the system of co-operation but also a rather broad grasp of the subject.

"We had an exceptionally good meeting," Mr. Ghent told the Examiner this morning. "The weather was against us, but when fifty people turned out that was an evidence of the community interest in this campaign. There were a lot of sound questions asked, and it seemed to me the Stewart's Hall section is pretty well advanced in the general knowledge of the principles of co-operation."

H. MacDougall and Wm. Fisher had an audience of about thirty persons at Keene, and Mrs. L. Harman and Miss G. Gray addressed twenty-six men and women at Apsley.

It was said the Apsley group evinced a special interest in the possibilities of a co-operative cheese factory in that district. Mr. V. Black and G. Longwell were the speakers at the Rifle Range school.

The meetings for the rest of the week have already been announced. On Monday night the week of home meetings begins.

Other meetings are at C. E. Moore's home in Smith; Earl Petrie's in Otonabee; Alex Huston's in Otonabee; Vernon Campbell's home in Douro; Douro Town Hall and Westwood.

Boer War Veteran Dies In Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 17.— A cavalryman in the Boer War, Frederick Atkinson died at his home here early on Thursday morning. In his sixty-third year Mr. Atkinson was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Atkinson of Montreal. At the close of the war he returned to Brockville, where he served as a C.N.R. engineer for more than twenty years before coming to Campbellford in 1914. From here he worked on various construction projects at Healey Falls, Havelock and Ivanhoe. He was married in Campbellford in 1926 to Sarah Nicholos, widow of the late Levi Redden. A Mason for many years the funeral will be conducted under Masonic auspices from Bennett's funeral parlours on Saturday morning from where the body will be taken to Brockville for burial.

Peterborough Consumers Co-operative Association held its first annual meeting in the Public Library last night. Only nine months in existence, its mere handful of charter members has grown to 250, and when that number reaches 400 the first project of a co-operative bakery will be launched.

The receipts for the first year were $332.06, the expenses $110.80, leaving a capital balance of $221.26.

This money is distributed as follows: $200 in a savings account; $17.29 current and $3.99 cash on hand.

A. Birkhof, first president of the association, presided at last night's meeting which was looked upon as an exceptionally significant milestone as representing the first year's progress.

Directors elected for two years were: Dr. R. W. Frank, W. S. Johnson, Wm. Wiggins and A. Birkhof, and for one year John Barnes, Percy Edwards, G. Snowden and Dr. L. Cotton Thomas. The auditors are Fred Dainton and Miss F. E. Eakins.

The main effort of first year, it was recalled by Mr. Birkhof, was the advancement of organization, the essential condition to co-operative success. The first steps were planned by about a little company of ten who enlisted others until the peak membership was 350. It has recently declined to 247 by reason of the removal of three of the members from Peterborough.

The charter of the association authorizes it to enter into any line of business that may be considered, and on either a retailing or manufacturing basis.

Election of the president, secretary and treasurer was left to the new directors.

George H. Giroux Dies In City

Peterborough lost one of its prominent citizens of the last 60 years in the death at 11 o'clock this morning of George Henry Giroux at his home, 306 Stewart Street.

Mr. Giroux had been in declining health since New Year's as the result of an accidental fall which had confined him to bed. Its effects combined with his advanced years at length had a fatal ending in spite of the vigorous constitution than had been a heritage from his youth.

Born at Norham, south of Warkworth, in Northumberland county, a son of Timothy and Virginia de Vergin Giroux, the deceased was 81 years old. He had been a resident of Peterborough for 60 years. Ten years ago he was superannuated from the engineering staff of the Trent Canal to which he had been long attached. As a young man after his arrival in Peterborough he was an outstanding lacrosse player, one of the old guard of whom there are today few survivors. He had a broad interest in athletic sports, and was regarded as one of the aces of the Peterborough Curling Club until time took its toll and forced his retirement, Mr. Giroux was a past president of the Club, and at times was selected to play on Tankard and District Cup rinks.

The surviving members of Mr. Giroux's family are his wife, three daughters, Sister Mary Immaculate (Blanid) of Mount St. Joseph, Mrs. J. H. Pelton of Wilson, N. Carolina; Mrs. Ed. Riley of Peterborough, and five sons, C. O. Giroux of Chicago; F. L. Giroux of Balzac, Alta.; H. Cyril Giroux of this city; F. H. Giroux of Montreal and W. A. Giroux of Oshawa; also by three sisters, Mrs. Craig of Brussels, Belgium; Mrs. Catherine Dingman of Warkworth, and Mrs. Agnes Macaulay of Toronto.

Mr. Giroux was a member of the Separate School Board for years, also of the Knights of Columbus, and the C.M.B.A. The funeral will take place on Monday at 9 a.m. from the family residence, 306 Stewart street, to St. Peter's Cathedral of which Mr. Giroux had been a faithful member for 60 years, and thence to St. Peter's Cemetery.

J. J. Duffus Goes To See Specialist

J. J. Duffus, M.P., is in Montreal today for examination by a nerve specialist to determine the cause of a severe pain over his eye which has distressed him for the past week.

He was confined to St. Joseph's Hospital during the last few days, obtaining rest and attention from local doctors, but when they were not successful in diagnosing the ailment, he took the advice of his physician and made the trip to Montreal to get specialized treatment. He is being examined at the Neurological Institute, Pine Avenue, in Montreal, and will undergo the treatment necessary if the diagnosis warrants such a step.

His many friends have constantly advised him during the last few months that a complete rest was advisable, because he had started to show the effects of overwork and insufficient rest. He was ordered into the hospital here by his physician, who refused to allow any visitors so that he might get the full benefit of the respite from work.

The Rambling REPORTERS

HOW SMART ARE YOU.

Following is a one act mystery, unsolved as the curtain falls. The place—Hunter street bridge; the time, Thursday noon; the temperature—very cold. Scene one opens with two nine year old school boys walking east across the bridge and a few steps behind them is a reporter with his head snuggled deep in his coat collar. The reporter hears the following conversation.

First boy—What have they got that big steel tank on top of the Quaker Oats for?"

Second boy—It's filled with water that runs out of the sprinklers whenever a fire starts.

F. B.—Is it filled with water all winter?

SB.—Sure.

The reporter who has walked or driven past the tank on an average of twice a day for the last fifteen years, snuggled his head deeper into the coat and walked quickly past the seeker of knowledge, hoping the pair would not recognize him and ask him for an explanation of the problem. The reporter could not answer that one, and as he continued homeward, he chuckled as he recalled many remarks from so called smart people who claimed the younger generation were a stupid lot. If it is 13 below on Hunter street bridge, it is likely to be twice as cold up where the tank is, and the reporter is still trying to figure out how the tank is heated before he starts telephoning for the correct answer.—McG.

Truck Is Burned On Hastings Road

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, Feb. 17. — Clifford Davy, Norwood trucker, escaped with minor burns and scorched hair early Thursday when the truck he was driving suddenly became a blazing inferno and was totally destroyed by fire. Davey was driving his heavy duty truck towards Hastings on the Hastings-Norwood road laoded with three cords of body wood, when he placed the machine in second gear and an explosion occurred under the hood. A shot of flame struck Davey in the face, but he maintained presence of mind and jumped from the truck a few seconds before it became a solid mass of flames.

The wood on the platform at the back quickly took fire and added to the intense heat which burned everything off the vehicle which could be burned with exception of one front tier. Although most of the heat was centered about the rear of the truck, the vehicle is believed a total wreck.

Old Lyceum To Go

LONDON, Feb. 17 — (CP Cable). —The century-old Lyceum Theatre, where Sir Henry Irving and Ellen Terry played for 25 years, will be sold and demolished to make way for offices and flats, it was announced yesterday. At present it is playing a pantomime, "The Queen of Hearts."

Panhandler Became Disgusted With Farmer Who Tried To Get Him To Work, Stoned Him

An accomplished and persistent panhandler has told a story about himself that has been going the rounds of a narrow circle and deserves a larger audience. It seems he was either going or coming on a thumbing jaunt miles down the Peterborough-Port Hope highway, and as drivers were almost unanimous in giving him the go-by he decided he needed a rest. Apparently he tires easily, and only a job that calls for nothing more continuous than button-holing prospects for a touch would fit in with his time schedule.

"I was sitting under a little tree because it was a pretty warm day; just taking it easy, and up comes a farmer and says hello, and starts asking me about how I'm gettin' along and all that sort of thing. I kept answering him short, because I didn't want to be bothered with him. Then he says 'how would you like a job,' and I told him 'no good.' So he starts to give me an argument about how I ought to like it, and the work wouldn't be so bad. You know he was really getting me to think about it, and I might have weakened, but when I thought of what that job would probably be like and any way I wasn't cut out to be farmer, so I told him to go on away and let me alone, and I wasn't interested in his harvest. And believe it or not, before I got rid of him I had to put the rocks to him." That's the story without various salty epithets relating to the farmer who was simply looking for some helpful labor.

Butter Output Increased 16.9 Per Centum

Production of butter in January in Ontario is estimated at 4,544,705 pounds, an increase of 16.9 per cent, over the same month a year ago, according to the monthly dairy report issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Production of processed milk products continued at a fairly high level in December, with the total output of products, other than butter and cheese, amounting to 5,783,817 pounds, as compared with 6,274,231 pounds in November. Evaporated milk, case goods, accounted for more than one-half of the output with 3,155,554 pounds made during the month.

Cheese production is expected to be 702,349 pounds for January, or more than double the output in January a years ago. Total production of butter for the entire year, 1938, is now estimated at 87,823,148 pounds, as compared with 81,277,400 pounds in 1937 and cheese at 35,950,923 pounds, as against 92,255,800 pounds in the preceding years.

Stocks of creamery butter in Toronto at February 1, were reported at 2,934,577 pounds, as compared with 3,377,678 pounds on January 1, 1939 while stocks in dairy factories throughout the province were 3,167,149 pounds, as against 4,464,569 pounds a month earlier. Cheese stocks also showed a decrease during the month.

Commercial sales of fluid milk in December amounted to 20,741,000 quarts with a sales value of $2,321,300, as compared with 20,156,500 quarts in November, with a sales value of $2,250,200.

Fluid cream sales for December were reported at 712,600 quarts at $321,680, as against 745,000 quarts at $335,500 in the previous month.

St. Luke's Choir Presents Concert

Bell-ringers of the Salvation Army drew high praise from a large audience at St. Luke's Parish Hall this week, when a most enjoyable concert was held under the auspices of the choir. Following is the program:

"Holy Art Thou," Handel, and "In This Hour of Softened Splendour," by the choir; piano solo, Miss Thelma Zavitz; vocal solo, Mrs. W. Prindible, "Down the Vale"; Hosanna Bell Ringers, "Melody in F", "Men of Harlock" and "Fanfare"; vocal solo, Miss Phyllis Starr, "Somewhere a Voice is Calling," and "The Slave Song."

A comic sketch by Miss Queenie Hope and Miss Clemena Long, was thoroughly appreciated. They imitated a modern young woman and her early Victorian auntie.

Piano solo, Miss T. Zazitz; reading, Mr. Peters; vocal solo, Mrs. W. Davies, "Lady Mine," and "The Miller's Daughter"; solo, Mr. Harry Flowers, "The Floral Dance," and the "Midship Mite'; Hosanna Bell quartette, "Home Sweet Home," on the chimes; choir, "Now the Day is Over"; solos, Mrs. Heath and Mrs. Hope. Miss Margaret Flowers played the accompaniments for several of the artists.

364 Kinds Of Birds Found In District

There are 364 different kind of birds in this district, was an interesting fact brought out by Alex C. Kay, addressing the Y's Men's Club here last night. Well known for many years as a sportsman and baseball umpire, Mr. Kay presented an informal talk on his pet hobby, birds.

Mr. Kay told members he had been interested in nature study and birds in particular since childhood, and said he found it an absorbing interest.

The crow, despite popular prejudice, has proved itself to be an economically good bird since it eats mainly destructive out worms and grasshoppers, he said. The male wren is the only bird that is henpecked, the wife doing all the bossing in that family.

Stop Sign Runner To Learn Lesson Writing 10 Reports

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 17 (AP)

CHARLES MAULDING was under a new kind of sentence today for traffic violations. Charged with running two stop signs, Maulding was ordered by a justice of the peace to listen to 10 city safety program broadcasts and make a written report on each one. If Maulding fails, a suspended fine of $25 and costs will become effective.

Lindsay Rink Beats London

TORONTO, Feb. 17.—(CP).—Race for grand aggregate honors in the 13th annual Ontario bonspiel narrowed to-day to four rinks, three of them from Toronto, with C. F. Mason's Toronto Granites conceded the best chance of winning the 'spiel championship.

In a morning of stiff play that saw four other leading rinks drop from a contending position for the aggregate, awarded to the skip with the most victories in the week-long 'spiel, Mason advanced with F. H. Sproule, Toronto High Park; H. Walker, Chatsworth, and D. F. J. Kelly's strong Granite quartet.

Mason took the measure of R. A. Campbell's Royal Canadians in third round play of the Seiberling Trophy event. The score was 13-4. Until to-day, Campbell was given a good chance of capturing the aggregate as his was the only undefeated rink in the 'spiel until last night.

The victory gave the strong Granite Club four a total of eight games won and a good position in the remaining draws. Mason still is in competition for the Royal York trophy, the premier bonspiel event, while Walker and Kelly have been eliminated from play in taht competition.

Walker defeated Sarnia's W. A. Watson in the fourth round of the North American Life Trophy and Kelly, also competing in that event, advanced to the semi-finals with an easy 13-2 victory over James Govan's Toronto rink. Sproule advanced in Seiberling play with a 13-5 victory over C. R. Redfern, Toronto.

Some strong rinks fell by the wayside in morning play. Dr. R. G. Scott of Bobcaygeon edged out a 10-9 victory over A. E. Dunker, Kitchener, virtually eliminating Dunker from aggregate competition. The Scott-Dunker match was in the fourth round of Royal York competition, Gar Reddon, London, fell, 9-8, before Percy Skitch of Lindsay, in that event.

Police Are Unable To Find Revolver

Although the prisoner pointed out exactly where he had stood when he had tossed away the revolver used in holding up Wilbert H. Peel here on Wednesday night, Detective Sergt. Meagher and Officer W. Piercey were unable to locate the missing weapon when they accompanied Joe Champagne, older of the two hold-up men, to the scene this morning.

The snow was several feet deep and the fresh fall this morning had obliterated any trace of the revolver. Champagne said that he had thrown the gun away near Kendry station as the pair were travelling west after the holdup.

How To Teach Singing In Our Schools

Schoolboy "howlers" have spread to the Normal Schools of this province, it was revealed today by Roy Fenwick, director of musical education for the province of Ontario. Here are some of the answers given by students at Normal Schools in recent examinations, as told by Mr. Fenwick at the Kiwanis club's luncheon meeting today.

"Sing up and down the tonic solfa."

"Mezzimissimo means gradually softer."

"When children have forgotten the tune, ask them to hum it."

"Monotones should have their eyes and ears examined."

"When children can't sing, the only thing to do is to get after them."

"Definition of a home-made rhythm band: take a coffee tin and beat on it with a croquet mallet."

"Children should sing as high as possible without ease."

"The tonic and chronic scales should be sung."

"If a child has a defective vocal organ, take him to the doctor and have it out."

These were some of the blunders written by potential public school teachers.

Provincials Look Over Holdup Men

Believing that Champagne and Peterson, the men who pleaded guilty here this morning to armed robbery, might be the pair of transients sought for breaking and entering stores at Havelock and Bonar Law, Provincial Constables E. Smith, A. Dymond and Don Carruthers of Belleville, arrived in town at noon to look over the prisoners here. They were accompanied by J. Barlow, the Bonarlaw merchant whose store was burglarised over the week-end. However, Barlow after looking at Champagne, declared that he did not resemble the French-Canadian suspect he had seen hanging around the place before the robbery.

"Don't try to pin another one on Joe," pleaded Champagne as Barlow and the officers clustered around his cell door.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

CHIEF ELLIS was talking excitedly with his first lieutenant. At our entrance he whirled around and waved something yellow before McIntyre's face.

"So you got it," said Mac, suppressing a smile.

"I got it!" Ellis patted the paper. "You let something slip that time, Mac!"

"What's he talking about?" Phil demanded. "Stop speaking in riddles!"

"This isn't for publication, Benson," the chief told him, and thrust the yellow slip into his own pocket. "Karns, send in that actress!"

Della Craig made an entrance with a capital "E". She quite took away my breath. She was done up in a black velvet creation that hugged her closer than any wallpaper ever hugged a wall! Around her neck was a string of pearls which were the size of peas.

"Good afternoon." She greeted us throatily. She arranged herself languidly in a chair, her big black eyes gazing soulfully upon Chief Ellis.

"Good afternoon," he returned coolly.

"Ah, please!" She leaned forward. "You are angry with me! This terrible affair"—she frowned, biting her full upper lip between her teeth—"I was not myself yesterday. You must forgive me!"

"Quite all right, said Ellis, forgiving her.

Della sighed: "Poor Mrs. Horace. Such a dear, sweet woman!"

"She was a good friend of yours?"

"I was very fond of her." The actress lowered her incredibly curling lashes. She registered pain. She made me sick!

"Is this your first visit to the Manor?" questioned the chief, diffidently, as though loath to intrude upon such grief.

"My very first."

"How did you happen to come here?"

The lashes lifted. "Mrs. Horace invited me."

"By letter?"

"Yes. She wrote to me in New York."

"How long have you been a friend of the family, Miss Craig?"

"I met the Witherspoons several seasons ago in Florida."

"Florida, eh? And is this the first time you've seen them SINCE?"

"The very first," replied Della Craig.

"I see. Between the two of us, Miss Craig"—he leaned forward confidentially—"have you any idea who committed the crime?"

"I?" She was obviously shocked. "Dear, no! Who would wish to harm dear Mrs. Horace?"

"You think she committed suicide?"

"Suicide?" The actress pondered. "I'm afraid I can't answer that. Suicide seems so—so incredible to me. Life is too sweet!"

"Thank you. That will be all for the present."

"Allow me!" He escorted her to the door.

"You are most kind!" She smiled dazzlingly. "Is it true that we must remain in this house until the mystery is solved?"

Mac returned her smile with interest: "I'm afraid that it is," he said regretfully. "I daresay it is hard for you but," he looked her square in the eye, "but murder is murder, a fact I'm afraid some of you are overlooking."

"However," he patted her arm, "you need not worry. Everything will come out all right. Run along—and be careful!"

"Yes—yes—I'll be careful," she said slowly. 'I will be CAREFUL."

"Now what has Mac got onto?" I demanded of Phil. He replied cryptically: "When the time comes he'll pull the rabbits out of the hat."

The next one called was Reginald Ainsworth, he of the golden curls, and he created somewhat of a diversion in the routine, for in its way his entrance was as effective as Della's. He minced into the room shaking his shoulders from side to side in a manor to suggest that Tim's suspicions were not wholly groundless.

"Handsome, isn't he?" I gushed into Phil's ear and was rewarded with a grunt of disgust.

"Such eyes!"

"Such girlishness!" snorted Phil. I smiled to myself. Two can play games as well as one!

"MISTER Ainsworth?" asked Ellis, stressing the "mister." Reginald glared at him. "Yes, MISTER Ainsworth!"

"Sit down, please." Ellis lighted a long, black cigar. "Smoke?"

"Thank you no," Reginald wrinkled his nose and coughed suggestively.

"Now, Ainsworth." He blew a great cloud of smoke in that young man's direction. "You're something of a dark horse among us. Suppose you give me your history, so to speak."

"What do you wish to know?"

"Well, for one thing, why did you come to the Manor?"

"I came with Miss Craig, as I told you a day or so ago."

"Uninvited?"

"Dear no!" The blond youth elevated one eyebrow. "Miss Craig secured an invitation for me. I am, if you recall, her leading man. She brought me along so that we might rehearse some of the scenes in her new play. It opens next week."

"I see. But isn't it unusual to go touting off on a house party on the eve of a new play?"

"May I interrupt?" inquired McIntyre meekly.

"What? — oh, go ahead," Ellis said.

"Thanks." Mac inclined his head. He turned to the actor. "MISTER Ainsworth, was there any special reason why Miss Craig and yourself accepted this invitation to the house party?"

"Why" — Reginald hesitated — "I don't suppose it's any secret—"

"Well?"

"Well, you see — Miss Craig hoped to induce Mr. Horace Witherspoon to provide the additional backing necessary for the play's opening."

"Indeed!"

"Yes."

"Oh, I'm not doubting your word," Mac assured him, "just seemed a trifle odd to me. Never fancied Mr. Horace as a patron of the theater!"

"He isn't, especially," Reginald admitted artlessly, "but being a good friend of Della's, she thought he might help us out."

"Had you ever met any of the family before you came here?" McIntyre changed his tactics.

"I had met Mr. Horace," Reginald replied promptly. "Naturally, I hesitated about barging in on a family party, but Della insisted."

"Does Mr. Horace visit New York frequently?"

"Well—" and although Mac had put the question casually enough, it seemed suddenly to dawn upon Reginald that he was imparting interesting and perhaps private information.

"Well, what?" prompted Mac.

"I—I'm afraid I can't say."

"But you met him in the city with Della Craig recently? Quite recently?"

"Three weeks ago," the actor replied reluctantly. "Della told him then she was bringing me down."

"So!" Mac exclaimed and relaxed so completely that I thought he would fall from the edge of his chair. "That's all, Ainsworth. Any further questions, Ellis?"

Myself I was stunned! Mr. Horace and Della Craig!

"So Mr. Horace isn't the type!" crowed Phil. "Elsie, my girl, you've a lot to learn about men!"

Here's smart economy in a spring print crepe silk full-skirted dress to wear in town right now or to take south. A cute white touch is the naive Peter Pan collar. A contrasting belt in a tone picked out of the print, shows off the tiny waistline. It's a style that is youthfully flattering to most figures. The model also includes a V-neck version. The fullness is concentrated at the front and at the back with the inverted tucks to fit it through the waist and hips. You'll sew it ever so quickly and at an unusually low price. Pastel sheer woollens, monotone crepe silks, rayon and silk fabrics, etc., are other popular mediums.

Style No. 3263 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40-inches bust. Size 16 requires 4½ yards of 39-inch material with ⅝ yard of 39-inch contrasting material.

Shots Stop Him

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 17—(CP).—When he attempted to escape from the Ontario Reformatory, Robert L. Noble, Toronto, was halted by a guard who found it necessary to fire a couple of shots in the air to stop the fleeing prisoner.

Noble is serving a 12 months' sentence and has been at the reformatory since last September.

DOROTHY DIX

If The Same Consideration Were Shown Each Other In Family Circles That Are Used Outside The Home, Life Would Be Much Sweeter For All

NOT long ago I expressed the opinion in this column that every marriage would be a success and every home happy and peaceful if husbands and wives would treat each other with the courtesy and consideration that they show to strangers. This greatly peeved a man who wrote me as follows:

"Lady, you are all wet in what you say about husbands and wives taking this attitude toward each other. Especially about husbands doing this 'by your leave' and 'pardon me' stuff to their wives and paying them flowery compliments.

"A man marries to get a woman he doesn't have to be polite to. He wants a home where he can leave his manners on the doorstep. Where he can be just as grouchy as he pleases and blow off all the temper and nerves that have been accumulating all day when he had to watch his step and his tongue.

"Why should I tell my wife that I love her? I married her, didn't I? That's proof enough. Why should I praise her housekeeping and good management? She knows she would hear from me quick enough if the dinner wasn't just right and the bills small. Why should I try to amuse and entertain my wife in the evenings when I am worn out with talking trying to persuade the bank to extend my note or some business house to give me its accounts? I have nothing to gain by palavering over her.

"And why shouldn't I tell her to shut up and that she doesn't know what she is talking about when she airs some of her opinions; or that her new hat makes her look like heck; or any other home truth that occurs to me? Wives have to take what their husbands say to them, and like it.

"No, lady, you are all wrong about this lah-de-dah business in marriage. It wouldn't work. Not with men. In fact, there wouldn't be any marriages if men knew that they would have to handle their wives with as much finesse as they do a crackerjack secretary that they don't want to lose, and turn on as much charm on Friend Wife as they do on their dinner partners."

Maybe so. Nevertheless, I am still convinced that the home remedy of just plain, ordinary, common politeness would do more to cure the heart trouble, from which so many people suffer, than anything else. If husbands and wives would try as hard to sell themselves to each other as they do to outsiders there would be no more married philanderers, no more discordant households, no more divorces. This is no sentimental pipe dream, impossible of realization. It is a plain, workable business proposition.

Consider: Why are people polite and considerate in their dealings with each other outside of the home? Because they have found that it pays. No merchant who was gruff and rude to his customers would succeed. No doctor could get a practice who told his patients what fools and ignoramuses he thought them. No lawyer gets clients by insulting them.

It is common knowledge with all men and women that if they want friends, if they want to gain the affection of others and keep it, if they want to make a success in any line of human endeavor, they must show courtesy and consideration to those with whom they come in contact. That is what makes the merchant treat his customers with suavity. That is what makes the doctor listen patiently and sympathetically to old Mrs. Smith's maundering account of her imaginary ills. That is what makes the lawyer defer to Mr. Jones' opinion instead of telling him to his teeth what an idiot he is. Politeness and consideration pay heavy dividends.

And, if politeness and consideration pay in business, how much more they pay in the domestic relationship, and yet how rarely are they used! The most cynical thing on earth is that we use the phrase "home truths" to describe the cruelest, the most insulting things that are ever said to us. It is only those of our own families who tell us the things that we would rather die than hear—how old we are getting, how sallow we look, how unbecoming our new clothes are, how dull and stupid and tiresome we are.

It is only our families who feel they have no compulsion to be polite to us or consider our feelings. That is why children leave home, brothers and sisters flee from each other to the ends of the earth, and husbands and wives are divorced.

And the panacea for all this trouble is just civility, for we all lick the hand that strokes our fur the right way.

DEAR MISS DIX—My chance for meeting eligible young men is so frightfully meager that I find myself at 26 without a single boy friend. There are lots of girls like me—young, attractive, intelligent, who have failed to meet the right kind of young men and who find life dull as dish water without romantic love to brighten it. Please give us a boost.

PLAIN JANE.

ANSWER:

I wish that I could hang out the banner of hope for all the Janes in the world who would like to have dates and get married to handsome young men with motor cars and good jobs. But, alas, truth compels me to confess that I know of no way to work big medicine and conjure up platoons of eligible husbands for them.

Apparently there are not enough young men to go around and the distribution of them isn't fair. Some girls, for no reason that any one can explain, have seventy and seven boy friends hanging around them, while other girls have never a one to bless themselves with. Nobody can explain this and nobody knows a remedy for it.

The only consolation that I can offer the girls who lack beaux is that they are lucky in living in an age in which the attentions of men doesn't count for as much as it used to. Instead of having to sit at home and suck their thumbs as their mothers did they have their good jobs and their own pocket money and can come and go as they please. If girls would only realize that there are many other things in life besides beaux and dates they would save themselves a lot of heartaches.

Make Parties Gay With Ice-Breakers

No "Straight Faces" Here!

Laughter rocks the room. The high-school crowd's in stitches over the new hit, Expressions. A sure-fire "shaker-up-er."

Fun began when the guests arrived and drew duplicate slips—girls from one basket, boys from another—with instruction that each assume the expression written on his slip. Triumph, Anger, Joy, Hope, Pride stalked the room, boy hunting girl with an expression like his own.

Big Bobby Jones, a wide grin on his face, is searching for a partner representing Joy. "No," replies Jane Brown loftily, registering Pride. "Ask Sally Smith, she looks joyful."

By the time partners have been sorted out, the last trace of stiffness has flown. The party is a success.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of PARTY GAMES FOR ALL OCCASIONS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, February 18.

Disturbed and difficult situations arise on this day, judging by the lunar transits, although it is possible that sound judgment, well-directed effort and hard work will be able to thwart al igestures of calamity. The element of the unexpected, strange and unpredictable complexions events, with sudden upset of plans and ambitions, changed surroundings and contacts. But out of this seeming disturbance good luck or an unexpected windfall is likely to materialize. Move with caution and deliberation.

Those whose birthday it is may be surprised at the sudden advent of a strange situation, seemingly devastating and disastrous. But the sagacious and prudent grasp of such a circumstance may be turned into unexpected good fortune by sound judgment, caution and indomitable industry and application.

A child born on this day may be talented in unusual channels, and its originality and ingenuity may be made to develop and materialize into very substantial achievements and good fortune by its own industry and sound judgment.

There are several cases of scarlet fever reported in the village of Springbrook, also on the Ninth Line of Rawdon, where the school has been closed.

The Springbrook Women's Institue had planned a Valentine tea Tuesday, but it was postponed owing to the illness in the community.

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

When Knarf and Hanid, the shadow-children, paid a visit to their Chinese friend, Ting-a-Ling, the other morning, they were surprised to find him sitting on just a little piece of his front porch right outside his front door.

"Ting-a-Ling! What happened to your beautiful house?" the shadows exclaimed in astonishment.

"Yes, but where is it?" asked Hanid.

"Did it blow away?" asked Knarf.

"It was carried off."

Boo-Hoo Did It.

Ting-a-Ling smiled again. "It was carried off," he finally said. "Boo-Hoo, my pet dragon, went off with it."

"My goodness!"

"Oh! it's nothing to be alarmed about. He'll be back with it. He just went for a little stroll. You see," Ting-a-Ling explained, "Boo-Hoo has been living in the cellar. It's pretty dark down there. Well, this morning I went down to give him his saucer of milk-and-cream.

I found him very restless. He doesn't have much room to move around in the cellar, you see. Boo-Hoo is very big and the cellar is quite small. The only thing he has room to move is the tip of his nose and the end of his tail."

"So you took him out for a walk?" the shadow said.

Took a Walk.

Ting-a-Ling shook his head. "No. I just told him to take a little walk all by himself. But I could see that he didn't want to leave the house. He is very fond of the house, even though it is so small for him. 'Please go for a little walk,' I urged him again. 'It doesn't matter if you do leave the house for a little while, Boo-Hoo.'"

"And what happened next?"

"All of a sudden Boo-Hoo lifted his back. Then he lifted his head and lifted his tail. And finally he started walking. And what do you think? He went out for his walk and didn't leave the house. No, my dears, he took it right along with him — all but this corner of the porch and my front door."

Ting-a-ling sat back, smiling happily. "Now isn't he the cleverest dragon you ever heard of?"

Looking Back On This Date

Twenty years ago today, on Feb. 17, 1919, Sir Wilfrid Laurier died. A new generation has grown up who will find it difficult to understand the sense of personal loss felt by many Canadians, just as a still older generation grieved for the passing of Sir John A. Macdonald in 1891.

When Laurier died, Prime Minister Sir Robert Borden was in Europe busy in the negotiations of the peace which has proven so illusive. Having been notified by cable of Sir Wilfrid's death, Sir Robert issued this tribute to the great Canadian conciliator, his predecessor in office:

"It is with the deepest sorrow that I have received the tidings of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's death. Since I became leader of a political party more than 18 years ago, our relations have been intimate and never have our political differences interfered with our personal friendship.

"With his death there passes from the stage one who was from the first a commanding figure, and during a long period the chief figure in our public life. To the affairs of state in which his life was passed and to which his wonderful ability was consecrated he brought remarkable gifts of leadership. His experience of nearly half a century in public affairs had given him a thorough grasp of all public questions and in the parliamentary arena he was renowned for a singular dexterity which seldom failed him. His vision of public questions was wide and comprehensive, and his sympathies as well. Up to the very last he maintained an exceedingly keen interest in the duties of his leadership and in the work of parliament. Indeed, his political life had become so much a second nature that, although he felt the burdens weigh heavily upon him, he would never have been happy to lay them down.

"His personality was singularly attractive and magnetic; and with this he combined an inspiring eloquence, an unfailing grace of diction in both languages and a charm of manner which gave him a supreme place in the affection and respect of his party. All Canada will mourn his loss, and those who differed from him will be profoundly conscious that his death leaves in the public life of our country a blank that cannot be entirely filled."

The formal tribute of the House of Commons was voiced by Sir Thomas White, who had not permitted his difference with his former leader on the trade issue to weaken their personal friendship. The Laurier funeral will never be forgotten by those who shared in it.

We Noticed

....Now that the Paris spring showings are over, women can get some idea of what the new clothes will actually look like. The silhouette for daytime indicates that slim skirts are newest, but full skirts are widely approved. Skirts are definitely shorter—17 inches from the floor.

....Bodices are fitted, shoulders more normal, sleeves simpler, often short ,necklines close to throat. Full skirts use pleats and shirring, slim skirts are tiered, many skirts have hem emphasis.

✧ ✧ ✧

....Suits consist of short, fitted peplum jackets and full skirts, long jackets and pleated skirts, or slim skirts. Lingerie blouses are important. Coats are fitted, straight or full, and have a soft, dressmaker look.

✧ ✧ ✧

....Evening dresses are narrow or wide and stiff with crinoline. Gathered fullness, especially at back, is new. Bodices are fitted. High directoire silhouette is new. Decolletes vary from low to high. Many sleeves are shown in evening gowns, and there is much use of scarves or capelets.

FAVORED BY ACTIVE GIRLS

By ALICE ALDEN

We may hear lots about those frilly bathing suits with their dressmaker touches. But our guess is that the average girl will vote for the separate bra-and-swim-trunks outfit. This type of suit is best for the active girl who wants to go in the water as well as near it. For cabana wear, there are nice outfits of halter bra and circular apron skirt. This attractive suit, seen on the beach at St. Petersburg, Fla., is elasticized shirred silk in a rope and star design.

Busy Season Is Indicated By Y.W.C.A. Reports

Interesting reports were presented at the February meeting of the Y.W.C.A. Board of Directors. Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner reported for the campaign and building committees, stating that promised subscriptions have been reduced to $7,571.91. Final payments are due in April, and the committee feels these will practically all be met.

Appreciation was expressed by Mrs. Kenner of the splendid work accomplished by Mr. W. R. L. Blackwell in carefully laid plans and excellent work done in connection with the building, which is now nearing completion. Considerable decorating has been done in the main building, and enthusiastic comments from visitors indicate that the Peterborough Y.W.C.A. will be one of the Canada.

Mrs. C. G. Collins reported that The Twenty Club is making plans for the furnishing of the new club room, and arranging a Personality Course. The educational committee report showed that activities are continuing during the renovation, and some evenings as many as seven groups find accommodation in the limited space. The Household Workers' Course opened last week with a registration of thirty. Friendly Hour is held the second Sunday of each month. Red Cross Home Nursing classes meet three evenings each week, and St. John Ambulance classes each Wednesday. Elocution and Pewter classes are also held each week. Six clubs have an enrolment of 255. Plans for the annual Pageant to be held this year in the new "Y" gym were reported by the physical committee.

The January gym campaign has brought in 58 new members, with the senior and elementary business girls' classes in the lead. Mrs. Kenner spoke of the splendid co-operation shown by everyone, and the excellent reports of all activities, which have continued without interruption during alterations to the building.

Friendship Tea Is Held For Church Newcomers

Mrs. H. M. Yelland lent her home at 467 Hunter street to the Women's Association of George Street United Church on Thursday afternoon, when a Friendship Tea was held, and ladies of the congregation became acquainted with newcomers to their church.

Receiving with the hostess were Mrs. C. M. Parr, wife of the pastor, and Miss M. E. Elliott.

Roses and spring flowers created a delightful and spring-like atmosphere in the living room, where guests were welcomed by Mrs. G. C. Staples and Mrs. S. Armstrong. Guests were shown to the tea room by Mrs. H. Foote and Mrs. F. E. Latimer.

The tea table was bright with red tulips in a silver bowl, and tiny hearts sprinkled over the cloth carried out the spirit of St. Valentine's Day. Tall white tapers in silver holders were used to light the table, and tea was poured by Mrs. T. Mark, Mrs. W. P. Hetherington, Mrs. B. Shortley, Mrs. N. D. Buchanan, Mrs. J. W. Kelly and Mrs. L. M. Richardson. Assistant hostesses were Mrs. H. McHoull, Mrs. James Tinney, Miss Lillian Morrow, Mrs. H. W. Ballard, Mrs. W. K. McGee, Mrs. E. M. Weldon and Mrs. James A. Spencer.

St. John's W.A. Sponsors Successful Tea

A large crowd attended the successful tea held in St. John's Parish House Thursday afternoon under the auspices of the Church Women's Association. A bright grate fire burning in the room where the president, Mrs. Clare Collins, received the guests, added to the delightful, friendly atmosphere of the occasion, and colorful motifs in the valentine spirit decorated the ceiling and walls.

A large silver bowl filled with fragrant spring flowers and ivory candles in silver candelabra were used on the attractive lace-covered tea table. Presiding at the silver tea services were Mrs. Alex Gibson, Mrs. T. W. H. Young, Mrs. W. T. Halloway, Mrs. W. E. Conway, Mrs. W. Turner, Mrs. George Wesley, Mrs. Charles Stanton. Mrs. E. S. Martin and Mrs. H. Fitzgerald were general conveners of tea arrangements. Twelve small tea tables were lighted with ivory candles in silver holders.

Delicious dainties were sold at the home cooking table under the supervision of Mrs. J. D. Collins and Mrs. Cranford. Mrs. Roy Hutchinson and Mrs. Ruby Brooks convened the Touch and Take table, which was piled with intriguing parcels done up gaily in rainbow-hued tissue.

Mrs. Arthur Howson, assisted by Mrs. O. DeGraw, was treasurer, and Mrs. F. L. Roy was in charge of the memberships.

Annual Reports Indicate Successful Year

Mrs. E. Wand was chosen as president of the Local Council of Women at a sub-executive meeting held January 20 at the home of Mrs. C. M. Scott, when business from the annual meeting was completed, and at Thursday's meeting in the Y.W.C.A. Green Room it was unanimously agreed that the action of the sub-executive be sustained.

Mrs. Wand, who is well versed in local council work, having served for many years as vice-president, and then as corresponding secretary, also belongs to the Provincial Council, and at yesterday's meeting was presented by Mrs. C. M. Scott, who is giving up her office after four years of service. Warm tribute to her faithful and efficient work was paid by Mrs. J. Cridland, and a pleasant part of the meeting was the presentation of a gift to the retiring president by Mrs. C. S. Thompson as a small expression of the members' appreciation.

Other members of the 1939 executive are Mrs. J. Mills, honorary president, (Mrs. Mills is the first honorary president ever to be elected to a Local Council); Mrs. E. Wand, president; Mrs. N. Stanger, Mrs. W. H. Morton, Mrs. H. Rehill, vice-presidents; Mrs. J. Cridland, recording secretary; Mrs. K. Simpson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. H. Tremain, treasurer, and the following conveners: Arts, Mrs. C. S. Thompson; child welfare, Mrs. I. Hendry; cinema, Mrs. Frank Merrett; citizeuship, Mrs. B. F. McNeeley; economics, Dr. L. C. Thomas; education, Mrs. K. Wightman; housing and town planning, Mrs. J. Low; laws, Mrs. M. T. Breckenridge; League of Nations, Mrs. Neil Warrander, mental health, Miss Z. Kearney; migration, Miss L. Brownscombe; public health, Dr. Agnes Moffat; moral standards, Miss M. Ferguson; trades and professions of women, Mrs. J. Mills.

Detailed annual reports, showing an exceptionally progressive year, were read, and completed the list of reports presented at the annual meeting. Mrs. C. S. Thompson, reporting for Arts and Letters, mentioned the enthusiasm which had been shown in various crafts, including puppetry, pewter, glove-making, weaving, leather-work, etc., conducted by Mrs. Stavert of the Ontario Welfare Council in the Y.W.C.A.; the week of classes in May sponsored by the Art Association, and held in Hall's store; that the Art Association had had its usual course of interesting lectures and several exhibitions, and that the First Book Fair to be held in Peterborough was sponsored by the Art Association.

"So keen has been the interest in crafts in the Association that a second craft guild has been formed, called the Home Arts Guild," Mrs. Thompson said. "Along musical lines we fared better this past winter than for some years, having a series of three concerts. Peterborough is musically known for its Madrigals, Male Voice Choir, and orchestra consisting of some 25 or 30 members. There was also a concert sponsored by the Teachers' Guild. In drama as a city," she remarked, "we have done very little. Church groups have presented plays, and the University Women's Club put on a play at one of its meetings."

In her report as convener of mental hygiene, Miss Zeta Kearney said that the travelling government Mental Health Clinic visited Peterborough twice monthly, and the staff is composed of a psychologist and a social service worker. The number of clinics held was 22; total number seen at clinic, 55; total number seen in private homes or one of two hospitals, 78, making a total number seen of 133. Follow-up visits were made by the clinics staff.

The secretary's report for Nicholls Hospital Alumnae Association listed as outstanding events the lecture on tuberculosis by Dr. G. M. Fraser in October of 1937; the annual banquet held in the Hotel Champlain in December, 1937; a lecture on division of nurse registration in January, 1938, by Miss Dick, inspector of training schools; the annual dance held in February, 1938; the annual bridge in March; an interesting and educational report given by Miss Ball in April, who attended a convention in Kingston as a delegate; a musical concert in June sponsored by the Alumnae, which proved to be very delightful, and a financial success, and the annual picnic at Bobcaygeon in July.

"During the year 1938 the council meetings have been attended regularly,", Mrs. B. F. McNeely said in giving the citizenship report. Local activities such as tag days have been helped, and help was also given during the Red Cross Campaign. Mr. J. J. Duffus, Federal member of parliament, gave an address on citizenship, and papers relating to citizenship were also given during the year.

For the professions and employment for women, Mrs. J. Mills reported that the minimum wage act for women and girls is as follows: Girls in factories under 18 receive for the first six months $8.00; those over 18, $10.00 for the first six months, and finally, $12.00 per week.

A gratifying 35 annual report of the Lyceum Club Women's Art Association was presented by Mrs. C. S. Thompson. It showed an increased membership of 106, and an increased balance on hand of $93.10. "This healthy growth, I believe," she said, "is due to the increased share that the club this year has contributed to community life, having sponsored the usual projects, and in addition, Peterborough's first Book Fair." There were 10 studio meetings in which art in contemporary Ontario and the Canadian town were discussed by Prof. Alford and Prof. Arthur of the Toronto University Extension Course. Drama was emphasized in the January and February meetings when Canon Robertson read most delightfully, "Juno, the Peacock," and Prof. Adrian MacDonald talked on Shakespeare. Music was given its place by a program with Mrs. Agnes Logan Green at the piano.

The Guild of Arts and Crafts held 10 meetings, when interesting exhibits were given in connection with the papers. The Art Study Club at its 10 meetings had papers on tapestries, wood carvers of Quebec, and various artists and sculptors. A Literary Study Club at its 11 meetings studied modern drama, and the newly formed Home Arts Guild had interesting discussions along the lines of color harmony and home decoration.

A membership of 43, 15 life members and 28 annual members, with 12 meetings during the year 1938, 7 regular meetings, 1 supper meeting and 2 picnic meetings, was reported for St. Andrews W.M.S. by Mrs. E. A. Ferguson, recording secretary, and a report from Murray Street showed a membership of between 50 and 60 members, that $700 had been raised during the year, and that the field for study and support is India and Bolivia, and the field for mission work is among new Canadians.

Do You Know?

If you use salt on your tooth brush occasionally instead of the usual tooth paste it helps to invigorate the gums? Salt used with cold water is an excellent mouth wash or gargle.

Whenever possible, flavoring extracts should be added to a food when it is cool? If the food is hot, much of the flavoring will vanish in steam. This does not apply to baked foods, however.

LYPSYL SMOOTHS ROUGH LIPS... it's a boon to outdoor girls and men. When lips are rough and dry, just rub on a little LYPSYL—it will make them smooth as velvet. Use LYPSYL as a base for lipstick—it makes the colour go on evenly, keeps the lips fresh and attractive. LYPSYL is a medicated lip-salve, in a handy tube... easily carried in purse or pocket... just as easily applied. Ask for LYPSYL at any Toilet Goods counter. Red, or white the invisible kind that does not show — 20¢ a tube.

DO YOU FEEL NERVOUS, WEAK?

THOUSANDS of weak, nervous women have been helped to regain strength by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It calms the nerves, stimulates the appetite, improves nutrition, benefits the female organs. Mrs. Elizabeth Harshaw, 181 McKay Ave., Windsor, Ont., says: "My nerves were just about driving me frantic. I had no appetite. I was in such a weakened condition I could hardly do my housework. But after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I was relishing my meals and slept soundly at night. My old strength returned, I felt just fine in every way, and once more I enjoyed living." Get it in liquid or tablets at your drug store today.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

IN MEMORIAM

RUTHERFORD—In loving memory of a dear husband, James Alexander Rutherford, who passed away February 17, 1938.

Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear.
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrances keep him dear.

—Sadly missed by Wife and Family.

RUTHERFORD.—In memory of our father, James Alexander Rutherford, who departed this life one year ago to-day, February 17, 1938.

Jesus said: I am the Resurrection and the Life, he that believeth on Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live."

—Ever remembered by his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. Pringle, also granddaughter Dorothy and grandson Everett.

Aces And Maids Cop Cage Tilts

Quaker Maids pulled an unusual basketball stunt by shutting out "Y" Gym 6-0 and Quaker Aces kept their victory string intact by beating Quaker Debs 10-8 in last night's Ladies' City League cage double-header before a good crowd in the Collegiate gym.

The Maids had a meagre 1-0 lead in the low-scoring initial half, poor shooting and close checking keeping the score down, but two baskets and a free throw by M. Sullivan in the final period put it on ice.

M. Sullivan with five points was the winners big gun and S. Zacks and F. Craig were best for the losers. The teams:

Quaker Maids—M. Sullivan, E. O'Leary, V. Wood, E. Alexander, A. Frost, D. Frost, I. Young, M. Snowden, E. Harte-Maxwell.

'Y' Gym—S. Zacks, M. O'Brien, B. DeMaio, F. Craig, D. eParson, V. Sullivan, R. Sullivan, S. Florence, L. Ellis.

Referee—W. Thirnbeck.

Close Game.

After fighting on even terms through the opening period of their game, 6-all, the Quaker Aces had a 4-2 margain in the closing 20 minutes to win 10-8 and retain first place. Good passing and hard, clean checking made it a good game to watch. H. Cole again led the Aces with 8 points and H. White, the losers with four. The teams:

Quaker Aces—E. Kirn, P. Lawless, M. Hooton, H. Cole, H. Howden, D. Weese, J. Fowler.

Quaker Debs—M. Duncan, J. McLean E. Roberts, M. McGuire, H. White, R. Farr, B. Fenner, A. Laing, J. Metcalfe, A. Frizzelle.

Referee, H. Smith. Umpire, J. Cooper.

All Saints Juniors Gain A 4-1 Victory

All Saints Juniors took a 4-1 decision over St. Paul's last night in a Church Hockey League playoff at All Saints' rink, the win putting them up two in the five-game series, one tilt being tied. Leether and Stinson scored in the first, while J. Easton counted from Watson in the second. McDougall made it 3-1 shortly, and Deering ended the tallying in the fourth. All Saints showed speed, and both goalies stopped plenty of rubber. McDougall again led the winners' attack with Deering, Abraham also good and Leether strong defensively. The Easton-Watson defence went good for the Saints. The teams:

St. Paul's—Goal, McBride; defence, J. McMillian, Watson; centre, J. Easton; wings, Dundas, Lockington ;subs, Csumrik, Ascott, G. Easton, T. McMillian, Milburn.

Park St. Wins 8-1 In Church League

Park St. Juveniles copped an 8-1 smirk over Mark Street in their Church Hockey League game at All Saints' last night, running up the count in the last half. Shy several regulars, the Mark St. boys were outclassed and the win put Park St. tied with Mark St. for third place, a saw-off being necessary—probably Monday. Martin got four of their goals, Campbell two, and Ainslie and Hodson one each. Agnew scored for Mark St. The score was 2-1, 4-1 and 8-1 by periods.

All Saints Win Over Knox, 5-0

All Saints blanked Knox Bantams, 5-0, at All Saints' rink last night in a desperate—but possibly futile—attempt to make the Church Loop playoffs. Carpenter and Hotrum counted in the first, with Clapham scoring in the second, while Hotrum and Carpenter repeated in the wind-up chapter. The speedy All Saints' forwards forced play all the way, and good work by Parnell in goal kept down the count. Carpenter and Lacey were outstanding in this struggle. The teams:

Referee, M. Williamson.

St. John Bantams Defeat St. Paul's

St. John's Bantams of the Church Hockey League, last night at All Saints' rink grabbed off a 5-1 decision over St. Paul's. The tallenders scared the victors by taking a 1-0 lead in the first, but the husky St. John's turned on the heat to win handily. The others checked hard and had fine goalie work from Forbes in his debut. Tonight at seven, George St. plays Trinity Juveniles, while Saturday sees Knox Bantams meet George St. at seven. McNaughton last night scored in the first, as Clarke got two in the second, and Clarke two and Frank one in the third. The teams:

St. Paul's: Goal, Forbes; defence, Cauley, Hendry; centre, McNaughton; wings, Hill, Doughty; sub, Magee.

St. John's: Goal, Moore; defence, Farrow, Coones; centre, Clarke; wings, Bond, Frank.

Referee, G. Smith.

No New Police Cars

DETROIT, Feb. 17—(CP).—Police pleas for 159 new automobiles to replace aged police patrol and scout cars were rejected today by Mayor Richard Reading as initial work started on the year's budget.

Police said at least 37 radio-equipped cars were needed this year to maintain police efficiency. They said 22 of the cars were 1934 models ready to fall apart.

Janetville School Scene Of Party

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Feb. 17. — The South Janetville Public School was appropriately decorated for the Valentine party here there, when the teacher and pupils of the Continuation School as well as a large number of parents and friends were present as most welcome guests.

Marjorie McNeil, president of the Literary Society, presided. Bills were presented for the necessary equipment purchased in connection with the manual training and household science courses which have been recently introduced into the school curriculum. These were voted paid from the proceeds of the Christmas concert. The program continued as follows:

Chorus by the school; Story of St. Valentine, Leona Walker; orchestra selection by nine pupils, with mouth organs, guitars, triangles, toneblocks, and the piano; recitation, Valentine, Barbara Sanderson; piano solo, Norma McGill; recitation, A Special Valentine, Ruby McGill; the school paper, "Junior Press," was read by the editor, Norma McGill.

A Valentine contest was sponsored by Leona Walker and the program concluded with an orchestra selection and encore.

The Valentine post office was the centre of interest, and scores of Valentines were received by teachers and pupils, as well as by many of the guests.

The serving of Valentine cookies and home-made candy and the singing of the National Anthem concluded a happy party, for which Leonard McNeil expressed sincere appreciation on behalf of the visitors.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE LATE REVERSE

A LATE BID BY your partner of a higher ranking suit than the one for which you had shown a fit—what could be a more logical force, in its natural meaning? Since your inability to fit that suit would oblige you to go a level higher into the earlier suit, your partner has by his bid taken full responsibility for your getting higher. If you pass such a bid, you are derelict in your duty to him, unless you mistrust him or have been unworthy of trust yourself on your earlier turns.

(Dealer; East. Both sides vulnerable.)

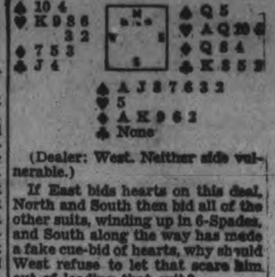
With his splendid holding, East naturally opened here with 1-Spade. This was passed to North, who bid 2-Clubs. East next showed 2-Diamonds and South 2-Hearts, a very fine inferential call since the display of two other suits by East made it likely his partner might fit this. West was overjoyed to have a chance to bid, showing his harmony with his partner's hand at 3-Diamonds. North then proclaimed a fit for his side with 3-Hearts.

At this stage East made a very strong bid, 3-Spades. By so doing, he took full responsibility for his partner going to four if he had to slip into diamonds. Such being so, he also took responsibility for West going to 4-Spades if he had as many as three cards for the rebid suit. But both South and West passed this and North raised to 4-Hearts, which East doubled.

As it was, South made his contract, losing only two tricks in trumps and one in spades. Had West taken this out to 4-Spades, it could have been set only if South gave his partner a chance to ruff diamonds.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

If East bids hearts on this deal, North and South then bid all of the other suits, winding up in 6-Spades, and South along the way has made a fake cue-bid of hearts, why should West refuse to let that scare him out of leading that suit?

Mission Band Given Concert At Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 17.—With an appreciative audience to play to, those who assisted on the program presented under auspices of St. Andrew's Mission Band gave a splendid performance. Rev. B. Simpson Black, who was chairman of the evening, was particularly gratified by the fine support given the affair, pointing out that the funds raised by the Mission Band in this way would form part of the re-decorating funds of the church.

Opening with selections by stringed orchestra under the direction of Captain Sharp, the program swung off to a lively start. Albert Hazel played the accompaniment for the Maple Leaf, sung by the audience, and Kenny McFarlane greeted them on behalf of the Mission Band with his song entitled, "We Greet You All."

Next came a recitation by Carol McArthur and then the popular, though unseasonable, "Umbrella Man" which Marilyn Hopping sang and did a tap dance as well. Jarvis Black gave as a vocal solo "Danelion" and Shirley Herriott followed with "Who Taught You." After Elaine Reid's piano solo a number of the Mission Band girls were featured in the song "What Does the Big Clock Say." They were Jean Campbell, Betty Dunk, Fern Begg, Doris Bertrand and Shirley Herriott.

A vocal duet was offered by Berle Spencer and Constance Black singing "The Keys of Heaven," while Elsie Gentle and Ruth Scriver also offered a duet, "The Grandfather's Clock."

Jack Bell gave a violin solo and Marilyn Hopping returned for a second time to give the song entitled "A Pocket Full of Dreams." Misses Doris and Josephine Locke were featured in an instrumental number which preceded an interesting sketch of Dickens by Miss Hazel Atkinson. Next came a vocal duet by Misses June Burgiss and Elsie Gentle, "Whispering Hope"; a baritone solo, "I Love Life" by Wallace Rutherford, and a reading by Mrs. A. E. Wragg.

A second interlude by the orchestra was well applauded and introduced the final portion of the program which consisted of a vocal solo by Miss Monica De Carroll; harmonica solo, Jack Cassan; piano solo; Don Bennett; vocal solo, Mr. John Storie; vocal solo, Miss Hilda Bonnycastle; reading, Miss Lillian Hay; vocal solo, June Burgiss; and a dramatized sketch of the Dutch Dolls by Mrs. Jack Clark, Miss Hazel Atkinson, Mrs. Harold Spencer, Mrs. Edson Wynn.

At the conclusion Rev. Black voiced his thanks to all those who had assisted on the program as well as to the audience for their support of the Mission Band's work.

Guild At Marmora Holds Bridge, Euchre

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Feb. 15.—Group 1 of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild held a card party on Monday evening, bridge being played at the homes of Mrs. C. Nichol and Mrs. A. Smith and euchre in the parish hall.

$83,000,000 Paid Out In Insurance Benefits

MONTREAL, Feb. 17. — Eighty-three million dollars were paid out by the Sun Life of Canada during 1938 in policyholder benefits. Of this amount twenty-eight millions were paid in death and disability benefits, twenty-four millions represented annuity and matured endowment payments, while nearl ythirteen millions were disbursed as policyholders' dividends. Since the first policy of the Sun Life was issued in 1871 the total paid to policyholders has reached the imposing sum of over one billion two hundred million dollars. To-day, after sixty-eight years of public service, with one million policyholders, the Sun Life of Canada is the Dominion's largest life insurance company and ranks among the first ten of the three hundred or so companies operating on the North American continent. While most of its business is secured in Canada, United States, Great Britain, and the British Empire, the company has offices that enable its service to encircle the globe.

Planning To Resume Skating On Sunday

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 17—A meeting of those interested in purchasing shares in the Ormonde dairy will be held in Lynch's hall here Saturday afternoon at 2.30. Charles Foster of Peterborough, in the village Wednesday, said he believed that sufficient shares would be sold to purchase the factory from George Gillespie, its present owner. The meeting was originally scheduled to take place in the council chambers.

To Supervise Rink

Henry Scriver, rink manager, said yesterday that Sunday evening skating would be resumed. He carried out an investigation into an alleged drinking party at the rink two weeks ago. The young men involved were from out of town and it was too bad that they should spoil the privilege of free skating for Hastings young people, he said. A responsible person has been appointed to supervise the actions of those attending.

Police Holding Rug

Town Constable William Wellman has in his possession an auto rug believed stolen from someone in this district. When he held a youth for questioning last Saturday in Reeve Kelley's office, the boy was carrying the rug, and when he left the office he apparently forgot it. The constable said it was of a red Scotch plaid design.

"No Medicine Ever Helped Me Like Syntona Did," He Says

Had Bad Stomach, Backache, headaches and Dizzy Spells. Was Nervous and Rundown. Kidneys Disturbed Sleep.

MR. GEORGE CRISPIN

The sponsors of Syntona wish to acknowledge the many encouraging reports recently received from grateful men and women in Peterborough and vicinity, and are happy to know that this great compound is bringing better health to so many local folks whom the readers of this page know personally. Here, for instance, is the splendid experience of Mr. George Crispin, who in his younger days carried off many honors throughout Ontario as a sportsman and champion skater.

"For the past five years I was troubled with dizzy spells, coated tongue, and bad breath. Often little specks would float before my eyes and I would get splitting headaches. Lately my kidneys had been calling me several times each night and I had pains in my back. Then I would get up in the morning feeling tired out, nervous and rundown.

"I had taken many different medicines with little or no results, when one day I read about Syntona and I decided to try it. That was a lucky day for me, for I have steadily improved on this medicine until now I am feeling fine again. I don't get those headaches or dizzy spells like I used to; my eyes are clear and my nerves are relaxed. Now I can sleep the whole night through, and I get up in the morning feeling rested and energetic. It's a great feeling and I can surely recommend Syntona to any one who suffers as I did."

Syntona is now being introduced in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. Get yourself a treatment today and see how much better you, too, will be feeling in a short time.

France Grabs Slice Off East Africa

Occupies 12 Miles Of Somaliland Ceded To Italy

PARIS, Feb. 18 — (AP). — France made her first major move to-day in the dispute with Italy over the East African possession of Somaliland by reoccupying 12½ miles of coastline and 800 square kilometers (308.8 square miles) of hinterland ceded to Italy in 1935.

Fixed garrisons were established at vital points in the territory which is between French Somaliland and Italian Eritrea.

There was no opposition because Italy never moved in troops to take over the area.

3 Million Colonials Ready.

PARIS, Feb. 18 — (C.P.-Havas).— In the eveont of a war in Europe, France's colonial empire will be able to supply 2,000,000 troops compared with a total of 276,000 colonials sent to Europe from 1914 to 1918, it was learned to-day in well-informed military circles.

Of the Great War colonial contingents, 190,000 men came from the African colonies. Since the war everything possible has been done to increase the number of military effectives in African and other overseas territories.

Decrees issued during and after the September crisis in Europe increased the colonial units by 45,000 men. Twenty thousand of the new troops were raised in West Africa, 20,000 in Indo-China, 2,000 in Equatorial Africa, and 2,000 in Madagascar.

Suspect Sighted Near Roosevelt

The man, wearing a brown sweater and dark trousers, moved stealthily toward the roadside shortly before Mr. Roosevelt left the train at 9 a.m. E.S.T., but darted into the bushes as police rushed up.

The secret service men and police immediately placed a heavy guard along the roadside where the man had appeared and still were searching for him when the President left.

It was on a Florida trip six years ago that Mr. Roosevelt was the target of an assassin. Giuseppe Zangara, who professed "hate for all rulers" five shots at him as he debarked from a fishing trip at Miami Feb. 15, 1933.

The bullets went wild as Mrs. W. F. Cross of Miami seized the gunman's arm. Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, companion of the President, was founded fatally and four others were struck by the fire.

Stockmen Of Prairies Like B.C. Marketing

EDMONTON, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Livestock men from all parts of the Prairie provinces, in conference here for the past two days, were on record today in support of enactment of marketing legislation similar to that now in force in British Columbia.

The conference at its closing session yesterday proposed the Federal government pass complementary legislation covering marketing of western livestock to give the proposed provincial acts full force of federal law.

Changes in monetary policy and a duty on animal by-products entering Canada were urged in resolutions adopted. Several addresses on livestock problems were given.

Delegates approved a proposal for imposition of a duty on animal by-products entering Canada as advocated by the National Dairy Council.

Canada Among Nations Bidding To Sell Mexico 75 Planes

Mexico City, Feb. 18 (AP)

REPORTS that Canadian, United States and German firms were bidding for the sale of 75 airplanes to the Mexican government circulated today in military circles.

It was reported German representatives hoped to exchange planes for $2,000,000 worth of oil and that the government was negotiating with the Canadian Car and Foundry Corporation for establishing a branch in Mexico.

Home Food Booster New Ottawa Job To Be Paid $3,780

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 (CP)—One of the highest-paying jobs for women in the Dominion Government service, that of chief of the Agriculture Department Consumer Service, is to be filled shortly.

The successful applicant will start work at a salary of $3,780 a year, which may be increased to $4,140. She will advise in regard to the best Canadian food products, talk to women's clubs on government grading regulations and generally do everything she can to increase consumption of Canadian food products. The job is a newly created one.

Police Tighten Guards At Duce's Villa

ROME, Feb. 18.—(AP).— Police tightened their always strict vigilance against loiterers around Premier Mussolini's villa and downtown office to-day following the arrest of a man who shot a Fascist militiaman Tuesday in the neighborhood of Mussolini's residence.

A squad of plainclothesmen and the uniformed guard always on duty outside the Villa Torlonia in the Via Nometana, where the shooting occurred, and the Palazzo Venezia scrutinized all persons in the vicinity, although authorities insisted the attack was made by a demented man.

Two communiques were issued. The first said: "The Ministry (of Popular Culture) declares the news about an alleged attempt against the head of the government to be false. The rumor arose out of an incident caused by a madman who fired the shots in the Via Nomentana."

Another Version.

The second said:

"On Feb. 14, shortly after 2 p.m., in Via Nomentana, a militiaman in plain clothing noticed an individual evidently out of his mind and behaving wildly, and approached him to calm him. The man suddenly fired at him with a revolver, wounding him in the abdomen.

"The attacker, immediately arrested, was identified as a mechanic, Bruno Simoni, 38, son of Luigi Simoni, of San Giorgio De Piano (near Bologna), already released twice from an insane hospital—the first time at Naples and the second time at Rome. The last time he was dismissed from an insane asylum was during the past year."

Mussolini was scheduled to-day to review black-uniformed Mussolini musketeers—200 bodyguards sworn to defend the Premier's life with their own.

Move Hog Testing

NEW HAMBURG, Ont., Feb. 18—(CP).—The hog testing station here, operated under the supervision of the Dominion Government, has been transferred to near Lexington, North Waterloo. It was opened five years ago to improve bacon hogs for the exprt market and was the first in Canada.

Cattle Quota To U.S. Being Revised

Manion Criticizes Trade Pact As Bad Bargain

OTTAWA, Feb. 18—(CP).—Possibility the three per cent excise tax may be removed from all imports and not just those covered by the new Canada-United States trade agreement, has been advanced by Trade Minister Euler. He also indicated revision of the quota on Canadian cattle entering United States was underway.

Speaking in the House of Commons yesterday, during debate on the agreement, under which the Government undertook to remove the tax so far as it applies to United States commodities, Mr. Euler referred to the report that the tax would be abolished entirely.

"It may be true—I am not making any pronouncement for that is for the Finance Minister—that we will perhaps take off the full excise tax on all commodities and not merely commodities entering under the treaty."

Replying to criticism of Conservative Leader Manion that the original treaty announcement had been misleading in that it failed to indicate the cattle quota was shared by Mexico, Mr. Euler said that situation was being reviewed.

"This situation has received the attention of the Government," he said. "Without disclosing anything that should not be disclosed, I think I can say that the cattle exporters of this country will be well-satisfied when they know what action is being taken with regard to the quota on cattle going into the United States."

Manion Attacks Pact.

Mr. Euler spoke briefly after Conservative Leader Manion had spoken two hours attacking the trade agreement on many grounds and more particularly criticising the government's method of announcing it, which he described as "ballyhoo, propaganda and eyewash."

Debate on the agreement occupied most of yesterday's session, arising from the resolution on which will be based the legislation ratifying the treaty. The debate will be resumed Tuesday.

Dr. Manion said sacrifice of the preference to facilitate the Anglo-American agreement meant loss of those preferences forever, even if the agreement with United States were terminated by a new government in that country. Mr. Euler warmly denied this.

The trade minister asked the opposition to wait and see what the treaty brought. It was not perfect but it was of great advantage to Canada and this was proved, he said, by the already marked increase in trade with the U.S., in January of this year, the first month of its operation.

Replying to the prime minister's recital of Liberal successes in by-elections since 1930, Dr. Manion said that in the 1935 general election only 46 per cent of the votes were Liberal and 54 anti-Liberal, although the former won 178 seats out of 245. It had taken 12,000 votes to elect a Liberal and 33,000 to elect a Conservative.

Rumor Nazis Switching Army Chief As Hitler Prepares For Action

LONDON, Feb. 18 (CP-Havas)—The Berlin correspondent of the News Chronicle (Liberal) today reported rumors that Colonel-General Walther Von Brauchitsch will soon be replaced as commander-in-chief of the German army.

The dispatch said that when Hitler launched the new battleship Bismarck three days ago General Von Brauchitsch was not present, but was represented by General Fedor Von Kbock, military governor of the Sudetenland.

"The moment is considered propitious here for a fresh and careful examination of Anglo-German interests. Although a new meeting between Hitler and Prime Minister Chamberlain is held most unlikely, it is thought there should be some exchange of views between Britain and Germany before the imminent French - Italian misunderstanding threatens to range both parties and their allies against each other.

"All is not simple, as seen from Berlin, in the future foreign political course which Hitler must steer. He is said to be undecided at present between brusquely challenging the western democracies on the Mediterranean issue and risking American intervention, as recommended by Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, and the more moderate policy recommended by Field Marshal Hermann Goering:

"Goering's alternative is said to be to take advantage of any deadlock in the Mediterranean to consolidate the German influence in Eastern Europe.

"Responsible circles here judge that it is not yet possible for Germany to fight the Western Powers and survive. They fear that a Mediterranean dispute might lift the Berlin end of the axis off the ground and leave it spinning in the air.

"The internal economic and financial situation in Germany has not materially improved through the annexation of the Sudeten area. Germany is still faced with a shortage of raw materials and uncertain access to them.

Madrid, Feb. 18 (AP)

THE civil population of Madrid tasted meat for the first time in many weeks when 1¾ ounces of Argentine meat was distributed to each person today. This was an additional source of happiness for the beleaguered city which also enjoyed a respite from the almost incessant shelling which had been going on all week.

King Launches First Of 'Hush Hush' Fleet On Monday

By J. F. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON Feb. 18—(CP Cable).—The first of Great Britain's "hush hush" battleships will be launched on the Tyne Tuesday by the King. It is named after His Majesty's father, King George V.

With a displacement of 35,000 tons, mounting 14-inch guns and carrying special anti-aircraft armor, it will be one of the most modern warships afloat. It will cost $40,000,000 and will be the first battleship launched by Great Britain in 14 years.

Later in the year three sistherships will be launched, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, and the Beatty. The fifth of the series, the Jellicoe, will leave the stocks early in 1940.

Meanwhile 90 of Britain's naval vessels are preparing for spring manoeuvres off Gibraltar from March 3 to March 18, but the admiralty insists there is no significance to the choice of the scene. The home and Mediterranean fleets have held joint battle practice off Gibraltar for several years but because of the Spanish war Atlantic waters were used, not Mediterranean.

New Designs, New Guns

The admiralty is maintaining strict secrecy about the new battleship, due to her anti-aircraft armor, which incorporates a new design. The Admiralty will not say how many 14-inch guns are to be mounted, but the number is believed to be 10, which would mean about $3,500 for each broadside fired. They will have a range of 20 miles and will fire a new type of shell that will smash through ordinary armour plating and continue in flight for another mile.

The unofficial speed estimate has been placed in excess of 30 knots but it will be a year before the King George V is ready for speed trials. It will take that long to fit her out because warships are launched comparatively early in the course of construction.

Special Armor

All vulnerable parts of the vessel will be protected by a new type of armor plating, especially the guns' turrets and the hangars which will house the ship's fleet of planes. The ship also will have a new system of watertight compartments and a double bottom for protection against torpedoes.

The King George V will be the same size as Germany's new battleship, the Bismarck, but will have ten 14-inch guns against eight 15-inch guns in the ship launched early this week by Chancellor Hitler. Although the British guns are smaller they will have a higher rate of fire and the approximate weight of shells fired every two minutes will be 38,640 pounds for the German ship and 46,800 for the British.

(Little concern was felt in government circles over publication in Germany of description of the King George V in the Reich's "Pocket Book of War Fleets." Much of the information was inaccurate, while some of the accurate details were common knowledge in England.)

12-Man Stud Poker Game Shot Up, 1 Killed Gang Grab $5,000 Miss $4,000 On Dead Man

MALDEN, Mass., Feb. 18 (AP) —Three gangsters, armed with a sawed-off shotgun and pistols, today invaded a 12-man stud poker game in the cellar of a private residence, killed one man, critically wounded another, and escaped with an amount estimated by police at between $5,000 and $6,000.

John Wheeler, 40, of Boston, was killed and aPtrick Flynn, former Everett boxer, identified by police as one of the card players, was found later lying on the steps of a Malden hospital with a bullet wound in his head.

The gunmen opened fire almost the moment they entered the basement, Police Inspector William Cronin said, after a doorman had led them to the scene of the poker game under threat of death. As the doorman entered the cellar, with hands above his head, Cronin said, Wheeler apparently reached for his own pistol, but was felled.

Speedily the bandits went through the pockets of the dozen players — but missed $4,004 in Wheeler's pockets and a stack of $10 bills on the card table.

Canada's Stand, War Obligations Keep Parliament Hill Buzzing

By Ross Munro
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 (CP). — Canada's position and obligations in event of war involving the Empire is a topic of major political interest on Parliament Hill these days and an effort is being made to have the government provide a more detailed and concrete explanation of its foreign policy on this specific point.

The question has assumed special significance in the minds of some members since the September crisis. The coming visit of the King and Queen also serves, in its way, to centre attention on Empire relations.

There are three bills on the Commons order paper directly relating to Canada's status in wartime and the impression in Opposition circles is that the government's attitude may be outlined further by Prime Minister Mackenzie King when these bills are being debated or when external affairs estimates are considered.

Sticks By Laurier's Policy.

The Prime Minister has said that his government adheres to the Liberal policy as laid down by Laurier —that when Britain is at war, Canada is at war but the extent of Canada's actual participation, if any, will be determined by parliament.

There are indications that several Opposition members and at least one Liberal do not find this pronouncement sufficiently assuring and will ask for a more detailed disclosure along with a statutory guarantee that parliament will decide the issue of participation in war.

Grant MacNeil (C.C.F., Vancouver North) is sponsoring bills to amend the Naval Service Act and the Militia Act which would bring Canada's militia and naval forces under control of parliament. The Militia Act Amendment Bill would provide that Canada would not become involved in any war beyond her borders without sanction of parliament.

A Liberal from Selkirk constituency, Joseph Thorson, is sponsoring another bill along the same line "to make clear to the other nations of the world the status of Canada in event of war." The bill would provide that the Dominion would not become a belligerent until the King declared war on advice of the Canadian government. In this respect it takes issue with the policy that

Desperate Mother Deserts Four Young Sons Upon Toronto Street

Bewildered Boy 10, Bravely Tries Finding Aid After Reading Farewell Note; Police Start Search—Find Estranged Father

TORONTO, Feb. 18 (CP).—Police pressed their search today for Mrs. Annie Robertson, 34, who left her four children in front of Salvation Army headquarters yesterday with a note saying she could "no longer provide for them." A second note, saying she was going "where no one can find me," was left for David Robertson, father of the children.

The children were Alexander, 10; Donald, seven; Richard, five, and John, four. They were given refuge at the Children's Shelter. David Robertson had been living apart from his wife for some time. He notified authorities at the Shelter he would make arrangements to take care of the boys.

Alexander said he and his brothers accompanied Mrs. Robertson down town yesterday. She gave them a note, he said, then disappeared into a shop. The boys did not know to whom to give the note, so started in search of their mother. They did not find her, and when they took the note into the Salvation Army office, they said, a man said "there was nothing he could do."

The boy said he and his brothers started to cry when he read the note. A Salvation Army officer took the children to City Hall, where they were given to officials of the Shelter.

Police were informed Mrs. Robertson had been suffering from a nervous disorder. They communicated with other officers throughout the province in an effort to find her.

Alex Takes Over.

Alexander, obviously bent on keeping up the spirits of the younger brothers, showed only by the quaver in his voices his fears for his mother. The younger boys appeared not clearly to understand what the day's happenings had meant. He didn't cry about things, he said, "Because I am a Cub."

"I went to school this morning, and when I came home my mother said we'd go downtown to buy me a pair of shoes," he said. "We went downtown this afternoon and when we got to the Salvation Army place she gave me a note and told me to take Richie and Donnie and John in and give it to the man.

"We went in but I didn't know who to give it to so we came out again and we went into Eaton's Annex to look for her.

"She said he was goin gto buy a coat.

"We couldn't find her so we went back to the Salvation Army place and I gave the note to a man there, but he said there was nothing he could do."

"Lady Saw Us Crying."

Here Alex's voice quavered again. But he went on:

"We came out and then I read the note. It said my mother was going to leave us, and then Richie and Donnie started to cry. I cried a little, too, then."

"And Johnnie, too," gurgled the other little brothers, thinking it was a joke, while Johnnie pulled the bedclothes up over his little, round face. Alex, looked at the younger brothers without expression, and then continued.

"A lady saw us crying and we gave her the note to read and she gave it to a man and he read it, and then they got a policeman. They took us to the City Hall; you know the place where all the policemen are," he continued.

Police state the children were brought in by a Salvation Army officer. At about 5 p.m. they were taken by police to the Children's Aid Shelter.

Second Search Is Made For Missing Gun

A telephone message from Provincial Constable Ayres, stationed in the Huntsville district, suggests the possibility that Joe Champagne and Harold Peterson, the two holdup men who are awaiting sentence here, are the pair wanted for breaking into the Canadian Pacific Express office at Kearney, Ont., on January 20. At that time a small sum of money, a quantity of postage stamps and a small nickle-plated gun of an old model were stolen.

Constable Ayres said the description of the men here closely followed that of the pair wanted for the Kearney job. Color was added to that suppostion by reason of the fact that when the two men were searched here on Thursday afternoon a number of loose stamps were found in their pockets.

On the theory that the gun used in holding up Wilbert Peel here was the revolver stolen from Kearney, a squad of police made a second search yesterday afternoon at the place where Champagne said he had thrown the weapon but they failed to find it.

Toronto police also inquired last night as to the possibility that the pair held up were involved in an automobile theft recently in the Toronto area.

B.C. Fisher Fleet In War Games

ESQUIMALT, Naval Base, B.C., Feb. 18 (CP)—Spatter of gun fire and the whine of bullets echoed off this Pacific station today. A new naval defence force is nearing the end of its first manoeuvres. Training period ends Feb 25.

All in fancy of course, at least one passenger ship has been sunk and invaders resisted by the 40 Seine fishing boats that make up the Fishermen's Naval Reserve.

The regular navy has taken a fancy to its new volunteers, a fraction of the huge British Columbia fishing fleet which has come to Esquimalt from as far north as Prince Rupert.

"They're a particularly fine body of men and we are quite satisfied with the way they are shap g up," commented Captain Victor Brodeur, R.C.N., senior office-in-charge here. "For the short time they have been in training they have done remarkably well."

And from Lieut.-Comm. Colin Donald, R.C.N., in charge of the new reserve unit:

"Everybody in the navy is pleased with them. They're taking to their work like ducks to water. It's a pleasure to work with them."

Commander Donald says if instructors and equipment were available 10 times the number of boats and men here this year could be brought to Esquimalt in future.

200 Men In The Fleet

Two hundred men; five to a boat, man the little fleet, which probably wouldn't have been formed if Lieut-Comm. Rowland Bourke, V.C., of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve hadn't got the idea to recommend it.

The men he and Commander Donald chose to begin the new force are all British subjects, but they include men of Scandinavian, Jugo-Slavic and Italian origin as well as native-born Canadians.

This year's month-long manoeuvres began Jan. 25. Full-time naval instructors began courses in physical education, seamanship, signalling, gunnery and torpedo practice. Naval officials said the fishermen learn quickly.

The first week was spent ashore, the fishermen learning the rudiments of squad-drilling and gunnery. Since then they've taken to sea, the small boats drilling under instructions from H.M.C.S. Skidate, the reserve's mother ship.

There aren't enough instructors or equipment to send all 40 boats out at once. While half of them remain ashore for technical instruction, the rest take turns peppering a small black target with Lewis-gun fire.

Vimy Ridge Excluded As Memorials Go Back To France

London, Feb. 18 (CP Cable)

AN AGREEMENT has been signed between the British and French governments deeding the sites of battlefield memorials back to France. It affects all empire memorials but Vimy Ridge is expressly excluded.

The complexities of French law are given as a reason for the agreement, particularly as it relates to municipalities. As far as Canada is concerned an exception was made about Vimy, which remains Canadian soil.

The agreement will not affect access to monument for their care, but only the nationality of the sites.

Azana To Resign Unless Peace Is Made

PARIS, Feb. 18.—(AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier called his cabinet into session today for a fresh review of the Spanish civil war, with progress reported in efforts to make peace. While the cabinet ministers were assembling at the war ministry, Senator Leon Berard travelled to nationalist Spain to establish French relations there and Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez del Vayo returned empty-handed to government Spain after conferences here with Manuel Azana, president of Spain, who was reported to have demanded that his government make peace with General Franco on any terms.

"Toward the end of the Spanish drama" was a headline used widely by the French press.

The conference of Azana, Alverez del Vayo and other officials at the Spanish embassy broke up with Alvarez del Vayo's departure last night after a call at the foreign ministry.

He took a train for Toulouse. From there he planned to fly to Valencia. Spanish sources said that he failed in his mission to take President Azana back to Spain and that Azana insisted he would resign unless resistance to Franco were announced. Senator Berard was to arrive at Burgos tonight.

Second Rescue Sent To Kuling Resort

SHANGHAI, Feb. 18 — (AP). — Two naval officers, one British and one American, left the Yangtse River port of Kiukiang to-day to try to persuade 37 Britons and 28 other foreigners to leave Kuling, Central China summer resort, before a threatened Japanese attack.

The officers were lEeutenant-Commander R. S. Stafford, commander of the British gunboat Ladybird, and Lieutenant-Commander Charles Jefts of the United States gunboat Oahu.

They left Kiukiang about 9 a.m. after having obtained permission from both the Japanese and the Chinese who are fighting in the vicinity of Kuling. Although they had to pass through the front lines of both armies, they expected no difficulty.

The two officers travelled afoot as did a similar mission last December, when a number of foreigners were evacuated from Kuling. They hoped to reach the mountain-top town late to-day and planned to evacuate by Monday any foreigners who wanted to leave Kuling.

Officer Suspended For Jailing A Boy

HAWKESBURY, Ont., Feb. 18.—(CP)—Night Constable Edouard Lacombe has been suspended temporarily and former Chief Henri Giroux has been placed on duty in his place, it was learned here last night.

The decision to suspend Lacombe was made at a special meeting of the police and fire committee. Reason given for the suspension was that some time ago Lacombe placed a boy in the jail cell here for being out at night after the 9 o'clock curfew hour.

The boy's parents signified their intention of suing the town for the act in a letter read at the committee session.

Challenge To Freedom

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Feb. 18.—(CP Cable.) — Jamaica's general strike to-day was cited by Governor Sir Arthur Richards as a challenge to "the freedom and liberty of the community." A state of emergency existed in the colony as the walkout tied up the planations and fruit shipping centres.

The state of emergency, declared earlier by the Governor, was confirmed by the island's legislature yesterday. Sir Arthur told the body there could be "no negotiations and no peaceful settlement" until the "challenge" was withdrawn.

Government Meets Minor Defeat

LONDON, Feb. 18—(AP). — The government suffered a minor defeat today when the House of Commons passed a second reading, 145 votes to 105, a private members bill opposed by Captain Harry Crookshank, secretary of mines.

The bill calls for payment of compensation to owners of property in the coal areas which has been damaged through land subsidences. Captain Crookshank contended the measure was vague and unfair, and asked its rejection.

The opposition cheered and shouted "resign!" when the vote was announced, but as no question of confidence was involved there is no possibility of the government quitting. It may ask the House to reconsider the measure.

Falling Roof Traps Father And 7 Children As He Braves Flames In Vain Rescue

MANASSAS, Va., Feb. 18 (AP) —Commonwealth's attorney William Brown began an investigation today of a fire that claimed eight lives at Greenwich, near here, last night.

Ed Hansborough, 40, a carpenter, and seven of his eight children burned to death when flames destroyed their home. Mrs. Hansborough escaped with the youngest child, a baby.

At the home of a neighbor she sobbed out an incoherent story of the tragedy. She said she and her husband were reading in their bedroom and fell asleep. She was awakened by smoke and fled with the baby after arousing her husband.—He ran upstairs to wake the other children. They were trapped by collapse of the roof.

The children who died in the flames were: Harriet, 12, the oldest; Buddy, Sam, Molly, Beulah, Lena and Effie.

Ski Notes

We hereby tender our humble apologies for our non-appearance since the ski meet last week. Our only alibi is that there were so many odds and ends to be cleaned up after all the "doings" that we just didn't get around to making a public appearance.

The skiing is practically perfect right now so let's all get out and have some fun without having to look after competitors. Our local "Sun Valley" at Bethany is in good shape so we'll all be there tomorrow. The bus will leave the Empress Hotel tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock and we urge every to take advantage of the good skiing while it lasts. This service is provided for your convenience and unless it is used to a greater extent we cannot guarantee its continuance.

Dizzy On Gas

PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 18—(AP). —A six-year-old lad who can't keep his nose out of automobile gasoline tanks, has Pensacola police worried. He has been found repeatedly taking tank caps off to inhale gasoline fumes. "He puts his nose right up to the tank and inhales until he is so dizzy he's reeling," officer Drew Coleman reported.

MORE ABOUT—

Will Open Debate Anyway.

The Thorson bill may never be reached and the MacNeil bills likely will be talked out but the Vancouver member feels they will serve the purpose of opening up a debate on Canada's wartime status and possibly providing a further statement of government policy.

The Conservatives generally have not taken sides on the issue this session although Georges Heon (Con. Argenteuil) challenged the government on what he considers a paradox. "What can parliament decide if we are automatically at war?" he asks.

French Canadian opinion on the Liberal side is for the most part concerned with keeping Canada out of European entanglements. The majority of political writers here felt that if the MacNeil motion was put to a vote many French-Canadian Liberals would bolt the government and support it.

Lobby Gossip

Agriculture Minister Gardiner's announcement of a new wheat policy involving acreage bonus and abolition of the minimum price principle came as a surprise to most observers here. Of recent years the government's intentions regarding wheat were not made known until later in the session. The minister's frank condemnation of the present policy appeared to impress the house. There is a likelihood wheat question will be considered by a house committee.

Hon. C. H. Cahan, the elder statesman of the Conservative commons group, will make another plea shortly on behalf of his bill to abolish appeals to the privy council. He says that if it went to a vote in the house it would pass with a two-thirds majority. Justice MinisterLapointe said last session he was sympathetic to it but there has been no indication what attitude thegovernment will take this time.

A large photograph of Conservative Leader Manion has been hung in the opposition lobby on the opposite wall to a portrait of Sir John A. MacDonald. Observers concede G. G. McGeer (Lib.-Vancouver-Burrard) has been one of the most effective speakers in the commons on the government side this session. It's in the senate, though, that you find the great master of the spoken word. Senator Arthur Meighen is acknowledged to be the finest orator in parliament.

Sessional Highlights

The suggestion that Ottawa might become the empire capital has a supporter in Howard Green (Con. Vancouver South). He feels that the exposed position of London to bombing raids might lead to the capital being moved here if war breaks out. . . . There is a strong likelihood that the report of the royal commission on dominion-provincial relations will be made public in late March or early April . . . The parliamentary press gallery has a record membership of more than 40 political writers this session . . . The public accounts committee probably will start its inquiry into the Bren gun contract next week . . . The daily protest by members against wasting the time of the house on trivial matters is gaining volume . . . The prime minister threw out a challenge to the Conservatives in his Canada-United States trade treaty speech and a vigorous light on the issue is inevitable.

The government is making a close study of a new scheme to assist the maritime provinces' coal industry. Another maritime issue which will be brought before parliament soon is whether the trawler licences are to be renewed . . . There is talk again of cabinet re-organization but if it comes it is not likely for months.

Royal Visit

A pleasantly diverting subject in this capital is the royal visit, particularly the king and queen's four-day stop here . . . Determined not to be outdone by Washington, the government plans an elaborate but dignified reception . . . But this town will be splashed with flags and bunting as never before . . . The new downtown plaza is practically completed except for the huge base around the national war memorial. The supreme court building is going ahead rapidly and the queen will lay the corner stone. Some hotels are already completely booked up. Government tourist officials believe there will be from 750,000 to 1,000,000 tourists come to the dominion during the visit. Experts claim $2,000,000 "outside" money will be spent in Ottawa in two days . . . There does not appear to be a chance parliament will prorogue before their majesties arrive.

Hastings Takes First Place In E.P. League

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 18.— Hastings' "Bushwhackers" captured first place in the East Peterborough rural hockey loop Friday night when they defeated Westwood 8 to 6 on Westwood ice. By virtue of their win, they assured themselves of a play-off berth. The game was quite rough, but despite the fact there were no penalties handed out. Sargent and B. Graham looked best for the Westwood crew and Crate and G. Scriver were standouts for the Bushwhackers.

In the first frame Westwood counted two before the Hastings lads got under way, with credits to Mortlock, assisted by B. Graham, and Mortlock again with assist from Sargent. T. Scriver opened scoring for Hastings and was followed by G. Scriver to end scoring of the period and make the score two-all.

Hastings tallied three in the second with credits to Brownell, Washburn and G. Scriver, but Westwood fell one short of the pace with goals by Sargent and Mortlock to end the period 5 to 4 in favour of Hastings. Hastings added three in the third with goals by Faux, Crate and T. Scriver, and again Westwood fell short with two counters by Mortlock and B. Graham to end the game 8 to 6.

The teams:

Hastings—Goal, Kelley; defence, Stickles, Faux; centre, T. Scriver; wings, G. Scriver, McKee; alternates, Brownell, Washburn, Blackbourne, Mouncey, Crate.

Westwood—Goal, Richardson; defence, Morris, W. Graham; centre, Mortlock; wings, B. Graham, Sargent; alternates, Rylott, Chaplin, Thompson.

George St. Squad Runs Up Big Score

George St. Juveniles ran up a 12-5 score against Trinity last night at All Saints rink in the last scheduled church Loop game of the series. It left the winners a tie with All Saints for first place. E. Roulty and Hamilton got six goals each and most of the assists for the winners. Beatty got two for Trinity. Horton, Henry and Webster getting one apiece. The teams:

George St.: Goal Richardson defence Saunders, W. Henry; centre, E. Routley; wings, Hamilton, Craig; subs, Powell, Purdy, Roberts, F. Routley, Armstrong.

Referee, B. McDougall.

WEEKLY GRAIN REVIEW.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 18 — (CP). — A slightly improved export demand for Canada wheat and comparatively active inter-market spreading operations with Chicago featured this week's trading on the Winnipeg wheat futures market. Prices moved within a one-cent range in each of the five sessions, apparently influenced by the conservative buying policy adopted by importers due to large supplies of wheat in sight.

At the close on Friday, quotations were ¾-1 cent higher for the week with May at 62⅝, July 63⅝, and October 64 cents.

Export sales of Canadian wheat for the week were placed at 1,000,000 bushels. Clearances from Canadian Atlantic ports showed some improvement, while Pacific Coast shipments recorded a small decline.

Argentina shipped 3,275,000 bushels of wheat during the last week, including 1,107,000 bushels cleared to other than European countries.

Reports said the Argentine Grain Board is holding in storage 110,000,000 bushels of the country's exportable surplus estimated at 216,776,000 bushels.

Reports from India said rain had fallen in many sections of the wheat belt, indicating this country might produce sufficient wheat for domestic needs.

Market Review

TORONTO, Feb. 18 — (CP). — The stock market concluded the week in slow action and a barely firm price tone. Industrials registered more gains than losses, while the mining groups were inclined to ease down slightly after opening firm to strong. The western oil share market was lifeless. Volume for the short session was down to less than a quarter million shares.

Utilities, senior oils, steels and foods showed the margin of price adjustments on the up side at the close, and miscellaneous issues were mainly steady. Bell Telephone firmed a fraction, and Beauharnois and Gatineau Preferred posted minor gains. Fanny Farmer added a minor fraction, and Walkers Common gained ¼. Ford A weakened.

Trade in the gold group was concentrated mainly in the cheaper issues. Stadacona was offered down a few cents but it fully recovered and minor losses were boarded by Sylvanite, Teck Hughes, Hedley-Moscot, Hard Rock and Prospectors Airways. Lake Shore, O'Brien, Chesterville and San Antonio were among the gainers. Augite changed hands in considerable volume while holding steady.

In dull action, Waite-Amulet and Falconbridge recorded moderate losses and Noranda and Nickel held a gain. Other base metals were dormant. Eldorado firmed a cent or two in quiet trading.

Only a few of the western oils appeared in the trade. Calgary-Edmonton lost about 2 cents, and Home was unchanged.

Wall Street Close.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—(AP)—The stock market tapped out a quiet rally to-day, with steels and aircrafts providing the principal buying attraction.

Gains at the best ran to around two points, but most were in fractions. Profit taking cut down top marks until just before the close, when prices stiffened sufficiently to enable many favorites to end near the day's peaks.

Transfers were about 400,000 shares.

Canadian issues—with the exception of Dome—shifted narrowly higher. Up fractionally were Lake Shore, Distillers and H

Roseneath W.M.S. Hears Review Of Church Work In Canada

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Feb. 18—A story of planting the first church in Canada was told by Mrs. D. Brisbin at the Tuesday meeting of the United church W.M.S.

Mrs. Brisbin reviewed the struggles of the pioneer ministers, who endured hardships and faced dangers in the name of religion. While the Huguenots first brought religion to Canada, the Anglican church planted the first protestant church in Canada. The congregational church came next. The origin was traced of the three churches which later became the great United Church of Canada.

Msr. A. Halstead, second vice-president, presided over the opening and devotional exercises.

Bale for the West

The president and hostess, Mrs. L. W. Scott, conducted a lengthy business period. Mrs. R. Crego read a letter from the supply secretary regarding the bale allocation. The auxiliary is asked for supplies for Pine River Hospital, including scarves, mitts, stockings, caps, sweaters, used clothing and toys.

A letter from Mrs. Ed Morton, Presbyterial mission and Baby Band secretary, was read. The letter had regard to organizing a Mission Band. The matter was lad over until the next regular meeting. Mrs. Andrew Brown had on display the completed facny quilt top, the pattern having been donated by Mrs. R. Crego and arrangements were made to hold a quilting on March 1 in the town hall.

The president announced that the W.A. of St. James' Anglican church, had invited the society to join with their society in the observance of the World Day of Prayer service. Mrs. D. Brisbin and Mrs. L. Turner were appointed to meet the Onglican W.A. committee to arrange the service.

Mrs. J. A. Nichol offered her home for the March meeting, Mrs. A. J. Campbell will present a portion of the study book

Refreshments were served by the hostess at the close, during which there was a discussion on modern literature.

Treasures Found In Hymn Book

Some treasures of the Hymn Book will be the subject of the address in St. Andrew's church on next Sunday night.

Few members of the church take the trouble to explore the hymn book which they use on the Sunday. There are treasures of literary skill, and of devotional feeling in the hymn books of all the churches that will repay careful study. Generally speaking, the hymn books of the four leading denominations in Canada are similar in this respect that they contain the great hymns of the Christian religion. Where is the hymn book which does not contain such masterpieces as Jesus Lover of My Soul, Rock of Ages, Abide With Me, Unto the Hills Around Do I Lift Up My Longing Eyes, When I Survey the Wondrous Cross, and several others of that type.

The catholicity of our hymn books is one of their outstanding features. Here is Joseph Addison, polished literary man, Ambrose Gregory of Nyassa, Clement of Alexandria, scholars of the early church, William Blake, English artist of the 18th century, Marie Corelli, novelist of the 20th century, F. W. Faber, who came under Newman's influence, J. H. Newman, Martin Luther, Protestant reformer. Where can we find any other book with an assortment of authors?

The Christian religion has the unique power of bringing together people of different ages, and temperaments in a way that no other power can do.

When it comes to the religion of the heart we are all really one in Jesus Christ. Our creeds may differ, but religious feelings are one all over the world. The hymn books set forth the religion of the heart in an attractive manner, and that is one reason why our people should cultivate a fuller knowledge of the treasures they contain.

Biblical Thoughts For the Shut-Ins

By Rev. E. R. James, Toronto

THE OPEN DOOR IN HEAVEN

BEHOLD, a door was opened in Heaven.—Rev. 4: 1.

Perhaps no book in the New Testament has been more misunderstood than the Revelation of St. John the Divine. It is a book full of symbolism. It is the opinion of some scholars that a secret interpretation was circulated and has been lost. It was written at a time when the Church was passing through great tribulation and men's hearts were failing them for fear. It is an Apocalyptic writing claiming to unveil "the hidden things," as the word means; to reveal the future. But this passage is not difficult to interpret. The writer had a vision of Heaven. Do you ever have visions? The young man who has had no visions is indeed poor.

"I looked, and behold, a door was opened in Heaven." The Apostle is privileged to enter the Spirit world. What did he see?

"Behold, a throne was set in Heaven and One sat on the throne." The writer is a Jew, one who has a deep sense and awe of Jehovah. That awe of Jehovah is increased not diminished by the wider revelation of God the Father, Son and Holy Ghost—the Christian teaching of the Tri-une God. It is natural that he should see a throne in Heaven—"One sat on the Throne." It is a truth especially necessary for today. Many people speak very carlessly of God. They have no deep sense of reverence and they look upon God as a good natured Being, Who will not be very hard upon man. We have to go back to the old teaching that God is Almighty. Your reverence for God will depend upon how you think of Him. God is Almighty. God is above everything. "The Lord remaineth a King for ever Be the people never so impatient." The very pronunciation of God's Name in the Old Testament Church is lost because of the deep reverence for God Almighty, God Who is over all and above all. That is why in Isaiah's vision the Cherubim stood with veiled face in the Presence of God. "With twain he covered his face."

"Round about the throne were four and twenty elders sitting." They represent the Old and New Testament Church. They are sitting around the throne of God, the place of highest honor to a created being. It also means that they are under the protection of God. A necessary and helpful truth for that generation when men were daily dying horrible deaths and all the power of the Roman government was used to wipe out, if possible, this hateful Christian Society. In a word the Apostle is crying to his Brethren to lift up their hearts. The Christian is an optimist. He believes that God cares for His children. "When thou passest through the waters I will be with thee, and through the rivers they shall not overflow thee. Lo, I am with thee all the days. Be of good courage, I have overcome the world." The Church was not a human organization or invention. It did not exist through the will of man but of God. The Christ called a small band of man "to be with Him." He chose them. they did not choose Him. The Church was His Own creation. "The Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved." The Church of that age conquered and the Church of today will also conquer. "The gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

Behold, a door was opened in Heaven." A door means separation. When the door is shut it separates those within from those without. But when the door is opened it speaks of entrance, going in and going out from Heaven. "Who for us men and for our salvation came down from Heaven—and was made Man." This is the fundamental truth of the Christian religion that Jesus is the God Man, and that through Jesus Christ God can be touched by man. "No man cometh unto the Father but by Me," was the Lord's claim. That God is touchable is a profound truth. This is the Gospel, the Good News that God has taken our nature into His God head, opened a door in Heaven through which man can draw near to God. "I am the Door" saith the Lord Jesus.

"There was a rainbow round about the throne in sight like unto an emerald." An emerald is green, an imperishable green, typifying the mercy and loving kindness of God. God's character is revealed as a God of mercy. He is full of compassion.

Highlights On Sunday School Lesson

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

PETER IN SAMARIA

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 26 is Acts 8: 4-25, the Golden Text being Isaiah 55:1, "Come ye, buy and eat; yea, come buy wine and milk without money and without price.")

Today we start with the work of the apostles in converting Samaritans to Christianity. At first it was thought that only Jews should be taught the new religion. Jesus, you remember, talked about it to the Samaritans, who, you know, were not considered the equals of the Jews. We will go back later to this time.

It seems that in Samaria there was a disciple named Philip who was preaching the Word to the people. The apostles were at Jerusalem, and when they heard that Philip was preaching in Samaria, they sent Peter and John to help him. Now, when Peter and John converted some one, they would lay their hands on him, and the Holy Ghost would descend upon the convert and give him power.

At Samaria at this time was a magician named Simon. He thought this gift of the Holy Ghost was some kind of trick, like his magic, and so he asked Peter to show him how to do it and offered him money if he would.

Peter naturally refused and rebuked the man, saying: "Thy money perish with thee, because thou hast thought that the gift of God may be purchased with money. Thou hast neither part nor lot in this matter; for thy heart is not right in the sight of God. Repent, therefore, of this wickedness, and pray God, if perhaps the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee."

Simon realized that the matter was much deeper than he had thought and was sorry he had been so flippant. He therefore said to Peter: "Pray ye to the Lord for me, that none of these things which ye have spoken come upon me."

How many things can you think of that you value most highly which no money could buy? Love, of course, the love of your mother and father, of brothers, sisters and friends; then bodily health—your sight, hearing, the use of your limbs and the rest of your body. And the glories of nature which even the poorest can enjoy every bit as much as the rich—ran and sunshine the sun, moon and stars, soft winds, flowers and foliage, sky and clouds, hills and vales, rivers and lakes the ocean, green grass and yellow sand.

Now we go back to before Christ's death, when he talked to the Samaritan woman at the well. This was the talk in which He told the woman, "God is spirit, and they that worship Him must worship in spirit and in truth." His disciples came back and found Him talking to this woman, and then He sent her to the city to call her men folk to listen to Him. Many of the Samaritans were converted at this time, and Jesus stayed with them for two days.

The next story is the one we all know so well, but which is always worth retelling. Jesus and His disciples went to Jerusalem for the Passover. Going to the temple, Jesus found it filled with "those that sold oxen and sheep and doves, and the changers of money sitting there.:

"And when He had made a scourge of small cords, He drove them all out of the temple, and the sheep and the oxen, and poured out the changers' money and overthrew the tables:

"And said unto them that sold doves, 'Take these things hence; make not My Father's house an house of merchandise'."

The last reference in the week's reading is from James, and is called "Religion Undefiled." It reads:

"Let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, and slow to wrath:

"For the wrath of man worketh not the righteousness of God.

"Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world."

A National Message

There will be an utter putting away of man-made laws and a restoration of the laws of God. Let us do that now as a nation. This is true in an economic sphere as everywhere else.

We read further and find that "the sure mercies of David" are confirmed for ever to Israel. That is to say, while sun and moon continue to function and while the seasons succeed each other, David shall never want a man to sit upon the throne of the House of Israel. Thus God declared through the lips of Jeremiah five hundred years after the original charter was given to the House of David.

This is repeated again and again. For instance, the New Testament may be said to have opened with it, in the annunciation made by the Angel Gabriel, "He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Highest: and the Lord God shall give unto Him the throne of His Father David: and He shall reign over the House of Jacob for ever: and of His kingdom there shall be no end." So the nation, the throne and the administration are all cared for and assured in the Old Testament and the New.

We now sum up the things which we have seen in connection with the Bill of Divorcement.

The nation divorced was at one time the privileged wife of the Lord of the things contained in the Bill of Divorce, namely, increase of seed and perpetuation as a nation to the end.

The nation holding the Bill of Divorce together with all the nations which have grown out of her stem are the objects of the Redemption, and are redeemed by the incarnation, suffering, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ, the Son of God, Who was, as predicted, a rejected man, a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief.

The nation holding the Bill of Divorcement is assured of restoration to the position of the wife of the Lord with infinitely more than her former glory.

The nation holding the Bill of Divorcement shall hold in its stead the New Covenant, to be made in the "after-those-days," with the House of Israel.

The Celto-Saxon people and their kindred on the continent are the holders of the Bill of Divorcement, and the parties of the second part of the New Covenant; sharers alike in the Redemption. It is they, together with the remnant of Judah, when Judah shall be fully reunited with Israel, who must prepare for and welcome the returning King, even Jesus Christ our Lord.

Cathedral Musings

Last week we spoke of certain laws that govern our spiritual well-being, instancing in particular, the law of attunement and communion with the Divine principle of the universe, that, for want of a better term, men call God. In regard to the Cosmic Law, we should bear in mind the fact that the Law is supreme. Everything, from the atom to the archangel, is governed by Law, irrevocable and immutable. In one sense, there is not, nor can there be, forgiveness of any violation of the Law, i.e., of sin. We may be, and can be forgiven the actual violation, for most of us do not know any better, but no power in heaven or on earth can avert from us the consequences. We MUST reap as we have sown. For, and we emphasize it, the Law of God, unlike man-made laws, is eternal and CAN NOT BE BROKEN with impunity. That, of course, is as it should be, for no man, if he is sincere, would seek to evade the consequences of his acts. Rather, if he is truly repentant, he would seek to repair what wrong he has done by every means within his power, and even to take upon his own shoulders the evils that others may have done to him. In this, he follows the Master, who loved those who did Him evil, as much as those who followed Him. It is not the sinner who is obnoxious, but the sin. We must also bear in mind that most men sin in ignorance, because they do not realize the Law.

By 'sin', we mean 'sin' in the philosophical sense, that is, any violation of the laws of our being is a "sin." We do not confine the term to the limited theological sense only, for the laws of health, hygiene, sanitation, dietetics, etc., are just as Divine as the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule, the law of gravitation, or the law of the conservation of energy. Were men not blinded by selfish considerations they would see that all the sin, disease and lack of harmony in the world is the offspring of self-satisfied ignorance and that all the happiness and peace of well-being is the result of living in harmony, consciously, or else, instinctively, with the laws of God. Hence it was that Jesus told us to seek first the kingdom of heaven so that these things should be added unto us. For if we know God and fulfil His law, then we are no longer ignortant of the mighty psychic and spiritual forces that govern us.

Lactantius III.

Urge Workers Stick To Canadian Unions

OSHAWA, Ont., Feb. 18—(CP).—Canadian workmen can obtain just as good living conditions from employers by being members of a Dominion union as by joining a foreign organization, A. L. Mosher, president of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor, told members of the Oshawa Bakers' and Dairymen's Industrial union last night.

"Canadian workmen appear to be content to tie themselves to the apron strings of foreign labor organizations who do not understand the problems of Canadian workers," said Mr. Mosher. "Canada is in the unique position of being the only country in the world that has branches of foreign labor organizations dictating to its workers.

"We are quite willing to co-operate with other organized labor unions but we want to do it without coming under the dominating of such international unions. We want to be the masters of our own organization, not the vassals of a foreign union."

100, Never Been Ill

WINGHAM, Ont., Feb. 18—(CP)—Mrs. Margaret Meuser of nearby Elmwood to-day celebrated her 100th birthday. "And the strange part of it all is that I don't feel any different from any other time I had a birthday," she remarked. "I can look back for a hundred years and say I've never been sick," she said. "Everybody marvels at the fact that I've never had any medicine in all that time."

Scripture—Amos 6:1-6; I Peter 2:11, 12; 4:1-5.

"For the drunkard and the glutton come to poverty; and drowsiness shall clothe a man with rags," he warns.

"Harken unto thy father that begat thee, and despise not thy mother when she is old," he further counsels.

The sons of the house of Rechabites were commanded to drink no wine. (GOLDEN TEXT—Romans 14:21)

He Should Be Answered

It is not possible to find out the number of people who work for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the amount of salary paid to them or the amounts which they received for travelling or living expenses. That was made plain enough in the House of Commons when J. H. Harris asked the following question:

1. What are the names of the paid employees, including the general manager and all others, of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation throughout the Dominion?
2. What salary does each receive?
3. What living, travelling or expense allowance was each paid in the year 1938?

Transport Minister Howe made the following reply, as reported in Hansard:

"This question refers to a matter of the internal management of an autonomous corporation. Inasmuch as a committee of the House has been appointed to investigate all matters affecting the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, I think we should take the same position as is taken in connection with the Canadian National Railways and decline to answer a question of this type."

The fact that a committee of the House had been appointed to make inquiry does not mean a thing; the whole statement is in the last few words where Mr. Howe declined to furnish the information. It means that a Corporation has been brought into existence by the creative powers of government, and then an elected member of parliament is not allowed to secure information regarding the number of people employed and the amount of salary, travelling and living expenses which is being paid to them. And yet it is public money which is being spent.

There is much in that which the Examiner does not like; there is nothing about it of which we can approve. There is the utmost publicity at the other end. When an individual has not secured a radio license he is rounded up by an inspector and called upon to appear in a public court and pay a fine, and there is no attempt made to keep that part of the record secret. If the people of the country had opportunity to express an opinion it would be that the government has no business creating a closed Corporation for broadcasting and then denying to an elected member of parliament and to the people of the country a full and complete answer regarding the number of people employed and the money they are receiving.

A Desirable Conclusion

On Wednesday night two armed men robbed Wilbert Peel as he was leaving his garage. Mr. Peel was going home for the night and had $218 with him. The victim of the robbery was bound and gagged and the robbers left with the money.

On Thursday afternoon about 5 o'clock two men were in the hands of police and on Friday morning they appeared in court and pleaded guilty to the charge laid against them. We consider that a highly satisfactory conclusion.

The men with the money faced the problem of getting away when they left the garage and they elected to try the rather wide-open spaces reached by the C.P.R. tracks running west from the city. Their movements are not entirely clear but apparently they were out for the night when it was 14 below zero and were walking much of the time. They had plenty of money with them, more than they had seen for a long time, but it was of no use. They realized that the possession of money was in itself evidence of their guilt.

John Bradley and his father, Norman Bradley, live on a farm not far from Manvers station, and the son had driven there with milk when he noticed two men at the station. He had previously heard about the robbery in Peterborough and decided the two men at the station might well enough be the pair for which the police were searching. At the first opportunity he telephoned to the police, and also arranged to drive them through a section of road which was not in condition for a car to operate. The police went at once, found the men and brought them back. They also found the money.

The arrest of these men was due to the willingness of an intelligent farmer to do what he could to help the police. Mr. Bradley was not content to leave the matter in official hands, nor did he conclude it was something which did not concern him particularly. He saw something which needed doing and proceeded to do it. If there were more of that sort of work the duties of the police could be more readily performed.

Community Singing

Roy Fenwick, director of musical education in Ontario schools, is reported as having told a group at the Normal School that the lowest form of music is the singing which one hears at service clubs. It is of course what is generally referred to as community singing.

Then Mr. Fenwick attended the meeting of the local Kiwanis Club and there after listening to the singing he put some sort of a muffler on his Normal School remarks, and told the Kiwanians that their singing had actually inspired him. And when a person becomes inspired then we take it the singing must have been more than usually good. The musical beef must have been cut in generous and thick slices, and the notes which the singers made were neither small nor anaemic; they must have been great big fellows born in gladsome surroundings and hurled forth with a vigor which indicated sound lungs and perhaps some slight disregard for the people who lived in the immediate neighborhood.

But Mr. Fenwick cannot possibly go around the country bearing with him at all times this dual message. He cannot possibly tell Normalites that service club singing is of a low order and then keep on breaking bread with service clubs and telling them that their singing is sufficient to inspire a man of sound judgment and technical knowledge of things musical.

Probably the truth is that community singing can be good or bad or very bad. There are those who regard the singing as they do their soup; they tackle it with joyous abandon, while there are other members, probably more reserved in their outlook on life in general, who sing because they are afraid not to and secretly wish they could wring the neck of the man who first invented community singing.

The Right Answer

Chief Justice Rose in the High Court of Justice for Ontario cleared up one point which might have caused a deal of confusion. A. B. Siskind, a lawyer in London, had brought action against the chief of police and the municipality of London for $120 damages because a car belonging to a client had been impounded following a conviction for drunk driving. The claim was that the impounding of the car was something for which no power existed, and that it invaded the Criminal Code, which was federal territory.

The Chief Justice found there was no invasion of property rights. Taking the car off the highway for three months was not similar to taking possession of the vehicle; it merely immobilized it for a definite period, and that was part of a general plan for the regulation of motor vehicles.

It is well that the matter has been settled, and settled just in the way the Chief Justice decided. Some such weapon is needed, and we have no substitute which is just as good. We have small patience with the plea that impounding a car for three months is an invasion of the field of a man's liberty because the person who drives while drunk has plainly demonstrated that he has no respect for the liberty or rights of others.

The One Bright Spot

There was a case in court at Windsor which had to do with the ill-treatment of a horse, and when such events make their way to court one does not often look for anything which can be admired. The magistrate imposed a fine of $20 and costs, and if that were not paid there was the option of spending 15 days in jail. That of course was a matter of routine and not particularly interesting. It would not make much difference to the abused horse whether the man paid the fine or went for 15 days so the people of the county could take care of him.

Then it was that the unusual thing took place, for a son of the accused came to the front and asked the privilege of going to jail for 15 days in place of his father. The horse was his property, although his father was driving it, and he felt he was responsible for anything which happened to the animal. Also he was more fitted to stand 15 days in jail than his father.

The court refused the plea, but it was a bright spot in an otherwise unlovely situation to have this son coming out as he did and asking that he take the place of his father in jail. Some place in the family there must be something better than the instinct or temperament which would abuse a dumb animal.

Where Will It End?

Hon. James G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, has announced that the wheat bonus for Western Canada is through—that is, he is not going to pay the fixed price of 80 cents per bushel for the 1939 crop. By that system the cost to the country for the wheat year which ends in July, will be $48,000,000, and there was an additional $9,000,000 for relief to those who did not have any wheat crop. And that is a total of $57,000,000. So if there are five in your family you may know you have become responsible for a $25 debt for Western wheat. Just how the money will be collected from you we do not know, but we are certain it will be.

Mr. Gardiner is not going to cease paying, though. He has another plan by which it appears the farmer is going to be guaranteed some return on one-quarter or one-third of his seeded land. The fixed price was found to be a good thing for a man who had a lot of wheat to sell, but no use whatever to the farmer who had no wheat. The fixed price appears to have been a challenge to the Western farmer to grow as much wheat as possible at a time when there was far too much wheat in the world. Our Minister of Agriculture believes the new plan may aid in developing diversified farming.

When a government starts on the policy of making a guarantee to a farmer in the West that he shall receive a certain amount on his seeded acreage it has gone into the field of guaranteeing an income, and when it does that where is it going to draw the line? If there is to be a "sure thing" policy for a farmer in the West then why has a farmer in Ontario or elsewhere not the same right to expect similar treatment? And if the farmer is given that preferred treatment, then what good reason is there for not applying it to other vocations? It is public money, provided by all the people, which is to be used, and it looks very much like taking it from all of us for the benefit of only some of us.

When the Ontario farmer grows wheat he has to make the best of it. If the price is too low he sells only if he is forced to do so in order to get some cash. Otherwise he prefers to put his cheap wheat into the chopper along with other grain and feed stock. But whatever he does he has to figure it out for himself, and if he figures the wrong way then he has to accept his own loss. When we have a policy which has preferred treatment for one section of the Dominion, financed by money taken from all the people of the Dominion, we are in a position where adequate explanations are difficult.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Toronto paid 59 cents to a young lady who stubbed her toe on the sidewalk, fell and ruined a pair of silk stockings. We rather fancy a young lady who will publicly and officially admit she paid only 59 cents for them.

Dr. Benes, former president of Czechoslovakia, said in an interview at Chicago that democracy would return to Europe, but it might take 100 years. So it is quite certain we will not be here to greet its return.

There is an estate of $17,650 up for probate in London, and 24 relatives are supposed to benefit. Four of them have decided to go to law about it, so the extent to which they will ultimately benefit seems at the moment a trifle hazy.

The fine art of public speaking is being well developed in Canada. Today's illustration comes from a report of the city council meeting in Toronto. Mayor Day speaking: "Any fool should know that a rug in the mayor's office has nothing to do with a retiring allowance."

VILLAIN

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Jim Clem when sixteen years of age, said he was headed for the stage, no other thing would do; his uncle used to act said Jim, and talent had been bred in him, a lot of things he knew.

¶ When they had home shows now and then, they always made a place for Clem, he'd take the heavy part; he knew the part he had to play, knew every word that he should say, had learned it all by heart.

¶ The villain part appealed to him, for he was long and rather slim, he nursed a wicked look; he knew the tricks at early age, just how to act upon the stage, he'd read it in a book.

¶ He'd plot against the heroine, for mercy make her plead and whine, the village folks would creep; he'd turn the widow from her home, and leave her stranded all alone, and then some one would weep.

Lamplighter's Column

SUPPOSE that this week, when so many misguided people have colds, we talk about sneezing, and see how many odd things there are to be found out about this involuntary and uncomfortable act. We will not stop to ask ourselves why we sneeze, because everybody knows there is no definite reason or time at all, we simply sneeze "in sneason and out of sneason!" Probably in this time of year we would be more interested in how not to sneeze, rather than why we actually do.

However, there is quite a lot of interest about the many superstitions and beliefs that have to do with sneezing. If it is any comfort to those of you who are suffering with colds, or who have hay fever in pollen time, there is a long-standing belief in Scotland that idiots are incapable of sneezing. So, no matter how uncomfortable you may feel, at least you have the satisfaction of knowing you are demonstrating your intelligence every time you sneeze. Just whether it was very intelligent to have caught the cold in the first place, is, of course, a hoarse of a different color!

Ideas about sneezing are so widespread, and are found among so many nations, that it is interesting to go back to the beginning of them all. And to do so, we have to go back to Ancient Egypt, whose highly intelligent people realized that the head was the abode of Reason, and therefore should be deeply respected. They also knew that man had a soul, although they were not very clear as to its appearance or nature. One thing they did know, however, and that was that when it left the body it did so by way of the mouth. So on a frosty day, when the breath could be seen—of course such days were extremely rare in Egypt—they thought the soul was escaping, and closed their mouths. We could do with a few more frosty days all through the year, if people only felt the same way about it nowadays! However, be that as it may, the sneeze being another and more forcible expulsion of the breath, it meant that part of the soul of the sneezer was escaping. And in this we have the basis for all the wide-spread superstitions about sneezes.

An Irish Custom

In Ireland the bystander involuntarily says "God Bless You" when one of the company sneezes, knowing that if the soul were getting away, some especial blessing would be needed. If true, it must keep an entire battalion of angels busy during ragweek season. The same belief occurs in Germany, where we have folk-lore about unfortunate enchanted sprites who hide under a bridge and sneeze, hoping that some pious passer-by may say "God Bless You," and so remove the spell.

Since the sneeze, or breath, was supposed to be part of the spirit of a man—presumably in those days halitosis meant having a bad spirit—a sneeze always meant the presence of one or other of the Gods, whichever one was in charge of the sneezer. So to sneeze during a transaction or a tale was a sign that truth was being done or said, for what man dare lie when one of the Gods was visibly present? Even today we speak of a thing as "not to sneezed at," meaning that it is true, or out of the ordinary.

England, in the days of Queen Elizabeth, had a very elaborate ritual as to the good or bad luck of sneezing. Probably in the drafty houses of those times, there was plenty of it. One of the things they believed was that it was particularly lucky for the household if a cat sneezed, although it is hardly to be supposed the cat felt the same way about it.

And the subject of sneezing should bring up the matter of handkerchiefs—at least, it will if we have any manners at all. The kerchief was the ruffle of lace at the throat or cuffs of a man's coat, and was used freely for the purpose to which we now put our handkerchiefs. This rather unpleasant custom went on for a long time before some original mind, possibly confined to bed with a cold, found it so exceedingly difficult to leap out of bed and get his coat sleeve before he sneezed, that he tore the lace out and took it back to bed with him, so as to have it ready ahead of the next sneeze. The kerchief thus became a hand-kerchief, because it was carried in the hand instead of being attached to the sleeve. The Englishman still carries his handkerchief in his cuff, in unconscious memory of its origin.

The Square Handkerchief

And why is your handkerchief always square, instead of oval or circular, or any other shape. Just because, several centuries ago, some working girls asked the Queen of France, instead of Heaven, to protect them, and she did, and we have been doing so ever since. For many years the popular material for handkerchiefs was cambric, which takes its name from the town of Cambrai, in France, where it was manufactured. But before France started making her own material, gauze was used, which had to be imported from Gaza, in Palestine, from which town it takes its name. It was naturally very scarce and difficult to obtain, and when people started demanding their handkerchiefs cut into the form of sailing ships and butterflies and stage-coaches, it meant so much waste material that there was not enough of it to make enough handkerchiefs to secure a living for the workers. So a delegation took the matter up with the Queen of France, who in sympathy caused a law to be passed order all handkerchiefs to be made square — in which case there was no waste at all. And we have all been obeying this old law ever since, and never dream of breaking it—which is not so surprising as it seems when we remember how many other laws there are, and how many of them are much more amusing to break!

• What A Pity At Such A Time!

GOING to the Public Accounts Committee from the House of Commons, the Bren gun contract may be getting out of the frying pan into the fire. Yet everybody must be glad it has departed from the House says the Ottawa Journal. It was getting on the nerves of members, and, judging by what took place last week, a few more days of talk and it would be a referee the House would be needing, not a Speaker. Indeed, if the temper of the House be taken to the Public Accounts Committee, it's a referee they will be needing there.

The whole thing is a great pity. This Bren gun contract may not be a bad contract, and we don't think it is a dishonest or corrupt contract. What is obviously wrong, though, is the revelation that in the negotiation of the contract there was inefficiency, and wrong method, if not gross incapacity by those responsible for it. So much is this clear, that a large section of the public has no confidence in the contract, and less confidence in those who made the contract. That, at this time, is a serious thing.

Public opinion may often be wrong. Under our democratic system it has a right to be wrong, and a government, if it wants national unity and national co-operation, must have regard for it. In the case of this Bren gun contract public opinion is clearly in the belief that this contract is not in the public interest, and, what is worse, that the people responsible for the contract cannot be safely entrusted with similar contracts in the future. At a time when this country is proceeding to spend increased millions for defence, and when public support for that spending is vital, such a palpable weakness ought not to be permitted to continue. Long ago, Prime Minister King ought to have taken the appropriate steps—and the appropriate steps are clear—to restore public confidence.

From the Public Accounts Committee, nothing useful need be expected. That committee is an overwhelming partisan committee; will follow the cue given it by the partisan majority in the House. In the net result there will be a "whitewash", or what a large section of the country will regard as a whitewash. The real and vital need of public confidence, and of public unity and co-operation for defence, will not be achieved. That—as Prime Minister King must be the first to realize—will be a tremendous loss.

MORE PRAYER.

The United States Senate makes a distinction between the actual day all of us live by and the "legislative day," which, because a "recess" is often taken in the afternoon instead of an "adjournment," sometimes extends over many calendar days. Heretofore only the new "legislative days" have been opened with the formality of prayer, but last week the Senate voted unanimously to invoke spiritual guidance at the beginning of each calendar day of its sessions. This will considerably augment the duties of the Rev. Ze Barney T. Phillips, chaplain of the Senate, who last year was called upon to pray only four times in return for his $1,680 salary.

Dr. Phillips, a Republican, was appointed to his Senate post in 1927. He has been rector of the Epiphany Church in the nation's capital since 1924, having served previously in churches in Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis and Philadelphia. Two years ago, speaking as president of the House of Clerical and Lay Deputies of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, Dr. Phillips declared: "The Church's task is to put the emphasis where it belongs, and speak of the more abundant opportunity through economic and social advancement for attaining unto the more abundant life."—(New York Times)

THE PARTY HACKS.

. . . In contrast to the members at Ottawa, the press of this nation shows up exceedingly well. As the Tribune made plain in a recent press summary, Liberal organs are among the sternest critics of the Bren Gun and certain Conservative newspapers are among its stoutest defenders. The newspapers of Canada today, by and large, are no party hacks. In this they are simply following the opinion of plain Canadians who less and less allow their opinions to be formed for them by party political considerations. — Winnipeg Tribune.

To The Editor

A WELCOME CRITICISM

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I am a consistent reader of your splendid paper. In particular, I enjoy your editorial page which, in my opinion, when compared day by day with the Toronto dailies, is much more comprehensive, much fairer and much more to the taste of the ordinary individual such as myself.

Seldom have I written to any newspaper. In my opinion it is a privilege much abused. But I have followed Mr. George McCullagh's radio addresses with the keenest of interest and from them have, I hope, gleaned much. I am therefore considerably disappointed that in your editon dated February 14, you devote no small portion of your editorial page to a lengthy and rather verbose criticism of an inaccuracy in Mr. McCullagh's final address and yet apparently did not consider it worth while to make the intelligent appraisal of Mr. McCullagh's addresses of which I believe you are quite capable.

The point you raise is one which would probably interest few outside the field of newspaper work. May we have less of such trivialities and more of your usual good editorials.

Thanking you,

Truly yours,
R. CAMERON VANCE,

THE COMIC VALENTINE.

There still is a big business in the old-fashioned combination of picture and doggerel that used to be called a comic valentine, the kind that was designed to take a large area of skin off the recipient. When some of us were kids they sold for a cent a copy—and he was a stingy, or improvident, kid who could not find at least 3 cents for buying and mailing one to where he hoped it would do the most good.

A publisher says his company sells them by the tens of millions every year, that they still outnumber all other kinds of valentines combined, including the marvelous creations of paper lace, the candy, the flowers and the telegrams. His house has more than 1,400 designs, which it reprints every year from the old plates, some of which date back almost to 1870. — (Cleveland Plain Dealer)

Four Wong Children Presented With Proficiency Awards At Lakefield School Graduation

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD Feb. 18—"The new courses established by the Department of Education are here to stay," Principal J. F. Harvey tol da large audience at the annual commencement exercises of the Lakefield High School, which were held in the Memorial Hall Friday evening.

"I think we cannot stress too highly the importance of household economics and shopwork in this new course. If this school is to make progress, the citizens will have to be aroused to the need of equipment for shopwork and household economics," he said.

"We have already started shopwork on a small scale," Mr. Harvey continued. "There are some boys who slip into High School with the idea that education is some kind of deviltry. It takes us a little time to oust that idea," he said smiling, "but eventually we do. The new course of study, and particularly the shopwork, appeals to this type of boy—the lad who doesn't care about ordinary education. It gets him interested in something, and it is so important that this type of lad be made into a splendid type of citizen."

More Space Needed

"If we are to have this type of work in our school, it will be necessary to do something in the way of building either an extension or a new building.

"I would like you all to be missionaries for the school, and to work for the establishment of these new courses. For if Lakefield gets these courses started early, pupils will come from all through the country, and in two or three years our present attendance of 117 would be increased to 150 or 160. If we can get an extension or a new building, I see a great future for the Lakefield High School," Principal Harvey said in conclusion.

Scholarship Presented.

Prof. Woodcock of Trinity College, Toronto University, was present and presented to Miss Natalie Lampman the certificate which represents the $650 Dickson Scholarship which was won by Miss Lampman on her Upper School examinations, last summer.

The program opened with a group of selections by the Girls' Glee Club, conducted by Charles Renaud. They sang "The Canadian Boat Song," "Stars of Summer Night" and "The Quest."

J. W. Ridpath, chairman of the High School Board, acted as chairman for the evening. He welcomed the guests, and commented on the report of High School Inspector Jennings, who visited the school this week and who, Mr. Ridpath said, was well pleased with the work being done there, and with everything in connection with the school. "Your school here has one of the best staffs of any High School in the province of Ontario," said Mr. Ridpath, quoting Inspector Jennings.

"To provide suitable accommodation for the shopwork and household economics, we would need to build an addition worth $10,000," said Chairman J. W. Ridpath continuing the subject brought up by Principal Harvey, "o ra new High School building towards which $10,000 would go a long way." Mr. Ridpath reiterated Mr. Harvey's sentiments as to the importance of these courses to the school.

Miss Cora Charlton delighted the audience with a group of two vocal selections, "Rose of My Heart" and "Love's Philosophy," the latter being one of Shelley's poems in a beautiful setting. Miss Mary McKerchar, A.T.C.M., was her accompanist.

Cup Presented.

Headmaster K. A. Mackenzie presented the K. A. Mackenzie Cup to Don. Yale, winner of the senior boys' championship in the autumn field day events. After presenting the cup, Mr. Mackenzie referred to the school motto, "Labor Omnia Vincit" (Labor conquers everything) and jokingly suggested that the motto should read "Wongs Omnia Vincit" (Wongs conquer everything), since four members of Lakefield's only Chinese family were mentioned on the program as winners of general proficiency prizes in their respective forms.

W. F. Munro, sports instructor, presented a cup to the winner of the junior boys' championship, Carl Hurl, who stacked up 33 out of a possible 35 points in the field day sports.

Miss B. Dunn, instructress in girls' sports, presented cups to Miss Doris Chittick and Miss Sybil Lennox as winners respectively of the girls' senior championship and the girls' junior championship in the field day sporting events.

Joe Moher was presented with the Dr. A. W. Mackenzie Memorial Cup which goes to the winner of the mile race. The cup was given by the High Scool Board to be presented annually in memory of . . A. W. Mackenzie, former headmaster of the Lakefield Preparatory School. The cup went to Joe this year by reversion from Bill Nichols, who won the race for the second successive year.

Miss E. Kennedy presented to Bob Smith the Catholic Women's League Prize which is donated for proficiency in history at the entrance examinations.

Shields were presented by E. W. Bailey, F. L. Erskine, E. J. Millage, E. H. Northey, and C. S. Tanner to the winners of the prizes for general proficiency in each form. The winners were: Miss Natalie Lampman, Form V.; George Wong, Form IV.; Mary Wong, Form III.; Lily Wong, Grade X.; and Rose Wong, Grade IX.; and each received besides the shield, a book presented by Mr. Ridpath on behalf of the High School Board.

Mr. Ridpath introduced Professor Woodcock of Trinity College, Toronto. "This is by no means my first visit to Lakefield," said Professor Woodcock, "but I am more accustomed to come in summer than in winter. However, the warmth of your welcome makes it feel like summer. I am grateful for being asked to be present upon this auspicious occasion and to present this scholarship to Miss Lampmann, who has won so many honors. I have been looking over a list of her achievements, and I never won so many honors in my whole life as she has won in a short time. If Natalie Lampman doesn't win the very highest success in her university career, it will not be her own fault, for she is both a hard worker and is very ambitious.

"It seems to be becoming a habit for the Lakefield High School to win scholarships, and I hope this good habit will continue and that others from Lakefield will come to the university, for we find the pupils from the smaller centres make good students," said Professor Woodcock.

Valedictory Address.

Mis Natalie Lampman was called upon to give the valedictory address. She said in part: "I would like to mention the great debt of gratitude we owe to Mr. Harvey, by years of hard work and conscientious devotion he has made the school something far more than an institution. He has taught his pupils how to manage their own responsibilities, such as the literary and athletic societies and plays and dances. I think that for boys and girls to work together in managing these things without even the slightest hint of discord is a far more ideal state in a school than high examination results."

Mr. Renaud's glee club brought the program to a close with a group of three numbers, "The Rain," "O Spirit Sweet of Summer Time," and "Good-Night," and "God Save the King."

Lakefield High School commencement exercises Friday night were widely attended by pupils and parents who saw many a student walk across the platform to receive a diploma that put school days to an official end.

Most outstanding pupil in all the school last year was Natalie Lampman, now a student at the University of Toronto, who won a valuable scholarship and general proficiency prizes, Miss Lampman, LOWER RIGHT, delivered the valedictory address.

By MAX TRELL

"Well," said Jack Frost to his friends, Hanid and Knarf, the shadows, "last week you saw me making a top-cover for the pond."

"It was made of ice," Knarf broke in.

"And it was just the size of the pond," added Hanid.

The two shadows looked at what Jack was making. They were in his big winter workshop on the other side of the garden wall.

"It can't be a cap for a snowman," said Knarf. "It's much too big for that."

Not for Snowman.

All at once Hanid, who was quite a bright little shadow-girl, exclaimed: "I know what it is!"

"What is it?"

"It's a cap for a mountain!"

"Right!" cried Jack Frost. "That's exactly what it is. It's a snow-cap for a mountain. You see," he went on, "it is made to fit right on the top of the mountain's head. It took me a long time to make this cap."

Then Knarf said: "I don't see why it has to be made to fit so well. It's only snow and ice. It isn't a real cap. Besides, it's very heavy. The wind can't come along and blow it off."

"You're wrong there, Knarf," said Jack Frost. "The wind blows awfully hard way up on top of the mountain. It might not be able to blow the whole cap off. But it can blow off big pieces of it. But that's not the only reason why I have to make it fit snugly. If the snaw cap were loose, it might all of a sudden come sliding down the side of the mountain. And what damage that would cause! It would slide down faster and faster, picking up all the rocks and boulders in its way. And if there were any houses at the bottom of the mountain, it would smash them to pieces. It would hurt the people. No," said Jack thoughtfully, "my mountain snow-caps must fit. They must stay on till they melt slowly in the spring. Then they come down in streams of fresh water. And then they do good."

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, February 19

SUNDAY'S horoscope may be interpreted as a most propitious one in many surprising directions. It is a time for dealing with superiors and those in power with very definite propositions for progress, promotion and preferments, offering outstanding talents and efficiency with authority and confidence. Drastic and decisive action, with romance and adventure, dominates both private and professional life.

Those who birthday it is may enjoy a year of outstanding favoritism, with excellent talents and abilities receiving recognition and reward from elders, superiors and those in power. Both private and business life enjoy romance, adventure and signal success and satisfaction.

A child born on this day may be versatile, unusually talented and ambitious, attaining excellent place by its rare ingenuity and creative resources, perhaps dramatic or literary.

For Monday, February 20

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a very fortunate one, with every prospect of attaining important objectives and desired hopes and wishes. These should come, not only by direct efforts in industry and fidelity, but also by a sudden windfall, coming "from out the blue," as it were. Grasp such benefices but do not complicate them by impetuous, rash or turbulent behaviour. Be calm and assured as well as happy.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a great streak of luck or good fortune, coming unexpectedly and unpredictably. This may be in reward of merit or of long-continued perseverance, patience and hard work, recognition for fidelity or just a sudden whirl from the wheel of Lady Luck. In any case, maintain composure and avoid tempest, turmoil or confusion.

A child born on this day may be adventurous, unusually talented and creative, ambitious and proud. Its own effort and perhaps a stroke of luck assure it a fortunate and happy life.

TO OTHER DOMINIONS

LONDON—(CP).—In train of the construction of long-range bombers ordered in Canada last year, members of a British official mission have left England for Australia and New Zealand to explore air defence plans.

Looking Back
On This Date

Just a century ago today Lord Melbourne presented to the British parliament the report of the Earl of Durham upon political conditions in Canada, one of the most notable political documents in the world, since it proved the basis for that self-government by the colonies which has resulted in the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Apart altogether from its future constitutional importance, the report was a remarkable piece of work, being completed within two months after Durham's return from Canada, a man then at death's door. Whatever help he may have received from his staff it is his own, "mark throughout by his own vivid style," as Professor G. W. Wrong has written.

Curiously enough its effects upon the British people were more as regarded Durham personally than as it affected Canada. Despite the rebellions of two years before, the British people showed little interest in Canada. "Complete indifference," was the summing up of one observer. The Times and other papers published the report in full. What discussion there was was on party lines; the Report gave "society" a chance to talk about Durham and speculate as to his future, but only a very few of the public men of the time saw that the document was the cradle of a new era.

Among those who realized the future reactions of Durham's proposals was Wakefield, who wrote: "The Report has gone the round from Canada, through the West Indies and South Africa to the Australias, and has everywhere been received with acclamations."

Within two years Durham's proposals for a reunion of the Canadas was accomplished, and one step taken towards his still greater dream of a union of all the British colonies in North America. Truly is this a centennial day of high historic value.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

"Suppose," said McIntyre, "that we figure it this way:

Mr. Horace is in love with Della Craig. He wants to give her the money for her play, but he doesn't have it. So he murders his mother and comes into enough millions to back a hundred shows."

"And murders his wife so that he can marry Della, eh?" I put in sarcastically.

"Exactly."

"Of course," I continued acidly, "there being no divorce laws in the country, he'd have to poison her!"

"Maybe," suggested Phil, "maybe Mrs. Horace refused to divorce him."

"Oh, it's too ridiculous!" I was disgusted with the both of them. "Mr. Horace wouldn't harm a flea. Besides, he isn't in love with Della. He never pays the slightest attention to her."

"But you surely can't believe that a women like Della would fall for an insignificant little runt like Mr. Horace?"

"Well, I think you are off on the wrong track again, Mr. Horace doesn't even live in this world, let alone commit murders in it!"

"Now, don't fly off the handle, girl," Mac spoke placatingly. "I don't say he is the guilty party. But I do say he had a motive, and very likely an opportunity. He could have secured the cyanide; he probably buys a great many poisons for use in his laboratory."

"Why don't you accuse him to his face then?" I demanded, thoroughly exasperated. "A man could back a play, couldn't he, without expecting payment in return? He may be interested in Della in a fatherly way."

Phil burst into loud guffaws: "My God, Elsie! Act your age! Fatherly way, my eye!"

I withered him with a glance. "You wouldn't understand," I returned coldly. "There are some men in the world with decent instincts."

Mac said wearily: "If you two are going to battle every five minutes, I'm going to turn you out."

"O. K." Phil grinned. "I'll be good if you can tame Elsie."

"Imbecile!" I said, and turned my back upon him. "Are you going to inform Chief Ellis of your suspicions?" I asked McIntyre.

"Ellis has troubles of his own," the detective replied his eyes twinkling. "He's busy whittling the pieces of the puzzle to fit his picture. He'll make an arrest before long; then we'll get to work."

Jeffrey in gray flannels was my idea of what a millionaire should look like. Handsome in a rugged, masculine sort of a way, he certainly was the answer to my maiden's prayer. Gazing at him I could understand why Daphne Witherspoon objected to becoming Count Orsini's bride.

"What do you know about this business?" Ellis addressed him brusquely.

Jeffrey's reply came unhesitatingly: "Not a thing."

"No suspicions?"

"Absolutely none."

"Not a murderer in the crowd, eh?"

Jeffrey's back stiffened. "That's hardly for me to say, Mr. Ellis," he said coldly.

"Perhaps not." The other shrugged. "Look here, Todington," his tone changed, "I'm doing the best I can to solve this case. You and your friends aren't helping me any. You're all withholding important information!"

"Or what you think is important," Jeffrey amended shrewdly.

For a full second Chief Ellis stared at him, and Mac McIntyre took advantage of the opportunity to step in.

"Let's not misunderstand one another, Mr. Todington," he said suavely. "We want to find the person or persons who premeditatively murdered Mrs. Horace Witherspoon. You want to clear your friends. It all works to the same end, and there is no need to quarrel about it."

Jeffrey's eyes searched the detective's face. Mac met the look blandly. Presently, as though satisfied at what he saw, Jeffrey nodded. "Perhaps you're right," he admitted. "I don't want to quarrel, but it makes my blood boil to have the police suspect my friends. I know them intimately, you see, and you don't."

"Naturally," Mac agreed. "However, the truth never harmed anyone. If I ask you a personal question, will you answer it to the best of your ability?"

"Shoot!"

"Very well. When did Daphne Witherspoon break her engagement to you?"

Jeffrey took a long time to reply, but at last he said: "About a month ago."

"And what reason did she give for breaking it?"

"She—she told me she no longer cared for me."

"Did you believe her?"

"No." He lowered his voice. "I knew that she was doing it for her mother's sake."

Jeffrey frowned. "Daphne knew that her grandmother would make her mother's life a hell on earth if she did not marry Orsini. Mrs. Witherspoon was mad about royalty."

"I see. And did you try to persuade Miss Witherspoon to reconsider?"

He laughed shortly. "Naturally; I loved her!"

"Of course." Mac got up and began to walk about the room. "I suppose now that the old—that Mrs. Witherspoon is dead, there will be nothing to interfere with your marriage to Miss Daphne?"

"You suppose wrong," Jeffrey said, so forlornly that my heart bled for him. "She refuses to marry me! She refuses to marry anyone!"

"So!" Mac registered amazement. "That is odd! What's her reason this time?"

"She won't give a reason. She acts so queer and stiff I don't know what to make of her!"

"I could guess," muttered Ellis, and Jeffrey leaped quickly to his feet.

"I knew you'd get around to that!" he exclaimed furiously. "But Daphne Witherspoon is innocent, I tell you! Innocent!"

"All right!" Ellis raised his hand. "No need to fly off the handle. I'm not saying that she had a hand in the murder, but"—he paused ominously— "but I am saying she knows more than she's admitted to date. And if I were a young man in love with her—"

"Yes, I know." Jeffrey's anger cooled. "She does know something—and I'm afraid!"

"Well, that's all for the present." The chief of police signified that the interview was at an end. "But remember, I've warned you!"

Y.M.C.A. Auxiliary Members Complimented

Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Y.M.C.A. were complimented on their gratuitous service by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church, when he spoke at their meeting Friday afternoon in the Y.M.C.A.

The uselessness of living for self alone was pointed out by Rev. Sutcliffe, who spoke on the subject of "Living By Lifting." He said that the world lives by the help of those who live, and stated that workers are always helped by helping others, as inthe words of the gospel "With what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again." Thanks to the speaker was expressesd by Mrs. H. Foote and Mrs. G. H. Roper.

Mrs. F. L. Robinson, president, presided for the meeting, and conducted the decvotional period. Reporting for the house committee, Mrs. W. L. Gerguson stated that considerable mending had been done, and that new supplies were needed, and was authorized to do the buying. The flower committee report was presented by Mrs. G. A. Borland.

Tea was served after the meeting by Mr. R. White of the Y.M.C.A.

We Noticed

. . . Gowns ranged from the picturesque to the ultramodern at Peterborough's parties last night At the Friday Night Club dance one of the loveliest of the "reminiscent of grandmother's photograph album" gowns was fashioned of deep purple crepe, with soft lavender velvet making a poke of the neckline and forming into revers that reached to the bottom of a very full skirt.

✧ ✧ ✧

. . . Many of the girls wore corsages, and hair dresses were highlighted with flowers or feathers. As dainty as the first spring blossom was a frock of white taffeta etched with flowers in pastel shades—at the halter neckline of the frock its golden-haired wearer had pinned a fragile mauve orchid. A demure little frock of soft yellow lace was finished with a shoulder nosegay of yellow roses faintly tipped with pink, and a pink moire dress cut on delightfully 1890 lines had a tight bodice slightly draped at the low neckline,—worn with it were long pink moire gloves.

✧ ✧ ✧

. . . A steel-grey gown of rich satin, moulded on Grecian lines, was noticed at the reception at the Empress Hotel, held for members of the Toronto Skating Club after the carnival. Deep purple chiffon fashioned another lovely evening gown, and silver sequins made a sparkling jacket and bag. Gold sequins were used lavishly also on a graceful frock of brown net.

St. John's Choir Elects New Officers

The annual meeting of St. John's choir was held after a short rehearsal on Thursday evening. Mr. H. Chate, retiring president, was in the chair while various reports were presented. Mr. F. G. Mann, choirmaster, presided during the election of officers.

Canon W. P. Robertson was acclaimed honorary president, and honorary vice-president are Rev. R. T. F. Brain, Mr. R. N. Stuart, Mr. Chris. Graham and Mr. Morphet. Other officers were elected as follows: President, Mr. Griffin Young; vice-president, Mr. Fred Hooper; secretary-treasurer, Miss R. Quartermaine; librarian, Mr. Arthur Winslow; assistant librarian, Mr. John Hooper; sick and visiting committee, Miss L. Bacon, Mr. Roy Pitchford and Mr. Leslie Groombridge; publicity secretary, Mr. Walter Howell; social committee, Mrs. Eldred, Mrs. F G Mann Miss Allin and Mr. I. Luther.

Mr. Mann addressed the choir briefly on a number of past reports, and on plans for the future. There was a complete attendance of the members, and a keen interest was shown in the business, and choir arrangements.

Badminton Dance Held in Hastings

HASTINGS, Feb. 18. — Despite inclement weather, the annual Hastings Badminton Club dance was staged quite successfully on Wednesday night. About seventy-five couples danced to the strains of Jack Grant's Orchestra of Havelock. The evening was featured by several novelty dances and favors. At midnight the gathering sat down to a delicious lunch served by the club.

Among those attending from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Fowlds, Miss K. Bowen of Campbellford, Russel and Louise Jones of Peterborough, Ken McCann of Brighton, Ted Cryderman, Campbellford, Edith Jones, Norwood, Bert Harriett, Margaret Jones, Havelock, and a number from Indian River, and the district surrounding Hastings.

Reception Is Held For Skating Club

A reception for the members of the Toronto Skating Club was held in the Empress Hotel by the Peterborough Winter Sports Committee following the colorful skating carnival last night. Spring flowers in a low silver bowl, and green and ivory tapers were effectively used on the table where coffee was poured by Mrs. Gordon Matthews and Mrs. F. D. Kerr. In charge of arrangements were Mrs. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, Mrs. C. A. Sollitt, Mrs. Chris. Mrs. Hugh Waddell, Miss Lahring Parsons. Stan Northrop's orchestra played for dancing.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a young man and I honestly and sincerely wish that this world was made up entirely of men and boys and that there were no women or girls in it. I am convinced that all other men feel the same way and wish that we had the world all to ourselves. Women and girls are nuisances. They are bossy and want to take all the credit for everything to themselves. But what good are they? What good are they in times of war? They just stay home where it is safe and enjoy themselves. Who won the World War? Men. Who built the Empire State Building? Men. Who designed the Queen Mary, the Golden Gate Bridge, Boulder Dam? Men. What have women ever done that stands out? If there were no women and girls in the world we men could do as we please. We wouldn't have to dress up. We wouldn't have to work so hard. There wouldn't be anybody to boss us around, tell us what to wear and what time to get home. If the world were just made up of men there would be no jealousy and quarreling and we would get along fine. This would be a great world if it wasn't for women. MILTON C.

ANSWER:

My, but some girls must have given you the air, good and plenty, to have so soured you on the entire feminine sex! For men never turn women-haters unless a girl has flouted them, or stepped on the toes of their vanity, or got the job they wanted.

But your theory of what an earthly paradise this world would be if there were no women in its lacks confirmation. According to the Bible the experiment of a womanless world was tried upon the first man and, although Eden was perfection in every way, it so palled upon him that the Creator was forced to make a woman to put some pep into it and make life worth living to him. And all the sons of Adam have felt the same way about the matter ever since. They are never satisfied unless there is a woman around the place.

Also, I might remark in passing, that another drawback to your vision of how happy men would be if no women existed, is that without women there would soon be nobody to be happy. For whatever their other faults, it is not to be denied that women render invaluable aid to the census report.

It is quite true, as you say, that men won the World War, but there was not a soldier in it who was not sent there by some woman who underwent greater danger and who endured greater suffering to bear him than he ever went through in battle. It is true that men have been the great scientists, the great writers, the great musicians, the great builders, but some woman created every man. And that brings up the interesting question of which is greater—the maker of men, or the maker of things?

Perhaps you are right in saying that men would have more freedom if there were no women. They wouldn't have anybody to boss them if they had no wives and mothers; nobody to make them take care of themselves. Perhaps they wouldn't have to dress up and mind their manners if there were no girls they were trying to date. They might not have to work so hard if they didn't have families to support or sweeties to buy flowers and gimcracks for. But do you honestly think that would be an improvement? Do you think you would like to look at a lot of men who were unshaven, unshorn and slouchy, whose clothes were slovenly and who resembled nothing so much as human scarecrows?

Do you think when you are sick you would like to be nursed by a hard and unsympathetic male instead of by the tender hands of a woman nurse who is a knockout? Would you get much kick out of going to a dance when your partners would all be men? And what would be the use of money if it wasn't to spend on your Girl Friend?

No, son, your womanless world would be a failure. With all their faults women are a necessity, and no man can do without them.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a lonely man more than 50 and, though I married and have three grown sons, I have never experienced the thrill of love. Is there a possibility that I may yet fall in love? W. E. W.

ANSWER:

Maybe you are not the thrilling sort. Perhaps you are one of the practical, level-headed, unemotional men who never get excited and overwrought over anything, and who can no more work themselves up into a state of hysteria over a woman than they can over a business deal.

Their feet are always on the ground. They always see people as they are. No matter how fond they are of a woman, they never deceive themselves into thinking she is an angel. Nor do they have palpitations when she comes into a room or grow hot and cold at the sound of her footsteps. They are simply not built that way. But because they do not experience all of these symptoms of the tender passion does not indicate that they are not in love in the very best and truest sense of that loosely used term.

It makes so many other people who are deeply attached to some woman or man, whom they admire and respect and find congenial, doubt their love because they are not filled with thrills.

But at all events when a man is past 50 he is too old to start out to hunt for thrills. They belong to youth, not to middle age, and the fiftyish are no more subject to them than they are to the diseases of childhood.

DEAR MISS DIX—Should a young lady of 17 wear trunks and shorts on the streets and on highways where she thumbs rides of any one passing in trucks or cars? Should she go to the home of a man living alone and spend the day with him? Should she ignore men's wives and pay all of her attention to the husbands? Should she ask men to let her go with them on trips to a nearby town? Should she pick at men's clothes and run her hands in their pockets? Her mother says she is such a child and pays no attention to what she does. Is her mother right? X. Y. Z.

ANSWER:

"No!" To all of these questions, I should say that neither the mother nor the girl has any sense of modesty or propriety.

Dance of Friday Night Club Successful Event

The annual Friday Night Club dance, held in the Y.M.C.A. Gymnasium on Friday night, was again one of the most successful parties of Peterborough's social season. Lending their patronage for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Roper, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Garner, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Salmonsen, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Cummer.

Red, blue and gold were the colors used on the walls of the gymnasium, and at each end of the room the club initials, F.N.C., were outlined against a background of blue, gold, and red. Streamers of red and blue draped from the centre light swayed above the couples who whirled to the music of Jerry Wooll's orchestra. The spot dance prize, presented by Mr. H. L. Garner, was won by Miss Dorothy McDowell and Mr. Eric McKinstry.

At midnight lunch was served in the banquet hall at tables made gay with fragrant spring flowers. Lunch was catered for by the Porter S. White Company.

Present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Comstock, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Bradshaw, Mr. and Mrs. G. Rishor, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Elliott, and the Misses L. Magee, Bernice Leonard, Irene Torpy, Rita Locky, Doris Skinner, Ethel Brownlie, Isobel Millekin, D. Finnie, Pat McCarrell, G. Hamilton, A. McKenzie, Loreen Wellwood, Frances Wolfe, B. McMillan, Ridgeway, Roma Reid, Madge McFarlane, Dorothy Morrow, Dorinne Elliott, Viva Shearer, Janet Young, Ruth Henderson, Leona McMillan, B. Edmunds, Margaret Lancaster, T. Roche, Marion Ovens, Junetta Jennings, Adele Picard, Dorothy Lipsett, Dolly Sproat, Doreen Ferguson, Muriel McCarrell, Elsie Girven, Dorothy McDowell, Ethel Easton, Doris Griffith, Betty Richardson, Bernice Weart, Muriel Stenson, Pat Lynch.

Messrs. R. Latimer, C. Cruikshanks, R. O. Benson, M. Banks, Eric Shiner, Eric Douglas, Cliff Boate, G. Morrow, R. Booth, S. Curry, G. H. Sedgewick, G. McIntyre, Jack Sackville, Lloyd E. Richards, H. Mrs. H. A. Shearer Hostess To W. I.

Mrs. H. A. Shearer was hostess to the Halls Bridge branch of the Women's Institute Tuesday evening. Mrs. Howard Pearson presided, and some twenty-nine members and visitors were present. The responses to the roll-call, "A Law We Would Enforce," were many and varied.

The treasurer reported a balance on hand of over $37, and the secretary read a bright and newsy letter from a former member, Miss E. Evans, now living at Kirkland Lake.

Plans were completed for the banquet to be held in March, and the bazaar material was distributed. Miss Viva Shearer gave the current events for the months, and Mrs. S. Wood her talk on the "Care of Clothing,' giving many useful helps and hints in laundering, and a practical demonstration of mending and darning.

Mrs. Galvin Dunford, convener for legislation, took charge of the program.

In keeping with the topic, Mrs. Wellie Pearson gave a splendid paper an "Herr Hitler," the poverty of his younger days, his sudden rise to power, and his overweening ambition for Germany, and all things German. Miss Wilkinson read a poem, entitled "Our Outlook on Life." A duet, "Drifting," by Mrs. H. A. Shearer and Mrs. Bruce Hall, and a contest, "Prominent Statesmen of the Day," conducted by Mrs. W. Pearson, concluded this part of the program, after which the hostess and her assistants served a delicious lunch.

New Words Are Given Old Tune

New words for one of the most beautiful Celtic melodies—the Londonderry air—have been written by Lady Londonderry.

For years she has been keenly interested in Celtic folklore, and she was inspired to write the verses when staying at her Irish home, Mount Stewart, in County Down.

The words were heard for the first time at the first Celts and Scots night on February 3 at the Queen's Hall, London.

This poetess's lyrical gift will be a revelation to many people. The lines have an almost uncanny beauty. Taking as her theme an old Celtic legend somewhat similar to Tristan and Isolde, she calls her work 'The Love Tangle of Emer, Cuchulain and Saud."

The song has several stanzas, each group taking the form of a lament. Only a selection of the verses was sung on this occasion, as the whole poem is a very long one.

It starts with Emer's lament, with its haunting line "Ochoin, Ochoin, my dearest, ever dear one." Emer is in love with Cuchulain. Saud, the King, "casts his Elfin spell between them," and the song ends with Cuchulain's lament: "Needs must I desire thee whilst I breathe. Yet must I go, and going, darkly grieve."

The Celtic function links up the old and the new in Celtic music and dance, poetry and art. The earliest examples of tradition dances were seen side by side with modern interpretations of pipe tunes and Burns' poems in mime and movement.

200 Guests Attend Normal "At Home"

Some two hundred guests entered into the spirit of the colorful and festive atmosphere that prevailed at the Peterborough Normal School last night, when the 1938-9 students entertained the staff, the critic teachers and other friends at their annual "At Home."

Much thought had apparently been given the matter of the Valentine decorations for the occaion and the result was a scene of gaiety and good taste.

Receiving were Dr. and Mrs. J. Bannister, Miss Marion R. Rannie, Miss Muriel Arkles, president of the Literary Society, Milburn Jones, vice president, Donald Goodfellow, president of the fall executive, Miss Olive Parrington, vice-president. Following the reception, the guests were entertained in the Assembly Hall with a very fine program.

On behalf of the Literary Society, Miss Arkles welcomed the large assembly in gracious words mentioning especially the representatives of the city churches, the critic staff and the visiting students from Hamilton Normal School. The president also expressed the regret of the Student body at the absence through illness of the dean of women, Miss Olga Johnston.

Mr. W. L. Stricker of the Peterborough-Hamilton Normal staffs, was called upon to introduce the Hamilton contingent which included Misses Smith and Clarke and Mr. Jones, the latter bringing greetings from his school and excluding an invitation for a return visit.

In his address, the principal Dr. Bannister added his word of welcome and spoke of the many changes which had taken place in the personnel of the staff during the last year, introducing the two new members, Miss Johnson and Mr. Roberts. Two well-acted plays featured the program. The first, an appropriate Valentine play had but two speaking parts, the "teacher" taken by Rita Butler and the "old man" by R. Farron.

The shadow play "Hiawatha" was a fine bit of pantomime, depicting the lovely Indian romance in Hiawatha's wooing of Minnehaha. These four characters were played with fine effect by Isabel Gee, Lillian Anderson, Ralph Welsh and Homer Walters. In keeping with the theme of this play were the beautiful Indian love songs "Onaway Awake" and "The Land of the Sky-blue Waters" sung by Maurice Park with Gwen Craw accompanying at the piano. Beautiful harmony was achieved in the three-part chorus contributed by the Girls' Glee Club, directed and accompanied by Miss Rannie.

Two very delightful piano solos were the offering by Miss Lillian Anderson who played "The March Wind" and Arnold Bates a student of '36 class, who gave a fine rendering of the popular "Silly Symphony". To the strains of a lively orchestra, the students and their guests enjoyed dancing, while others were entertained with games.

With Hooper's catering, delicious refreshments were served in the library from tables artistically done in Valentine colors and centred with red Darwin tulips.

Branch Notes

ALL SAINTS' BRANCH

About fifteen of the members enjoyed a jolly sleigh drive last Monday under the able supervision of Miss P. Hull, minister of fellowship and her committee.

Upon the return to the parish hall a short business meeting was held with the president in the chair. It was decided that Les Cavalier be the representative to the district council and that he be nominated to go to the Dominion Conference in Vancouver this spring. The branch also voted that the sum of $10 be given the council to help send a representative to Vancouver.

Very appropriate as well as delicious refreshments brought the evening to a close, these being served by the committee in charge.

ST. JOHN'S LAKEFIELD

One of the jolliest parties ever held by the A.Y.P.A. and their friends was held at the home of Major and Mrs. Mason on Tuesday evening. About fifty were present and spent the evening in playing games, dancing, and cards. The prize-winners for cards were: ladies' first, Miss M. Hampton; gentleman's first, C. Armstrong; ladies' consolation, Miss Odelle Watson; gentleman's consolation, George Chappell. Miss E. Young supplied the music for dancing and the younger members certainly enjoyed themselves to the full extent.

Valentine hats and streamers given to the dancers added much to the gaiety of the party. While refreshments were being prepared Mrs. Groombridge of Peterborough rendered some very beautiful solos which were appreciated by all present. During refreshments Rev. R. Howden presented the prizes for euchre and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Major and Mrs. Mason, Miss Young, Mrs. Groombridge and Mr. G. Loosemore who had helped so much to make the evening such a sucess. Mr. Loosemore then gave Valentine favors to a number present, each prize being for some amusing reason. The party broke up about midnight, everyone expressing their enjoyment over such an enjoyable and successful evening. The committee in charge wish to thank all those who so kindly supplied transportation to and from the village.

ST. JOHN'S BRANCH

Business was the order of the meeting on Wednesday night. Fred Ford, president, presided. It was decided to produce a musical show and Mrs. Ena Morley, dramatic convener, was given power to appoint a committee and procure a producer and to develop and produce the show. During Lent the meetings will commence after the church service at 8.30 o'clock. Next Wednesday a fireside evening is planned.

ST. LUKE'S BRANCH

The annual Valentine party of St. Luke's A.Y.P.A. was held on Thursday evening in the parish hall when the branch had as its guests St. George's A.Y.P.A. The program was in charge of the four group leaders, Art Sayers, Ralph Mason, Mrs. F. Curtis and Miss Jessie Bell and had plenty of variety. One and all joined in the fun and enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

Refreshments were served to about sixty after which an hour's dancing was enjoyed including an old-time square. Mrs. Foster supplied the music for the evening. Rev. Mr. Floyd of St. George's expressed the thanks of that branch to St. Luke's for the splendid evening and congratulated St. Luke's on winning the district stunt night trophy. Mr. Pammett expressed the pleasure of the branch in having St. George's as guests and extended an invitation for them to come anytime.

How to Make a Splendid Cough Remedy at Home

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really splendid medicine for bad winter coughs. It makes a real saving for you, because it gives you four times as much cough remedy for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is a very effective, dependable, quick-acting cough remedy for the whole family. Quickly, you feel its penetrating effect in the air passages. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You'll be more than delighted with its quick effect in clearing up bad coughs.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, a well known and reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

WORK BEING WELL DONE

The teaching of music in Peterborough county compares favourably with any other part of the province, Roy Fenwick, director of music in Ontario schools said Friday. He said the work is being carried on satisfactorily and efficiently.

WIND CLIPS STACK

Wind blew of ftwenty feet of the smoke stack at the gas plant, and bounced it off the roof. The blast was reported around four o'clock this morning. Harry Beal, manager, said the damage to the plant was slight, but the stack will have to be repaired.

FOUR FEET OF FROST

Frost lies four and a half feet below the surface of George street, workmen discovered when they drilled down to lay a water line to the new Centre theatre. This is a greater depth than would be found anywhere snow was allowed to stand all winter. City streets are kept clear of snow, allow frost to penetrate further into the ground below.

WOMEN CRITICS.

Women theatre goers are adding their voices to the clamor demanding that other women who wear hats with long quills remove their hats while sitting in a theatre, so that those in the seats behind may have an unobstructed view of the screen. Some women contend the feathers which are set at an angle do not interfere, but others maintain this type is the worst because the feather seems to flit across the screen every time the lady wearing it, moves her head.

IS RETIRING.

George W. Stenton, meter reader for the Utilities Commission for many years, will be retired on pension on March 1st. A letter from the insurance company which carries the pension fund, a self-contributing arrangement, indicated Stenton would reach retirement age on March 1st and the Commission decided he would retire then.

WOULD BUY GAS PLANT.

A. J. Smith of Masquokets, Iowa, sent a letter to the Peterborough Utilities Commission, asking if they wished to sell the gas works. He also asked for a financial statement which is being forwarded to his address.

SAFETY BADGES.

Five car and truck drivers with the Utilities Commission will attend a safety convention to be held in Toronto on February 24th. The men will represent the Utilities drivers and will receive safety badges from the Ontario Safety League, indicating they have driven the required number of miles without an accident.

Gilbert Solmes Is Observing 92nd Birthday

Gilbert C. Solmes, pioneer of Limerick township in Hastings county and now residing at 588 Bolivar street in this city celebrates his 92nd birthday to-day. He moved from near Madoc into Limerick township with his parents when the entire population of the township consisted of five persons.

He had no schooling, can neither read nor write, but successfully operated his farm until retiring twenty years ago. In his younger days he drove the river and worked in the woods as a lumberjack. Mr. Solmes is one of the many old timers who believed in the formula that fresh air and vigorous exercise tended to good health, and he was never ill until four years ago, when he suffered from a cold for a week. During the past two years, advanced age has sapped his strength, but he is still in fair health.

He as six other daughters and two sons, as follows: Mrs. E. Moore, Mrs. R. Henry, Mrs. W. Jarvis, Mrs. E. McEwen, Mrs. G. Quackenbush, all of Peterborough, and Mrs. W. Harker of Belleville. The two sons are Howard Solmes of Toront cand P. B. Solmes of Detroit. There are 48 grandchildren and 25 great grandchildren.

Car Strikes Bus

Damage estimated at around $80 was done to a car driven by W. E. Gorman of Campbellford Friday afternoon when the vehicle smashed into the rear-end of a city bus driven by William Hunt.

The accident happened on Lansdowne street as both vehicles were travelling east. The bus stopped at Maude Street for passengers and Gorman was unable to stop his machine before it crashed into the back of the bigger vehicle. The front of the Gorman car was considerably damaged but the driver escaped without injuries.

Filmland's 'Tough Guy' Plays

This is one of the few times Victor McLaglen, famous tough guy of the screen, has been photographed with his two children. They are Sheila, 15, and Andrew, 17. Victor has regular workouts with his son and daughter in their 12-acre model farm at La Canada, near Hollywood. Kangasoos and Australian bears are among the pets on the strange farm.

Madoc Neighbors Honor Allen Family

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Feb. 18. — A farewell party was tendered on Tuesday evening in the Oronge Hall to Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Allen, who are leaving their lifelong home in Madoc to take up residence near Picton, Prince Edward County. Some hours were gaily spent in dancing, after which order was called and a farewell gift was given to Mr. and Mrs. Allen from friends and neighbors, who expressed great regret at parting with such good neighbors.

Pot-luck Supper.

The ladies of St. John's Anglican Guild held a most successful pot-luck supper in the Guild Hall on Friday evening. Owing to the severe snow storm many were prevented attending, but a substantial sum was added to the Guild funds.

The next monthly meeting of the branch has been postponed from Monday, February 20, so that the members can take in the performance of the Whiz-Bang Minstrels on that date. The meeting will therefore take place on the following Monday, February 27. All members are urged to attend the meeting as a silk flag will be presented to the branch by Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Merritt in memory of a brother lost in the war.

The Whiz-Bang Minstrels are appearing at the Collegiate Auditorium on Monday and Tuesday of next week and members and friends are urged to give them their strongest support. The cast and all the officers have worked very hard and given their services free so it is only fitting that success should crown their efforts. The demand for tickets has been very encouraging and evrything points to a great success. Tickets can be obtained at the Y.M.C.A. or the Legion Hall.

The Farm Problem

MONTREAL, Feb. 18 — Representatives of Maritime, Quebec and Ontario governments met in camera here to-day for "friendly discussion" of Canadian agricultural problems.

Agricultural minister Bona Dussault of Quebec, who presided over the meeting, told reporters the gathering was designed as a "preliminary step to organize agriculture affairs in our provinces."

The Rambling REPORTERS

MYSTERY IS SOLVED

"How do they keep the tank on top of the Quaker Oats from freezing "was the question a 9-year-old boy asked on Thursday as he stood with another his own age in the centre of the Hunter street bridge. The boy certainly started something, because investigation shows that in a great many homes last night, the problem was discussed, and some ingenious plans advanced. Mr. Cutting, manager of the Quaker Oats explained the method used to keep the water from freezing. Directly below the tank in the concrete building there is a battery of coil shaped steam pipes carrying live steam, and the water from the tank passes around the hot pipes in a jacket, much the same as water is heated in a home from a stove or furnace box. A two-inch intake pipe leads to the tank, and another two inch pipe is the outlet so that the water is continually circulating and is maintained at a temperature between 65 and 75 automatically. The tank holds 60,000 gallons or 300 tons of water and it costs the company, $200.00 a month to keep the water from freezing, or $1200 for the six winter months. The water in the tank feeds the sprinkler system as an emergency reservoir to maintain pressure should fire break out in the plant. Fire would melt the solder in the sprinkler cap and water would gush forth much in the same manner as a lawn sprinkler works. The reporter is grateful to the nine-year-old seeker of knowledge for starting this investigation on its way—perhaps he has another problem we can work on.—McG.

OBITUARY

MRS. ROBERT MACKLIN.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Feb. 18. — Mrs. Robert Macklin, a well-known and highly respected resident of Alnwick Township, died at her home Saturday morning after a long illness. The late Mrs. Macklin was in her early sixties, and her maiden name was Bertha Steele. The farm home is located four miles north of Roseneath on the south shore of Rice Lake.

She is survived by her husband, three daughters and six sons: Mrs. G. Wynn, Alnwick; Mrs. V. Graham, Wellman's Corners, and Miss Evelyn Macklin at home. The sons are: Frank, Cecil, Clifton and Milford, at home, Clarence of Peterborough, and George of Burnley. One brother, Albert Steele, of Fenella, and one sister, Mrs. Wilson of Michigan, also survive. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Texas Newsprint

DALLAS, Feb. 18.—(AP).—Paper made from East Texas pine was fed through the presses of the Dallas Morning News last night—a forerunner of the Texas newsprint industry.

The East Texas pine paper takes print well, as a good tear—the printers test for strength—and was described as whiter than the west coast Canadian pulp on which all the news was printed except for 2,500 special pages.

The paper came from a carload of loblolly and slash pine from the forest that will feed the Texas newsprint plant at Lufkin.

Ice Carnival Is Success At Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 18—One of the largest crowds seen in the local arena in recent years was on hand for the annual ice carnival staged by Rotarians here Friday night. Four twelve-minute hockey games formed the major attraction of the evening, while skating races and prizes for fancy costumes brought out a large number of entries.

After the scheduled events an hour of skating for everybody was held, with the Frankford Citizens' Band, under the leadership of Frank Ketcheson, providing the music.

Perhaps the most interesting and amusing event of the evening was the game for the town championship between two hand-picked teams. One was composed of those living on the West side and the other from East of the river. Fire Chief C. B. Williams captained the West-siders, who soon had the game on ice along with a number of the players, who did some fancy skating, to say nothing of falling. However, with such former T.V.L. stars as Carl Johnson and H. D. Atkinson to bolster them, the Westsiders had the edge on their opponents, despite the fact they claimed the services of Sam Flint, who still looked good material for the Oilers. C. E. Turner was the only casualty of the game when he made a perfect three point landing and received a facial injury which put him out of the contest. Other members of the two teams included such notables as Councillor Robert Bateson of Seymour township; Les Shillinglaw, well known in cheese making circles; L. J. Stover the baker; Norman (Try the Drug Store First) (first time on skates in 15 years); Brown; Hilton Beatty, Bert Taylor A. J. Armour; James Saunders, Paul Kerr, Fred Graham, R. A. Connor, Carl Sloggett and G A Ironside. The score at the gong was 3 to 1.

The future stars of hockey, the Pee Wees, battled to a scoreless tie. Harold Dunk placed his Maple Leaf and Canadian teams on the ice and they gave a lively performance and the little fellows got a big cheer from the spectators. Next came the Bantam Canadians, who rolled three goals over the line on the Americans, in a more skilled exhibition than was to be expected from the preceding team. The Midget Leafs and Americans put on a still better perofrmance, showing the results of from two to three years coaching. They stayed on their feet for the most part and literally swarmed around the ice with plenty of pep. Although most of the shots went wide of the goal, the game ended in a one-all tie.

Following are the results of the costume skating:

Boys and girls, 12 to 16—1, Frances Hendy and Josephine Nesbitt, "The Oxydol Twins"; 2, Marjorie Mills; 3, Eleanor Armour.

Judges for these events were Mrs. C. Howard Davidson, Mr. A. G. Thompson, and Mr. Bill Shaw.

Harold Dunk judged the skating races which were divided into four classes and gave the customers plenty of excitement as the entrants were evenly matched and all finished close.

The results of the races were:

Juveniles—1, Jack Tinney; 2, John Donald.

The odds were all on the relay team of Tinney, Dunk, Storie and Messenger to win from Donald, Fraser, Peloquin and Nesbitt, but the favorites dropped the stick during a transfer and lost too much ground for Tinney to overtake Donald on the final three laps.

TRACK BETTING INCREASES

Race track totalisators in England handled $27,000,000 in bets last year, an increase of $5,000,000 over 1937, and the machines made a record profit.

Is Promoted

Gordon D. Beavis, assistant manager of the Capitol Theatre leaves Sunday morning for North Bay where he has been appointed manager of the Royal Theatre. Mr. Beavis assumes his new duties next week. He will be greatly missed by the Capitol's patrons who have long appreciated the cordially obliging manner of Mr. Beavis in business relations.

H. E. Dunn Heads Threshermen

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Feb. 18.—Cecil Brown, a garage owner at Cameron, was the victim of a painful accident at Long Beach on Thursday. He was operating an ice saw, which he had built from an old auto engine, when his right foot slipped against the saw. He was badly lacerated about the knee. His clothes were also badly torn, and he narrowly escaped losing a portion of his leg.

Threshermen Meet.

H. E. Dunn of Cameron was elected president of the Eastern Ontario Brotherhood of Threshermen, which convened at Lindsay on Thursday. Delegates were present from Peterborough, Durham, Northumberland, Victoria and Haliburton counties. The other officers elected were L. C. Thompson, Bowmanville, vice-president; W. Benway, of Hillier, second-vice, and J. Lamey of Warkworth, secretary-treasurer.

Morganston Mill Is Destroyed By Fire

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, Feb. 18. — Fire which is believed to have been caused by overheated stove pipes in Thursday completely destroyed the grinding mill owned by Lorne Darling, Morganston. With the aid of the Warkworth fire engine and volunteer fire fighters they were able to prevent the general store from burning. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

TO MEET COUNCIL.

E. A. Horton, director of Unemployment Relief and Deputy Minister of Public Welfare, will be the speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon Monday. Following the engagement he will meet the city council in an informal discussion of matters pertaining to relief. The council is taking advantage of Mr. Horton's visit to the city to consult him on certain phases of the relief problem in this city.

G. S. WHITE ILL.

Peterborough friends of George S. White, barrister of Madoc, will regret to learn that he is seriously ill in the military hospital at Kingston from recurrent effects of a shrapnel wound in his right arm, a disability from the war. Mr. White was recently chosen Conservative candidate in the federal riding of Hastings-Peterboro.

Gordon Beavis Promoted To North Bay

Congratulations are being extended to Gordon B. Beavis, assistant manager of the Capitol Theatre for the past six years, who has been appointed manager of the Royal theatre at North Bay and takes over the job next Monday, February 20th.

Mr. Beavis has won a host of friends not only among the younger generation but among the business leaders in the city who have grown to appreciate hs thoroughness in all the dealings which developed during the last six years. He started as an usher at the Capitol, 11 years ago and worked under three different managers.

"He has shown marked ability at the work and has a personality that is admirably suited to theatre managing," Mr. A. E. Cauley, manager of the Capitol said to-day, in commenting on the promotion. He added that the officials of the company had become aware of Mr. Beavis' ability for some time but no opening had been available to which he might have been promoted.

The Royal Theatre in North Bay was at one time an opera house, but was renovated a few years ago, and is now one of the finest playhouses in the north country. It has a seating capacity of 750.

Failing To Shovel Walk, Man Fined

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 18 — Vernon Marks, Grand Road, is convinced that the municipal snow shovelling bylaw is quite sound. When he appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., Friday afternoon, Constable G. S. Hardy testified the accused had made the statement he had not shovelled his adjoining sidewalk in the past three years and had no intention of doing so.

Mr. Marks did not dispute the evidence but submitted the sidewalk was owned by the corporation and added there was no law which could compel anyone to work for them either with or without pay.

"I believe that the accused had the sincere belief that the municipality had not the power to pass such a bylaw," said Magistrate Langley, who assessed him the minimum fine of $2.00 and $9.00 costs.

Toronto Club Demonstrates Grace, Rhythm

Colorful in the extreme, an entrancing demonstration of grace and rhythm on skates was the carnival presented before a delighted crowd at Brock St. rink Friday night by the Toronto Skating Club, under the joint auspices of the Winter Sports Committee and the Peterborough Ski Club. Thirty members of the Toronto organization gave a delightful exhibition of their artistry on the steel blades and their performance, which featured the skill and grace of some of the finest young skaters on the continent, was a revelation to those who got their first glimpse of modern figure skating.

The visiting artists were most generous. There were twenty-two programmed numbers and in addition half a dozen encores had to be given in response to the sustained applause from the crowd. The affair was effectively staged with modernistic color effects marked in the ice surface, the walls of the rink covered with white and decorated with black silhouettes and pennants and streamer suspended from the rafter to add their measure of color to the impressive scene.

Skaters Welcomed

As a preliminary to the program the members of the Toronto Skating Club were given a warm welcome to Peterborough by Lieut.-Col. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, chairman of the Winter Sports Commtitee, who also thanked all those who had worked for the success of the carnival, Ald. R. S. Cotton, who on behalf of the mayor and council extended civic greetings to the visiting skaters and James Geraghty, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce who voiced a welcome from that body and at the same time expressed the hope that Peterborough would soon be able to welcome the Toronto skaters with rink facilities that would enable them to demonstrate their graceful art even more effectively.

Adjectives fail when it comes to telling about the program itself. There were twenty-two numbers on the list and every one of the almost two dozen proved a pleasing contribution to the program. The ensemble numbers, with the surface of the rink covered with a whirling throng of gaily dressed skaters, delighted the eye with the grace of the movements and the color of the costumes and these group offerings were thoroughly enjoyed. There were solo numbers, a dozen or so, and trio and fours exhibitions that were delightfully executed, there was some funny comedy on the steel blades by way of adding variety to the orthodox work and there were specialities that were completely successful as crowd-pleasers.

Outstanding in such a galaxy of stars of course were J. Alexander

P.C.I. SENIOR BOYS BEAT COBOURG AS GIRLS' TEAM LOSES

Junior Squad Of Locals Also Defeated

P.C.I.'s Senior Boys staggered to a 30-29 victory on their first half scoring margin, just fighting off Cobourg's desperate rally in the final minutes, but the Senior Girls and Junior Boys went down to defeat 34-31 and 34-12, in a C.O.S.S.A. Lakeshore League triple-header last night in the Cobourg gym before a good crowd.

Cobourg's Senior Boys' entry, outplayed through the first half and most of the last period, began to go to town in the dying minutes and Captain J. Lucas' four field goals all but tied it up. Cobourg's Senior Girls had to fight off a desperate last quarter, Garnet and Gray rally to squeeze out the win, but the smart junior squad outplayed P.C.I. to run wild in the last half and win going away, 34-12.

Are Too Good.

P.C.I. battled on even terms through the initial half in the Junior Boys' game with Cobourg ahead 15-5, but in the final half the winners had a 19-7 margin and were never in danger.

Deadly shooting from in and around the free throw area and better combination gave them their advantage and never after the opening minutes were they behind. Each team was guilty of fouling 12 times with Cobourg making 5 throws and P.C.I. dropping in 4 from the free throw line. Menie with 12 points and Platt with 11 were the winners' big guns and McPherson, Clarke and Scott were P.C.I.'s standouts. The teams:

Cobourg C.I (34)— Drewry (2), King (4), Mennel (12), Platt (11), Benson, Ewart (5), Wilson, Margles, Bulker, Earle.

Peterboro C. I. (12)—Clarke (2), Moore (4), Amys, Dundas, McPherson (3), Gillespie, Scott (1), Rogow (2), Kay, Moorehead, Hall.

Referee—C. Ostrander, Cobourg.

Cobourg Wins.

Cobourg's Senior Girls squad took a big first half lead and then battled off a last quarter rally to presumably win 34-31, but the score was a subject of controversy and P. C.I. may protest.. There will likely be a replay of this game.

Cobourg's Senior Boys took an early lead, but P.C.I. fought back and went ahead 20-14 at the half. They increased their lead to 28-21 with only 5 minutes left, but in the dying moments of the game Lucas, Cobourg's centre star, ran in 4 baskets, the last one with 45 seconds left to play and it was anybody's game.

Through the initial half play was hard and fast and P.C.I. shooting them long, was ahead at the half mark, while Cobourg tried to work the ball in close. As the final period wore on, play got rough and one player was banished with four fouls, four others having three each.

Cobourg made seven in 12 free throws and P.C.I. 6 in 13. Foster and Cutting with 11 points apiece, led the winners' attack, with Johnston and Gillespie starring defensively. Lucas with 18 points, Guy and Ravensdale were the best for C.C.I. The teams:

P.C.I. (30)—Centre, Foster (13); forwards, Cutting (11), Taylor; guards, Gillespie (4), Johnston (2); subs, Ferguson (2), Moorehead, Harle.

C.C.I. (29)—Centre, Lucas (18); forwards, Guy (5), Phillips; guards, Ravensdale (2), Leethom (4); subs, Thomas, McLaren, Drewry, Parkinson, Bennett.

Referee—G. Dufton, Cobourg. Umpire—P. David, Peterboro.

Strong Contingent Of Badminton Players From Coast To Contest Manitoba Cup

TORONTO, Feb. 18 — (CP). — British Columbia is expected to provide Ontario with the strongest opposition for the Manitoba Cup when the Canadian badminton tournament opens here March 1. The trophy has been put up for competition between provincial teams the past two years and won by Ontario both times.

No singles matches are played in the cup tourney. The winning province is decided on men's, ladies' and mixed doubles play with a team of eight or less, representing each province competing.

From British Columbia will come Johnny Samis, Vancouver, Canadian singles titlist last year; Dick Birch, Vancouver, 1937, Dominion champion, and Margaret Taylor and Vess O'Shea, Kelowna. Miss Taylor was Canadian singles champion in 1935 and combined with Miss O'Shea to win the 1938 Canadian doubles title at Quebec City.

Ontario will be without the services of Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., Toronto, Canadian and Ontario singles champion, who will not defend her Dominion title this year. Ontario's entries will include, however, such outstanding shotmakers as the Misses Ruth and Margaret Robertson, Ottawa, recent winners of the 1939 Ontario title; Mrs. Guy Perodeau, Ottawa; Ted Pollock, Waterloo; Jack Sibbald; Rod Phelan and Jack Storer, Toronto.

Combines Drub Campbellford 9-3 For Second Defeat In Row

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Feb. 18.—Clicking in fine style last evening at the Norwood arena, the Norwood "Combines" handed Campbellford a 9-3 drubbing, for their second straight win this week. Copping both matches by high scores, having won 6-1 in Trenton on Wednesday, the locals are making sure of a spot in the approaching Trent Valley playoffs. Forced to re-arrange their their line-up when Hagerman, high-scoring centre star, of Havelock, was called out of town this week, the club have evidently hit the right combination, scoring a total of fifteen goals in the last two starts.

Paced by Doug Brennan and Gordie Puffer the entire Norwood squad turned in a great performance, Puffer after a slow start in the first frame in which he received a bad cut over his right eye, recovered his usual scoring punch in the second and third to grab off four goals and two assists. Brennan also was right on around the nets, counting three times in the final period. Rathwell got a hand from the crowd when he scored his first goal of the season. Baker went great in the Norwood nets given fine support by R. Webb, C. Puffer, Ibey and N. Rogers, while the new recruits B. Puffer, W. Webb and Richardson show promise of becoming valuable additions to the squad before playoff time arrives.

Campbellford's second line composed of C. Couch, Free and Robinson were most effective for the visitors causing the locals plenty of trouble. Turner was good in the Campbellford nets despite the high score against him, stopping plenty during the evening, with practically no chance on the ones that got past.

The match was one of the fastest and cleanest of the season, and drew a large crowd of spectators. Only six penalties were handed out during the game, one of these a misconduct to Doug Brennan for arguing with Referee R. Ennis.

N. Rogers scored Norwood's first of the game, taking Richardson's pass from the faceoff near the Campbellford net. Phillips retaliated two minutes later on a solo effort, bursting in on Baker to pick up his own rebound from a shot which hit the boards and bounced out in front of the net. Both teams battled to break the deadlock but the period ended with the score still tied 1-1.

Gordie Puffer put the Combines out in front early in the second frame, receiving a lovely pass from brother "Chuck," to coast in on the unprotected Turner. The game really livened up at this point. Baker in particular gave a great exhibition of netminding ,stopping what seemed to be impossible shots. Ibey started the the play for Norwood's next counter, fighting his way back of the visitor's nets to hand B. Puffer a pass. The latter shot, Turner made the stop but Rathwell was johnny-on-the-spot to pick up the rebound and ram it home. R. Webb and C. Couch were chased for pushing and Brennan accompanied them with a five-minute misconduct. There was no scoring while the teams played shorthanded.

G. Puffer going in top form cleaved the Campbellford defence, drew Turner out and deposited the rubber in the cage, in a beautiful solo play for the fourth Norwood goal, shortly after Webb came back on. Puffer repeated this play two minutes later to score his third of the game and the last goal of the second period.

With a four goal lead going into the final session Norwood played the cautious type of hockey. G. Puffer continuing his scoring streak, notched his fourth counter soon after the period began on a nice passing play with C. Puffer and Rogers. Puffer broke up a Campbellford rush and got away with Brennan, who took his pass at the visitor's blueline and coasted in on goal to beat Turner. Free notched Campbellford's first tally of this frame in a scramble about the Norwood net. The visitors sent every man up in a last minute effort and Brennan notched a couple more on breakaways, Ibey assisting on the first, with G. Puffer giving him the pass for the last. C. Couch got Campbellford's final goal a minute before the period ended. R. Webb received a penalty this session for tripping C. Couch and Rogers went off together for roughing it up.

The teams:

Norwood—Goal, Baker; defence, Brennan, Webb; centre, G. Puffer; wings, C. Puffer, N. Rogers; alternates, Ibey, W. Webb, B. Puffer, Richardson, Rathwell.

Campbellford—Goal, Turner; defence, Wilkes, D. Couch; centre, Phillips; wings, Blake, Atkinson; alternates, C. Couch, Robinson, Free.

Referee—R. Ennis, Norwood.

Summary:

First Period

Norwood—N. Rogers (Richardson) 8.48
Campbellford—Phillips 8.50
No penalties.

Second Period

Norwood—G. Puffer (C. Puffer) 9.26
Norwood—Rathwell (B. Puffer, Ibey) 9.32
Norwood—G. Puffer 9.41
Norwood—G. Puffer 9.43
Penalties—R. Webb, C. Couch, Brennan (misconduct).

Third Period

Norwood—G. Puffer (C. Puffer, Rogers) 10.00
Norwood—Brennan (G. Puffer) 10.08
Campbellford—Free (Robinson, C. Couch) 10.09
Norwood—Brennan (Ibey) 10.16
Norwood—Brennan (G. Puffer) 10.24
Campbellford—C. Couch (Robinson) 10.25
Penalties—R. Webb, C. Couch, Rogers.

Hastings Juniors Beat Roseneath

HASTINGS, Feb. 18.— Hastings Juniors defeated Roseneath intermediates 6 to 4 in an exhibition hockey match here last night. The juniors were outweighed by their friendly rivals but seemed to possess faster and a better class of hockey. Roseneath, although outplayed, displayed a better passing attack than in previous appearances here this winter. Going into the third period, the score was tied at 4-all but the locals possessed the staying power. Wheeler in the Roseneath nets for the first time did a splendid job of goal tending, as did Montgomery in his usual standout performance for Hastings.

McMillan and Tucker for Roseneath seemed stars of the team and Petticrew, Phillips and Radford stood out for the locals. One fight enlivened the fray in the third period when Edwards for Hastings swung a high stick, landing on the brow of Flex McMillan, which he visibly resented by planting a couple of sound blows on Edwards' face. They both took two minuet penalties, Edwards looking visibly shaken, but he came back to finish the game.

McCoy opened scoring for Hasting on their second attack, but McMillan came in to tie it up three minutes later. Edwards was chased for tripping. Petticrew and Phillips rushed in at 16 minutes to count Hastings' second, but just a half minute later McMillan picked up a loose puck to tie it up again and ended the scoring of the period. Halstead opened scoring in the second for Roseneath but Petticrew came in on a pass from Radford to tie it up. Tucker for Roseneath made a lone rush to count Roseneath's fourth and Phillips tied it up a minute later to end scoring for the second.

Radford and Petticrew counted for Hastings in the third to put the game away for the locals.

The teams—

Hastings—Goal, Montgomery; defence, Boyle, McCoy; wings, McCarthy, Puffer; centre, Edwards; alternates, Radford, Phillips, Petticrew.

Roseneath —Goal, Wheeler; defence, Arber, Tucker; wings, Halstead, Pacey; centre, McMillan; alternates, H. Mouncey, W. Mouncey, F. Mouncey, Stickles, Smith, Anderson.

Digging up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Java Joe was moodily picking half his ham sandwich out of his molars and slurping a trifle of coffee around in a saucer when we saw him. "Grittinx, Joseph," said we, "and have you anything for publication about the late lamented senior puck series?" But Joe was in no merry mood. He grunted: "I recline to be misquoted on the matter. Too much already has been said about a minor mistake, which we all are guiltless of several times per week, and it is better to let lying dogs sleep—or something. The Peters could beat the Fryers of the airdrum any time this year and they did it, and what's more the frantics of this town knew it—so they saved themselves some fiancees by mussing the game here." Joe is the champ when words have to be mangled.

* * * * * *

We asked Java how come he was so forgiving. "I have arrived at the conlusion," his reply was, "that there are so many dictraitorships in Yurrup now that every alternative guy has the dictraitor bug and wants to be tough. So I am offsitting this to a certain decree by pushing the pacific altitude, and anyways why worry about a little mistake when the world is packed with errands and mistakes all the time?" It was most reasonable and we were quite amazed at Java Joe being so reasonable and peaceable, but we guess the "pacific" idea is a good one for any of us to have—at least once in awhile.

A Senior Puck Tilt

There will be an exhibition senior fracas here Monday eve at the Brock when the fast-stepping Post Office squad of Toronto tackles the Petes. The locals will be idle maybe a week before tearing into Kingston in the first round of their O.H.A. senior "B" playdowns. Looks like the Kingston City Club, who are now clashing with R.M.C. in group playoffs. As the Fliers beat out the City Club crew, the Petes stand an excellent chance of doing a ditto and hitting into the Ontario semi-finals. But this long delay when they're right at their peak mightn't do the locals any good. So the Petes need a game or two to keep in shape. This one Monday doesn't mean anything but ought to be a fair fray and should draw well—except for the folks who might still be sore at 'em. However, we think it's all over now (and won't happen again) so let's forget the error on the last series. Don't forget there may still be some sweet senior scraps here ere the curtain is rung down this winter.

* * * * * *

At this writing we hadn't heard when our junior "C" Monarchs would meet Bowmanville in the group semi-finals, winner to tangle with Lindsay's large Midgets. May hear today, though. Locals of course would prefer a home-and-home serial, whilst there is some chatter re a sudden-death duel. And our Colts are slated to play their last "B" schedule fixture in Oshawa on Tuesday, but 'tis said that the Oshawa arena is kept busy next week what with O.H.A. games, city loop affairs, shop games, skating and the rest. Therefore the Colts are gonna offer Oshawa a guarantee to play it here about Tuesday or Wednesday, we hear, though the Motor Citizens might say ix-nay to the deal. Anyway, both our junior squads will see heavy and croocial action the coming week.

* * * * * *

Fliers Doing Well

A dispatch states that Ernie McNeeley, ex-Trenton Flier, led the senior Ottawa puck circuit this winter in scoring with 12 goals and 10 assists, whilst large Lalonde topped the defencemen of that loop in sinking the burnt biscuit. McNeeley also led the National Defence League with 24 goals and 21 assists. Cowley and Wiggett are a couple more Fliers now in Ottawa, whilst Eric McNeeley, Legris and Lecompte will be there next year; they say there is a bit more dough in hockey down there.

* * * * * *

Following the local St. Peter's team juvenile 5-2 loss in Campbellford the other night, an item in the Lindsay Post states that the Saints have defaulted their remaining O.J.H.A. joust to Lindsay, thus leaving Lindsay and Campbellford set for group playoffs—and leaving Lakefield and the locals on the shelf. Ontario body hurried the grouping up and one tilt was rated a double-header. The Scugog squad and Hydro Town hopefuls should put up a nice scrap, and winner will proceed into O.J.H.A. playdowns. St. Peter's planned just to put on a few exhibition tussles this season, but later lined up a district juvenile group and had some good competition before their finish. It was a start and a real nifty O.J.H.A. group in this district might be arranged for next winter.

An Artistic Show

Quite a crowd of customers ankled into the Brock St. winter gardens last p.m. to see the Winter Sports Committee carnival. It was a classy affair in a gaily bedecked spot and everyone seemed satisfied with the performance. Those gals and guys from Toronto are certainly masters of the figure-skatin' blades, and well they ought to be. Practice hours for many seasons, being of the social and moneyed class—with lots of time and a real yen for this graceful art. A right good show.

* * * * * *

Three P.C.I. cage teams journeyed to Cobourg-on-the-Lake last gloaming, but only one of 'em brought back a school win. Our senior boys sweated out a 30-29 nod despite a late rain of baskets by the homesters, our senior gals dropped a 34-31 decision if the adding machine wasn't lying; and our junior boys suffered a decided 34-12 reverse. The gals' score was balled up and resulted in quite an argument — and a replay may be required. Haven't heard of the next L.O.B.A. tilts. Tonight up at the "Y" gym, these men's senior struggles are listed: Quakers vs. St. John's at seven, Dominions vs. St. Paul's at eight, and Heclas vs. C.G.E. at nine.

* * * * * *

Toronto Team Here Monday

An exhibition senior "B" hockey game has been lined up for here this coming Monday at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink between the Post Office team of the Toronto Hockey League and the Petes. The Post Office crew are a fast, experienced outfit in top shape now in their lengthy and hard schedule, while the locals are fairly flying in their past several struggles, so it should be an interesting tilt and ought to draw well. It will give an indication of the Petes' strength against outside teams with the O.H.A. playdowns nearing.

The Petes need this game to keep in top form, as they will be idle most of next week waiting for the Kingston district group playoffs to finish up. The locals easily defeated Trenton Fliers in three straight games—the last one in Belleville causing some argument here when the Petes were forced to take their home tilt away. But the Buckland bunch are in fine fettle and, with a game or two of the exhibition variety under their belts this coming week, should knock off Kingston and continue in Ontario playdowns.

Aces Defeat Lakefield In Fast Game

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 18.—Peterborough Aces came from behind to cop a narrow 6 to 5 victory from the Lakefield Legionnaires in the dying moments of a fast exhibition game fought out in the Lakefield Rink Friday night. Peterborough Aces may put a team into the Intermediate 'B' O.H.A. play-offs, and the game, to judge by the score, would make their chances in those play-offs appear pretty fair, for the Legionnaires, whom they defeated here, are standing in third place in the Intermediate "B" O.H.A. schedule at present.

The Lakefield fans evidenced no particular interest in the fete of the Peterborough Aces, for the attendance showed a marked decrease as compared with the last few regular O.H.A. fixtures. The Legionnaires have been packing the rink all season, and it may have been because the team had nothing particular at stake, that their followers were not on hand in large numbers.

Lakefield was considerably handicapped by the absence of Whitton and Jewell, two of her dependable forward line men, who, along with Blewett, make up the Legionnaires' formidable frontal attack. The Aces, too, were minus two of their regular players.

The Legionnaires ploughed right in, in the first, and did most of their scoring in the premier period. Blewett shoved in two counters and Chittick placed the third to end the initial encounter with a nice three-point lead for the Legionnaires. The peace was shattered in this session when Chappell and Deeth tangled with Wright and one of his teammates in a pleasant little exchange of blows which no doubt relieved everybody's feelings and earned for Deeth (Lakefield) and Wright (Peterborough) a respite of five minutes each in the penalty box.

A warning to the players before the second period calmed the play down a little in that session, and there was considerably less stick-raising and slashing, and more real hockey in the two later periods of the game.

Chittick got a fourth goal for Lakefield in second, and the Aces got around Junkins three times to place the score, end of second, at Legionnaires 4, Aces 3.

The Aces were allowed a penalty shot early in the third, but Junkin turned it back neatly.

Then Peterborough bore down on the Lakefield goal and after repeated attempts were awarded with a tally which tied the count at 4 all.

Burton made a neat stop when one of the visitors had broken away. He picked up the rubber and made a shot for the goal before his opponent missed the puck. But his shot missed the mark and the effort came to nought.

The Aces scored once more to leave Lakefield in the rear, and Chappell came to the rescue after he missed the goal on a long shot, by pushing in a quick tally to tie the count at 5 all.

Almost before the cheering had died down the Aces had scored again, and though the Legionnaires did their utmost, they didn't make another tally before the final gong.

Final score: Aces 6, Liegionnaires 5.

Goals for Peterborough were made by R. Cornyea (2), Mortimer (2), Hill and O'Leary. The teams:

Aces.—Goal, Currie; defence, Vitarelli and O'Leary; centre, R. Cornyea; wings, Heal and Wright. Alternates, A. Cornyea, Hill, Mortimer. Connelly.

Legionnaires.—Goal, T. Junkin; defence, Burton and Whatley; centre, Chittick; wings, Blewett and O'Leary. Alternates, Chappel, Creighton and Deeth.

Referee.—L. LeBarr.

Curling Draw For Neill Cup

In the passing of George H. Giroux the curling fraternity of the city of Peterborough and of the province of Ontario has lost a true and loyal supporter. He was, up until a few years ago, a member of our club and was one of the outstanding curlers of his day. He was a great friend and teacher to young curlers. He was a hard fighter on the ice, but off the ice he always had great words of encouragement. He was a modest winner and a generous loser. He represented our club many times in the Ontario tankard and the district cup competition.

He held every office in connection with our club and in 1910-1920 was elected president, the highest honor that can be bestowed on any local curler.

Looking over the pictures that are now hanging in our club parlors, we notice that he was on rinks that won nearly every trophy. To particularly the old timers he will be greatly missed. He was also one of the original members of the old lawn bowling club that was located on the sight now occupied by the Y.W. C.A.

He used to often drop into the rink for a chat and to talk over old times. The sympathy of all curlers is extended to Mrs. Giroux, Cyril and the remaining members of the family.

GOODYEARS ELIMINATE TARS WHILE OSHAWA BEATS CHIEFS

Toronto Outfit Forced To Play Greatest Battle Of Season With Old Goney McGowan Starring

Hockey's hall of fame could do far worse than grace its walls with a huge picture of old Goney McGowan, a great competitive player, particularly when the chips are down and the going is toughest.

A glittering figure among the youthful talent he opposed in Port Colborne last night, Goney wound up this season in a personal blaze of glory as his team, the home-town sailors, were blasted from the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" semi-finals by Toronto Goodyears. Perhaps Goney won't admit it but he's been in hockey nearly 20 winters.

Goodyears, undefeated throughout the regular league schedule, beat the Tars 5-3, but only after the greatest battle they've had this winter. The win advanced Toronto into the league finals against either Oshawa or St. Catharines. Goodyears trounced the Sailors 7-1 in the first game of the best-of-three series in Toronto Wednesday.

Tied Up Score

Joe Primeau's stalwarts led 3-0 with 12 minutes of play remaining last night when Goney began his great display of competitive spirit to tie the score at 3-3.

He broke loose at 8:20 of the third period and Lloyd Fitzgerald scored on his perfect pass. Two minutes later he broke away again and gave a pass to moustached Doug Runions for Ports' second goal.

The score came while Ports were short-handed through a penalty to Bob Morrison. The tying tally was made by Goney himself at the 14:50 mark while Russ Bowman, Toronto rearguard, looked on from penitance pew.

Goodeyars, bewildered by the great display that kept a crowd of 1,200 roaring, rallied with a sustained counter-attack that brought two goals and victory.

Meanwhile, over in Oshawa, the homesters took a one-game advantage in the other semi-final bracket by beating the tenacious St. Catharines Chiefs 5-3 in overtime. The teams battled to a 3-3 overtime tie in St. Catharines Wednesday and the third game of the best-of-three series goes on in Oshawa Monday.

Frank O'Brien, Goodyear veteran, scored two goals in Port Colborne, one in each of the first and second periods, while Johnny O'Flaherty added another before the Ports, spark-ed by McGowan, put on their inspired spurt. Only sensational work by Herbie Mortimer in the Toronto nets prevented the Tars from scoring more.

Score Tie Breaker

Bobby Laurent scored the tie-breaker for Toronto with little less than four minutes of regulation play remaining. Don Metz added another two minutes later on a pass from Shorty Robinson.

Leading 3-1 midway through the third period, Oshawa appeared headed for victory when St. Kitts emulated Port Colborne's feat of tieing the battle. Teddy Lister and Desson were the marksmen, Lister scoring on a play with Ossie Carnevale, flashy negro winger.

Just four minutes after the overtime began, Jerry Cooper scored for Oshawa. Carl Maundrell made victory certain with little more than two minutes remaining when he scored on a pass from Wee Winkie Smith.

Maundrell scored three goals during the battle in giving one of the best individual displays seen her this season. Doc Rowden, veteran rearguard, opened scoring for Oshawa in the first period.

St. Kitts first score came midway through the second period with Oshawa leading 2-0. Boyd was the marksman on a solo dash.

Lindsay Rink Is In Final Royal York Cup

TORONTO, Feb. 18. — (CP) — Unique in the 12-year history of the Ontario bonspiel, the Seagram trophy final between two curling fours which lost out in the early major events will swing the balance today for the grand aggregate prize, awarded to the rink with the greatest number of victories in the weeklong 'spiel.

The opponents are D. J. P. Kelly's Toronto Granites and H. Walker's Chatsworth quartet. It is the first time two fours in the "losers' side" of the draw have battled for the grand aggregate award.

Kell's men established themselves strong favorites last night by defeating the Walker rink 14-4 in the final of the North American Life trophy event. It was Kelly's 11th victory of the meet and he can clinch the grand aggregate by winning in the second meeting of the two rivals. Walker, however, can pull level by reversing the result this time.

Double Finalists

The rinks were the first double finalists since 1937, when Harry Howards Toronto Granites and Ed Young's Toronto Royals met in finals for both the Seagram and the North American, but no grand aggregate hung on the issue.

The task of winning the grand aggregate on the "losers' side" of the draw is made doubly hard by the fact that a team which wins its first match in the Royal York event, automatically entering the "winners' side," has a chance of playing three more games than the rink which drops its initial Royal York match, entering the "losers' side."

But Kelly and Walker ensured the departure from precedent, winning every game after their first loss, up to Walker's defeat last night. C. F. Mason's Toronto Granites, the only crew on the winning side within striking distance, dropped out of the running last night when they were eliminated 15-12 by Percy Skitch, Lindsay, in the Royal York semi-final.

Besides the grand aggregate and Seagram, two finals remain to be decided today, the Royal York and Seiberling trophies.

Three Winners Declared.

Victors in three others were determined last night, Bert Kennedy's Toronto Royal Canadians won the Birks-Ellis-Ryrie trophy 10-9 from Gar Reddon's London four in a close game that went an extra end; Kelly, the North American Life, and R. R. Evans' Hamilton Thistles, the Canada Dry consolation trophy. Evans defeated P. Gilbert of Chatham 9-8 in gaining the cup.

Alex Hayes' expert Sarnia quartet entered the finals of the main Royal trophy against P. Skitch of Lindsay by beating Dr. C. H. Brereton's Granites 17-6 in the semi-final. The game halted on the 10th end after Hays counted a five.

Final of the Seiberling trophy finds F. R. Sproule's Toronto High Parks meeting C. E. McConkey's Toronto Strathconas. Sproule eliminated A. E. Dunker 10-3 in the semi-final last night while McConkey was defeating J. M. Rothschild's Torontos 9-4.

Trents Tumble Leading Elgins

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Feb. 18—Trent River in the East Peterborough Rural League cellar, took the top place Elgin squad into camp last night at the Havelock rink by a 4-1 score. This is the Trent boys second win this week,and they have a possible chance yet of reaching the play-offs if they continue at the present rate.

Elgin, weakened by the absence of some of their star players, were no match for the winners. They were held scorless after a lucky goal in the first stanza when O'Grady shot from centre ice. Jim Brown secored for Trent River in the first on a pass from Chaplin, to even it up going into the second stanza. Wight was the goal-getter this period, placing them in the lead, and Jim Brown and Jamieson added two more in the final session.

Jim Brown was, as usual, outstanding for Trent River, with F. McLaughlin, Jamieson, Chaplin and Wight all effective, while Lumsden, O'Grady and Goalie Preston went best for Elgin.

The teams:

Trent River: Goal, Runions; defence, Wight, Elliott; centre, Chaplin; wings, F. McLaughlin, Jim Brown; alternates, A. Brown Jamieson, Parcells, Jack Brown, Vanvolkenburk.

Elgin: Goal, E. Preston; defence, O'Grady, J. Richardson; centre, Lumsden; wings, G. Richardson, J. Preston; alternate, C. Preston.

Referee, R. Umphrey, Trent River.

Summary:

First Period
Elgin—O'Grady.
Trent River—Jim Brown (Chaplin).
Penalty—Wight.
Second Period
Trent River—Wight.
Third Period
Trent River—Jim Brown.
Trent River—Jamieson (A. Brown).

Mic-Macs Whip Trenton Squad By 6-4

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Feb. 18. — The Madoc-Marmora Mic-Macs defeated the Trenton hockey team by a score of 6-4 in a T.V.L. feature here on Friday night. By virtue of this win the Mic-Macs step forward six points in the league leadership since Campbellford, the second place team, suffered a setback at the hands of the Norwood team.

Trenton, strengthened by a full forward line from the Junior O.H.A. team, took their defeat fighting to the last bell. This was one of the fastest and best games of the season, but unfortunately was supported by a very poor crowd of spectators.

Madoc started the ball rolling when Loveless took Kerr's pass to chalk up the first count. Heyworth counted on Alexander's pass, when the defence was drawn to a corner, no one covering the net.

Trenton's first count came when Anderson backhanded one from deep in the corner. On the next play Loveless got his second count from Johnston on a pass-out from the corner ,the puck netted as Loveless was flattened.

One minute from the faceoff in the second period Akey took Heyworth's pass to make it four for the Mic-Macs. Both teams indulged in a ganging act, before Lott worked his way from behind the Madoc net, drew the goalie, and counted Trenton's second goal.

Anderson brought Trenton up again when he slithered round the defence to pick the lower corner for the count of three.

After four minutes of play in the third, Akey drifting through the defence to push the rubber between Steenburg's feet. Loveless made the final count for Madoc when Hall drew the defence to slip him the pass.

The only penalty of the game came at this point when Haffey of Trenton used his knee to stop a play.

The game was handled by O'Malley of Frankford and V. Jack of Madoc.

The teams:

Trenton — Goal, Steenburg; defence, Cain, Haffey; centre, Ingles; wings, Anderson, B. Johnston; alternates, N. Johnston, Heeney, Lott, Hood.

DIED

COLLINS, Charles Durham. — On Friday, February 17, 1939, at the Kitchener - Waterloo Hospital, Charles Durham Collins, beloved husband of Anna Laing, and son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Collins of Peterborough, in his 66th year. The funeral will be held from his residence, 224 King street south, Waterloo, on Saturday, at 3 p.m. Interment in Woodland Cemetery.

MARTYN, Mrs. Sarah Jane. — In Lakefield, Saturday morning, February 18, 1939. Sarah Jane Manning, widow of the late J. W. Martyn and daughter of the late Samuel J. Manning and Nancy Cowan, in her 96th year. Funeral service at the residence of Stanley Windsor, Ermatinger street, Lakefield, on Monday, at 1.30 p.m. Interment in Port Hope Cemetery. Port Hope paper please copy.

IN MEMORIAM

GROTTICK.—In fond remembrance of our dear daughter, Gladys Ivy Whitworth, who passed away February 18, 1930.

You are not forgotten, loved one,
Nor will you ever be.
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.
—Ever remembered by Mother, Dad and Sisters.

GROTTICK. — In fond and loving memory of my granddaughter, Gladys Ivy Whitworth, who died February 18, 1930.

The passing years can never change
My thoughts of you so dear,
Fond memories linger every day
Remembrance keeps you near.
—Lovingly remembered by her grandmother, Mrs. G. Wilkinson.

WATSON. — In fond and loving memory of Mrs. C. M. Watson, who died February 19, 1937.

Your last parting wish we would like to have heard
And breathed in your ear our last parting word;
Only those who have lost are able to tell
The pain in the heart at not saying farewell.
—Ever remembered by his Wife, daughter Ada, son-in-law, three grandchildren.

MORE ABOUT—
Toronto Club

McKechnie, this year's junior Canadian single champion whose performance stamped him as a most promising young skater who seems to be pointing straight to higher honors, and the senior Canadian champion pair, Miss Nora McCarthy and Ralph McCreath, whose work in their medley duet number was most brilliantly executed and captivated the audience to such an extent that an encore had to be given. Another artist who shared the limelight with these champions was Miss Audrey Miller who almost stole the show with her spectacular medley numbers.

A feature was the work of the four, Miss Ruth Hall, Miss Gillian Watson, Donald Gilchrist and J. Alexander McKechnie who gave a convincing demonstration of how they won the Canadian championship and the Connaught Cup this winter. Others who scored heavily in solo numbers were Miss Shirley Halstead, Miss Margaret Leslie, former Canadian junior champion, Miss Christine Newson while Miss Norah McCarthy, last year's Canadian junior ladies' champion and a member of this year's senior Canadian champion pair was sensational in her performance, having to respond to an encore. Don Gilchrist, runner up for the junior Canadian championship, also scored heavily.

Comedy numbers by Trevon Owen and R. Swan provided an amusing interlude, the pair introducing a very funny skating lesson act while in the second part of the program Owen came back to do a drunk act on skates that was a scream.

Music for the skating was effectively furnished by the band of the Prince of Wales Rangers which also supplied an enjoyable musical program before the carnival started.

This year's junior ladies' champion, Miss Theresa McCarthy, was prevented by illness from taking part in the program and in her place Miss Ruth Hall and J. C. Eastwood contributed a pair number that was splendidly done

Inside Sportin' Dope
by A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor

Well Mac, I suppose some of the customers is still trying to figger whether them or the fliers got the worst runner-around this week but that oughta be easy. The Airmen win by a city block in that respect because they're all through and washed up for the year while the fans has gone some other games to look forward to, if, as and when.

They're Fast Workers

Anyway you gotta give this senior team credit. When they went into this play off serious they didn't fool—3 games 3 wins and you can't make it any quicker than that. They was a lotta birds was figgering out that the boys mightn't maybee try very hard in that 3rd game at Belleville but instead the Buckaroos simply went down to the Quinte town and skated so fast that the flyers must have thought enemy pursuit planes was buzzing by them. 9 to 4 was the count when the last polling subdivision was heard from and the Trenton lads was a well-licked outfit by that time. Incidentally anybody what only saw the game in Peterborough in which the Flyers was allowed to run loose and they give the home lads a neat shellacking must be scratching their heads trying to figger out how the Petes could come back and trim them 3 in a row in the playoffs.

The secret is Ma., is the Airmen has a lot of class and finesse when they're allowed to run wild but close checking by a team that can skate faster than they can hog ties them and that is just what happened in the serious with Peterborough.

The lads has to wait around for a while for a opponent in the next round. It is to be hoped they can keep the edge on until that time.

Juniors Fifty-Fifty

Our juniors teams had split 50-50 this week old timer. The Colts, after beating Oshawa here the week before and evening things all up stepped into a door or something here the other night when the team they had walloped 6 to 2 the last time out came into town and breezed away with a win. Several of the Oshawans looked right smart while the Colts on the other hand couldn't do a thing right. Everything they tried went bloole and it was the worst exhibition they have give all season. It isn't exactly the right time to stage such a exhibition and it may end in the Colts retiring for the season.

The Kids Go On

The Monarchs on the other hand battled themselves into a playoff birth by nosing out Cobourg one goal and one point in the group standing but it was close figgering. Mister Vitarelli's lads had to come from behind and they did not tie the thing up until the game was almost over. But they had fight enough left to go out there and grab the winning goal in overtime. The Monarchs will do battle with Bowmanville in the group playoffs.

Well that seems to be about the works so cheerio

Sportfully Yours

BIG BOWEL worst offender!

Make Sure Your Laxative Works Where Body Waste Jams-up

In most cases, the constipation that makes you dull, draggy and headachy occurs in the big bowel (marked X), right where body waste has travelled almost to the point where bowels should m-o-v-e.

To help you fast, a laxative should work where the waste has jammed, without upsetting the rest of the bowel tract.

Doses like calomel do most of their work on the other end of the bowels, more than 20 feet away! Salts flush from end to end, often leaving you weak and worn-out. Oils act chiefly on the small intestine.

But, Chocolate Flavor Cascarets work on the big bowel where body waste commonly piles-up! They move it those last few inches, bringing blessed relief overnight! Chocolate Cascarets can do this because they contain cascara, said to give nearest to natural action of any cathartic, which acts to cleanse the big bowel in 10 to 12 hours!

See how much better you feel after this local method of constipation relief. Get Chocolate Cascarets now. Each foil-wrapped, chocolaty tablet is a gentle, effective dose. Children especially will take Chocolate Cascarets willingly because of their fine milk chocolate taste. All druggists, or write Dept. P-2, "Cascarets," Windsor, Ont., for free sample.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

THREE SUITS TO AVOID

WHEN THE DECLARER had bid two suits and his partner another, those are usually three suits to avoid when selecting your opening lead against a slam from a more or less worthless hand. If you lead the dummy's suit, you are likely to help set it up early for discards. If you lead either of the declarer's, you may put an honor of your partner's under the hammer. You are generally better off in this spot to lead the unbid suit, especially if your partner had bid it, regardless of whether or not the declarer or his partner later made a cue-bid of it indicating a probable blank.

East opened third-hand on this deal with 1-Heart, South bid 1-Spade, West passed, North bid 2-Clubs, South 3-Diamonds, then West 3-Hearts, making it perfectly clear that he had a fine fit but a generally bad hand, since he had passed on his first chance to help the suit. North next called 4-Clubs, East passed, and the very aggressive bidder in the South now saw a chance to try for a top score in the duplicate in which they were playing. He made a cue-bid of 4-Hearts.

North thereupon made a preference bid between South's suits, 4-Spades, and South went to 6-Spades. West fell for South's stratagem. Deciding that South was probably void of hearts, he fumbled around among the other suits and then decided upon the diamond 7. As a consequence South made a grand slam. The diamond J brought the Q and A. A spade to the K was followed by the club A, discarding the heart 5, and the rest of the tricks were trumps and diamonds.

If there had been some other suit which neither North nor South had bid, West might have been justified in being frightened away from hearts by the cue-bid, but not when every other lead seemed bad anyway, from the bidding.

Support Given Local Musicians To Wane In The Future Ontario Director Of Music Says

Music is not a particularly attractive vocation, according to Roy Fenwick, director of music for the department of education in Ontario, he told members of the Kiwanis Club at their luncheon meeting on Friday.

He said that more and more the production of music will, in future, become the province of a limited group of specialists. Reasons for this he claimed to be the radio and electrical recordings. People will not support musicians when they can hear the best in the world by merely turning a dial, he said, and in future he looked to an ever-increasing task on the part of any city to support symphonic orchestras.

Training Essential

But it did not follow that he believed musical training is not essential to school children. Far from it, he believed it has an overwhelming significance and is a means whereby the entire level of the country may be raised and people in general become more happy.

Music is a part of everyone's life, he said. Everyone responds to music in some way, although unfortunately in too many cases that response is superficial, signifies no message. Music has essentially a spiritual significance but that significance is for only those who understand it. "There is a mystic power to good music, that awakens deep emotions and brings to life latent spiritual powers buried beneath the casual consciousness of everyday life," he said.

Understanding of an art as great as music comes only after years of study, he declared. Its appreciation must commence in the public schools, where pupils can be exposed to its influence for upwards of thirteen years. "If music does not carry over into the remainder of life, and it most certainly does, even then I would still say its teaching in schools is justified because of the results at the time."

Teaching Justified

Sometimes the teaching of music is justified on the grounds it is a vocation, or that it trains the mind, or improves speech, or that it is a recreation, or disciplinary, or that it gives poise, or aids good health by demanding proper breathing and posture. While all of these are true, nevertheless the true value of music lies in none of them, he said. "The true value of music lies in its power to awaken love of the beautiful, to lift oneself from his surroundings, to give him a means of self expression and a safe outlet for his emotions, an occupation in his leisure time, and a life of activity for a few."

Outlet For Emotion

Music, he said is a safe outlet for emotion. Too often training of the intellect is stressed when actually a great portion of one's life is guided by emotion. That emotion should be trained the same as the intellect, he maintained.

"If in the days of our grandfathers it was sufficient to train children in the tree R's, that is not enough today," he said. Today school must also train youth in the three C's, he said, defining them to be character, citizenship, and culture.

Music in the schools should raise the level of apreciation of music, largely through participation; should discover and encourage talent, he said. For the first he advocated that pupils be taught to sing, to listen, and to sing at sight. For the second he was in favor of their participation in choral singing, in orchestras and bands.

"We all know that material things such as physical health, food, shelter, clothing and reasonable security for the future do not by themselves bring happiness," Mr. Fenwick said. "A proper and complete system of education, then, must not only develop power to achieve material success, but must provide for those things which are not material, but which are none the less real, and without which life is empty. We require the ability to adapt ourselves to our environment, to live amicably with our fellows, to acquire mental poise, to discriminate between good and evil, beauty and ugliness, to develop talents which may satisfy our craving for self-expression, emotional release, and give us resource within ourselves to enjoy our leisure hours. The department of education for Ontario is introducing a course of study attempts to provide for this by emphasizing not only health, English and arithmetic, but also social studies, natural science, music and art.

Young People Hold Rally At Centreville

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CENTREVILLE, Feb. 18. — Miss Marian Earle was hostess to a largely attended meeting of the Young People's Society of Centreville Presbyterian Church on Tuesday evening. Being St. Valentine's Day the home was artistically decorated in spirit with the occasion. The president, Margaret Larmer, presided for the business period. It was agreed to contribute $15 for missions. Smith McCutcheon was appointed service convener in place of Grace Johnson, who resigned that office on acount of illness.

Delegates were appointed to attend the Presbterial Rally of Y.P.S. in St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, on February 25. It was decided to visit the Y.P.S. of Bensfort on March 1. On motion of Allie Berry and Phyllis Larmer, a hearty vote of thanks was given to Mr. and Mrs. Earle, Marian and Allan for their hospitality.

Marian Earle, worship convener, presided for the program. Following a hymn, Gordon Muspratt read the Scripture lesson, and Joy Whittington led in prayer. Smith McCutcheon gave a devotional reading, after which Allie Berry and George Berry gave a fine duet. Rev. D. A. McKenzie gave an address on "The Challenge of the Twentieth Century to Young People." Dick Hutchison had charge of the games and recreation period.

Dainty refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday evning, Fbruary 21, at the home of William Belch.

Robust Health For Young People

What a common sight it is to see a young person whose bloodless face and feeble frame are evidence of poor circulation and weakness where bounding health and rosy cheeks should reign.

Young people in such a condition are generally of an anæmic nature and require a preparation containing iron to help improve the blood content.

Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills meet this requirement, as they contain three concentrated forms of iron of an easily assimilated nature together with other valuable ingredients indicated for building up the system strengthening the nerves, and adding to your physical attraction.

W.A. Sleighing Party Held At Janetville

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Feb. 18.—H. Blatherwick provided a treat in the form of the first sleigh ride of the season for some twenty members of the Women's Association when they attended the February meeting of the above society at the Blatherwick farm home north of the village, on Wednesday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. R. J. Burn, was in the chair, and during the business session it was decided to hold the second crokinole party of the series on Thursday evening, February 23.

Arrangements were also made to hold an Irish supper and concert in the church on Friday, March 17, when Mrs. Oswald McGill and Mrs. E. A. Bradburn were appointed in charge of the program, and Mrs. Bury and Mrs. Brunt as a committee to arrange suitable decorations.

"Joseph's Coat" will be passed to all members of the congregation during the month to which contributions of money will be sewn under patches of many colors.

Mrs. J. Howe and Mrs. S. Stinson will be the conveners of the program for the March meeting.

Seventeen members paid fees and during the program which followed Mrs. J. Thornton gave a splendid paper on "The Life of a Christian."

A social half-hour concluded the meeting when lunch was served by Mrs. Blatherwick and her assistants. The vote of appreciation to the host and hostess as well as those assisting with the program and lunch was voiced by Mrs. M. Armstrong and Mrs. Bury.

Attempted Campbell Escape Said Hoax

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 18—It was learned from a reliable source here today reports current in Toronto that Oscar Campbell, serving a term in Kingston Penitentiary for bank robbery, had attempted to escape were incorrect.

It also was ascertained Campbell is not in solitary confinement, as had been reported, and that the bars of his cell were not found sawn through. It was stated the only cell bars are those of doors leading to the tier of cells. The only other exit is through the cell dome, and it was said it would be almost impossible for a prisoner to escape in that manner.

MADOC

Miss Laura I. Ross of Toronto spent the weekend in Madoc at the home of Mrs. A. Kincaid.

Miss Audrey Ellis of Peterborough was a weekend visitor in Madoc.

Messrs. A. Broad and K. Kincaid spent the weekend with Mrs. A. Kincaid.

Mr. George S. White, barrister, who has been seriously ill for several days, was taken Tuesday to Kingston General Hospital for treatment.

Madoc Women's Institute held their annual reunion on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. George Hill. Several tables of bridge were played, Mrs. Burris and A. Dymond being the winners of the prizes. Two tables of euchre were played and other visitors were entertained at crokinole. Euchre prize-winners were Mrs. A. Smith and F. Maynard. Crokinole winners were Mrs. R. Wickham and J. M. Reid. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Phillips and Mr. Warren Hill furnished several musical numbers during the supper hour.

St. John's Ladies' Guild at their weekly meeting in the Guild Hall held a very special and interesting birthday party on Tuesday afternoon, celebrating the birthdays of two of their members, Mrs. E. C. Tufts and Mrs. Charles Hart. Afternoon tea with a special birthday cake and candles were served at the close of the working session.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Feb. 18.— Residents of the Township of Tyendinage, are being kept busy these days keeping the wolf literally from their doors. Looking out of his windows early Tuesday morning, Connel Barnhart started in surprise when he saw a large wolf running through a nearby field. Seizing his rifle, he started in pursuit but the animal had slunk into some heavy underbrush and eluded him.

It is believed by some residents that the animal which has been noticed several times recently, may be the mother of the nine wolf cubs killed recently by Delbert Reid, Tyendinage hunter, who discovered the cubs in an abandoned porcupine den near Wyman's Bridge, northwest of Marysville, while Hunting. Attracted possibly by the scent of the pelts that are now drying in the woodshed of Reid's home, the wolf has been loitering in the vicinity in order to be near or regain her offspring.

Othe residents are of the opinion that the animal is one of a pack that having exhausted their food supply in the northern woods have been driven south by hunger. Motorists travelling in the district north of Marysville state that nightly the weird howl of the wolves can be plainly heard.

3 Months For Theft.

Manson Fitzgerald, 24 year old Milltown youth, was sentenced to serve three months in the common jail after being convicted of the theft of twelve chickens, when he and two alleged accomplices appeared before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., in weekly police court. The two others appearing on the chicken theft charges were Thomas Brant, 19, and Lawrence Brant, 20. The Brants were sentenced to ten days in the common jail, to date from the time of thier arrest one week ago. The dozen chickens stolen were the property of Mr. Percy Moore, Tyendinage, and were recovered by Provincial Constable W. E. Smith in a Milltown barn during his investigation, which led to the apprehension of the trio.

As Fitzgerald was the ring leader in the case, and was on probation at the time of arrest, he was given a more severe sentence. He had a long previous record ranging from theft to intoxication.

Fined $1 and Costs.

Gerald Courneyea, Tamworth, appeared on a charge of failing to produce his drivers' permit and was fined one dollar and costs. On a subsequent charge of reckless driving, however, the case was enlarged for one week, pending an amendment to the latter charge.

The charges arose out of an accident, which occurred in Marysville recently, and during which a man named Meagher was injured while in the accused man's car.

Cleaning Out Stoco.

Co-operation in assisting to remove undesirable fish from Stoco Lake, and to provide steel nets during the spawning season was promised the Tweed Fish and Game Club, when a delegation of that organization interviewed the Honorable Harry Nixon, of the Provincial Department.

The club will furnish all labour while the department will furnish a man who will be in charge of all operations.

C.C.F. Ask War Goods Banned To Japs

OTTAWA, Feb. 18—(CP).—The C.C.F. group will take an early opportunity of urging in the House of Commons that the government place an embargo on the shipments to Japan not only of munitions and airplanes but also scrap iron and nickel, Rev. T. C. Douglas (C.C.F. Weyburn) said today.

A similar attempt by this group was made last session without success. Mr. Douglas regarded as obscure the government's position put forward in an exchange in the House yesterday.

J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, asked the Prime Minister if his statement of the day before that the domestic policies of any country will not preclude trade with Canada should be interpreted as meaning there would be no curb on war exports to Japan.

ed the Conservatives as "economic nationalists" who did not want to trade with other countries.

"Of course that is ridiculous. Only a blind man in Canada would take such a course as that," Dr. Manion said. "We favor trading with other countries on a fair basis. We advocate giving favor for favor. We do not advocate making a treaty at any price.

"I am a pacifist in the best sense of the word. I do not believe in war. But am not a pacifist at any price. Neither am I a trade treaty man at any price."

If it was necessary to give two favors for one to get a trade treaty "then the logical conclusion for my right honorable friend and is party is to become free traders out and out."

Dealing with the last Conservative government's record, Dr. Manion said negotiation of the Empire agreements at Ottawa in 1932 was "a great triumph."

That government also sought a trade agreement with United States "but on a fair basis of favor-for-favor. At no time did we offer to give up our preference in the United Kingdom."

"We did not either with regard to our treaty (1935)," Mr. Mackenzie King interjected.

"I quite agree, but you did with regard to this treaty and this is the one I am discussing," the Conservative leader replied. "Another attitude the Prime Minister took was that this treaty helps to foster world peace and the unity of democracies of the world.

"I was speaking of this treaty in conjunction with the United Kingdom-United States agreement," said the Prime Minister.

"He talked as if this was not a trade treaty but a peace treaty." Dr. Manion continued, "as if we had just been engaged in a spectacular war with a great nation and had won a glorious victory.

"Yet, since 1812, we have had no serious difficulty with the United States, and certainly since the beginning of the century there have been no differences between Great Britain and the United States.

He expects to have a busy summer, having received many letters from guests making reservations for the season.

The body of the late Mrs. Hendershot of Cincinnatti, Ohio, arrived in Young's Point for burial in St. Mary's cemetery, on Monday. The late Mrs. Hendershot was a cousin of Capt. William Scollard, and a former resident of Young's Point. She was Miss Sevoy before her marriage.

Hawkesbury Gets Into Relief Jam

HAWKESBURY, Ont., Feb. 17. — (CP). — Town Council and the local Board of Trade held separate meetings behind closed doors last night, presumably regarding relief matters here, 62 miles east of Ottawa where about 40 relief recipients earlier in the day had demanded fuel although they already had received their quota until February 18.

While no statement was forthcoming after the meeting it was understood the Board of Trade wired the Welfare Department at Toronto requesting them to send another inspector here. Three officials of the Department completed an investigation on Thursday and left for Toronto.

There was no trouble at any time during the day although Relief Administrator Lionel Lamoureux was not permitted to leave his office for a few minutes when the men were refused further help. They let Lamoureux out of his office, however, as the official was to be a witness at a court case in the afternoon.

Larger T.B. Prevention Grant To Be Asked

TORONTO, Feb. 18—(CP).—Dr. G. C. Brinks, director of the division of tuberculosis prevention, said today a larger appropriation for diagnosis of tuberculosis will be included in estimates of the Ontario Department of Health when they are presented at the forthcoming session of the Legislature.

He said in an interview there are 6,000 unknown active cases of the disease in Ontario which "are infecting others with tuberculosis." Fifty per cent of those found to be suffering from the disease did not go to sanatoria wihin one year of diagnosis and recommendation for treatment.

Cavan C.G.I.T. Plans Basket Social

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, Feb. 18. — The Cavan Branch of the Canadian Girls in Training met in the basement fo the church on Friday night, with the main purposes of completely plans for a basket social to be held on February 17 in the church basement.

Reports were heard from the various committees on their share of the plans for the coming social.

Jean Trumpour was asked to assign parts to the girls in the two one-act plays to be presented at a later date.

Because of the absence of Mrs. L. M. Fallis, Reg.N., who has been giving a course on Red Cross work to the girls, the meeting was necessarily short.

Kotton Kids Meet

On Saturday afternoon the Kotton Kids' Club held their fortnightly meeting at the home of heir leader, Mrs. Donald Tinney. The meeting was chiefly a work session. Each girl had brought material for a dresser scarf and the leaders helped each one in their chosen design. Italian hemstitching was the favorite choice of the nine members present.

The next meeting will be held on February 25 at the home of Gwenyth Staples.

Warehouse Robbed

TORONTO, Feb. 18 — (CP). — Robbers during the night took 3,000 pounds of sugar, 108 pounds of tea, and 288 tins of salmon from the warehouse of Toronto Wholesale Grocers, Limited. Police found the side door of the warehouse open.

No Raw Material Imports Now Hitler Boasts

BERLIN, Feb. 18—(AP).—Chancellor Hitler today opened Germany's auto show with the appointment of a new chief of the motorcar industry and a declaration that raw materials previously imported are "no longer necessary" to Germany.

He announced the appointment of Colonel Adolf Von Schell as the new auto fuehrer with full powers to carry out regulations affecting the industry under a three-point plan satisfy the demand of 80,000,000 Germans for automobiles.

Hitler rode at the end of a parade of new car models to the exhibition hall where he told officials and 1,000 automobile plant employees:—

"Under our four-year plan raw materials have been produced independently of foreign sources. This has led to new inventions of tremendous, in some cases revolutionary, import. So much so that raw materials we used to import from abroad no longer are necessary to us even if they are unrestrictedly at our disposal.

"We not only succeeded in raising to a high level the consciousness of power and strength in the German people, but also in stimulating many other branches of production as a consequence. We 80,000,000 Germans have now such tremendous consumption capacity that the conditions of our technical and commercial production has undergone extraordinary improvement.

"Domestic need of motor cars has become enormous. This demand must be satisfied under the following conditions: First, the automobile is not a vehicle but a common necessity. Second, prices must adapt themselves to the broad masses with limited incomes. Third, the German people must have confidence in their own home-made cars."

Influenza Wave Reported Mild

TORONTO, Feb. 18 (CP).—Many cases of influenza were reported throughout Ontario today but the wave, with one exception was not serious. Medical authorities described the situation as "above normal but not an epidemic."

Influenza cases were reported to have reached serious proportions at Kingston, with many other centres affected by heavy numbers of persons ailing from common cold and grippe. At Toronto the situation was "above normal."

"Hundreds of cases" of 'flu were reported at Kingston, Eastern Ontario College centre, where about one-third of the school children are suffering with a mild type of the ailment.

At the Kingston Collegiate and Vocational Institute the normal attendance of 1,200 has been reduced by half. Public and separate schools were hit almost as heavily.

Farmers Form Chamber Of Agriculture

Farmer Wants Return Of His Security If Not Independence

One hundred or more farmers at the Court House Saturday afternoon accepted the tacit challenge of their county council with an immediate decision to form a Chamber of Agriculture to become affiliated with the Ontario and Dominion Chambers in a new quest for a square deal for their industry and themselves.

That was the first step, taken determinedly and promptly, and with scant palaver, because the assembly knew what it was all about. From that stage they went on to appoint a general committee to draft a constitution and prepare other preliminaries of ganization for the establishment of the County of Peterborough Chamber of Agriculture, as directed by Chas. E. Moore's resolution, seconded by E. H. Brown.

A significant remark by Earl Petrie during the discussion of the project probably expressed both the spirit and the desire of the gathering,—"The farmer has lost his independence and his security at the present time. He is surely entitled to one of them. Let it be security."

There was applause and accord, too, for a quotation read by Frank C. Paterson from a speech by Sir Reginald Dormer-Smith, Minister of Agriculture in Great Britain, who led the British delegation at the Empire trade and marketing conference at Sydney, Australia, a year ago: "There is evidence that adversity and common sense have persuaded farmers that if ever they are to obtain a fair measure of economic justice they must work, not as isolated units, but as one body. They must create and support their own organizations and trust those men whom they themselves select to lead them."

V. S. Milburn expressed something of the same idea in a sentence: "As individuals we don't amount to a row of pins. If we are going to get anywhere we must have organized opinion."

Members of Committee

The keynote of the meeting was in those aspirations. It was also in the words and action of the Agricultural Committee of the county council who had proposed and sponsored the meeting. The reaction of the highly encouraging audience

Schools Closed By Health Board

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 20—At a special meeting of the Board of Health called here Saturday, it was decided, in view of the increasing number of scarlet fever cases, to close all schools as a "precautionary measure." Two new cases have been reported in the last twenty-four hours, and Dr. F. de F. Free, local M.O.H., told the Examiner, and since these had both been school children it was felt the schools should be closed during what is known as the incubation period of the diseases (seven days) in order to check any further spread

"It is still a very spotted affair and hardly an epidemic as yet," stated Dr. Free. The infection is of such a mild nature that is is feared it is escaping detection and the usual symptoms include a cold, sore throat and a mild rash on the body, together with a fever "The skin should be watched closely for signs of a rash," stated the doctor. As a further precautionary measure, the theatre, library and arena are also being closed to children during the period the schools remain closed. Although the M.O.H. was unable to disclose the exact number of cases reported at the present time it was unofficially stated there were only eight with several others under observation.

FOUR EMPLOYEES who invested $250 each with their employer, Earl R. Milner, in 1937 received $31,250 each from Milner solvent and this shoestring grew

The four said Milner used their money when he was nearly into-day after a lengthy court suit. until Milner controlled 26 corporations owning 91 hotels. They said Milner tried to end his indebtedness to them by returning only the amount of the original loan.

Red Trade Drive Gaining As Poles Sign

MOSCOW, Feb. 20 (AP)—The Russian trade drive scored another advance Sunday with the signing of a Polish-Soviet agreement on the basis of a most-favored nation principle.

Moscow in recent weeks has concluded or renewed trade pacts with France, Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania.

A trade delegation from Iran is in Moscow and is expected to sign an agreement soon. The appearance here of a representative of Vickers, Limited, industrial and armament concern, recently revived talk of a new Soviet-British trade agreement.

What looked like a new Soviet-German trade treaty also seemed imminent a few weeks ago, but German sources said the talks were called off because "too much political importance was being attached to them abroad." (There were rumors in some European countries ranging from the beginning of a political rapprochement to actual alliance between Moscow and Berlin.)

The 3rd Year Plan

The view held by some observers here was that fulfilment of Joseph Stalin's third five-year plan—rather than political considerations—was dictating the new trade drive.

According to these observers the plan can not be fulfilled without extensive imports—particularly for replacement and repair of industrial equipment already installed during the first two five-year plans.

Under the new agreement with Poland, Russian exports to be increased include cotton, cotton waste, tobacco, manganese, asbestos and graphite.

Poland will sell Russia more coal, ferrous metals, cement, textile goods, textile machinery, leather goods and artificial silk.

Sees No Cause For Worry In U.S. Minds

British Press In Dark Over Roosevelt's Danger Warning

(By the Canadian Press.)

The entire German press struck at President Roosevelt today for reports he might shorten his cruise in the Caribbean because of word reaching him of developments abroad.

Boersenzeitung said the Presidents views of the European situation showed him as "a man who thoughtlessly seized all means to hold his tottering position and who systematically attempted to sow trouble in the world in order to assist the dark forces which support him."

Under the headline "Catastrophe Politician," Nachtausgabe said, "We in Europe know nothing about new, serious developments."

In Italy Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano's newspaper, Il Telegrafo, charged an "imperialistic, puritan minority" of American leaders, headed by President Roosevelt, was starting the United States toward a "democratic war."

Giovanni Sansaldo, in the paper's leading editorial, wrote that the "arming of American minds, even more dangerous than enormous material armaments," sailed to impress Italians.

Mr. Roosevelt's attitude was received with interest in Great Britain but press and public appeared to be in the dark regarding what immediate dangers he had in mind.

The government announced in parliament that Italy had sent information that the Italian garrison in Libya, North Africa, will be doubled to a strength of 60,000 men. French precautionary moves in adjoining Tunisia also were reported.

In Washington Chairman Key Pittman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said he had no information concerning new developments in Europe.

Borrowed Cash To Arm Britain

LONDON, Feb. 20 (CP Cable) — Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, today gave the British taxpayer some cheering news when he announced in the House of Commons he would increase the use of borrowed money in financing Great Britain's gigantic rearmament program.

In 1939-40, Britain plans to spend £560,000,000 ($2,715,200,000) on all branches of defence, active and civil. The chancellor announced that of this amount, £350,000,000 would be borrowed and £230,000,000 taken directly from the taxpayers.

His statement was interpreted as strengthening reports the basic income tax rate of five shillings sixpence in the pound would not be increased when he presents his budget this spring.

Sir John said rearmament would cost a total of £406,000,000 during the present year and £1,251,000,000 for the first three years of the estimated five-year total of £1,500,000,000. It has been frequently forecast that the five-year total eventually will far surpass the £1,500,000,000 figure.

Duffus To Undergo Serious Operation

MONTREAL, Feb. 20 (CP). — Physicians at the Montreal Neurological Institute consulted today following examination of J. J. Duffus, M.P. (Lib., Peterborough West), admitted for observation to the institute over the weekend.

At the office of Dr. Wilder Penfield, director of the institute, it was reported Mr. Duffus was resting comfortably. His condition is not regarded at present as serious.

A late bulletin this afternoon announced he would undergo a serious and delicate operation on Wednesday to correct the pain in the head which has distressed him for several weeks.

Haul the Mail

Don't Shelve Potato But What's On It For Girth Control

Boston, Feb. 20 (AP)

HERE'S WHAT a Boston doctor thinks about that bulge above the waist line. "A certain amount of fat is an anchor to the windward against disease," said Dr. Arthur Cushing, decrying excessive dieting by the would-be-thins. On the other hand, he called for "girth control" through self control, but not necessarily at the expense of the potato. "It isn't the potato," he said, "it's what we put on it."

Missing Schooner Is Reported Safe

HALIFAX, Feb. 20.—(CP).— The 49-ton Lunenburg schooner, Kassara, unreported since she left Halifax last week for the fishing banks, was reported safe to-day by a seaman who intercepted a ship-to-shore wireless message from the vessel Arthur L. Lynn.

The seaman, William MacDonald, aboard the schooner Isabelle Spindler, said he heard Captain Foster Corkum and the Arthur J. Lynn wireless he had spoken to the Kasagra on Emerald Bank, about 80 miles from Halifax, and that she might return to Halifax to-day.

Prayer for safety of Captain Denton Scott and his crew of 14 were offered yesterday at Indian Harbor, 30 miles distant, and Hacketts Cove, home village of crew members.

QUEBEC, Feb. 20—(CP).—Possibility of union government in Canada was dealt a blow, so far as the Liberal party was concerned, in the declaration of Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice that "I hol dthese amorphious governments in the same horror as Sir Wilfrid Laurier did."

At a banquet here Saturday night, celebrating his 35th anniversary as a member of Parliament, Mr. Lapointe, in the presence of almost the entire Dominion Cabinet, said: "Liberalism and Toryism cannot share the same pillow. It is impossible to change one's soul, conscience, ideals and record by changing one's label."

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, proposing a toast to Mr. Lapointe, announced the 64-year-old French Canadian parliamentarian would remain in politics and that the two would carry into the next general election the combined leadership of the English and French-speaking Liberals they have exercised for the past 20 years.

The Prime Minister welcomed a continuation of their relationship which he likened to that of Mackenzie and Papineau, Baldwin and Lafontaine, Macdonald and Cartier, whose combined leadership "effected the unity of purpose and achievement between the French and English, the Catholic and Protestant peoples of our country."

1,400 Guests Attend.

Mr. Lapointe was eulogized and cheered by some 1,400 guests, which included his Quebec East constituency supporters, his cabinet colleagues, and numbers members of the House of Commons from every province. It was the 35th anniversary of his parliamentary debut and also of his marriage, which took place four days after his first election to the House of Commons in 1904.

The Justice Minister spoke defiance to those he said had directed against him "campaigns of atrocious slander" and declared "intimidations of threats never have nor will disturb my peace of mind."

Mr. Lapointe also scored new movements and agitations and warned his listeners against their danger." "All utopists, all agitators and spreaders of prejudice, Communists, Fascists, Nazis are opposed to political parties," he said.

"Let us hold fast to democracy and to our liberties. The ballot box and universal suffrage despite all the attacks made upon them, have been the salvation of our people.

"It is not in utopias nor in the far-fetched theories of dispensers of illusions that we will find doctrines and sentiments capable of lifting the thoughts of all Cana-

Detroit, Feb. 20 (CP)

POLICE pursued slight clues today in their search for the shotgun bandits who have staged nearly 30 similar robberies here during the past two months.

The bandits escaped safely Saturday in their latest raid that netted more than $1,000 bringing their total loot to $15,000. Two of the three bandits in the gang terrorised employees with sawed-off shotguns while they looted the cash box and fled.

France Abruptly Breaks Off Dealings With Franco For Recognition Of Rebels

Insurgents Refuse To Listen To Anything But Unconditional Surrender; Britain Presses For Concessions

PARIS, Feb. 20 (AP).—French negotiations with General Franco for peace in Spain and for recognition of his Nationalist regime have been suspended abruptly.

The conversations struck a snag at the Nationalists' Burgos headquarters last night when Franco's delegates ruled that only unconditional surrender of the Republican Spain or final victory for Nationalist arms could end the civil war.

The French mission had been instructed to seek a promise of leniency toward the Republican side as well as assurances that Spain would be rid of Italian and German forces as a basis of the recognition of Franco which it hoped would bring peace.

Senator Leon Berard, French emissary to Nationalist Spain, decided to go to San Sebastian today and cross the frontier into France later to confer with Sir Robert Hodgson, British commercial agent in Nationalist Spain, and ask fresh instructions from Paris.

Berard arrived Saturday night in Burgos. Franco's firm stand was said to have been communicated to him. Sir Robert saw the Nationalist Foreign Minister, Count Francisco Gomez Jordana, in Burgos and left immediately for the French frontier, where he was believed to have made a long report to London by telephone. Meanwhile Berard negotiated with Nationalist officials in what seemed to be a regular schedule of talks arranged with his British colleague.

Talks Off Till Wednesday

The foreign minister was reported to have gone to Barcelona to consult Franco. Advices said there would be no further talks at Burgos before Wednesday.

Then, diplomatic sources said, new efforts probably would be made by both French and British statesmen to win some concession from Franco which would facilitate the republican surrender.

The principal French condition to the establishment of diplomatic relations, the pledge that post-war Spain be independent, was believed to have been satisfied by the nationalists.

The second point, an amnesty for government supporters, was understood to be strongly urged by both France and Great Britain, but not absolutely necessary to their recognition.

An assurance against reprisals by the nationalists was said in official Spanish quarters to be all the Republican side asked before giving up the unequal struggle.

Duce To Double Libyan Troops

LONDON, Feb. 20.—(CP Cable)—The Italian government proposes to send 30,000 additional troops to Libya, her North African colony, Richard Butler, under-secretary for foreign affairs, announced in the House of Commons today. This will increase the Libyan garrison to 60,000 or 62,000 men, he said.

The British government does not regard the garrison increase as a breach of the Anglo-Italian treaty. Italy reduced her garrison after the treaty to peacetime strength of 25,000 men but is now increasing it because of the tension with France.

During question hour Prime Minister Chamberlain announced Great Britain is opening trade negotiations with Russia. Robert Hudson, secretary of the department of overseas trade, will go to Moscow to negotiate a new treaty, replacing the one which Britain regards as giving Russia too many concessions.

This announcement, together with one foreshadowing a visit to Berlin by Mr. Hudson and Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, indicates the wide latitude of Britain's trade drive.

The prime minister, replying to another question, said he still was unable to make an announcement regarding recognition of General Franco's government in Spain.

Sleet Cripples Ontario; All Plows Out

(By the Canadian Press.)

Repair crews worked swiftly throughout southern and western Ontario today to restore telegraph and telephone service to centres cut off by a week-end rain and sleet storm, one of the worst in years. A forecast of "much colder" weather was welcomed as averting threatened floods in many districts.

Widespread damage to communication systems was caused by the storm which broke yesterday and continued until early today. Western Ontario districts were hard hit as rising temperatures melted the snow and ice and covered highways with more than a foot of water.

Colder weather expected by tonight was expected to result in a lowering of water covering the frozen Grand River, draining a large section of the western part of the province. Flood conditions for a time during the week-end threatened to become serious at many points.

Sleet Breaks Limbs

Galt streets were littered with fallen trees and branches today, aftermath of the ice and sleet that struck the city last night. For a time during the storm almost the entire city was without street lights and when lightening struck the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs main switchboard only one telegraph line remained in operation.

Throughout western areas highway travel was dangerous with water running more than a foot in depth in places over ice-covered roads. Many farmers were isolated in their homes by impassable roads. Cellars in urban homes were flooded when rain followed the sleet.

Telephone, telegraph and power service was interrupted during the night at Hamilton by falling trees but most of the damage was repaired by morning. Extensive damage was caused in city parks when ornamental trees and shrubs fell under the weight of ice.

6000 Doukhobors Bury Verigin

BRILLIANT, B.C., Feb. 20 (CP).—Peter Verigin was buried yesterday in the vaulted granite tomb beside the father he succeeded as Doukhobor leader in Canada 14 years ago. The 53-year-old Verigin died February 11 in Saskatoon.

More than 6,000 members of the Russian religious sect packed the hillside overlooking this West Kootenay headquarters of their community. The casket was sealed and lowered in the vault beside the body of Peter (Lordly) Verigin, who led his followers to Canada to escape Russian persecution near the turn of the century.

Silence gripped the massed Doukhobors and the hundreds of English-speaking spectators as the late leader's grandson, John Verigin, delivered the funeral oration. He called on members of the sect to maintain order among themselves and live peaceably in the period they will be without a leader. He indicated Verigin's son, Peter, now leader of Doukhobors in Russia, might be named as spiritual head of the community in Canada.

Snow, Sleet and Rain Ties Up Motor Traffic In District While Pedestrians Have Tough Time On City's Streets

225 Get Call To Work But Only Eight Reliefees Appear

Toronto, Feb. 20 (CP)

MAYOR RALPH DAY said today 225 men on the relief rolls had been called to work today to help clean up the city's street, but only eight turned up. The city has 534 men at work on the streets.

Six and a half inches of snow, sleet and rain combined with a strong east wind to cripple highway traffic over the week-end and regular bus patrons attempting to reach their places of employment before seven o'clock this morning were late. The buses were unable to buck their way through the heavy crusted snow and it was not until 8.30 that regular schedules were resumed.

Three graders owned by the city were on duty at six o'clock this morning but it was nine before the regular bus routes had been plowed. Forty men were busy shovelling the snow from George and Charlotte street shortly after seven o'clock.

Between 8.30 and 11 o'clock on Sunday morning four and a half inches of snow fell, and for a short time the largest flakes seen this winter pelted church-goers. Two inches of snow, sleet and rain fell after four o'clock on Sunday afternoon, and the first thunder and lightning of the year were reported.

Highway 28 from Lakefield to Peterborough was nothing but a single track at eight o'clock this morning and motorists had a difficult time reaching the city. No wood trucks from Apsley district had been able to reach the city at ten o'clock and all side roads are blocked. Highway 28 to Port Hope is passable but treacherous and covered with crusted snow. It is expected that plows will have the road clear by noon Monday. Highway No. 7 to the east was reported to be in the worst condition of any.

Heavy Work

Contractors who have the job of keeping the streets clean had perhaps the most trouble of any day since the winter set in. The horses were in a lather attempting to smash through the crusted, and icy snow and the drivers found it necessary to give the animals a rest several times every block.

Garage managers report several calls from city dwellers who required the assistance of a tow truck before they could get their cars out of driveways and garages, but few calls came in for assistance on the road. Apparently only those who found it absolutely necessary started out the highway.

Clifford Whetung, of Curve Lake drove his car into the city this morning taking the short cut across Lake Chemong. He smashed a tire chain but otherwise had little trouble. There is not a great deal of snow on the lake, the wind having blown most of it off.

Cream Trucks Arrive.

Canada To Hear King As He Launches Monster Battleship

Ottawa, Feb. 20 (CP)

KING GEORGE'S VOICE will be heard over the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's national network Feb. 21 on a program lasting from 10:25 to 10:55 a.m. E.S.T., C.B.C. officials announced today.

Gloria Reaches 15

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Dark-haired Gloria Vanderbilt, heiress to more than $4,000,000, is 15 years old today.

The "poor little rich girl" centre of a sensational custody fight in 1934, planned a party on the Connecticut estate of her half-sister, Mrs. Lawrence Wise Lowman, wife of a radio chain executive. She has attended many social functions in the last year.

Gloria's talent for designing has been encouraged by her teachers at an exclusive private school and by her paternal aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, wealthy sculptress.

8 Skiers On 30-Mile Hike Caught In Blizzard Spend Night In Deserted Cabin, 22 Below

TIMMINS, Ont., Feb. 20 (CP) PARTY of eight Timmins skiers are on their way home today after speeding 26 hours in a howling blizzard that forced them to seek shelter overnight in a deserted cabin with the temperature as low as 22 degrees below zero.

The party started out yesterday on a 30-mile hike to Kamiscotia and planned to return last night. When they failed to show up fears for safety arose and their parents maintained a night-long vigil. The skiers telephoned this morning to say they had reached a house at Cook's Lake, six miles from Timmins, and planned to start home after warming themselves and eating.

"We're okay now," the skiers reported by telephone from the home at Cook's Lake of Stat Rawlinson where they arrived after an early-morning trek from the cabin deep in the bush.

May Cut Short Cruise In Caribbean

Senate Shies Off Foreign Policy Debate For Present

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP). — Hints from President Roosevelt of threatening developments in Europe acted as a damper today on controversy over United States foreign policy in Congress.

Senators backing the government found support from some Republican members in the contention that further dispute at this time should be avoided if possible. They acknowledged, however, that the foreign policy debate undoubtedly would break out when the Senate takes up the $376,000,000 army expansion bill.

Senator Austin (Rep., Vermont), declaring his party viewpoint was secondary to his patriotism, said a committee inquiry had convinced him that the government's encouragement of French warplane purchases was not "unneutral."

Austin said he believed the transaction, centre of the foreign policy dispute, "tended to promote our capacity to produce airplanes needed under the armaments program."

Senator Logan (Dem., Kentucky) concurred in this opinion, asserting that President Roosevelt was right in helping the French buy Douglas bombers manufactured for American army competition but not yet tested by the army.

May Shorten Cruise

Testimony about the French plane sales made public Saturday by the committee about the time Mr. Roosevelt was telling reporters in Florida that he might have to cut short his Caribbean cruise because of information about difficulties in Europe.

The information was discounted by some sources here, although others pointed out that the president naturally had access to reports not possessed by legislators.

A proposal that the government construct a $10,000,000 aircraft manufacturing plant in or near Chicago was made by chairman Sabath (Dem.-Illinois) of the House of Representatives rules committee. He contended that existing private plants are inadequate to meet foreign and domestic orders.

Army air corps officials, on the other hand, recently told congressional committee that private companies could more than quadruple their yearly production within three years.

The Netherlands now have a military mission in the United States seeking to arrange warplane purchases. A state department official pointed out that the country has been one of he heaviest buyers of United States war supplies.

See Flu Spreading

DETROIT, Feb. 20. —(CP)— Detroit's influenza epidemic likely will increase toward the end of this week as a result of unseasonable weather during the week-end, health authorities here said today.

The temperatures reached 56 and 2.08 inchesof rain fell, making ideal conditions for spread of the disease. About five per cent of the city's population were infected by Saturday.

STAGE CHILDREN'S PLAYS

CHARLOTTETOWN — (CP). — Something new in the way of plays was presented in Charlottetown's Little Theatre when three one-act productions, written for children, were staged with adult casts. The program was presented by a group of players who considered it "would be fun' 'to present the juvenile plays with adult casts, and believed it might point the way for other groups to give other novel programs.

Three Music Judges

HALIFAX, Feb. 20.—(CP)—Three English musical authorities were en route to Stratford today to adjudicate in a music festival. It will be the first of a series at which they are to officiate throughout the dominion.

The three, who arrived here during the week-end, are: Arthur Benjamin, professor at the Royal College of Music, London; George Dodds, English singing teacher, and Dr. J. Frederic Station, conductor of the Sheffield choir.

Barber Tackles 2 Gunmen Escapes 2 Shots

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Feb. 20 (CP) —Two London men, charged with armed robbery and automobile theft, will be brought here from London today to stand trial on the robbery count. A third man is being sought throughout western Ontario.

Those held at Joseph Mitchell, 26, and William Wylie, 23. They were arrested in London yesterday following a grocery store holdup in St. Thomas Saturday night during which one of the thugs twice fired his revolver point-blank at James Parker, 63-year-old St. Thomas barber, who struggled with him. Police said the victims identified the arrested men. Nothing was obtained in the holdup.

Three men were in the holdup party and drew up before the grocery store of Hugh Wiles in an automobile. One of the three stayed in the car with the engine running; a second walked to the store door and a third walked up to the counter, unmasked but with his collar turned up.

Wiles was behind the counter and seated to one side were two delivery boys. In living quarters at the rear of the store were Parker and Mrs. Wiles.

"Hand over the cash," the bandit said, thrusting forward a revolver.

Grabs For Gun.

Wiles made a reach for the bandit's gun. The robber drew back and Parker entered the room, followed by Mrs. Wiles. They were commanded to "get over here." Parker stepped close to the armed man and grabbed the muzzle of the gun.

The gun discharged and the shot left a burn on Parker's right hand. Parker continued his grappling with the bandit and the gun discharged again. The shot seared Parker's chin. Meanwhile the man at the door fled and the gunman evaded Parker's grasp and all three sped away in the car without loot.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiles said the gunman fired into the store from the door but Parker could recall but two shots. St. Thomas police suspect blank cartridges were used. They were unable to find definite trace of bullets although they discovered a mark on the wall which may have been caused by a pellet.

"I saw him (the gunman) fire point-blank into Mr. Parker's face," Wiles said. "There was a great black powder mark on his shirt front and collar and I thought sure he was shot."

London police said they recovered the car used in the hold-up. It was stolen in London several days ago from a car agency.

Headed Back Home

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Feb. 20.—(CP Cable).—Loretta Eccleston, 20-year-old Hamilton, Ont., girl, who stowed away aboard the Queen Mary in New York, sailed in the Auranid to-day for Halifax, N.S., after spending five days in a police cell here.

She was taken to the ship in a police van guarded by a wardress, who said her charge had been spending the time reading.

Relief Business Costs Too Much Horton Declares

"This relief business has been with us too long and has cost us too much," declared E. A. Horton, deputy-minister of municipal affairs and director of unemployment relief for Ontario, in addressing the members of the Peterborough Rotary Club at the weekly luncheon at the Empress Hotel today. Mr. Horton urged the Rotarians, as members of a service organization, to do something to provide employment for some of the long-term relief recipients in order to restore their lost morale.

"There is nothing for us in Toronto to worry about in the way relief is being administered in Peterborough," he said.

Financial Burden

Introduced by Rotarian Morley Shaver city treasurer, Mr. Horton began by stressing the financial burden the distribution of relief had been since the start of the depression. If every dollar spent on relief in this province had had to be raised in Ontario, he said, it would have cost at the rate of $10 for every man, woman and child in 1935, the peak year, climbing to that figure from a per capital cost in 1930 of eight cents, and dropping to $5.75 in 1938. Figures in regard to the cost in Peterborough if it had all been borne by the municipality were quoted by the speaker. They showed the per capita cost here in 1935 as $7.65 and for 1938, $5.00.

Speaking of the outlook here, Mr. Horton said that he was sorry to have to report that the cost of relief in Peterborough in 1939 would be much in excess of last year's figure. The peak year here, he said, was n 1935, when $176,000 was spent in Peterborough on relief.

Setup Explained

Explaining the relief setup in detail, Mr. Horton pointed out that when people were without income for a long period the tendency was to depend more actively upon relief as the way out. That was a direct challenge to service clubs to do what they could to restore the morale of those long-term recipients of relief. In this connection he said, if every twenty Rotarians would guarantee that among them they would provide odd jobs for one head of a family long in receipt of relief, a wonderful improvement would be effected that would be shown in lowered tax bills.

Hon. G. N. Gordon moved a vote of thanks to the speaker for his address.

Toronto and other Central Ontario centres. At the height of the storm in that section of the province several buildings were struck by lightning but damage from that cause was not extensive.

Main Streets Blocked

A hard crust formed by four inches of sleet made walking and motoring almost impossible in Peterborough. In the Belleville district, sleet and snow was 10 inches in depth, heavily crusted, and highway traffic was slowed. Some streets in that city were hopelessly blocked.

Two hundred men were put to work in Kingston clearing up after the storm and though district highways were not impassable automobiles could not travel at more than 25 miles an hour. All available snow-fighting equipment was being employed at Brockville to clear street and highways.

The rain and sleet storm extended north to Georgian Bay, leaving highways in that district treacherous. Several motorists were forced to seek overnight shelter in farm houses in the Meaford area. In Northern Ontario, a blizzard raged throughout the week-end. Roads in the Sudbury area were blocked by 4¼ inches of snow.

One of the province's most serious flood threats was at Port Stanley, on Lake Erie, where Kettle Creek backed up into the town streets from an ice-jam at the mouth. At Thamesville, the Thames River was five feet above normal but was expected to recede with colder weather.

Repair Crews Busy

Officials of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Telegraph Companies said they were winning their fight to restore service. It was expected conditions would be normal by nightfall. Similar reports came from telephone companies after a night in which repair crews worked feverishly to restore fallen wires and broken poles.

Welland, Niagara Falls and other Niagara Peninsula points lost contact with Toronto when telephone and telegraph wires fell beneath the burden of sleet. Brantford, Galt, Kitchener and some other western Ontario cities also were without telegraph service during the night and most of today.

News supplied by The Canadian Press into those cities over its leased wires was cut down drastically when contact with Toronto was maintained only spasmodically. News "copy" for Brantford was sent to Hamilton when it was taken by motor car the remaining 25 miles. Leased wires to Stratford were routed via London.

Grimsby "cleaned up" today after a week-end of snow, sleet and rain that flooded cellars, left water a foot deep over street and highways and snapped telegraph and telephone wires.

At the height of the storm late yesterday a pole fell across a street, blocking traffic. Some sections of the town were without electrical power overnight and many telephones were put out of commission.

At nearby Winona, a near cloudburst last night stopped highway traffic, motorists being unable to see 10 feet ahead. Several automobiles were stuck in mud beside No. 8 highway when their drivers took to the shoulders to get off icy pavements.

were blocked to cars. The heavy top layer of crust with loose snow underneath, it was an impossible condition for automobiles. Farmers drove out to the highways with their cream cans, and quite a number of them came into town with their cans. Those living along such lines as the road west of Jackson Park and the old Norwood Road realized that cars were out of the question and only horses could make the grade, and we have an arrangement with them to make their own deliveries when the conditions are as bad as today."

Bread Deliveries.

James Dutton, Jr., broke the No. 7 highway trail to Havelock this morning. He was out before the provincial plow on an eastern route trip for Stock's bread. He telephoned to the office for a heavier truck which was sent to him for the trip down through Trent Bridge to Campbellford.

The Lindsay truck got through with its bread load, and another set out for Bancroft on telephone advice that there had been very little snow in the northeastern country on Sunday. The roads were reported no worse than on Saturday, and on that assurance the driver set out for Apsley and Bancroft.

Believe Few Birds Killed

Hunters and woodsmen questioned claim only a few partridges would be killed because of the severe sleet storm which laid a blanket of icy armour over the snow in this district yesterday.

In very cold weather patridges dive into snowdrifts in the woods just at dusk, and the snow drifts over the opening, keeping the birds warm and comfortable all night. If a sleet storm comes up, hundreds of the birds are trapped beneath the sleet covering and starve because they are not strong enough to smash through the icy coating. Comparatively mild weather preceded the sleet and hunters believe the birds have been spending the nights in the evergreen trees, there usual place in mild weather, and only a few are believed to have died because of the sleet storm.

One veteran woodsman said today, if cold weather follows the sleet storm there is just as much danger of hundreds of partridges dying, because the birds strike the [illegible] a terrific rate of speed, and if it is covered with crust they would be killed by the impact.

Wolves will probably take heavy toll of the deer in the northern party of the country this week, with the sleet aiding the marauders and crippling the deer. The wolves are light and fleet enough to skim across the sleet covered snow at great speed without breaking through while the deer break through. The latter are forced to move around to obtain food and every step on the crust they break through often up to the body, and labor for some time before the runways are broken clear. If a deer is chased by wolves in this weather he has little chance to escape, because the hungry wolk pack is on him as soon as he flounders in the snow.

Highway Clear.

Township roads east and west of Scott's Corners were blocked this morning, J. O. Ball, of Whittington's service station at the turn three miles west of the city, reported. "Robert Armstring, who lives a mile and a half west of me, had to get his car drawn out to the highway to bring the children to school in the city. There was nothing moving from the country, but the highway was all right. The plow was over it twice on Sunday and again before daylight to-day."

Bert Easton, who carries the mail from Lakehurst to Lakefield, left this morning at 7 a.m. but was not reported at Hall's Bridge at 11 o'clock. Only one truck had gotten through to Buckhorn, Harry Shearer reported, and all trucking operations in the Harvey area were suspended. It was reported that operations on the Buckhorn-Bobcaygeon highway were at a standstill.

Bill Donoghue, driver for Weston's Bakery, reported meeting a motorist coming into the city at nine o'clock this morning who said he had spent nine hours on the road going the fourteen miles.

Harry Gill's truck was damaged on the Lakefield road when it was in collision with a car driven by a Toronto man.

Walks To Peterborough to Pay Fine.

Folk who found the going tough this morning when they were forced to shovel the snow out of their laneways to get their cars out should ponder the case of Sandy Jacobs, Burleigh Falls Indian.

Sandy was due to appear in police court this morning to answer to a liquor charge on which he had been given an adjournment on his own request. No one who knew the condition of the roads expected to see him to-day but he was there to answer his name promptly when the roll was called.

He had started out from Burleigh Falls on foot at 5.30 o'clock this morning and broke trail for miles through the deep snow before he finally got a ride for the last part of the journey in.

In court he changed his plea to guilty and Magistrate Langley gave him the minimum, a $10 fine with the costs cut to 75 cents.

People who imagined they had a difficult time to-day because of the snow and sleet should ask themselves how they would have liked to start out to walk from Burleigh Falls to Peterborough before dawn merely for the purpose of paying a $10 fine when they got here.

Lapointe Claims McCullagh's Idea Impossible

QUEBEC, Feb. 20—(CP). — The "pretentious theories" of C. George McCullagh, publisher of The Toronto Globe and Mail, "have no chance to prevail," Justic Minister Lapointe declared in an address here Saturday night.

Speaking at a banquet marking his 35 years in Parliament, Mr. Lapointe referred to Mr. McCullagh's recent radio broadcasts in which "this new precursor advocated the abolition of the provinces and the formation of a single central government, having in view the settlement of all our problems."

"Of course, Mr. McCullagh's pretentious theories have no chance to prevail, but do not be mistaken; this is an appeal which could become dangerous if the changes necessary to the expansion of our national life could not be made through concord and harmony.

"To those who are afraid to lose minority rights I say that it is even possible to have more solid guarantees than those who enjoy at the present moment.

"I may even say: Amongst the men who come from Ottawa and who are gathered here to-night there is not one who would not stand up for the defence of the integrity of all the rights and privileges which have been guaranteed by the treaties, by Federal agreement, and even more by the necessary conditions caused by the development of our national life."

Havelock Enjoys Peterboro' Play

HAVELOCK, Feb. 20.—"An Old Fashioned Mother," a three acts play by the Home and School Association of King Edward School, Peterborough, was sponsored on Friday evening in the town hall, by the local Home and School Association. There was a poor attendance due to several other attractions taking place on the same night.

In addition to the play there were three items on the program by local talent, a song and dance by Wallace and Wayne Young; vocal solo "Pocketful of Dreams," by Miss Lois Thompson; a tap dance by Miss Ruby Warner. Teh piano accompaniment for each number was supplied by Mrs. E. Warner.

Mrs. H. Turner as Deborah Underhill, a mother in Israel, headed by the cast of "An Old Fashioned Mother," a dramatic parable of a mother's love. The other parts were taken as follows: Widder Bill Pindle (choir leader), Mrs. E. Chambers; Miss Lolly Loving Custard (plain sewing and gossip), Mrs. L. Gibson; Isabel Simscott, (a village belle), Mrs. G. Harris; Glorianna Perkins, (as good as gold), Miss Hazel Palmer; Sukey Pindle, (the Widder's mite), Miss Irene Ellis; John Underhill, (the prodigal son), Ken Moffatt; Charley Underhill, (the elder brother), Mr. E. Chambers; Bro. Jonah Quakenbush, (a whitted sepulchre), Mr. H. Turner; Jeremiah Gosling, (Jerry a merry heart), Mr. M. Drysdale; Enoch Rone, (an outcast and wanderer), Harold Fife; Quintos Todd, (a county sheriff), Mr. G. Harris; the village choir, Mesdames Ellis, A. H. Cooke, W. M. Todd.

Home-made candy was sold between the acts and refreshments were served at the conclusion of the show to the members of the cast.

A Fair Opener

LONDON, Feb. 20—(CP Cable).—An order cabled from Toronto sent Britains' annual parade of industry at the British Industries Fair away to a flying start.

The Fair opened to-day at London and Birmingham without ceremoney. Two dozen Canadian firms are exhibiting, providing a comprehensive display of the Dominion's varied industries.

The first order was received Saturday by Susan Cooper for pottery worth £5,000 ($23,500). Miss Cooper, a farmer's daughter, began pottery making in 1931.

Comedian Passes

NEW YORK., Feb. 20 — (AP). — Edward Garvie, 73, roly-poly comedian and character actor who once actually shot a man on stage without the audience being aware of it, died yesterday.

He was born in Meriden, Conn., went on the stage in his 'teens and appeared in a long series of well-known productions, ending with "Achilles Had a Heel" in 1935. In 1925, playing in "Hell's Bells," he took a loaded revolver from a property box by mistake, and slightly wounded another actor in the arm. The play went on.

A Turtle Race

DETROIT, Feb. 20.—(CP)— The University of Detroit will stage its fifth annual turtle race March 31 under the sponsorship of the Delta Pi Kappa fraternity. Several students have entries in training already for the speed classic.

Students said special precautions would be taken this year to ensure no gamblers will tamper with entries.

Liveweights.—Hull, $8.75; London, $9.10; Peterborough, $9.15.

Dressedweights. — Hull, $12.00; Barrie, $12.10; Hamilton, $12.25; London, $12.35; Kitchener, $11.75; London, $12.35; Kitchener, $11.75; $11.75.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Feb. 20 — (CP). — Cattle trade on Toronto Livestock Market was dull at mid-session to-day, with sales too few to establish prices. The calf market was firm and sheep steady, while no sales were reported on lambs. No hog price was set. Cattle holdover from last week was 300 head.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle, 1,700; calves, 420; hogs, 1,250; sheep and lambs, 520.

Choice veal calves traded at $10.50 to $11, with common lights selling downward to $6.

Sheep were $2.50 to $5.50 cwt.

Previous close on off-truck bacon hogs was $9.25 to $9.35.

MONTREAL POULTRY

Poultry prices per lb.—Chickens, 5 lbs. up, frozen, milkfed A, 26 to 28c; selected B, 27c. Chickens, grade A, 24 to 27c. Turkeys, 12 lbs. up, 26 to 28c; B, 26c. Fowls 6 to 8 lbs., 19 to 22; B, 20c. (Prices nominal).

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Feb. 20 — (CP). — Firmness attributed to unsettled European conditions gave Winnipeg wheat futures prices steady trend in to-day's trading. Offerings were scarce throughout the dull session and prices finished ⅜ to ¼ cent higher, May at 63¼, July 63⅞, and October 64⅝a.

Export sales of Canadian wheat were estimated at 150,000 bushels, most of which was worked from the Pacific seaboard. Inter-market spreading was encountered from time to time, involving purchases of Winnipeg May wheat against sales of the same option at Chicago.

Liverpool lost fractions in early dealings due to selling by a large miller and slow inquiries for wheat but firmed later to finish ¼d higher to unchanged.

Market Review

TORONTO, Feb. 20 — (CP). — Buyers and sellers whittled prices down further in to-day's Toronto Exchange session, but the reductions failed to attract investors and dullness ruled throughout the day. A minor rally in the Western oils in the first hour gave the sessions its only feature, but the oils lost the gains later. All indices closed with losses. Little better than 400,000 shares changed hands in the session. ADDAdd market review ... .

A light early flurry in the Western oils relieved the monotony in the early session, but dullness soon returned and only 246,000 shares changed hands in the first three hours. All indices but the Western oil indicator, were down at noon.

Senior oils, steels, food and papers were predominantly soft and weakness was general in the base metal group except for a minor gain for Canada on light turnover. Weakness in the golds was chiefly in evidence in the cheaper issues. San Antonio, Hard Rock, Kerr-Addison, Moneta, East Malartic and others chalked up losses.

Home, Calgary-Edmonton and Calmont firmed narrowly and other Western oils were quiet and steady.

Wall Street Close.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—(AP).—On exceptionally light selling, the stock market drifted downward fractions to two points to-day.

A little buying appeared from time to time, and enabled leaders to shade losses, but no real recovery was in evidence near the final hour. The ticker tape was motionless at frequent intervals. Transfers were about 600,000 shares.

Breaks Neck, Lives

CHATHAM, Ont., Feb. 20—(CP). —"Resting as well as can be expected," was the report of attendants at St. Joseph's hospital this morning, regarding the condition of Miss Angel Green, 21-year-old Windsor girl, who suffered a broken neck Saturday in an automobile accident on No. 2 Highway about three miles west of Chatham. A tire blew out and the car turned over about four times.

Entertain In Honor Of Bride

Two delightful showers were given recently in honor of Miss Marceline Feeley, whose marriage to Mr. Wilfred Cunningham was an interesting event of today, Monday, in St. Peter's Cathedral.

Mrs. Norman McConkey of Rogers street entertained at a cup and saucer shower. Tea was poured by Mrs. Harold Crowley, and the tea table was arranged with a cluster of silver grapes on a glass reflector, and white candles in silver holders. A linen shower was given jointly by Mrs. Robert Armitage and Mrs. A. Feeley at the latter's home, Downie street, when about thirty guests were presented. The tea table was centred with a silver basket of snapdragons and daffodils, flanked with ivory tapers. Tea was poured by Miss Peggy Hickey and Miss Louise De Carlonis.

Miss Feeley was also presented with a combination electric waffle and grill by the C.G.E. Company, and Mr. Cunningham, who is manager of the F. W. Woolworth company in Peterborough, was made the presentation of an electric coffee percolator, and an arm chair by his company.

We Noticed

...Apparently scheduled for revival this spring is the young-looking "baby blouse" in batiste and sheer. In case you've forgotten it, which isn't likely, it is the blouse with a little round, lace-edged collar, and pin tucked yoke.

✧ ✧ ✧

...A trend for accordion pleated skirts will probably work itself into quite good proportions by spring, judging from the popularity with which it is being accepted.

✧ ✧ ✧

...A three-in-one evening gown was a marvelous wardrobe asset to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt on her recent lecture tour. The dress was of uncrushable black velvet with a long skirt. A jacket with long sleeves was added for dinner wear. Sometimes for evening wear she added a long sash which trailed off into a brocaded train. A ruff around the neck meant another quick change.

DOROTHY DIX

Fretful Discontent In The Home Is One Of World's Worst Sins; Too Many People Fail To Make The Best of What They Have.

Did you ever think that about nine-tenths of all the unhappiness in the world is home-grown and raised on the premises? I don't mean the kind of unhappiness that is the result of remorse for some wrong we have done or some crime that has been committed against us. I mean the kind of fretful discontent, which is self-made, with which we poison life and that comes from our failure to make the best of now and here and enjoy the things we have.

For instance, to this column come hundreds of letters from despairing, miserable women who find life cinders, ashes and dust, with no savor in it, for no apparent reason than that is just the way they find life.

According to their own accounts they are sitting pretty on the top of the world. They are young and healthy. They have nice homes and a comfortable living. They have good, kind husbands and fine children. They have friends and cars, bridge clubs and a movie theatre on the next corner, but they loathe housework. Their husbands bore them. Their children are a burden. Their friends are tiresome. They have no interest in anything and there is no balm in Gilead. And, oh, dear, oh, deary me, they wail, is this life?

I always feel like answering these melancholy ladies by saying: Yes, this is life, only a lot better than most people get it. Life isn't all beer and skittles for anybody. Nobody gets just what they want in precisely the way they want it. There is always a fly in the ointment. There is always a lot of hard sledding somewhere on the road.

And, anyway, happiness doesn't come from without. And it isn't to be found in material things. It is a flame that burns in a dauntless soul and that no outward happenings can quench. You might have all the riches in the world and yet be miserable. Or you might be happy without a penny in your pocket. It is what is in you.

We get out of life only what we put into it. If we find it stale, flat and unprofitable it is because we have put no enthusiasm, no imagination, no cheer, no sense of humor into living. Work is a chore or the most exacting of all games, as we make it. People are dull and boresome or interesting, just as we come to know them. Every little village, every household is full of romance and drama if we have the perception to sense them. There is no excuse for boredom except stupidity.

Many of these self-pitying women put on sackcloth and ashes over their crepe trousers because they have to do housework. Forever cooking, cleaning, scrubbing, picking up after a family. They go about their work salting it down with tears. Yet what a kick they could get out of it if they would only see that making a home is the finest job to which any woman can set her hand and the most useful career she can possibly follow. Whether cooking is a fine art or drudgery, whether a house is a barren shack where a family merely lodges or whether it is a place of beauty and culture, peace and happiness, depends altogether on a womans point of view about domesticity.

There are plenty of women who find their marriage failures for no particular reason that they can spot. Their husbands are good providers and never look at another woman. But somehow matrimony has gone as flat as a deflated tire and it never occurs to these unhappy wives that perhaps the reason of it is that they didn't put much pep into marriage themselves. They never tried to make things interesting for their husbands or to keep their husbands' affection warmed up by doing a lot of high-pressure lovemaking themselves.

And there are the children who get on so many mothers' nerves and cause them to regard themselves as martyrs. They are so much trouble. They are so noisy. They track in so much dirt. They tie a mother down so. There is nothing more pitiful in the world than to see a mother who is missing all the pleasure she might get out of her children when they are little, for she is losing something rare and sacred and beautiful that will never come to her again.

She is getting no thrill out of the feel of a baby's head on her breast, no sweetness out of little hands clinging to her. She finds no interest in watching the wonder of a little mind unfold. Life gives us all pretty much the same raw materials for happiness, but we have to roll our own.

Marceline Feeley Is Charming Bride of To-day

St. Peter's Cathedral, adorned with pink and white carnations, was the setting for a lovely ceremony at eight o'clock this morning, when Miss Marceline Olive Feeley, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Feeley, Peterborough, became the bride of Mr. Wilfred Joseph Cunningham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cunningham, Hamilton, and manager of the F. W. Woolworth store in Peterborough. Rev. P. J. Kelly, L.L.D., officiated. Miss Veronica Scollard played the wedding music, and during the signing of the register Miss Geraldine Collins sang "Ave Maria."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a gown of white chiffon made in Victorian style with tight bodice, high neckline, and graceful, bouffant skirt. Her chiffon jacket was accordion pleated, and she wore elbow-length mittens of white lace. Tiny white gardenias held in place her finger-tip veil, and she carried a bridal bouquet of Bettertime roses.

Miss Elmere Conlin was bridesmaid, wearing a frock of pink chiffon, with full skirt falling to the floor from a slender, shirred waistline, and shirred bolero jacket with tiny puff sleeves. Her hat was fashioned of a single American Beauty rose, a dainty handkerchief of matching chiffon was worn in her dress, and she carried a bouquet of premier supreme roses. Mr. Gregory Stanbach was best man

A wedding breakfast was served at the Elite Court after the ceremony, and later a reception was held at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. Alphonse Feeley, 467 Downie street, where the bride's mother received in navy printed sheer with corsage of sweet peas. Mrs. Cunningham, mother of the groom, received with her, wearing wine crepe with yoke of cut velvet, and corsage of sweet peas.

For travelling the bride wore a seal coat over a frock of mignon blue crepe with fuschia sash. Her hat was black with bands of blue and fuschia, and she wore black suede accessories. On their return from a trip to Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham will live at 596 Water street.

Among those from out-of-town who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cunningham, parents of the groom, Mr. Gordon Cunningham, brother of the groom, and Mrs. Cunningham, Mr. J. Robson and Mrs. Robson, sister of the groom.

Fashions

The hug-me-tight basque blouse is the most popular of all spring fashions....a "winner" as a top for your new skater-silhouette or a pleated skirt. It can also be worn as a jacket over a thin sweater. It adds a very sporty effect to your tweel tailored suit in a vivid monotone color in wool, silk, linen or cotton. The surplus blouse is exquisitely lovely and flattering to any one in sheer silk in such shades as yellow-gold, coral, yellow-green, etc., or in a silk print crepe. The pattern includes both models. They are easy to sew....easy on your pocket-book.

Style No. 3062 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44-inches bust. Size 36 requires 1⅞ yards of 39-inch material for long sleeved blouse; and 1⅞ yards of 39-inch material for short sleeved blouse.

Reception Is Held At Harvey Home

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 20—Following the High School Commencement, held here Friday evening, Principal and Mrs. J. F. Harvey, held a reception at their home for Prof. and Mrs. Woodcock, members of the High School staff and Trinity College graduates. Headmaster K. A. Mackenzie of the Grove School, and Mrs. A. W. Mackenzie, were among those present.

Prof Woodcock, of Trinity College, Toronto, and Mrs. Woodcock, were week-end guests of Headmaster and Mrs. K. A. Mackenzie, at the Grove.

Miss Irene Madill of Peterborough was in the village Sunday.

Miss Vera Moore of the Whitby Ladies' College staff, spent the week-end with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Moore.

Mr. Walter Spence of Queen's University, Kingston, was in the village over the week-end.

CRIES AS HE ROBS

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The bandit who held up Mrs. Clementine Wussler's confectionery was a cry baby—but he could still take it. With hand thrust in his pocket as if hiding a gun, the robber wept copiously as he demanded the money, promising to repay her later. He took $10 in change and left. Now Mrs. Wussler's feeling glum.

Grow Plants Easily in Lovely Glass Gardens

Terrariums for Sun or Shade

Lovely bits of the outdoors to liven your room with their beauty! Plants thrive in terrariums and simple dish gardens — practically grow without care.

In a sunny window put a terrarium planted with the sweetly-blossoming heliotrope, graceful croton, a sprig of coleus with leaves streaked with rose. They'll grow happily if you've lined the bottom of the terrarium with cinders, added soil until it's about one-quarter full. No watering. A small glass cover keeps the inside warm and moist, a tiny hothouse!

For a window with only two or three hours' sunlight, plant your terrarium with lovely African violets or rosy begonias, ferns or ivy. An exposure with no sun at all will support small ferns, bright partridge-berry.

And be sure to have a dish garden! Gay and exotic in your pet pottery bowl are aloe, sempervivum, cacti. Plant in clean sharp sand and garden soil—with pebbles or bits of broken flower pot for drainage.

Our 32-page booklet tells you how to plant and care for lovely terrariums, novel bottle and dish gardens. Gives instructions for raising orchids in terrariums, pretty herb window gardens.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of GLASS GARDENS AND NOVELTY INDOOR GARDENS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Can Patronage Be Stopped?

Ian Strachan, member of the Ontario legislature for one of the Toronto ridings, talked about political patronage at a Liberal Association meeting in his city, and it seems he made a rather thorough job of it in placing the matter in its right light. This is the way he put it:

"If the people want patronage to continue then it will continue. If a member is to be judged by the number of jobs he can produce for his constituents or the number of public buildings he can have erected in his riding then the patronage problem will continue."

That appears to be a fair and correct enough statement. There are members of parliament who in their campaign addresses never fail to recount the number of things which they have been able to "get done" in their riding. They have been successful in having buildings erected and roads built and they desire to be judged on that record. If nothing has been done then the electors are apt to come to the conclusion that they have not a strong enough member at the seat of government.

The one thing they fail to realize is that they are actually being bribed with their own money. When they see a new building in their midst they think in terms of civic pride and the amount of work it has provided, but they do not continue their thinking to the point where they begin to reckon how much of their money is going into paying for it.

If a member is able to find a number of positions for the workers of his party during his term of office then he is in good standing. He will have more workers for the next election and they will have reason to anticipate that the day of their reward will not be long delayed. The fact that other members in other ridings are doing the same thing and in this way are constantly adding to the number of people who work for the government seldom bothers the people at all. Even a casual thought on the subject would show that each new name on the public pay roll means another drain on the public purse.

It is not possible to agree entirely with Mr. Strachan's contention that the whole cure rests with the public. Take our Federal parliament as an example. We have 245 members there and in the last election there were 4,445,200 people who went out to vote on the question of their election. Where is the most reasonable place to begin if we desire to get away from patronage and come to the point where public expenditure is going to be confined to services and equipment which are essential to the transaction of public business? We admit it would take a long time to make 4,445,200 people see the light, and for that reason alone it would be easier to bring the matter before the 245 who finally get to parliament.

They are not in parliament to do everything the people suggest they should do. They are there to use judgment and good sound business sense. Situated as they are at the seat of government they are in possession at all times of the latest figures which show the amount of money which the people are contributing in the form of taxation; they are aware of what is being called for in the way of expenditure, and they can see that there is more going out than the amount which is being received. When they see that surely we have a right to expect they will have the sound sense which will deliberately shake the head in a negative way at new expenditure or new appointments.

The Examiner admits it would be splendid to fall in with the suggestion of Mr. Strachan and cure the 4,445,200 people of their patronage expectations, but contends it is much more direct and feasible to start with the 245 members of parliament.

Can Hitler Do it?

There is to be opportunity to see how great is Adolf Hitler, for he is going to attack a problem which the rest of the world has not solved. And that is the killing of people by motor car traffic.

Hitler opened a Berlin motor show and straightway declared that "reckless driving is a crime against the nation," and from that starting point went on to declare that "offenders would be exterminated without mercy."

Hitler had undoubtedly been looking at the records of traffic accidents in his own land and found that in the last six years as many Germans had died from that cause as fell in the entire Franco-Prussian war of 1870. Having regard for the number of cars in operation the German traffic hazard is much greater than in United States or Canada and casualties are about three times as numerous.

We have been trying to thin out our lists for a number of years, and some improvement has been made, but admittedly our figures are not decreasing rapidly enough. So we are rather keen to know how Hitler is going to attend to it. His own words that offenders will "be exterminated without mercy" are not in the class of soft stuff; they suggest even that the dictator has in mind the guillotine or a firing squad or that offenders would be run over by a huge government-propelled truck. Whatever he is going to try will be watched with a degree of interest because he is tackling a problem which is pretty much world wide, and one which has so far defied reasonable solution in our own land. Of course we would draw the line at the guillotine or the noose or the firing squad, but if Herr Hitler has anything else up his sleeve we are keen to know what it is.

Watching The Dictators

The Examiner received from the office of publication in London a copy of the Imperial Review. To look at the cover one would suspect it was British. A great flag is across the front and also a sturdy looking British workman with a sledge in his hand, sleeves rolled up and bits of binding about his trouser legs below the knee.

The editor in a covering letter announces the edition is a "Peace and Prosperity" number, the burden of the text being to impress upon the people that there is much work to be done and now is the time to proceed with the doing. That "Peace and Prosperity" theme is carried pretty well throughout the publication.

But right at the outset of the thing the publisher has taken occasion to use up one full page with "A Threefold Warning to the Dictators." It seems impossible to leave the dictators out of the question even when peace and prosperity are being attended to, and it looks as though the British editor considered it well to have a word with such right at the start before wading too deep into the business of peace and prosperity. And we dare say that is just the way a good many British folk feel about it. They want to proceed with the joyous business of attending to peace and prosperity, but from force of habit by living as they do on the edge of Europe, they must now and then look over the shoulder to see if the dictators are behaving. The fact that the Imperial Review puts its warning to dictators at the front of its number is probably typical of a good deal of British thought today.

Selecting Investments

Probably every community has its own financial problems. In the town of Goderich the Public Library Board was reviewing its finances for the year and found a $2,000 city of Brandon bond on which the interest of $100 had been defaulted so the Board will have to seek another $100 to make up for that.

One of the town officials remarked, "We would have been better off to have taken out a government bond and been sure of $60 interest rather than gambling for $100."

The Brandon debenture had been paying 5 per cent., and the government bond would have paid but 3 per cent., and possibly it was that difference of 2 per cent. in interest which caused the Goderich Board to purchase the higher rate security.

That is one thing which Peterborough finds to admire about the way in which the City Trust has invested all the sinking funds of this city. The total investments have run into millions and there is not one in default. The only weak link in the chain is $10,000 in province of Alberta bonds on which the Trust has refused to accept the offer of one-half the arranged interest as payment in full. And Alberta bonds are not listed as being in default.

Disregarding The Rules

Hawkesbury often enough gets its name into print in connection with relief matters. The place has a heavy enough relief list and considerable assistance is needed.

The latest trouble happened about a supply of wood. Recipients of relief wood were supposed to have had their supply which was to have lasted them until a certain day in the month, but they came asking for more, claiming they had used all on hand.

The relief administrator had a rough enough time of it when he appeared at his office. His statement was that he could do nothing about it; all he had to do was carry out the duties as set forth for his office. He had not the power to issue more wood orders until a certain day in the month. The result was that the people on relief helped themselves to the wood and went home.

And what will be done about it? Nothing at all. When there is no fire in the house in cold weather it would be hard to convict a man on any count where he had gone to get wood today instead of the day after tomorrow.

As It Was On The Tenth

Frederick Jagel is one of the tenors of the Metropolitan Opera in New York, and that in itself is sufficient guarantee that Frederick is good. He was in Washington a few days ago trying to air his grievances against the tune of the Star Spangled Banner, but he could not find the proper individual or the right committee where he could state his complaint. The department of agriculture of course had nothing to do with it, nor had the people in the office of trade, commerce or finance. It appeared the Star Spangled Banner was something separate and apart from the whole machinery of constitutional activity.

Jagel finally told what the trouble was. "The notes run up too high." And when a Metropolitan tenor urges that complaint we are inclined to believe there is something in it. The average man does not like his singing running up too high, and the fact that it often enough does so has caused complaint in other places and other times. It was so even on the Tenth Concession.

This way: In the church at the corner of the Tenth and the Broken Front Road there were years when there was no instrument. There was no such thing as a $10,000 pipe organ playing over the first few lines so the congregation could catch on to what tune they were in for. Years after they did get one of those organs which was inflated by a vigorous movement of the feet.

Meantime the congregation was under the tender guidance of Elder Miller and he was possessed of some knowledge of music. Also he owned a tuning fork and appeared to know how to make the thing work. He always sat at the end of the pew second from the front seat in the centre. When it came time to sing a hymn the preacher used to read the lines of the first verse, and then he looked in an expectant way at Elder Miller. He rose in his seat, put his hand in the hip pocket of his Sunday trousers and produce the tuning fork. Then he tapped it gently on the end of the pew, held the thing close to his good ear and proceeded to hum up and down a while in search of the elusive note on which he was to decide.

When he had made up his mind the choir rose and so did the folk in the pews and the Elder gave them the start. He had a sort of high strung fiddle voice himself and he generally pitched the tune so he could enjoy it, but it was rather hard on the other folk. Many a man filled with the ardor of worship in that church did the best he could but when the notes started getting up too high he'd just have to drop out of the contest and wait for a place where they slumped down to something he could handle without getting too red in the face. Whether Frederick Jagel, the tenor from New York, could have swung along with Elder Miller for high notes is doubtful even if Mr. Jagel can go up fairly high. People couldn't very well hold a meeting of protest because they loved the Elder and admitted he was doing the best he could and not getting anything out of it. But out of church it was common enough to hear the folk talking and wishing that Elder Miller would pull the tunes down about an inch and a-half. They always reckoned such things in inches not knowing how to express themselves in correct terms of notes. So if their Star Spangled Banner runs up too high it is not the first tune that has done so. We encountered the same thing every Sunday at the church on the corner of the Tenth and the Broken Front Road.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Death is announced of the man who invented the hook and eye fastener, and it is quite correct to say his invention had a far-reaching effect on thousands of ladies.

Rome denies that a shot by a madman was intended to his Mussolini. In order to have reached the Duce the shot would have had to go around several corners and through a number of doors, so we are content to accept the official view.

It was stated in the Commons that if Ottawa were not the seat of government it would be but a little country town. But some of these little country towns can be mighty nice, wholesome and friendly places.

Young woman in Australia won $5,000 on a race ticket, and then came to visit a sister in Canada. She went home the other day on funds supplied by some charitable organization. We imagine if the world's wealth were all evenly divided it would come out that way before long with a good many people.

HOBO MAN

(By A.R.K.)

¶ The hobo men who call on me, are never filled with fun or glee, I wish that might be so; but while they eat their tales are tough, of kindness they find not enough, I'm glad to see them go.

¶ One tells me how he had a home, before he started out to roam, nor was he then in need; he was a citizen of note, and fair big deals he used to float, before he went to seed.

¶ Another tells me of the way, in which he used to earn his pay, and there was little strife; he married riches so he said, until some jay now two years dead, skipped out and took his wife.

¶ The hobo men all speak of woe, they say it's tough to come and go, they envy me my home; they tell of floors on which they sleep, of callous spots and corn-bound feet, and then they roar and groan.

¶ If they would tell me now and then, of some nice friendly fellow men, who warm their spine and knees; instead of chanting hymns of hate, speak of hot victuals that they ate, of apple pie and cheese.

¶ I always greet the hobo man, and do for him the best I can, but glad to see him go; because I know before he comes, just how his tale of suffering runs—and it is one of woe.

Our Statesmen At Their Labor

(From Hansard)

A LAWYER SENDS A BILL

On the orders of the day:

Hon. R. J. MANION (Leader of the Opposition): Perhaps the Minister of Justice (Mr. Lapointe) could give an answer to the question I directed to him a couple of days ago in regard to an account for legal fees amounting to $10,000 reported to have been put in by a gentleman connected with the Bren gun inquiry.

Right Hon. ERNEST LAPOINTE (Minister of Justice): The matter has not been disposed of or adjusted; it is engaging the attention of the department at the present time. As soon as information is available it will be given.

Mr. MANION: The question was whether the account had been received, not whether it had been paid. Did this lawyer put in this account?

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): Even that is entirely departmental business. As a matter of fact an account has been received, but I do not think I am bound to give the information. The matter is before the department and is confidential until it is adjusted, when the information will be given.

Mr. MANION: But parliament has too a right to know some of these things, too.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): No, it is purely a matter of administration. I have to make a decision myself before acquainting parliament with it.

PEOPLE PROMISE TO PAY

Mr. LANDERYOU: I have raised that question because I understand that in sound financing it was a cardinal principle that money be set aside in a sinking fund to take care of debt.

Mr. DUNNING: In principle I agree.

Mr. LANDERYOU: In one of the resolutions I notice it is the intention of the government to provide a sinking fund to retire in ten years the sums borrowed for capital expenditures in the Department of National Defence. I had hoped the government would possibly set aside a sinking fund to provide for the retirement of this $750,000,000.

Mr. DUNNING: We are making a beginning on the principle in the manner the hon. member has indicated.

Mr. LANDERYOU: I am pleased to note that. Section 91 of the British American Act reads, in part, as follows:

4. The borrowing of money on the public credit.

Would the minister explain just what we mean by "public credit"?

Mr. DUNNING: When the government of Canada borrows money it pledges the word of the people of Canada, as represented by their duly constituted government, to repay the amount borrowed. The public credit of Canada therefore consists of the obligation which I have just stated, authorized by this parliament.

Mr. LANDERYOU: Could the minister tell the committee just what stands behind the bonds and securities issued against the public credit? Is it just the word of the dominion, or what is it?

Mr. Dunning: In the last analysis, the good faith of the people of Canada, their willingness as a people to honour their given word.

Mr. LANDERYOU: Would it be fair to say that the natural resources of Canada stand behind the bonds and securities issued by this government?

Mr. DUNNING: That is a highly theoretical question. No securities issued by this dominion constitute a mortgage upon any of the business assets of the dominion. What is given is the word of the people to pay. As I understand it, it is the word of the people that stands behind the bonded obligations of this country.

Mr. LANDERYOU: I am glad to know that it is just the word of the people to pay. At the moment would the minister consider amending the act to provide a sinking fund?

Mr. DUNNING: I have already dealt with that.

HOBBLING CUPID.

Cupid's activities amongst relief recipients in Saskatchewan will be curbed if a resolution sponsored by one municipality is acted upon. The purpose is to require all indigents to get applications for marriage licenses approved by councils before they are issued.

While it does seem stupid for a man to take a wife when he cannot even keep himself, with the probable result that children will be brought into the world to become public charges, yet it is doubtful if the proposal advanced is a proper solution. It is human nature for men and women to mate, and society has developed the institution of marriage to meet the requirements. It is a large responsibility to undertake to say that healthy and normal men and women should not wed just because they have no money.

Most men and most women with common sense will hesitate about marrying if the bread winner is jobless. But to give municipal councils authority to say they shall not wed would hardly be wise. It is not part of councils' duties to interfere with Dan Cupid.—(Windsor Daily Star)

AN APPLE A DAY.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture recommends apples as teeth exercisers, teeth cleaners, a reducing diet, for sweet breath, to revive taste, to revive nervous energy, to acquire vivacious charm, as an eliminative, for the eyesight, as a thirst quencher, for decorations and as a substitute for stimulants and narcotics.

These are only a few of the reasons that P. F. Love, publicity representative, sets forward, but they are sufficient to show that he loves his apples.

In addition, he puts down apples as an aid in curing such things as heartburn, slow digestion, insomnia, and glaring headlights.

He really speaks very nicely about apples.—(Toronto Telegram)

• U.S. Lard For German Harmonicas

WASHINGTON—According to word here which appears to be authentic, Swift and Co. of Chicago, the meat packers, aren't in the market for harmonicas. If you wonder what Swift and Co. care about harmonicas anyway writes R. L. Strout in Christian Science Monitor. You have to go back into the complicated question of international trade which has become 10 times more complicated in recent days because of the German financial structure and its dependence upon barter in foreign exchange.

Before taking up harmonicas therefore, let us consider the question of Germany. There is no doubt that Germany needs lard. She is so pressed for fat that a substitute for butter is being made out of whale oil. The United States, of course, has plenty of lard to export. Germany also needs and wants grain, and the United States has an acute grain surplus.

Conditions like this lay the basis for the latest reports, carried in Associated Press dispatches and printed on the financial page of this paper Tuesday, that barter discussions are again under way. Germany, the reports say, will take American farm products, and in return send over quantities of German goods. In behalf of the program it is recalled that Secretary of State Hull, last week, said he didn't object to pure barter, uncomplicated by third parties or blocked marks, so long as it didn't interfere with his trade agreement program. It is recalled, too, that direct barter with Germany on a small scale has brought an exchange of California fruit and Virginia apples for German fertilizers.

Finally, Swift and Co. some years ago exchanged some of its meat products for German harmonicas, and made a slight profit on the deal it is understood.

Having said so much, however, one is forced to add that careful checks of the subject in Washington show tremendous obstacles in the way of the barter plan. In fact, the obstacles are so big and so well known as to raise the charge that Germany is not really hoping for immediate deals, but is really engaged in propaganda. This charge is heard today in official circles which may, however, be prejudiced. Anyway, here are the facts.

In the first place, the large Chicago packing houses have now declined to enter into deals with Germany which do not involve cash, it is reported on good authority. The step has been taken even though they have a big surplus of pork supplies. The exchange of pork for German harmonicas, and then the sale of the harmonicas in the United States, is just too complicated, they declare.

There is a final, very human obstacle. That is the refusal of some American importers to handle goods from Germany, even on a barter basis. Recently this found expression in the reported refusal of importers to handle German wine in a proposed exchange for American pork products. The importers declare that the "Made-in-Germany" stamp is not popular in the United States and that they do not care to risk retail sales of such goods.

• Railway Runs Should Employ More

EDITOR EXAMINER: Sir, — We would like to place a few facts before the public and taxpayers of the Dominion of Canada on behalf of the furloughed railwaymen, many of whom are on relief, through no fault of their own. These men have been employees of the railways from 15 to 23 years, but today are in the ranks of the unemployed in order that the senior men of the running trades may be able to work 38 days in one month (100 miles on freight runs being equal to one day's pay). May I state that even the men in our penal institutions only work six days per week.

In order that the taxpayers may fully understand the meaning of the above statement, we will give you an example below. For every two men working 38 days in one month they are keeping one man on relief, who would otherwise be gainfully employed at a living wage. It is quite easy to see from the above statement the despicable condition that exists on our Canadian railroads, even in these modern times. No doubt when you realize the thousands of men in the running trades throughout the Dominion who are working 38 days in one month, you will know how the great army of unemployed could be reduced by from 10,000 to 15,000 men. As other crafts on the railroads only work six days of the week, why should the running trade be favored by working 38 days in one month.

No doubt some of these furloughed men of the running trades are employed in factories and at other work. Now as these men would automatically be taken back to their former jobs, it would in turn create further employment for other men. When these men go back to work they and their families will be able to buy and consume more, and thus aid the farming and manufacturing industries. These industries would in turn be able to employ more help.

This gain in employment could be easily and quickly accomplished by simply reducing the working days of the senior men in the running trades from 38 days per month to 26 days per month. I would like to give Mr. Taxpayer an example: Three furloughed men of our acquaintance have respectively 7, 9 and 5 children. Now when these men go back to work it will take 24 dependents off relief. So you can see how the relief rolls would be reduced.

In conclusion I wish it to be known that seniority does give the senior man his choice of jobs. But it does not give him the right to work 38 days per month (thereby putting thousands of men on the streets in order that he may obtain those extra 12 days that do not belong to him). Therefore, we ask you to support this worthy cause by getting in touch with your member of Parliament and by voicing your opinion through your local newspaper. And Mr. Taxpayer and Mr. Merchant may we have your support too.

HEAD HUNTERS.

A 30-year-old slave, bought for £46, is reported to have been sacrificed to a deity by Yanwang Maimong Nagas, a tribe living in an unadministered area, five days' journey on foot from Margherita, Assam. Officials have hurried there for an inquiry.

The Nagas, hill tribesmen famous of old for their head-hunting raids, lose their bad habits but slowly. This is however the first charge of human sacrifice brought against them since 1930, when 30 cases were dealt with in the Northeast Frontier tract and the neighboring unadministered areas. As a result of a personal inquiry by the Political Officer, Sadiya, 500 human skulls were discovered and burnt to ashes in the Nagas' presence.—Indian Press Union.

PIONEER.

OF the myriad young ladies who come to New York from other, less confused places, we believe the Miss Katherine Burns, of Minnesota, is the best-oriented. After her first few weeks here, she sensibly concluded that she would never properly understand the subway systems, so, reverting to the days when she used to roam the north woods, she now carries a pocket compass. She can't use it underground, of course, because of electrical interference from the third rail, but it's useful for getting started in the right direction once she reaches the street.—The New Yorker.

NOT WHAT IT SEEMS.

The comparatively narrow frontage which 145 Piccadilly — former residence of the King and Queen, and now adorned with a "to let" board — shows to the world, is no real indication of its size. For, like so many London houses, it goes a long way back, and burrows deeply underground. As a matter of fact, there are 12 kitchens in the establishment, and when royalty were in residance some of the 30 servants needed to run it scarcely ever saw the light of day, except at "off"duty times.—(Glasgow Bulletin)

THE FIRST RULE.

When we were a young gaffer we had always to stand by the chief while he perused our report and passed comments on it from the position of a comma to a mis-statement of fact. "What" he asked us one day, "is the first duty of a newspaperman?" "To be accurate", we answered proudly. "Right", he said, "but bracket with that 'to look out for libels.' An accurate report will never contain a libel."—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

WHEN IS SMOKING "HEAVY"

(Calgary Albertan)

Dr. Hill, Calgary's medical health officer, defines "heavy" smoking as 25 cigarettes a day. Dr. Hill is a devotes of the pipe so it may be hard to say whether he considers himself a "heavy" smoker or not.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

The Lord is exalted: for he dwelleth on high: he hath filled Zion with judgment and righteousness. And wisdom and knowledge shall be the stability of thy times, and strength of salvation: the fear of the Lord is his treasure.—Isa. xxxiii, 5, 6.

✧ ✧ ✧

The Lord of hosts hath sworn, saying, Surely as I have thought, so shall it come to pass, and as I have purposed, so shall it stand. . . For the Lord of hosts hath purposed, and who shall disannul it? and his hand is stretched out, and who shall turn it back?—Isa. xiv, 24, 27.

✧ ✧ ✧

O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out! For who hath known the mind of the Lord? or who hath been his counsellor? . . . For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: to whom be glory for ever. Amen.—Rom. xi, 33, 34, 36.

CHANTS HIS PRAISE.

We chant the praises of Mahlon Smith, a stout lad who lives on his father's farm near Raymond, Alberta. As we see it, the boy who stood on the burning deck was a poltroom compared to Mahlon, who, while helping his father tear down a disused granary, unearthed a whole colony of skunks. Working alone on the business of tearing up the floor, Mahlon, the job half completed, heaved up the remaining half and propped it on his shoulders, the better to see what he was doing. Beneath the floor were nine skunks browsing peacefully on the brown prairie grass. In so ghastly a predicament, did our hero lose his head, drop the heavy burden and run for safety? He did not. Mahlon Smith is made of sterner stuff. He stood right where he was until the charming little beasties, having closed their business on that particular spot, ambled away to fresh pastures. Don't talk to us about that Holland kid who stuck his thumb in the hole in the dike. We'll take Mahlon Smith.—(Maclean's Magazine)

A Bit of Nonsense

Not His Affair

Mrs. Smith was particularly fond of reminding her husband that the silver was hers, the piano was hers, and the furniture was hers, and Smith was getting tired of it.

One night Mrs. Smith was awakened by noises downstairs. She shook her husband.

"Henry," she said hoarsely, "get up. There are burglars downstairs."

"Burglars!" echoed Smith, wearily. "Well, let 'em burgle. There's nothing of mine down there."

At the Lending Library

"I want a nice novel, please," said the young lady.

"With a sentimental or naturalistic ending?" asked the attendant.

"What is the difference?"

"In a romantic novel they have many ups and downs and they marry at the last. In a realistic novel they marry in the first chapter, and then the troubles start."

Romance

They were on their honeymoon cruise in mid-Atlantic.

"Oh, Walter," she said, "suppose the ship went down now — how lovely to die together."

"I can swim."

"Oh, what a pity."

Awkward

"What is the matter, old fellow? You look desperate."

"So I am. Six hours ago I telephoned my wife that I could not come home to supper and told her the reason."

"Then there is nothing to worry about."

"But I've forgot the reason I gave her."

Amateur Contest Is Featured At Zion Banquet

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ZION, Feb. 20.—An enjoyable evening was spent when the Willing Workers gave an oyster supper on Tuesday evening.

Supper was served in the Orange Hall, the tables being tastefully decorated with heart-shaped centrepieces and hyacinths.

After a good supper a display of local talent was given in the church in the form of a "Major Bowes Amateur Program," Garfield Crowe acting as Major Bowes.

The program commenced with an address given by the Rev. Mr. Wilkinson. A song was sung prettily by Betty and Doris Mathews and Jean Dunford, accompanied by Miss M. Webster on the piano; a piano selection by Billie Batten; May Moore recited "When I Was a Little Girl"; Miss Lenore McIlvena sang, with piano accompaniment by her mother; a piano duet by Ruth and John Wilkinson; a six-piece orchestra, named the "Rippling Rithaneers," consisting of guitars, violin and piano; a delightful vocal solo was given by Liverne Mathews; a piano solo by Barbara Parsons; a humorous dialogue, "Reading the Pleasant Plains Review," was acted by Margot Clysdale (Mrs. Dusenberry), Ernie Detlor (Bob Dusenberry), and Barbara Parsons (Mrs. Muggins). A song, "Chewing Chawing Gum," was sung by Liverne and Doris Mathews and David Millar, Betty Mathews accompanying them on the piano. An interesting reading was given by Mr. Trevor Little; another selection from the orchestra, dressed as darkies, was a pleasing number, and was called "The Hall's Glen Hill Billies." Mr. Crowe then gave an address and the evening closed by all singing the National Anthem.

Looking Back
On This Date

Sir Robert Borden in his memoirs, tells of an unusual incident which took place in the House of Commons on Feb. 20, 1913. The public accounts committee was investigating payments to the Diamond Light and Heating Company of Montreal and it appeared by the evidence that $41,026 had been paid for the purpose of procuring contracts from the Dominion government for some $117,000. R. C. Miller, who had been president of the company, refused to state to whom the money had been paid. On Feb. 17, Mr. Middleboro, chairman of the committee, had brought this contumacy to the attention of the House of Commons and, on his motion, Miller attended at the bar of the House the next day. He was accompanied by counsel, who declared that Miller declined to answer the question put for the reason that it would incriminate him. This answer was insufficient as under the law any answer that a witness might give to such a question was privileged.

It was, therefore, ordered that Miller should be taken into custody and the Speaker's warrant was issued. On Feb. 20 Miller, in custody of the sergeant at arms, was brought before the bar of the House and the question was again put to him. He proceeded to make a long statement and a lively debate ensued, mostly between legal experts on both sides.

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier, always mindful of the dignity of the House and determined to uphold its powers brushed aside the contentions of Mr. Pugsley and Mr. Carvell by his concurrence in the opinion expressed by Mr. Doherty, to whom he offered warm congratulations. At the end he suggested that it was a serious thing to send a respectable citizen to jail or to keep him within the precincts of the House and he thought I would be well advised to take the matter into further consideration. The motion declaring Miller to be guilty of contempt was carried upon division, and on my motion Miller was brought to the bar to hear the judgment of the House. He remained in jail until prorogation (June 6) still persisting in his refusal to answer.

By MAX TRELL

KNARF came running up excitedly to his sister, Hanid. "I've just found a place full of hundreds of telegraph poles wth wires," he said. "Come with me and I'll snow it to you."

Hanid went with Knarf into the parlor.

"First you've got to make yourself small," he told her. So they both made themselves small. Shadows can make themselvs any size they please. Just watch your own shadow some time and you'll know what I mean.

As soon as Hanid was small, Knarf pointed to the piano. "That's the place where all the wires are," he said. He took her arm and made her jump on top of the piano Then they both crawled inside under the cover. "See? There are hundreds of them!"

Hanid smiled. "Those aren't telegraph wires," she said to Knarf. "They're piano wires. They make the notes."

"Humph!" said Knarf. "They look like telegraph wires to me. Besides, I don't see how wires can make notes."

Hanid took him around to the front of the piano, just behind where the little white and black ivory keys were. "Do you see those little hammers " she said.

Knarf said he did.

"Well, each of the ivory keys is attached to one of the hammers. When anyone touches the keys, the hammers come down and hit the wires. Then the wires make a sound. And the sound is the note of the piano."

But Knarf didn't quite believe her. "Maybe what you say is right But I don't think those hammers can move." He decided to see for himhammer It was right over the biggest self. He got behind the very last andthickest of the wires (for the wires in the piano seemed to be of different lengths and thicknesses). Then he pushed the hammer.

At first it didn't move at all.

"I knew it wouldn't," he said.

"Push it harder," said Hanid. "Push it with all your might!"

So Knarf, the shadow-boy, pushed it with all hs might. And the next isstant—BOOM, went the piano as the hammer came down on the wire. Knarf was so starttled that he sprang out of the pinao as fast as his legs would carry him, and he didn't stop running until he had safely hidden himself in the highest corner of the attick. But Handid only laughed. "I guess now you know I was right," she said.

Rural Pupils Enjoy Film Hydro On Farms

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, Feb. 20. — On Friday afternoon the pupils attending the agriculture short course put on a most enjoyable concert before a good crowd. The program opened with singing of "O Canada," followed by a reading by Jack Bolin, "How a Printer Mixed a Wedding with a Sale." Play entitled "Beauty Secrets," by the girls. Girls' quartette, "Sweet and Low" was followed by a Session of Parliament, which was enjoyed by all. Class paper by Madeline Stark. Miss Bryce was pianist for the afternoon.

The girls have made progress in nursing, including taking of temperatures, pulse treatment of drowning, poisoning, etc., during the past week. The boys have heard lectures on live stock and field crops, and on Tuesday judged horses and Holstein cattle at the farm of Harry McIntyre. On Wednesday the girls and boys saw a film of motion pictures by the C.G.E. dealing with Hydro-Electric in farm homes.

Bethany Institute Learns Of Pottery

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, Feb. 20. — The Women's Institute Branch met at the home of Mrs. Clara Armstrong on Monday evening, with 13 members present. The secretary's office was filled for the evening by Mrs. Harold Payne. Several items of business were dealt with, and the meeting was put in charge of Group 1. The convener, Mrs. A. Thorndyke, taking charge of the program. A splendid paper on Old Pottery was given by Mrs. H. H. Ryley, the speaker demonstrating several pieces of blue willow. One piece, a large platter over 100 years old, was centred on a beautiful tablecloth worked in similar design, the work of Miss Baura Morton of the village. A poem was given by Mrs. Thorndyke, followed by two contests put on by Mrs. J. Armstrong, Mrs. Jarvis, and Mrs. Thorndyke being the winners.

A dainty and most appetizing lunch was served by Mrs. Armstrong and her assistants, and a social hour was enjoyed.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. Payne on the second Monday in March.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE

JEFFREY HAD barely disappeared from sight when the tireless Karns brought in Count Orsini. At his entrance I sat up and took notice. There were a great many things, in my opinion, for which Daphne's erstwhile fiance must answer.

"You wished to see me, no?" He advanced stiffly and clicked his heels in approved military fashion. He was really a vision with his monocle screwed into one eye and his spotless white spats protruding from the neat cuffs of his dark trousers. Little Ludwig certainly knew his onions when it came to valeting!

"Thank you." The count seated himself, smoothing the creases of his trousers with practiced nicety. "I may smoke, no?"

"Yes." Ellis frowned. Evidently his fondness, if any, for visiting royalty, was undergoing a rapid decline.

"Thank you," repeated the count, and, seemingly unaware of hostility, he drew from an inner pocket a cigaret holder of pale jade and ivory. Into this he fitted a gold-tipped and monogramed cigaret. When all had been arranged to his satisfaction, he puffed daintily, sending thin clouds of perfumed smoke swirling through the air.

"With your permission!" And there was Mac, bowing to the manner born, as he fished from his pocket a fat, black cigar. I choked back my laughter at the count's expression of horrified amazement.

"Now we can talk," the detective continued, puffing, not at all daintily. "There are several things not clear to me—"

"No?" Orsini's amazement in creased.

"No. For instance, I can't get it through my head how you happen to be here at the Manor."

"But eet ees so seemple! I come for the engagement to be announced!"

"Oh, yes; I had forgotten! I suppose, under the circumstances, the engagement must be postponed?"

"But naturally!" The count's tone rebuked him. "We shall wait a reasonable time."

"Too bad." Mac pulled a long face. "Almost looks as if someone didn't want the engagement to be announced, doesn't it?"

"You theenk so?" He frowned darkly. "I haf wondered—I haf een thees house enemees!"

"Jeffrey Todington, for example," Mac rambled on contemplatively. "You might say he isn't so keen to have his girl marry you."

"Zut! That one!"

"And even Miss Witherspoon herself—"

The count uttered an impolite word. "So! you hear lies about me, eh? Bah! What does a young, innocent girl know of such things? She weel come to love me; I teach her love!"

"I have heard rumors of the engagement being called off altogether—"

"Eet ees not true!" The count was working himself into a fearful lather. "She weel marry me. I see to eet!"

Mac regarded him quizzically. "In America our girls do not marry unless they choose to do so. Since Mrs. Witherspoon is no longer alive—"

"Eet ees a contract of honor!" insisted the other, his face turning purple.

"Well, we'll see about that. Now another thing—"

"Another?"

"Oh, we're just getting started." Mac informed him soberly. "Relax. Bad for the blood pressure, getting so steamed up."

"I relax."

"Good! I want to know where you met Miss Witherspoon, and when."

"Eet was in France—the Riviera. The time—eet ees last winter."

"France, eh? And you proposed to her there?"

"MEESTER McIntyre!" The count was pained. "In my country we do not propose to the jeune fille. Eet ees arranged. I correspond for many months with madame, her grandmother."

"Yes?" Mac was interested. "Peculiar custom. Mrs. Witherspoon approved?"

"But certainly! I haf the title; I haf the family—"

Orsini shrugged: "We make the fair exchange."

"I daressy it's all according to the way you look at it." Mac flipped some cigar ashes into the fireplace. "Over here we believe in marrying for love."

"So?" The count permitted himself a faint smile. "A funny custom, as you say No?"

"Did Mr. Horace consent to the match?"

"The papa? I theenk so. He ees a good son; he agrees with the madame."

"By the way" — abruptly Mac shifted his point of inquiry—"did you ever meet any of this bunch, the guests, I mean, before this week?"

"No. All are strangers."

"Hum-m-m-m—you came directly from Paris?"

"Direct. I arrive las' week on the Franconia."

"You and Ludwig?"

"Ludwig?" The count's monocle dropped to his waistcoat. "My valet?"

"Uh-huh."

"But, of course! Always he travels with me."

"Nice little chap?"

"Nice?" I could see that Count Orsini was becoming more and more convinced of American insanity. Fancy anyone thinking a valet a "nice little" fellow! It was all he could do to restrain himself.

"Thinks the world of you, too," Mac went on. "Says you're so kind and generous."

"Generous?" The count's expression was that of incredulity.

"Uh-huh. Showed me a pair of shoes you gave him. Good shoes—hardly worn. Just goes to prove what he said about your generosity."

"Ah, the shoes!" The count's eyebrow's twitched erratically. He said hastily: "They were too small."

"And they squeaked," added Mac gravely. "Perhaps you noticed?"

"No! I noticed nothing."

"Any questions, Ellis?"

Chief Ellis stared at him. "No!"

"Very well. That's all, count."

"All?"

"Yes."

"I may go?"

"You may."

"Er — thank you." Again the count clicked his heels and withdrew.

Mac chuckled: "Got him worried, eh? He was all set for the rubber hose. Well, let him stew for a while; stewing is good for a guilty conscience."

"But why?" I demanded. "Did the count want that tissue? Unless he committed the crime, and he didn't have any reason to."

"Time will tell, Elsie," Mac replied, and I bent low over my notebook before I should encounter the infuriating grin that he seemed to reserve especially for me.

"See here, McIntyre!" Ellis was plainly losing patience. "How many times must I tell you to keep quiet? What is all this about shoes and tissue? I've a right to know."

Mac smiled. He shook his head. "As long as I'm working alone, chief, my imformation is my own."

"And what about my information? You're taking all that in, aren't you?"

"Right! And I'm not meaning to hold out on you, Ellis. When the time is right, I'll tell you everything and anything."

It was along about four in the afternoon by this time, and I was getting tired and cross and sleepy. It did not seem to me that we were getting to any place—and another night was approaching. And there was a killer loose somewhere in the house! A killer who had struck once, perhaps twice, and who would not hesitate to strike again! The prospect was not pleasant. The thought of darkness gave me the jitters.

"Catnap, baby?" Phil stole over beside me. I jumped three feet.

I bestowed upon him a freezing, fleeting glance. "How much longer is this side-show going to last?"

"Not long, kid." He took my hand in his. "Cheer up! Think of the stories you'll have to tell your grandchildren!"

"If I live to have grandchildren!" I retorted, jerking away from him. I was not in the mood for raillery; I was not in the mood for anything unless it were a good hard cry.

"All right, honey." He moved away. "Go ahead and have yourself a good mad; you'll feel better."

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, February 21

AN EXTREMELY active and eventful day is presaged by the major aspects of the predominant planetary forces. There may be very drastic efforts in putting over important projects, which are likely to succeed best through strategy and undercover agreements, although these may also carry a menace of fraud, duplicity or treachery. Proper vigilance, precaution and personal integrity should bring surprising climaxes, with unforeseen good fortune. Conservatism in handling funds is also recommended, both in business and in private expenditures.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a surprising stroke of good fortune, if they will manage their affairs with acumen, vigilance and rigid integrity. A portentous situation might arise in connection with secret, illicit or tricky conditions. Beware of intrigue and suspicious propositions. Shun lavish expenditures in both business and private affairs. Contracts with strangers may prove profitable, but in all use caution.

A child born on this day may be versatile, energetic and probably aggressive. It may possess initiative to attain much success and good fortune, although it may be easily imposed upon or cheated.

Loyalists Plan Their Fifth Capital Shift

PERPIGNAN, France, Feb. 20.—(AP) — The Spanish government, which has shifted its capital four times during the civil war, was reported today to be on the move again—this time from the besieged city of Madrid to safer places on the Mediterranean coast.

Although Madrid remained technically the capital, government dispatches said the cabinet had decided to install its ministries in Valencia and other easter cities.

The dispatches said Premier Juan Negrin would return to Madrid from time to time to make any important announcements of action or policy.

The change was attributed officially to "material difficulties" in settling at Madrid. Only three of the nine main ministry buildings in the capital were said to be habitable.

Border observers believed the decision to move was partly prompted by the desire to spare Madrid the daily shellings to which it has been subjected since the government returned there last Sunday.

The new locations also would provide safer jumping off places for flight in case of surrender to General Franco or final victory for the nationalists.

The government first moved from Madrid when Franco's forces approached in November, 1936, and has since maintained its capital successively at Valencia, Barcelona, Figuras and again Madrid.

Peace Umbrella

LONDON, Feb. 20—(AP).—Queen Elizabeth to-day approved Prime Minister Chamberlain's famous umbrella as a "symbol of peace."

"That's a splendid idea," she said when show a replica of Mr. Chamberlain's umbrella during a visit to the British Industries Fair.

ROSENEATH

Church Members Discuss Means Raising Money

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Feb. 18.—Various methods for raising funds were discussed and two of the methods adopted at the regular meeting of the United Church W.A. on Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was held in Mrs. L. Tucker's home, Mrs. M. Davey conducted the devotional period. The theme of the service was "Love".

Mrs. A. Nill, president conducted the business period. Many suggestions were advanced regarding raising money and on motion, Mrs. M. Davey and Mrs. L. Tucker were appointed a committee to order material to make articles for sale.

Mrs. E. Sandercock donated an apron which will be used to gather coins. Other suggestions will be discussed and action taken at a later meeting.

Valentine contests arranged by Mrs. Arthur Braithwaite and Mrs. M. Davey, readings by Mrs. C. Grigg and Miss Irene Brown and a piano solo, played by Mrs. L. W. Scott featured a short program. At the close of the meeting the hostess served refreshments.

A New Movement

The next step will be considered by that committee and later submitted to the Chamber. Some of the members said on Saturday that they were pioneering on a new plane that other counties are watching Peterborough and the progress it accomplishes.

In his opening remarks Reeve Gifford said the agricultural committee of the county council had felt they were not doing much for the benefit of the industry. It was given authority by the council to break new ground by going ahead and doing whatever they thought might be helpful.

"As the Hon. Mr. Motherwell said recently, agriculture is as sick as a dog, but there is still time to bring it back, and it is up to all of us to try to do so," Mr. Gifford said. "By meeting here today Peterborough county is going to be watched all over the province as a proving ground. We have no invited speaker, because we didn't want you to come here and listen to a speech of an hour or so and then go away. We felt you wanted to see what we can do among ourselves. We have had splendid co-operation from our Agricultural Representative, Frank Paterson. He has been very helpful to us, and it would be an act of ingratitude if I did not thank him publicly for it on behalf of the committee."

No Model To Copy

The proposal of the county council's committee would have to be worked out by the farmers themselves, Mr. Paterson said. "There is no organization we can copy. In Norfolk they have a county Chamber of Commerce, but that is a misnomer. The Chamber of Agriculture is a young organization, but it appears to be taking hold in Essex, Elgin, Norfolk and some other counties that are engaged as we are here. I can assure you that the Department is in full accord with your movement, and I shall be glad to do whatever I can to help it along."

Warden Milby and the members of the committee each spoke briefly expressing goodwill and hopes for the success of the new Chamber, and thanking the farmers for their attendance in such a large number considering the many drifted roads in the country.

Unity Essential

V. S. Milburn congratulated the committee "on getting together such a fine group of Peterborough farmers who are interested in the problems of agriculture."

Throughout the province and the Dominion farmers were realizing from bitter experience that they had to unite in their common cause. The grievance was the same in all quarters.

"We haven't been able to sell our produce for sufficient money to enable us to buy the things we need, and will help us to do our part as good citizens," Mr. Milburn said. "We have to arrive at an intelligent policy by pooling the thoughts and ideas of farmers like those who are here this afternoon. The problems of agriculture are the most important national problems the government has to face today, and their solution has to come from the farmers."

"The ratepayers of Peterborough county are to be congratulated that they have an agricultural committee such as we have today, and it is up to us to do all we can to encourage and support them," said Gordon Hancock, seconding Clarence Mann's motion instructing the agricultural committee and Mr. Paterson to retire and bring in an organizing committee.

Mr. Milburn said that the commodity associations were essential, especially for bargaining purposes. Some of them were already well established, others were only struggling along. And some branches of the industry had no organization whatever. They would all be stimulated by the Chamber of Agriculture.

"And for goodness sake don't get mixed up in politics. Our job is to tell the governments what we want as other Dominions have already done. In Great Britain they are farther along in agricultural legislation than we are. The British government never passes legislation affecting agriculture without consulting the National Farmers' Union, and no other group is listened to with more respect.

The trouble with us is we have been listening to every Tom, Dick and Harry with a different opinion, and they have kept us back. They've had the governments up in the air, because they didn't know where they were going. The Chamber of Agriculture should be in a position to speak for all farmers with one voice. That is what we are aiming at."

Opposition to a requested increase in railway and trucking rates because that increase would come out of the prices of the primary producers was one of the activities of the Chamber that reached out to every farmer; also a petition to the federal government to enact marketing legislation extending the effects of the provincial marketing act.

CLAYTON PEACOCK

(Examiner Correspondence.)

COE HILL, Feb. 20—Death claimed Clayton Peacock of Faraday last Tuesday at the age of 23 years. He was a victim of spinal menengitis and was under the care of Dr. A. W. Anderson of Bancroft. He was confined to Coe Hill Red Cross hospital about two years ago, suffering from tubercular bone in his legs and has been in poor health since.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peacock of Faraday township and has resided all his life near Coe Hill. Up to the time of illness Mr. Peacock was managing a logging camp for Elmer Aldred. Floral tributes were many and beautiful.

The text was taken from Luke 7: 34 "Christ Your Greatest Friend." The hymns were favorites of the deceased, "All the Way My Saviour Leads Me" and "What A Friend We Have in Jesus". The pallbearers were Messrs Clarence Peacock, Robert Marshall, Ed Marshall, Andrew Campbell, Gerald Campbell and Amos Whitmore.

He leaves to mour his loss besides his sorrowing parents, three brothers, George of Farsday, William and Robert at home. He had been a member of Faraday Anglican church. Funeral services were held from his late home Thursday, February 16 at 1.30 p.m. Interment took place in the family plot at lower Faraday cemetery. Mr. W. R. Buchanan of the Coe Hill United church officiating.

Comic Debate Features Y.P.U. Social

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Feb. 20.—An impromptu debate, "Resolved that single blessedness, is to be more desired than married bliss" was the most amusing feature at a Valentine social held on Wednesday night by the Young People's Union of the United Church.

Lorne Anderson and Miss Hildred Taylor upheld the affirmative and Ray Bradshaw and Miss Ruby Blodgett the negative. The subject of the debate was disclosed to the debaters just five minutes before the debate was presented. The audience was the judge and judging by the applause greeting both side, the debating ability of the contestants was equal. Other features were Valentine games and contests, and eight tables of progressive euchre were played. Mrs. L. W. Scott won the ladies' prize, winning all 10 games. Clarence Parker and Allan Thackeray, tied for the men's prize with eigth games each. In the play-off Clarence won the prize.

The serving of refreshments concluded an enjoyable evening's entertainment.

"If Canada is to go forward courageously it will not be as a caravan of heterogenous groups but as a great people possessed of the soul, the heart and the ideals of a nation.

"A great nation cannot be founded on hatred, conflict and discord." Quebec will keep away from Ottawa the grimacing features of hatred and envy, and, believe me, will never trust its future in this country to any Charlatan.

"Because of differences of racial origin, of creed and of language, national salvation can be assured only by toleration, restraint and the will to unite and co-operate.

Urges United Fight

'But you know how easy it is for certain politicians to raise one province against the others and to pursue parochial politics. I appeal to all Liberals of the Dominion to join in fighting these nefarious practices and striving to destroy their pernicious effects.

"It is a sense of duty which keeps me still in public life while I perhaps am entitled to a rest after 35 years of struggle; also a sense of the loyalty which I owe to Mackenzie King who deserves all the co-operation I can give him."

The Prime Minister said Mr. Lapointe richly deserved respite after his long and distinguished service. Had he chosen he might have "accumulated at least sufficient of this world's goods to have enabled him to look forward to years of comparative leisure freed from the strain of public life and the anxieties it brings with respect to health and fortune.

"He has chosen instead to risk all this in his country's service. Come what may, he has put out of his mind all through of respite, retirement or reward and chosen to continue his membership in the House of Commons as its senior member in order that, if spared by Providence, he may take his place in the forefront of the battle at our next political campaign."

Mr. Mackenzie King announced Mr. Lapointe would be presented with a life-sized painting of himself in oils by whatever artist he may choose. The gift will be from the cabinet and one or two close personal friends.

Cabinet ministers representing each province and several heads of Quebec Liberal political groups joined in tribute to the minister. The banquet was organized by Pensions Minister Power and was presided over by Works Minister Cardin.

Madame Lapointe, with a large number of women, watched the proceedings from the gallery. Special tribute was paid her by the speakers, particularly Madame Pierre F. Casgrain, wife of the speaker of the Commons, who presented a bouquet of roses.

Fraserville Y.P.U. Enjoys Pie Social

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FRASERVILLE, Feb. 20. — Over 40 met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Waterman on Tuesday night to enjoy the Valentine party, sponsored by the Y.P.A. Mrs. L. Hewitt, Mrs. H. Ouellette and Mrs. Jean Holden had charge of games and contests. A much enjoyed item was a two minute debate with Mrs. Ouellette in charge, "Resolved: single blessedness is preferable to married bliss." The affirmative was taken by the married couple, Mrs. L. Hewitt and Mr. Ouellette, the negative by Jean Holden and Albert Hill.

Those successful in receiving prizes for contests were, Miss R. Wood and Mr. Homer Ouellette, Miss A. Moore and Mr. F. Lewers. The main feature of the evening was a pie social, with Ray Bothwell as auctioneer. The pies averaged 25c each. The proceeds of the evening amounted to over $8.00.

MARMORA

Sacred Heart Men Sponsor Party

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Feb. 20. — A card party and dance sponsored by the men of the Sacred Heart congregation was held in the Separate School on Thursday evening, with a good attendance. The bridge prize was won by L. P. Hughes, while the euchre prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moloney.

Bingo and dancing were enjoyed and refreshments were served by the men. The music was supplied by Harold Auger, Eugene Reynolds and Bert Kouri.

Marmoran Injured By Falling Tree

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Feb. 20—James Burridge met with a painful accident about 10 a.m. on Friday, miraculously escaping graver injuries.

He was cutting wood on a lot near Deloro with a companion, George Osborne. As a tree was being felled, it swung round and a limb hurled Burridge to the ground, causing a wound in the back of his hand which later was gven three stitches by Dr. H. Crawford. He also received cuts to his face and had his eyes discolored, besides suffering from a bruised hip.

Following the accident he was conveyed to his home where he will be confined to his bed for several days.

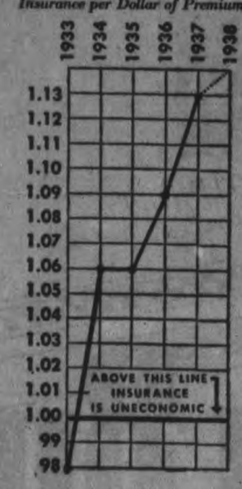
HEAVIER LOSSES THROUGH BODILY INJURY AND DAMAGE TO PROPERTY FORCE RATE INCREASE

If you are a responsible citizen, you will recognize that automobile insurance is the one thing that makes it possible for you to drive a car. Without it, you cannot know a moment's peace of mind while your car is out of your garage. Every moment it is on the street it is a possible source of a damage claim that, without insurance, could completely wreck your life and fortune.

BUT HOW MUCH SHOULD YOU PAY?

How much should this insurance cost? Forget its value for a moment. Leave out of consideration the thought that, no matter what it costs, you must carry this insurance because of the appalling consequences that might attend failure to carry it. Ask yourself, simply, what should I pay?

Record of Cost of Providing Insurance per Dollar of Premium



RATES MUST REFLECT CLAIMS PAID

You will agree that a fair rate for this protection should produce revenue equal to the cost of claims, plus the cost of administration, plus a reasonable profit.

But this is the picture:

In 1933 it cost the companies more than 98c out of each dollar received to provide your insurance.

In 1934 providing insurance cost the companies more than $1.06.

In 1935 providing insurance cost the companies more than $1.06.

In 1936 providing insurance cost the companies more than $1.09.

In 1937 providing insurance cost the companies more than $1.13 for each dollar of premium received.

There has been this tremendous increase largely from heavier losses through bodily injury and damage to property, without an adequate increase in rates.

COMPANIES HAVE CARRIED INSURANCE BELOW COST

Through this last five years the trend of losses has been steadily rising. With higher speeds, more vulnerable fenders, headlights, radiator grills and bodywork, and higher damage awards, the loss per accident has climbed. Tentative accident figures for 1938 show a hopeful decline in the number of accidents but the average cost per claim is higher. During this period the Companies writing automobile insurance in the Province of Ontario have been paying an increasing part of the losses from their reserves. This is economically wrong. A substantial rate increase has been long overdue. Because the loss experience is what it is, an immediate rate increase is necessary. But the Companies are anxious to keep rates low. A minimum increase in bodily injury and damage to property coverages becomes effective March 1.

COMPARISON SHOWS NEW RATES STILL LOW

But even with the increase, Ontario rates remain low by comparison. A representative five-point coverage on a popular make of car costs $23 more in Buffalo, N.Y., than in Toronto, Ont., $34.50 more in Niagara Falls, N.Y. than in Niagara Falls, Ont., and $25 more in the rural areas of New York State than in the rural areas of Ontario.

ARE LOWER RATES POSSIBLE?

Yes, lower rates are possible. Automobile fire insurance rates are being reduced this year because of favourable experience. A lower loss ratio in bodily injury and damage to property insurance will mean lower rates. How is this to be achieved? Only by each individual motorist recognizing his personal responsibility. The slightest relaxation of caution is enough to cause an accident. The Ontario Department of Highways has done excellent work for safety without which the situation would be much worse than it is now. So have other public bodies. And even the children are learning safety in the schools. Do your part. Help to cut down the loss ratio and the cost of insurance by exercising caution every moment you are on the road. Remember—You, Mr. Motorist, make the rates.

LOSES PART OF FINGER.

George P. Brook, local merchant, had the misfortune to snip the top of his middle finger while at work on Saturday. The finger was later amputated at the first joint.

GAS TANK DAMAGED.

A car is reported to have smashed into one of the gas tanks at Lillico's new garage and service station on Charlotte Street on Saturday night. The frame work of the gasoline tank was badly dented.

CASE ADJOURNED

At the request of E. F. Borbridge, acting crown attorney this morning, the case of Jack DeCarlo, charged with beating his mother, Mrs. Mary DeCarlo was adjourned for another week.

THE USUAL PLEA

A transient who pleaded guilty in police court this morning to being drunk made the usual plea that if he were allowed to go he would get right out of town." It met with the usual reception, a fine of $10 with the alternative of ten days in jail.

GROCERIES STOLEN

A box of groceries valued at $7 was stolen from the front door of a Reid street residence Saturday evening. The groceries had been left there by a delivery boy and some sneak thief got away with the stuff before the householder arrived home.

INJURES BACK.

Cornelius Clancy, Hunter Street East, suffered back injuries this morning when he came out of the house to go to work. He slipped on the top step of the verandah and fell down the steps, his back striking the step when he fell. He was ordered to remain in the house for the day by the doctor who was called.

A MOOCHER GETS WISE.

Managers of magazine stores report that since the appearance of a main street article a few weeks ago, condemning moochers who would spend time everyday reading magazines free of charge in stores, there has been a marked change. One fellow who was the worst offender, and who read a serial month by month in one store has started to purchase the magazine now.

HUMANE SOCIETY OFFICERS.

Three active members of the Humane Society executive were missed when the list of officers was published a few days ago, and are as follows, Mrs. R. Norgrove Stuart, calender secretary; Mrs. Morley V. Powell, secretary of Animal Life and Mrs. S. O. Shields, press secretary.

IT TOOK WINGS

A local man who had thoughtfully provided himself with a couple of bottles of liquid refreshment at the government filling station Saturday not quite so thoughtfully left the bottles in his unlocked car for a few minutes and when he came back some other thoughtful person had thoughtfully walked off with the Oh Be Joyful.

INFLUENZA'S IRONY.

Alderman McCannan conveyed to the council several weeks ago an invitation from Knox Church Board to attend in a body the service Sunday morning, and at the last minute influenza took hold of him and sent him to bed, an absentee from the council's group in his own church. He was missing from his office this morning.

CONFETTI BARRAGE.

Ten girls from Woolworth's store along with the assistant manager, were lined up outside of the Roy Studio this morning to pepper the manager, Wilfred Cunningham, and his bride, formerly Miss Marceline Feeley, as they walked to the car after having a wedding picture taken. Judging from the amount of confetti on the street, it was generously applied by the well-wishers.

VOICE APPROVAL.

Travellers in the city today stated that Peterborough's efficient and prompt snow removal system is attracting favorable comment from all parts of the province. They say the men here start work sooner and do more thorough job than any other city in the whole of Ontario. Barber shops and hotel owners report that similar comments have been heard from travellers during the whole winter.

NO LOST TIME

Jack Fitzgerald, well known plasterer, was on time for work this morning even though the streets and roads were covered with a smooth coating of sleet. He took one look at the icy path, then slung his tools in a sack across his shoulders, strapped on his skis and was off. He negotiated the distance between his home and work without mishap and made splendid time while his neighbors, labored with snow shovels to clear the snow from garage driveways.

FINE STEPPED UP

Magistrate Langley raised the ante in a drunk case this morning when he fined a local man $15 and $4.50 costs after he had pleaded guilty to having been intoxicated on George street. The alternative was named as ten days in jail. "You had better date that from yesterday," said the accused. "I had better do nothing of the kind," the magistrate replied. "It is my judgment and not yours the government depends upon. It will date from today."

City Council Attends Knox Church

The Christian's daily work glorified by his faith was a sustaining and rewarding overplus assessed in its eternal values by the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt in his address at Knox United Church at the Sunday morning service attended by Mayor Hamilton, members of the council, E. A. Outram, assistant city clerk, and W. F. Huycke, K.C., city solicitor.

The hymnal part of the service included a solo "He Leadeth Me" arranged by E. L. Ashford, sung by Mrs. G. A. Spicer, and the choir's anthem "The Lord Is My Light" with an obligato vocal solo by Mrs. Thos. Williamson.

After welcoming the Mayor and aldermen on behalf of the officials and members of the church, saying their fellowship was valued as an assistance in the morning worship, Rev. Mr. Zufelt spoke on the topic "Your Work," based on the text II Peter, 1-5, R.V.: "On this very account, giving all diligence add to your faith." It was first pointed out that the beginning of Christian activity is the work and redemptive acts of God Himself, as seen in the preceding verses of the chapter. "We love because He first loved us," we labor not to earn eternal life but because God has already given it to us.

Duty Of Citizens

Rev. Mr. Zufelt said it was hardly necessary to emphasize the need of diligence to councillors. From the day of their election they must feel that this at least is the requirement placed on them by every elector. One could only wish that each citizen would assume his responsibility in the matter, and with equal diligence guide and assist his elected representatives.

Many a good bylaw introduced by alert and faithful councillors has been defeated by an indifferent electorate.

Diligence has its rewards. He who is faithful "over a few things" may still be judged worthy to rule over many. It is not only the municipal law of progress, it is the divine. When the apostle did rulers to be diligent (Rom. 12-8) he thought of a Higher Judge than the public. We must be true to Him when we do our work.

Retention Of Faith

"Yet, granted that our work and its motives are Godgiven, there is no danger,—that our faith should suffer," Rev. Mr. Zufelt continued. "While we are 'busy here and there', the very reason for our existence is forgotten. We take our faith as a legacy, and lay it by to draw on in time of need, and lo, when we want it, it is not there. Faith is rather the opening of a personal account, the continual laying up of treasure in heaven, drawing interest only according to its usefulness."

"In conclusion, do not fear that by taking time to add to your faith your work will suffer; rather it will glorify your work. He who did most for Peterborough was neither councillor nor preacher, but He who as a culminating act of faith said, 'Father, into Thy hands I commend my spirit', and as a close second to Him was that apostle who was able to say 'I have fought a good fight ....I have kept the faith'."

Farmer Kept Diary Forty-seven Years

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ORANGE CORNERS, Feb. 20. — Where were you or what were you doing forty-seven years ago? Nine out of ten people will say, "I can't tell, I'm sure," but there is one man in this district who can, and he is John Dundas.

Mr. Dundas came east with his family last year from the drought area near Frobisher, Sask. For forty-seven years he has kept a day-by-day record of happenings, weather conditions, etc. At first the diary was kept as a matter of convenience, but gradually interest in it grew, until keeping the records had become a hobby with Mr. Dundas. They are neatly written in ink and at the end of each year there is a resume of the year's important events.

In years to come the proud possessor of the diary will indeed derive a great deal of pleasure in perusing its pages, if only to compare living in Western and Eastern Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Dundas and daughter Pearl are leaving here this month to reside in Cavan Township, about three miles south of Omemee Village.

Doris Kenyon To Drop Her Third Husband

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Thrice-wed Doris Kenyon, singer and former screen star, admitted today her marriage less than four months ago to Albert D. Lasker, wealthy advertising man, was "hasty" and "incompatible" and would be disolved in a Nevada divorce court soon.

The statuesque 41-year-old blond disclosed the marital break in a brief typewritten statement taken to newspaper offices by an employee of Lasker's National Advertising Agency.

REV. J. W. FOX.

The death of the Rev. J. W. Fox, B.A., of Toronto, occurred on Sunday at the Private Patients' Pavilion, Toronto General Hospital. Rev. Mr. Fox was a son of the late Rev. Thomas and Margaret Fox, once minister in the Methodist Church in Blairton, in Belmont Township. Surviving are four children: Bertha, Muriel (Mrs. Charles Taylor), Dorothy and Arthur. The funeral service will be conducted on Wednesday at 11 a.m. from the chapel of McDougall and Brown, 646 St. Clair West, and interment will take place at Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough.

JAMES ARCHIBALD.

SEAFORTH, Ont., Feb. 20. —(C. P.). — James Archibald, 84, former Seaforth resident, died Saturday morning in Tuckersmith from blood poisoning after a fall a week ago.

Mr. Archibald was born in Tuckersmith, son of the late Andrew Archibald. He was married over 50 years ago to Miss Mary Ann McGaw of Clinton, who died eight years ago. They settled on a farm in McKillop and later moved to Tuckersmith afterwards coming to Seaforth where he was a prominent horse buyer.

Two sons survive, Andrew of Peterborough and Robert H., principal of Oakville Collegiate Institute, three brothers Andrew, of Seaforth; William of Tuckersmith and John W. of Kitchener.

CHARLES C. COLLINS.

The funeral of the late Charles C. Collins took place on Saturday afternoon in Waterloo. Mr. Collins was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Collins of this city and spent his boyhood days here, where he has many friends. He used to come to Peterborough every summer on his way to Stoney Lake, where he spent the summers.

He was a graduate of McGill University in engineering, and of the School of Practical Science, University of Toronto. He had resided in Waterloo for the past 17 years, retiring from active life two years ago on account of failing health. His death, though not unexpected, was sudden at the last and shocked his many relations.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Miss Anna Laing, daughter of the Rev. John Laing of Dundas; one son, John Collins of Waterloo; and one daughter, Mrs. W. B. Douglas of Toronto; also four sisters, Miss Mabel Collins, Mrs. Walter Denston, and Mrs. Norman C. Hatton, all of Peterborough, and Mrs. G. H. Green of Montreal; and four brothers, Robert of Vancouver, Alexander J. of Washington, Fred H. and J. Durham, both of Peterborough.

ROSS HOLMES.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 20. — Boys of the Separate School formed a guard of honor at the church as the body of little Ross Holmes was brought in for Requiem Mass on Saturday morning. Ross, who was only seven years of age, was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holmes, Queen Street. He died following a sleigh riding accident nearly two weeks ago when he received a head injury which at the time was not regarded as serious. On Sunday last he became ill and as his condition grew steadily worse he was taken to Kingston General Hospital on Wednesday morning, where he died early the following day of meningitis.

Surviving him besides his grieving parents are three sisters, Jean and Frances at home and Mrs. Milton Phillips of Belleville, and five brothers, George, Jack, Thomas, Donald and Lionel, all at home.

Rev. Father J. V. McAuley was celebrant at the Mass, and the pallbearers were three neighboring children and three schoolmates, Donald Bartley, Joseph Clark, Charles Bertrand, George Black, Pat Glenn, and Hubert Monoghan.

The flower-bearers were Bud Pelquin, Dante Pace, Bernard McAvella and Pat Doherty. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Farewell Party Is Given Dummer Couple

WARSAW, Feb. 20.—Many friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clements assembled at that couple's home on Tuesday evening, the eve of their departure from Dummer to reside in Douro.

The evening was spent in playing cards and dancing. Music was furnished by Austin Ferguson and his son, assisted by Thomas Davis of Warsaw. After supper was served, Mr. and Mrs. Clements were presented with a set of silverware and a sum of money. Miss Kavannah, teacher of the Union school, read the address and Miss Gloria Kidd presented the gift. In bidding their guests good-bye, Mr. and Mrs. Clements extended a hearty invitation to all to visit them in their new home in Douro.

Nurses Alumnae Is Bringing Opera

The Nicholls Hospital Nurses Alumnae Association is offering a most unique and colorful musical entertainment of a high order at the annual concert to raise money for the splendid work which is being done by the organization.

The appearance of the International Grand Opera Company in acts from famous and very popular grand operas will be an event of outstanding interest. An excellent cast of singers capable of doing justice to the exacting scores will include Mabel Curtis, lyric soprano; Grace Pettit, contralto; James Fluker, bartitone; Frank Moran, basso.

First will be presented the prologue, "Pagliacci." This will be followed by the first act of Humperdinck's quaint fairy opera, Hansel and Gretel. A scene from "Carmen" will be next. Then more scenes of interest are programmed. The final scene will be the beautiful second act of Madame Butterfuly (Puccini).

There already are indications that a capacity audience will attend the event on Monday evening, February 27th in the Collegiate Auditorium.

J. T. Emmerson Observes Golden Jubilee

Residents of Port Arthur, Ontario, are extending congratulations these days to an old Peterborough boy, J. T. Emmerson, who has just completed half a century in business as a hardware merchant in that city.

"Back in 1888 in a Peterborough, Ontario, grocery store there was a clerk who knew the business from A to Z," reports the News-Chronicle of Port Arthur. "He made it a point to study and learn all he could about it so that when a housewife asked for tapioca he was able to tell her what it was and where it was grown.

"His boss knew him to be a good clerk, but he wasn't particularly happy that his clerk knew so much.

"Then the West called and the grocery clerk heard it. It was the time the West was opening up. There were pictured opportunities.

"Port Arthur was in the limelight. The railway was here. There was a Lake Superior sea lane which carried ships to the small town loaded with goods.

Plenty Of Work.

"There was plenty of work. There were mines operating in the district and there were timber operations.

"The picture looked good to the ex-grocery clerk, J. T. Emmerson, particularly when he was offered a chance to go into the hardware business in Port Arthur with J. L. Wells, who two years or so previously had established a going concern."

That was the beginning half a century ago that J. T. Emmerson made in Port Arthur. To-day he is a member of the firm of Wells and Emmerson, one of the largest concerns of its kind at the Lakehead.

Mr. Emmerson is prominent in the life of the community. He has taken an active interest in the affairs of Trinity United church, has been a member of the church's management for many years and in earlier times was active in the Sunday school. He is a member of the Port Arthur Rotary club.

Cars Damaged In Collisions

Considerable property damage was done in a number of traffic accidents in the city and district over the weekend, bad driving conditions being blamed for the majority of mishaps.

Three cars were involved in a crash near Charlotte and George streets and all of them were damaged. Cars driven by D. James, 204 Westcott street and Ernest Castle, Wolsley street were at the rear of line of automobiles on Charlotte street that had stopped for the traffic lights to change when a machine driven by Malcolm McKenzie, Campbellford, crashed into the rear of the car driven by Castle and pushed it ahead into the James' machine. McKenzie blamed the icy road for his failure to stop.

Wm. McLaren, 534 Charlotte street had stopped near the intersection of McDonnel and Bethune street and the door of his car was open when a truck driven by C. Cooney, 271 Simcoe street came along and the rack of the truck caught the door of McLaren's car damaging it considerably.

Both machines were badly damaged but no one was hurt Sunday morning when cars driven by Clifford McPaul, Shaw street, Toronto, and H. R. Gill of Smith collided on the Lakefield road a mile this side of Lakefield.

On the Chemong Road Saturday there was a similar collision between a truck owned by H. Moncrief of Smith and a car driven by Harold Cockerill of Peterborough. Both machines were damaged by the impact but the drivers were unhurt.

Trucks driven by John Legrow and E. Stevenson, the latter driving for the Walker Bread Company, collided Saturday at the intersection of King and Reid streets and Legrow's truck was damaged to some extent.

Holsteins $40 To $65 At Auction In Rawdon

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, Feb. 20.—A successful auction sale was held on the premises of Mr. Isaac McInroy on the 12th Line of Rawdon Township, February 15. An exceptionally large crowd was in attendance and the prices were also high. The fine herd of Holsteins ranged in price from $40 to $65.

The horses also brought high prices as well as the implements. The hay brought six dollars per ton; oats ranged from 40 to 60 cents. A quantity of household goods brought fair prices. Mr. Fred Johnson of Marmora was autcioneer and as usual his jovial manner always brings top prices.

Mr. McInroy has rented his farm to Mr. Dave Hannah and will take possession some time in March.

Man Unable To Purchase Driving License Will Spend Next Ten Days In County Jail

Because he had no money with which to pay the fine inflicted upon him for a violation of the Ontario Highway Act George Kelly, 22, is serving a seven day term in the county jail.

Kelly was charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning with driving a motor vehicle in the township of North Monaghan without having the necessary license. He was to have appeared Wednesday but at his own request the case was heard instead of ten," the court announced this morning.

"I want to get it over with," he told the Magistrate, explaining that he had not had the money to buy his driving license.

The court imposed a fine of $10 and $3 costs with the alternative of ten days in jail.

"Are you going to pay the fine?" Magistrate Langley asked. Kelly intimated that he was going to jail.

"Then in that case we will make the imprisonment seven days instead of ten," the court announced.

Speaker Traces Manufacture Of Rayon Goods

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 20.—Continuing her series of talks on Buymanship Mrs. Howard Clarke told members of the Seymour West Women's Institute how they could judge the quality of rayon and silks. The speaker introduced her subject by tracing the manufacture of the finished silk product from the silk worm. Rayon, it was explained, was made from wood pulp which is crumbled up by machinery and then chemicals are added to change it into a liquid. It is during this stage that the colouring dye is introduced and oil is added to dul lthe sheen. Next it is forced into an apparatus which has the same effect on it as a potato masher has on a potato and it emerges through small holes one five hundredth of an inch wide in fibres so small they cannot be seen by the naked eye. In choosing a piece of goods the buyer should only select one with a firm balanced weave because it will not so readily separate to allow a hole to form. Although this particular test holds true for all fabrics it should be more carefully watched in rayons. The speaker placed on exhibit several pieces of rayon which had been manufactured from waste material and these were of such fine quality it was difficult to identify them from silk. When the material (rayon) becomes wet it has a tendency to be very stretchy and therefore great care should be taken during washing she advised. Mrs. Clark concluded her remarks by describing the various types of hosiery and endeavored to explain how the purchaser could determine those which were full-fashioned and those which were not. Manufacturers are really turning out a product which they want to last but in order to prolong their life they should be laundered each time they are worn "I hope to be able to conclude these talks at the next meeting, but there is really much more that is interesting and helpful," she declared.

Interesting Replies.

There were a umber of interesting responses to the roll call, "Something I Would Like to Accomplish this Year," but judging by the fact that most replied they desired to finish a quilt they were making, this is still the most popular diversion of the ladies in Seymour West. Mrs. Neil Hooper read the minutes of the preceding meeting and a letter from Mrs. James Waters expressing her thanks for the kindness of members while she was in the hospital. It was requested that each lady should have her thrift exhibit ready for the June meeting and Mrs. Jas. Waters and Mrs. G. Curle were appointed to head the committee in charge of the exhibit.

A vote of thanks to the ladies in charge of the oyster supper staged two weeks ago was moved by Mrs. Arthur Rutherford. The programme for the next meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. Jone Locke on March 16th will be in charge of Mrs. F. McCulloch, Mrs. F. Rutherford, Mrs. Chas. Macoun, Mrs. Howard Clarke and Miss Beatrice Rutherford.

Takes Four Hours To Drive 10 Miles

Ten miles in four hours and a half was the snail's pace Reeve W. A. Anderson made Saturday through the snow drifts on the road from Centre Dummer to Norwood, finally arriving in the city one-quarter of an hour or more after the meeting in the Court House began at 2 p.m.

As chairman of the reforestation committee of the county council Reeve Anderson has had ten or twelve men at work salvaging timber in a burned over section the council has acquired to "straighten out" the block of land that forms a naturally complete forest area. He went out to the bush Wednesday to look things over generally and see that the work was being done. Finally he became snowbound by the storm that blew over the country on Friday. So he postponed the battle until Saturday morning, and nearly lost it. He arrived at the Court House directly from the Dummer-Methuen wilderness, unabashed in his overalls and rubber boots, and no doubt sustained in spirit by the job he had been doing in the county's woodlands.

COURTESY PAYS.

Courtesy of a bus driver this morning sent a score or more of people to work with a warm glow of fraternity.

It was about 8.30 o'clock when the Byersville bus, loaded with workers, came to a stop at the corner of Charlotte and George streets. Passengers were somewhat ruffled when they saw the driver step from behind the wheel and start out the door. Then they saw that he was assisting a blind man. A deep snow bank had been left at the sides of the road and the driver obligingly steered his passenger across the street and to his destination. The incident took a couple of minutes in all, but that short space of time the other passengers found was sufficient to imbue them with fullest respect and warmth of feeling for their driver.—P.

Mother Seeks Her Lost Son

The anguished thoughts of a mother for her lost son were expressed in a letter addressed to the Examiner this morning, calling on this paper to help in search for the missing youth.

The youth is 17 years old, was out of work when he left Toronto six weeks ago. "He is not very strong, though a big boy," his aunt writes. "He has a nervous disorder causing his head to shake with a jerk at intervals, sometimes much more noticeably than at others." She has learned indirectly that her nephew, whose name is David, is on a farm near Peterborough.

He has blue eyes, heavy straight brown hair, thick lower lip, rather ruddy complexion, weighs about 140 pounds, and is about five feet six inches in height.

His aunt asked the Examiner to insert the following note to her son: "David: Have watched eagerly and longingly for word from you each day. It is now over six weeks since you left and you must need your rubber boots and warm clothing. Mother is very ill. Many are inquiring for you. Won't you please 'phone or write telling us how and where you are? We'll be expecting to hear from you without delay.—"Aunt Nell."

CAMPBELLFORD

Robert J. Bullen Dies Suddenly

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 20 — A highly respected resident of this community for the past thirty-six years, Robert James Bullen, formerly of Peterborough, died suddenly at his home on Rear street early Saturday afternoon. Although he had been in poor health for a number of years he was confined to bed for only three days before he died.

Mr. Bullen was born in Peterborough on Nov. 14th, 1876, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Bullen. He came to Campbellford at the age of 26, working in the Welton Shoe Company here for nearly twenty-five years. Mrs. Bullen, whose maiden name was Bertha Stillman, of Seymour, became his bride in Campbellford thirty-two years ago.

Besides being a good husband and father, Mr. Bullen took a keen interest in the Campbellford Branch I.O.O.F. No. 248, of which he has been a member for the past twenty-nine years and was serving in the capacity of treasurer, a position he has held for the past 15 years, at his death. He had also served his term as District Deputy Brand Master for Madoc District No. 46 and took a keen and active interest in the Anglican church of which he was a member, having served both as sidesman and warden.

Surviving besides his widow and one daughter, Dorothy, are three sisters, Mrs. H. J. McCannan, Peterborough; Mrs. E. Curtis, Peterborough; Miss Eva Bullen, R.N., Detroit, Mich. One sister, Mrs. G.W. Valway, Flint, Mich., predeceased him four months ago.

Following a private service at the family residence, which will be conducted by members of the I.O.O.F., the funeral will leave for Christ church at one o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, where funeral services will be conducted by Rev. T. H. Floyd of St. George's church, Peterborough, who will be assisted by Rev. T. S. Gault of Christ church. Interment will be at Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough. Following members of the I.O.O.F. will be pall bearers: Messrs. C. W. Palliser, W. R. Phillips, J. F. McGregor, W. R. Loucks, A. E. Burgiss and W. D. Wood.

Two Young Men Plead Guilty To Theft Counts

Joseph Fontaine, 19, and Volney Woodcock, 21, pleaded guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley in police court this morning to breaking and entering the garage of Thomas Ruth, Charlotte and Stewart streets early Sunday morning with intent to commit theft and the two were remanded until Wednesday morning for sentence.

The place was entered through a rear door and 30 cents in silver and a quantity of cigars, cigarettes and chocolate bars stolen. Fontaine and Woodcock had been seen in the neighborhood late Saturday night by Sergeant W. E. Wigg and when they were arrested by Constable Archie Menzies on Sunday, the stolen goods were recovered, some hidden under the verandah of Fontain's home and the remainder at Woodcock's home.

Fontaine was arraigned first this morning and pleaded guilty.

"I was drunk, Your Worship," was his explanation of the affair.

"Where did you get your liquor?" asked the Magistrate.

"Some fellow I did not know gave it to us," replied the accused.

In Numerous Cases

"That fellow again?" commented the magistrate. "He's been coming up in cases here for years. You should get after him, chief."

"There's no such person," replied Chief Constable Newhall.

"He's the same fellow who bobs up in cases all over the country," continued Magistrate Langley.

"We will likely have the fellow who furnished the liquor before you shortly," Chief Newhall said.

"I don't see why we should plead guilty to breaking and entering. The place wasn't locked," said Woodcock when he was called upon to plead.

"You just lifted the latch and went in?" asked the Magistrate.

Woodcock replied in the affirmative.

"There was no sign there any place inviting you to come in, was there?" asked the court.

Woodcock announced that he would plead guilty and he too was remanded until Wednesday for sentence.

E. F. Borbridge prosecuted, in the absence of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C.

Havelock Hires Night Constable

HAVELOCK Feb. 20—Nightly patrol of Havelock's streets commenced Friday evening when William Laing first took over his duties of night constable. The appointment was made at a special meeting of the village council Thursday evening called upon request of a petition signed by a majority of the Havelock merchants. Hiring of a night watchman has quite often been considered locally, but the recent burglary at Bernard Smith's store, the second in three months, brought the lack of proper police protection to citizens attention.

Laing was hired temporarily by the council, and if after a month's trail proves satisfactory will be maintained in the position and provided with a regulation police uniform. His salary was fixed at $45 per month with extra for phone. He is to be on duty every evening from midnight to daylight and on open nights will go on duty at 7.30 p. m.

Havelock already has one constable, William Akins, whose duties include hall caretaker, assessor, weed and sanitary inspector.

ST. PAUL'S PULL UP INTO TIE IN THE SENIOR MEN'S CAGE LOOP

St. John's Nod Is An Upset As Heclas Win

St. John's upset the dope bucket for the second straight week, beating the league-leading Quakers 25-19, to climb well up in the standing. St. Paul's smothered Dominions 43-16, going into a first-place tie; and Hecla's beat out C.G.E. 17-10, despite the losers late rally, in Saturday night's Senior City Basketball games, before a good crowd in the Y gym.

Thorburn of St. Paul's ran in 19 points to boost his total to 103 for six games and climb out of range of the field, 30 full points ahead of his nearest rivals, two St. John's forwards, Drake and Gillespie, with 44 and 41.

Saints Win

After battling on even terms through the scoreless opening minutes, St. John's pulled ahead at the half, 11-5, and increased their lead early in the last half, fighting off a Quaker rally at the last to win, 25-19.

The winners ran in several points early in the last half and then fought off the Quaker's rally at the last, that cut down their lead to six points. Quakers made 5 points on free throws and St. John's 3.

St. John's (25): Centre, Craig (10); forwards, Gillespie (9), Taylor (4); guards, Ascott (1), Dyer (1); subs, Amys, Clarke, Marshall.

Led by Jim Thorburn, St. Paul's ran wild at all times and overwhelmed Dominions, 43-16, to move into a first place tie with Quakers.

Better Play

Better passing and good shooting by St. Paul's, plus the poor marksmanship of the losers when in scoring position, paved the way for their top-heavy score. The winners had a 23-10 lead at the half. Dominions' shooting was bad, time after time spoiling good passing plays with bad shots, or losing the ball on long shots that went astray. The winners made 3 points on foul shots and Dominions dropped in 8 points that way.

Thorburn, MacIntyre and McArthur starred for St. Paul's and Grose and Dundas for the losers. The teams:

St. Paul's (43): Centre, McArthur (6); forwards, Gemmel, Thorburn (19); guards, McIntyre (5), Marsh (6); subs, Fulkinghorn (7).

Holds Lead

Heclas took a 13-2 first half lead over C.G.E. and then fought off a last half rally by the losers to win.

The winners had a big margin in the first half, keeping C.G.E. from scoring a single field goal, but in the last half they were out-scored 8-4, with Salvadge scoring three times in the closing minutes. C.G.E. made only two free throws of the nine chances they had in the first half. Hecla's four points in the last half came from free throws. Sedgewick and White starred for Heclas and Holmes and Cameron were best for C.G.E. The teams:

Referee, Curley Krug; umpire, Walter Ferris.

World's Best Again

Only 18 years old, pretty Miss Megan Taylor, ABOVE, of England, made it two world's figure skating titles in a row when she was declared winner in the championship tournament held at Prague. Miss Taylor, daughter of Phil Taylor, once a prominent Canadian skater, scored 373.22 points against the 359.74 registered by Hedy Stenuf, of Chicago, who finished second.

Local Rinks Win In Harkness Cup

The return game for the "Harkness" Trophy was played on Peterborough ice Saturday evening and this time the local rinks were victorious. Six mixed rinks motored down from Bobcaygeon and were pitted against six mixed rinks from our local club. A 10-end game was played and at the conclusion the score was Peterborough 69, Bobcaygeon 54. The local club now holds the cup for this season.

After the games all the curlers adjourned to Hooper's where light refreshments were served.

Old Boys Defeat Prep Team By 8-3 Score

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 20.—The Lakefield Prep School Old Boys, who are sporting some fine talent this season, gave the present prep school hockey team an 8 to 3 beating here on Saturday evening when they met the Grove's senior team for the second time this season on Lakefield ice.

The friendly rivalry which exists between these two teams always adds zest to their games, and the battle fought on Saturday provided a lot more excitement than the score would indicate.

The Old Boys are fortified this year with such talent as Harry Carter, who is now playing for Queen's University; John Macrae, who holds a position on the Newmarket Intermediate O H A squad; Charles Robertson, who is with the Toronto Lions and "Simp" Simpson from the Malvern Collegiate team in Toronto. But despite this display of talent the Old Boys had to battle their way through for every point, for the school team rallied round their colors and fought with all that was in them to sustain the honor of the Garnet and Green. Their biggest handicap was the superior weight of the Grads, and this coupled with the senior extensive experience on the ice, was responsible for the Old Boys' victory.

Carter (4), Macrae (2) and Robertson (2) chalked up the tallies for the Old Boys while Langmuir played two counters in the net for the school and Frewer made the third tally for the Grove. The teams:

Lakefield Preparatory School: Goal, Pease; defence, MacLaren and Rose; centre, Crickmore; wings, Harris and Frewer; alternates, Langmuir, Carson, Roberts, Lanauze, Dobbin and Foster.

The Upper Canada College bantam hockey team who are members of the Toronto City League, copped an 8 to 3 victory from the Lakefield Preparatory School "Fourteens" here early Saturday afternoon.

The bantams had a better team than the local school and their experience in the city league showed up in the play. However the Grove lads played a plucky game, and are looking forwar dto a return match with the bantams at Upper Canada College next month. Urquhart and Wishart were outstanding for Grove and the Upper Canada College goalie played a splendid game for U.C.C.

CAMPBELLFORD

Three Games Played In School Play-offs

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 20. — Three closely contested games were played in the Public and Separate School hockey playoffs on Saturday. The six teams were evenly matched, and played a good, clean brand of hockey. In the Pee-Wee section, the Canadians and Leafs battled to a one-all tie in the first of the two playoff games in which goals are to decide the winner of the Tip Top Tailor Trophy.

The Canadians finished on the lower side of a 1-0 count in the bantam section game against the Americans and still have a good chance of taking the F. J. Smith Trophy, since they put up a great battle during the early part of the game. The playoffs for the Buster Whitton Trophy also ended in a deadlock, with the Midget Hawks and Leafs tied 2-all.

On Wednesday night of the week the Whitby Midgets are scheduled to meet the locals here for the first of a home-and-home series to decide the winner of the Eastern Ontario championship and on the same evening the Lindsay Juveniles will meet the Campbellford Juveniles for the last game of their schedule in Group 16 of the O.J.H.A. The locals dropped their first game to Lindsay six to three, and if they lose the return game here the visitors will advance to the provincial playdowns. If the locals win the contest on Wednesday the two teams will be tied up and an announcement will then be made as to where and when the next game will be played.

Wiremen Win 5-3 Over Switchgear

Loose defensive work cost Switchgears a 5-3 verdict and the C.G.E Shop Hockey League leadership on Saturday at the Brock when Wire Department pulled out the nod in a hard-hitting tussle. Nine penalties were drawn. Wire scored twice in the first, Heal notching each counter. On a fine solo try, Tompkins made it 2-1, but Wire came back with another pair, White and Pammett scoring. In the third, Switchgears had a 2-1 edge, Tompkins and Leggitt sinking the disc, while Mason counted one on a breakaway as the other side ganged up hard. It was an exciting fray all through, with neither side showing any individual stars. The teams:

Switchgears — Goal, McNabb; defence, Mowry, Ashmore; centre, Tompkins; wings, McDonald, Leggitt; subs., Jobe, Mackey, Abraham.

Wire — Goal, Harding; defence, Williams, Hawks; centre, Heal; wings, Pammett, Millard; subs., Mason, White, Halton.

Referee—Red Creighton.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging in the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

When large Coach Garney Large (ex-Goodyears' star) and his Post Office puck play hockey, the game in no way resembles that merry parlor sport known as post office. There is much more contact and the results are not the same. Why, we remember one rousing game of post office back in—but, this is entirely beside the point, we suppose. Though it's nice to think of it again! Anyway, the T.H.L.-ers play rugged hockey and the second-place Post Office outfit can hold its own with anyone. Now, there is a chance that the winning Toronto team might ankle out in O.H.A. senior "B" playdowns, with the possibility that the Petes—now in said playdowns—might meet up with 'em in a money series. So tonight's exhibition tilt betwixt Petes and Post Office here should prove interesting from that angle. It's at 8.30 in the Brock.

* * * * * *

Also it promises to be a good game of hockey on fast ice. The speedy Petes are at their peak at present, and goodness knows the T.H.L. teams should be in the w.k. pink by now. The locals need a game or two this week to keep on edge for their coming serial with Kingston, and this is a fine opp. for 'em to really turn it on against a strange squad, with a different style of play from Trenton Fliers. The Petes knew only one style last year and that's how the bashing Falls knocked 'em out—but the locals are readying up for anything in this year of playdowns. The game ought to draw a good gang of puck rooters, probably being the only senior "B" fixture here this week.

* * * * * *

Not All Strangers

Some of the Post Office players are known to fans here. The Sheedy brothers on the wings played once for St. Mike's juniors, while Herb Carnegie is the colored flash who played for Young Rangers and before them for Norvocs in junior "B" company. Jim Branham is an ace goalie, and the P.O. crew has a tough defence to pierce. In Bob Galway, this team has the best pro prospect for a centre in Toronto, in fact one of the few pro bets for that position in the big town. Post Office won the T.H.L. title last year, so ya know they're no soft touches—and the Petes will ice their regular team for this tussle.

* * * * * *

Elsewhere in tonight's paper appears a letter from the Peterborough Hockey Club executive to local puck fans. It adds a few new angles to the group playoff mixup, when the O.H.A. ordered the odd game in Belleville instead of here. The earlier mixup might have been straightened out but for a change in the Fliers' management, plus some peculiar work of Sandy Burrows, Belleville convener, rink owner and O.H.A. member. Undoubtedly, the locals tried hard before that third game with Fliers to get it here (as correspondence, open to the public, will show) but their efforts flopped. And Mike Sheehy of the Brock said Saturday: "We at the rink here suffered more than the club or fans over the mixup, but that's all over now—and no hard feelings." Which is fair enough, what?

* * * * * *

The Merry Playdowns

There are six senior "B" groups or representatives listed in the O.H.A., but we understand the N.O.H.A. will not meet the senior "B" winner of the O.H.A., so that leaves five. The Petes represent one group, and Kingston is another when a winner is declared there. Then Toronto may put a team into these playdowns, if that loop desires—they declined it last winter. Which leaves just the Falls-Brantford winner (a cinch for the Big Roar bunch) and a team from the Canuck end of that Mich.-Ont. setup. The Petes believe they can get by Kingston all right, and have high hopes of fighting their way right through stiff opposition to a title this year. We hope.

* * * * * *

And now for the junior setup as concerns Peterborough and a breathless public for miles around (Ed. Note: Shut up, you sarcastic sap, before someone mows ya down). Well, the O.H.A. has ordered our "C" Monarchs to play Bowmanville in Whitby tonight and back here Wednesday in group semi-finals, goals to count. Winner meets Lindsay on Friday eve. The group finals will be best two out of three games. Go it, youse battlin' Monarchs—it's do or die now, and no monkeyshines. Our junior "B" Colts will be playing tomorrow night at 7.30 in Oshawa in the first game of a twin bill there. A loss for the locals will finish 'em for the season, but a win would finish the schedule in a draw, and force a playoff series. It's up to those Colts to stay in there fighting tomorrow eve, or else.

* * * * * *

Whitby At Lakefield

With abrupt suddenness, the district O.H.A. intermediate "B" seven-team group comes to a conclusion, and now 'tis playoff time. This morning's official bulletin states that the four top teams hit into their semi-finals at once, Whitby playing in Lakefield tonight and back in Whitby on Wednesday, while Lindsay goes to Sutton tomorrow and entertains the Sutton squad Thursday. Goals count in these series, and winners then clash in group finals. Tonight's tilt in Lakefield will be a hot one, with the Legionnaires battling a powerful club on their own ice. Yep, it's playoff time around this neck of the timber once more.

* * * * * *

Three good scraps up at the "Y" gym on Saturday in the gloaming as the six senior men's cage crews went to town. St. John's pulled their second straight upset with a 25-19 nod over Quakers, while St. Paul's pulled into a first-place tie with Quakers after their 43-16 chuckle over Dominions, and Heclas grabbed a 17-10 win over C.G.E. Two teams are now tied for first place, whilst Heclas, St. John's and Dominions are all bunched in the second slot. With C.G.E. in the cellar. Quite a race it is, all but Jim Thorburn's terrific lead for scoring honors.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

We are now able to announce the winners of the three groups of the schedule ending on last Friday night, one of the best curling seasons as far as schedule games are concerned, the winners were finally declared. In two of the groups much depended on the last game—there might have easily been play-offs, but it didn't turn out that way.

Group A—C. V. Colley, W. H. Ashby, J. L. Welsh, T. McArthur, skip, 10 wins and 2 losses.

Group B—A. C. Buck, J. A. Gibbe, S. Valentin, G. Robertson, skip, 12 straight wins.

Group C—C. Kingan, J. Fanning, E. L. Sackville, Dr. J. Green, skip, 10 wins and 2 losses.

With the playing of the Neill trophy in the evening, with double headers, it means that we are in for a hard and heavy week of curling. The committee is asking that all curlers kindly cooperate — please have your rink ready when your time comes to play—and above all, "Be on time".

The successful skips at Saturday's 'spiel were: H. Clegg, 3 wins, plus 19; G. Robertson, 3 wins, plus 13; C. Westbrooke, 2 wins, plus 17.

Trophy Given To Mrs. Beach By Ferraro

Johnny Ferraro, congenial backfielder for Montreal Nationals and the Imperial Oil Company, co-starred Saturday in a sporting gesture which made it possible for Mrs. Ormond Beach, widow of the former Sarnia football ace who was killed in an explosion while at work last spring, to permanently retain the Imperial Oil Trophy which Beach had been awarded the season of 1937.

Ferraro, 1938 winner of the award for the player in the O.R.F.U. senior adjudged to best combine the qualities of ability and sportsmanship, took the trophy as it was presented by W. Frank Prendergast, assistant to the president of the Imperial Oil Company, and honorary patron of the O.R.F.U., and in a short address asked the privilege of allowing Mrs. Beach the trophy permanently. On behalf of the company who donated the trophy, Mr. Prendergast was glad to be able to accede to the unusual and thoughtful gesture of Ferraro, he said. He promised the trophy would be replaced for the O.R.F.U., and the names of the five previous winners, Norma Perry, Hugh Sterling, Syd Reynolds, Orm Beach and Johnny Ferraro would be engraved on it.

Pass Resolutions.

All this came about Saturday at the annual meeting of the O.R.F.U. at the Royal York Hotel. General business discussion which brought forth two resolutions to the Canadian Rugby Union, one calling for no rules changes in the present code for at least two years and an election of officers occupied the session. A second resolution asked the C.R.U. to sponsor junior intersectional finals, or failing that forbid playing for mythical championships by junior teams because it disrupted schedules, and made for expenses for age limit teams which they can well do without. The meeting was unanimous that a confab between junior club in the province and prospective O.R.F.U. clients would best serve the purpose if held at London, Ont. The date was set at March 19.

Officers Elected.

Officers elected were: Honorary president, H. H. McKee, Toronto; honorary patrons, W. Frank Prendergast, Toronto; Ross W. Gray, M.P., Sarnia; president, John DeGruchy, Toronto; 1st vice-president, Rev. Father M. S. Lynch, Toronto; second vice-president, Maurice Chilton, Sarnia; third vice-president, W. A. Porter, Toronto; secretary-treasurer, R. H. Bailey, Toronto; executive, L. W. Taylor, Woodstock; Mel Brock, St. Catharines; D. C. O'Brien, Windsor; F. C. Asbury, Sarnia; Joe Goodman, Toronto; F. E. Lennard, M.P., Dundas, Ont.

Post Office Crew Meets Petes Here

The Post Office outfit of the Toronto Hockey League will play an exhibition game here tonight (Monday) at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink with the Petes. The latter crew, winners in three straight over Trenton Fliers in their O. H. A. senior "B" grouping, will be idle most of next week—if not all of it—and have therefore lined up this exhibition match to keep in condition, and give puck fans here a game to witness. The Petes will meet Kingston next in Ontario playdowns. Post Office of Toronto are also of senior "B" calibre.

It promises to be a good contest between well-matched and classy crews. The Petes are in top form right now, and their speed should carry them a long way in the hunt for a title. Harding or McNabb will be in goal, with Gray, McNulty, Crowe and Weir available for defence duties. First line has Kingdon, Starr and Tompkins; while the alternate line is Creighton, Coughlin and Nichol, with McDougall the extra player. The Toronto team has been up around the top of the T. H. L. race all season and will give the Petes a real test in this tussle, a fast open game that should suit hockey fans here.

Vines Feeling Strain Aims To Quit Pro Tennis Circuit

Portland, Ore., Feb. 20 (AP) PRO TENNIS touring is getting hard on his 27-year-old muscles and his daughter doesn't know him any more so Ellsworth Vines will quit the golden trek.

The former United States amateur tennis champion, who reigned for five years over professionals, paused here between trains enroute to California after playing Donald Budge at Seattle and told a reporter:—

"Yes, I'm gonna quit this kind of tennis after this year. I am going to give up this touring kind. I'll play a few matches now and then."

The bronzed pro champion said he would finish his present tour with Budge, ending March 6 at Montreal, and would tour England this summer.

All-Star Team Selected By M.-O. League

DETROIT, Feb. 20 (CP)—Coaches and managers of Michigan Ontario Amateur League teams announced their selections of all-star players today as follows:

First Team—
Goal Phil McAtee, Windsor.
Defence—Jack Dent, Windsor.
Defence—Wes Lampea, Holsbaugh.
Centre—Lester Douglas, Pontiac.
Left Wing—Archie Wilder, Pontiac.
Right Wing—Joe Carveth, Pontiac.

Second Team—
Goal—Frank Ceryance, Holsbaugh.
Defence—Jack Ross, Pontiac.
Defence—Pat Gardner, Stratford.
Centre—Doug Fritz, London.
Right Wing—Norval Fitzgerald, Windsor.

Honorable Mention—
Goalies: Greg Haggerty, Chatham; Morris Gerth, Pontiac.
Defence: Rudy Zunich, Holsbaugh; Harold Meadows and Irvin Mackie, Windsor; Jarv Taylor, London.

McAttee of Windsor won the Walker Trophy for his brilliant goal-tending. He had the lowest goals-against record of 2.3 a game and scored five shutouts. The Stratford, Ont., product has been with Windsor for two years.

Dent is from Stratford also. He played a year in England before joining Windsor players two years ago. Dent and Carveth were the only unanimous choices in the entire selection. Carveth is from Regina where he played junior hockey.

Both Carveth's teammates, Douglas and Wilder made the first team. Douglas, who won the gold mate as the league's top scorer, come from Perth, Ont., while Whilder is from Melville, Sask., 70 miles northeast of Regina.

The Carveth-Wilder-Douglas line got 60 goals in the season and all three are likely to turn professional next season. They are on the reserve list of Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League.

Lampsa was the only United States-born player on the all-star team. He has been with Holsbaugh for five years.

LEAFS DEFEAT RANGERS AND BLACK HAWKS OVER WEEK-END

Leafs Nip Up To Whip Rangers 2-1, Trim Hawks 4-3, Overtime; Canadiens Take Amerks Twice

Just when the Canadian fans were wondering how far United States clubs would carry their domination of the National Hockey League, the Dominion's two entries have bounded up with performances indicating they may sound a considerably louder note in playoffs than during the schedule.

This has been the season of Boston Bruins, New York Rangers, and New York Americans — until now, when playoffs are around the corner. Now Toronto Maple Leafs are hard on the heels of the third-place Americans, while Montreal Canadiens appear ready to end their long stay in last place.

The Leafs came up this past week-end with a couple of fighting displays, a 2-1 victory over the Rangers at Toronto on Saturday and a 4-3 overtime success against the Black Hawks at Chicago on Sunday. The Canadiens, their ranks riddled by injuries, scored twice over the Americans, by 7-2 at Montreal on Saturday and by 5-4 at New York on Sunday.

The Canadian teams helped one another. The Leafs rose to within two points of the Americans, while Montreal advanced to within two of the sixth-place Black Hawks.

Bingo Kampman

Toronto, remembering past inability to keep pace with the Rangers in passing and skating, elected to meet the Blueshirts with methodical defensive work. The careful checking opened up breaks for the Leafs and they scored twice in the second period, through Bingo Kampman and Harvey Jackson. Clint Smith scored for the Rangers when they applied mass pressure in the third, but the rest of the way the home team had the answer for the skilled combination of Lester Patrick's band.

Start 2 Goals Down.

At Chicago the method was different. The Leafs had to scrap from behind a three-goal deficit to win out finally on Gus Marker's overtime goal.

Johnny Gottselig, Cully Dahlstrom and Joe Cooper built up the early Hawk margin. Immediately after Cooper's goal the Leaf power was turned on. George Parson and Pep Kelly reduced the lead to 3-2 before the second period ended and, after a defiant Chicago defence had withstood a withering attack, Jackson made himself one of the week-end's heroes with the tying goal when only 22 seconds of regular time remained. He helped Doc Romnes get the puck to Marker for the winning one, too.

Without the services of George Mantha, Jimmy Ward, Stew Evans and Babe Seibert, Canadiens played inspired hockey to run up their big decision over Americans. Toe Blake and Rod Lorrain led the way with two goals each and the Habitants ran in five straight scores after the visitors had taken a first-period lead on Lorne Carr's effort.

Lorrain picked off another pair Sunday, when the French men had to meet a determined late drive, and Des Smith got his first goal since Canadiens brought him up from the New Haven farm team. Trailing by three goals going into the third, Americans scored through Eddie Wiseman and Nels Stewart but couldn't quite catch the aroused visitors.

Herbie Lewis

The week-end was lined with surprises. Detroit Red Wings in their best showing of the winter, scored their first victory over the league-leading Bruins, a 4-1 success at Detroit. The Wings climbed over Chicago into fifth place on two goals by Herbie Lewis and one each by Marty Barry and Hec Kilread. Gord Pettinger scored for Boston.

Remember When—

James J. Corbett, former heavyweight boxing champion, was buried at New York six years ago today. Many celebrities of ring and stage attended the funeral of the San Francisco native who won the title from John L. Sullivan on a knockout in 1892 and lost it in 1897 to Bob Fitzsimmons.

School Squads In Playoff Tie

King Edward and Prince of Wales battled to a 1-1 tie at All Saints' Rink on Saturday morning in the first of their home-and-home playoff series for the School Hockey League championship. Second game will be Tuesday night at five in the Brock Street Rink.

Saturday's struggle was a keen one between evenly-matched outfits, McGregor scoring for King Edward in the first frame, and Maudsley evening the count for Prince of Wales in the middle heat. Neither side could tally in the third stanza. Fine checking up front and on the rearguard was a feature on both sides, with the rival goalies hard to beat. Henry and Maudsley stood out for the Wales' squad, with Lawson best man on the ice for the K. E. crew. The teams:

Referee—Max Williamson.

Eleanor Holm, Champagne, Results

It seems as if Eleanor Holm, U.S. swimming star, can't go near champagne without something happening. In 1936, you may remember, she was dismissed from Uncle Sam's Olympic team for allegedly sipping the wine when 'twas red, and while this picture looks innocent enough, it had its consequences. Eleanor was christening the "aquacade" of this year's world's fair in New York, surrounded by the usual fanfare of publicity, chorus girls and Grover Whalen, president of the fair. It is hardly necessary to say that champagne was used, but the wallop required to break the bottle scattered the glass in all directions and Eleanor and two other girls suffered minor cuts. Ho, hum.

Local Hockey Club Officers Explain Playoff Mixup

To the Hockey Fans of Peterboro:

On January 31st Flight-Lt. Carling Kelly, the then manager of the Flyers wrote to us requesting a meeting in a local hotel on Friday, February 3rd at 7 o'clock to discuss playoff plans. On Wednesday, February 1 the Belleville Redmen defeated the Flyers. On Friday two members of the club executive called at the hotel but were unable to contact Lt. Carling Kelly as he was not in his room and we were informed he had left the hotel. After the game he refused to discuss plans as his team had dressed at the "Y" and as the game was late in finishing they were in a hurry to change as they had promised to be out of the building by 11 o'clock. Had the Flyers won the game on Wednesday no doubt the play off arrangements would have been made that Friday night.

Petes Object.

On Sunday, February 5th, Mr. Burrows of Belleville phoned to arrange play-off dates for the group. We objected to his failure to order the postponed game between Belleville and R.C.A.F. for Monday, February 6th as originally agreed upon. The O.H.A. had ordered the group to declare a winner by February 15, as the arrangements at that time called for the Senior "B" champions to meet the N.O.H.A. winner on March 6th. By his failure to clear up the group games by Feb. 6 we were deprived of the opportunity of arranging two play-off games that week and as a result the first play-off game that should have been played on Wednesday, February 8, actually was not played until Friday, February 10.

Mr. Burrows doubted the necessity of finishing by February 15, so we called Mr. Hewitt and were informed by him that the original arrangements stood and that we must have a winner by February 15 or 17 at the latest. We called Mr. Burrows and he proposed a schedule calling for a game in Peterborough on February 10, in Belleville February 13 and 15 and in Peterborough on February 17. We asked the rink officials for their approval and they refused it as the rink was not available on February 17. We immediately called Mr. Burrows and refused the arrangement suggesting the Wednesday game be played here and the Friday game in Belleville. The Belleville rink was not available as a skating carnival was arranged for that night. We tried to make several other arrangements, none of which were suitable and we left the matter open after confirming the Friday game in Peterborough and the second game in Belleville on Monday, February 13.

Wire From O.H.A.

On Thursday, February 9, we received a wire from the O.H.A. that the play-off with the N.O.H.A. had been cancelled and we could take as much time as we needed for the play-off games. On Friday night we endeavoured, both before and after the game to make arrangements with Mr. Van Vliet the newly appointed manager of the Flyers as to the third game. He begged out of it on the grounds that he was outnumbered and that he had no knowledge of previous arrangements. We agreed to meet in Belleville on Monday to arrange for third game. At the meeting there Mr. Burrows claimed that the game was scheduled for Belleville and must be played there. We appealed to the O.H.A. and were informed by them that Mr. Burrows had provided them with a five game schedule and the games must be played as scheduled. We have never received a copy of that schedule and are still unaware of the dates that Mr. Burrows set for the fourth and fifth games. It is usual to forward copies of letter to all interested parties. If Mr. Burrows had forwarded to us a copy of the schedule at the time he sent it to the O.H.A. we are convinced this mix-up never would have occurred.

The executive regrets that the fans were deprived of the opportunity of seeing the team play the deciding game of the schedule. Most of the executive missed the game as well, and we feel that the members of the executive are amongst the most rabid fans in the district.

PETERBORO HOCKEY CLUB EXECUTIVE.

Toronto Rink Captures Aggregate

TORONTO, Feb. 20 — (CP). — Curlers who drop from main-event competition at future stagings of the Ontario bonspiel will have a new objective at which to shoot, in the precedent-setting feat of the 1939 'spiel's grand aggregate winner, Dan Kelly of Toronto Granite Club.

Kelly won the bonspiel championship here Saturday by taking the Seagram Trophy final game for his 13th victory of the meet, co-starring with Alex Hayes, whose strong young band of Sarnia curlers captured the Royal York main event.

Rinks branch from the Royal York's first round, the winners entering the Seibering and Birks-Ellis-Ryrie events, and the losers the Seagram and North American Life trophies. Those who win generally have the best chance for the aggregate because they play three more games.

But Kelly walked through all opposition in his march to the 'spiel championship, winning every match after his initial loss. Friday night he captured the North American Life, defeating H. Walker's Chatsworths 14-4 and the next day also took the Seagram 11-9 from Walker.

Hayes' Sarnians topped expectations by winning the Royal York in their seventh victory of the main event, defeating Percy Skitch of Lindsay, 12-7. The other final played Saturday saw F. H. Sproule, Toronto High Park, best J. M. Rothschild's Torontos 12-8 to gain the Seibering trophy.

The remaining two trophies were gained Friday night, Bert Kennedy's Toronto Royals captured the Birks-Ellis-Ryrie by defeating Gar Reddon's London curlers 10-9 and R. R. Evans' Hamilton Thistles took the consolation Canada Dry event 9-8. They eliminated Peter Gilbert of Chatham in the final.

In the Royal York final Hayes started off with a three on the first end. Though Skitch went head to lead 4-3 at the fourth and added a two on the fifth, to make it 6-3, the sharpshooting Sarnians staged a rally that netted two on the sixth and two on the seventh, evening the score.

Skitch was allowed only one more point, on the 11th end, Hayes' last shot cleared two Lindsay rocks, but Skitch conceded the game when Sarnia was lying two with three three more stones to be played.

Two Saskatchewan Lads On All-Stars

DETROIT, Feb. 20 — (CP).—Two Saskatchewan players were listed to-day on a Michigan Ontario Amateur Hockey League all-star team selected by managers and coaches of the fast International League, while a third player received honorable mention.

Douglas topped the scorers with 47 points, with Carveth second with 44, and Wilder fifth with 31. Carveth last year scored 38 points in his first year in the M-O League. The three players will receive tryouts with the Detroit Red Wings when the National Hockey League club opens its training school next fall.

Allison (Pickles) MacNichol, who played with London Mohawks during the latter part of the season, won honorable mention in the selection of all-star players. He played in Saskatoon last season.

"Go Easy Junior"

Speedy Forward

HONEY TOMPKINS

Probably the fastest stepper on the fast Petes' senior team this season, Honey Tompkins (above) will be seen in action here tonight against Post Office of Toronto in an exhibition match.

Canadians Show Fine Form In Track Meet

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (CP)—Uncle Sam's fast-footers haven't done much in the way of record-breaking during the first month of the indoor track campaign and today a couple of Canadians—Larry O'Connor and Bill Fritz — shape up as likely choices to turn the trick if any record smashing is to be done this season.

O'Connor, of Toronto ,equalled a world indoor record Saturday night when he won the 60-yard high-hurdles race in 7.2 seconds at the annual New York Athletic Club meet in Madison Square Garden. He shattered a long United States monopoly in the event.

Fritz, running in the colors of Queen's University, bore out prerace sentiment which made him the favorite and waltzed off with the classic Buermeyer 500-yard race.

The Canadian Olympian was only 2-10th seconds off Eddie O'Brien's world indoor record as he came home in 57.3 seconds, two yards in front of Johnny Quigley, the schoolboy wonder from De Lasalle Institute.

O'Connor, also a member of Canada's last Olympic team, came over the last hurdle in third place. Then he turned on the heat and came blasting up to the front to nip Roy Staley of California by little more than a foot. Allan Tolmich of Detroit was third.

In For the Finals.

The Toronto Timber Topper went through his preliminary heat unheaded to qualify for the finals. His time was 7.6 seconds. Tolmich won his heat in 7.5; Staley took the same time to win his heat and Jay Shields of Yale, who placed fourth in the final, won his qualifying heat in 7.6.

O'Connor looked well in action. He broke slowly, went over the first hurdle a yard back of the field, drew even with the others for the middle hurdles and was in position for his race-winning spurt as he came off the last jump.

If Quigley had offered anything like opposition to Printz' losing drive in the 500-yard race, it appeared the Canadian might have equalled the record. But Quigley faded and Fritz breezed home comparatively fresh.

Quigley led from the starting gun to the last lap, Fritz being content to let him set the pace as he followed snugly behind the schoolboy runner. But the Canadian's last-lap spurt left Quigley gasping at Fritz went on to add victory to his win in Boston last week when he captured the 600-yard specialty. Two weeks ago Fritz was second here in the Millrose 600-yard race,

Glenn Cunningham, heading a brilliant Baxter mile field, turned in his 19th consecutive triumph at the distance but his time of 4:12.6 was disappointing. Gene Venske, Cuningham's oldest competitor, was second.

Test Team Wins In Puck Upset

In a surprising C.G.E. Shop Hockey League upset on Saturday in the Brock, Test qualified to meet Fractionals in the second round of the playoffs by yanking out a tight 2-1 win over Machine Shop. It was a sudden-death game and Test rose to heights to eliminate their rivals. Play was fast and close with both goalies shining. Early in the second heat, Langton put Machinists up one, but Pryde tied it before the bell. Pryde again counted in the third and the winners withstood a five-man storming attempt to protect Miller, who was brilliant in the winners' net. He, Krug and Pryde starred for the victors; while Jones, Langton, and Creighton were best for the other team. The teams:

Test—Goal, Miller; defence, Krug, Boyle; centre, Primeau; wings, Pryde and Archibald; subs., Tollington and Atkey.

Machine Shop — Goal, Jones; defence, Curtin, Pearson; centre, Creighton; wings, Langton, Seabrooke; subs., Murduff, Edwards, Starr.

Referee—Red Creighton.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Trude, Smith, wish to announce the engagement of their elder daughter, Althea Evelyn, to William Vernon, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Olver of Smith. Wedding to take place at the home of the bride's parents, March 4.

DIED

O'CONNELL, Miss Mary T. — On Saturday, February 18, 1939, at the home of her sister, Mrs. R. P. McMahon, Merrickville, Mary T. O'Connell, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Timothy O'Connell, 451 Armour road, Peterborough. The mains will arrive by C.P.R. 4.40 p.m. Monday, and will rest at Lane and Eano Parlours. Funeral Tuesday, February 21, to Church of Immaculate Conception. Requiem Mass at 10 a.m.; interment in St. Peter's Cemetery.

HENDREN, Abel.—Entered into rest on Monday, February 20, 1939, at Lakefield, Abel Hendren, beloved husband of Della Ruth Haight and father of Gordon, Howard and Roy Hendren of Toronto by former marriage, and Mrs. William E. Forster of Toronto, Mrs. Kennedy of Kirkland Lake, and Miss Thelma Hendren at home. Funeral on Wednesday, February 22, from residence, Ermatinger street, Lakefield. Interment, Hillside Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

MILLIKEN.—In loving memory of father, Fred R. Milliken, who passed away February 21, 1936.

I think of him in silence,
His name I oft recall
There is nothing left to answer
But his picture on the wall.
—Always remembered by his son, Bill.

DEWDNEY.—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, who passed away February 20, 1936.

A faithful husband, one of the best,
May God grant him eternal rest.
—Ever remembered by Wife and Daughter.

CARDS OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hamilton, River road, wish to express their sincere thanks and deep appreciation to the many relatives, friends and neighbors for the acts of kindness, expressions of sympathy and floral tributes extended during their recent sad bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nuell thank their kind friends and neighbors for the help they gave them in their loss by fire; also Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Ellis for furnishing their home and the music for the shower for them.

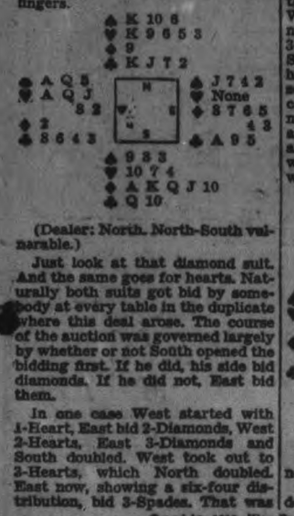
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

FEAR HOT POTATOES

DURING THE DAYS of auction, the expression "hot potato" was applied to those hands which are such terrible misfits that whichever side gets the contract is sure to be burnt. Good bidders always keep their eyes open to discern the danger that these deals extend. Not only are they careful to avoid the punishment that lurks in them, but they like to see the opponents burn their fingers.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

Just look at that diamond suit. And the same goes for hearts. Naturally both suits got bid by somebody at every table in the duplicate where this deal arose. The course of the auction was governed largely by whether or not South opened the bidding first. If he did, his side bid diamonds. If he did not, East bid them.

In one case West started with 1-Heart, East bid 2-Diamonds, West 2-Hearts, East 3-Diamonds and South doubled. West took out to 2-Hearts, which North doubled. East now, showing a six-four distribution, bid 3-Spades. That was the nearest to a fit the side could find, but even this was set three tricks.

South made a third-hand opener of 1-Diamond at one table, West bid 1-Heart, North doubled, East called 1-Spade, and South here bid 2-Diamonds. Taking this as a confession that the original bid was weak, North passed, and the side made exactly 2-Diamonds.

One pair got into 4-Diamonds in the East, for a set of five tricks, one West player was set at 2-Hearts not doubled, and one South made 3-Diamonds. Just why no North-South pair reached 3-No trump is hard to figure, for there are many sequences of sound bidding that could produce that contract. But nobody did. Perhaps it was due to a sort of jinx that seems to hover around these queer misfit deals which nearly everybody bids in a way different from everybody else.

Prices Firmer As Roads Keep Out Trade

Wide open spaces along the aisles of the market Saturday reflected the snow barriers blown across many roads late Friday afternoon and night. A farmer living on the seventh line of Otonabee said he had shovelled through drifts from six o'clock until nearly nine Saturday morning to get through to the city. A resident on the highway to Port Hope reported the main road clear for traffic, but a fairly long lane presented difficulties that required hitching a horse to the automobile and contributing the aid of shovel work to reach the highway.

Prices seemed to be firmer than a week ago, with something of an increase in the egg quotations. They ranged all the way from 23 to 28 cents, and may have declined still further before the morning session was ended. Butter opened at 25 cents, and backed up to 24 and 23 cents. Some of the regular customers had to shop around for their weekly supply of butter when they found that snow conditions had kept their farmer friends at home.

Chickens sold at 20 to 23 cents, and turkeys from 25 to 30 cents. One woman had four turkeys, the first of them bringing 30 cents and the other three 26 cents each. Hens were 19 and 20 cents.

Potatoes were scarce at $1.50 a bushel, and prospective buyers were inclined to back away from that figure, although the market has been registering around that level for six weeks.

Fresh meat was fairly plentiful. H. R. Gill's prices were: Beef 12 and 14; pork 14 and 16c; lamb, 16 and 18c; mutton 10 and 12c. George Mullen quoted 14 and 16 cents for pork.

Allan Brown's honey prices were 30, 50 and 95 cents respectively, for two, four and eight pound tins of the first quality.

Norman Moncrief's select McIntosh Reds were up to the 50 cent mark, but the other varieties were unchanged: Spies 25 to 40; Talman Sweets 40c; Delicious 40c; Greenings, 35c; and Snows 40c.

Harold Doig quoted 50 cents a bushel for beets, carrots and parsnips; onions 25 a six quart basket; cabbage 5c each.

Arthur Stinson's prices included: turnips at 50c a bushel or three for 10 cents; onions 30c a peck; carrots 50c a bushel; parsnips 25c a peck.

Some of the Otonabee farmers who usually come in by way of the sixth line, changed their route to the base line and up the flat road. It was said that both the other roads to Keene were not opened until the plows went through.

Most of the automobiles received in Chile last year were from the United States.

Agonizing Eczema (Salt Rheum)

No rest, day or night, for those afflicted with that awful skin disease, eczema, or salt rheum as it is commonly called.

The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night, or when the affected part is exposed to strong heat, or hot water, are almost unbearable, and relief is gladly welcomed.

To get rid of eczema it is necessary to have the blood cleansed by the use of a thoroughly reliable blood medicine such as Burdock Blood Bitters which during the past 60 years has met with great success in relieving such diseases by its blood cleansing and purifying properties.

Ruin For America?

TORONTO, Feb. 20 — (CP). — Col. Thomas Tehou, former private secretary to General Chiang Kai-Shek of the Chinese Army, said in an interview last night that if Japan should win the war in China and gain China's man power and resources, she would ruin North America economically by dumping cheap goods on the continent and "then would back it up by military power."

Lakeview School Has Jolly Party

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BENSFORT, Feb. 18. — On Tuesday afternoon the pupils and teachers of Lakeview Public School held a Valentine party. The school was prettily decorated and the program was put on by the Junior Red Cross.

Walter Fisher, vice-president, presided for the program, which consisted of songs, recitations, readings, and piano solos. At the close of the program valentines were distributed from a well-filled box. Lunch was served at the close and a social time spent.

Quite a number of the parents were present, including Mrs. George Finnie, Mrs. Harold Moncrief, Mrs. Charles Barnard, Mrs. Chester Fisher, Mrs. Harold Beebe, Mrs. John Pipher, also Mrs. John Brackenridge, Misses Lulu Nurse, Isobel Dawson, and Grace Finnie.

Norman Earl of Bailieboro was a visitor in the district on Tuesday.

Mrs. Byron Wood and Robert Nurse visited Mr. and Mrs. Everett Wood on Monday.

The local young people are practising a play, "He Landed from London," to be presented in March.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Harris of Gore's Landing visited James Finnie on Tuesday.

The Rev. F. Horton was a Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Moncrief.

Nazis, Japs, Italians Agree On Accord

TOKYO, Feb. 20—(CP-Havas). — Germany, Japan and Italy have agreed on the text of the tripartite military accord which has been under discussion for months, excellent sources reported here today. They added, however, that Japan is not at the moment ready to sign the agreement, which would reinforce the anti-comintern pact now linking the three countries.

The same source said that the new accord, while in appearance a defensive pact against the third international, by which is meant the Soviet Union, would in fact inaugurate a broad military understanding devoted to the complete solidarity of the dictatorships in their common demands upon the democracies.

Moderate leaders are still urging a prudent policy with respect to the western democracies, in opposition to the desire of the Active Nationalist minority, inspired by the Japanese ambassadors in Rome and Berlin, to coordinate Japanese policy in the coming months with that of the two western dictatorships.

Gay Valentine Tributes At Lakefield

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 20—The Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Lakefield, held their regular meeting this week in the form of a "Victorian Valentine Party."

A committee, composed of Mary Blewett, Mary Davis, Harold Trude and with Roger Davis as convener, was responsible for the decorations, which were particularly worthy of mention. Two wooden screens, decorated as huge valentines, had red cellophane hearts, pierced by Cupid's dart, against a relief of white, with an edging of paper lace, to form the background for the stage. In front of these, and lending the Victorian atmosphere, was a large, softly-shaded rug, a settee and parlor table, the square piano with the treasures of other days displayed on it—a bouquet of waxed roses under its protecting glass cover, a beautiful hobnail glass pitcher and other lovely pieces. In the windows were set old silver cruet stands, fruit dishes and pickel jars, all polished by shining beauty. Given all these, and with the inevitable family album and the stereoscope with its accompanying views occupying prominent positions, it was easy to transport the audience in imagination back to the days of the beloved Queen Victoria.

After a short devotional period conducted by Mrs. James Young, the program was announced by Mary Davis. She wore an old-fashioned hand-embroidered dress of finest voile and lace insertion. Mary Blewett, looking particularly stately in a similar white gown with train, presided at the piano. The first number was a girls' chorus composed of Pauline Blewett, Evelyn and Hazel Moore and Pearl Hockaday. They, too, were in costume, and sang an old song, "When the Tide Comes In."

Jean Clark told the story of St. Valentine and Ethel Blakely gave a reading, a charming poem about an old valentine. Mrs. (Rev.) James Young and Mrs. T. W. Chaplin sang a duet, "My Grandfather's Clock" Several old songs, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," and "Daisy Bell," etc., were sung by the audience.

The next number, a Victorian pantomime was the most elaborate item on the program. An amber spotlight gave a soft glow to the stage, and the scene represented a Velentine day of the "Gay Nineties." The arrival of the nosegay with its lace paper frill, followed by the sender in person, in most formal attire; a slight lovers' quarrel and the making up; the proposal and its acceptance, and the consequent happy ending, were portrayed by the fine acting of Mary Davis, the heroine, Mary Blewett, her friend, and Roger Davis, suitor.

Harry Blewett, Harold Trude and Roger Davis sang in trio, "Down By the Old Mill Stream," and as an encore, "Put on Your Old Gray Bonnet."

The second part of the evening was arranged by Mrs. T. W. Chaplin, who kept the audience engaged at musical games and contests, until partners were chosen and everyone sat down to supper at a beautifully appointed table. Covered with white linen with a border of red hearts and with red candles in cellophane holders and lovely old china, it was a picture. But add to that sparkling red jellies, frosted layer cakes, heart shaped cookies and "conversation lozenges", and the picture is really complete.

The National Anthem and the benediction, pronounced by Rev. James Young, brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

At United Church

The Young People's Union of Lakefield United Church commemorated the birthday of St. Valentine with a party held in the Sunday School.

Valentines and crimson hearts, gay with touches of tinsel, were strung above the platform and red crepe streamers decorated the pillars in the centre of the room.

Games and contests, suitable to the Valentine season, were played, an amusing contest being that of writing a telegram with the words in it commencing with the letter of the word "sweetheart."

Another amusing game was the dramatization by different groups of the titles of familiar songs.

Refreshments were served in cafeteria style after which the merry-makers ended the party in a more serious vein with a short worship service, which included, among other things, the story of St. Valentine.

Sleighing Party

The Young People's Society of Lakefield Baptist church held something novel in the way of Valentine celebrations here on Tuesday evening, when they commemorated the birthday of the Saint with an old-fashioned sleighing party.

The members gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Webdale, in Lakefield, and from there set out via a horse-driven bob sleigh for an old-fashioned sleigh ride through the country. After an hour's drive, when the members experienced all th thrills of the one-time popular sport, the crow returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Webdale, where appetizing refreshments awaited them.

Strike Called Off

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Feb. 20,—(CP Cable).—Jamaica's paralyzing strike of waterfront workers has been called off. Alexander Bustamante, powerful labor leader, who ordered the walkout Tuesday, issued a statement last night ordering workers to report at their jobs today.

Bustamante issued the order as the government was prepared to meet any eventuality.

Firm Friendship Between U.S., Britain Urged

A firm friendship and understanding between the United States and Great Britain is the first essential to lasting world peace, was the opinion expressed by Rev. G. S. Easton of Trinity United church, speaking to the men's forum in George Street United church yesterday afternoon.

He believed that these two great nations, so close to one another in all that is fundamental, could bring about, working together inharmony, a world in which man might have reasonable security, reasonable opportunity for happiness.

A great many people think that the business of religion is to save the prodigal son, the speaker said in preface. A great many others, he believed, think that religion's duty is to save the prodigal world. "In order to do either, you must do both," he said. "There would not be much sense in saving a prodigal son if you brought him to a home where his father hated him and his brother was jealous of him. Similarly it would not be satisfactory to have a home and disregard a prodigal son."

He found that one of the great misfortunes in the world to-day is the habit of peoples to act with one code of ethics in their personal relationships and an entirely different code in their national and international relationships. Individuals when in disagreement attempt to settle differences amicably and if that proves impossible they go to a court of law and abide by its decision, he illustrated, whereas nations in disagreement immediately "blow each other's brains out."

"We live by one set of principles that guides us in our life of faith and by another that guides us in our life of fact," he said. "To bridge that gap is the problem to be solved," he stated.

While serving in France, he said, he had become convinced that in the cultivation of friendship and understanding between the peoples of the United States and Great Britain, lay the one real hope for a lasting peace throughout the world. That conviction became the deepest one of his life, he declared, and one that has grown with years.

There are differences between the two peoples, he admitted, differences of climate have affected their two outlooks. The people of England live under sombre grey skies that have had an effect upon their prevailing mood. They are a people of closed doors, are retiring, even secretive. Americans, on the other hand, live under brilliant skies, in sunshine, and their nature is open and friendly. An Englishman visiting in an American home is apt to be embarrassed by the cordiality of his host. Those differences must be understood and accepted by the two peoples, he said, and the trouble has too often been in the past that they have not been understood.

Religion is one of the things the two countries have in common, he said, "When an American crosses the Atlantic and goes to places of worship he does not walk among strange gods."

A common language is another bond, and "common language means common literature and common ideas. The peoples of both lands are constantly exploring the minds of each other." The two lands have the same type of representative government, the same ideas of civil and religious liberty, he said. He asked that these two lands be united, not politically or for the purposes of war, but to bring about the emancipation of the world.

It is the work of Canada to interpret England to the United States, the United States to England, he said.

Outside Critics Tire Manion

OTTAWA, Feb. 20—(CP).—Conservative Leader Manion told the House of Commons on Friday that "I am just getting a little tired of people outside the House, who know nothing whatever about the affairs of Parliament, or how they are carried on, continually lecturing this House to get on with the business of the people."

Speaking in the debate on the Canada-United States trade treaty, he said his party was not interested in delaying the House's business but he felt a "fair discussion is proper and it is only right that the details should be discussed."

"After all this is public business of the utmost importance to Canada—just as, to my mind, the Bren gun was public business." Dr. Manion added.

He said he did not care who the critics outside the House were. "I think they are lecturing without sufficient knowledge. After all, the Government of Canada is the executive of Parliament. And Parliament, therefore — theoretically at least, and indeed practically—has the last word. That is democracy.

Safe Yields $678

TORONTO, Feb. 20 — (CP). — Police to-day sought cracksmen who broke open a safe in the offices of the Woodbine Coal Company here last night and stole $678. The thieves used crowbars and sledge hammers to break open the strong box. The tools were found on the floor when discovery of the break-in was made by a police officer on his rounds. Entrance to the office was gained through a rear door.

Whiz-Bang Minstrels Have Male Chorus Of 25-Stage Show On Monday And Tuesday

Morley Plunkett as interlocutor, a male chorus of twenty-five voices, a 5-piece orchestra, and such songs as "I Want to Be In Dixie," "Carolina in the Morning," "The Lonely Trail", "All Ashore", "Star of My Blue Heaven," suggest a fine flavor of entertainment by The Whiz-Bang Ministrels at the Collegiate Institute tonight and Tuesday nights Old time minstrelsy has an enduring appeal, and the Whiz-Bangs of the Canadian Legion promise a lot of pleasant shelling with music and comedy throughout their first part.

The olio will feature that favorite of other years Pat Rafferty, Rose Marie Steacy, specialty dancer, a sketch "Misery and Company", a military skit of a rest camp in France, and other numbers. There will be a matinee for children at 4.30 p. m. Monday.

Remove Telephone Poles

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 20—A line crew of the Bell Telephone have been busily engaged for the past few weeks in this vallage changing their wires over in some cases for joint use with the Hastings' Hydro commission poles. It is understood that the telephone poles will be removed from the business section of Front street when the telephone wires are removed to the Hydro poles on the south side of the street. This change should create a more tidy appearance, in view of the fact that there are several poles to be removed.

King Bolsters Defence Line With New Battleship, Britain's 1st In 13 Years

Over Thousand Police, Detectives On Guard For Ceremony Witnessed By Countless Throng On Banks Of Tyne

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, England, Feb. 21 (AP).—King George VI. today launched Britain's great new battleship which bears the name of his father, King George V.

"May God bless her and those who serve in her," the King said as the 35,000-ton ship slid down the ways into the River Tyne, the first battleship Britain has launched in more than 13 years and the first of a new group of monster vessels which will total at least nine.

As the King and Queen came to Newcastle for the ceremony they were under strict guard of more than 1,000 police and detectives.

Pulling a silver level which released a magnum of Australian wine to smash against the great craft, the King watched eagerly as the vessel slid into the stream.

The ship will mount 10 14-inch guns and have secondary armament of 16 5¼-inch guns in eight turrets, as well as numerous smaller pieces. The Admiralty said she would be "appreciably faster" than the 23 knots of the last battleships built by Britain.

Three battleships will be launched later this year, and another early in 1940. Two other battleships have been authorized and the government has announced plans for two more.

Nearly 500 special constables were called into Newcastle to augment the local police. Every place the king and queen were to visit was given close inspection because of the wave of bomb terrorism throughout the United Kingdom in recent weeks which was attributed to Irish Republican sympathizers.

Tracks Specially Re-laid.

The royal train arrived early in the morning and halted on a track which had been especially re-laid against the possibility of bombing.

The train, with cordons of detectives surrounding it, will be the home of the king and queen during their three-day visit to the north-east coast—a semi-state tour since it is the last of 10 visits to the provinces following the coronation.

Trenton Mayor Sees Relief Costs Higher

TORONTO, Feb. 21 (CP)—Mayor H. R. Cory of Trenton, president of the Ontario Mayors' Association, declared in a statement issued here last night that municipalities of the province actually will pay more toward relief than during 1938.

"It is claimed by the governments and it is quite true at first glance that under the new proposed distribution of relief costs for 1939 that the average municipal cost over the calendar year would be 25 per cent as against 30 per cent in 1938, but this saving is immediately offset," Mayor Cory said.

The municipalities must now pay 100 per cent of the cost of household remedies, garden seeds, mattresses, dentistry and school books and supplies given out in relief schemes, he pointed out. They must also pay anything over a monthly quota based on gross costs of 1938, he added.

"There can be no saving but in reality there will be an increased cost to municipalities under the proposed setup for 1939," Mayor Cory declared.

Labor Minister Rogers recently announced in the House of Commons the federal government would pay 40 per cent, the provincial governments 40 per cent and the municipalities 20 per cent of relief costs. Ontario government officials explained the new basis would not take effect until April 1.

Some Figures

Mayor Cory set forth relief costs borne by six Ontario cities in January, 1939, compared with those of January, 1938, when the governments and municipalities paid one-third of the total costs each.

Hamilton paid $48,880 last month against $27,500 in January, 1938; Kitchener, $6,300 against $3,900; Niagara Falls, $12,770 against $8,111; Brantford $19,910, against $13,719; Belleville $2,694 against $1,899; Trenton $4,973 against $2,744.

"And in addition to this increase which the municipalities are asked to absorb during the first three months of the current year, they also are called upon to pay the entire cost of administration, and as there were 8,049 more persons on relief in the above named six municipalities during January, 1939, than in the same month in 1938, administration costs must of necessity rise accordingly," the statement continued.

Relief costs in Ontario for the first three months of 1938 amounted to $6,540,000, Mayor Cory said, the Dominion paying $1,395,000, the province $3,483,000 and the municipalities $1,662,000. Estimated costs for the first three months of 1939 he set at $7,200,000, the Dominion paying $1,395,000, the province $2,925,000 and the municipalities $2,880,000.

Mayor Cory expressed a belief that "the Federal authorities have not in the past nor are they now assuming their just percentage of the relief costs in Ontario."

Four Young Men Have Close Call

Four of Peterborough's young business men escaped unhurt in an automobile collision with a C.N.R. snow plow leaving Lindsay about 10 o'clock last night.

They were Keele V. Tewsley owner and driver of the car, Don Loucks, Don Scott and Verne A. Selkirk.

Driving south on Lindsay street Mr. Tewsley slowed his car to less than ten miles an hour to avoid the bumps at the main line C.N.R. crossing. At the same time the snow plow, with an engine, whose head light was obscured by the plow, was starting from the railway yard, eastbound toward Peterborough. It was moving slowly, approaching the highway, and neither the car or the engine had any speed. They were crawling along at less than ten miles an hour.

Don Scott was the only occupant of the automobile who saw the oncoming plow, and he did not notice it until a moment before the collision occurred. He aptly described it as a slow motion accident, giving the bizarre and actual impression of a mishap shown by motion pictures cut down to bring out the details.

None of the four Peterborough men were hurt, but the right side of the automobile was crushed in. A projecting coupling rod on the front of the plow struck the car directly on the post between the two front doors.

It was pushed in and both doors were badly wrenched. Otherwise the automobile was capable of operating, and Mr. Tewsley decided to push on to Peterborough at once. The engine and transmission gear appearently were undamaged and the only discomfort of the homebound trip was the chill of the near zero weather.

HornepayneGets It 60 Below In New Wave

TORONTO, Feb .21.—(CP).—Motor traffic crawled over ice-coated rural highways and urban streets in Ontario to-day as sub-zero weather followed a week-end of sleet, rain and comparatively high temperatures. The change in weather averted threats of floods in some parts of the province but left roads rutted and dangerous.

As temperatures dropped to 60 below at Hornpayne, Northern Ontario, the coldest spot in the province, the meteorological service forecast for to-day and to-morrow was for continued cold weather with chill, north-east winds and light snow.

From eastern and western sections of Ontario, hard hit during a week-end of variable weather when torrential rains followed one of the worst sleet storms in years, came reports of sharp tumbles in temperatures during the night. Light snowfall accompanied the colder weather in Toronto and other Central Ontario centres.

Temperatures far below zero were reported from Northern Ontario, where a severe week-end blizzard blocked roads over a wide area. Hornepayne led the list with 60 below zero, but Oba, 50 miles east, was close behind with minus 55. Franz, 40 miles south of Oba, registered 46 below.

Summery Spell Fades

CHICAGO, Feb. 21—(AP).—The mercury dropped as much as 30 degrees and cut short today an unscheduled visit of summery weather to the eastern United States.

Snow was general throughout the middle west, where some subzero readings were taken, rain dispalled fog in Florida and readings in the 20's were reported in Texas.

Light snow in upstate New York accompanied a drop of 26 degrees in 24 hours to 11 above. At Niagara Falls the tempearture was 16 at the same hour and the ice bridge in the gorge was one of the strongest and largest in recent years. The mercury was down to 36 above in New York city and fair and moderately cold weather was predicted.

A Rock Island railway switchman, John J. Williams, 36, was killed when he slipped on icy steps and fell under a switch engine at Hutchinson, Kas.

Two Windsor Youths Are Badly Knifed

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 21.—(CP)—Angus Robinson and John Bernat, youthful Windsor residents, were in hospital with serious knife wounds today and police held another youth for questioning.

The two youths refused to tell police how they were wounded. Robinson has his right palm severed and Bernat's right arm was cut to the bone. Robinson said someone had "knifed" him.

Dr. G. A. McTague said the wounds must have been inflicted with a heavy sharp weapon. The pair arrived at hospital in a taxi early today.

8 Navy Planes Crash In Fog, 2 Die

Six Student Fliers Escape By Chute Near Florida Field

PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 21—(AP)—Trapped in a dense fog, eight United States navy planes were wrecked and two pilots killed on a routine training flight last night.

Rain washed away the fog at dawn to-day disclosing the full toll to officers of the Pensacola naval air station.

Six student fliers escaped by bailing out in the darkness in their first parachute jumps. Four pilots landed safely in South Alabama.

Lieut. G. F. Presser, a Brazilian navy officer receiving regular training here, died when his plane crashed and burned at Corry Field, where land planes are quartered.

Lieut. N. M. Ostergren was found in his wrecked and burned plane near McDavid, Fla., about 25 miles north of Pensacola. The fog kept his fate a mystery until after dawn, when scouting planes took to the air for a search of the entire section.

Lieut. J. P. Monroe, aide to the commandant of the station, said a board of inquiry would convene today.

While no official comment was immediately available concerning the presence of the Brazilian officers in the flight, it was indicated they were taking the regular course as students.

Not long after they were aloft a soupy fog rolled in from the Gulf of Mexico. The well-lighted landing field was blotted out. Thousands of feet high, the fliers were faced with the choice of hunting an airport that was not fog-bound or flying until their gasoline was exhausted and jumping.

Three instructors and one student managed successful landings.

Armaments May Delay Australian Insurance

SYDNEY, New South Wales, Feb. 21.—(CP Cable)—Sir Earle Page, deputy prime minister, indicated today that the cost of rearmament might compel the Australian government to delay introduction of the national insurance scheme.

"Actual defence needs are paramount," Sir Earle said. "If we give ourselves an invincible basis of defence we shall be able at a later stage to give ourselves national insurance and other social benefits."

The scheme, providing for sickness and disability insurance and old age, widows' and orphans' pensions, at present is schedule to start in September.

Confidence Lacking To See Success In Any Disarming Parley Chamberlain Tells Commons

By J. F. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Feb. 21.—(CP Cable.)—The element of mutual confidence is lacking to make a disarmament conference a success at the moment, Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons to-day.

Britain's peace Prime Minister said it was criminal for Europe to be rushing toward bankruptcy by spending colossal sums of money on armaments.

The Prime Minister said he would not hesitate to call as disarmament conference if he thought it had the least chance of succeeding. But a conference that failed would be worse than none "and I believe before it is possible to anticipate success from such a conference we must be sure those attending will come in an attitude of good will, determined to achieve the desired result. I do not think we have sufficient confidence yet to make such a conference a success at this time."

Mr. Chamberlain was speaking to the financial resolution permitting the government to borrow a maximum of £800,000,000 for defence.

He warned his fellow countrymen they should show more confidence in themselves "and not allow them-

Calls Police For Ride To Beer Garden Pays $5 Fine Instead

Detroit, Feb. 21 (CP)

ANTHONY REDDINGER, 27, took the statement police are public servants too literally and so he appeared in police court here charged with drunkness.

Twice police had answered his calls and taken him home in a scout car when he became drunk and summoned them by telephone. The third time Saturday night was too much for their patience.

"I called you to take me to another beer garden," Reddinger told the scout car crew when they arrived. The angry policemen arrested him. He paid a $5 fine in court.

2 Best Canadian Plowmen To Meet Britons

TORONTO, Feb. 21—(CP).—Two Canadian ploughmen will go to Great Britain this year to compete for the first time in history with champion ploughmen of England.

The 29th annual meeting of the Ontario Ploughmen's Association here today accepted an offer of a tea company to sponsor regional competitions for prizes totalling $2,500, the winners of which would enter the annual international ploughing match, expected to be held this year at Brockville.

The winner of the international will receive a gold medal and the runner-up a silver medal. Both the first and second-place winners of the international match will be sent to England, expenses paid, to compete with champion ploughmen there.

It was announced at the meeting it was hoped that perhaps next year it would be possible to send a two-man tractor team to Britain in addition to the winners of the international match.

Finding Of Child's Bones On Ranch Fits Convicts' Triple Murder Tale

SALEM, Ore., Feb. 21.—(AP). — Spurred by discovery of a child's bones on a Texas ranch, authorities checked anew to-day the bizarre story of two convicts that they killed a father and his two sons seven years ago.

More than two years ago Claud and Elmer Tenison, brothers serving 1 years each in Oregon penitentiary for bank robbery, told prison authorities they had killed J. M. Cone near Perryton, Tex., because he failed to pay $1,000 he had promised them for slaying his two sons, J. M. Cone, Jr., 10, and Vernon Cone, six. The pair said Cone did not want to be encumbered with the children when he "ran off with another woman."

Authorities discounted the story at that time.

Saturday the bones of a child were found 25 miles south-east of Perryton, at about the place where, the Tenisons told authorities, the Cone children had been buried. Discovery of the bones caused Perryton officials to re-open the investigation.

State Patrol Board members Gerald Mason and Cecil Edwards questioned Claud, 40, and Elmer, 42, yesterday and said they repeated their story of the triple killings.

Revolt Fears In Ethiopia Said Keeping Italy From Somaliland Raid

Paris, Feb. 21 (CP-Havas)

FEAR of revolt in Ethiopia will prevent Italy from attacking French Somaliland, Lefigaro (Conservative) said today in a dispatch from Port Said. The paper quoted reports that some Italian soldiers in Ethiopia have revolted because of reduced rations and, on the basis of information obtained from an observer reach Port Said from Djibouti, French Somaliland, added:—

"The opinion being spread by foreign residents is that Italy will not attack France in the neighborhood of Djibouti, partly out of fear that the Ethiopians would seize the occasion to intensify revolt."

Jap Bombers Wreck Station In Hong Kong Colony Kill Nine, Wound Hundred

Protest Couched In Strongest Of Terms Is Ordered Sent To Tokyo After Nipponese Fly Miles Inside Line

HONG KONG, Feb. 21 (AP).—Nine persons, including a British Indian policeman, were killed today when Japanese aircraft bombed a railroad station inside the borders of this British Crown colony.

Sir Geoffrey Northcote, Governor of Hong Kong, after a personal investigation, sent a report to London and requested the British Consul-General in Canton vigorously to protest to the Japanese Government.

The raid led to an influx of several thousand refugees from the heavily-bombed Chinese area adjacent to the Hong Kong border. In Shumchun village, just outside British territory, it was estimated the planes caused more than 100 casualties among civilian Chinese.

The bombers also demolished a railway car in which a score of British policemen were sheltered near the station.

British military authorities said the low-flying Japanese planes first dropped bombs in Chinese territory not far from the western border of the colony and then frew over the border, unloading more missiles on the Lowu Station, 18 miles from the heart of Hong Kong.

A mixed passenger and freight train on the Hong Kong-Kowloon railroad two miles within the colony border narrowly escaped destruction when a Japanese bomb landed near the tracks, shattering windows of the cars. Passengers were reported uninjured.

(A Reuter's News Agency dispatch from Hong Kong said that at another point a bomb fell on a British military blockhouse, killing an Indian and several Chinese).

It was understood the colonial government requested the British Consul-General at Canton to bring the incident to the attention of Japanese authorities there at once.

Chinese Murder 53rd Jap Aide

SHANGHAI, Feb. 21 (AP). — Li Kuo,Chieh, better known as Marquis Li, grandson of Li Hung-Chang, famous Chinese statesman of the 19th century, was shot and killed today in the international settlement by two unidentified gunmen. Li was reported to have been associated with the Japanese-sponsored Nanking reformed government.

Police said the gunmen attacked Li as he was leaving his house to enter an automobile. The assailants escaped. Political assassinations since the Japanese occupation of the Shanghai area in November, 1937, reached a total of 53 with the slaying of Li. Police said five bullets entered Li's body.

Both Chinese and Japanese reported victory in an aerial battle over Lanchow, important Chinese military base in Northwest China. A Japanese navy communique said 36 Chinese planes, all made in Russia and piloted by Russian fliers, were shot down in the engagement which took place yesterday afternoon.

Reports from Chungking, however, said the Chinese had brought down eight enemy planes and that only three Chinese pilots were injured. These reports did not mention any Chinese planes being destroyed, but did say several public buildings were wrecked and about 20 civilians killed.

The engagement lasted 20 minutes, the Japanese communique said, with between 40 and 50 Chinese planes engaging the attacking squadron in a series of dog fights. One disabled Japanese bomber, according to the communique, deliberately dived into a munitions dump, blowing it up.

Last Minute News Flashes

MONTREAL. — Forty patients reached safety today when slowly-spreading fire made its way through the little east-end hospital operated by the Sisters of Providence. Most of the patients were carried out by members of the hospital staff.

PARIS—Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet was reported today to have bowed to General Franco by dropping all the conditions on which France had sought to make formal recognition of the Nationalist regime in Spain contingent.

Work Shirkers Task Made More Difficult

Maintaining a balance between the citizen's civil right to seek work wherever he wish to go, and on the other hand to protect municipalities from the imposition of supporting persons who have no desire to work and who fall into the classification of drifters, is one of the ideals of the Department of Public Welfare as outlined by E. A. Horton, Deputy-Minister in a conference with representatives of the city council Monday afternoon.

"We're going to put a drive on work shirkers," said Mr. Horton, asking A. G. Metheral, relief officer, for the work records of the last five years of men receiving relief.

The gist of the conversations was that the Ontario Government has no intention of encouraging the job-dodger, the wife and family deserter, the lazy migrant from one community to another, and is planning to put more rigor into the slogan, "no relief for the man who won't work."

"Each community is expected to-day to take care of its own unemployed, and will receive the support of the Department in excluding families who are attracted only by a higher schedule of relief than they receive in their own municipality.

Co-operation of all employers in reporting to the relief department the names and addresses of every newcomer seeking work, in an effort to tighten the watch on the borders against the drifter lured by a more generous scale of relief, was suggested by Mr. Horton as a measure which should appeal to all employers as local taxpayers.

Establishing Residence

Mayor Hamilton presided at the meeting in the city hall, and with him were Mr. Horton, Bruce Johnston, clerk of North Monaghan township, Aldermen Dutton, McIntyre, Glover, Bradburn, Wilson, Alex L. Elliott M.L.A., City Clerk Armstrong and E. A. Outram. W. F Huycke, K.C., Morley E. Shaver, A. G. Metheral, Fred McNeeley, district supervisor of relief.

Alderman Dutton submitted to Mr. Horton a review of questions which had given the relief committee some difficulty, and asked for a

Chief Suspended In Fire Death

NORTH BAY, Ont., Feb. 21.—(CP).—Fire Chief George M. Brady is held out of service pending the results of a coroner's inquest into the death of Claude Grace, 46, Arnprior. Grace is believed to have suffocated in a fire Sunday in a cafe here.

A resolution suspending the Chief was passed by city council last night. Captain Walter Wallace was instructed to take over the Chief's duties. With Coroner Dr. A. E. Ranney officiating, an inquest into Grace's death was opened yesterday.

All the occupants of the cafe staff managed to escape except Grace. He was found in a washroom next door to his bedroom. The fire swept through the upstairs of the building.

"The circumstances do not speak well for the fire department," Mayor Arthur Beattie told council last night.

Guelph Moonshiner Taps City Gas For Still Uses $300 Worth A Month—Free

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 21 (CP)—Gas which was headed off before it reached the meter to heat a still apparatus found by city and Royal Canadian Mounted Police Jan. 6 was being consumed at a rate of about $300 worth each month, and the layout constituted a "dangerous thing," Crown Attorney J. M. Kearns, K.C., said in police court today when George Carere, Guelph, appeared on a charge of stealing gas from the Light and Heat Commission.

"It's a wonder the whole house didn't blow up," Mr. Kearns said.

A week ago, Carere was fined $500 and costs or six months on a charge of having possession of a still. He pleaded guilty today to a charge of stealing gas and was given six months concurrent.

Ottawa Ready With Plan Of Insurance

Hope Quebec, Alberta New Brunswick Will Swing In Line

OTTAWA, Feb. 21.—(CP)—In the conviction that public opinion throughout Canada favors a national contributory system of unemployment insurance, the Federal government hopes the governments of Alberta, Quebec and New Brunswick will yet agree to a constitutional amendment which will give parliament jurisdiction to establish such a system.

Such was the information given the House of Commons last night by Labor Minister Rogers in a debate on unemployment insurance. Speakers representing all parties except Social Credit were in substantial agreement while the Social Crediters suggested unemployment insurance should be non-contributory rather than contributory.

A resolution sponsored by A. W. Neill (Ind. Comox-Alberni) provided material for a six-hour debate which was not finished at adjournment athough Mr. Rogers intimated the government would like to see it passed unanimously. It simply declared a national system of contributory unemployment insurance to be a pressing need which should receive immediate attention.

Mr. Rogers revealed the government had not been idle in the matter and announced a bill had been prepared and was ready for introduction in the House as soon as an amendment to the British North America Act was obtained to give parliament the necessary authority.

He rejected as impracticable, however, the suggestion advanced by private members that the procedure adopted by the United States in the enactment of the Social Security Act may be followed. This involved the federal parliament making grants to provinces which set up suitable unemployment insurance schemes.

Pressure For Savings

"Just now," he said, "there is pressure on all sides for reduction of governmental expense and there are protests against duplication of services.

"With unemployment insurance on a provincial basis you would have to set up, assuming that all the provinces came in, which is not a necessary conclusion, nine separate commissions dealing with unemployment insurance, nine sets of actuaries, nine complete organizations of inspectors. I suggest that from the viewpoint of economy alone, apart from the efficiency, the arguments on the side of a national scheme are overwhelming."

Conservative leader Manion was one of those who favored a scheme involving Dominion-Provincial co-operation and suggested the government might have taken up proposals made along this line by Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec.

The Conservative party, said Dr.

Canadian Pavilion Interests Queen

LONDON, Feb. 21—(CP Cable)—Queen Elizabeth showed special interest in a model of the Canadian pavilion for the world's fair in New York when she visited the British Industries Fair today.

Her Majesty spent 10 minutes in the Canadian section and examined closely a model of the pavilion. She saw where she will enter with the King, assuming they visit the New York fair during their visit to the United States in June.

The Queen was accompanied by B.I.F. officials and Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner in the United Kingdom. At the stand of a Granby, Que., rubber firm the Queen ordered a pair of rubber overshoes after examining several pairs.

Year For Robbery

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 21—(CP)—Raymond Strickland, 17, was sentenced today to one year determinate and six months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph for his part in the robbery of a service station here.

Strickland conspired with John Cote, 19, to rob the service station where Strickland worked. Strickland said he attempted to withdraw from the robbery plans, but Cote went ahead and held up the station when Strickland was in charge Jan. 27.

France Renews Talks In Spain

PARIS, Feb. 21. —(AP).— The French Foreign Ministry to-day instructed its emissary to go ahead with negotiations for diplomatic relations with Nationalist Spain despite dwindling hopes for an early end of the civil war.

Senator Leon Berard, who came to the French border town of St. Jean-De-Luz yesterday after meeting obstacles in his talks at Burgos, received new instructions by telephone from Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet during the night.

The French government was understood to hope that, even though the present negotiations should fail to bring peace, the recognition of General Franco's regime might help check Franco's swing toward the side of the Fascist powers.

Foreign ministry officials said Berard's report to Bonnet on his negotiations for diplomatic relations with Franco created an "excellent impression."

Berard's next conversation with General County Francisco Gomez Jordana, nationalist foreign minister, was set for tomorrow at Burgos.

A session of Premier Daladier's cabinet originally called for today to discuss recognition of Franco's regime was delayed indefinitely.

The recognition is expected to be devoid of major guarantees for France and based largely upon a technical settlement of the problems of repatriation of Spanish refugees in France and disposition of arms, munitions and wealth left in France by the Spanish government.

Havelock Motorist Wrecks Car On Posts

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Feb. 21.—Five Havelock youths, enrolled as students in the motor mechanics class at the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational Institute, will be able to put their training to practical use as a result of a minor accident, while en route to the city last evening. Starting out early for night school, due to the heavy condition of the road, they were hardly more than three miles from town, when turning out to pass an approaching truck, their car struck the heavy crust, swung out of control and clipped off four posts from the highway guard fence. Only the centre portion of the highway had been snow-plowed and motorists found it difficult to pas sat some points, especially when meeting trucks or other large vehicles. The hard upper crust resulting from Sunday night's rain, made turning out extremely dangerous.

Damage to the car, driven by J. Aboud, included a broken radiator grill, headlight, bumper, and a badly crumpled right front fender. Other occupants of the car were Messrs. J. Peters, R. Patterson, E. Gordon, and G. Seeney. No one was injured in the smash.

Wild Bund Rally Kept In Hand By 1,500 Police

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP).—In a Nazi demonstration that filled vast Madison Square Garden, leaders of the German-American Bund stood last night under the sign of the Swastika to denounce "international Jewry," some members of the United States Government, and any American alliance with European democracies.

While uniformed stormy troopers marched intermittently inside the Garden—which an official estimate held 20,000—a moving throng of anti-Nazis, theatregoers and the merely curious, milled about in the streets outside.

About 1,500 police reserves stood guard over the area, while violence spurted up inside the Garden and out.

As Fritz Kuhn, national leader of the Bund, was concluding a peroration against Jews, Isadore Greenbaum, a slight, 26-year-old hotel workers, leaped upon the great stage and ran towards the speaker.

A dozen or more storm troopers set upon him, knocking him down and beating him as he held his head in his arms.

A squad of police pushed the storm troopers aside, picked him from the floor of the platform and, holding him high above their heads, ran to an exit. Most of his clothing was torn from his body.

Later he was booked for disorderly conduct and held in $100 bail.

13 Arrested In Fights

Outside the Garden, 13 persons were arrested in a series of fights involving the police—who refused permission of anti-Nazis to picket the Garden—and the followers and opponents of Nazism.

The first disturbance involved Dorothy Thompson, newspaper columnist, who had shouted "nonsense" during a speech of G. W. Kunze, the Bund's national publicity director.

Amid shouts of "sit down" and "throw her out" a grey-shirted storm trooper and two policemen started to hustle her from the building. Heywood Broum, another columnist, ran to her rescue, telling the police her identity. She was allowed to remain upon her insistence that "American free speech" gave her the right to express disagreement with any speaker.

Roads Into Hastings Were All Blocked

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 21.—Residents of this town were treated to the first snow-in of the season yesterday, when all roads leading from Hastings were blocked until nearly noon, when the sun had some effect on the hard crust and loosened it up to a degree where cars might break the crust and travel with considerable difficulty. From early Sunday night no cars had reached Hastings until eleven o'clock yesterday morning. The Norwood school bus was many hours late in reaching here from Westwood where the run originates. Mail couriers were forced to revert back to the horse and cutter if they were to make the trip around the rural districts.

Two bank clerks from here who had visited their respective homes over the week-end were successful in reaching Norwood on a round-about trip to Hastings by car, but were abruptly halted when encountering snowbanks high enough to almost cover the car.

Plow Broke Down.

Due to one of the provincial snow plows breaking down, one ploy from Norwood had to make the run from Norwood to Peterborough and as a result this village was practically the last place on the route to cover. Snow banks ranging to ten feet in height on the Hastings-Norwood road, more than half again as high as a car. The great amount of snow this winter has created these banks which are making it quite difficult for the plows to push back, and as a result this road in some parts is only wide enough for one car. Hastings streets were very hard going for motor cars all day yesterday and the situation had not cleared itself much by last night. Motorists explained that the snow was powdery and caused the wheels to have little grip.

Potato Thief Caught In Trap In Cellar

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 21.— The solution to a series of potato thefts on the farm of Bert Preston was reached yetserday when the thief was the victim of miscalculation. Mr. Preston had picked and bagged a quantity of potatoes in his cellar the previous evening and had discovered the next morning that each bag had the bottom torn out of it and a number of potatoes missing. The thieving, he had suspected, was going on for some time but he had been more or less skeptical since he did not know actually how many were used each day for table use.

It occured to him that a drain leading from the cellar to an outside field might prove the source of entry for any small animal and here he placed a steel trap in an effort to solve the mystery. Towards noon yesterday, the family heard the trap go off and rushed to the cellar to find a 5½ pound muskrat in its clenches. The rat had been evidently having a fat living all winter off the Preston's potato supply.

selves to believe every tale that come to us about the aggressive intentions of others."

"I am not sure," he said, "that members of this House realise how this attitude of suspicion is paralleled elsewhere."

The Prime Minister went on to say he was not accusing his political opponents of warmongering.

Solely For Defence

He reiterated the basic fact that Britain's rearmament policy is designed solely for defensive purposes. If it were true other nations were arming only for the same purpose, he asked, "why continue to pile up these ruinous expenditures under misapprehension."

Only by a general agreement could Britain relax her rearmament efforts, the prime minister warned, adding it is the plain duty of his government to watch for every chance to persuade other governments of the folly of pursuing this ruinous policy which if contonued "will bankrupt every country in Europe."

Answering a labor interjection that the government had destroyed the League of Nations, Mr. Chamberlain claimed no country had run such risks and made such efforts to carry out league principles as had Britain.

He reiterated the contention that the failure of the sanctions policy was because "it sought to impose upon the League a task completely beyond its powers."

The prime minister hoped labor eventually would agree with the government that the League could only be an effective factor for the preservation of peace "when it has abandoned the idea peace can be imposed by force."

Clement Attlee, leader of the (Labor) opposition, assailed Mr. Chamberlain for adopting an appeasement policy "only when he began to get frightened."

He asserted that since Britain abandoned collective security she had "only one effective ally"—France.

Utilize the Jobless Men

"Money and guns are not much good without men," declared the opposition leader. He demanded the government utilize its available manpower. He blamed the government for failing to take up the slack of unemployment in its immense armaments expenditure.

Mr. Chamberlain should have shown the same enthusiasm for appeasement and disarmament seven years ago, Mr. Attlee went on.

It was "rather disgusting" to find the prime minister "triumphing at the end of the league," he affirmed.

Dismemberment of Czechoslovakia, Italy's threats to France, the growth of fascist power in Spain, all menaced the security of France, Mr. Attlee declared, while the Spanish situation constituted a potential threat to Britain's sea communications both in the Atlantic ocean and the Mediterranean Sea.

Criticizing Britain's unpreparedness as revealed during the September crisis, the Labor leader demanded a ministry of defence be set up.

He said Labor was going to vote against the government because "they have neither insured a peaceful world nor adequately defended us from the dangerous world they have created."

Kidnap-Murderer's Death Delayed

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Feb. 21. —(AP).—The execution of Franklin Pierce McCall, 22, for the $10,000 ransom kidnapping and death of five year old James Bailey Cash, Jr., was delayed at the last minute to-day until Friday.

A secretary said Governor Fred Cone in Jacksonville this morning arranged with State Prison Superintendent L. F. Chapman to set the execution forward to give McCall's counsel time for an appeal to the United States' Supreme Court.

The death warrant, signed by the Governor, set the week of Feb. 20 for McCall and two others to die. Superintendent Chapman fixed today for the execution. One of the three won a reprieve.

Clyde Hysler, 22-year-old Jacksonville youth, who drew a death sentence as the instigator of a hold-up slaying, was granted a 30-day reprieve yesterday.

Suggests Surfacing Most Gravel Roads

TORONTO, Feb. 21 — (CP). — Highways Minister T. B. McQuesten suggested to-day Ontario counties and municipalities should cover all gravel roads with some light, hard surface, because too many gravel roads were being maintained. He said the change could be made over a long period.

"I would like to see 10,000 miles or so of this type of road undertaken over a 20-year period," he told the 12th annual conference of the county and township road superintendents and road engineers. He said it could be done a mile or two at a time without increasing capital indebtedness.

George A. McCubbin of Chatham, speaking of drainage problems, said it had been a continuous problem in Ontario. He said culverts and bridges should be designed for waterways as well as for strength and durability.

Hospital Vote Be Taken On April 14

The bylaw to raise the sum of $490,000 for Nicholls Hospital will be submitted to the people on April 14th next, according to a decision made by a special meeting of the Board of Directors of Nicholls Hospital Trust held Monday night in the City Council committee room.

Fifteen of the nineteen members comprising the Board attended the meeting including Mayor James Hamilton and several members of the City Council, and discussion indicated the desire was paramount among the members to submit the bylaw to the people this year.

Every member present indicated by statements they recognized the necessity for extension and the immediate need for more accommodation, and it was stated that every Protestant ratepayer should be informed in detail of the existing conditions before the vote is taken. E. B. Fowler, said that one member of the Board while recognizing the need of the accommodation thought the bylaw should be held over until next year, but did not disagree in any other way with the plans which had been outlined so far.

Several members in commenting on the bylaw were optimistic over the outcome and stated that conversations with many ratepayers had shown that the bulk of the people were in favor of the new expenditure.

Detroit, 5 Counties Mooted 49th State

DETROIT, Feb. 21 — (CP). — Councilman John A. Kronk will suggest to Detroit city council today that Detroit and five south-eastern counties of Michigan secede from Michigan and set up a 49th state of the United States. The proposal has the backing of the Detroit bureau of governmental research.

Kronk said his plan would end what he termed domination of Detroit and Wayne county by rural legislators. Kronk said the rural sections received most of the revenue provided by Detroit and nearby industrial sections. The suggested state would be about 65 miles by 55 miles in area and would include more than 40 per cent of the population of Michigan and more than 50 per cent of its wealth.

Kronk estimates Wayne county alone could secede, furnish to a city-state the same amount of tax income now sent to Lansing, operate the new state, and have $70,000,000 a year in surplus.

"Within a few years," he said, "we could be the only debt-free state in the union. Taxes could then go down. Heavy industries would flock to the new area with its natural geographic benefits and its costs of government which would be low because there would be no necessity of supporting with urban taxation penniless rural communities."

"I have no doubt the supreme court would hold that the people, showing a majority desire through an initiative vote, could order a breaking in two of a state just as they can be the same weapon make any other law or constitution change over the heads of recalcitrant legislators."

Transcontinental Stuck 13 Hours

WINNIPEG, Feb. 21 (CP)—Passengers aboard the westbound Canadian Pacific Railway train today described the struggles of the express as it battled its way through the blizzard which swept northwestern Ontario last week-end and became stuck for 13 hours in deep snowdrifts in a rock cut west of Schreiber, Ont.

The transcontinental, due to arrive here at 8:40 yesterday morning, did not reach Winnipeg until 10:25 last night.

"The wind was terrific, blowing at the rate of 45 miles an hour," said Jack Leve, of Sudbury, Ont. "The snow-drifts were dashing against the train like great waves, rolling right over the top of it."

Another passenger, E. B. Plant, Montreal, said the first section of the train got through the rock safely but when the second section approached 20 minutes later, the way was completed blocked.

The calf and sheep markets were steady while no hog price was established. Cattle held-over from Monday was 1,100 head.

Receipts reported by Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle, 710; calves, 420; hogs, 1,100; sheep and lambs, 280.

A few lots of weighty steers brought $6 to $7.50. Good butcher steers and heifers sold from $6.25 to $6.50, with common downward to $5. Butcher cows were mostly $3.50 to $4.75, and a few reached up to $5. Bulls were $4 for bolognas and up to $4.75 for good butchers. Fed calves ranged from $6 to $8.50.

Choice veal calves brought $10.50 to $11, with common lights selling downward to $5.

Previous close on off-truck bacon hogs was $9.35 to $9.50.

A few sheep ranged from $2.50 to $5 cwt.

Market Review

TORONTO, Feb. 21 — (CP). — The Toronto market steamed up moderately in the last hour to-day, enlarging the early gains in the industrials and the mining issues and making the advance unanimous by pushing the Western oils along for net gains for the day. The oils had lagged in the early session. Trading continued on a light scale and aggregate turnover was around 425,000 shares or less.

Minor gains predominated in both mining and industrial sections at noon and rallying signs increased in the early afternoon with O'Brien stepping up 35 cents on news of the discovery of high grade around the 1,600 foot level and other secondary golds, including Moneta, Teck Hughes, Kerr-Addison and Hard Rock, looking better than in the early trade. Senior golds were firm.

Smelters and Nickel were leaders in the base metal share recovery and in the industrial department senior oils, utilities and steels leaned to the up side. The tendency was to avoid the interlisted group, presumably because of the holiday tomorrow for the New York market.

Western oils were narrowly irregular. Home was dow nand Okalta and Calgary-Edmonton up.

Wall Street Close.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP). — Faint rallying tendencies crept into the Stock Market to-day and the sliding leaders of Monday managed to regain fractions of their losses.

The recovery was extremely sluggish. Numerous issues were unchanged to a shade down near the final hour. Transfers were about 500,000 shares.

Running For Office

OSHAWA, Ont., Feb. 21—(CP)—A Chatham resolution opposing the [illegible] of school teachers the privilege of running for municipal office was referred to the finance committee by city council last night. A report will be made in two weeks. Council appointed a three-man special committee to arrange details of the Sarnia delegation's visit to London when the King and Queen visit that city in June. The committee is composed of Alderman John T. Barnes, W. C. Hipple and W. F. Crompton.

Ottawa Ready With Plan Of Insurance

Hope Quebec, Alberta New Brunswick Will Swing In Line

OTTAWA, Feb. 21.—(CP)—In the conviction that public opinion throughout Canada favors a national contributory system of unemployment insurance, the Federal government hopes the governments of Alberta, Quebec and New Brunswick will yet agree to a constitutional amendment which will give parliament jurisdiction to establish such a system.

Such was the information given the House of Commons last night by Labor Minister Rogers in a debate on unemployment insurance. Speakers representing all parties except Social Credit were in substantial agreement while the Social Crediters suggested unemployment insurance should be non-contributory rather than contributory.

A resolution sponsored by A. W. Neill (Ind. Comox-Alberni) provided material for a six-hour debate which was not finished at adjournment athough Mr. Rogers intimated the government would like to see it passed unanimously. It simply declared a national system of contributory unemployment insurance to be a pressing need which should receive immediate attention.

Mr. Rogers revealed the government had not been idle in the matter and announced a bill had been prepared and was ready for introduction in the House as soon as an amendment to the British North America Act was obtained to give parliament the necessary authority.

He rejected as impracticable, however, the suggestion advanced by private members that the procedure adopted by the United States in the enactment of the Social Security Act may be followed. This involved the federal parliament making grants to provinces which set up suitable unemployment insurance schemes.

Pressure For Savings

"Just now," he said, "there is pressure on all sides for reduction of governmental expense and there are protests against duplication of services.

"With unemployment insurance on a provincial basis you would have to set up, assuming that all the provinces came in, which is not a necessary conclusion, nine separate commissions dealing with unemployment insurance, nine sets of actuaries, nine complete organizations of inspectors. I suggest that from the viewpoint of economy alone, apart from the efficiency, the arguments on the side of a national scheme are overwhelming."

Conservative leader Manion was one of those who favored a scheme involving Dominion-Provincial co-operation and suggested the government might have taken up proposals made along this line by Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec.

The Conservative party, said Dr.

Canadian Pavilion Interests Queen

LONDON, Feb. 21—(CP Cable)—Queen Elizabeth showed special interest in a model of the Canadian pavilion for the world's fair in New York when she visited the British Industries Fair today.

Her Majesty spent 10 minutes in the Canadian section and examined closely a model of the pavilion. She saw where she will enter with the King, assuming they visit the New York fair during their visit to the United States in June.

The Queen was accompanied by B.I.F. officials and Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner in the United Kingdom. At the stand of a Granby, Que., rubber firm the Queen ordered a pair of rubber overshoes after examining several pairs.

Year For Robbery

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 21—(CP)—Raymond Strickland, 17, was sentenced today to one year determinate and six months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph for his part in the robbery of a service station here.

Strickland conspired with John Cote, 19, to rob the service station where Strickland worked. Strickland said he attempted to withdraw from the robbery plans, but Cote went ahead and held up the station when Strickland was in charge Jan. 27.

France Renews Talks In Spain

PARIS, Feb. 21. —(AP).— The French Foreign Ministry to-day instructed its emissary to go ahead with negotiations for diplomatic relations with Nationalist Spain despite dwindling hopes for an early end of the civil war.

Senator Leon Berard, who came to the French border town of St. Jean-De-Luz yesterday after meeting obstacles in his talks at Burgos, received new instructions by telephone from Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet during the night.

The French government was understood to hope that, even though the present negotiations should fail to bring peace, the recognition of General Franco's regime might help check Franco's swing toward the side of the Faecist powers.

Foreign ministry officials said Berard's report to Bonnet on his negotiations for diplomatic relations with Franco created an "excellent impression."

Berard's next conversation with General County Francisco Gomez Jordana, nationalist foreign minister, was set for tomorrow at Burgos.

A session of Premier Daladier's cabinet originally called for today to discuss recognition of Franco's regime was delayed indefinitely.

The recognition is expected to be devoid of major guarantees for France and based largely upon a technical settlement of the problems of repatriation of Spanish refugees in France and disposition of arms, munitions and wealth left in France by the Spanish government.

Havelock Motorist Wrecks Car On Posts

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Feb. 21.—Five Havelock youths, enrolled as students in the motor mechanics class at the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational Institute, will be able to put their training to practical use as a result of a minor accident, while en route to the city last evening. Starting out early for night school, due to the heavy condition of the road, they were hardly more than three miles from town, when turning out to pass an approaching truck, their car struck the heavy crust, swung out of control and clipped off four posts from the highway guard fence. Only the centre portion of the highway had been snow-plowed and motorists found it difficult to pas sat some points, especially when meeting trucks or other large vehicles. The hard upper crust resulting from Sunday night's rain, made turning out extremely dangerous.

Damage to the car, driven by J. Aboud, included a broken radiator grill, headlight, bumper, and a badly crumpled right front fender. Other occupants of the car were Messrs. J. Peters, R. Patterson, E. Gordon, and G. Seeney. No one was injured in the smash.

Banquet Is Enjoyed By Fairmount Y.P.U.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FAIRMOUNT, Feb. 21. — The Y. P. U. was held on Wednesday evening, and in spite of the disagreeable weather had a good attendance. Miss Mary Hooton took charge of the devotional exercises, assisted by Jean Fair, who gave the Scripture reading. Charles Knight led in prayer, responsively, with Jean Hanbidge at th piano.

Morley Allen and his sister Betty of the recreation committee then put on contests and games. Lunch was served at the close by the losing side in the new membership campaign. The Union has a paid-up membership at present of 52.

Wild Bund Rally Kept In Hand By 1,500 Police

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP).—In a Nazi demonstration that filled vast Madison Square Garden, leaders of the German-American Bund stood last night under the sign of the Swastika to denounce "international Jewry," some members of the United States Government, and any American alliance with European democracies.

While uniformed stormy troopers marched intermittently inside the Garden—which an official estimate held 20,000—a moving throng of anti-Nazis, theatregoers and the merely curious, milled about in the streets outside.

About 1,500 police reserves stood guard over the area, while violence spurted up inside the Garden and out.

As Fritz Kuhn, national leader of the Bund, was concluding a peroration against Jews, Isadore Greenbaum, a slight, 26-year-old hotel workers, leaped upon the great stage and ran towards the speaker.

A dozen or more storm troopers set upon him, knocking him down and beating him as he held his head in his arms.

A squad of police pushed the storm troopers aside, picked him from the floor of the platform and, holding him high above their heads, ran to an exit. Most of his clothing was torn from his body.

Later he was booked for disorderly conduct and held in $100 bail.

13 Arrested In Fights

Outside the Garden, 13 persons were arrested in a series of fights involving the police—who refused permission of anti-Nazis to picket the Garden—and the followers and opponents of Nazism.

The first disturbance involved Dorothy Thompson, newspaper columnist, who had shouted "nonsense" during a speech of G. W. Kunze, the Bund's national publicity director.

Amid shouts of "sit down" and "throw her out" a grey-shirted storm trooper and two policemen started to hustle her from the building. Heywood Broum, another columnist, ran to her rescue, telling the police her identity. She was allowed to remain upon her insistence that "American free speech" gave her the right to express disagreement with any speaker.

Roads Into Hastings Were All Blocked

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 21.—Residents of this town were treated to the first snow-in of the season yesterday, when all roads leading from Hastings were blocked until nearly noon, when the sun had some effect on the hard crust and loosened it up to a degree where cars might break the crust and travel with considerable difficulty. From early Sunday night no cars had reached Hastings until eleven o'clock yesterday morning. The Norwood school bus was many hours late in reaching here from Westwood where the run originates. Mail couriers were forced to revert back to the horse and cutter if they were to make the trip around the rural districts.

Two bank clerks from here who had visited their respective homes over the week-end were successful in reaching Norwood on a round-about trip to Hastings by car, but were abruptly halted when encountering snowbanks high enough to almost cover the car.

Plow Broke Down.

Due to one of the provincial snow plows breaking down, one ploy from Norwood had to make the run from Norwood to Peterborough and as a result this village was practically the last place on the route to cover. Snow banks ranging to ten feet in height on the Hastings-Norwood road, more than half again as high as a car. The great amount of snow this winter has created these banks which are making it quite difficult for the plows to push back, and as a result this road in some parts is only wide enough for one car. Hastings streets were very hard going for motor cars all day yesterday and the situation had not cleared itself much by last night. Motorists explained that the snow was powdery and caused the wheels to have little grip.

Potato Thief Caught In Trap In Cellar

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 21.— The solution to a series of potato thefts on the farm of Bert Preston was reached yetserday when the thief was the victim of miscalculation. Mr. Preston had picked and bagged a quantity of potatoes in his cellar the previous evening and had discovered the next morning that each bag had the bottom torn out of it and a number of potatoes missing. The thieving, he had suspected, was going on for some time but he had been more or less skeptical since he did not know actually how many were used each day for table use.

It occured to him that a drain leading from the cellar to an outside field might prove the source of entry for any small animal and here he placed a steel trap in an effort to solve the mystery. Towards noon yesterday, the family heard the trap go off and rushed to the cellar to find a 5½ pound muskrat in its clenches. The rat had been evidently having a fat living all winter off the Preston's potato supply.

selves to believe every tale that come to us about the aggressive intentions of others."

"I am not sure," he said, "that members of this House realise how this attitude of suspicion is paralleled elsewhere."

The Prime Minister went on to say he was not accusing his political opponents of warmongering.

Solely For Defence

He reiterated the basic fact that Britain's rearmament policy is designed solely for defensive purposes. If it were true other nations were arming only for the same purpose, he asked, "why continue to pile up these ruinous expenditures under misapprehension."

Only by a general agreement could Britain relax her rearmament efforts, the prime minister warned, adding it is the plain duty of his government to watch for every chance to persuade other governments of the folly of pursuing this ruinous policy which if contonued "will bankrupt every country in Europe."

Answering a labor interjection that the government had destroyed the League of Nations, Mr. Chamberlain claimed no country had run such risks and made such efforts to carry out league principles as had Britain.

He reiterated the contention that the failure of the sanctions policy was because "it sought to impose upon the League a task completely beyond its powers."

The prime minister hoped labor eventually would agree with the government that the League could only be an effective factor for the preservation of peace "when it has abandoned the idea peace can be imposed by force."

Clement Attlee, leader of the (Labor) opposition, assailed Mr. Chamberlain for adopting an appeasement policy "only when he began to get frightened."

He asserted that since Britain abandoned collective security she had "only one effective ally"—France.

Utilize the Jobless Men

"Money and guns are not much good without men," declared the opposition leader. He demanded the government utilize its available manpower. He blamed the government for failing to take up the slack of unemployment in its immense armaments expenditure.

Mr. Chamberlain should have shown the same enthusiasm for appeasement and disarmament seven years ago, Mr. Attlee went on.

It was "rather disgusting" to find the prime minister "triumphing at the end of the league," he affirmed.

Dismemberment of Czechoslovakia, Italy's threats to France, the growth of fascist power in Spain, all menaced the security of France, Mr. Attlee declared, while the Spanish situation constituted a potential threat to Britain's sea communications both in the Atlantic ocean and the Mediterranean Sea.

Criticizing Britain's unpreparedness as revealed during the September crisis, the Labor leader demanded a ministry of defence be set up.

He said Labor was going to vote against the government because "they have neither insured a peaceful world nor adequately defended us from the dangerous world they have created."

Kidnap-Murderer's Death Delayed

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Feb. 21. —(AP).—The execution of Franklin Pierce McCall, 22, for the $10,000 ransom kidnapping and death of five year old James Bailey Cash, Jr., was delayed at the last minute to-day until Friday.

A secretary said Governor Fred Cone in Jacksonville this morning arranged with State Prison Superintendent L. F. Chapman to set the execution forward to give McCall's counsel time for an appeal to the United States' Supreme Court.

The death warrant, signed by the Governor, set the week of Feb. 20 for McCall and two others to die. Superintendent Chapman fixed today for the execution. One of the three won a reprieve.

Clyde Hysler, 22-year-old Jacksonville youth, who drew a death sentence as the instigator of a hold-up slaying, was granted a 30-day reprieve yesterday.

Suggests Surfacing Most Gravel Roads

TORONTO, Feb. 21 — (CP). — Highways Minister T. B. McQuesten suggested to-day Ontario counties and municipalities should cover all gravel roads with some light, hard surface, because too many gravel roads were being maintained. He said the change could be made over a long period.

"I would like to see 10,000 miles or so of this type of road undertaken over a 20-year period," he told the 12th annual conference of the county and township road superintendents and road engineers. He said it could be done a mile or two at a time without increasing capital indebtedness.

George A. McCubbin of Chatham, speaking of drainage problems, said it had been a continuous problem in Ontario. He said culverts and bridges should be designed for waterways as well as for strength and durability.

Hospital Vote Be Taken On April 14

The bylaw to raise the sum of $490,000 for Nicholls Hospital will be submitted to the people on April 14th next, according to a decision made by a special meeting of the Board of Directors of Nicholls Hospital Trust held Monday night in the City Council committee room.

Fifteen of the nineteen members comprising the Board attended the meeting including Mayor James Hamilton and several members of the City Council, and discussion indicated the desire was paramount among the members to submit the bylaw to the people this year.

Every member present indicated by statements they recognized the necessity for extension and the immediate need for more accommodation, and it was stated that every Protestant ratepayer should be informed in detail of the existing conditions before the vote is taken. E. B. Fowler, said that one member of the Board while recognizing the need of the accommodation thought the bylaw should be held over until next year, but did not disagree in any other way with the plans which had been outlined so far.

Several members in commenting on the bylaw were optimistic over the outcome and stated that conversations with many ratepayers had shown that the bulk of the people were in favor of the new expenditure.

Detroit, 5 Counties Mooted 49th State

DETROIT, Feb. 21 — (CP). — Councilman John A. Kronk will suggest to Detroit city council today that Detroit and five south-eastern counties of Michigan secede from Michigan and set up a 49th state of the United States. The proposal has the backing of the Detroit bureau of governmental research.

Kronk said his plan would end what he termed domination of Detroit and Wayne county by rural legislators. Kronk said the rural sections received most of the revenue provided by Detroit and nearby industrial sections. The suggested state would be about 65 miles by 55 miles in area and would include more than 40 per cent of the population of Michigan and more than 50 per cent of its wealth.

Kronk estimates Wayne county alone could secede, furnish to a city-state the same amount of tax income now sent to Lansing, operate the new state, and have $70,000,000 a year in surplus.

"Within a few years," he said, "we could be the only debt-free state in the union. Taxes could then go down. Heavy industries would flock to the new area with its natural geographic benefits and its costs of government which would be low because there would be no necessity of supporting with urban taxation penniless rural communities."

"I have no doubt the supreme court would hold that the people, showing a majority desire through an initiative vote, could order a breaking in two of a state just as they can be the same weapon make any other law or constitution change over the heads of recalcitrant legislators."

Transcontinental Stuck 13 Hours

WINNIPEG, Feb. 21 (CP)—Passengers aboard the westbound Canadian Pacific Railway train today described the struggles of the express as it battled its way through the blizzard which swept northwestern Ontario last week-end and became stuck for 13 hours in deep snowdrifts in a rock cut west of Schreiber, Ont.

The transcontinental, due to arrive here at 8:40 yesterday morning, did not reach Winnipeg until 10:25 last night.

"The wind was terrific, blowing at the rate of 45 miles an hour," said Jack Leve, of Sudbury, Ont. "The snow-drifts were dashing against the train like great waves, rolling right over the top of it."

Another passenger, E. B. Plant, Montreal, said the first section of the train got through the rock safely but when the second section approached 20 minutes later, the way was completed blocked.

Train Bogs Down

RAWDON, Que., Feb. 21—(CP).—More than 150 passengers, many of them weekend skiers, were delayed all night on a Canadian National Railways train when heavy drifts blocked the line i nthe vicinity of St. Jacques, nine miles east of this town and 30 miles south-east of Montreal.

A blizzard piled powder snow in mountainous drifts for miles along the right-of-way and left the train stranded.

Misses An Honor

FLINT, Mich., Feb. 21—(CP).—An unexpected honor came to Anthony J. Wilkowski, former State Senator, serving a sentence in Jackson prison. He was named a member of the State Democratic Central committee at the Michigan Democrat convention here. Wilkowski was sentenced to jail for a recount vote fraud. He will not be out in time to act on the committee.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Feb. 21 — (CP). — Wheat futures put in a dull session at Winnipeg to-day as prices moved narrowly around previous closing levels. Final prices were ⅛ to ¼ cent lower, with May at 63⅛, July 63¾, and October 64⅛ cents.

Apart from minor purchases by mills, trading was routine and local in character, with no export sales of Canadian wheat confirmed. Confirmation of recent frost damage to wheat fields of France helped to hold prices steady in the quiet session.

Yesterday's country marketings totalled 89,000 bushels against 98,000 bushels for the corresponding day a year ago.

Market Review

TORONTO, Feb. 21 — (CP). — The Toronto market steamed up moderately in the last hour to-day, enlarging the early gains in the industrials and the mining issues and making the advance unanimous by pushing the Western oils along for net gains for the day. The oils had lagged in the early session. Trading continued on a light scale and aggregate turnover was around 425,000 shares or less.

Minor gains predominated in both mining and industrial sections at noon and rallying signs increased in the early afternoon with O'Brien stepping up 35 cents on news of the discovery of high grade around the 1,600 foot level and other secondary golds, including Moneta, Teck Hughes, Kerr-Addison and Hard Rock, looking better than in the early trade. Senior golds were firm.

Smelters and Nickel were leaders in the base metal share recovery and in the industrial department senior oils, utilities and steels leaned to the up side. The tendency was to avoid the interlisted group, presumably because of the holiday tomorrow for the New York market.

Western oils were narrowly irregular. Home was dow nand Okalta and Calgary-Edmonton up.

Wall Street Close.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP). — Faint rallying tendencies crept into the Stock Market to-day and the sliding leaders of Monday managed to regain fractions of their losses.

The recovery was extremely sluggish. Numerous issues were unchanged to a shade down near the final hour. Transfers were about 500,000 shares.

Hockey Team Members Are Hosts For Dance

Members of the Lakefield Intermediate "B" O.H.A. hockey team were hosts Monday night to about one hundred couples at a card party and dance in the Memorial Hall, Lakefield.

The hall, which was decorated in the Legionnaires' colors—maroon and white—looked very effective, the colors providing a striking accent against the cream interior of the building. Jim Black's orchestra from Peterborough provided good music for square and round dancing. Refreshments were served in cafeteria style.

The parents and boys of the hockey team, who, with the executive of the club, were responsible for much of the work in connection with the dance, are to be congratulated on its success.

38th Anniversary Marked By A.O.F. Banquet

Baskets of spring flowers, red and green lighted tapers, and a frosted birthday cake, the symbol of its thirty-eighth anniversary, decorated U-shaped tables Monday night at the Mayfair, when members of Queen Alexandra Circle 136, A.O.F. held their annual banquet.

Guests and members were received by D.D.C.C. Mrs. W. Terrace; C.C. Mrs. A. Price; S.C.C. Mrs. T. Monk; P.C.C. Mrs. A. Simmons; Mrs. E. Barnes, secretary; Miss E. Wiggins, treasurer; R. G. Mrs. F. C. Warwick; L.G. Mrs. H. Jackson; Miss E. Taylor, chaplain.

D.D.H.C.C. Mrs. Terrace, chairlady, welcomed the guests, and proposed the toast to the King. A toast to the High Circle was made by S.C.C. Mrs. Price, and replied to by H.C.C. Mrs. Grace Murray of Hamilton. Mrs. Murray gave a brief outline of the progress being made through the activities of the Queen Alexandra Circle, stating that over one hundred members were initiated during 1938.

A toast to C. Mrs. J. McLean, the oldest charter member, was made by C. Mrs. P. Black, and replied to by Mrs. McLean. S.C.C. Mrs. T. Monk proposed a toast to "Our Order", and in reply Brother Mason outlined the history of the organization, which at the present time has about a million members scattered thoughout the Dominion and the British Empire. "We are passing through a time today of chaos," he said, "and some of us do not always appreciate the valuable liberties we are enjoying in this country." He expressed the opinion that no better way of holding the present democratic position could be found than by belonging to a fraternal society such as the A.O.F. Congratulations to Mrs. McLean on her long association with the order were also extended by Brother Mason.

C. Mrs. R. Bugg proposed the toast to "our guests," which was responded to by Mr. P. Edwards. A toast to Court Stanley, made by P.C. Mrs. Simmons, was replied to by Brother Dainton.

The cake was cut by H.C.C. Mrs. Grace Murray in honor of the only charter member present, Mrs. McLean. Corsage bouquets were presented to Mrs. Terrace and Mrs. Murray by S.C.C. Mrs. T. Monk.

Cards and dancing were enjoyed by the members and their guests later in the evening. Vinette's three-piece orchestra supplied music, and the card prize was won by Mrs. H. Howell.

Present were Mrs. J. McLean, Mrs. A. Price, Mrs. W. Terrace, Grace H. Murray, H.C.C., Mrs. A. Simmons, O. L. Mason, C.R. Court Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. T. Ferguson, Mrs. G. W. Williams, Mr. V. Homewood, Miss D. Wallwork, Mr. Frank C. Wallwork, Mrs. Wallwork, Mrs. Homewood, W. A. Dainton, D.C.R., Mr. and Mrs. F. Pearse, Mrs. J. Gates, Mr. and Mrs. J. Pearse, Mr. and Mrs. F. Pearse, Mrs. J. Gates, Mr. and Mrs. J. Pearse, Mr. and Mrs. E. Freeman, Mrs. Edwards, Mr. Percy Edwards, Miss Audrey Dainton, Mrs. H. Brooks, Mrs. M. Wood, Miss E. M. Wiggins, Mrs. T. Monk, Mrs. E. Barnes, Mrs. L. Monk, Mrs. E. Delong, Miss Vera Barnes, Mrs. P. Black, Mrs. H. Jackson, Mrs. B. Reid, Mrs. H. Howell, Mrs. F. James, Mrs. G. Devine, Miss E. Taylor, Mrs. R. Bugg, Mrs. G. Stevenson, Mrs. J. Conway.

Cheerful Workers Mark Anniversary

A happy anniversary occasion was observed Monday evening, when the Cheerful Workers' Bible Class of St. James' United Sunday School entertained their members and friends in the Sunday School Hall.

The class was favored with the presence of their first superintendent, A. E. Prest, who presided as 'chairman' during the evening and presented the fine program, arranged by Mrs. R. Payne.

With a few words of greeting and congratulation, Mr. Prest omitted the chairman's address and called upon Mrs. Leonard Hadwin for a reading, which proved humorous and was well received.

The pastor, Rev. F. W. Craik, paid tribute to the Cheerful Workers for the spirit of friendliness which pervaded all their work, and for the splendid influence that went out into the whole church and Sunday School from this class, and bade them continue in their fine work.

Ernest Kitney, the second superintendent of the school also brought greetings and good wishes to the hostesses, and commended their earnest endeavours during his tenure as their leader.

A delightful quartet "Peace, Wonderful Peace," was the appropriate contribution of Mesdames H. Turner and Roy Moyes, Rev. Mr. Craik and Henry Turner.

Greetings were brought by E. R. Frost, the present superintendent, who thanked the Cheerful Workers for their splendid co-operation as a class and heartily commended their work. He pointed out some fine ideals toward which he was aiming for his school and for which he asked their continued support.

Mrs. Coombs, who accompanied all the vocal numbers, also favored with a piano solo.

"The meeting at Seth Parker's," proved the highlight of the evening's entertainment, when Henry Turner, as Seth Parker, and Mrs. Wm. Atkinson, as Mother Parker, met and welcomed their group in real 'Seth Parker" style, even to the old organ, the tin cup and the tinkling pennies. As they sat around the old fireplace and once in a while added a stick of wood to the fire.

Taking part in the singing of the sweet old songs were Mrs. J. O. Fife, Harold Fife, Mr. and Mrs. William Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. H. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Drysdale, Mr. and Mrs. R. Moynes and L. Hadwin, with fine singing and speaking, everyone enjoyed once more a real Seth Parker treat.

The reading by Mrs. William Langford was the last number on the program, and one of the best. This was an address of loving appreciation from the class to their retiring president, Mrs. William Atkinson, who has given to the Cheerful Workers, eleven years of loving and efficient service as president. Accompanying the address was the beautiful and utilitarian gift of a Hot Point toaster. Though a surprise, as such gifts always are, Mrs. Atkinson thanked her class members for this token of their loyalty, while she assured them that her work had really been a labor of love.

Delicious refreshments were served from a lovely lace-covered table, with the usual silver ensemble and gay with daffodils. Tea was poured by Mrs. R. B. English, the class teacher and Mrs. Atkinson, Mrs. H. Turner and Mrs. William Wood, the social conveners were assisted in this service by Mesdames Beatty, Swanger, Coombs, Brumwell, Littlefair, Hadwin and Mowry.

Difference In Age, Especially After The 60-Mark Has Been Reached, Proves Fatal When Marriage Is Taken Into Consideration

DEAR MISS DIX—Do you think a man of 68 years is too old to marry a woman of 35? I am already married, but I am trying to get a divorce from my wife. We have been married thirty years and have grown children, but I am just tired of her and want a change. And since there is no love or affection between us I think it is best for us to part. I am not as rich as people think, but am fairly well fixed. My wife won't give me up unless I make a settlement on her, so I am asking your advice. A TIRED HUSBAND.

ANSWER:

I think that if you marry a woman thirty-three years younger than yourself you will get all the variety and change in wives that you crave. And then some.

There is no monotony in matrimony for the old husband of a young wife, because he has to be on the jump to keep up with her or else he is left solitary and alone at home while she is off enjoying herself. And his thoughts keep him lively company as he speculates about who she is out joyriding with or jazzing around with.

Perhaps the disparity of age doesn't seem so great when you are 68 and the woman is 35, but how about it when you are 78—an old man—and she is 45—still a young woman?

Believe me, Mr. Man, that age is an unbridgeable gulf between the old and the young, and it was never so hard to cross as it is now, when every custom and fashion and point of view has changed so radically as it has in the last ten years. Why, even parents and children can't get along together now because they look at things from such different angles. How, then, can you expect to find any congeniality in a wife who belongs to one generation and you to another?

Apparently you have no fault to find with your old wife except that you are tired of her and want a change. She has borne your children. She has worked, economized and helped you pile up your fortune. Yet you begrudge giving her any share of the money she has helped you make. You want to turn her out to starve as you would an old dray horse that had served its purpose. Doesn't it strike you that you are giving her a rotten deal and that you are proposing to do about as mean and little a thing as it is possible for a man to do?

In many of our States there is a community law that gives the wife half of all the property that a couple accumulate after they are married. That is only fair and just, for the woman who is a good wife, who makes a man a good home and who rears up a fine family of children contributes just as much to the prosperity of the family as the husband does. She works more hours a day than he ever does. She squeezes every penny harder than he does. She has just as much moral right to share in the prosperity as he has.

I think that if you forsake your old wife to marry this younger woman that you will get just about what you deserve. There will be many a day when you realize that she cares nothing for you and that you bore her almost to tears. You will wish you had back again your faithful old wife, who would be content to sit at home with you and to whom you could say: "Do you remember——?"

* * * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—I married a man whose father died when he was a little boy, so that he had to assume the support of his mother and sister. He has slaved for them all of his life, as they have demanded every luxury possible, even when they knew he had to sacrifice necessities to get them. So great are their demands that we have never been able to save a cent toward the future or even to have children, because we could not undertake another mouth to feed. Now the sister is 20 years old, a bright, intelligent, healthy girl, but she refuses to go to work and her mother upholds her in her idleness. Don't you think that we should be relieved of this burden? DISCOURAGED WIFE.

ANSWER:

I certainly do. Your husband should tell his mother that he will provide for her in the future, either in his own home or by giving her a definite allowance, as he can best arrange the matter, but that he will no longer support his sister.

A girl of 20 is just as capable of supporting herself as any boy of that age is. It is no kindness to her to encourage her in continuing to be a parasite. On the contrary, it will be the making of her to force her to stand on her own feet and become a self-respecting, independent woman.

It is curious how mothers play favorites and are so often willing to sacrifice one child to another. I know of many families in which the daughters are compelled by their mother to support a worthless, lazy, loafing brother, and I know other families in which the mother ruthlessly takes all that one son earns to keep her other children in idleness and give them advantages that he never had.

It's all very fine and romantic to talk about a son or daughter sacrificing themselves upon the family altar. But nowhere else in the world do we so much need to use a little common sense as we do in making these blood offerings. For nine times out of ten there was no real need of a victim and the sacrifice never should have been called for.

This is true even in the case of parents. Most of the dependent fathers and mothers should be ashamed of foisting themselves on their children to be supported. They have given up work ten or fifteen or twenty years before they should have done so. It is laziness, not age, that is the matter with them. It is easier to settle down on John or Mary than it was to earn their own bread and butter. So poor John and Mary are made the family goats.

And it is a mistake all around, because not only John and Mary have their young lives crushed out of them by having to bear the burden of their parents' support, but father and mother would be better off themselves and happier if they had maintained their own dignity and independence by supporting themselves.

When our relatives get too old and feeble to work, it is, of course, our duty to support them. But it is sheer folly and weakness to support a husky young person. And it utterly demoralizes him or her.

Patricia Devlin Becomes Bride Of Gerald Fleming

At a charming wedding ceremony in the Immaculate Conception Church this morning (Tuesday), at eight-thirty, Miss Patricia Mary Devlin, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Devlin, 21 Cricket Place, became the bride of Mr. Gerald Fleming, son of Mr. and Mrs. Briden Fleming, 226 Perry street. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. C. Begley. Miss Leonie Hummel played the wedding music, and Mrs. D. Campanaro was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely gown of white taffeta, made on lines of classic simplicity with long, close fitting sleeves, full at the shoulders, and a square neckline outlined with taffeta bows Her veil of fine filmy tulle fell softly from a coronet of orange blossoms into a train at the back, and she carried a bouquet of Bettertime roses.

Miss Mae Garvey attended the bride, frocked in orchid net over taffeta, with graceful, bouffant skirt, sweetheart neckline, and short jacket with puff sleeves. She wore a tiny hat of matching taffeta with short veil, gloves of orchid net, and carried a bouquet of narcissus and yellow iris.

Mr. James Fleming attended his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Kenneth Fleming, brother of the groom, and Mr. Gerald Devlin, brother of the bride.

After the reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fleming left on a short wedding trip, and on their return will live at 47 Alfred street. For traveling the bride donned a brown ensemble, with Japonica tan accessories.

"Growing Pains" Is Amusing Three-Act Comedy

An amusing three-act comedy play was presented Monday evening in Murray Street Baptist Church Sunday School hall by the Young People's Union, under the direction of Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald.

The story of the play is brightened throughout by the spirited family battles staged between big sister, who feels very grown-up and important on the eve of her graduation from high school, little sister, whose frankness, careless grammar, and childish ways are a constant trial to the older girl, and the tall brother of sixteen, who is always fooling around with contests or picture puzzles.

A gamble on one hundred pounds of coffee to obtain coupons for a slogan contest, for which he has to borrow twenty-five dollars from his pal, Ralph Johnson, provides the plot of the play, and almost ends in disaster for Johnny Stephens. The day is gloriously saved, however, when one of the slogans wins a thousand dollars in time to take an ailing father to California, and save the reputation of the son of the family, whose unexplained schemes and money-borrowings are beginning to be viewed with suspicion.

The young people played their parts well. Betty, the oldest daughter, is naturally portrayed by Ruth Ellis; Della Smedmor is the likeable, impish younger sister who resents being bossed by Betty, and shows it; Barbara Pearson takes a heavy role as the gentle mother who lives for her family; Earl McNabb is the father, whose quiet smile is always ready in an attempt to cover his weariness and conceal his ill health; Kenneth Gillespie takes the part of Dr. Bates, who is not merely the family physician, but a wise friend and counsellor as well, and Grant Smedmor plays the part of the big brother.

Betty's friend, who stutters slightly when he is excited, is played by John Wray, and his sister, an irresponsible little brat with an owlish stare, is Jean Metcalfe, done up in a frilly dress with bows of enormous size in her hair. Frank Ephgrave plays the part of Johnny's pal, a highly excitable boy of Johnny's age, and Jean Barringer given an amusing performance as his mother, who has a domineering manner, and slightly uncultured mannersims.

The play, which is entitled "Growing Pains," is to be presented again tonight (Tuesday).

The rich drapes of burgundy velvet, which rolled back from the stage for the first time last night, were presented by Dr. A. J. Madill, and sincere appreciation of the gift was expressed by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe.

Several delightful solos were given by Mrs. L. Groombridge, who sang "Happy Song," by Teresa Del Riego, and "You Better Ask Me," as well as two Irish songs and by Mr. Charles Coleman, who was heard in two comic numbers. Mr. A. Collison was the accompanist.

Can Force Payment

Hon. Charles Dunning answered an interesting question in the House of Commons when he described the nature of the security which stands behind a Dominion government bond. The questioner had asked if our natural resources or any other thing was specifically pledged as security for Dominion borrowing.

Mr. Dunning stated: "No securities issued by this dominion constitute a mortgage upon any of the business assets of the dominion. What is given is the word of the people to pay. As I understand it, it is the word of the people that stands behind the bonded obligations of this country."

That is, the Dominion government can borrow any amount of money it considers necessary and in doing so it does not directly issue a mortgage against your house or your place of business; it does not put up timber limits or gold mining country as security, but has simply the word of the people that they will pay.

That sounds like a method where integrity is exalted, and it calls to mind the sterling individuals of whom it used to be frequently stated "His word is as good as his bond."

But is it as simple as all that? Is the government pledging its people to nothing more serious than a promise to pay? Is there nothing in it at all which says that the people must pay? The Examiner is inclined to believe there is. The government has the power to impose taxation and the people can do little or nothing at all to protect themselves against the wide use of that power. Once the government determines what monies it is going to require it has the power to take that amount of money from the people. It can take it from all the people through its sales tax of 8 per cent., and that is exactly what it does. It can take money from others by excise and stamp taxes; it can make more collections by means of tariff revenue. The government can select individuals who have a certain income during a year and it can insist they pay taxes on that amount, and it can confiscate property and otherwise bring pressure on the individual to force him to pay.

So behind that nice phrase about the security behind a government bond being simply the promise of the people to pay there is the taxing power of the government to make certain that the people do pay.

So Up Go The Rates

Motorists in Peterborough and the entire district read a good deal about auto collisions, but it is when they find they are going to pay more for their auto insurance that they begin to realize it has a direct bearing on their purse. We are not inclined to argue the point with the insurance companies; they present their statements to the public showing that accidents have been so numerous and expensive that there has been no money in the business. Truth is it has been running at a loss and months ago several old companies announced they had retired from the business of insuring cars.

Whether an increase in rates is the complete answer and solution we do not know. It has always seemed that the driver who goes for years without costing his insurance company a cent is entitled to some consideration. He has paid in much and taken out nothing at all, so in his case the company has made a profit.

Then there is the chance that increasing rates will keep some from taking any insurance at all, and the Examiner believes we have arrived at the stage where there should be consideration given to making it compulsory to carry insurance. As it is at the moment a driver may crash into a car, after which he announces he has no insurance and no money. The owner of the damaged car can bring suit if he so desires and can probably win a decision, but what of it? Securing the actual money is a mere gamble in such a chance and his own costs are before him.

The truth seems to be lodged in the claim of the insurance companies that drivers of cars in general set the insurance rates, and good drivers and rattle-brain fellows are all lumped together in the process. The careful driver has to pay for the one who is not careful.

The Broader Outlook

A nurturing atmosphere of confidence and goodwill at the meeting of representative farmers and members of their County Council Saturday afternoon created the impression of an intangible asset of great value that should be treasured and cultivated like the new forest in Methuen and other possessions that are common property.

Incidental exchange of expressions of respect and appreciation of effort was more than fruit of adversity. It was rather the outcropping of a fine vein of character and tradition that is never far from the surface of Peterborough county affairs.

Any county council that drones along from session to session engaging only in the routine of fixing roads and bridges and passing administration of justice accounts deserves the oblivion some legislators propose for the whole system. Then there are others whose chief concern is whether the pathmaster or the poundkeeper is a Grit or a Tory. They are so preoccupied with political piffling that it is amazing their ratepayers put up with them especially in this day of complaint that the country is burdened with politics and its agents.

County councils declare that they are in the best position to interpret the needs and desires of rural communities. That position doesn't count unless something helpful is done. Simply going through accustomed motions is no gain, and the silly injection of politics is a positive loss. The grace that saves county councils is just such acts and effects as that of Saturday's meetings, the result of Peterborough County Council getting out of the rut and proposing to its constituents that the agricultural world is driving toward union and that something should be attempted in that direction right here in this county. They formed a tourist committee and undertook a survey of co-operative possibilities, and other ideas.

And some hundred of their folks from back home, some of the most progressive farmers in this county or anywhere else, told them they had done well. They didn't gush about it, but it was plain that they agreed with the idea that county councils are not rubber stamps, or mouthpieces of the hired and permanent officials. It is also pleasant to observe no signs of solo performances or ambitions, that the council adopts the system of team play. It would be a setback to Peterborough county if politics was ever injected into its administration.

It Can Be Done

When one sees a report about a will being put in for probate it may be taken for granted by most people that the individual who created the estate had been in business of some sort and had made use of the education and knowledge which he possessed to make his way and gather unto himself some worldly possessions. Most times that is true enough, but not always.

From London comes the story of Joseph F. Wonch, whose will has been entered for probate and it covers an estate of $25,000. It was 43 years ago when Joseph Wonch went to London. Before that he had been on a farm in the Princeton district and he did not seem to be impressed with the prospects. At that time there was husband, wife and five children. Joseph Wonch gathered together all his possessions which were few in number, and then with a team attached to a haywagon possessions and family of seven moved off to London. The part of the story which is quite familiar is that on the day of his arrival in the city the husband and father had three cents in his pocket.

If it is not helpful or of service to the cause of education in general then it is at least interesting to recall that Joseph Wonch could neither write nor spell, nor could he read when he arrived in London, and strange as it may seem he persisted in staying that way. When he drew up his will in 1935 it was prepared for him and in the proper place his name was inserted on his behalf. After the document had been read to him Joseph Wonch affixed what was described as a rugged "X" (his mark) as his certificate to his signature. The will is regarded as being very sensible, leaving a life interest to his widow and final division among nine children. And Joseph Wonch had three cents when he arrived in London and not at any time could he read or write.

He's Been Showing Off

February is just a little fellow as months go. Even the old rhyme of school days by which little folk learned the number of days in each month emphasized the brevity of the month:

"February alone has twenty-eight,
But Leap Year coming once in four
Then February has one day more."

It would almost seem that our little month was trying to show off this year. He has within his length of days no such thing as Christmas or New Year, nor has he any statutory holiday, so it is necessary for him to behave in such a way that people will have cause to remember his visit. February has given us rain and sleet; provided us with about the coldest night of the winter; it has pelted banks of snow and laid ice upon our walks and highways. It has even provided us with a thunderstorm and more recently it has given us a variety of snow which has brought grief to more car drivers than anything the winter has provided. The small member of the family of months, February has been acting up this year.

A Fair Enough Question

A reader of the Examiner in a letter which is published elsewhere on this page has something which can be likened to a complaint and attached to it a particle of suspicion. He refers to the number of references which have been made on this page to events in the House of Commons having to do particularly with the smallness of the debates.

The criticism is that we do not suggest any way out, and the note of suspicion is that the Examiner in presenting such material is seeking a build-up for the defeat of the existing government at the next Federal election.

The Examiner welcomes anything in the way of criticism, and we are not at all surprised that a reader comes forth to say that continued reference to the time-wasting done at Ottawa may be one way of creating or encouraging discontent on the part of the people with their government. This paper has long since recognized that. It would at any time much prefer to report that our government was wasting no time; that it was settling right down to a faithful business session, and that party advantage had for the movement been left outside on the door step. We have admittedly reproduced a number of reports of debates in order to show from an official and impartial source—Parliamentary Debates—how small were many of the issues which have been taking up the time of parliament.

It is not difficult to suggest what should be done. It is possible to point to our City Council or our County Council for guidance. Our aldermen attend committee meetings and council sessions and they are prepared to transact business for the entire city; that is all they have in mind, and seldom do we see anything in their conduct which suggests they are thinking of how they can be elected next time. When they speak they discuss intelligently the case in point; they waste no time telling what some other member said during the election campaign of 1935. The result is their business is always well in hand.

The County Council is another good example. The men who gather there are conversant with their problems; they know what should be done and they have a good enough idea of how it should be done. If they find their costs getting too high in any division they start to seek a way to reduce them. Throughout it is plain business and an example of good business.

That is what the Examiner would like to see at Ottawa, and that is the way out. The suggestion that we are making some sort of a build-up to change the government at the next election appeals rather strongly to our sense of humor and we are moved to doubt whether our correspondent scents such a plot even afar off.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A man at the Smithsonian Institute has found that thinking makes a person's head larger, so perhaps that is one way of accounting for that old complaint—a swelled head.

Hon. Charles Dunning branded as "wholly imaginary" a report that the government would announce a works program of $100,000,000. To find that something one hears in Ottawa is imaginary is not entirely in the class of spot news.

Toronto lawyer claims a reign or rule of terror exists in that city as motorists with the smell of liquor on their breath were apt to be sent to jail. The lawyer may consider that a bad state of affairs, but we are inclined to view it as quite right.

President Roosevelt talked with reporters and issued a statement saying the sale of airplanes to France was quite legal on the part of United States. After which he plunged into other official business. This took place on a train when the President was off on what he called a holiday.

A transient who was charged with being drunk told the local magistrate he would get right out of town if given his freedom. He might also have contributed a little to local knowledge by explaining how he managed to purchase the liquor to get drunk.

TOUGH

(By A.R.K.)

¶ I used to think when I was young, before my wandering begun, my home town was the best; no one could laugh about my place, or smile about its plodding pace, nor speak of it in jest.

¶ Our main street was a busy spot, we boasted of it quite a lot, and our town hall was great; our stores and schools and spots we knew, was where our pride took root and grew, they all were up-to-date.

¶ And I was sure the world outside, would view my good home-town with pride, its fame had spread abroad; one home we had that filled a block, and of it we would often talk, its trees and close-cut sod.

¶ We had a little river too, that floated once a red canoe, we had our skating rink; we had our band in uniforms, they'd toot sweet music from their horns, far sweeter than you'd think.

¶ When it came time to leave that town, there was no cause to wear a frown, I'd march right off to fame; and when I met with folk outside, I knew I'd speak to them in pride, and tell from whence I came.

¶ And I have told them now for years, have even hollered in their ears, and argued quite a bit; and yet they always say the same, when I proclaim my home town's name—they've never heard of it.

Seldom Change The Estimates

(From Parliamentary Reports)

Mr. STEVENS: I am informed, and I think I am not very far out, that the government has in preparation a large public works program amounting to something in the neighbourhood of $100,000,000. I understand that the amount at present before the government is some $112,000,000.

Mr. DUNNING: How does my hon. friend know?

Mr. STEVENS: I have made a shrewd guess at it, and the minister knows I am not very far out.

Dr. DUNNING: It is wholly imaginary.

Mr. STEVENS: We will let that pass. It is true that the minister, as the watch dog of the treasury, will probably sift that down considerably, but what I am concerned about is this: If we give the minister this authority to borrow for public works and general purposes, and he has there a sum amounting to about $175,000,000 which may be used for those purposes, I think we are entitled to know what the special supplementary estimates are going to be before the bill founded on this resolution is passed—either that or the minister should state clearly what proportion of this amount will be used for these purposes. The minister, of course is in an advantageous position. He can laugh at me; he can make light of it, because perhaps a month or two will pass before these very luscious supplementary estimates are brought down. But I have been here long enough to know that in a session preceding an anticipated election, usually a very fine, fat, supplementary public works estimate is brought. I am not particular objecting to that provided that the public works estimates this year are directed towards the relief of unemployment. What I do and shall object to is the voting of huge sums of money to be distributed among the constituencies of Canada in a manner best calculated to bring the greatest possible influence to bear upon the electorate in favour of the government. I do not specify any particular party, but at the moment it happens to be the Liberal party; and I know, and the minister knows, that if they bring down a supplementary estimate it will go through exactly as it comes down. It is a rare thing to have it changed; and with the anxiety of the supporters of the government for a share of this large public works appropriation, there is no question about what is going to be done. Parliament—and I include hon. gentlemen sitting on this side—is merely a cipher as far as the passing of that appropriation is concerned. They will have no more influence on it than the young people down in the Lisgar high school, and the minister knows it.

Mr. DUNNING: No, I cannot confirm that.

Mr. STEVENS: Well, the minister would not confirm it.

Mr. DUNNING: I wish I could.

Mr. STEVENS: He knows it is true.

Mr. DUNNING: No.

Mr. STEVENS: Well, I may talk and my hon. friends may talk for a few weeks.

Mr. DUNNING: But my hon. friend said, "members."

Mr. STEVENS: Certainly—members. I say that hon. members on this side of the house will exercise no more influence on the supplementary estimates when they come down than the high school pupils at the Lisgar school.

Mr. DUNNING: Well, I have yet to meet a member of the house on the other side who did not want some money spent. They are all demanding it.

Mr. HEAPS: Yes—the hon. member as well.

Mr. HEAPS: No.

The CHAIRMAN: Order.

Mr. STEVENS: It happens that I am referring to the 175 supporters of the government in the house. However, that does not alter my opinion that we are entitled this afternoon to a definite statement as to what proportion of thus huge sum of $750,000,000 may reasonably be expected to be used for the purposes I have mentioned. Further, I think the minister ought to give the committee the assurance that it will not go beyond a certain figure, because we are asked to vote a very large sum. The hon. member for Calgary East (Mr. Landeryou), I think it was, a few moments ago asked whether the passing of this motion would increase or decrease the public debt. The minister knows perfectly well that it will substantially increase the public debt.

Mr. DUNNING: I am not prepared to say that.

Mr. STEVENS: The minister may not admit it.

Mr. DUNNING: I gave the answer.

Mr. STEVENS: I have already pointed out, what every hon. member knows, that the estimates I hold in my hand, covering some hundreds of items, will pass, as to every last one of those items. Why? Because this is a government measure. I will venture to say, from my experience of twenty-eight years in this house, that during that period estimates have not been changed more than half a dozen times. I doubt if it is half a dozen. I remember a few, but very few occasions, and then it was only by way of changing the wording of the estimate. I think I can recall two such cases. And when the government's supplementary estimates come down it will be towards the end of the session, when the heat comes on, when we are all anxious to go, when the ranks are very thin, when the committees are sitting, and there is a bare quorum in this chamber.

Mr. DUNNING: Right now I will give my hon. friend the assurance that the supplementaries will not be delayed that long.

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics

PAYING FOR IT

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I read the letter written by Alfred T. Barr. No doubt we need these different things in the city, such as a new market, post office, etc.

If you have small wages and on short time with it how can one be expected to pay for it. It may be perfectly alright where a salaried man is concerned, because he knows what he has coming in. There are lots of people in our city at the present time who own their own homes but their husbands are not earning enough for the mere necessities of life let alone extra taxes. A new wing to the hospital at the present time would suffice the needs of a city the size of Peterborough. And why build a hospital to house so many when there is only 24,000 people in Peterborough? And another thing the 3,500 taxpayers are the ones who will be paying for the proposed hospital, and people from other places come in and get the benefit while we pay for it.

If you face the working people to the extreme there is nothing left for them to do but pack up and get out of the city. Why doesn't someone form a Hospital Insurance where one could pay a small sum of money each week and get hospital care. They have them in the Old Country and hospitals and patients alike benefit by it.

Thank you
MRS. F. J. PARSONS.

FINANCING A HOSPITAL

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Re taxation for the improvement of Nicholls Hospital.

The proposed by-law for the addition to Nicholls Hospital, to be placed before the protestant taxpayers, adds one mill to the tax rate for the next thirty years. This is based on:

Cost of new hospital	$400,000.00
Interest	$480,000.00

I would suggest that a second question be voted on at the same time, which is:

Are you in favour of a by-law to increase the tax rate one mill for the next 12 years, this money to be held and invested by the City Trust for the specific purpose of hospital improvement?

I feel confident that many ratepayers, while not willing to accept the original by-law over a thirty year period, would accept the second, which in the main is the same taxation but cut from 30 years to a period of 12 years.

If this second proposal is accepted, there would be a saving of $480,000.00, plus interest accumulated on the money raised for the purpose each year, and in 12 years a sum approximating $400,000.00 should be on hand to take care of the proposed addition.

Should the original by-law be defeated, the whole question will be again shelved for a number of years with no progress made, whereas, if this second proposal had been made, and accepted, when the by-law was first proposed several years ago, the fund already accumulated would have been well advanced toward realizing the objective.

Yours very truly,
HERBERT N. YOUNG.

A PLOT IN IT?

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Please allow me the space in our daily paper, or The Examiner, to rebuke you on your editorials on the Government and the way it is carried out. We are constantly reading in your columns of the high cost of running a government such as ours. (I will admit your editorial on the cost of our Royal Commissions was quite a rude awakening.) You tell us of how the Senate is howling for something to do with their time as the members of the House of Commons are now, and have been for some time to busy with petty, nonsensical, time wasting debates. Your extracts from Hansard are very enlighting as to the actual dialogue our hard working members go through.

You do not, or even try to suggest a way out of this muddle, you just keep on in your own smooth way building discontent on the minds of your readers. A Communist at least in his twisted view suggests a way. The C. C. F. party have their version, and alas for the (Old Reliable our Daily Paper) what has come over it? What is this build-up of propoganda, this hymn of hate you sing so much to us leading up to? It would not be a sly build up for a change of Government at the next election would it?

AN EXAMINER READER.
Peterborough, Feb. 20.

HE OBJECTS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I have before me a copy of your valuable paper of Feb. 7th in which it is proposed by certain persons to saddle another white elephant upon the long-suffering tax-burdened property owners of Peterborough. I, for one, wish to raise my voice in protest and believe that every ratepayer in the city will agree with me, unless they have an axe to grind.

I wonder what moral right these persons think they have, to propose putting their hands in to my pocket every year for the next thirty years, to provide a new palace of surgery, in the form of a new hospital for the City of Peterborough.

I think that we property owners have learned our lesson with regard to the debenture stunt in the past thirty years. If it were not for the "NO DEBENTURE" stand that our former Mayors, Messrs. Denne and Macdonald and their associates in the Council have taken we property owners would be hopelessly involved with a mounting tax problem and the city would be in a bankrupt state.

They tell us that it is only a matter of $395,000.00 or $21,000.00 per year for thirty years. But if figures tell the truth that would come to the tidy sum of $630,000.00. And that is not all; the above amounts is rating the loan at 3% but that money is worth to the property owner at from 5½% to 7% and if you don't believe me, try and borrow some. My tax bill shows debenture charges of $114.35 yearly, for the past ten years for local improvements ONLY, and I am finding it a real problem how to raise this extra taxation. In fact, I am paying the penalty tax for last year.

I would like to thank Mr. G. N. Gordon for the stand that he has taken in this matter and I have an idea that his figures may be nearer right than any of those that have so far appeared.

Moreover, from things that have come to my knowledge I believe that there is no need to have the present hospital over-crowded, as many of the cases sent there would be just as well off at home under the care of a good practical nurse. But some of our M.D. friends seem to have a real mania for sending people to the hospital.

• Turning Postmen Into Pack-Horses

BOYS who deliver newspapers from house to house are not permitted to deliver anything else at the same time. They do not carry magazines, for instance, or anything that might delay them in their primary purpose. We should expect as much consideration for speed notes, the Ottawa Journal, in the men who deliver the letter mail—men paid by the government to give this public service.

But what do we find? The postmen are made beasts of burden, unlicensed distributors of circulars and handbills. A boy who peddles bills in Ottawa for the corner grocer must pay a license fee. The Canadian postman does the same sort of work, but as a Dominion civil servant he need not be licensed.

As things stand now, one can hire the Post-master-General to deliver circulars, one to each household, in a district or a community. They need not be stamped and addressed, need not be enclosed in envelopes. The postman is given his bundle, enough copies for his route, and the Post Office Department presumably guarantees delivery. Obviously delivery of the first-class mails is retarded, because there must be a stop at every house, and the carrying of larger loads is necessary. Letters that may be of great importance are delayed because these government employes must plug mail boxes with advertising matter which the householder may or may not read.

It is a futile and wasteful business, as everybody knows, and especially is this true of apartment buildings. The owners of some of these buildings have countered the nuisance by forbidding letter boxes to be stuffed with circulars that endanger the safety of important mail and the postman leaves them in a heap in the vestibule. A protester brought into The Journal a bundle of forty copies of one circular so left. Ordinarily it would have gone to the furnace.

But that is by the way. The main objection to the practice is that the Post Office, for the sake of a little bit of revenue, and in competition with private enterprise, rents its facilities for uses that are not legitimate functions of His Majesty's mail service—and, for the sake of this revenue, permits delay in the delivery of real mail, wears down its postmen by making them pack-horses for a few of the department's customers.

• Taking Place In Our Own Land

ALL those interested in the preservation of democracy acclaimed the news that a Canadian organization had been formed for this express purpose. This organization, which will be known as the British Empire Association says the St. Thomas Times-Journal, was recently formed in Toronto at a representative gathering. The association will not depend on some catchy platitudes to accomplish its purpose. On the contrary, it is planning to do a lot of spade work. It apparently realizes that the time has come to demonstrate the merits of democracy. It is going, therefore, to teach, rather than preach, democracy. Schools are to be established throughout Canada, and instruction is to be given in citizenship. Many well-meaning Canadians are quite ignorant as to what constitutes good citizens. Foreigners, especially, are in urgent need of such instruction, and the majority of these would no doubt welcome such an opportunity.

In these schools special provision should be made for teaching young foreigners the real purpose of democracy. This is urgently needed in view of the fact that in Red schools in this country children are being taught to blaspheme Christ and to revile the Union Jack, which for centuries has bee the symbol of religious and racial freedom. In one Communist schoolground in Toronto boys were found snowballing an image of Christ. In another school pupils were heard singing "We don't care a damn for Jesus," repeating this line twice, and adding, triumphantly, "And we have knocked Him down." These same pupils waved small Union Jacks, crying, "The flag we're going to destroy," and then trampled on them. With more than 60 schools in Toronto teaching subversive doctrines to the young, it is imperative that democracy must make a determined effort to counteract the blasphemous and traitorous teachings of the Red schools. Communism is apparently concentrating upon the young, and those who believe in democracy should do the same. More attention should be paid in the schools of the country to teaching the objectives and benefits of democracy.

But, in addition to this teaching, it is essential that the causes which contribute to the spread of Communism and Fascism should be eliminated. In short, the abuses that have developed with democracy should be removed. And this is what the newly-formed British Empire Association will labor to accomplish. "We seek," said W. J. Stewart, M. P. P., provisional chairman, "to create national pride and enthusiasm and to avert national bankruptcy in a moral and religious sense and restore the birthright of the people by giving them an opportunity to work to live." With this accomplished, the teaching of democracy will have more point and more appeal, for it will have been practically demonstrated that democracy is concerned, with the well-being of the masses. It is not easy to convince jobless men and, perhaps, hungry children that democracy is best for them.

Belmont W.I. Hears Inspiring Talk By Mrs. Lemon On 'Home, Country'

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Feb. 21. — Featuring the February meeting of the Belmont Branch Women's Institute last Thursday was an interesting address by Mrs. R. E. Lemon of Norwood, who spoke to the ladies on the subject "For Home and Country," the Institute motto. Held at the Township Hall, the meeting was largely attended, and every member responded to the roll-call, "a hot supper dish," with various suggestions for appetizing meals being presented.

A donation of twelve fine books for the Institute library by a well-wisher was received and a vote of thanks given to the anonymous sender.

Plans were made to sponsor a "Seth Parker" evening on Friday, March 3, and it was reported that there has been a good sale for the tickets on the blanket which the Institute is offering in a lucky draw.

Mrs. Charles Kennedy as convener conducted the afternoon's program, with Mrs. M. Rylott acting as piano accompanist. The program included a piano solo, "You're the Only Star in My Blue Heaven," by Miss Mary Anderson; harmonica solo, "Juanita," Mrs. W. Smith; piano solo, "Edliss Glide," Mrs. D. Anderson, and two hymns.

A past district director of the Women's Institute branches at Horning's Mills and Coboconk, Mrs. R. E. Lemon, wife of Rev. R. E. Lemon, rector of Christ Anglican church at Norwood, well experienced in Institute affairs, proved a most capable speaker. Because of her first-hand knowledge of the good work done by the Women's Institute, she chose their motto, "For Home and Country" as the subject of her address, trying to illustrate throughout the importance of women as homemakers in the world of to-day.

What is Home?

Beginning with the question, "What is a home?" she quoted an inscription which she remembered on a vase belonging to her mother, "Home—the spot on earth supremely blest." Is it? she asked, or has it become to-day but a boarding-house where folks eat and sleep and get away from as much as possible. The dictionary define the home as "the residence of a family," which implies father, mother, and children—the perfect home. Our first duty as mothers, homemakers, and W. I. members, she said, is to make our homes the most attractive and inspiring places to live in; to make our children feel there is no place quite so good; nor another place they would rather be than home. It is not necessary to have a lot of money or elaborate furniture, to achieve this end. It is necessary, however, to make our children feel that they and their friends are wanted and needed at home.

From the home our children get their first impressions. We are told by those who study child psychology that about three-quarters of a child's character is formed through environment and only one-quarter from heredity. How important it is then to see that the home is all that it should be. We are also told that a child's most impressionable age is from two to seven, which period is spent in the home. During that time we exercise an unconscious influence which later does much towards shaping the life and character of the child. Particularly is this true in regard to religious and moral matters. Children receive very little religious or moral training in Public School, while there is but one hour of Sunday School each week. Think then of the hours they spend at home and of your opportunity as homemakers to influence them for good; to speak to them on vital moral questions; to so order our household that each member may feel his or her responsibility to others.

"I believe that the greatest sin in the world to-day is selfishness, for around it lie nearly all the trials and perplexities and injustices which we see. The home is the place to begin to stamp out selfishness in many ways. First, do not let any member of the family impose upon the good-will of the others, and secondly, do not permit our families to impose upon our neighbors, remembering that our duty towards our neighbor is to love him as ourselves.

Home then should be a haven wherein each member of the family can bring their problems and find sympathetic audience. It is surprising how very few confidences are exchanged in the homes of to-day, however. I was reading some certain articles in a paper the other day in which wives frankly stated they knew nothing concerning their husbands' affairs, not even so much as the amount of money they earned. For myself, I cannot see what basis there is for a happy home life under those conditions. The only solution is to help our children confide in us.

Our Country.

Dealing with the second half of our motto, 'Country,' we must bear in mind that the homes are the country's first line of defence, and that no country is greater than the homes in which its people live. There never was a time in the history of Canada when loyal citizens were not needed to guide and direct its policy against all kinds of evil and corruption which slowly but surely will drag any country to its doom. By the attitude some persons adopt one would think they owed nothing to the land or their birth or adoption. Is it nothing to us that we are a part of the great Commonwealth of Nations under the Union Jack? Do we realize that foreign powers look with longing eyes at our country with all its potential wealth, and with only eleven million population? Do we realize that we are not adequately prepared to defend ourselves? In spite of this there are so many who insist it is our duty to remain neutral in times of dispute and even war. Bt it said, however, we could not long maintain our neutrality should conflict ever occur.

"So much for our relations with the rest of the world. Now consider matters within our own country. Surely they call for earnest thought. I hope you have listened to the speeches of George McCullagh during the past five weeks, Irrespective of what your political views may be, I am sure that you could not help being impressed with the fact that some drastic change is needed in our outlook on conditions within Canada. We must wake and face the facts as they present themselves. We must sink personal feelings for the good of the whole—an instance where home training in unselfishness comes into effect. We have to arouse ourselves to the needs of others and to matters of vital importance which concern ourselves and family.

Woman's Influence.

"You may feel this is too big a task for women to tackle, but as members of the Women's Institute it is part of our duty 'for Home and Country.' The condition of the home vitally concerns the country and vice versa. Do you realize what an influence women control? We forget how much was accomplished by those pioneer suffragettes that we might have a voice in the governing of our country. Many women are too indifferent or uninterested to even go out to vote, and most of those that do will cast their ballot according to their husband's advice, without giving careful and prayerful thought to the matter at stake. We are pledged as Institute workers to consider these things that we may make our homes and our country the best possible place to live in.

During the past ten years many people have been forced to leave this country because they could not make their living. Through no especial fault of their own during this depression they lost all that they had; they were good honorable citizens who did not want relief, but work! After giving 25 of the best years of their life to Canada they finally had to return to England with their children born Canadians. Can we afford to allow this to continue while nationalities from other countries in Central Europe keep increasing in number within our Dominion. We need more population of British stock, the kind of people our fathers and mothers and grandfathers were. We need more loyalty to the British Commonwealth of Nations, of which we are a part. We need more unselfishness in our homes and in our country, and above all we need homes that have a moral and spiritual foundation, that are in the very truth, "the spot on earth supremely blest."

At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by the lunch committee composed of Mrs. J. Lloyd, Mrs. L. McGowan, Mrs. E. Carr, and Mrs. William Harris, and a social hour much enjoyed.

Looking Back
On This Date

When Mayor Camilien Houde proposed the secession of Montreal from the province of Quebec not so long ago, he possibly thought that he was suggesting a new idea. As a matter of fact just a century ago a similar suggestion was made by Hon. W. H. Merritt, of St. Catharines, the man of vision and enterprise who created the Welland canal and so made union of the great lakes and the St. Lawrence possible.

He had for some time been impressed by the fact that both Montreal and Upper Canada must benefit by the improvement of navigation and he urged consideration of a return to the original plan, when the two provinces were created in 1791, namely, that the boundary of Upper Canada should extend to the easterly end of Montreal on the north shore and to the Richelieu on the south shore. But the Scots traders in Montreal were too firmly entrenched with their interests in Quebec and throughout Lower Canada to permit Montreal to be "linked with the English province." They believed in a Montreal which would remain British, surrounded by a French-Canadian people who would work cheaply and live plainly. So Merritt's suggestion went by the board.

Another proposal somewhat along the same lines was made on Feb. 20, 1839, by Hon. James Macaulay, who wrote: "My remedy is to add to Upper Canada all of the lower province except the north bank of the St. Lawrence, from Montreal eastward and the districts of Quebec and Gaspe, which are alien in almost every respect to us. We should then have a noble upper province and a seaport."

M. Houde's suggestion wanted to make the Island of Montreal a separate entity freed from the control of the Quebec government, with far less prospect of success than either of the earlier proposals.

Goodnight Story
By MAX TRELL

The Tin Soldier, who always stood on guard at the door of the children's playroom, didn't like Jub-Jub very much. Jub-Jub, you remember, was a little toy monkey. He had little wheels on his feet. When he was wound up by one of the children, his tail whirled round and round. Then off he scooted on his wheels, back and forth across the room, hitting the walls and the table and the chairs—and the Tin Soldier, too!

Oh! he often hit the Tin Soldier. That was the main reason the Tin Soldier didn't like him. When the Tin Soldier saw him coming near, he would command sharply: "Halt, Jub-Jub!" But Jub-Jbu didn't. Jub-Jub couldn't. When he was wound up and his tail started whirling round and round, nothing could stop him except perhaps a mountain.

Curious Thing.

Well, the other evening after the children went to bed, a very curious thing happened in the playroom. Knarf and Hanid, the two shadows, were there. They saw everything.

The Tin Soldier was standing on guard by the door as usual. He had his trusty musket over his shoulder. He stood up very straight and his face looked severe. Jub-Jub was standing all by himself against the opposite wall. He felt very lonely. No one wanted him to come near. How he wished the Tin Soldier would be friends with him! He admired him so much because he was so handsome, and stood so straight and had such a beautiful uniform and never went scooting around the room on wheels.

All at once th door opened and a little face looked in. The face had large green eyes, a black nose, and little white whiskers. It was Rollo, the kitten. Rollo was looking for mischief.

Can't Halt Him.

"Halt!" cried the Tin Soldier when he spied the kitten. "You can't come in! Go back! Kittens aren't allowed in the playroom after dark!"

"Pooh!" said Rollo. "Who are you? You're only a Tin Soldier. I'll come in as much as I like."

With that Rollo came in a little further.

My! how angry the Tin Soldier was! "Halt!" he shouted again. "Halt—halt—HALT!"

"Halt! You can't come in!"

But Rollo didn't mind him a bit. "You're a very funny Tin Soldier," he said. "You can't frighten anybody—I mean, you can't frighten me. Why do you always stand so straight? You'd look much better lying down. Then you could fall asleep and you wouldn't bother me!"

"Don't you dare to touch me!"

But Rollo said: "I'll pretend you're a mouse. Then I'll chase you all over the room. Get ready....go..!"

The Tin Soldier turned pale with fright. If the kitten sprang on him and knocked him over, how could he stand guard at the playroom door? What would the children think of him in the morning of they found him lying flat on the floor? They'd think he had deliberately fallen asleep. Oh! it was terrible!

But Jub-Jub, the lonely monkey, saw the Tin Soldier's plight. Do you know what he did? He instantly started scooting across the floor. The kitten spied him. "Oh! now I've got a real friend to play with!" Rollo cried. And he left the Tin Soldier and chased after Jub-Jub.

But don't think that Jub-Jub had a good time. The kitten pushed him and chased him and tossed him this way and that. But Jub-Jub didn't mind. As he passed the Tin Soldier standing by the door, he heard him say: "Thank you, Jub-Jub. I won't forget what you've done for me." And that made Jub-Jub very happy.

DEATH AT THE MANOR
By M. E. CORNE

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

MISS HENRIETTA WILLOUGHSTON crept into the inquiring room.

"I've been waiting and waiting," she whispered, advancing with outstretched arms. "Waiting and waiting!"

"I'm sorry you had to wait!" In the sudden hush that came upon us, Ellis' tone was like a giant explosion. "What was it you wanted?"

"Sh! She wheeled about and tiptoed to the door. "They're spying on me," she said softly and cocked her head in a listening attitude.

"Who?" The chief looked uneasy. "Who's spying?"

"Sh!" she hissed again. "They know I know!"

"They do? Who?"

She nodded. Her eyes were awful. They glittered! "I can't tell you! You can't make me tell!"

"What it this?" Ellis sent a silent S. O. S. to MacIntyre. The Chicago detective gazed serenely at the ceiling.

"Any questions, McIntyre?" Ellis shot at him.

"I think not." Mac shook his head.

"Do you know?" demanded Miss Henrietta, turning to him. "Do you?"

"Perhaps."

"Some one told you!" she screamed accusingly, and moved closer to him.

"No," Mac denied; "I guessed."

She cackled gleefully. "Guessed! You could never guess! Not in a million years!"

"Someone is in great danger!" He spoke lowly and stared intently into her eyes.

"Danger!" The laughter closed in her throat. She looked frightened. She whimpered: "No!"

"Yes." He rose and towered above her. "There will be blood spilled—"

For a second I thought a miracle was going to take place. The madness left the old lady's eyes. Sanity, bright and clear, shone from them. I leaned forward, gripping the sides of my chair. Then, quickly, as it had come, the brightness faded.

"Vengeance is mine!" she croaked. "So sayeth our Lord! The wages of sin is death!"

"Her death?" asked Mac. "Hers, too?"

But Miss Henrietta was no longer capable of reason. Her lips moved ceaselessly, saying nothing. She was praying as she left the room.

"Well, that's the last of them!" Ellis said when she had gone. He wiped his perspiring brow.

"What about the servants?" Phil reminded him.

"Give me a breathing spell, man! I'll get to the help before long. And I hope to Heaven they talk more than their masters!"

"How can people talk when you don't ask them anything?" I fired at him.

"Now, Elsie—" spoke up Mac.

"You, too!" I flared. "You do nothing but talk in riddles!"

"Riddles have answers."

"Pooch!" I was too tired to think up a wise-crack. "Pooh!"

He said slowly: "Ellis could show you something that has an answer. But you wouldn't like it.

"Try me!"

He repeated: "You wouldn't like it!"

"I can take it!" I assured him flippingly.

"You've found something?" Phil was eager.

"Yes." Ellis' hand emerged, like a study in slow motion, from his pocket. His fingers were wrapped about a crumpled sheet of yellow paper.

"Let Elsie read it," Mac said, and I smoothed the paper upon the table. It was a Western Union telegraph form, and it was filled in in pencil.

"Well!" urged Phil.

"Read it, Elsie!"

"Read it aloud!" Phil was impatient. Don't stand there like a dummy!"

"Yes, I'll read it," I said, and even to myself my voice sounded queer and strained:

"'Lawnville, Ohio, March 3, 1937. B. B. Beeman, Park Hotel, Columbus, Ohio. Will have money sure end of week—do nothing until you hear from me—'"

I broke off. There was a lump in my throat that was the size of a walnut.

Phil nudged my elbow. "Go on! Who sent it!"

But I couldn't go on. There was a buzzing in my brain.

"Catch her, Benson!" Mac was shouting. Strong arms supported me.

"Snap out of it, baby!" Phil was shaking me. I stared up at him. He seemed a thousand miles away. Then the buzzing stopped.

"All right, now," I murmured. The telegram dangled limply from my nerviess fingers. It fluttered to the floor. Phil made a dive for it.

"So!" he exclaimed, and at his note of jubilation my heart turned over in my breast. "Young Richard, eh? and this is the message he sent for his sister!"

Mac nodded. "That's it."

Richard, Richard Witherspoon! The familiar sickening sensation attacked the pit of my stomach. "It can't be true!" I protested weakly.

"You don't want to defend a murderer, do you?" demanded Phil. His face was pale and moist with excitement. I turned from him, unable to conceal my distaste. What did he care, I thought, with bitterness? What did he care that Richard was young and headstrong and in trouble? What did he care for anything except to have his name in the papers beneath a story headed:

MURDERER ARRESTED!

"Leave the girl alone!" snapped Mac. "Can't you see she's all in?"

"All in?" Phil's astonishment was genuine. His eyes opened widely. He grinned, that little-boy grin of his, and dropped down at my feet. "Sorry, Elsie," he said huskily. "I guess I seem pretty heartless to you. The Kid'll have a chance to prove his innocence. Don't you worry."

"He isn't guilty!" I insisted, but my doubt must have been evident, for he patted my knee several times and squeezed my hand tightly.

Ellis interrupted by clearing his throat overloudly. "Beeman," he explained, carefully looking over my head, "is known in certain circles as 'Fifty Per Cent B.' He is one of the crookedest money lenders in this part of the country."

Phil whistled. "I get it! Richard owed him money! And on the day of his mother's death he wires that he can pay—"

"Don't!" I laid my hands on his lips. "Don't say it!"

The Stars Say . . .
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, February 22.

An important day for surmounting old obstacles or breaking up long-standing congestions is forecast. This might be accelerated by the receipt of funds through a bequest, insurance, maturing investments, or increased property values. There should be very satisfactory returns for industry and application. Fulfilled ambitions are indicated, with preferment and the solid support of elders assured.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of definite stability in the fortunes and possessions, through inheritance, insurance, sound investments or increased property values. Benefits and signs of preferment from superiors or elders, with much promise for the fulfillment of long-cherished hopes and wishes, are indicated.

A child born on this day may be steady, industrious, and trustworthy, qualities which may attract the support or good-will of elders or superiors, by bequest, trust or property gift. It may have diversified talents, which will assure unusual initiative and a successful career.

Trent Side Roads Are Well Plugged

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 21. — The heavy storm of snow and sleet combined with a strong east wind crippled traffic Monday morning. The snow plough passed through en route north on No. 30 Highway Sunday night, and again on Monday morning. A hard crust formed by the sleet made walking difficult. Shovelling was impossible with the heavily crusted snow. One bread truck from Peterborough made the grade en route to Campbellford, but other bread trucks were unable to make their usual trips through the country. Peterborough bus from Hastings to Campbellford was forced to come around the highway Monday. Car traffic on concession lines was impossible. School children enjoyed themselves to the utmost sleigh riding on the crust.

Miss Eva McCormack has returned to Peterborough after a few weeks guest with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Johnston, "Cedar Lodge."

Havelock District Roads In Bad Shape

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Feb. 21.—Motorists found it difficult going on Havelock streets Monday, following Sunday's severe storm, and side-roads in this district are impassible by car. Highway No. 7 east to Marmora had not been plowed yet last night but the occasional car was getting through. The road east to Norwood was fairly clear, the snow-plow having made a trip down the centre.

A gang of men have been busy shovelling the Havelock sidewalks since 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and citizens are finding it easier going.

Studebaker wins the Gilmore Economy Run under official A. A. A. supervision

Studebaker Commander averages 30.94 miles per Imp. gal., wins Gilmore-Yosemite Run

Studebaker President Eight averages 27.48 miles per Imp. gal. . . . wins class trophy

AGAIN the motoring world doffs its hat to Studebaker! Again Studebaker operating economy becomes a fact of official record and undisputed proof!

On January 5 this year, a stock Studebaker Commander captured the annual Gilmore-Yosemite economy classic in competition with the cream of America's cars! Averaging 30.94 miles per Imperial gallon!

The winning Studebaker triumphed over them all. Lowest priced cars . . . cars directly competitive in price . . . cars costing far more . . . all went down to defeat before the sensational gasoline economy of this stunningly styled, luxuriously appointed new Studebaker.

And, to make the Studebaker economy triumph even more impressive, a stock Studebaker President Eight won first place in its class with a record of 27.48 miles per Imperial gallon!

This year's 314-mile Gilmore-Yosemite economy sweepstakes event—supervised by the American Automobile Association—was run in the worst weather in the history of the run—blinding rain, heavy snow—over icy mountain roads.

These records are official A. A. A. proof of Studebaker economy! In your every-day driving, you may never attempt to match them. But they offer convincing evidence that you'll get the utmost in gas-saving if you select a brilliant new Studebaker as your 1939 car! Easy C. A. C. terms.

Minstrels Get Big Reception On First Night

Whiz-Bang Minstrels set a new high in entertainment at the Collegiate Auditorium Monday night when an audience of 400 were convulsed with laughter not only throughout the Minstrel show proper but during the Olio when the inimitable Pat Rafferty, of Toronto former star of the "Dumbells" went through his capers.

The entire program clicked as smoothly as a professional venture and the Minstrel Show was shown first in orthodox show style scarcely needed the master touch of Morley Plunkett, the dapper interlocutor to make it a success. Every man in the cast played his part like a veteran, sang the songs without a break and the chorus work was one of the show's highlights. The show which might be correctly named a variety-minstrel show was staged under the auspices of the Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Legion, and under the personal direction of the former "Dumbells" star Morley Plunkett. It will be repeated again Tuesday night at the Collegiate and tickets may be had at the door.

The show began with that wartime favorite "Smiles" and before very long the audience had forgot smiles for healthy chuckles which broke into roars of prolonged and deep-throated laughter as the pint-size Pat Rafferty made his appearance before the curtain and with the humorous mannerisms and squeaky voice that endeared him to thousands when the Dumbells were at the zenith of their fame, sang "Nobody Noticed Me." A few minutes later he was back dressed like a gentleman in top hat and dress suit, slightly disarranged and giving a perfect picture of a fellow who had imbibed a little unwisely, sang "I forgot the Number of the House." He brought loud and prolonged applause in another number, during which he was garbed in a ragged suit of khaki. As a wind-up he appeared as a gay and bare-legged lady with long straight hair, a close fitting green hat, long feather and plaid skirt. This time he sang "Charley Do Be Careful," added more merriment to the number with a lively dance and smacked his nose against the end of the stage as he walked off. Several women laughed so heartily they had handkerchiefs out brushing away tears of happiness.

The Minstrel show reflects great credit on the director, all of the jokes are lively and clean, and are put across in a manner that pleases the audience. The six end men in blue and gold satin costumes and the usual black-face make-up are Eddie Leonard, veteran of many shows, Harry Wynn, Herb Strickland, Wag Hotson, Howard Hall and Fred Fell. The soloists and chorus members are garbed in dark trousers, white shirts and golden sashes, and assist all soloists in the chorus of the number. Once during the program they whistle instead of sing. Herb Strickland starts the show rolling with a lively number, "When the Midnight Choo-Choo Leave for Alabam," to be followed by Walter Farr, whose lovely voice is heard to perfection in the favorite "All Ashore." Harry Wynn puts "The Dark Town Strutter's Ball" across in top style, and his imitation of a party bound coon with cane and top hat, was extremely well done. Wag Hotson sang "Silvery Moon," and Bill Carter, one of the chorus, sang "Carolina in the Morning." Eric May's lovely tenor voice did full justice to the current favorite, "You're the Only Star in My Blue Heaven," and the chorus, in assisting, sang softly to further enhance the beauty of the melody. Jim Sharpe, another member of the chorus, donned a soldier's hat and monocle in a monologue entitled the Hussars, which was enjoyed.

Quartet

The Whiz-Bang Quartet composed of Tommy Williams, Eric May, Harry Wynn and Frank Biddle, added a pleasant break to the minstrel program at this point with the song "Kentucky Babe," sang in perfect harmony with the veteran Frank Biddle, singing bass and Tommy Williams leading with strong tenor voice.

Bing Crosby's latest favorite, "It's a Lonely Trail" was sung beautifully by Jim Howard, and the audience wanted an encore which was refused, all soloists following the custom of bowing a second time. Howard Hall had the mannerisms and actions of a lively coon as he sang "Alexander's Ragtime Band," and the audience liked it. Tommy Williams chose "Can't You Hear Me Calling Caroline," and the men in the circle whistled this lovely tune when the chorus was reached. Eddie Leonard sang "I Want to be In Dixie," and the supporting chorus stood and imitated a locomotive as the dark-faced end man danced and sang. Leonard gave plenty of support throughout the show, his experience being noted in the polished manner in which he put his gags across, one in particular concerning a ghost, was topnotch. Chief Newhall and the Hunter Street bridge both found their way into the program and Eddie Leonard brought a wave of laughter when he divided $28 among seven men giving each of the seven thirteen dollars.

Gentlemen in the circle were Herb Vyse, Jim Howard, Eric May, Tommy Williams, W. Carter, Tommy Parker, Spencer Kitchen, Jim Sharpe, Clyde Aker, Ted Hotson, Frank Biddle, Bill Gracie, Bert Rumary, and Harry Lord. The orchestra is composed of Walter Farr, director, who plays the violin, Joe Murphy, violin, W. F. Skitch, bass viol, Reg. Dyer, drums and John King, pianist.

Helen Ludbrook Galvin and her Aloha Serenaders are the first to appear in the olio, or second part of the show. Velma Scott and Mrs. Galvin play electric Hawaiian guitars, Grace Hunte and Jean McIlwain play standard Hawaiian guitars and Wilfred Galvin accompanies on a Spanish guitar. All are costumed in native Hawaiian style and they play Samoa, U-No-A-Like, and Yaka-Hula-Hicka-Dula. One of the troupe, Miss Jean McIlwain, playing despite the handicap of a broken arm, flashed a smile a few times that dazzled the audience.

Young Ballet Dancer

Rose Marie Steacy, a talented 13-year-old ballet dancer from North Bay, added further variety to the program with two appearances. Her first effort was a straight ballet and the second a military toe tap dance, that had all the class and finish of a professional. Morley Plunkett came on following this number and sang "The Photo of the Girl I Left Behind Me," with all the zip and class of the professional, and he was roundly applauded.

The next part of the olio brought back memories to every ex-serviceman in the audience, when it revealed four men, Tommy Williams, Eric May, Frank Biddle and Harry Wynn, crouched around a campfire behind the lines, warming their hands and singing "Little Cotton Dolly." All were dressed in long trench coats and steel helmets.

A satirical sketch on army life behind the lines is ably portrayed by Wag Hotson, Herb Strickland, Jim Sharpe, Jim Howard, Tommy Williams and Bill Carter. The sketch is entitled "Misery and Co." The curtain is rung down to a rousing finale with the entire cast singing the Empire March of Freedom.

Manion supported the resolution. He regretted the present government had not place in effect the unemployment insurance measure enacted under the Bennett government and was convinced that had this been done the measure would be operating now. It was true the courts had found it unconstitutional but that was on a reference before the scheme was tried out.

It was seldom a "fait accompli" was disturbed unless it was definitely injurious. Unemployment insurance was not injurious and by placing the measure in operation instead of referring it to the courts the government would have made it a "fait accompli."

If democracy could not cure the evil of unemployment it would not last, sad Dr. Manion.

"In a country such as this, rich in resources, with a sparse population and a huge area, people will not continue indefinitely to put up with conditions such as those under which they live in Canada today, with 800,000 people on relief and perhaps 500,000 unemployed. And personally I do not think they should."

Duplessis A Puzzle

Mr. Rogers found it hard to understand the opposition of Premier Duplessis to a national system and said he mentioned Quebec particularly because it was one of the large industrial provinces and had everything to gain. He was sure Mr. Duplessis was not speaking for labor in Quebec and the Montpetit Royal Commission had found unemployment insurance should be nationwide.

"There are those who say, and are saying, in one breath that unemployment is a national problem, and who in the next breath are ready to refuse to give the Dominion power to deal with unemployment by the method of insurance," he said. "It is extremely difficult to understand the consistency of these two points of view expressed in the province of Quebec."

The transfer of jurisdiction over unemployment insurance from the provinces to the Dominion could not even remotely affect minority rights. Neither could it raise any question of provincial autonomy.

"For these reasons," he continued, "I am not persuaded that in those provinces which have not consented to give their approval to a national scheme of unemployment insurance that view will continue to prevail. I believe the views expressed from all sides of the House today and possibly the unanimous acceptance of this resolution will have their effect in Quebec, New Brunswick and Alberta."

Every expert had condemned a system of grants to provincial schemes as so much worse than a national scheme that the government was justified is not retreating from the stand it had taken and in waiting for public opinion to bring about the degree of understanding which would enable it to proceed with a national scheme.

Follow U.S. Example?

The suggestion the government follow the Washington example of the Social Security Act was first advanced by Mr. Neill and endorsed by Paul Martin (Lib. Essex West), who thought the federal parliament had power to proceed with a constitutional amendment without the approval of the provinces.

"However," Mr. Martin said, "I realize that in trying to adopt that method of bringing about the desired end it may occasion a great deal of dissent and possibly further conflict an lack of harmony."

He suggested parliament should pass an act which would make it optional with the provinces to join in the national scheme as had been done in the case of old age pensions. Public opinion, he thought, would make it impossible for provincial politicians to interfere with the national interest.

Mr. Martin said he was personally interested in the proposal more particularly because in his constituency there were many thousands employed in secondary industry who found themselves idle and forced to accept relief as much as five months in a year.

Under the present economic system it was inevitable that there would always be a certain volume of unemployment. And the present system of "production in a free competitive society" would endure in Canada.

It was the duty of parliament, because of this unavoidable situation, to take whatever steps could be adopted to relieve the evil effects of inevitable unemployment upon its victims and society generally.

Favors Compulsory Idea.

Mr. Martin endorsed the idea of national compulsory contributory unemployment insurance but he urged complementary legislation to raise the working age and lower the pensionable age. That would restrict child labor and increase the labor market.

Unemployment insurance would not be effective, Mr. Martin said, unless the employment offices were made to work in a more co-ordinated manner than at present under provincial administration.

Mr. Martin said provision of employment by public work would "never achieve what I think unemployment insurance will achieve."

By this statement, Mr. Martin added, "I do not want the government to think Windsor does not want a city hall, a new station or the Bluewater Highway." His argument was that public works, although meeting an emergent situation, could not take the place of a long range, scientific insurance scheme.

It was sheer nonsense to argue whether unemployment was insurable risk, said Mr. Martin. That was to disregard the problem of social security. It could be admitted that unemployment insurance in Canada was not possible on an actuarial basis. Government contributions would be necessary.

For economic reasons an unemployment insurance plan should be designed for the whole country, not simply for Quebec or Ontario.

Parliament had the power to effect amendments to the constitution which would enable it to enact unemployment insurance legislation, said Mr. Martin. In the exercise of that power it need not consult the provinces. Nevertheless to exercise that power might give rise to prolonged dispute and accentuate the lack of harmony which now prevailed.

Use Pension Basis.

For this reason and because of the emergency Mr. Martin suggested the government proceed with a scheme on the same basis as the old age pensions legislation which would be optional with the provinces. He was convinced public opinion would compel all provincial governments to come in and would prevent provincial politicians from interfering with the scheme.

In Windsor, said Mr. Martin, it was most disheartening to see able men working in the automobile industry at daily wages which appeared adequate but which, spread over the year, with its periods of unemployment, were insufficient to enable them to maintain a home according to Canadian standards.

"Public opinion," he said, "will back up this government if it assumes what I think it should assume and that at the expense of any politician who seems to place provincial autonomy ahead of the solution of one of the most acute and dangerous problems that confronts this country."

Orvis Kennedy, Edmonton East, and Norman Jacques, Wetaskiwin, both Social Credit members, criticized the proposal, and Mr. Kennedy moved an amendment to substitute "non - contributory unemployment insurance available to all classes" for "contributory unemployment insurance."

Mr. Jaques felt the creation of a national system of employment insurance would concentrate too much power in the Federal Government.

Not Representing the People.

Angus MacInnis (C.C.F., Vancouver East) said provincial premiers who opposed national insurance were not expressing the views of their people. The people wanted social security and well-being and were not concerned with antiquated constitutional limitations which had become a fetter on social progress.

"The insistence on the maintenance of provincial rights to the point where that insistence retards national progress becomes, in my opinion, provincial stupidity," he said.

Hon. H. A. Stewart (Cons., Leeds) resented what he said was Mr. Rogers' suggestion the Bennett government was actuated by political expediency in its unemployment insurance legislation.

"No government in the history of Canada had less regard for the political consequences of its actions than the Bennett government," he said.

Since the Bennett legislation had been held unconstitutional by the courts the present government had done nothing but communicate with the provinces.

"What would you have done?" asked Mr. Rogers.

"I think I would have devised some scheme of unemployment insurance along the lines suggested here tonight whereby the Dominion and the provinces would co-operate it," said Mr. Stewart. "It would be better than doing nothing."

Premier Duplessis' letter to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, he added, contained the outline of such a scheme and the government might well have adopted the Quebec premier's suggestion.

Other supporters of the Neil motion were John R. MacNicol (Con. Toronto-Davenport), Thomas Reid (Lib. New Westminister) and A. A. Heaps (C.C.F., Winnipeg North.

U.S., France, Britain Developing Parallel Policy In Far East

By Andrue Berding
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. — (AP). —A parallel policy among Great Britain, France, and the United States in the Far aEst has developed to the point where diplomatic representatives here are giving it close attention.

Diplomatic circles have been struck particularly by the United States Ambassador's demand on the Japanese Foreign Office last week to learn Japan's intentions in occupying the Island of Hainan.

The significance of his action is not merely that it immediately followed a similar step by Britain and France, but that it was taken despite the fact no such step was made when the Japanese occupied Canton, which actually is a little closer to the Philippines than is Hainan, 750 miles away.

Ambassador Joseph Grew called Japan's attention to the fact there were Americans on the Island of Hainan—but there were still more Americans at Canton.

Last year, when the Japanese made a feint to take Hainan, Great Britain and France warned her they would stand together in complications that might arise. And now, in effect, the United States has joined them.

Hainan is of more direct interest to Britain and France because, as an air or submarine base, it could threaten French Indo-China, less than 200 miles away, or Hong Kong, British Crown Colony not much farther away. But 760 miles is not a great distance as flying lanes now go.

Keeping in Close Touch.

Signs are multiplying of a close exchange of information, opinion, and action among the three democracies with regard to the Far East. Last month Britain and France closely followed the United States in sending notes contesting Japan's contention that a new order had arisen in the Far East, denying her right to abrogate the nine-power treaty, and protesting Japan's infringements of their rights in China.

The three Powers adopted the same line in declaring to Japan they would be glad to receive proposals from her which could be discussed with both Japan and China and also the other Powers directly interested —meaning the other signatories to the nine-power treaty. Japan still is studying the suggestion.

It is learned reliably here that the three Powers are exchanging among themselves all information they can get on Japan's actual or planned naval building. However, it also is learned that the sum total of their information does not amount to very much. This is either because Japan, strained economically by nearly two years of fighting in China, is shutting down on her warship building, or, more likely because of the screen of secrecy the Japanese have set up.

Norwood W.A. Meets In Johnson Home

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, Feb. 20.—The February meeting of the Women's Association of the United church was held at the home of Mrs. H. B. Johnson on Thursday with an attendance of thirty-three.

The president, Mrs. J. Brown, opened the meeting with the theme song followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The retiring president, Mrs. Robert Leeper, who had been tendered a gift the week before, thanked the association kindly for the lovely hymnary she had received.

Mrs. T. Buck and her group then took charge of the program. Mrs. B. Tucker and Mrs. Buck took the scripture readings. Mrs. Buck had a questionaire in which Mrs. Adam Gardiner tok part. Mrs. M. Callander favored with a solo, "Hold Thou My Hand." An interesting reading on the analysis of the Lord's Prayer was given by Mrs. S. S. Breckon. Mrs. M. I. Robinson closed the meeting with prayer. Mrs. I. Cummings, who is in bed, chose the hymns for the meeting.

At the close of the meeting a dainty lunch was served by the group in charge. Mrs. Buck thanked Mrs. Johnson kindly for opening her house for the occasion.

Presentation Made

At their regular practice on Thursday evening held in the Sunday school room, the United church choir presented Miss Jean Johnson with a lovely pair of bandage scissors. The presentation and a nicely-worded address was made by Earl Bongard expressing the choir's sorrow in losing Jean who had been a valued member for some time. Miss Johnson is leaving Monday where she is entering the Toronto Western Hospital.

OMEMEE

Mr. William Prince of Toronto visited friends in the village over the weekend.

Miss Jane Earle and Mr. William Earle of Toronto were weekend guests of their parents, Dr. and Mrs. G. N. Earle.

Mr. William Stephenson and son, George, visited friends in Stouffville and Toronto last week.

Mrs. E. McPhee was a recent visitor to Toronto.

Mrs. J. Bradley and Miss A. Bradley attended the funeral of the late Mr. John Spence in Millbrook on Saturday.

clarification of the rules and practice applying to them.

"Our inspectors have found that people move into the city from one place or another," said Mr. Dutton, "and set about establishing their qualification of residence so they can get on the city's relief list. Somehow they manage to live during that time they are qualifying. They may get help from relatives, service clubs or churches. For instance one man with a wife and seven children earned an average of $12 a week while establishing residence, and as soon as he got on relief he received more than he had been earning while establishing residence. As soon as they qualify they are entitled to everything we have to give them, and in many cases the schedule is higher than in the places they came from."

Mr. Dutton said the council suggested that in these cases the amount of relief should not exceed the earnings of the families during the periods of qualifying for residence.

"We also feel that before they are admitted to the municipality they should present letters showing that they have a job waiting for them in a factory or elsewhere. When they are here only three months their hospitalization costs can be charged against the city."

Mr. Dutton said that previously newcomers had to show they had been gainfully employed for twelve months, but that restriction had been amended.

100 New Families

Mr. Metheral informed the meeting that there are now 100 families on relief who had moved into the city during the last four years.

"Since August 1, 1938, there has been no twelve months' regulation to establish residence," Mr. Horton stated. "What the Department has decided is this, that a family seeking aid in a municipality must show that it has been self-supporting for a period of twelve months as a condition to receiving relief after that period. If they have obtained employment and paid their way for twelve months or any reasonable period, and shown that they are good citizens, they are entitled to ask for relief if they come to that.

But, if they haven't demonstraed that they are able to keep themselves, then they become a charge on the municipality from which they have come."

A Concrete Case

"Suppose that a family moves in here from North Monaghan, I mention the township merely to illustrate and explain the point. If the head of that family doesn't fit into your picture, if he doesn't get work, you should tell North Monaghan you are going to bill them for the support of that family. The township would surely try to provide work of some kind, cutting wood for example, and have that family go back to them, than be charged for their upkeep in the city."

Mr. Horton further stated: "If that man refused to take a job in North Monaghan, then he has cut himself off relief. And by that system there should be no danger of Peterborough becoming loaded up with undesirables."

Alderman Dutton said an apparent weakness was that the city would not know when these people did arrive.

"In a large border municipality the relief authorities have arranged with their manufacturers and other employers, like the stores to send to the relief officer the names and addresses of persons applying for work. The municipality knows at once whether the applicants are from out of town or not. If one of those men is a drifter, he is warned to go on back to the place he came from. He is given two or three weeks to demonstrate whether he can fit into the local picture. Of course that requires the fullest co-operation from your employers, who are themselves taxpayers. We know you are receiving good co-operation here from your manufacturers. You might go a step further, and ask employers to assist you in this respect thereby helping to protect their own interest as taxpayers."

Mr. Horton said that if an incoming family lived with relatives for the quafifying period and then asked for relief, they could not show that they had been self-supporting in gainful employment; hence they were not eligible for relief.

Alderman Dutton — "Suppose a family moves into the city. They have no means of support. Through charity or by help from relatives, they manage to maintain themeelves for a full year. Then they got to the relief office and register as applicants. Would the city be justified in saying to them 'go back to the municipality from which you came?'"

Mr. Horton's answer was an unqualified "yes."

Alderman Stocker mentioned the classic case of the five related families that all trekked into the city following their trail blazer, who led the way to the relief office established by the taxpayers of Peterborough. There are now twenty-five to thirty individuals in that family group.

Alderman Dutton—"It seems to me that from what Mr. Horton said that the relief committee is free to use its own discretion to a large extent in dealing with such cases. A man is not required to be twelve months continuously employed, but if it is a reasonable period of employment during twelve to fifteen months or thereabouts, giving evidence of ability in self-support, also of being good citizens, then such a man or family must be considered to have established themselves here."

Civil Liberty

Mr. Horton stated that the Department and the people of Ontario as a whole were concerned primarily about preserving the civil rights of every man to seek work for himself here and elsewhere, but in trying to preserve that right a municipality was no required to absorb drifters, who had no intention of seriously looking for work.

Stop that Tickling In the Throat

That tickling in the throat is most distressing, and is caused by a cold settling in the throat.

The dry, hard cough not only keeps you in misery all day long, but also prevents you getting a good night's sleep.

What you need to relieve this tickling cough is Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. This valuable preparation is composed of the most soothing and healing expectorant barks and herbs with which is combined the virtues of the world-famous Norway pine tree.

MOUNT JULIAN

At Mr. and Mrs. Ottis Northey's euchre party eight tables of cards were played, with ladies' first prize going to Mrs. Percy Thompson, second to Mrs. Theodore Wilson. Gents' first prize was awarded to Stanley Northey, second to Gordon Northey. Mr. and Mrs. Thedore Wilson are entertaining the club at their Burleigh Falls residence on Saturday evening, February 1.

Among those who attended the hockey match at Lakefield on Friday evening were Messrs. Raymond and Wilbert Lean, Jack and Everett Kelly, and Walter Northey, and Miss Carol Thompson.

Mr. Joseph Northey spent Friday with friends in Peterborough.

Mrs. Keith Russel and son David, from Toronto, were visitors in this community over the week-end.

Y.P.U. Holds Valentine Party And Box Social

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, Feb. 21. — A delightful Valentine party and box social was held in the Sunday School rooms of the United Church on Friday evening sponsored by the Y.P.U. with the members of Ebenezer group as guests of the evening. Miss Wilma Beer was convener of the Bethany branch. Allan Beer acted as chairman. The schoolroom was prettily decorated in suitable mementoes of St. Valentine, the color scheme carried out with red hearts everywhere, the pillars wound with red and white crepe paper making the room look very festive. The following delightful program was given: Piano solo by Beatrice Morton of Ebenezer, instrumental on piano by Isobel Jackson, Bethany; duet by Neil Stewart and Alfred Perkins, Ebenezer; Foolish Cracks, with Mrs. J. White at piano; stunt by Isobel Jackson, The Three Russians Looking for Employment; recreation games by Wilma Beer, engaging the local and visiting societies; The Art Gallery, a contest, won by Rev. Ferguson and Clara Beer, second Mansell Wright and Illma Strong, and third by Mrs. Kyle and Allan Beer. The singing contest proved very entertaining, the following numbers being sung: There's a Long, Long Trail A-winding, Down by the Old Mill Stream, Just a Song at Twilight, Good Old Summer Time, and Let Me Call You Sweetheart. The third contest, Newspaper Clippings, kept the audience working at top speed, hunting for 24 points. Group No. 1 winning the full number and checked by Miss Beer. A youth contest, "six long" words, any kind, containing only six letters. A telegram within four letters contained in word Valentine, by Ebenezer Guest proved very amusing.

The sale of baskets was conducted by Edgar Beer as auctioneer, bringing neat prices for all. Lunches were sold at the counter to those not provided with baskets. A short worship period and sing-song concluded a very happy evening.

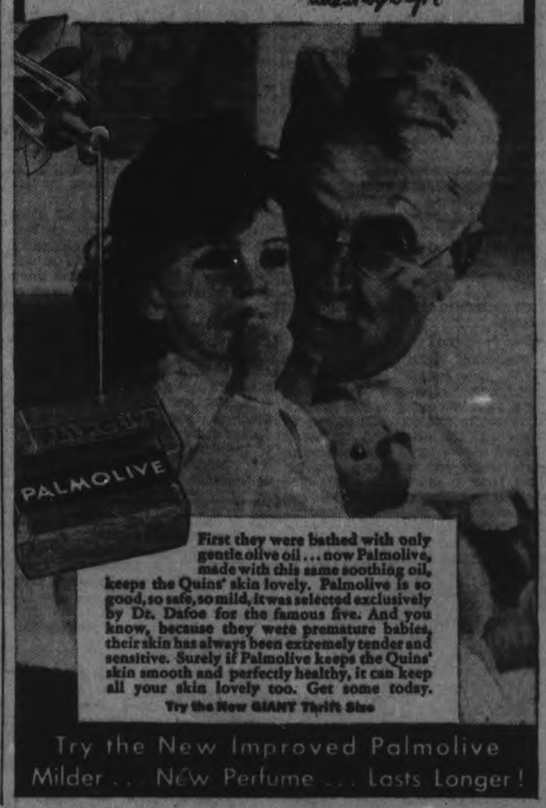
Hastings Pair Given Cup, Saucer Shower

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 21. — More than thirty friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Cleary gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Keogan, and tendered a cup and saucer shower in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Cleary, who have returned from their honeymoon spent in the United States. They received many nice gifts, and a suitable "thank you" was given by the bride and groom.

The evening was spent in playing several games of progressive euchre, with Mrs. Ben Gibson winning the ladies' prize and Jack Gibson taking the gentlemen's prize.

"Palmolive is the only soap used in the daily baths of the Dionne Quintuplets. Their skin is clear, normal and healthy."
Alan Roy Dafoe



First they were bathed with only gentle olive oil ... now Palmolive, made with this same soothing oil, keeps the Quins' skin lovely. Palmolive is so good, so safe, so mild, it was selected exclusively by Dr. Dafoe for the famous five. And you know, because they were premature babies, their skin has always been extremely tender and sensitive. Surely if Palmolive keeps the Quins' skin smooth and perfectly healthy, it can keep all your skin lovely too. Get some today.

CAR DAMAGED.

The running board and rear fender of a car belonging to Stanley Lucas, 8 Dumble Avenue, were damaged Monday in a collision with an automobile driven by Sid Craig, 672 Armour Road. The latter machine backed out of a laneway on Hunter Street, west of George, as Lucas was driving east on Hunter Street.

TRIAL IS ADJOURNED

The trial of Nathan Herman, charged with theft in connection with his management of Pattenick's store of George street, was adjourned this morning until March 7 at 10.30 o'clock. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., presented to Judge J. A. McGibbon Herman's plea for adjournment when the court opened this morning, saying that Herman had been unable to procure services of an attorney.

STAGE GETS THROUGH

The Buckhorn stage was running on schedule today after missing a trip to Peterborough Monday because of the blocked roads. The driver was able to reach Lakefield by four o'clock yesterday afternoon but returned in the wake of the plow instead of coming to the city. He was through on time today, coming the usual route from Buckhorn, through Selwyn and down the highway to Peterborough.

MAY BE SPEAKER

M. C. MacPhail of the Kemptville Dairy School is likely to be the speaker at the dinner Thursday evening which concludes the Keene short course in elementary agriculture and home economics. The closing day is actually on Friday, but Mr. Paterson felt that some members of the class would prefer the Thursday date, and for that reason moved the affair one day ahead.

JUDGE LEE DEAD

County Judge W. T. J. Lee who died in Toronto on Sunday night was an uncle of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., of Peterborough. The funeral will be held tomorrow.

COMMISSIONERS MEET

The regular monthly meeting of the local board of police commissioners will be held tomorrow, Wednesday afternoon, when routine business will be taken up. Magistrate E. A. Gee will likely be an absentee because of the illness of his wife.

BLAMES SNOW PLOUGH

A Toronto man in the city over the week-end reported to the police that he left his car outside the place at which he was staying Sunday night and in the morning found that his front and back fenders had been damaged, apparently, he said, by a sidewalk snow plough.

IVAN IS STOPPED

It takes a real storm to keep Ivan Fletcher from getting through from Keene to Peterborough but on Monday he only travelled a few miles out of Keene before he was forced to retrace his course. It took him an hour to get turned around and the pupils missed one day at school. He is running on schedule today.

TO HONOR DIT CLAPPER

A special train is being run from this district to Toronto Saturday as hockey fans of Campbellford, Hastings, Keene and Peterborough pay tribute to Dit Clapper of Boston Bruins, a Hastings' boy, who is receiving a presentation from his friends at the game Saturday night in Maple Leaf Gardens. A block of seats has been reserved.

START WORK EARLY

In order to clear down town streets of snow as rapidly as possible following Sunday night's storm the city's snow-shovelling gangs started work at 5 o'clock this morning and will likely put in a ten-hour day. The work has been pushed ahead rapidly, despite the fact that one of the graders went out of business.

HIGHWAY COLLISION

Cars driven by Rev. Father Costello of Hastings and Robert Leiper of Norwood were damaged in a collision on Highway No. 7 on Monday afternoon. The Leiper's car formed one of a number of cars in a funeral cortege proceeding east when the accident happened, near the Westwood turn. Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon Broughton investigated.

GRAVELY ILL

Friends of Dr. James F. O'Brien, dentist, will regret to learn of his serious illness that is causing his relatives deep concern. He is under observation in Christie Street Hospital, and his condition during the last few days has shown some slight improvement. The cause of Dr. O'Brien's illness has not yet been definitely diagnosed, but it is said to be of cerebral nature. He was attached to the Canadian Dental Corps during the war.

BUILDING ACTIVITY

Building which has lagged because of the cold weather is beginning to come to life again, and three new permits were taken out this month. William Tinker is converting a house on Rogers street into three apartments, C. A. Moore, 458 Rubidge street is changing his house at that address into three apartments with garages and the Lincoln Shoe store have taken out a permit covering the alterations to the George street store formerly occupied by the Catherine Shop.

NO STENOGRAPHER AVAILABLE

Police court patrons just got nicely in out of the cold this morning when they turned out to face the chilly east wind again. A series of assault cases arising out of a Dunlop street dispute were to have been heard but no court stenographer was available and Magistrate O. A. [illegible], K.C., adjourned the proceedings for a week. There was not another case on the docket and the court passed without any arrests, the result that there was no business at all to serve up for the regular attendants.

South Africa's Mining Is Done On Big Scale Col. Ackerman Finds On Trip To That Dominion

Ten thousand of the 30,000 miles Lieut.-Colonel C. H. Ackerman has travelled during the last three months were by air up the east coast of Africa, above the Indian Ocean, over Lake Victoria, the Nile, Alexandria, Athens, the Mediterranean, Italy, the Alps, Marseilles and happy landing at Southampton, ready for the last leg of his homebound journey.

Col. Ackerman left Peterborough about the middle of November for a trip to South Africa and returned last week. He went by way of Southampton to Cape Town, continued 1,000 miles inland to the famining area of which Johannesburg is the centre, visited Pretoria, Ladysmith, and other sections of the Union of South Africa. Incidentally he was in the old home of Oom Paul Kruger, met General Jan Smuts, Deputy Prime Minister and also Minister of Justice, G. Carleton Jones, a Canadian, formerly of Halifax, now one of the best known mining engineers in South Africa, and consulting engineer of the Consolidated Goldfields, and many other people in the Cape country.

Mining On Big Scale.

"Up here in Ontario we think we have mining by the tail, but in the Government Area Mine at Benoni, out of Johannesburg, they employ 300 whites and 25,000 blacks," Col. Ackerman said. "Imagine what our Norandas and Lake Shores would be if our mine payrolls were on that scale. "There are 1,500 miles of underground workings along the Rand, which extends a distance of about sixty-five miles from east to west."

Col. Ackerman's narrative delves deep into the ground of South Africa and soars high above the country, and returning home again characteristically cautious of word even after such suggestively romantic globe-trotting, his little travelogue this morning created no impression of exaggeration. Probably surperitives had to be supplied by one's imagination.

"Johannesburg is booming, and the level of prices there is generally high," Col. Ackerman said. "There are many evidences of wealth in the city and around it. Rhodesia is just getting started in a mining way, and they are making some rich finds.

A Bilingual Country.

The Union is bilingual, English and African. The latter represents the modern development of the original Dutch. In sections of the country that has a high percentage of people of English origin they seem to be more English than the English themselves.

The Rhodesians are intensely English. There and in the Kenya I found strong opposition to any suggestion of Britain returning the German colonies to Hitler.

South Africa is buying hundreds of airplanes from Great Britain, is adopting a broad military program of preparedness and armament, and nearly everywhere I went I was asked what Canada would do if war came again.

Scout Canadian News

During the five weeks or so I was there I read four items of news from Canada. One was about the Canadian government sending 10,000 tons of fish to the Government of Spain; another was Jean Pouliot's advocating a Kingdom of Canada; another was an interview given by an English Labor man expressing his opinion that Canada would be neutral if Britain became involved in war; and the fourth was a note about two English explorers being temporarily lost in northern Canada.

Reporters in half a dozen cities interviewed me, and invariably I was asked what Canada's action would be in the event of war.

Col. Ackerman intimated that his impression was that news from Canada reaching South Africa was not only sketchy but also rather unfavorable.

Attached to Empire

"They have their problem of nationalism as we have in this country, but I feel certain that South Africa is strongly attached to the Empire. They really have a coalition government with Hertzog as prime minister and Smuts as the deputy. The minister of mines, Denis Reitz, was away on a trip to South America. These three men fought on the side of the Boers, but they all realize that they have been given every opportunity to take hold of things themselves. The blacks are extremely loyal to Britain. I gained no other impression but that the people of South Africa are bound up with the British Empire and prepared to do their part as they did before."

Luxury of Air Travel

Col. Ackerman spoke highly of the service of Imperial Airways. The planes are all four-motored. Travel is only by day; and every provision is made for the comfort of passengers. He made the long trip from Durban to Southampton in the "Caledonia", the sister airship to the "Cambria", that made the first flight to New York.

The landing at Brindisi was the day the Italians were celebrating the fall of Barcelona to Franco's troops.

"Sometimes we flew above the clouds. I noticed that especially when we were over the Mediterranean," said Col. Ackerman, in a final reference to that long flight from South Africa to England, looking down on such features of historic geography as the Nile, and the Alps, Athens and Alexandria, the east coast of Africa and so on along the way down to the Cape, where the foliage and flowers astonished the Peterborough sojurner, with their beauty, but where the weather was inclined to be entirely too hot.

Prefers Canada.

"I wouldn't wish to live there, although there are many things I like about the country," Col. Ackerman said. "When it rains in the Johnnesburg country, there is an abundance of water, but evidently the dry seasons are long, for I noticed in going through the farm country that what appeared to be big swimming pools were really reservoirs that served as water storage tanks between seasons."

Weather Prophets Found Not To Be So Hot By Gang Down Around The Alparka Corner

The gang down at Bert McLeod's store is beginning to shed its collective innocence. They used to believe in things, Santa Claus and Foster Hewitt, silver linings, just-around-the-corner, weather prophets, rugby chances, put-it-on-the-cuffers, customer's fish stories, even the boss's golf scores. All the credibilities were sure of a pleasant welcome at the Alparka corner. Possibly they still believe the old reliable propaganda that keeps the world rotating and smiling in the faith that "two can live as cheap as one."

Not that there is anything wrong with the noses. Probably they rate away up in the proboscis league, and any way that is verging on the personal, and drifting away from the groundhog that will be booted off the welcome mat if it ever shows its nose at the Albert and Park corner. They trusted the bear and the groundhog; so did a lot of other people, but there was a deeper note of security in the Alparka hopes. They felt that the ground hog was out scampering around for the rest of the winter, weather was going to be sunny and above all that the east wind was going to be toned down.

When the east wind in February picks up speed on the cold level of Little Lake and frisks along Rink street and zooms up over the roofs of Bob Abbott's factory, where does it go after that? It bangs against the Alparko corner and joy in life runs down, largely at least, to thinking about May-time zephyrs or Florida or anything sunny. And instead of less of that blowing against the main door this month, it has been more frigid, with sustained huffing and puffing, that has blown away the last vestige of belief in weather lore except that after sunset the world is going to get dark and the stars shine; and even about that they may have some doubts; certainly holding to only one thing, that the darkness will come ,and you can't trust the stars. They may dodge in behind cloud banks.

At any rate they are waiting for some of the customers to tell them to watch whether March comes in like a lion.

Blocked Roads Interrupt Meetings

Township roads blocked by the weekend storm of snow and sleet disrupted Monday night's program of home meetings in the country as the second week of the co-operative education campaign began under difficulties. Two of the five meetings were cancelled.

The series for tonight is slated for the homes of C. E. Moore in Smith, Vernon Campbell in Douro, Zion Hall in Otonabee, Memorial Hall at Fairmount, George Mullen's home and Arthur Fitzgerald's.

The Wednesday list is at W. W. Dawson's in Otonabee; S.S. No. 4, Smith; Orange Corners Hall and at the Clydesdale home at Cottesloe.

Thursday night at the homes of R. T. Lillico and Henry Batten, North Monaghan; W. G. Waterman and F. T. Brown, Carman Seymour, and Clifford Johnston.

The two weeks' campaign ends Friday evening with a banquet in George Street Church Sunday School Hall at 6.30 o'clock. The speaker will be H. H. Hannam of Toronto.

Company Will Pay Service Dividend

MONTREAL, Feb. 21.—For the fourth consecutive year workers to the number of about 4,000 in the employ of Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada Limited, will receive a service dividend amounting to approximately $220,000, representing five and a half per cent. of wages earned during 1938, it was announced by the company today.

Imperial Tobacco employees also benefit through group insurance, a sick benefit plan, a pension fund, and a week's annual vacation with pay for factory workers.

Duffus Is Reported Resting Comfortably

MONTREAL, Feb. 21.—(CP)—A series of x-rays were taken today of J. J. Duffus, M.P. (Lib. Peterborough West) at the Montreal Neurological Institute where he was admitted over last weekend. Doctors said they hoped to complete their diagnosis of his condition by this evening.

Mr. Duffus has been under observation since admitted to the institute and was reported to be resting comfortably.

OBITUARY

HOWARD JOHN MASTERS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, Feb. 21—The sudden death of Howard John McMaster occurred on Monday afternoon while at work. He was stricken from a heart attack. The deceased was 48 years of age and served for two and a half years overseas.

The funeral will be held from the residence of his sister, Mrs. Thomas McMaster, on Thursday at 2 p.m. Interment will be made to Norwood cemetery.

MRS. THOMAS HENRY GRAHAM.

The death of Mrs. Thomas Henry Graham occurred at her residence at 679 Aylmer Street early this morning after an illness that lasted for six months. She was in her 69th year.

She was born Agnes Jane Dunseath, daughter of the late Alexander Dunseath and Susan Telford, in Verulam Township. She had lived in Peterborough for the past 13 years, coming to this city from Smith Township. A member of Gilmour Memorial Church, she was one of its most active workers for many years, and a woman highly respected by the entire congregation. She also took a keen interest in the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association, and was always a help to the societies of Murray Street Church.

Surviving besides her husband are three step-daughters: Mrs. Thomas Flett of Oshawa, Mrs. James Park of Outlook, Saskatchewan, and Mrs. Charles Westlake of Smith Township; five sisters: Mrs. John Flett, Mrs. William Gamble and Mrs. James Campbell, all of Fenelon Falls, Mrs. J. E. Flett of Bowmanville, and Mrs. William Rutherford of Otonabee Township; also one brother, Thomas Dunseath of Windel, British Columbia.

The funeral service will be on Thursday at 12.30 oclock noon, from the late residence, Rev. J. D. Wright of Gilmour Memorial Church officiating, assisted by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church. Interment will be at Fenelon Falls on arrival by motor from Peterborough.

MRS. CLARA LEEPER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, Feb. 21—The sudden death of Mrs. Clara Leeper, aged 80, widow of Robert Leeper, occurred on Friday at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Richard Ferguson, 505 Dickson street, Peterborough.

Although the deceased had been in poor health for several years, her passing came as a severe shock. A woman of sincere faith and unfailing patience in her affliction, she was highly respected and loved by all who knew her. Her life has been a benediction as a sincere friend and devoted mother.

Mrs. Leeper was born in Percy township, the daughter of the late Henry Thistlewaite and Jane Tate. At seven years of age she moved to Norwood. In 1879 she married Robert Leeper, who predeceased her 15 years ago.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Richard Ferguson, of Peterborough, one son, Robert J. Leeper, of Norwood, one sister, Miss Harriet E. Thistlewaite of Stayner, and one brother, Henry Thistlewaite of North Bay. Also surviving are three grandchildren, Mrs. W. Alfred McMillan (Donna), Flora B. Leeper of Oshawa, and Evelyn R. Leeper, of Peterborough.

The funeral was held on Monday, service being conducted by Rev. M. C. Parr of George Street United church, of which the deceased was a member. Rev. John Glover, of Claremont, assisted with the service. Interment was made in Norwood cemetery, with Rev. M. I. Robertson assisting at the graveside.

The bearers were six nephews: Henry Thistlewaite, George and John Richardson, Gordon Adams, Louis Elmhirst and John Starke.

The floral tributes were from the family, the grandchildren, Mr. Henry Thistlewaite, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gunn, North Bay; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Thistlewaite, Mr. and Mrs. J. Starke, and Shirley, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McMillan, Lyle and Evelyn; Mr. and Mrs. A. Clarke, Elgin Sunday School, R.B.P. No. 311, of Norwood; Mr. and Mrs. A. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. L. Webster, Mr. and Mrs. H. Sutherland of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. R. Branton, Mr. and Mrs. G. Hicks of Oshawa, Mr L. Fontaine and Mr. and Mrs. M. Munro of Toronto.

MRS. ROBERT MACKLIN.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

On Saturady morning, February 18, the death occurred of Mrs. Robert Macklin at the family residence, four miles north of Roseneath, at Macklin's Landing, Rice Lake.

Mrs. Macklin was in her 60th year and had suffered ill health following a paralytic stroke some three years ago.

Before her marriage she was Bertha Steele, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Steele, of Haldimand township.

Mrs. Macklin had many friends who mourn her passing. She is survived by her husband, six sons, Clarence of Peterborough, George of Burnley, Frank, Cecil, Milford and Clifton at home, and three daughters, Mrs. Victor Graham of Wellman's Corners, Seymour; Mrs. German Wynn, of Alnwick and Evelyn at home. One brother, Albert Steele, of Fenella, and one sister, Mrs. Ida Wilson of Michigan, survive also.

The funeral service was held on Monday at the family residence, and was conducted by Rev. L. W. Scott, of the United church.

Six sons carried their mother's body to its last resting place in Merrill's cemetery.

CAPE TOWN — (CP). — A. D. Locke, South African open golf champion, plans to arrive in England in June for a tour which will include the British open championship.

20 Of 32 Families On Relief In Monaghan Are Comparatively Newcomers To Township

North Monaghan was in the same boat with Peterborough at the relief conference with E. A. Horton, Deputy Minister of Public Welfare, here Monday afternoon. Bruce Johnston, township clerk, said that of the 32 families on relief 20 of them are comparative newcomers, people in the same category as those the city's relief committee have been complaining about as inserting themselves into the city's populace to get advantage of the higher schedule of relief paid here.

The proportion of 20 to 32 is much higher than the city's. Mr. Johnston not only listened to the general discussion and review of the relief regulations, but also submitted facts relating to specific cases on which he sought advice.

Mr. Horton stated on the question of government assistance this year that if the federal government contributes more than 20 per cent. of gross expenditure during the first three months the entire amount of the excess will be handed back by the province to the municipalities. After April 1 the distribution of costs will be as previously announced, 40 per cent. by each government and 20 per cent. by the municipality.

Oldest Native Of County Is Laid To Rest

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 21—Mrs. J. W. Martyn, the oldest native resident of Peterborough County was buried in Port Hope cemetery on Monday afternoon. The late Mrs. Martyn was born in Smith township on October 29, 1841, and passed away on Saturday in Lakefield in her 99th year, at the home of her great-niece, Mrs. Stanley Windsor, Ermatinger street.

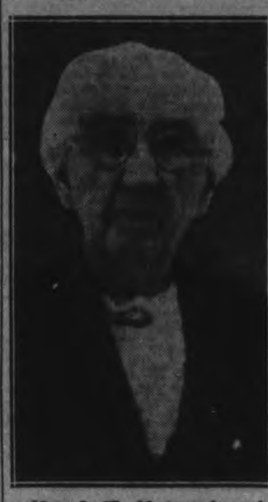
The late Mrs. Martyn exemplified the rugged characteristics of strength and endurance so marked in the pioneers of this country, and up to the time of her death had full use of her faculties, and a clear memory. She had rarely been ill, but a week before her weath was suddenly stricken with the illness that caused her death.

Mrs. Martyn's maiden name was Sarah Jane Manning, and she was the daughter of the late Samuel Manning and Nancy Cowing, who were among the early settlers to take up land in Smith township ten years after Peterborough received its name, following the Peter Robinson immigration about the year 1825. She lived in Smith township until her marriage to J. W. Martyn. Then she moved to Canton, Ontario, and lived there for half a century, until 1912, when her husband died. Then she travelled extensively throughout the Southern States. Twelve years ago she came to Lakefield and spent the balance of her life there with her great niece. She was a Methodist until Union, and as a member of Canton United church for many years.

The late Mrs. Martyn was a kindly woman, an energetic worker in the interests of the church and one who always had time to assist those visited by misfortune. Her sympathetic nature won her many friends wherever she went, and she will be missed by many not only in Smith township but in Canton.

She is survived by several nephews, four of whom are B. W. Manning, Peterborough; Dr. R. J. Manning, Saskatoon; E. C. Manning, Victoria, B.C., and Fred Manning, Berkeley Hills, California. Mrs. George B. Nichols, Smith township is a niece.

Dies In 99th Year



Mrs. J. W. Martyn, formerly Sarah Jane Manning, native of Smith township, who died in Lakefield on Saturday last in her 99th year. She was the oldest native resident of Peterborough County, having been born in Smith on October 29th, 1841. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon.

Youth Is Injured Sleigh Riding

Warren Gamble, 17, well known hobby show champion, 321 Rogers street, was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital Monday night following a spill from a bob-sleigh near the hospital. He is suffering from extensive facial lacerations and nose injuries believed to have been caused when he struck the icy crust on the snow.

Gamble had been sleigh riding on a pair of bobs with Eric Porter who lives next door to him on Rogers street, down the incline west of the hospital when the mishap occurred. He was taken to the hospital by his companion and treated by the family doctor, who believes the boy will be able to return to his home late today.

The accident is the only serious one of a number which have taken place since the crust formed on the snow late Sunday afternoon.

Several small children have been injured from falling on the sharp crust while they were skiing or sleigh-riding, and parents are advised that serious injury is probable if children try skiing and fall on the hard surface. Several years ago, six persons were seriously cut on Armour Hill following a sleet storm when the toboggan they were riding upset throwing the six adults against the icy crust.

E. F. Reid Re-elected Chairman Of Board

At the annual meeting of the Board of Managers of St. Andrew's Church last night, E. F. Reid was re-elected chairman, Hugh Waddell treasurer, and I. H. Keefer was elected secretary. The finance and property, and music and pew committees were appointed for the year. It was reported that the annual printed report of the congregation is being prepared with J. A. McKone, E. B. Fowler and Fred Johnston in charge. The anniversary services of the congregation will be held May 7 with Rev. C. V. McLean, M.A. Ph.D. of London, former pastor of the congregation as the guest speaker on that occasion.

MISS Z. KEARNEY ILL.

Miss Zeta Kearney, public health nurse, left Saturday morning for her home in London to consult her family physician, and was advised immediately to go to Victoria Hospital Monday night for a major operation which was to be performed this morning, according to information the Examiner received this afternoon.

Man Is Charged Giving Liquor To Girl Of 13

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Feb. 21. — George Workman, whow as arrested by the police on the week-end, charged with supplying liquor to a 13-year-old girl, came before H. Brown, justice of the peace on Monday, and was remanded until Wednesday. It is alleged by the police that the accused, in company with the girl's mother and the girl, visited a local hotel when she was supplied with beer by the accused. The girl had been placed in the Children's Shelter.

W. P. Coneybear, of Lindsay, was the victim of a rather serious accident on Sunday afternoon, when he was struck by a car driven by Lawrence Egholm, of Toronto. Egholm claimed that he was forced to swing his car up on to the sidewalk to avoid hitting a car driven by J. Tocher, town. The latter states that he had brought his car to a stop at the cross street and then proceeded on. The Engholm car mounted the sidewalk and struck Coneybear as he was walking towards his home. He was badly cut about the body and suffered head injuries.

A record catch in whitefish was recorded at Jackson's Point on the week-end. Avery Oliver landed one weighing eight and three-quarter pounds. This is believed to be the largest fish of its kind ever caught in Lake Simcoe.

The C.N.R. was obliged to bring a number of snowploughs into requisition on Sunday in order to clear the roadbeds. The plows were operated all day and on into the night to clear the Lindsay-Toronto and Lindsay-Haliburton lines.

Epidemic Of Colds Sweeping City

Peterborough is suffering at the present time from an epidemic of what has been described as a mild type of influenza, although most of the victims would probably quarrel with the adjective as decidedly ill-chosen. At all events the cold or la grippe or whatever it is that is causing the trouble succeeds in making those attacked thoroughly miserable and usually results in a few days off work.

Stores and factories report a fairly large number of absentees, office staffs being particularly hard hit by the prevailing epidemic.

So far the schools have escaped comparatively lightly with the attendance holding up well until now.

Overseas passenger traffic at Cherbourg, France, decreased 35 per cent in the last 12 months.

LOCAL MONARCHS COP 8-5 WIN OVER BOWMANVILLE JUNIORS

Three-Goal Lead For Locals In Group Series

Peterborough Monarchs grabbed off an 8-5 win over the big Bowmanville boys last night in Whitby and took a three-goal lead in their two-game O.H.A. junior "C" group semi-finals. Return tilt will be here on Wednesday, the winner on the round to go into group finals against Lindsay on Friday.

After piling up a 4-0 lead in the first frame, Coach Pete Vitarelli's gang saw the homesters come back strong to sew it up at 4-all as the second heat ended. The Monarchs, however, had enough left to take a 4-1 margin in a hectic third stanza to earn the decision. The winners lost Nicholls early in the first frame, when he had bones under his eye and in his nose chipped, as well as three teeth loosened—and had to retire for the rest of the game.

Play was fast, exciting and rather rough in spots. Monarchs, aside from some lax defensive work in the middle chukker, looked a little better in this hard-fought game. Their win was something of a surprise and favors them to win the semi-final series. They turned in their best team-play of the year, though not getting organized in the second. Clarke and Mortimer continued to show improvement, as the whole team sparkled. Vitarelli, Rochetta, Connelly, Mackness and Clarke went best for them, with Morrison good in goal. Morgan, Dilling, DePew and Bird stood out for Bowmanville.

The Scorers

Clarke scored the first early, aided by Nicholls and Mortimer; and Rochetta's lone effort made it 2-0. Nicholls retired hurt. Clarke took a pass from Mortimer and Mackness to counter and Rochetta scored from Vitarelli in a clean, fast first frame. Morgan tallied for Bowmanville in the second, aided by DePew, while the latter and Dilling helped Morgan count another shortly. Near the close, Bowmanville rammed home two more to tie the count, Bird counting from Wiseman and McMullen, and Dilling tallying on a pass from DePew. Each team drew three penalties. The visitors opened up again in the third to take a neat lead. Vitarelli's long shot beat the goalie, and Rochetta took Connelly's assist to counter. Mackness got another, aided by Beggs and Giardino, while Clarke counted their last one from Mackness. Dilling scored from Burkart and Morgan for the homesters as they ganged up hotly the last 10 minutes.

The teams:

Monarchs: Goal, Morrison; defence, Beggs and Giardino; centre, Rochetta; wings, Vitarelli and Connelly; alternates, Mortimer, Clarke, Mackness, Nicholls and DeCarlo.

Bowmanville: Goal, Crawford; defence, Nicholls and Burkhart; centre, DePew; wings, Morgan and Dilling; alternates, Bird, Wiseman, McMullen, Witheidge and Ward.

Referee, A. Armstrong of Oshawa.

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

Some old-fashioned pin busting was witnessed in Duffus' Alleys on Saturday night and again last evening when the A.Y.P.A. League and the Westclox Men's League went into action. The highlight in the A.Y.P.A. was a 1224 team game turned in by the Senecas. Floyd Curtis reeled off a 383 single, Mrs. Curtis contributed 208, B. Pamment, Miss Krant and W. Hill all rolled up in 200 figures to pile up the big total. The feature of last night was the sound drubbing Jack Law's team handed Beckerman's five. 3330 was the former's total pinnage and they took all the points and now share first place with Jake's team.

The individual performers were Ross Currie, Pat Hayden and Jake Beckerman of the Westclox chalk up 787 (357), 746 and 702. L. Millard of the A.Y.P.A., crashed down 776, and Miss M. Wildman of the Western Clock girls' group rolled two fine games of 254 and 226, while Miss Kinsbury of the AYPA had a smashing 662 (290-214).

Other good scores included:

The A.Y.P.A.: Miss Long 562 (233), Miss Harvie 556, Miss Pilling 544 (206), Miss Sisson 530 (216), Miss Sims 511 (247), Miss Britnell 465, Miss Curtis 454 (207), Miss Bowler 449, Miss Brand 430. Besides Millard's 776, Floyd Curtis hit 688 (383), D. Weir 696, W. Hepburn 656, D. Pearson 647, R. Gibson 646, T. Maudsley 632, R. Mason 616, I. Pearson 612, W. Hill 602.

Peterborough Lock Company League: Miss J. Clancy 519, H. Nicholls 632, A. Manley 616, L. Burke 610, C. Nicholls 600.

The Western Clock: Currie 787 (357), Hayden 746, Beckerman 702, Fowler 681 (306), McFadden 697, Tully 673, Law 682, Armstrong 650, McBride 649, Thompson 644, Chartren 629, Brady 623, Barrie 610, Duffus 609, and Goodson 601.

The Automobile League: Eric Nickson 678, Joe Detcher 653.

Aces Win 7-6 Over Omemee

Peterborough Aces nosed out a 7-6 verdict over Omemee last night in Omemee in the first of their two-in-three district playoffs. A fair-sized crowd saw an exciting tussle, with the Omemee outfit having an edge on play but the ganging-up methods of the Aces gaining them the close win in the third period. Second game will be on Monday night in the Omemee arena.

The score was 4-1 for the O's in the initial inning, but the visiting crew had a 4-1 edge in the second and won out late in the third. Heal, R. Cournyea and Wright looked best for the Aces; while Weir, F. Parsons and Jamieson stood out for the losing squad. Each team was awarded a penalty shot, but nothing came of these tries. Play was quite fast and close all the way, with the odd bit of rough stuff thrown in.

The teams:

Aces — Goal, Currie; defence, O'Leary and White; centre, Heal; wings, R. Cournyea and Wright; alternates, Mortimer, Hill, A. Cournyea, Connelly and Williams.

Omemee—Goal, Fisher; defence, T. Parsons and F. Parsons; centre, Gilbert; wings, Weir and Jamieson; alternates, Williamson, Prete, Brooks, Brockley and Ellis.

Referee—Lou LeBarr.

Summary:

First Period—
Omemee—Weir (Jamieson) 1.30
Aces—Hill 4.00
Omemee—Weir 8.00
Omemee—Brockley (Ellis) 13.00
Omemee—Brooks (Williamson, Brockley) 19.30
Penalties—Connelly, Wright.

Second Period—
Aces—O'Leary (Wright) 7.00
Omemee—Prete (Ellis) 11.30
Aces—Mortimer 1.00
Aces—Wright (R. Cournyea ..15.00
Aces—Wright (R. Cournyea) 18.00
Penalties—F. Parsons, Williams.

Third Period—

Blake Leading N.H.L. Scorers With 35 Points

MONTREAL, Feb. 21 — (CP). — Any one who thinks the plight of Montreal Canadiens couldn't be much worse might try figuring out how they'd stand if they didn't have a fellow named Blake plugging along on the left wing.

Canadiens are in the National Hockey League cellar — have been all season — but that's no fault of Hector (Toe) Blake. For the husky wingman from Northern Ontario, despite whatever handicaps go with working for a last-place club, has pulled himself right up to the top of the N.H.L.'s individual scorers.

Four in Tie.

The league's weekly statistics tonight show him with a two-point edge on the field. Toe, who gets his points by plain hard work rather than brilliancy, has a total of 35, two better than the four marksmen bunched in second place.

His two scores against New York Americans here on Saturday night served, too, to boost him into a tie with Alex. Shibicky of New York Rangers in actual goals. Each has 17, with Blake's total representing almost a fifth of his team's aggregate of 88 for the season.

Behind Blake in the scoring totals are Johnny Gottselig of Chicago Black Hawks, leader most of the season, with 14 goals and 19 assists; Syl Apps of Toronto Maple Leafs, with 13 and 20; Sweeny Schriner and Tommy Anderson of New York Americans, each with 10 and 23.

Horner Leads in Penalties.

Anderson and Schriner, according to the league's statistics, are tied for the leadership in assists, with Paul Haynes, who centres the Canadien line Blake operates on.

As usual, the penalty race is a two-man affair between Toronto's Red Horner and Art Coulter of Rangers. Horner is the top bad man with 67 minutes off the ice, while Coulter is nine minutes behind.

Digging up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Doug Brennan, ex-pro and star defenceman with the Petes last year—though a native of Havelock—is playing good hockey again this winter for the Norwood-Havelock Combines. Helping that squad forge into a Trent Valley League playoff berth. The other night against Campbellford, Brennan tallied three goals and turned in some effective blocking on the back fence. Doug can't be very far off the 40-year mark, but has always taken fine care of himself. He turned in a neat chore with the Petes last semester, and would have been a handy guy to have around this season again but Brennan declined to play unless as playing coach. He finished his pro career with N'Yawk Rangers after a lengthy period in the Pacific Coast League.

* * * * * *

Secretary Bill Hewitt of the O.H.A. states that unless the senior "B" playdowns in the O.H.A. are completed before March 6th, there will be no playoff betwixt the N.O.H.A. and the O.H.A. in this series. And it's hardly likely the senior "B" setup will be completed in les sthan two weeks, eh? Hewitt also ordered the Falls and Brantford to cut down their senior "B" series from five to three games, third one being last o'en. Falls had the idea they might win the "B" and get another crack at senior "A" playoffs—but we dunno.

* * * * * *

Adding Machine Needed

There was an alleged hockey exhibition at the Brock St. rink last p.m., but 'twas a one-sided affair indeed. The Petes managed by dint of good living, hard training, clean playing and being kind to broken-down race jockeys, to yank out a sizzling 14-3 verdict over Toronto Post Office! Yep, just a chuckle all the way. The Post Office was swamped worse than at Christmas time as the Petes pushed in their greeting cards. Goalie Brandham is probably resting up in a nice sanatorium now, and he and his buddies will grin mirthlessly whenever anyone mentions the horror of modern bombs again. They brought down their regular team, too, though they were an hour late arriving—due to bad roads. A decidedly slim crowd witnessed the debacle as the speedy Petes sailed over, through and around 'em to win the verdict very softly.

* * * * * *

A combination of circs held down the attendance, chill weather, exhibition game (and they never draw this late in the season) and maybe some cool feelings by some fans. However, the Petes had a fine workout for their senior "B" playdowns—and we trust they don't get swellheaded over the soft win. The T.H.L. mustn't be too fast these days, what? All the locals turned in a fine showing in the massacre, and the visitors tried hard. And that is about all one can say of the affair.

Whoops For Monarchs

Our junior "C" Monarchs sorta went to town down in Whitby and slapped the boys of Bowman Villa in the mush with an 8-5 score. It gives Pete Vitarelli's gang a three-goal bulge in the home-and-home, goals counting, group semi-finals. Return numbah is here tomorrow e'en and the victor goes into group playoffs 'gainst Lindsay's large Midgets on Friday. The Monarchs did fine and have popped right back into the picture after flirting with oblivion all season — and they ought to knock Bowmanville off here tomorrow. Clarke and Rochetta were the big scorers last p.m., with Vitarelli, Connelly, Mackness and Morrison also good. The whole squad, in fact. Nicholls was hurt and may be out for a time. The scrappy little Monarchs deserve a real crowd of fans here Wednesday night as three goals aren't enough to coast on and they will be battling furiously to eliminate a big, rough rival outfit.

* * * * * *

An O.H.A. mixup o nthe Whitby-Lakefield group semi-final had us balled up, too, and the game slated for Lakefield last eve will be run there Wednesday—if the O.H.A. isn't wrong again. It should pack the Legionnaires' band-box as the boys expect another torrid tussle betwixt the Argos of Whitby and the Maroon-and-White crew. The latter bunch say they have mapped out an offensive that'll give 'em a lead to carry back to Whitby on Friday. In case things slip up, it'll be the Legionnaires' last home scrap—so fans should act accordingly. We believe the Villagers can just about take the strong Argos in this short series, as Sutton and Lindsay clash in the other.

A Word From The Minors

Some Southend Hockey League dope as playoffs commence. Tonight at eight in the Sacred Heart rink, King Edward and Westend Midgets wind up their schedule, while St. Peter's and King Edward Juveniles start their two-in-three finals at nine. Third and decided intermediate playoff is at seven Thursday, Maroons and Canucks each winning a fray. Tomorrow at six sees St. Peter's and Canuck Bantams in a sudden-death semi-final, while the midget semi-finals will commence at seven bells. Won't take this loop long to clean up the loose ends now while the ice is still plenty solid.

* * * * * *

As for the Church Puck Loop. Four games were played last e'en with Murray St. Seniors winning the first final from All Saints, next one being Monday. Two juvenile jousts were run off to bust schedule ties. George St. beat All Saints to get a bye into finals, as All Saints meet Mark St. in a semi-final Thursday. Mark St. beat Park St. to settle third place. Knox is out of the bantam running but balled up that series by holding George St. to a scoreless draw. George St. now must lick Knox Thursday and then All Saints ere they make the finals with St. John's. Teams are reminded that players must have been in at least one scheduled tilt ere taking part in loop finals. Game accounts of last e'en are in tonight.

For Just $1 Loot

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Feb. 21.—(AP)—Police blame someone's long memory for the looting of the cornerstone of the Chamber of Commerce building, built in 1929. The metal box was pried out, and a dollar bill and some coins were missing.

More In Prison

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 21.—(CP)—Michigan's prison population is on the increase for the first time since prohibition days, records on file here today revealed. There are 5,091 now in prison in Michigan, 800 more than two years ago. Prison officials blamed a crime increase.

Tweed Defeats Campbellford In Close Game

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 21. — Dropping a 3 to 1 score to Tweed the locals came off second best in a Trent Valley League game here Monday night. It was their second defeat in less than a week, though playing a good brand of hockey which lacked only sufficient scoring punch to put them on top. The game didn't get started until after 9.30 owing to the bad roads which kept the visitors late, and when it finally did get underway the spectators were ready to call it a night.

There was little of the spectacular during the opening frame and the Oilers had a slight edge of the play despite the fact the enemy looked better in the rushes.

Orr and Tummon were a stone wall defence to Blake and Phillips, whose efforts during the early part o fthe season played a major part in putting the locals on the second rung of the league ladder. It may have been that the enemy defence with the benefit of previous experience checked this pair more closely or else Campbellford's power combination has slowed down. One thing is certain this pair which usually succeeds in amazing both the opposing team and the spectators were outguessed by the visitors although both worked hard, with Phillips in on every play and Blake's rifle-like shots offering Reeve plenty of trouble.

Opens Scoring.

Tweed opened the scoring as the first period drew to a climax, Ellsbury sinking the disc on a neat pass from Cournyea following a Campbellford attack. Basil Robinson played a consistently good game for the locals, leading the way for the Oilers' second line with plenty of speed and stick handling. He dogged the puck all evening and really earned their only counter of the evening when he coasted through the defence with C. Couch to take the pass and register into the corner of the net.

From the opening of the period the Oilers, led by Couch, Robinson and Free, carried the play into the visitors' territory and tested Reeve from every angle, but were unable to get in close enough to be really effective. Leal looked good as he broke away several times following a ganging attack to aim dead-on shots at Turner, who gave an excellent exhibition in the nets, being beaten on shots which gave him no chance as the winners were ahead of the Oilers' defence on the counter attacks. Phillips missed a grand opportunity to score when Donnan, who has already proved himself a powerful asset on the defence line, shot one in front of the Tweed net during an attack. So hard were the locals forcing the play that the visitors resorted on several occasions to shooting the puck down the ice from their own blue line as they were kept bottled up by a four man attack. Cournyea and Prevost starred for the winners and never missed an opportunity to swoop in on Turner following an attack, but he was right there making sensational saves.

Free was gated early in the second stanza and Donan and Robinson teamed up to gang in on the visitors, holding the edge of the play, though they were a man short. As he came back on the ice the fray began to show the first bit of life it had evidenced all evening, and as Donan tore over the blue line carrying the puck he fell on what looked like a trip.

As the third period opened Ellsbury was given a rest, and Manager West shoved out for forwards in an endeavor to even up the score, but Reeves was impregnable with shots coming at him from every angle. Prevost sank the final goal of the game on a solo effort, scored again while the loosers were all down the ice, and although Tummon was given a penalty for upsetting Robinson as he coasted in and the locals were awarded the only penalty shot of the evening Blake, whose shots had a tendency to go a little higher than usual, missed the net.

Lakefield To Meet Whitby Wednesday

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 21.—The Lakefield Legionnaires, winners of third place in the Intermediate "B" O.H.A. schedule, will meet the Whitby Argos here on Wednesday evening in their first game of the Intermediate "B" group semi-finals. The Whitby team, which is standing at the head of the league, is a tough squad to bump up against, but the Legionnaires gave them a good game on Feb. 10 and the fans are hoping that the local team will battle through for a win to-morrow evening.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

Playing on a sheet of ice that was as fast as lightning, one hundred and twelve curlers from our local club and the surrounding district commenced playing, last evening, in quest of the beautiful trophy donated by the late Robert Neill.

Right off the bat, in the preliminary round, surprises started to roll in fast and thick—and many who were favored to go a long way are already out of the principal event.

There were five games that depended on the last shot, and yet only one game out of the fourteen played went an extra end.

Play will continue this evening at 6.45 and 8.45.

There will be no "Neill" Cup games tomorrow evening, but instead we will run a little bonspiel—draw from the board at 7.30 p.m.—3 4-end games will be played, and all for 25c fee.

Stray Shots.

Ray Pratten slipped a big six over Ray Best on the second end—and that was that.

Doug Carlisle scored a six-end against J. Sedgewick, as did E. Northey against I. Hamley — and maybe they don't hurt.

George Robertson, who won 12 straight games in the schedule, was eliminated by Tommy Holyman's quartette.

Ray Bacon put Dr. J. Green, another schedule group winner, out of business without any trouble — in fact it was a bad night for the "Green" family.

George Cairns made a dead draw to the button to take a win from Alex. Kay.

A large number of spectators were on hand to witness the 'spiel, and it is expected another full house will be out tonight.

Neill Trophy Results.

Preliminary Round

Murray St. Seniors Get Playoff Win

Murray St. Seniors took a 6-1 win last night over All Saints in their first playoff game. Padgett got the first when his team was shorthanded and Whatman soon made it 2-0. Watkins added another in the third, while Johnston scored three in the third on passes from Watkins and Padgett. G. Seabrooke scored the losers' only marker. Murray St. forced play all the way with their speed. King in the losers' cage had only fair protection and saw lots of rubber. Johnston and Padgett went best for the Baptists. The teams:

Murray St.—Goal, McNabb; defence, F. Spencely, Watkins; centre, Johnston; wings, Ellis, Whatman; subs, E. Spencely, Hawks, Padgett.

All Saints—Goal, King; defence, S. Seabrooke, Beauclerc; centre, Deering; wings, Charlton, G. Seabrooke; subs, Livingstone, Saunders, Frost, Hope, Leether.

Referee—Joe Dunkerly.

Bantam Pucksters In Scoreless Draw

Knox and George St. battled to a scoreless bantam Church League draw last night at All Saints' rink, the surprise Knox showing holding George St. back from a playoff spot. This tie forces the final scheduled fray between these teams and George St. must win to get a second-place tie with All Saints. George St. had a good edge on play but Parnell was sensational in the Knox nets and stopped them repeatedly. Smith was through often but was blocked, scoring one but on an offside. Knox passed and checked well but lacked speed. The game Thursday is at six. The teams:

Referee—B. McDougall.

Milne Captures 3rd Title Trapshooting

DAYTON, Ohio, Feb. 21 (CP)—J. E. Milne of Hamilton, winner of the Ontario provincial trapshooting competition last summer for the second successive year, repeated his performance of 1937 in leading Ontario trapshooters according to official averages released here today by Ray Loring, manager of the Amateur Trapshooting Association.

Milne shot at 950 registered targets and broke 911 for an average of .9589 to lead his nearest opponent William Duffield, London, by .0029. Duffield scored 478 hits out of a possible 500. J. H. Kretschman of Hamilton, provincial handicap title holder, missed 73 targets out of 1,450 for an average of .9496 to place third.

Sam Vance of Tillsonburg, who tied for the grand American handicap title a few years ago, easily led all doubles high average gunners of the province with an average of .8654. He tied D. H. Stewart of Hamilton in the handicap targets with .8830.

Milne won the provincial title in the summer of 1938 in a shoot off with Wilf. Peters of Chatham who had tied him in the race.

Clyde To Meet Third Lanark

GLASGOW, Feb. 21.—(CP Cable.)—Clyde, surprise winner over Glasgow Rangers in Saturday's third round Scottish Football Cup games plays Third Lanark in the next stage of the competition. Fourth round matches, for which the draw was made Monday, will be played March 4 and Clyde, following its 4-1 triumph over the Light Blues, is favored to repeat against the visiting Cathkin Park squad.

Hearts and Celtic battled to a 2-2 draw at the week-end and the winner of the replay will be called on to visit Motherwell. Aberdeen will clash with Queen of the South at Pittodrie Park and Hibernians oppose either Dunfermline or Alloa, the only second division clubs remaining in the tournament.

The fourth round draw:

Motherwell vs. Hearts or Celtic.
Aberdeen vs. Queen of the South.
Hibernians vs. Dunfermline or Alloa.
Clyde vs. Third Lanark.

Woodstock Rate 38.5

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Feb. 21—(CP).—Woodstock City Council, at a special meeting which lasted until early to-day, set the 1939 tax rate for the city at 38.5 mills, a half mill reduction from the 1938 rate. This cut was made despite the fact that, assisted materially by a grant from the Public Utilities Commission, the council proposes the purchase of a modern aerial ladder truck for the fire department, and is also faced with much heavier relief costs.

PETES SWAMP A TORONTO PUCK SQUAD BY 14 TO 3 COUNT HERE

Post Office Club Badly Beaten In Exhibition Hockey Tilt Before A Slim Crowd Of Fans

The Petes swamped the Post Office puckists of Toronto by a 14-3 score here last night in an exhibition game before a slim crowd of fans. Flashing too much speed and all-around hockey ability, the locals earned the win handily from a full visiting club. It was 3-0 in the first frame and 6-1 going into the wide-open third, the homesters in the windup chapter tallying several soft ones on breakaways.

It was a clean, speedy and fairly interesting game for an exhibition affair, but the Petes looked the better club from early in the initial inning.. They were playing their best hockey, skating fast, passing and shooting well, checking back hard and throwing up a stiff defence in front of invading forwards. The Torontos—who were an hour late arriving, owing to bad roads—may have been off-form, but they never could match the Petes' speed. They tried hard, though, right to the finish.

There were no individual standouts for the locals in the one-sided tussle, all the Petes looking good. Bun Kingdon was an absentee, due to a cold. Galway, Roden, Irwin and Large looked best for the Toronto team, but the defence and goalie looked weak in this encounter.

Petes Start It

Starr scored the first on McNulty's rebound and then Creighton tallied from Crowe. Tompkins made it 3-0 before the first ended on Starr's assist. Crowe drew the only penalties, twice for minor offences in the first frame. Anderson got a goal in close for Toronto to start the second, but Gardner got it right back on Creighton's aid. McNulty and Tompkins teamed up for two nice ones before the period ended, each scoring and each having an asisst. It was a clean, lively period with no penalties and the Petes looking the smarter squad on rather rough ice.

The third canto was an odd one, with the Post Office team ganging up most of the way, but still outplayed on the offensive. The fast homesters kept tearing in on passing plays or checking and breaking loose for dangerous thrusts, and goals came thick and fast in the last half of the heat. Coughlin counted first in close and then Tompkins took a pass from McNulty to score. The latter got one on a breakaway, and Creighton got another on Coughlin's assist. Irwin scored from Roden for Toronto's second, and Gardner's long shot beat the goalie. Gray banged home a nice one on Creighton's assist, and Toronto ended the scoring when Faller scored a nice one from Robertson. Coughlin took Creighton's pass to backhand home a honey, and Tompkins tallied on a breakaway to finish it up.

The teams:

Post Office: Goal, Brandham; defence, Edwards and Robertson; centre, Galway; wings, Irwin and Roden; alternates, Cowan, Faller, Large, Anderson and Willis.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Crowe and Weir; centre, Starr; wings, Tompkins and McNulty; alternates, Creighton, Coughlin, Gardner and Gray.

Referee—Fred Heintzman of Toronto.

Remember When—

Dusky Joe Louis, only seven months a professional, knocked out Lee Ramage in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout at Los Angeles four years ago tonight. The bout was a big step in Louis' title climb which was successful in 1937 when he stopped James J. Braddock, the heavyweight champion.

Local Monarchs Here Tomorrow

Bowmanville juniors and the Peterborough Monarchs tangle here tomorrow (Wednesday) evening at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink. It is the last game of the year for one of these teams, being the second of their home-and-home O. H. A. junior "C" group semifinals. The first one was played last night between these teams in Whitby, goals counting on the round. The loser is eliminated tomorrow night, while the winner opens a best-in-three group final series in Lindsay on Friday against the Scugog Midgets. This may be the last junior hockey game seen in Peterborough this winter.

The tussle here tomorrow should draw a fine crowd of fans, as the battling young Monarchs are fighting with their backs to the wall against a husky and rough crew, picked up from all over the Lakeshore district. The Monarchs, nearly eliminated some time ago, fought back hard to nose out a good Cobourg crew and get into the semi-finals. They stand a fair chance of knocking off the bruising Bowmanville bunch here tomorrow. Fans can bank on a wildly exciting fray with both squads playing for keeps every minute. It should draw well.

"It Never Rains..."

BABE SIEBERT
JIMMY WARD

As if it wasn't bad enough to be in last place in the N.H.L. standing, Jules Dugal's still-staggering Canadiens are receiving few favorable smiles from Dame Fortune. As they went under to Boston Bruins, 5-1, in a recent game, Jimmy Ward, right wing inherited from the Maroons, suffered a shoulder injury that may put him on the shelf for the rest of the season, and Babe Siebert, defence ace and assistant to Dugal, hurt his back and retired from the game early.

Chiefs Tie G-Men In 2-2 Draw, Force 4th Game

Officials of the Oshawa and St. Catharines clubs, currently attempting to decide an opponent for Toronto Goodyears in the senior "A" division finals of the Ontario Hockey Association, will reach a decision today on the site and date for the fourth game of their drawn-out series.

Third game of the best-of-three semi-final bracket ended in a 2-2 overtime tie in Oshawa last night. The teams tied 3-3 in the opener at St. Catharines last Wednesday, while Oshawa beat the Chiefs 5-3 in overtime at Oshawa Friday.

Meanwhile, Goodyears, league champions last season, have been idle since they ousted Port Colborne Sailors Friday in the second game of their best-of-three semi-final series. They will clash with the Oshawa-St. Kitts' winners in a best-of-five series for the circuit crown.

The amazing Chiefs, who managed to squirm into the fourth and last playoff slot in their first season in the league, were the equal last night of the mighty Oshawa club, which finished the regular season in second place eased up. Penalties played an important part. Each team scored once in each of the first two periods.

St. Kitts Grab Lead

Battling gallantly in the enemy stronghold, St. Kitts scored first. The goal came midway through the first period when Ossie Carnegie, clever Negro winger, beat Peg Hurst on a pass from Rudy Pilous. Oshawa snared the equalizer 55 seconds before the end of the period. Roy Covert was the marksman on a pass out from the veteran Doc Rowden.

With less than four minutes of the second session remaining, Cliff Maundrell slipped Oshawa into a 2-1 lead while his brother Doug and St. Kitts' Chuck Williams looked on from the penalty box. LeLx Chisholm, the league's leading scorer, made the pass for the goal.

That only made the tenacious visitors fight harder and just 70 seconds later they sniped the equalizer when Pilous' shot found the net. Teddy Lister and Boyd were credited with assists. Both goalies, Hurst and Walt Coupland of St. Catharines made several brilliant stops in the scoreless third and overtime sessions.

Kingston, R.M.C. Tie

In senior "B" playoff battles, Kingston and Royal Military College battled to a 2-2 overtime tie in the first of a best-of-three series for the group title, while Niagara edged out a 2-1 win over Brantford Red Birds in the third game of their best-of-five series. The Falls lead, two games to one.

Swat Mason, a Guelph junior last season, shot the goal at Niagara Falls that won the game. It came one minute after the start of the last period on a pass from Greenwood.

Chirp Branchley shot the first Falls' goal eight minutes after the opening whistle. Red Dunne, Hamilton's gift to the Birds, tied the battle a minute later.

Brantford, who won but two games in 19 during the senior "A" schedule put up a stubborn battle throughout but were outplayed by the Falls, who finished fifth in the six team "A" circuit. The two last-place clubs automatically reverted to "B" ranks in a group of their own at the end of the "A" season.

At Kingston, third-period goals by Cadets Holmes and Brooks pulled R.M.C. level with the city team after Gow and Burtch scored for Kingston in the first two periods.

See Technician Derby Favorite

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 21.—(AP)—The Great Insco, daddy of Lawrin, is dead of accumulated ills and old age up in Missouri, but he has left another son down here named Technician that promises to carry on and add new lustre to the famous line.

At the moment Technician is co-favorite with Volitant in the $20,000 Flamingo stakes, mile and a furlong classic for three-year-olds to be run at Hialeah next Saturday, and his trainer, Ben Jones, thinks he has an excellent chance of winning both that and the Kentucky Derby.

Jones pointed out that Technician's half-brother, Lawrin, won the Flamingo a year ago and went on to capture the Derby. He thinks Technician can do it, too.

Students at Dartmouth University have a lot of fun each year with their winter carnival and one of the features is snow and ice sculpturing, in which the rah rah boys try to outdo each other with hammer and chisel. To prove their efforts are no five and ten cent affairs here's one of the students between the legs of his masterpiece, "Eleazar," dedicated, as many of the statues were, to Eleazar Wheelock, founder of Dartmouth University.

Rarin' To Go

Mic-Macs Blank Norwood 3-0

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Feb. 21. — Playing a wide-open brand of offensive hockey the Madoc-Marmora Mic-Macs shut out Norwood to the tune of 3-0. Led by Doug. Brennan, a former N.H.L. player, the Norwood squad, a far better group of players than on their last appearance here, were outplayed both offensively and defensively practically the whole game. The few times they did attack, Hollingsworth in the Madoc net outjinxed them or their shots were wild, harried by the Mic-Macs forwards who back-checked like fiends throughout the sixty minutes.

It was Hollingsworth's first shutout of the season in the T.V.L.

V. Jack of Madoc and Sabatino of Lakefield handled a clean game, only handing out two penalties on the night's play, both to Norwood for minor offences.

The Mic-Macs counted once in each period. Loveless in the first on the rebound of Kerr's shot, when Blake was out of the play, having fallen in making the first save. In the second frame, with Ibey in the cooler for roughing it, the play centred at the Norwood net, Blake saved three sure ones before Kellar, Alexander and Hall, working from ten feet out, combined for the second count. Hall getting the marker. In the third frame, after four minutes of play, Kellar wormed his way round the defence to circle the net and curve the rubber in from behind. Blake was left entirely uncovered as his defence covered up in front for a pass-out.

Hall, always a tower of defence on the homesters' line, was the best man on the ice as he broke up rush after rush of the Norwood team, and led the homesters into the offensive.

This was the last time the Mic-Macs meet the Norwood team in the regular schedule, and the locals have come out without losing a game to them.

Campbellford School Game Is Postponed

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(AP). — Baseball: There should be a break on Di Maggio within 24 hours.... Leo Durocher hit the jackpot (or whatever you do in bingo) to the tune of $662 the other night....The papers report Bob Feller, 21, is giving pitching tips to Fred Hutchinson, 20....Hank Leiber thinks the Cubs took the Giants for a buggy ride in that big winter deal and would tell Bill Terry so personally only the two aren't speaking

The 24th edition of Cliff Bloodgood's "Who's who in baseball" hits the stands this week....It's aces, as usual....Front cover is decorated by a big picture of Jimmy Foxx who was the 1938 big noise....Only thing wrong with the picture is Foxx hasn't got a plaque in his hand.

Football competition will be so stiff at Northwestern that Billy De Correvont, 1937's all American prepper, may find himself on the third starting team....Big Ten coaches have boils on their necks trying to dope out how Dr. Jimmy Phelan gets all those Chicago district stars out at Washington. What do you make of that one, Watson?

Forrest Efaw of Oklahoma A. and M. fell so far behind in the two-miles race at the Garden Saturday night, one guy cracked: "E-Faw down" . . . Clair Bee, Long Island University basketball coach, attended a cage clinic at Danbury, Conn. (the hat centre) the other night and came home with 18 lids....Last year Morey Lewis, the Kenyon College netter, entered the United States indoor tennis singles simply as "P. Morey Lewis." This year he put on the old ritz and signed his entry blank "Pride Morey Lewis III" ....We just can't wait till 1940

PRISONERS TO WHISTLE

LONDON—(CP).—Called by their examiner the best candidates he had ever examined, five inmates of a Borstal (reformatory) institution are to become football referees.

Chelsea To Meet Grimsby Town

LONDON, Feb. 21.—(CP Cable)—Chelsea and Blackburn Rovers qualified Monday for the sixth round of the English Football Cup. Both teams had been forced to three games to settle fifth-round arguments.

Playing on Arsenal's ground at Highbury, Chelsea eliminated Sheffield Wednesday 3-1 and the second division Blackburn team scored the only goal of the game with Sunderland in overtime. The match was played on Sheffield Wednesday's enclosure.

In the first Chelsea-Wednesday battle at Stamford Bridge the teams drew 1-1, the replay at Sheffield resulting in a scoreless draw. Sunderland and Blackburn Rovers drew 1-1 in the first encounter at Sunderland and the teams failed to score in the replay at Blackburn.

The revised sixth-round draw:

Chelsea vs Grimsby Town

Wolverhampton Wanderers vs Everton.

Huddersfield Town vs Blackburn Rovers.

Portsmouth vs Preston North End.

With The Boy Scouts

Local Association.

At a meeting of the association on Wednesday last three more groups had their registration O.K., but it was noted that several had not yet completed.

Mr. Lyburn, badge secretary, brought to the notice of the association a report from the provincial commissioner, that no cub, scout or rover could obtain official badges unless the group was properly registered and the charter renewed. Any group officer who was neglecting this duty was penalizing his boys and should endeavor to get this matter cleared up without further delay.

Mr. Ottowell has obtained a splendid picture of the King and Queen, which is to be framed and placed in the association headquarters as soon as possible.

We regret to learn that both Commissioner Hornsby and Assistant Commissioner Wolfe were unable to attend owing to illness.

At The Rover Council.

Arrangements are going ahead to have a scout concert for the purpose of raising funds to assist in the sending of rover representatives to the world rover moot in Scotland next July. It would be appreciated if any cub, scout or rover who is willing to assist with his talent in the cause, whether it be with song, instrument or dance, phone 3067 and state qualifications.

Also, when final arrangements have been made, we will appeal to your co-operation in a ticket-selling campaign.

If every boy attached to the scout organization in this city sold two or more tickets the affair would go over the top.

The council are holding another special meeting at 7 p.m. sharp in the 1st Peterborough Rover headquarters, Aylmer street, on Tuesday evening, to try and settle where the concert will be held.

St. James'

We are glad to welcome St. James' in the column this week after an absence of months. We understand that the mothers' auxiliary have taken it in their hands to raise the funds by which to purchase the new headquarters, and have secured George Street case to put on their play, "Wild Ginger," in the St. James' Sunday school on the evening of March 3, and would ask all who can to reserve that date to assist along the good cause. This play has been met with packed halls wherever it has been put on and is worth while seeing.

We congratulate the mothers' auxiliary for their splendid efforts and trust that the fathers will take notice and soon form a group committee worth while.

All Saints'

The boys of the troop were sorry their scouter was absent and could not see the winners in the "pick up stick" campaign operated with scout staves. There were about twenty boys and officers on hand.

Only four boys of the troop turned up at the life saving class at the Y.M.C.A., two of these making the grade in the tests, so that both the Beavers and the Bulldogs have a representative in the class.

That honor pennant will be hard to hold if they don't stretch their wings and do some good flying.

The Beaver patrol are requested to be in headquarters at 7.30 p.m. sharp next Friday.

Attention Everybody.

Wednesday is "B.P.'s" birthday. Our Chief Scout, Lord Baden Powell of Gilwell wil lhold his 82nd birthday anniversary, and I am sure all will join in extending to him our sincere good wishes for his health and happiness and congratulations on this day.

On Thursday, from 5.45 to6 p.m. Lord Somers, deputy chief scout, will be heard from London, England, in a broadcast to the scouts of the world.

St. John's.

The rover crew had as special speaker, the Rev. R. T. P. Brain; the topic being, "Who Is God." This is the second of a series that are conducted by the group chaplain.

Rover Scout Peter Dominic was guest of the evening and it was later decided that Pete would be attached to St. John's until a crew is started at Sacred Heart, and we congratulate St. John's on their decision.

The troop were without the scouter, who was confined to his home with a cold, but carried on as usual. Inspection of the right trouser's pocket did not reveal any dangerous implements such as nails or bent pins.

Each patrol leader did his part in charge of exercises. Instruction was given on the use of the scout staff and tests in Kim's game. Signalling and compass work was carried out, Jack White being successful in passing the latter test. Boat and relay races were played, the camp fire being a good practice of, some new songs with Fred Hooper at the piano.

On Saturday eight members of the troop went hiking Bear's Creek way. George Duck and Jim Hooper passed their fire lighting tests.

A great deal of fun was enjoyed dodging in and out among the snow drifts. All returned home tired but contented with another real scout afternoon spent in the great outdoors.—The Skipper.

Mark St. Wins 7-2 In Church Contest

Mark St. Juveniles grabbed off a 7-2 Church League win over Park St. last night, D. Eason and Scriver making the main difference—it being 8-1 against them last time with this pair away. Mark St. now meet All Saints on Thursday in a sudden-death game. D. Eason scored three, Robinson two and Agnew and Scriver one each. Agnew also scored on his own goalie with J. Ainslie notching the other. Cox and R. Ainslie went best for the losing players, who were badly outplayed, especially in the middle chapter. The teams:

Mark St.—Goal, Ralph; defence, Agnew, Scriver; centre, E. Eason; wings, Robinson, Curtis; subs, C. Eason, Harriss.

Referee, T. Worsencroft.

C.G.E. Gym Club Stages Opening

The opening night of the C.G.E. Gymnastic Club was held last night in the Armouries. It was pointed out that the exhibition was held to show friends, members and the public what the club's work consisted of, its progress and to get suggestions. Working in conjunction with the Social and Athletic Club of the company, it plans to develop sports with the intention of entering competitors in Provincial and Dominion meets. Fred Fleming, secretary, outlined plans in a speech.

Exhibitions in shadow boxing, skipping and general gym work were enjoyed, while the girls' fencing proved quite interesting and instructive. Some boxing was indulged in, also, as a light workout. The fencing, which drew applause, saw a keenly-contested joust between Mary Cathcart and Jean Bartley; another good one between Roger Varier and Ted Tompkins; a foil-fencing exhibition by A. Leger and Bob Ramsay; with a speedy scientific bout feature Varier and Ramsey later. Marg LaPlante took part in fencing exercises and acted also as a second.

In the boxing bouts, Scotty Keith and George Bowen showed a lot of promise in the first till. Bob Hallida yand Don Church went on next, and with a little more training this pair should be heard from in the ring. Bert Prince and Harold Keith gave spectators a fine bout, lively all the way. Mal Fakenham and Bill Flint showed gloved experience, speed and science in a swell scrap. Norm McIlmoyle and George Douglas looked good, Norm having too much experience and carrying the fight, though Douglas had willingness and earned a hand for his work. Bill Horrocks was in charge with Paul Hillier and Reg. Lesur putting the boys through their paces.

George St. Squad Gets Close Win

George St. Juveniles nosed out All Saints, 4-3, last night in a Church Loop game, breaking a tie for first place and getting a playoff bye. All Saints now meet Mark St. for a playoff berth. The E. Routley-Hamilton combine again won the contest, their speed proving effective. The losers had more teamplay but a lapse in the second allowed George St. to tie it up. All Saints got two in the first when Hill and Robinson scored but George St. got three next heat as Routley, Henry and Hamilton counted. Routley got another in the third and All Saints ganged up near the end Reid counted one. Both goalies looked good in a busy evening. The teams:

All Saints—Goal, Spooner; defence, Abraham, Lacheur; centre, Robinson; wings, Reid, Ackford; subs, Maudsley, McAdams, Hill, Nattress.

George St.—Goal Richardson; defence, Roberts, Henry; centre, E. Routley; wings, L. Routley, Hamilton; sub, Powell.

Referee, K. Johnston.

Blamed In Murder

JOLIETTE, Que., Feb. 21.—(CP)—Raymond Gagne, alias Blanchette, 23, last night was found criminally responsible by a coroner's jury investigating the death of George Roberts, 55, found a week ago with his skull crushed in the cellar of Joliette's Presbyterian school, where he was employed as janitor.

Gagne was held by police as a material witness after more than 50 persons were questioned.

Hillbilly Drama Wins Favor Hastings Crowd

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 21. — A three-act play entitled "Hillbilly Courtship" in real hillbilly style was put on in the town hall here Friday night by the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. The play was well received and was well acted by members of the society. Rev. D. K. Perrie acted as chairman for the evening and introduced actors as they walked across the stage before the performance.

The play was centered about the hill folk who live in the mountains in the Southern States and was a laugh from start to finish as the situations presented themselves.

The widow Peppin (Mrs. Rita Johnston) and the deaf old pappy Sunday (Francis Kennedy) have threatened to shoot each other on sight as their verbal mountain feud rages on.

To make matters worse, Pappy's son Luke (James Moore) and Maw Peppins' daughter, Emmy (Lillian Dodd) a... in love with each other. The two old feudists have been planning second matrimony ventures, and each has secretly engaged Wash Jeddo (Fred Hand), the half witted village scribe, to write a matrimonial bureau for a mate.

Wash has enclosed Emmy's picture in Maw's letter, and Luke's in Pappy's, signing their respective names instead of Maw's and Pappy's. Meanwhile the mountain is all agog over the home-coming of the Triffet girls, Lulu and Seedie, (Marjory Dodd and Evelyn Moore) radio's newest hillbilly sensation, who bring their manager, Sol Silverstein, (Roy Johnson) in the quest of more hillbilly entertainers. When Sol attempts to sign Maw on the dotted line, she mistakes him for an answer to her letter and takes a jump at the chance. Complications set in as one of the Triffet sisters tries to vamp Luke. In the meantime a very wild Irish Rose (Mrs. Stewart Whitred) and a temperamental Italian lad, (James Duff) arrive from the matrimonial bureaus to claim their mates.

Luke and Emmy are apparently dumfounded as Hog Mountain is transformed into a riotous courtship. In the midst of the turmoil, Pappy comes to settle his score with Maw and is captured by the wild Irish Rose in her wildest moment. With Pappy and Luke securely tied to a settee, Maw sends for the preacher man, Reverend Boswell, (Stanley Fife) whereupon several disclosures followed and the hullabulloo subsided. The mates are properly selected, a triumph of hillbilly dexterity, and Sol signs up enough hillbilly warblers to start a grand opera, climaxing the affair.

V.C.'s To Meet King

TORONTO, Feb. 21 — (CP). — Ontario Victoria Cross winners, except those living in Ottawa, will be presented to the King and Queen in the Ontario Legislature Chamber during the Royal visit to Toronto in May, Acting Premier Harry Nixon said to-day. Ottawa V.C.'s will be presented in the Capital.

Constipated? Then Ask Yourself This Question!

If constipation has you bogged down so you feel tired, low, all played out . . . it's time you asked yourself a question!

What have you had to eat lately? Just meat, bread, eggs, potatoes? It's no surprise you're constipated! The chances are you don't get enough "bulk" in your diet. And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food but a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body . . . that leaves a soft "bulky" mass and helps a bowel movement.

Kellogg's All-Bran is a tasteful ready-to-eat cereal. It supplies the "bulk" you need plus Vitamin B1, which helps tone the intestines.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and gain a new lease on life! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in London, Can. Sold by every grocer.

Locomotive Runs Away Crashes Passenger Killing 2, Hurting 23

Harlan, Ia., Feb. 21 (AP)

THE wild down-grade dash of a "riderless" locomotive into a speeding Minneapolis-bound passenger train, resulting in two deaths and injury to 23 persons, claimed attention of federal, state and railroad investigators here today.

Killed late Saturday night in the weird accident on the Great Western Line near here were Henry Miller, engineer and A. D. Sellers, fireman, both of Clarion, Ia., and both on the passenger engine.

The stage for the terrific head-one crash was set when a freight locomotive got away from its crew near Tennant, Ia., four miles from the scene of the impact.

General Is Shot, Peru Coup Ends

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 21 — (AP) — Precautionary measures were enforced today following a short-lived attempt by General Antonio Rodrigues, minister of the interior, to seize the government in the absence of his old friend, President Oscar Benavides.

General Rodriguez was killed by Seargeant Major Rizo Patron who challenged Rodrigues' assertions that he was head of the government because Benavides was sailing for Europe. One police officer, two patrolmen and a Japanese pedestrian were reported killed and 36 persons wounded in the brief fighting that followed.

The attempted coup d'etat occurred about 2 a.m. yesterday when the General seized the presidential palace, proclaimed himself head of the government and issued manifestoes explaining his plans for far-reaching measures to replace the Benavides administration Rodrigues ordered Captain Ismodes, chief of the machine-gun section quartered at the palace, to relinquish the command to a new chief.

Ismodes, pretending to follow the orders, telephone presidential quarters for troops, locked himself in a tower and trained machine-guns on the palace entrance until soldiers arrived to assume strategic positions about the palace.

Shot By Sergeant

Rodriguez' death at the hands of Rizo Patron, leader of the first troops to arrive apparently ended the movement. A few aides and Circilo Ortega, a retired general, were associated with Rodriguez, a communique said.

Rodriguez, considered one of the president's staunchest friends and supporters, escorted Benavides to Callo Saturday when a party of government officials boarded a naval transport for a three-day holiday. He embraced the president and wished him a happy trip.

The president hurried back to Lima when advised of the attempted coup, and called a special cabinet meeting. Premier Brigadier General Ernesto Montagne took what were called the "most urgent" precautions although Lima residents, beginning their carnival season in summer heat, remained calm. A communique by Montagne said a normal situation was restored and that "some few Insurgents lost their lives."

Cavan Hockey Club Holds Euchre Party

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, Feb. 21. — On Wednesday night the boys' hockey club held a euchre party and dance in the Community Hall. Ten tables were in use for the play. The winners of the first prizes were Mrs. Norman Braithwaite and Mr. Peoples. Consolation prizes were awarded to Miss Mary Staples and Frank Braithwaite.

Afterwards dancing was enjoyed with the Sutton boys supplying the music. Lunch was sold by the boys.

Mrs. Ira Gillis, who had been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leach, in Peterborough, returned home on Wednesday.

The Women's Institute, which was to have met at the home of Mrs. A. B. Kennedy on Thursday, was indefinitely postponed because of the weather.

FELT TIRED . . . RUNDOWN STOMACH OUT OF ORDER

West Monkton Lady Relates How Syntona Improved Appetite, Digestion and General Health, Sleeps Better Now and has More Energy.

MRS. WM. HOLMAN

All around us are grateful men and women who have taken Syntona and found it to be just what they needed to put new energy in their rundown systems and to relieve common ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Syntona produces these results by cleansing the system of excess acids and poisonous waste matter and by aiding in the proper assimilation of food to build strong, healthy nerves and sound bodies.

Here is the interesting experience of Mrs. William Holman, well-known West Monkton lady, as reported recently.

"For the past eighteen months I was afflicted with a stomach ailment which caused sourness and a burning feeling. I had to pick and choose my food and finally I got so that even the slightest food upset my digestion and as a result I became [illegible] and lacked energy.

[illegible] had taken Syntona with good results so I tried it too and I was surprised at how quickly and pleasantly it acted. Now, after taking several bottles, I can eat well and my food digests without all that distress afterwards. My strength and vitality have returned and I feel better in every way than I did in a long, long time. I think very highly of Syntona after what it has done fore me."

Come to Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, and find out for yourself all about this grand new medicine that is helping so many people.

King And Queen Will Bring Crowns On Visit

LONDON, Feb. 21—(Special). — When the King and Queen go to Canada in the spring it has been decided that they shall take Royal crowns with them. This will be the first time in history that the British Crown Jewels have crossed the Atlantic.

Most likely the crown to be taken by the King will be the Imperial State Crown, which has been altered to suit and which he has already worn three times.

It contains a pair of Queen Elizabeth's earrings and the romantic Stuart sapphire smuggled out of the country by James II. and restored to the Crown years afterwards.

The Queen's Crown which she will take has the Koh-i-noor diamond set in it.

It is made of platinum and set entirely with diamonds. It has detachable arches so that it can be worn as an open cornet.

The Queen will be able to detach the Koh-i-noor from her crown and wear it on other occasions pinned to her dress.

Specially Designed.

An interesting tradition about the famous stone and one always respected by the Royal Family, is that it must only be worn by a woman for fear of an ancient curse.

Tremendous efforts are being made both from Canada and the United States to penetrate the closely guarded secrets of the dresses which have been specially designed for the Queen. As much as £1,000 has been offered for a model of one dress.

No details are to be made known until the Queen actually appears in them, but this much is hinted—they will launch new vogues.

The Queen will take fifty gowns and coats with her and a hat for each day ensemble. On some days she will wear three different outfits and the crowded schedule demands that these changes shall be made with the maximum speed possible.

Effective on Paris Visit.

Here is a forecast of the trends which the Queen's clothes will follow:

Colors will include no black, but some black and white, a good deal of white which proved so effective on the Paris visit, several shades of blue, which has been her favorite color from girlhood, and pastel tints.

Daytime lines will be based on neat defined waists, flared skirts, and shorter hemlines.

"Garden party" gowns will be included, some short-sleeved to be worn with elbow length gloves.

For summery dresses modernistic designs are ruled out; natural flowered patterns will be featured.

Hats while actually fairly flat will be built-up in the crown to give an impression of height. This effect will be achieved partially by artificial flowers so natural that they could be mistaken for the real thing instead of feather trimmings such as the Queen has been wearing lately.

Fur trimming will be less in evidence than in the past, but the Queen will take with her several handsome furs.

A marked difference is anticipated between the clothes designs for Canada and those to be worn in the U.S.A.

The reason for this is that Canadians have expressed the wish that their Queen shall look as "regal" as possible, while in the United States the King and Queen will be regarded as the head of a friendly nation and his consort rather than as state-visiting royalty.

Plan Day Of Prayer At Warsaw Church

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, February 21. — A fairly good representation of local farmers gathered to hear the addresses on Farmers' Cooperation. One lady speaker and two men each gave very interesting talks and urged cooperation among the farmers in their crops, buying and selling.

Between addresses Miss Lenore McIlvena sang and Mr. Wallace Anderson gave a little appreciative address and recited "Leaving the Farm".

Women's Institute members served sandwiches and coffee and matters of cooperation were discussed in a social manner.

The junior league hockey boys held their dance on Tuesday evening. The crowd was not large but perhaps for that reason it was very enjoyable.

Zion people held their annual oyster supper on Tuesday evening in the hall, followed by an amusing Major Bowes program in the church. Rev. Mr. Wilkinson introduced Mr. Garfield Crowe as Major Bowes.

Representative ladies from the various churches in the area met at Mrs. J. A. Crowe's home on Monday afternoon to complete plans for the World's Day of Prayer service which will be held in St. Mark's church, Warsaw on Friday, February 24, unless the weather is too rough, then in some other place in the village.

Cecil Beryl, aged 10 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bennet, at the head of the lake, died at his home on Wednesday. He had been a sufferer nearly all his baby life. Everything that could be done had been. The funeral services at the house and at the grave in Lakefield cemetery were conducted by Rev. J. W. Wilkinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Latta Sr. and Mrs. D. Latta spent the week-end in Belleville, returning on Tuesday.

Mr. Gordon Payne went to Peterborough on Monday on jury duty. He returned home on Wednesday.

Roosevelt Leading States Into War Charges Ciano's Rome Press

ROME, Feb. 21—(AP).—Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano's newspaper, Il Telegrafo, charged to-day that an "Imperialistic, puritan minority" of American leaders, headed by President Roosevelt, was starting the United States toward a "democratic war."

Giovanni Sansaldo, in the paper's leading editorial, wrote that the "arming of American minds, even more dangerous than enormous material armaments," failed, to impress Italians.

The editorial appeared as Marshal Pietro Badoglio, chief of the Italian general staff, arrived in Libya on a mission which foreign observers believed had some connection with recent troop reinforcements in that Italian territory adjoining Tunisia, French North African protectorate.

Ansaldo said that an "Imperialistic Anglo-Saxon minority excited by a man like Roosevelt, who belongs without doubt to a race of great preachers of war, is beginning to rise up again and consider inevitable a new historic demonstration of America's mission and new intervention to make the world safe for democracy."

Prey of Propaganda.

A great majority of Americans, he said, were the prey of propaganda because their origins, mentalities and interests differed too widely for them to form their own public opinion on international affairs, especially those of Europe.

In general, Americans are ignorant of, or indifferent to, Europe, the writer went on, with a "very determined Aglo-Saxon minority holding the reins."

"This minority furnishes nearly all the leaders of the two major parties, nearly all congressmen and senators and all presidents," he said, and is "imbued with an imperialistic and puritanical spirit and is convinced that it has the last secrets of political wisdom in the 21 articles of the American constitution, that America and her mission to make the world safe for democracy, and that America's force, power and eventual victory in the field mean the triumph of justice and morality."

"Any divergence from democratic practices by other peoples appears to be an offence. Any reasonable request of other peoples for a place in the sun appears to be a threat. The old leaven of the puritan covenant is working in the leading minority so that it is beginning to act with missionary and propagandistic vigor of extreme violence in favor of intervention and a democratic war. And now it is headed toward a precipice."

Express Kills Horse Pal Evens Up, Kick Breaks Brakes

Halifax, Feb. 21 (CP)

PASSENGERS on the Canadian National Railways crack train, the Ocean Limited from Montreal, had a new story of the ancient train-animal feud to tell when the limited arrived last night behind schedule.

According to passengers, a horse lashed out with its hind legs at the train and broke part of the air brake system. There was a delay till repairs were effected.

The Limited, already late due to heavy snow in Quebec, reached a point north of Truro when horses escaped from a stock car on a siding and wandered onto the main line. One animal was killed and a companion dealt the healthy kick to the braking apparatus.

Springville Supper Has Movie Treat

(Examiner Correspondence.)

SPRINGVILLE, Feb. 21.—A very successful meat pie supper was held in the basement of the Springville United church on Wednesday evening. It was sponsored by the W.M.S. and although the weather was rather unfavorable there was a splendid attendance.

A most enjoyable program was provided. Miss Doris Schewchuck who is attending the Peterborough Normal School sang Ukrainian songs in her native costume. She was accompanied for her first numbers by Miss Laura Neals and then to her own accompaniment sang some Ukrainian folk songs.

The society had as their guests Drs. Magee and Moffatt of Peterborough. Dr. Magee spoke briefly on his experiences as a ship surgeon on a boat calling at the islands of the West Indies, Trinidad and British Guiana. This was followed by colored moving pictures of these different islands, some of the ocean and sunset views being exceptionally beautiful.

Dr. Magee also had a film taken while he and Dr. Moffatt were in England. This showed scenes of the Jubilee procession and the maiden voyage of the Queen Mary. Mr. W. R. Moffatt, who was in Peterborough a short time ago very kindly sent Dr. Magee some of his films of India, which were shown also. These also were beautiful and especially interesting from a missionary standpoint. Mr. Moffatt has stressed the work of the missionaries and has interspersed the different scenes with explanations of the work being carried on by the Christian missions.

Crew Drifts 3 Days In Crippled Craft Before Freighter Makes Rescue

HALIFAX, Feb. 21—(CP).—A tale of shipwreck and rescue in a raging Atlantic gale was related by members of the crew of the Nova Scotia schooner St. Clair Theriault when they arrived here during the week-end from England.

The schooner, owned by John Parker of North Sydney and commanded by Capt. E. O. Fudge, was set afire as a menace to navigation after the crew was taken off by a New Zealand ship off the Irish coast in gales late last month.

Capt. Fudge said after his arrival on the liner Montclare Saturday night the crew lost most of their belongings. Sailors walked off the Montclare carrying duffel bags and an assortment of suitcases.

"We left Ballina, Ireland, on January 5 en route to Halifax," said an unidentified crew member, "and seven days later we met with terrific squalls and gales. We were boarded by heavy seas. Our lifeboat was the first to go and then the dory. Smashing seas broke the bulwarks on one side and finally the rudder became unshipped. We drifted for three days like that.

"The weather was foul. Several ships passed us and could not render aid. Finally the New Zealand Shipping Company freighter Hertford sighted us. She stood by for 24 hours before she took us off. They smashed a lifeboat in the first attempt. Finally they got us off. The schooner was set afire and down she went."

Church Officers Re-elected Vestry Meeting

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, Feb. 21.—The annual vestry meeting of St. Mark's Church was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Davis on Monday evening. Rev. R. T. F. Brain of Peterborough presided. V. Jackson acted as vestry clerk.

After an opening prayer, the financial report was given by Gordon Cuffe, the people's warden. The report was satisfactory and showed a small balance on hand.

An encouraging report of the past year's work by the Ladies' Guild was given by the secretary, Mrs. Tom Davis.

V. Jackson gave the cemetery report. Last year's officers were all returned to office for this year:

Rector's warden, Tom Davis; people's warden, Gordon Cuffe; lay delegate to Synod, Tom Davis; V. Jackson, secretary-treasurer for the cemetery.

Mr. Brain thanked all for their co-operation during the past year. He then closed the meeting with prayer.

The ladies served a delicious lunch and a very enjoyable half-hour was spent.

Personals.

Hilliard Clements went to Toronto on Friday.

Mrs. W. S. Anderson is much better, but will not be home for a little while yet.

Valentine Supper Is Held In Bailieboro

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BAILIEBORO, Feb. 21.—Christ Church held its annual Valentine supper in the basement on Tuesday evening. After all had partaken of a bountiful supper, the Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson presided for the program which consisted of piano solos by Mr. Jack Staples; Misses Ilean Thompson and Maretta Elgar and Gwen Wright, vocal numbers; Mrs. Jos. Jackson, delighted the audience with a reading entitled "Poetical Courtship." Harold Lunney gave several guitar numbers, Mrs. Fred Wood and Dorothy Jackson gave readings. The accompanist of the evening were Miss Jean Dawson and Mrs. Will Lunney.

Sleighing Party

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Jackson were hosts Thursday evening for a sleighing party, to and from the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Johnston, with all the old time fun of bells and horns to liven up the going and coming.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston welcomed their guests numbering twenty in all, five tables of euchre being played. High score was won by George Fletcher, with consolation going to Alf. Jackson. The hostess assisted by Mrs. Roy Greer served a delightful lunch at the social hour, after which all enjoyed the ride home in the bob sleigh.

Personals

Mrs. Gerald Dawson, Mrs. Maud Wallace and Mrs. George Fletcher were visitors to Port Hope Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Jean Dawson returned home Tuesday from visiting her sister, Mrs. McCullough of Cavan.

Mrs. Isaac Lunney of Campbellcroft is visiting her brother, Mr. James Roddy and Mrs. Roddy.

Mr. and Mrs. Offa Williamson entertained at the tea hour Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. James Roddy, Mrs. Isaac Lunney, Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Rutherford, Mr. and Mrs. George Fletcher and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jewison.

Owing to road conditions, cars are unable to get through some sections, especially the east and west roads are the worst, since Wednesday snow storm.

Present Floor Show At Harwood Dance

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HARWOOD, Feb. 21. — Town hall here was packed to capacity when the annual Valentine euchre and dance was held this week. The affair was sponsored by the Harwood Woman's Institute and was a decided success. The hall was decorated with hearts, arrows and streamers. Progressive euchre was enjoyed from 8 to 10 o'clock. First prize for women was won by Mrs. Alex Stevenson and second award went to Mrs. Russel Johnston. Tom Barret was successful in winning the gents' first while Elmer Sherwin took second. Consolation prizes were won by Mrs. H. Minifee and Jim Callahan.

At 10 o'clock the flor was cleared and an orchestra from Lindsay delighted the gathering with their snappy music. At midnight refreshments were served and the windup number was a 20-minute floor show by the orchestra.

Ladies' prize was won by Miss Orba Calicutt whose birthday was nearest the lucky date, Feb. 14th. Keith Hayser won the gent's prize. These two dates being the W. I. annual events, the euchre and dance and Hallowe'en masquerade. The proceeds amounted to well over $50.

13 Skiers Hurt

LAC BEUPORT, Que., Feb. 21.—(CP).—At least 13 skiers were injured during the weekend on steep mountain slopes at this winter resort, 12 miles north of Quebec City.

In the provincial ski championships which closed yesterday two competitors—Lamont B. Page of Shawinigan and Bill Waller of Quebec—were hurt seriously.

Worst Storm Of Winter Blocks Roads Of Prairie Provinces

Winnipeg, Feb. 21 (CP)

SNOW PLOUGHS and working crews today battled snowdrifts on Manitoba and Saskatchewan highways and streets after the worst storm of the winter. It is hoped to have main highways cleared by early afternoon.

All bus services out of winnipeg, excepting one short run, were cancelled Sunday. Trans-Canada Air Lines' westbound plane from Montreal, due here early last night, was forced to remain at Toronto. Plane services between Winnipeg and Chicago were cancelled.

Victim Of Sub Torpedoed Ship Asks Aid

'Sinking' Says Call Over Atlantic; Craft Is Unknown

CHATHAM, Mass., Feb. 22—(AP).—The radio marine corporation today reported receipts of a message from the S.S. Tulsa telling of the torpedoing of a ship, described as Pecc, about 200 miles south of the Azores. The message said the vessel was sinking.

Radio officials said Pecc were the call letters of the ship in distress but that the Tulsa did not otherwise identify it.

The message read:—

The position of the sinking vessel was given as 32:10 north by 37:45 west.

Not Listed

NEW YORK, Feb 22 — (AP). — Mackay radio said that no such letters as "PECC" were listed in the Berne list of call signals for ships at sea.

The S.S. Tulsa in a message picked up by the Chatham station of the radiomarine corporation said a ship using those call letters had been torpedoed near the Azores.

1,200 Miles Off Africa

Te message, received from the American freighter Tulsa, said she had picked up an S O S from a ship giving the call letters PECC, reporting she had been torpedoed and was sinking about 1,200 miles northwest of the African coast.

Naval headquarters at Boston said call letters beginning with "P" usually were assigned to ships of the Netherlands registry.

The ship gave her position as latitude 32:10 North, longitude 37:45 West, placing her about 550 miles southeast of the nearest Canary Island and 1,100 miles west of Madeira.

The position was considerably to the south of the steamship lane followed by vessels taking the so-called southern winter route, by way of the Azores.

New Tank Aimed At Machine Guns

LONDON, Feb. 22—(AP)—The war office showed to a group of members of parliament to-day a secret tank of new design, said to be "considerably in advance of those in foreign countries."

A demonstration of the army's latest fighting machines was staged at Aldershot under close military guard to ensure that no unauthorized persons were present.

The new tank has a longer body than previous tanks and mounts guns in a revolving turret. Its main task, experts said, is to deal with hostile machine guns.

During the demonstration it charged up a rough muddy hill at high speed before a party of 140 members of the House of Lords and House of Commons. Photographers were not permitted and details of armor and construction were withheld.

Jap Settlers Want More, Better Wives

TOKYO, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Japanese settlers along Brazil's Amazon River want more and better-trained wives. Some are to be taken care of.

Jotaro Tsuji, manager of the Amazonia Industry Company, a Japanese concern, returned recently and told the Tokyo newspaper Asahi that the settlers had appealed for establishment of a bride's training school.

He said the majority of some 200,000 settlers were wifeless. A new training school is scheduled to open in April with a class of 50. Such schools in Japan are numerous but most of them are devoted to preparing girls for life in Manchoukuo, where the demand for wives is even greater.

1 Dead, 31 Injured In Glasgow Train Smash

A coach of one train was partly telescoped and debris was strewn about the line. The accident occured near the entrance to a tunnel, making rescue operations difficult.

First aid men, police and railway workers released imprisoned passengers and calmed many frightened girls who were on their way to work.

A fleet of ambulances took the injured to hospitals.

The passenger killed was John Findlay, 60, of Glasgow. He was a clerk in the Ellerman and City Steamship Line. Findlay's leg was severed at the instant of the crash.

Coaches Upset In Tunnel.

George Inman, a passenger, travelling in the Balloch train, said there was a terrific crash as they came up alongside the Maryhill train. Some of the coaches overturned in the tunnel, which was completely blocked.

Rescuers broke through the roofs of overturned carriages and lifted the passengers out, handing them down to the ambulance men and other rescue workers on the platform.

David Murray of Glasgow, another passengers, said: "There was a terrific impact. The carriage was thrown over on its side and we all tumbled on top of each other. A woman sitting opposite me was hurled feet first through the window. She had a remarkable escape and received only slight cuts on the legs. I managed to scramble through a broken window. The lack of light at the mouth of the tunnel magnified the horror of the crash."

The following were among the injured: Elizabeth McGuinness, Margaret Ewing, Mary Madden, John McBride, John Holmes, James Cunningham, Margaret McGuigan, Catherine Wylie, Margaret Blewer, Margaret Spence Patrick, Margaret Nicol, John Stone, Charles McBride, John Burns, Walter Bradbury, David Horne, William Houden, William Graham, Lynda Brock, John McKirdey, James Hunter, John Devlin, Margaret McLeod and Annie McKenzie, all of Glasgow.

Also injured were Thomas McLean of Old Kilpatrick, Elizabeth and Margaret Hosey of Dumbarton, Sarah Grieve of Alexandria, Dumbartonshire, James McLintock and Margaret McLintock of Clydebank, and Elizabeth Chalmers of East Kilbride.

Last Minute News Flashes

LONDON.—The British government decided today to demand indemnities from Japan for the bombing of a railway station in Hong Kong yesterday. Great Britain takes a serious view of the Japanese attack. It is understood the Japanese authorities at Canton offered apologies for the incident but Great Britain insisted that they come from Tokyo.

Large British Army For France?

Hint Given Commons As Borrowing Powers Are Doubled

LONDON, Feb. 22. — (AP). — Disclosure that the British and French general staffs were "continuing conversations" and a hint that Great Britain might send another large army to the continent in the event of war emerged today from the two days of defence debate in the House of Commons.

Without a record vote the House granted the government authority to double its borrowing powers for defence this year, increasing the limit from £400,000,000 ($1,980,000,000) to £800,000,000.

Virtually every member of the House agreed that vast and speedy rearmament was necessary.

There have been widespread reports that Britain planned to change radically her military policy from that followed in the Great War.

According to this theory she would send a huge naval fleet and airforce where they were needed most but would not raise a big army to send to the continent.

W. S. Morrison, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, speaking for the first time as the representative of Lord Chatfield, Minister for Coordination of Defence, indicated otherwise last night. He told the House that "once involved in war, we could not proceed upon a principle of limited liability."

Gives Few Details.

Mr. Morrison did not elaborate on the British-French staff talks, but presumably they were concerned with eventualities which might arise from the unsettled Spanish and Mediterranean situation, revolving about Italian agitation for French African colonial territory.

Mr. Morrison stated merely that the general staffs were working on a joint, inclusive plan to make effective use of all the two nations' resources—men, munitions and war materials—in the event of war.

Prime Minister Chamberlain, during the defence debate yesterday, told the house the present borrowing limit might not be enough and added that, despite the cost, the British rearmament would be carried on until it match the power of any nation in the world.

Mr. Chamberlain said there was little chance at present for a successful disarmament conference although continued large-scale rearmament eventually "must lead to bankruptcy for every country in Europe."

Windsor Stabbing Result Of Breakin

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 22.—(CP). —Victor Consection of Windsor, told police to-day he was the one who stabed the two Windsor youths who were confined to hospital yesterday. Consection said he cut the boys with a heavy butcher knife when, with three others, they attempted to force their way into his house.

Consection said he heard a crowd of men on the stairs and got a knife. He opened the door and saw five youths standing in front of the door. He said he tried to close it, but the five forced their way in.

He said he slashed at two of the men, but was knocked down and beaten. He told police he did not want to press charges against the five.

Where Runaway Engine Met Passenger Train

A twisted heap of metal junk marks the spot where a runaway switch engine crashed into a passenger train near Shelby, Iowa, killing two train men and injuring 22 passengers. The switch engine was shunting cars when an explosion threw the fireman from the cab, injured the engineer and jammed the throttle at full speed. The engineer was dragged from the cab as the engine gained momentum and, pilotless, raced down the main line. It met the passenger train head-on at an estimated speed of 75-miles-per-hour.

Ontario Keeping 15 p.c. More Roads Open This Winter

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP).—A 15 per cent. increase in the mileage of roads kept open in Ontario this winter was reported to the good roads convention here today by Agriculture Minister P. M. Dewan. The increase over last year's total brought the mileage to 7,000, of which 5,000 was in the counties and 2,000 in the townships.

Mr. Dewan said the increase was "gratifying" news because it heralded a greatly facilitated movement of farm produce through the winter, and at the same time indicated an increased demand for all-year motor travel. More than 1,000 miles of snow fence were erected during the winter, he said.

"I fully appreciate that cleaning roads of snow costs money," he said, "but the majority of our townships are improving their financial positions—something, incidentally, upon which they should be highly congratulated. As a result of the improved financial positions they are apparently spending more money on roads."

More Farm Trucks Used.

"The increased use of trucks by farmers calls inevitably for open roads. The commercial livestock output record for the first 10 months of 1938 shows that 48 per cent. of our cattle being transported to market have been carried by rail cars and 52 per cent. by motor trucks," Mr. Dewan said.

"It is estimated by our fruit branch officials that 1,000 carloads of apples are consumed in Toronto each year. Yet in 1937 only one carload was shipped by rail into this city," said the Minister. "These figures indicate the amount of fruit haulage done by motor vehicle in the Toronto district."

The Minister estimated 90 per cent. of Ontario-grown farm produce reached market by motor truck. Highways, he said, had changed shipping and marketing methods to a degree "never dreamed of by the people of two generations ago—indeed never anticipated by our own parents."

Referring to such highway shipments, Mr. Dewan mentioned the fruit and vegetable station at Gravenhurt inspected 4,098 trucks loaded with produce north-bound from June 18 to December 24, 1938.

Jews And Arabs Found Beyond Reconciliation

LONDON, Feb. 22—(AP).—Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald was reliably reported to have recommended to the Cabinet to-day a compromise to limit Jewish immigration to Palestine.

He was said to have told the ministers that the Jewish-Arab conference called to work out the future of Palestine is "practically finished"—that the rival delegations are "beyond reconcilation."

Storm In Ottawa Gives 1,200 Jobs

OTTAWA, Feb. 22.—(CP)— More than 1,200 shovellers who hadn't finished clearing a week-end sleet fall from Ottawa's streets today dug into an overnight fall of snow that reached a depth of seven inches before it stopped in mid-morning.

All roads in the district were kept open as plows worked throughout the night.

The overnight snow brought the total fall in Ottawa this winter to 57.4 inches. The 49-year average to the end of February is 70 inches.

Blizzard Moves East

MONTREAL, Feb. 22. — (CP) — Whipped by brisk, chilling winds, blizzards beat eastward across Quebec province today, heading into the maritimes after causing one death and hampering rail and road travel.

Of wide proportions, the storms covered sections of the province with as much as 5 inches of snow, bringing near-zero temperatures. But in the maritimes rain fell in some Nova Scotian districts while New Brunswick reported only cloudy skies.

Therese Harvey, 13-year-old daughter of a Chicoutimi sawmill owner, was smothered to death last night near the lake St. John district town when buried under an avalanche of snow while skiing with a younger brother. The boy managed to extricate himself from beneath the slide.

Judge Delays Sentence To Cool Off In Baby-Beating Case

Campbell's Bay, Que., Feb. 22. DESCRIBING the case as one of the most disgusting that had come before him Judge Roland Millar yesterday convicted Mr. and Mrs. Greig Toner of Leitchfield, Que., of assaulting their two-year-old child over a period of several months. Evidence was given that the child was ill-treated, undernourished and suffering from rickets.

Judge Millar said he did not think there were people so low in the country. He was going to punish the parents but said he would not pass sentence until March 15 because he felt so strongly about the case.

Father Ransoms Son For $300

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 — (AP).—The kidnapping of a four-year-old Brooklyn boy, held seven hours for $7,000 ransom, and released for $300 cash, was disclosed to-day by Coney Island police.

The father, George Katz, 32, a familiar race-track figure, said his son, Micheal, was abducted by two men in a car on Monday.

The boy, he said, had been left with a maid who was taking him to a kindergarten when the kidnappers seized him. The man was handed a note containing the ransom demand and instructions for making a contact.

Katz said he went with a friend to the spot, on the lower East Side of Manhattan, and was hailed into a dark hallway.

"Got the money?" he quoted the kidnapper as saying.

"I never had $7,000 in my life," Katz said he replied. "I have a few hundred dollars here and you can have that when the boy is returned."

Katz said the kidnapper told him to drop the money on the floor and then wait outside. A few minutes later, he said, his son walked out smiling.

4 French, 80 Italians Die In Rumored Clash On Borders Of Tunisia

Roman Legion Reported Driven Back To Libya After Raid In Obya District; Paris Puts Naval Patrol Along Coast

PARIS, Feb. 22 (AP).—Dispatches from Tunis today said all French troops throughout the Tunisia protectorate were ordered to remain in barracks as reports persisted of a clash between French and Italian troops last Friday on the Tunisia-Libya border.

French officers were said to have left their homes and moved into barracks with their troops to be ready to march at a moments' notice.

Reports of the clash, which put Italian casualties at 80 men killed and French at four killed, were denied by the Paris Foreign Office. A spokesman said:

"We cannot confirm the report and in fact we will give you an official denial."

The reports were received in Paris diplomatic circles and also came through private channels from Tunis.

Staff Conference Called.

At Algiers, in the French province adjoining Tunisia, General August Nogues, commander-in-chief of French defence forces in North Africa, totalling some 100,000 men, called a staff conference to consider reinforcement of the French garrisons in Tunisia with troops from Algeria and Morocco.

Diplomatic circles in Paris recalled that Marshal Pietro Badoglio, chief of the Italian general staff, arrived in Libya Sunday, two days after the clash was supposed to have occurred.

Reports of border fighting increased the long smouldering tension between France and Italy, already at odds over Italian clamor for French colonial concessions.

The clash was said to have occurred Friday when Italian troops penetrated French territory from Obya at a spot about 25 miles southeast of the first French fortified line around Gardane.

French casualties were placed at four killed and Italian at 80 killed. The Italians were driven back into Libya, the reports said.

Friday night French reinforcements suddenly were shifted to a fortified zone.

Fleet Patrols Coast.

The French Mediterranean fleet had arrived at the Tunisian port of Bizerte the day before. A naval detachment was reported to have begun patrolling the Tunisian coast.

In recent weeks other border incidents had been reported but none was confirmed officially. Three weeks ago an Italian airplane was reported to have flown over Tunisian territory and to have been shot down by French anti-aircraft gunners. There also have been roundups of Italians in Tunisia, culminating in the arrest Sunday of an Italian Consulate employee named Spada. Reports circulated that a map of Tunisian defence lines was found in his possession, but police would not confirm this.

Col. Cockshutt Stricken Ill

MONTREAL, Feb. 22—(CP).—Col. Harry Cockshutt, leading Canadian manufacturer and one-time Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, was stricken suddenly by illness on his way from Toronto to Montreal and was rushed to hospital today.

A native of Brantford, Ont., and one of the most popular men ever to occupy the Ontario government house, Col. Cockshutt was reported unofficially as "seriously ill" though a doctor at hospital said "we don't know yet just what is the trouble."

The doctor added "we are making an examination right now and will know within a couple of hours what is the trouble. Until then, there is nothing I can say further."

A wire was sent ahead of the train and an ambulance was at the station waiting to remove Col. Cockshutt.

New Windsor Bylaw

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 22—(CP). —Probable rapid disappearance of coin-operated phonographs was forecast here to-day as the result of a new Windsor by-law levying a $50 annual fee for operation of the machines. Mayor David Croll said disappearance of the noisy machines and pin ball games would be a welcome result of the by-law.

Senator Spence Outstanding Lawyer Passes

TORONTO, Feb. 22 — (CP). — Senator James Houston Spence, 71, K.C., one of Ontario's outstanding lawyers, died at his home here late last night. He was born in Greenock Township, Bruce County.

After attending Walkerton and London schools, he was called to the Bar of Ontario in 1896. His first practice was with the legal firm of Watson, Smoke and Masten, which he left to become a junior partner in Masten, Starr and Spence.

In 1900, after the elevation of Hon. C. A. Masten to the Supreme Court of Ontario, Senator Spence became a partner in the firm of Starr, Spence, Fraser and Hall, and remained with it until his death.

He was appointed to the Senate of Canada as a Liberal member in 1926. A former president of the Ontario Bar Association, he was also an executive member of the Canadian Bar Association.

Senator Spence's death created the ninth vacancy in the Upper House and reduced the Liberal representation to 33. There are 54 Conservative Senators. Five vacancies are in Quebec, two in Ontario and one in each of the provinces of Manitoba and Alberta.

Mrs. Spence, who was before her marriage Miss Margaret Hackland of Paris, died two years ago. Three sons, Dr. J. M., Wishart F., and George H., and one daughter, Miss Helen Spence, survive.

Funeral services will be held here Thursday.

Ring Of Balloons For Nazi Cities

BERLIN, Feb. 22—(AP).—The German air force has placed hundreds of balloons on cables around cities and industrial centres of the Reich and established a new "blockade" division to man this new defence system in case of air attacks.

The first news of the preparations was contained in newspaper accounts today which said that Berlin residents soon would have a chance to see the new troops in action.

Major Alfred Hildebrandt, military and aviation writer of the newspaper Lokalazeiger, described the system after visiting one centre in Bad Saarow, near Berlin.

Motorized troops have been trained to inflate and send the balloons thousands of yards into the air in a few minutes when an alarm is given. Two motor units are assigned to each balloon. The troops have been in training for these special duties for months.

Each baloon is a unti in the German system. A plan of suspending nets from cables was discarded as impractical.

The balloons are staggered, Hildebrandt said, so that it would be almost impossible for an aviator to escape all of them over a given point. Some of them are sent up as high as 32,000 feet, others to lower altitudes.

Plans have been made in this way for protecting all strategic points. Comparatively few balloons are needed for such points as bridges power works, dams and similar structures, Major Hildebrandt said, because they are more difficult to attack from the air.

The new force also is prepared to send up balloons along the probable courses of approaching enemy fliers.

Toronto Dealer Melts Over $750,000 Gold In His Cellar In 10 Years, Refinery Heads Inform Income Tax Probe

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP). — Provincial police found a crucible for melting gold in the cellar at the home of Simon Dollinger, Toronto old gold dealer, Constable Jarvis told R. B. Whitehead, Ontario securities commissioner, today as an inquiry into the income tax returns of Dollinger and three other gold dealers continued.

No records of gold transactions were found in Dollinger's house, Jarvis said. Yesterday refinery representatives said that in the past 10 years their companies had purchased gold worth $750,000 from Dollinger and his partner, J. S. Wittenberg.

"Dollinger said he and his partner had not been keeping regular records," said the constable. "Whatever notes and records there were, he said Wittenberg kept. He said he and Wittenberg were in business of buying old gold, melting it down and selling it. He said they did no business in Toronto, but only outside the city."

Leonard Brossard, manager of a Sturgeon Falls, Ont., branch bank, appeared today but said he could not produce his records on the account of Napoleon Galipeau without a written order from the commissioner. This was given and Brossard will produce the records.

Commission Counsel J. C. McRuer said there was a relation between Galipeau's bank account and the business transactions of Dollinger, Wittenberg, Benjamin Walker and H. Skupp, the dealers.

Yacht Is Safe

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Feb. 22. — (AP).— The Duke of Sutherland's yacht Sanspeur, with the Duke and Duchess and an unidentified number of passengers aboard, was reported safe to-day near Cape San Lucas, in Lower California, 800 miles south of here, after striking a submerged rock. The coast guard here was notified by radio that the yacht had been reached and all hands were safe.

10-Minute Margin

RATON, N.M., Feb. 22—(AP).—With the stork due any time, Mr. and Mrs. James Lark, Sr., were snow-bound by 17-foot drifts on the road between their house and the highway. A highway snow plough appeared on the highway, and Lark told the crew of his plight. They obligingly ploughed out the side road, and the Larks got to the hospital 10 minutes ahead of the stork.

Red Army And Navy 21 Years Old Thursday

MOSCOW, Feb. 22—(AP).—Russia celebrates to-morrow the 21st anniversary of the creation of the Red army and navy.

Newspapers proudly pointed today to preparedness and the "striking power" of the military forces as compared to the poorly-equipped revolutionary troops of 1918.

The present numerical strength of the Soviet army and navy is a military secret. There was an official announcement, however, more than two years ago which said the army numbered 1,300,000 men.

King And Queen Tour Industrial Districts

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, England, Feb. 22.—(CP-Havas.)— The King and Queen, on the second day of their tour of the north-eastern industrial regions, to-day spent three hours in the workers' district saround Gateshead.

The Sovereigns, accompanied by Labor Minister Ernest Brown, received an enthusiastic welcome from the working people at every point they stopped.

During their visit to the local hospital the Queen spent several minutes in the children's ward and chatted with the young patients.

Germany Ready To Sell Fastest War Planes To Any Country, U.S. Senate Hears

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (CP) —The United States senate military committee has heard that German officials have expressed willingness to sell the latest type of German military plane to any country, including France.

This was disclosed today in copies of testimony — obtained from confidential sources—which the committee heard late last month. The committee has not yet released the testimony.

G. Grant Mason, member of the civil aeronautics authority, testified on Jan. 30 about the purported German offer, and some committee members expressed skepticism.

Major General H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps, told the committee earlier that the only way Germany could attack the United States through the air would be to establish airdromes and accumulate supplies in South America. He used Germany merely as an example, and said he believed the airdromes and supplies could be provided only by sympathizers in South America.

"But I do not say that is anything that is going to happen," Arnold said. "I do not even think such a thing."

Prairie Pastor Rides Snowy Roads On Skis With Motor 9 Feet Behind Doing The Work

ROSE VALLEY, Sask., Feb. 22 (CP)—Members of the Lutheran Church at this northern town know their pastor is coming when they hear the roar of a motor and see a man on skis in front of a cloud of snow.

Rev. Martin Ar al, ski enthusiast born in Norway, has equipped a 25 horsepower motor with propeller on skis, attached two nine-foot shafts. The ends of the shafts fit under his armpits, with ignition and fuel controls attached to the turned-down ends of the shafts.

A broad rubber belt is placed between the shafts to lean against, nine feet in front of the motor.

The outfit weighs 250 pounds, reaches speed of 40 miles an hour and travels 20 miles or more to a gallon of gasoline.

"I would not advise a novice at skiing to try it, although I find it perfectly safe," said Mr. Andal who came to Canada in 1914.

Cahan Sees King Off On Drive Of Propaganda

OTTAWA, Feb. 22.—(CP)—Hon. C. H. Cahan, veteran Conservative front-bencher, told the commons last night he has an aversion for Prime Minister Mackenzie King's conduct in preparing for a general election and said the prime minister's recent trade speech was a sure indication he was getting ready for "another political campaign of passionate propaganda."

The two distinguished members of the house exchanged comments about "aversions" as Mr. Cahan, representing Montreal-St. Lawrence-St. George, expressed resentment at the prime minister's earlier statement he had an aversion for the United States.

Mr. Cahan denied he had any such aversion but admitted one for Mr. Mackenzie King's conduct in preparing for an election.

Speaking in the debate on the Canada-United States trade treaty to which he is opposed, the Montreal member referred to the prime minister's speech earlier in the debate.

Mr. Mackenzie King in turn explained he was only replying to a previous suggestion by Mr. Cahan that he had an "illusive infatuation for the United States."

"There is no doubt that I have aversions," said Mr. Cahan. "There are few men in public life who are utterly devoid of them.

The Premier's Conduct.

"One of my aversions is the conduct of the prime minister when he prepares for a general election. In private and in public life, when there are no elections, he is undoubtedly personally worthy of high esteem and is usually an honorable political opponent.

"But in an election campaign or, in preparation for one, his imagination is unrestrained and the creative faculty of his mind is engaged chiefly in drawing erroneous inferences and in presenting biased and mischievous interpretations of the pub-

Rock Slide Kills 2 In Frood Mine

COPPER CLIFF, Ont., Feb. 22.—(CP)—Coroner Dr. P. E. Laflamme said today he would hold an inquest "right away" into the second double fatality in Frood Mine here within three months.

The coroner came here from Sudbury after tons of loose ore fell on the 2,800-foot level of the mine last night, killing H. Koski and E. Laurila and injuring three fellow-workmen. In December two men were killed in a fall down another ore pass.

Descending into the mine last night, Dr. Laflamme said he found that wet, loose ore fragments which had clung to the walls of the ore pass had fallen on the repair party of five. The three survivors managed to escape the full force of the fall, but Koski and Laurilla were buried. One of the men suffered a broken ankle.

"Evidently about four inches of the mucky 'loose' had been clinging to the walls," Dr. Laflamme said. "The men were engaged in the work of cleaning the pass in preperation for strengthening the walls, which were to have been cemented and supported by 10-by-10 lumber."

The coroner said it was usual for damp masses of loose fragments of ore to cluster in the passes. At the point where the accident occurred, the pass suddenly becomes steeper.

TRENT BRIDGE

Another snow and sleet storm arrived Sunday morning, accompanied by high winds, causing drifted roads, which interfered with the church service. The attendance was small, as traffic was impossible on concession roads.

French Parties Oppose Recognition

PARIS, Feb. 22.—(AP)— The prospect of unconditional French recognition of the Spanish nationalist regime as the real government of Spain aroused elements opposed to Premier Daladier's government to charge today that this would be a new French "surrender" to Fascist powers.

Senator Leon Berard, French emissary who failed to obtain any formal policy assurances from nationalist General Franco on two trips to Burgos, was ordered back to the nationalist capital from St. Jean-de-Luz, France to establish diplomatic relations.

Critics of Premier Daladier's foreign policy termed his course in Spain a continuation of events that began with acceptance of Germany's remilitarization of the Rhineland in 1936.

Socialist and Communist members of the chamber of deputies, who had been sniping at the Berard mission in the press, made known they would raise the question in the chamber next week.

Want Guarantees.

Some political sources reported there would be short-lived opposition to the recognition of Franco from within Daladier's cabinet led by Ministers Georges Mandel and Cesar Campinchi, colonies and navy, respectively.

These ministers had delayed recognition by insisting on guarantees by Franco that Spain would remain independent regardless of aid the general had received from Italy and Germany.

Berard's next talk with General Count Francisco Vomez Jordana, Nationalist Foreign Minister, was postponed from to-day until to-morrow because of a trip by Gomez-Jordana to Barcelona.

Daladier and his Foreign Minister, Georges Bonnet, appeared determined to override all opposition and send an ambassador to Burgos in a joint recognition move with Great Britain. Daladier's small conservative majority was expected to support the action in Chamber debate.

Besides the broad guarantee of a Spain with a neutral foreign policy, France had hoped to gain amnesty for supporters of the Spanish Republican regime, now clinging to one-fourth of the country. This would ease the way for a surrender.

Manion, Stewart See Big Works Program

OTTAWA, Feb. 22.—(CP).— Conservative Leader Manion and Hon. H. A. Stewart, Conservative-Leeds, attempted without success in the House of Commons last night to draw from Works Minister Cardin some details of the public works program, generally expected to be revealed in the supplementary estimates.

Mr. Stewart, Public Works Minister in the Bennett government, said the main estiamtes for public works were the "skimpiest and most emaciated" in the history of the department.

"I cannot come to any conclusion other than that the government plans to bring in supplementary estimates for a very heavy program."

The main estimates, traditionally indicating the government's chief program, were so "trifling," Mr. Stewart said, "it is perfectly plain there is no program at all." There was little provision for anything beyond salaries and administration.

Mr. Cardin said the main estimates were smal l because they showed only the absolutely necessary and indispensable expenditures. It was so early when they were prepared this year that it was impossible to include all the works planned.

Dr. Manion said he was listening on the radio to a speech by Justice Minister Lapointe in Quebec Saturday night and heard him say there was an elaborate public works program. "You gentlemen were there and may not remember," he said, "but I was home and sober."

He urged the Minister to take the House into his confidence. "The House of Commons shouldn't be the last to hear of this program."

Mr. Cardin did not indicate when he would reveal the works program details.

4th Test Match Ends In Draw

JOHANNESBURG, Feb. 22 — (CP Cable). — Curtailed by rain, the fourth England-South Africa cricket test match ended in a draw to-day. South Africa declared its first innings at 349 runs for eight wickets in reply to the Englishmen's 215, and at the second attempt the visitors had made 203 for four wickets when the time limit was reached.

Showers caused two delays when play opened on Saturday, and the match was not resumed on Monday until after lunch. No play at all was possible yesterday. The final test will be played on March 3 with England in the lead by virtue of its victory in the third contest at Durban. The first two tests were drawn

To-day's draw was the 22nd between the two countries since the international series started in 1888. England has been successful in 29 matches and the Springboks in 12.

A crowd of 1,500 that watched the morning play increased to 8,000 in the afternoon although at no time was a definite result probable. Alan Melville, South African captain, declared his innings at lunch and throughout the afternoon the English players led by Captain Wally Hammond and Paul Gibb made runs steadily.

Hammond was the star of England's second innings, making 61 not out. He went in at the fall of the second wicket and most of his scoring strokes were straight drives. Gibb made 45 and was stodgy by comparison. He batted more than two hours, hitting four fours.

Two Bread Delivery Trucks Are Stalled For Hours On Rice Lake On Same Night

Two Peterborough bread delivery trucks, stalled for hours on Rice Lake Monday night, presented a whim of circumstance and coincidence that was embarrassing at the time, but relieved by a comic aspect often reflected by persons in trouble and difficulty.

James Dutton, Jr., returning from the Campbellford-Roseneath route by way of the short cut across Rice Lake from Harwood to Hiawatha late Monday afternoon when dusk was coming on, stranded out in the centre of the lake when the clutch of his car burned out. He had no choice but to leg it on to Hiawatha to telephone Gillespie's garage to go and get him. He had supper in one of the Indian homes, and when the relief truck arrived after dark Mr. Dutton spent half an hour finding the big bread van. The wind whipping along the lake was descending toward the zero level, and no further description of that scene is necessary to picture Mr. Dutton's predicament. For once, his sense of direction failed him, and it had to happen on a wintry night and likewise on a lake doubly surfaced with a sheet of slippery ice.

Finally, the truck was located in the gloom, and the truck was towed back to Harwood for repairs; but old man trouble had got there first, because the garage door wasn't high and wide enough to let the Stock Bread "wagon" roll inside.

Cobourg was the nearest town, and something had to be done to get back to Peterborough, so the long way round was decided on. The Gillespie truck and its tow ambled off down the county highway in the dark, eventually repairs were made, and home was at length reached shortly after 2 a.m. Tuesday.

In the meantime perverse coincidence swooped down on a Weston bread truck also homeward bound across Rice Lake. Its crank shaft broke out on the lake, and the second Peterborough delivery truck was stranded a mile and a half from either shore. Morning came before it was rescued.

Those two mishaps suggest the troubled condition of travel since last Sunday's combination of granular snow, and lots of it, followed by sleet and the weather's swift descent to zero.

Reports reaching the Stock's Bread headquarters today indicated that deliveries were being made but with a great deal of difficulty.

"In many places we simply deliver cartons of bread to farmers in key community locations ,and we have arranged with them to complete deliveries by teams and sleighs over the side roads," Alderman Dutton told the Examiner this afternoon.

Kai-Shek Fights To Keep Up Morale Till Supply Roads Finished

SHANGHAI, Feb. 22—(AP).—Victory hopes of the central Chinese government on this 596th day of war with Japan rest on General Chiang Kai-Shek's success in keeping up the morale of his followers until completion of new routes for supplies or until some crisis which might divert Japan from China.

Foreign observers consider Chiang's position critical. His forces have been pushed back into the vast interior, away from normal contacts with the outside world. They have suffered more than 1,000,000 casualties.

The Chinese have lost vast quantities of war supplies or have expended them in their retreat. They are getting only minimum quantities of arms and munitions. Japan holds China's major ports and railways.

China's air force with which she might attempt to regain control of transportation routes has been virtually wiped out.

With the central Chinese government thus hamstrung, military observers ponder whether Chiang will be able to maintain governmental solidarity and inspire his troops to hold on until completion of feverishly constructed new avenues for supplies or until some shift in the international scene might distract Japan from her undeclared war.

Japs Ponder Next Move?

At present there is a barely perceptible disintegration of Chinese purpose which, with a shortage of supplies, appears to prevent Chiang from undertaking a major counter-offensive. The Japanese have halted major operations, seemingly to decide whether further advances into the interiors are worth the sacrifice.

Japan is transferring her forces from the south and Central China into the north for the triple purpose of concentrating near her most important lines of communications, undertaking to mop up guerrillas and putting her men in precautionary positions in case of an emergency in relations with the Soviet Union.

"I mention this in passing to show that both Provincial and Dominion Governments are co-operating to ensure Northern Ontario consumers that inferior produce is not being thrust on them."

Weeds on the borders of highways constituted "a deplorable menace," Mr. Dewan said. "I am right here making a special appeal to provincial, county and township officials to do everything in their power to keep weeds under control."

"I am told that Norfolk County officials deserve special mention," he said. "These people were among the first, if not the first, to use chemicals—I believe about the year 1921. My information is they now seldom have to spray. Last year 150 municipalities sprayed their roads and I am told that this year a greater number will take up the work."

63.40 INCHES OF SNOW

Alfred O. Phillips, official weather recorder stated today that 3.25 inches of snow fell Tuesday night which with the 6.75 inches from last Sunday brings the total snowfall since the Winter began to 63.40 inches or roughly five and a quarter feet. The fleecy blanket reduced the danger of falls from the crust, but it is still treacherous walking in many places.

WCTU Head Crosses Up Vancouver Mayor On "Sweep" Question

Vancouver, Feb. 22 (CP)

MAYOR Lyle Telford didn't get very far when he asked a meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union here: "Who has a sweepstake ticket?"

"You can't do that to a W.C.T.U. meeting," said Mrs. R. C. Weldon, president, "I'll ask everyin this room who has not got a sweepstake ticket in her pocket to raise her hand."

There was a unanimous show of hands.

Taken back only momentarily, Mayor Telford went on to urge legalization of sweepstakes.

Object To Dominion Selling Nazis Copper

LONDON, Feb. 22—(CP Cable).—A. Edwards, Labor member, during the debate on defence in the House of Commons yesterday, complained that "two days before Hitler threatened to march into Czechoslovakia 400 tons of Copper arrived at German ports from Canada."

Sir John Haslam, Conservative, interrupted Mr. Edwards to ask how he proposed to prevent the Dominions from supplying raw materials to whatever nations they pleased since they are self-governing.

Mr. Edwards replied that he was assuming the dominions are as loyal to the Empire as is Great Britain and he proposed to have the dominions secretary take up the matter.

"Certainly we could stop war in this manner with the assistance of the United States," Mr. Edwards declared.

No restriction

OTTAWA, Feb. 22—(CP).—Canada has placed no restrictions on shipment of raw materials such as copper, to Germany, revenue department officials said last night, commenting on the complaint by a private member in the British Commons, that 400 tons of copper arrived at German ports from Canada during the September crisis.

Canada is in the same position, in this respect, as all other countries with raw materials to sell, it was stated.

English Line Y.P.S. Visit Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 22—The Young People of the Tabernacle church on the English Line, will be guests of St. John's Y.P.U. at a social evening next Monday evening it was arranged at their regular meeting held here Monday night.

Miss Ruth Palliser, the president, presided for the opening worship service, which opened with the call to worship and the scripture reading, given by Miss Gladys Stephen. "The Harvest" was the title of a poem read by Miss Palliser, and Mrs. J. D. Mills offered the topic from the study book, "The World in Canada." Miss Evelyn Todd arranged the program of the evening which included an instrumental number by Jack Cassan; a quizz on current event by Dorothy Henson. This was followed by a period of games lead by Don Holmes.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Feb. 22 — (CP). — Weakness at Liverpool and general lack of interest pushed wheat price slightly lower in dull trading at Winnipeg to-day. At the close values were ⅜ to ½ cent lower, with May at 62¾, July 63⅝, and October 63¾ to 64 cents.

Advices of beneficial moisture in the wheat field of India drove Liverpool quotations ¼ to ⅝d lower, while Buenos Aires was unchanged.

Cash wheat interest remained at a minimum, while trade in coarse grains uncovered a little support in oats credited to mills and minor export buying in barley.

TO IMPROVE PARIS CAFE

Alterations costing about $8,000 are to be made to the Paris Cafe, according to plan the proprietor, Hum Hoy, has had prepared. In view of the extensive changes to the cafe, he is asking the council for permission to leave the six feet compartment partions in use until the general improvements are made, instead of spending around $400 on reducing the height of the partitions as required by the bylaw.

Market Review

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP)—Aside from a moderate rally in the western oil shares, the Toronto market staged a drab session today. The close-down in New York for the Washington birthday holiday apparently kept some customers for the interlisted leaders out of the market and business was sluggish among the higher-price mining and industrial issues. The cheaper golds along with Kirkland Lake and the western oils supplied the bulk of the business and aggregate turnover totalled about a half million shares.

Trading enthusiasm was restrained, partly by the holiday in the United States (Washington's birthday) and the interlisted leaders of both mining and industrial groups moved at a slow tempo and at practically no price changes from Tuesday's close. Western oil stocks staged a mild rally in the early period, showing an index gain of 1 to 2 points at noon while the golds also were slightly higher, base metals unchanged and the industrials narrowly lower.

Selling of Stadacona became active in the early afternoon and the price slipped 11 cents to 74 before digging in. Other penny golds showed more weakness than strength but some of the secondard issues, notably Kirkland Lake and Hard Rock were strong.

Bell Telephone sold at 173, a new high. Bank, steels and foods were firm.

Calgary-Edmonston, Anglo-Canadian, Home, Okalta and the penny western oils advanced.

Barber Larder
GOLD MINES LIMITED

The property holdings of Barber Larder Gold Mines are located midway between Kerr Addison and Omega Mines in the Larder Lake District.

The extent of the property east to west, which is also the regional strike of the ore structures, is approximately five thousand feet.

Subsequent to diamond drilling and the development of ore on the first level, work has been progressing on the 250 and 400 foot levels in the shaft area in the east section of the property.

While it is unfortunate that the 250 and 400 foot levels are not as yet responding the same as the upper level, we are of the opinion that the shares are an excellent speculation as a complete change in outlook could occur at any time. In addition to extending lateral work on these levels we are informed the Company is starting immediately with a plan of diamond drilling to depth from the 400 foot level.

The Company's financial requirements are being substantially provided for by Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company.

The property enjoys excellent management.

Diets Tried Out On Guinea Pigs At Normal School

Lucky is the frisky mouse who is fed milk in place of tea, whose diet includes wheat germ as is found in whole wheat bread, or who knows the delights of orange juice, and he casts glances of disdain in the direction of his puny brothers and sisters who know not about such things, and who pine away in a corner with not even enough energy in their skinny little lungs to set up one lusty squeak of protest.

And lucky, too, are boys and girls whose diet includes whole wheat bread ,and lots of milk and orange juice ,observing students at the Peterborough Normal school are arguing these days, as they watch the mice run about their cages or loll listlessly in corners, depending on their diet.

For being conducted at the school right now is an experiment in nutrition that is unique in the teaching history of this province. Prospective teachers are watching the effect of improper and proper diet on twenty white rats and 12 young guinea pigs, the first time such a study has ever been made by a group in a Normal school in this country.

Department Co-operating.

The experiment is being conducted with the full co-operation of the Department of Health of the Ontario government, who provided all the animals and their feed. Overseeing the work is R. H. Roberts of the Normal staff, who will make a report on the adaptability of students for such work. Mr. Roberts said that at one time it was believed such an experiment would be too advanced for such pupils, but he believes from his observations to date that such is not the case. Should the experiment prove a definite success it is believed this Peterborough advance work will become a regular part of Normal School training, and also a part of the curriculum at the Ontario College of Education, where high school teachers are trained.

The most graphic illustration possible of the value of proper diet, the new experiment is arousing considerable interest at the school. There is no lack of workers, all of whom feed and care of the rodents voluntarily. Noone who believes he or she will find the work repugnant is forced to enter the course. But far from such being the case, interest is so high students work with enthusiasm to determine for themselves just how diet will affect growth.

Continue Eight Weeks.

The experiment has been going on for two weeks now, will continue for another six. Each day the rodents are bathed, fed, and weighed, and observations are recorded as to increases in weight. One group of 18 students cares for the rats and guinea pigs for one week, working after school hours, then is replaced by a second group. So high is the interest being shown that students from the first group are constantly in attendance after their duties have come to an end.

The rodents are in six cages. Cages number one and two, all of whose occupants are from the same litter, are fed a similar diet of dried white bread and ferric chloride. But there is this difference: one cage is fed milk, the other sweetened tea. The milk-fed rats have gained 19 grams in weight in two weeks, the others have gained only six grams. By inference, then, children would grow more on milk than on tea, it is argued. Eight weeks of a white rat's life are equivalent to six years of a child's life.

Two other cages of white rats are fed a diet of crude casein (dried milk) a table salt mixture, fruit sugar, and cod liver oil. To the food in one cage is added 15 parts of wheat germ and these lucky fellows are sleek and fat, while their luckless brothers are listless. Those fed wheat germ have gained 20.5 grams in two weeks, the others only 4.3 grams.

Gains Recorded.

In another pair of cages are the twelve guinea pigs, six in each. They are fed baked skim milk powder, bran, rolled oats, butter ,table salt, and cod liver oil. Then one group is given an extra teaspoon of orange juice each day. Each guinea pig in this latter group has gained 5 grams while the others have each lost 4 grams in weight.

It is a convincing argument that Mr. Roberts is placing before the students of the Normal school, an argument for balanced diet that cannot be disputed ,and that will probably remain fixed in the minds of his prospective teachers for a far greater period than anything they might read from textbooks.

The experiment is no new thing except as applied to the teaching profession. The same work is carried on regularly by medical and nursing students at universities all over the country, Mr. Roberts said.

Church Organist's Dash With Girl 8 Nipped–Held As Child Stealer

EL CENTRO, Calif., Feb. 22 (AP) —Manacled for a trip back to Pasadena to face a charge of child stealing, 40-year-old Townsend Davis, gardener and church organist, told a shocking story today, police said, of his attempted flight to Arizona with golden-haired Anne Sweitzer, eight.

The gaunt, hollow-cheeked man and his small companion were seized late yesterday as his old sedan approached the State border, more than 24 hours after secret departure from Pasadena.

Faint from an attack of nausea, Anne Louise was not able to be questioned, but admissions by Davis, Policewoman Anita Theft said, possibly will result in morals charges being filed against him.

A medical examination was to be made of the girl to determine if she had been harmed.

As reported by police, Davis told of spending Sunday night with the girl in a single room at Indio, because he "didn't have money enough to rent two rooms." When he was arrested, he had $2.30 and a religious tract in his pockets.

"I guess I done something rash, but she wanted to leave home. I considered her home a bad environment for her," Davis was quoted as saying.

He told officers he had planned to take Anne Louis to Somerton, Ariz., where they were to visit the Rev. Virgil Vance, an evangelist, who has a daughter about the same age.

At Pasadena, the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sweitzer, denied she had been ill-treated or led anything but "a happy, normal home life."

DOURO

An educational cooperative meeting was held in Harmony Hall on Saturday night with an attendance of between 40 and 50, including a few women. The speakers were Miss Grace H. Miss Helen Porter, of Lakefield, attended the Normal School At Home, held in Peterborough on Friday, Feb. 17.

Mr. Robert Spence of Lakefield, was among the guests at the Peterborough Normal School At Home on Friday evening.

Rev. G. F. Kelly, of Lakefield, was the guest speaker at the father and son banquet held in St. Paul's Presbyterian church, Peterborough, on Monday evening, Feb. 20. The banquet was held by the Boy Scout troops of the Presbyterian church in Peterborough. Rev. Kelly's subject was "Humor."

"Enoculate" yourself against Winter Ills

Scientific tests prove that regular users of Eno's "Fruit Salt" strengthen their resistance to winter's ills.

A teaspoonful of ENO in the morning and half a teaspoonful at night is of threefold benefit:

1. IT NEUTRALIZES GASTRIC ACIDITY —cause of so many upsetting headaches and attacks of indigestion.

2. IT ENSURES INNER CLEANLINESS. Eno assists nature to remove yesterday's food wastes today. Its natural cleansing action is gentle and efficient.

3. IT MAINTAINS THE ALKALI RESERVE. A teaspoonful of ENO is equal in systemic alkalizing value to 8 ounces of pure, fresh orange juice. The regular use of ENO continually replenishes the alkaline constituents of the body.

Collegiate Institute Notes

Once again your 'umble correspondent is forced to dash off a bit of advance warning. For, once again, we fear there is little of note to convey to our worthy followers. The ol' alma mater is very still indeed these days, the halls are hushed and silent, the air of tumult is absent—or, in simpler phrase, there just ain't nothin' doin'.....or at least so it seems.

Very few meetings, no big news, such as the Echoes subscription campaign and contest, all together we seem to be at a low ebb, as it were.

A Bit of Basketball.

Another week has gone its merry, mery way and once again the warriors have gone forth to do battle in honor of ol' P.C.V.S.. But, this week we fear the glad tidings are a bit hushed and a bit of the old cheering and gaiety is absent. For truth to tell, the basket bombers of the old school did themselves none too proudly last week, dropping two games out of a possible three to a speedy two of Cobourg squads in the none too spacious confines of the C.C.I. gym. Our junior lads, under the capable guidance of Mr. H. A. Craig, got themselves a very definite surprise and set-back, when the Cobourg juniors up and pinned their ears back to the tune of 34-12. Now this in itself is sort of hard to figure in as much as Bowmanville beat Cobourg in a previous game and our juniors have beaten B.H.S. twice to date. But, so it goes in the uncertain fantasies of baaketball. Cobourg may had had one of those night's. That is a game when everything you do goes right. Or P.C.I. may have also had "one of those night's." That is when everything goes wrong. But in any event all our lads have to do is win one game from Cobourg and they are group winners. If they lose that game they will have to play off with either Bowmanville or Cobourg.

Next on the list, the C.C.I. Senior Girls handed Miss Brisbin's Senior lasses a very serious setback, when they up and knocked 'em off 34-31. But in this game P.C.I. may yet find respite because of a serious doubt in the scoring of the game—one scorebook reading 34-31 for Cobourg, and the other a 31-all draw, and P.C.I. may protest. More on this again.

But, in a happier vein, to complete the program, Mr. Bamforth's hustling Senior Boys, led by Harlow Cutting and Nels Foster, nosed their way to a very close 30-29 nod over the hard-fighting Cobourg Seniors, and thereby remained in a position at the top of their group, tied with Bowmanville. P.C.I. and B.H.S. have each lost one game and unless either of them lose a game during the remainder of the schedule, P.C.I. and Bowmanville will have to play off to declare a champion.

This week the junior boys and senior girls play Port Hope here and the senior boys have an exhibition game contra Central Technical School in Toronto.

Let's see a really big crowd out there on Friday night. The both teams must win, and a little vocal support from all youse guys and gals wouldn't hurt atall, atall!

Camera Club Capers.

Nothing much doing in the Camera Club the past few days, there being no weekly meeting unless it is held to-day (Wednesday). It is rumored around the school, as this is being written, that Warren Gambell, president of the Camera Club, received painful injuries while skiing or tobogganing on Monday night. However, it's fairly certain. The extent of his injuries are not known around the school as yet. We have heard various reports of 20 or 30 stitches being required to close the cuts he suffered in the accident, but in any event, let us be among the first to offer our sympathies and wish him a speedy recovery.

Camera Club is busily engaged (as always) in the dispersal of school paper, etc., and the Echoes pictures having been completed is ready to swing back into regular action shortly.

School Play.

It has probably got around to most of us that the school dramatic society and the Students' Council will presenot their play in the near future. And, most of you will have the details by now also. But for those students who are still in doubt as to the time, place, or any other details, here is the complete dope: The play is entitled "Dear Brutus," written by Sir James M. Barrie, the creator of the world-loved "Peter Pan." The play, to be held in the auditorium, is scheduled for Thursday and Friday, March 23 and 24. The play itself, described as a fantastic comedy, is centered around the magic and eccentricities of a strange, spirit-like creature known as Lob and a magic wand. Advance dope on the presentation leads your humble correspondent to believe it will be the most popular and successful of all the plays to date. Ticket sale opens on March 2, and don't be surprised if the "Sold Out" sign goes up early. We warned ya!

Picture Parade.

On the Camera Club bulletin board, just outside the main door of the Assembly Hall, right now some examples of the pictures which soon will appear in the Echoes. Pictures of various groups—the three basketball teams, junior rugby team, dramatic society, and the P.C.I. baseball team. These pictures are very fair and are being offered to anyone interested at a very good price. They are 40c for a photo about 10" x 7½", and 25c for a smaller copy about 9" x 7". All you have to do is write your name and form on an envelope, along with the pictures desired, put the needed cash in the envelope, and give it to Miss Coubling in Dr. Kenner's office. A new set of pictures was put up late on Tuesday afternoon, but too late to be described here.

Morning Entertainment.

Once again nothing much doing. The Girls' Glee Club was on the assembly stage last Friday morning and sang a pair of folk tunes that made a big hit with the assembly goers. It occurred to this writer that this organization could do a fine job of singing "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" or some like tune. Alright! it was just an idea!

Poster Contest.

The Students' Council is sponsoring a poster contest this week to advertise the play, "Dear Brutus." Valuable prizes are being offered, and the Students' Council hope for a large entry. tI is an excellent way to win a good prize and also help advertise for one of the big highlights of the school year. So all you artists, grab your brushes and go to work.

Campus Chatter.

One of the hit songs from Nelson Eddy's new picture, "On Parade," was introduced in Assembly on Tuesday morn....We hear the hockey team is in the dog house agin ....Anyway, there isn't one, any more....Too bad with the fine talent we have at ol' P.C.I.....Foster, Parnell, the King brothers, Cauley, Ward, and other Junior O.H.A. players, to mention a few....Should get some ides of the senior boys' team's strength this week when they square off with Central Tech in an exhibition game....Haven't heard the form the Echoes sales contest winner's party will take....Some movies have been ordered, but aren't here at this writing....Maybe the last of the week....Gloom and sadness, created by the reports, is beginning to abate....Once again, how about a gigantic crowd this week at the Port Hope-P.C.I. scuffles?

Canadian News In Africa

Lieut.-Col. C. H. Ackerman of Peterborough spent several months in Africa, and on his return discussed in an interesting way some of his experiences with an Examiner reporter. We found it profitable to note what Col. Ackerman had seen in the way of Canadian news when he was away. Just what do people in the outside world know of us; what do they read about us; what part of our news from day to day seems interesting enough to print elsewhere?

During five weeks when the Peterborough gentleman was in South Africa he recalls having read four items of news from Canada. They were:

1: The Canadian government had forwarded 10,000 tons of fish to the government of Spain.

2: A member of parliament had brought in a resolution advocating that the name of our country should be changed to the Kingdom of Canada.

3: A Labor member of the English parliament visiting in Canada expressed the opinion on returning home that Canada would be neutral in the next war.

4: Two English explorers had been lost temporarily in northern Canada.

Of course the people who publish papers in South Africa will put in their papers such items of news as will interest their readers. There are many things which interest people in our district which would not be worth printing in South Africa, but we dare say Col. Ackerman, as a Canadian visiting in that land, would come to the conclusion that he was getting a very meagre outline of what was taking place in his native country. We dare say none of our readers would regard that list of four items as being of any particular interest even in our own country.

Good Wishes May Help

J. J. Duffus, M.P., is in a Montreal hospital where he went several days ago to be under observation to determine the cause of a constant pain in his head. Mr. Duffus was suffering from it for some time before going to Montreal and the pain was ever present.

Even if he is in Montreal some miles distant from his own home and riding, Mr. Duffus can take it for granted there are many people hoping for his speedy recovery, and many people making inquiries daily if there is any further word regarding his condition.

People in this city and district have become accustomed to seeing J. J. Duffus taking part in almost everything of a public or community nature. As a rule he so cheerfully accepts everything in the nature of an invitation or suggestion that he undoubtedly is on the go more than any man should be, and it is difficult for one of his disposition to sit back and relax.

So it is that when he is away on his quest for treatment and renewed health and freedom from pain the people at home are pulling for him. If good wishes count for anything, Mr. Duffus will have a speedy recovery.

We Think He Is Wrong

Chief of Police Ketchabaw in St. Thomas had a suggestion after an armed robbery had been attempted in that city. It was that merchants should have weapons in their places of business in order to protect their property and themselves against the attacks of robbers and gunmen.

The Examiner admits it cannot grow enthusiastic over that suggestion. A number of loaded revolvers lying around the premises in any community is not a particularly good defence against armed attack. It is something like having a loaded weapon in the house. If an armed man were found to have entered, the average householder would be poorly advised to start shooting it out with the intruder for the simple reason that the gunman would probably be much more adept in using his weapon than the householder.

It is much better to leave the defence of the community as far as the use of revolvers is concerned in the hands of the police who know what to do with the things.

We do not want more revolvers in this country; actually we want fewer of them. With a revolver in every place of business there would be the added incentive to get into the place at night and steal the weapon. We believe the St. Thomas chief is wrong.

We Take It For Granted

Those who are interested in having a new and improved Nicholls Hospital in Peterborough are likely to meet with some opposition and that is not to be wondered at. The average individual does not know a great deal about a hospital and that is easy enough to understand.

The man or woman in good health today is not thinking in terms of hospitals and perhaps there is not any good reason why such thinking should be done. The healthy person goes about a day's work; his time is pretty well taken up with it; morning, noon and night he will think about something to eat and in between times he may think of the furnace or the snow on the walk outside. Probably there is no real reason why he should start thinking about a hospital or anything connected with a hospital.

If that individual meets with an accident in the course of a day's work or if he is seized with a pain and the doctor tells him he has appendicitis or some such thing, then he expects to make a hurried trip to the hospital and he also expects to find everything waiting and in readiness for him. And that is exactly what he does find.

While he has not given the matter of hospitals any thought in the past other people have been attending to it and it is well for him that they have.

Hunting Jack Rabbits

There are so many parties in various parts of the province out for the purpose of hunting jack rabbits that they are becoming confused in claiming records. It is recorded that C. V. Krushe of Stratford claimed he made something like a record when he brought down one which weighed 12 pounds. And then came H. W. Diehl with the statement that last winter he shot one near Tavistock which went 23 pounds.

And it is quite reasonable to believe that gunner Diehl was not weighing the rabbit with his foot or finger on the scales, for 23 pounds is not out of the way. It would be interesting to have some way of telling for certain the speed at which one of those well-grown jack rabbits can travel when aroused. People are apt to think of rabbits as little chaps which go hopping along close to the ground but the big jack has a great set of legs on him when they are extended. The best hound dog in the country might as well quit before he starts if he is going to try and run down a fair-sized jack rabbit.

If they become numerous in a farming community they are a decided nuisance and can do serious enough damage. They girdle apple trees, they will injure a field of fall wheat and have been known to tackle berry bushes. We have heard a farmer telling of jack rabbits which will get on an outside haystack and burrow in from top or side and in that way leave openings for rain and snow. It is easy enough to believe that one of 23 pounds was shot, as those who are well versed in such matters tell us a well-developed jack-rabbit will go from 20 to 26 pounds.

The Life Of a Reporter

Newspaper reporters are a class of people separate and apart from the usual run of folk. In the nature of their business they go many places; they see people who are at times not at all pleased to see them; they ask questions which individuals would prefer not to answer. When there is a crowd in a building your reporter man will generally know of a back door or a side door where he can enter. If some person has been set to guard such entrances chances are the reporter knows him, and instead of shoving the reporter out he leads him in and finds a chair.

They are called on to do a number of things. The other day in London two residents of Woodstock came because they wanted to have a look at a couple of men who had been arrested in St. Thomas on a charge of armed robbery. They believed they could identify them. Police in London wanted to arrange a line-up where the men taken in St. Thomas could be placed on view along with others. There were not many prisoners on hand at the moment, so the available reporters as well as a press photographer were pressed into service along with the prisoners. The Woodstock people came in and looked over the assortment carefully and then one of them pointed and said, "That one looks more like the bandit than any of the others." And the identifying agent from Woodstock pointed right square at one of the London reporters.

Dorothy Said "Bunk!"

The German-American Bund took occasion to celebrate Washington's birthday in New York by holding a great rally at Madison Square Garden, a place where 22,000 persons can be seated. We do not believe any person takes it for granted these people were anxious to honor the memory of Washington, but they were keen to seize at any national tradition and turn it to their own ends. Their particular point at the moment was to find occasion to denounce the Jews and jeer President Roosevelt.

The gathering was permitted by civic authorities because it was held that free speech must prevail in New York. There was one incident in the meeting itself which showed how much of "free speech" there actually was. Dorothy Thompson, one of the informed writers on European politics, was at the press table representing a New York paper. She listened patiently to one of the addresses and finally said "Bunk!" and out she went, and was allowed to return only when she claimed she had as much right to free speech as any of the others. Her explanation of why she said "Bunk" was that the speaker at the moment was repeating Hitler's book, "Mein Kampf," word for word. Dorothy Thompson had read the book several times and could at once identify each passage quoted from it.

So it was not a case of "free speech" at all. It was the German-American Bund making use of Washington's birthday to repeat Hitler's principles to the German people in United States, to keep the Nazi party in United States in step under the guise of American patriotism. It seems Dorothy Thompson told the truth when she used that significant little word "Bunk."

Mr. Chamberlain's Method

Prime Minister Chamberlain has issued his first book, and he took a splendid way for a busy man to do it. He did not go off to some retreat where he could sit and ponder, nor did he frequent strange corners of the world where he might search for a plot.

Mr. Chamberlain uses the title "In Search of Peace," and the material is found in a number of speeches which he has delivered since he took over 10 Downing Street. No doubt the addresses have been edited to make them letter perfect, but it has been simply a case of using material already on hand, and any person who has ever written a book or anything else knows well enough that is an ideal way of securing material without too much effort.

It is right enough and safe enough for Mr. Chamberlain to follow this line of least resistance when he desires to enter the book field because he has the faculty of delivering good addresses to which the world has been ready to listen. There are other speakers to whom entrance to the book field by the same method is effectively barred for the blunt reason that their speeches are not good enough.

NOTE AND COMMENT

In Toronto 225 men on relief were called to help clean the city streets but only eight reported. Possibly it is more comfortable digging into relief supplies than into snow banks.

There have been several wolf hunting parties operating in this district with little success. And it's hard enough to get pot shot at the one that lingers at the door.

There are 80,000,000 telephone conversations per day in Canada and United States. No figures are available on the number which start with "Guess who's speaking."

Eleven men were in court in Old London charged with having offended against the Explosives Act. As we understand it that had nothing to do with freedom of the press or free speech.

Regina figured a while ago it had a surplus of $17,000 from the year 1938, but finds now it is all a mistake. And in so doing Regina is merely following a path on which many have walked before.

One of the demands made upon the folk who operate service stations this winter is that they shall be skilled in the art of shovelling snow and piling it into heaps which look as though they will last until next winter.

Britain now has a trade agent visiting in Russia, and not many years ago British police were raiding the office of the Russian trading company in London. So evidently there has been a change of mind or a greater need to do some business.

One court says driving a car with defective brakes is criminal conduct. We do not know if that will help much as a good many cars which get into trouble are reported as being in good mechanical condition. The most serious defect is apt to be sitting in the place behind the driver's wheel.

A-B-C-D

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Now Mrs. A. is most discreet, of what she says when friends she'll meet, that is her view on life; she met with Mrs. B. today, and whispered gossip of the day, a man had left his wife.

¶ She would not tell, said Mrs. B., she swore herself to secrecy, she'd never spill a word; she'd treat the news with deep regret, as something she'd at once forget, a thing she had not heard.

¶ But Mrs. B. was going for tea, to have a chat with Mrs. C., a social sort of life; she dropped the news to Mrs. C., and she was shocked as she could be, a man had left his wife.

¶ And Mrs. C. she closed her lip, she'd never tell a bit of it, it was such shocking news; she would not gossip to a friend, with her the scandal talk would end, she had decided views.

¶ But Mrs. D. dropped in that night, to see if she was feeling right, and Mrs. C. drew near; it was a secret most profound, and must not make its way around, she made that very clear.

¶ Then Mrs. D. met Mrs. A., and told her she had things to say, but nothing must be said; then Mrs. A. perked up her brow, and started wondering just how—her secret yarn had spread.

Does Machinery Displace Labor

W. J. Cameron presents an interesting survey of the influence of labor-saving machinery. It could well be called an argument, and he confines it pretty much to one operation, the inner shell of a hubcap for a Ford car.

AT DEARBORN we are working on an exhibit for the New York World's Fair next year to visualize this ancient controversy between handwork and machine work as to their effect on employment. A very simple object has been chosen for the illustration—the inner shell of the hubcap of a Ford car. This article, made by machinery, costs 12-and-a-fraction cents. But the dies to shape it cost $18,328, and the automatic press to stamp it costs $50,770 — a machine costing $44,096 to make a 12-cent article. That is merely the cost of the press, it does not include the cost of factory space to house it, of generating power to operate it, or expert service and replacements to maintain it. To pound out that inner shell by hand would cost only 24 for tools. So, in the Ford exhibit, an expert handworker will be installed, and a press will be installed beside him that will turn out 2,160 of these shells in the time it takes him to make one. The machine method and the hand method will thus appear in dramatic contrast. Those who view the exhibit will naturally think of the effect of machinery on employment. And that is the intention. What is the answer?

The first part of the answer is that machinery begins to create employment before ever it goes into production. Take this press. Divide its price by a day's wage of say $7—for every dollar of material cost is ultimately reducible to someone's work. At this rate the press and dies represent 6,300 days' work, which at five days a week, 52 weeks a year, amounts to 24 years, two months and two weeks of work. You may divide that amongst as many men as you please, but a total of 24 years of employment at $7 a day has gone into that press and its equipment before it does a stroke of work. Whatever its after effect, you can see that the first effect of the machine is to create employment.

Now we put this press into production; it turns out 2,160 hubcap shells where a handworker is pounding out one. Would there be more jobs if only handworkers were employed?—for, really, it seems that this press, at this production, must be destroying 2,160 possible jobs.

MADE BY HAND

VERY WELL, let us consider making this article by hand. At first glance, it seems to offer an advantage. Equipping a man with hand tools at $24 would seem to be a great saving over a $44,000 press. But, to produce as many hubcaps by hand, and to equip 2,160 men to do it, would cost $7,742 more than the press. At once the cost of producing that shell would be increased by 17½ per cent for tools alone. Then, there would have to be a factory to house those 2,160 men, which at Ford standards would cost at least half a million dollars and about $38,000 a year to maintain, not including the cost of its two acres of land. A press requires 360 square feet of space; the handworkers with their benches would need 116,640 square feet of space.

But, let us say that for the sake of employment all this were done—you would expect to pay these men at least as much as men on the press are paid, wouldn't you?—for the handworker works much harder. In an 8-hour day, then, a man could pound out 2.7 hubcap shells. For the material used, and the day's wage of $7.20 now paid on that work, those shells would cost about $2.50 each. Pretty high for an article that can be made for 12 cents! Maybe you think you would be willing to pay that:—"in the interest of employing those men," you say, "I would pay that higher cost." But would you? We can say quite definitely that you would not. For if this principle were followed throughout all the manufacture of an automobile, you would not be buying a car at all. It is calculated that the cost of making a 1938 Ford car on this basis would be $17,850. And at such a price, not 50 cars a year would be sold. There would not be work for one of those 2,160 men you are anxious about, nor for the 125,000 other men in the Ford industry alone. Without machinery there would be no automobile industry.

"Well," you say, "that would be bad. Could not you avoid that by paying for handwork just what it is worth?" Hardly, for under that arrangement a man on this hubcap shell job would earn about 16 cents a day — about what they pay in China."

MISSING TYPIST.

ALTHOUGH the whole of Queensland's police force has been engaged almost exclusively for the past month in trying to find, alive or dead, Miss Marjorie Rose Norval, aged 30, typist in the Premier's office, her disappearance remains a profound mystery. She left her hotel one night with £30, and disappeared. She was the social secretary to the Premier's wife part of her time, and one of the best-known young women in Queensland.

The Government offered a reward of £500 for information leading to her discovery, or the finding of her body, but no one has come forward to claim it. Feature of the search was the work of mounted police, who examined country swamps and wells and creeks. — Australian Press Union.

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics

JUSTICE, THE KEYNOTE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—The popular response to The Leadership League indicates national discontent with the present system of government. To reap practical benefit early organization to give it point, vitality and an objective upon an agreed policy is imperative. The one principle which will secure the support of the great majority is that of JUSTICE, which must be the dominant feature in any worth while policy of reform. It is therefore essential to recognize the fact that there exists two separate and distinct forms of "rights" in which every citizen is vitally interested namely, individual rights, and communal rights.

These rights are not contradictory but supplemental, each supreme in its proper sphere. The line of demarkation clear and distinct; both can be fully enjoyed and protected without injustice to either. These rights are natural and inherent, having the validity and quality of self enforcement peculiar to natural laws, rewarding obedience and punishing violations. Because they are ignored in present systems of government, all the social ills and disorders are the inevitable consequences.

Reform must come from the common people. The old system has been weighed in the balances of past experiences and found wanting, and no help can be hoped for from its supporters. The people have the right to determine what form of government suits them. When the issues are clearly placed before the people, they will decide wisely.

A. S. THOMPSON, M.D.
Havelock, Feb. 20.

ARE YOU A DETECTIVE?

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—When people gather to discuss things in general it happens now and then that some topic will come up which is of more than passing interest. This one has nothing to do with curing our economic ills or fixing the price of wheat or anything like that. We happened to turn up the question of the two men who robbed a service station and garage on Park street and who were afterward caught at Manvers station because a farmer was wise enough to see them and connect them with the robbery in Peterborough.

From there the discussion centred on the question of "What would you do if you were in their position?" If you and your colleague in such an undertaking found that you had $200 at 10 o'clock in the evening, and knew also that before long an alarm would be raised, what would you do? How would you plan to get away without the use of a car? Any person who likes to read an occasional detective story can readily see how interesting that question is.

We heard it argued that these two men had taken the wrong course because they had been caught, and the fact that they were caught proves their plans were wrong. They could not very well have turned back into the city for they had been here for several days and might well be recognized by police. So there's the question—what would you have done had you been in such a position.

One man suggested their first mistake was in going off together. When they travelled as a pair they would be under suspicion at once because it was known that two men had been connected with the robbery. His suggestion was that they should have split the money as soon as possible and then gone their separate ways with a plan to meet again in some other town or city as soon as they could conveniently reach it by different routes. The one who suggested that considered the pair were inviting capture by staying together and there seems to be some sound sense in that argument.

Another suggestion from the detective group was that after the money was divided it would have been a good plan to find a place where it could be concealed, and after doing that make a trip to the police station and apply for a night's lodging. It was held that a bold move like that would have had chances of success, because one would hardly suspect that men guilty of a crime would turn up at the police station when they would know the police would be looking for them. They would be searched there but there would be no trace of the money.

We found the topic an interesting one to wrangle over, and I wonder if any of your readers have a yen for this sort of stuff. Could you figure out the proper plan, and would your plan stand up under analysis. You and your friend have $200 in cash at 10 at night; you have no car, and yet you want to get away to safety. Has any one a suggestion how it could be done?

EDGAR WALLACE II.
Peterborough, Feb. 21.

NEED OF CO-OPERATION

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—During the last few months, owing to the lead of the Agricultural Committee of our County Council, and the U.F.O. in Toronto, the farmers of Peterborough county are thinking in terms of co-operation. The theme running through George McCullagh's series of radio talks was, that he wished the people of Canada to think, and his topic Marching on to what? is just as applicable to our farming communities as it is to the members of the urban groups.

Speaking for our farmer groups and organizations in Peterborough county we need to think, and what is more to organize for our mutual benefit. We have here in our agricultural centre, a splendid body of organizations, each fitting its purposes admirably for the group it serves. However, as a body of groups for bargaining and other purposes, to secure some measure of adequate returns for our various members we are a negligible quantity.

On Saturday was launched in Peterborough what may well prove to be a very important step in the matter of recognition, by our governing bodies of the needs and requirements of the 700,000 farmers of Canada. This initial move will be closely watched and copied if we measure up to the standard set up therein.

We have already in Canada our dominion wide Chamber of Agriculture, in our own province the Ontario Chamber of Agriculture, and now in Peterborough county a Chamber of Agriculture. These various chambers are gradually linking up our organized farm groups throughout the entire Dominion. We wish to impress upon our rural groups the great need of this organization. Our manufacturers have been united for years and when they wish something in their interests they are able to demand it. Our labor unions cover the entire field of labor and have a bargaining power that is felt and respected at all times.

Hence we of the farm must of very necessity get together mutually or keep on losing out as we are doing every day. The series of co-operative education meetings running for two weeks in Peterborough county, and led by wide awake and experienced young men and women from all parts of our province, are providing a splendid lead for the organization now launched by our county council.

Co-operation along the lines of proven and tried channels has been shown to be an outstanding success in Sweden, Denmark, England, part of the United States and elsewhere throughout the world.

All over the agricultural sections today our farm revenues are so depressed that numbers are leaving them for what?—in many cases relief. The very nature of farming, working hand in hand with nature, in the growing and finishing of better live stock of all kinds provides an occupation second to none. But when the results of such labor have to be sacrificed, then we have a people of discontent, a people bitter and the rising generation of sons and daughters entirely dissatisfied with their lot.

Dr. Reynolds then president of the O.A.C. some 20 years ago in Peterborough at the U.F.O. banquet in the Empress, stated that farmers revenues, if not increased along with a moderate standard of living would result eventually in our farm standard being lowered to the peasantry form of life in certain European countries. The executive of our local U.F.O. club realizing that something must be done are freely extending their help to the co-operative leaders at present in our midst.

Mr. Editor there are so many angles to discuss that I cannot trespass too long on your valuable space. The need of something is with us and co-operation along sane and tried lines seems to me well worth emulating.

Yours truly,
C. E. MOORE.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

HEAR, YE CHILDREN, the instruction of a father, and attend to know understanding....My son, attend to my words; incline thine ear unto my sayings. Let them not depart from thine eyes; keep them in the midst of thine heart. For they are life unto those that find them, and health to all their flesh. Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life.—Prov. iv, 1, 20-23.

Let us therefore, as many as be perfect, be thus minded: and if in any thing ye be otherwise minded, God shall reveal even this unto you. —Phil. iii, 13-15.

FIRST THINGS FIRST

An executor's duties start with applying for probate: they continue through advertising for and paying debts, getting in the assets, realizing them, paying Succession Duties, setting up trusts, making distribution to the beneficiaries, up to the final passing of accounts before the Courts. It is a lengthy process, replete with formalities, full of traps for the inexperienced. ¶ When you entrust your estate to a private executor you entrust it to one who, in a great majority of cases, will act in this capacity for the first time, and who will necessarily find it difficult, having his own business and family, to give your affairs his best attention. ¶ By appointing the Toronto General Trusts your executor, you will be employing a Corporation whose business it has been for fifty-six years to administer estates. Its knowledge, gained from wide experience with every type of estate and estate problem, will be concentrated on the efficient fulfilment of your Will. We invite your inquiries.

Principal T. W. Chaplin Appointed Postmaster Of Lakefield Succeeding Late Wm. Casement

New Postmaster

T. W. CHAPLIN
principal of the Lakefield Public School who has been appointed postmaster following examinations of the Civil Service Commission.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 22.—Principal T. W. Chaplin of the Lakefield Public school has been advised by the Canadian Civil Service Commission at Ottawa, of his appointment to the position of postmaster at Lakefield. He succeeds William H. Casement whose death in October brought to an end a record term of over sixty years as Lakefield's postmaster. Mr. Casement was appointed on February 2, 1875, which leaves a period of over sixty-four years between these two appointments.

The announcement of Mr. Chaplin's appointment was first made public in this week's issue of the Canada Gazette which is an official publication of the Canadian government.

Field of 13 Candidates.

Mr. Chaplin was chosen from a field of thirteen applicants who tried civil service examinations here in January.

T. W. Chaplin has resided in Lakefield for the past ten years, having come to the village in September 1928, to take over the principalship of the Public school.

Born in Campbellford, Lakefield's new postmaster is a son of the late William Chaplin and Mrs. Chaplin of Campbellford. He was educated in the Public and High schools there and in the spring of 1917, enlisted with the Canadian Engineers Regiment and served in England and France until the end o fthe war. He went into Germany with the army of occupation after the signing of the armistice.

Mr. Chaplin began his course at the Toronto Normal school in 1919.

Hastings Principal.

He taught first at Masson's school near Campbellford, where he spent two years. He was six years in Hastings as principal of the Public school there, and in September, 1928, he took over his duties as principal of Lakefield Public school.

Mr. Chaplin is a member of the Canadian Legion, and the Masonic Order, and since coming to Lakefield has been active in curling, hockey and baseball circles, being interested in sports of all kinds.

He is a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Lakefield, a man of high moral character and fine ideals.

Since coming to the village Mr. Chaplin has thrown himself into the life of the community and has contributed in no small way to its social, religious and sporting activities.

Municipal Taxes Need Reform Say Housing Men

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP).—Delegates to the national conference on housing here do not believe that the basic problem of the housing industry today is attributable to "the present system of unfair, outworn and unbalanced taxation on realty as compared to other forms of wealth."

A resolution to that effect, moved by Controller Norah F. Henderson, Hamilton, was rejected at a session yesterday although those against the resolution agreed that municipal taxation needed reform.

Arthur B. Purvis, Montreal, chairman of the former National Employment Commission, said in an address before the conference last night that he believed the Dominion Housing Act had not met with greater success because of lack of support and lack of understanding of the program.

Mr. Purvis, president of Canadian Industries, Ltd., said national co-operation is necessary to achieve more success with the Dominion's low-rental housing plans. He suggested community effort instead of government expense to develop the home improvement plan.

Some Planning Efforts.

He said that local organizations in hundreds of communities could help to obtain understanding and support of the program by arranging zoning and planning efforts, taxation exemption and demolition requirements for health purposes. Co-operation had to be worked for and could not be enforced.

He suggested that the co-operative machinery receive Dominion Government blessing and be non-political.

Earlier, Harold Manning, Toronto, one of the founders of the Ontario Property Owners' Association, attacked the National Housing Act. He said it would impose more municipal taxes on property owners. Under provisions of the act the Federal Government is authorized to lend 90 per cent of the cost of low-rent dwelling projects to municipalities.

The conference passed a resolution that "The legislation embodied in the National Housing Act is, in general, soundly conceived." The resolution urged that "those provinces which have not passed the enabling legislation do so at once."

Mrs. A. Lawton Is Hostess To W.M.S.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HARWOOD, Feb. 22.—The February meeting of the Bethesda Woman's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. A. Lawton.

Mrs. F. McCulloch, the vice-president, presided. Plans were made to make quilts to be packed with clothing to be shipped to the Pine River district.

The meeting was in charge of the group leader, Mrs. R. E. Drope. The scripture reading was given by Mrs. Albert Tuck. The theme for the month being "Learning to Live Together," was given by Mrs. F. McCulloch. A guitar solo was rendered by Miss Marjorie McCulloch.

Mrs. Drope gave a reading, "The Gallery of Heroes." The roll call was answered by a verse of scripture.

Lunch was served by the hostess. The March meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Andrew Carruthers, with Mrs. Wallace Bell as group leader.

Franco May Drop Premier's Post

PERPIGNAN, France, Feb. 22 (CP-Havas).—Reports from reliable sources in insurgent Spain today said General Franco plans soon to retire as Premier, remaining chief of state and head of the armed forces.

He would be succeeded as head of the Cabinet by his brother-in-law, Ramon Serrano Y Suner, Minister of the Interior and of Press and Propaganda, according to these reports.

Serrano Y Suner was a friend and collaborator of the late Jose Antonio Primo De Rivera, founder of Phalangista, the Spanish Fascist party.

It was expected that General Miguel Gomez Jordana, vice Premier and Foreign Minister, will become a Minister without portfolio, being replaced as Foreign Minister by a diplomat, and that Raimundo Fernandez Cuesta will be replaced as Minister of Agriculture by a technical expert.

General Jose Fidel Davila, commander of the northern forces, was expected to leave the War Ministry to become captain-general and inspector-general of the land, sea and air forces.

The future War Minister was expected to be either Brig.-General Miguel Aranda, the defender of Oviedo now in command of the eastern army, or General Jose Moscardo, the hero of Toledo and commander of the insurgent Aragon forces.

British Envoy To United States Is Expected To Retire

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Reports were current in diplomatic circles today that Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador in Washington, will retire this year, after the royal visit to the United States.

The same reports declared that his successor at the British embassy will not be a professional diplomat.

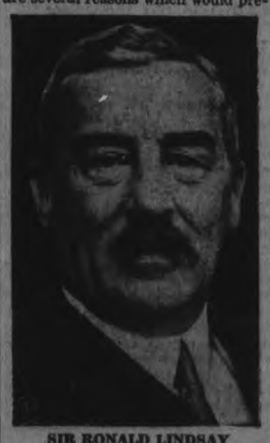
Sir Ronald is in his 62nd year, and has been British ambassador to the United States since 1930.

Two names are being mentioned in connection with the post. One is Anthony Eden, former British foreign minister, who has hereditary connections with the United States and whose recent visit to America was an all-round success.

If he went to Washington, it would mean his removal from the political scene for the years that matter and eventually enable him to come back into the government under the leadership of some future successor to Neville Chamberlain, with whom Eden quarrelled.

Eden Reports Scouted

Inner Whitehall circles scout the possibility of Eden going to Washington, however. They claim there are several reasons which would prevent him being offered or accepting the job.



SIR RONALD LINDSAY
May Retire

The second name being mentioned is that of Oliver Stanley, who as president of the board of trade conducted the delicate negotiations that led to the Anglo-American trade agreement, one of the biggest Chamberlain government successes of 1938.

Like Eden, Stanley has not been in the diplomatic service, has an engaging personality and a considerable private fortune.

Pressure will be brought to bear on the government not to appoint a non-professional diplomat to the Washington post, but those who are in favor of such an appointment point out that one of the greatest British ambassadors to the United States was Lord Bryce, who was not a trained diplomat.

Col. Oliver Passes

GALT, Ont., Feb. 22.—(CP).—Col. Andrew J. Oliver, a native of Ottawa and one of Galt's best known citizens, died last night. He had been ailing for a year and a few weeks ago suffered a stroke. He had been connected with the militia for more than 40 years. He mobilized the 34th Battalion, C.E.F. in Guelph in January, 1915, and a few months later took the unit overseas.

He joined the Waterloo regiment here in 1898 and at the time of his death was honorary lieutenant-colonel of the H. L. I. of C.

Alderville Couple Are Given Shower

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ALDERVILLE, Feb. 22—A miscellaneous shower of gifts, and a dance was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Marsden on Saturday night in honor of their daughter, Sara, a recent bride, who, with her husband, Mr. Gibson, of Clarkson, are spending a few days with her parents. A large crowd was in attendance to honor the young people.

BOSTON, Feb. 22. — (AP).—Don't tuck the baby in at night, Dr. William Cogan of Cambridge, warned at a meeting of the Massachusetts Chiropdy Association, that "tucking in aids development of hammer-toes and drop foot, for it forces the foot into an unnatural, contracted position."

Young's Point Holds Two Euchre Parties

(Examiner Correspondence.)

YOUNG'S POINT, Feb. 22. — A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mrs. Duggan, Sr., on Monday, her grandaughter, Miss Helen Coons, being the hostess.

Five tables of progressive euchre were played, the prize winners being: Ladies 1st, Mrs. Merrill; gentleman's 1st, Cyril Young; lone hands prize, Mrs. E. C. Moore.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostess after the card games were finished. Mrs. Duggan, in spite of her great age, 84 years, was one of the players and heartily enjoyed the game.

Among those present were: Rev. E. C. and Mrs. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. C. Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. A. Duggan, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wilson, Mrs. Wilbert McNaughton, Mrs. O'Grady, Mrs. Wm. Scollard, Miss Lynch, Messrs. Wm. Dever, Freddy Coones, Charlie Young, Cyril Young.

A delightful euchre party was held in St. Aidan's hall on Thursady evening under the auspices of St. Aidan's church. Six tables were played and after a series of fourteen games the following were awarded prizes Ladies' first, Mrs. E. C. Moore; gents' first, Mr. Victor Young; ladies' travelling prize, Mrs. A. Duggan; gents' travelling prize, Mr. A. Duggan; lone hands prize, Mrs. Scollard.

Refreshments were served by an efficient committee. This will be the last card party until after Easter.

Mrs. Clifford Northey and little son returned to the home of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. C. Merrill from Nicholls Hospital, Peterboro, on Thursday, both doing fine.

The 49th State?

DETROIT, Feb. 22—(CP)—Public hearings will be held March 1 on the proposal of Councilman John A. Kronk that Detroit and the five south-eastern counties of Michigan secede from the state and set up a 49th state, tentatively named the state of industry. Detroit city council approved the plan to hold public hearings and invited representatives of industrial and labor organizations to testify.

PETERBOROUGH NEEDS TO EXTEND ITS HOSPITAL

BECAUSE—

THE Nicholls Hospital Trust has nothing to conceal in making its request for an extension to its present hospital facilities. If it had then it would have a weak case which it would not bring before the people.

One of the first questions asked is: "Why would not an addition to the present building suit the purpose instead of erecting a new building?" That is a reasonable question and can be adequately answered.

The main building was erected fifty years ago and it does not lend itself to extension. Building an extension would leave in existence all the defects and inconveniences and dangers which at present exist.

There are in the present plant 12 heating units in operation, including hot air, hot water and steam. Those responsible for the safe conduct and operation know well enough there is a fire risk present which ought not to be tolerated because the present structure is not fire proof nor could it be made so.

Some time ago when an old upright boiler had to have the tubes replaced it was necessary to bring in the engine of a threshing outfit, and place it in the yard outside and secure the needed steam in that way. That is mentioned only to show the efforts which have been made to try and get along with the old equipment, and it is now felt that it is not possible to continue meeting emergencies in such a way.

There are rooms being used now for hospital bed purposes which were never intended for such usage. When such changes were made the Trust realized it was not in accordance with good hospital practice, but there was no other way open. The result is that these rooms are difficult to adequately heat or ventilate.

Why Should the City Bear the Cost?

THAT is a natural question when the Hospital is offering its services to all who apply for admission when there is room to take them in. According to regulations of the Province a Hospital cannnot turn a patient away if there is a place for that patient. It makes no difference who that patient is or from what community he or she may come. It is the policy of the open door and the Nicholls Hospital Trust has no desire to depart from it. Nor could it.

Admittedly there is no compulsion to force the city to build a Hospital. There was no compulsion to build a Y.M.C.A. or a Y.W.C.A. There was no compulsion placed on any person to build all the splendid churches in Peterborough; no compulsion to force a firm or an individual to build a factory or a store, nor is there any compulsion to say a man must build a home.

Building a Hospital is not an act of compulsion. It is merely recognizing human need in a practical way, providing for those who are sick, injured, or who in any way need the good services which a modern Hospital can give.

Present Operations Are Difficult

LAST YEAR in Nicholls Hospital there were 155,759 meals provided in a kitchen which was designed to serve 50 people, but it is now attending to 160 including patients and Hospital staff.

It is not possible under present arrangements to have adequate refrigeration service, and that in turn hinders buying being done to advantage.

There are each day 1,290 pieces of laundry going through a department which is old and not at all adequate either in extent or equipment to cope with the load it is carrying today.

The Hospital Trust has not a thing to conceal. It welcomes and invites any and all questions or suggestions. Nothing more is asked than that everything shall be revealed to the people of Peterborough.

Send in your questions! The committee is anxious to answer all questions concerning this proposal. Address them to Sec. Nicholls Hospital Trust, Peterborough.

LOCAL COLTS ELIMINATED IN JUNIOR "B" BY OSHAWA SQUAD

One-Sided Tilt Sees Locals Rubbed Out 10-0

OSHAWA, Feb. 22.—Frank Black's juniors captured their group championship and earned the right to enter the provincial playdowns for the O.H.A. "B" championship here last night when they blanked the Peterborough "Colts" by 10 to 0 in a free-swing hockey tilt which was interesting despite the one-sided score.

The victory was the third in a group schedule of four games between the two clubs and spoiled the Liftlock City crew's lone chance of tying up the standing and so forcing a sudden-death game.

Does Handsprings

With young Cournyea doing handsprings, splits and back flips in the Peterborough net, in addition to catching and kicking pucks from all directions and angles, the Colts stayed very much in the picture for the first two periods, despite an opening volley of three goals and a lone tally added in the middle canto.

In the third period, Oshawa's lanky centre ice star "Wally" Wilson went on a scoring rampage, greatly aided by "Scotty" Reid, former member of the Memorial Cup final "Generals," and his defenceman Kitchen. Wilson scored four goals in the last twenty minutes two unassisted, and he assisted in two more, bringing his game total to four goals and three assists. Reid had two goals and there assists while Peters, left winger on the same line, scored three goals, one in each period.

Williams, Pammett, Parnell and Wade were the pick of the visitors but their goalie copped the big share of their glory.

Referee "Red" Creighton of Peterborough handled the game without any trouble, meting out only three penalties.

Peterborough: Goal, Cournyea; defence, Parnell and Curtin; centre, Williams; wings, Pammett and Craig; alternatives, Foster, Wade, McDonald, Berwick and Ward.

Oshawa: Goal, Phillips; defence, Murphy and Fraser; centre, Wilson; wings, Reid and Peters; alternates, McMaster, McMullen, York, Yourth and Kitchen.

Referee—R. Creighton, Peterborough.

The summary:

First Period

Oshawa—Reid (York) 9.10
Oshawa—McMullen (York) 13.20
Oshawa—Peters (Reid, Fraser) 18.40
Penalties—Fraser, Wilson.

Second Period

Oshawa—Peters (Wilson, Murphy) 13.30
Penalty—Wade.

Third Period

Oshawa—Wilson ..... .50
Oshawa—Wilson (Reid, Kitchen) 6.55
Oshawa—Wilson (Reid) 7.50
Oshawa—Peters (Wilson) 9.00
Oshawa—Reid (Kitchen, Wilson) 15.05
Oshawa—Wilson 16.00
Penalties—None.

Ramey Defeats Maxie Berger

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—(CP). — Max Berger's hopes of claiming the more or less synthetic welterweight title went glimmering to-day, after an eight-round defeat at the hands of West Ramey, but the Canadian lightweight champion from Montreal moves on to fight in the big time nevertheless.

Berger had intended claiming the synthetic title if he won from the Michigan fighter last night and, though the fans' sentiment favored him, and he put up his usual ringwise and daring show, the judge gave the duke to Ramey.

The loss didn't take anything to speak of from Maxie's stature, nevertheless, because at 22, he is recognized among the fight trade as a nifty piece of fighting machinery not yet in its prime.

At present the junior welterweight title is unrecognized, having been deprived of official approval in 1929. Later, as part of the welterweight title holder's claim, it went from Tony Canzoneri to Barney Ross in 1933 and, were it to be revived, doubtless Henry Armstrong would be the first man to get his grabhooks on it.

Berger, carefully groomed since he started fighting hereabouts two years or so ago, makes his first Madison Square Garden start March 17 in a 10-round bout against Pedro Montanez of Puerto Rico.

Digging up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Monarchs, our junior "C" entry in the O.H.A., must ha' known what they were doing when they named themselves. On account of Monarchs are leaders and rulers. Though the local Monarchs were led as merry a chase in their schedule this winter as some of the mad rulers who duly misgovern so many lands. They were back of the 8-ball early in the season, despite holding Lindsay's large Midgets to a draw here. The squad coached by Pete Vitarelli hung onto a mathematical chance (you know, those if A and B and C lose and we tie D we gotta slight chance) in their schedule, but how they're stepping now when it's money time! No one figured 'em to beat out Cobourg, yet they did. No one thought they'd have a chance 'gainst the bruising boys of Bowman Ville, yet they 8-6'd them last Monday in Whitby. And the return tilt is here tonight, with goals counting on the round. We'll go out on the limb and call 'em to win and give Lindsay a great old battle in group finals.

* * * * * *

You can't laugh off a bunch of young scrappers like this. They didn't get too much publicity all along — as losing teams can't expect the bouquets—but they didn't yelp; they just kept battling away. Maybe they can't read, or maybe they just never got down to the "q" in the dictionary, but anyway they dunno what "quit" means. They'll give the Bowmanville huskies a real fight here tonight, and this colorful young squad rates a big crowd. It's a do-or-die game for one or the other team, a group semi-final windup. This is a junior "C" team that had second choice at all juniors in the city, and they've done okay to come along at the finish as they have. They might well rub out Bowmanville and even the packed Lindsay "B"—er, podden, pliss, it's "C"—team might fall before 'em. It's possible.

The Only Puck Game

This will be about the only hockey game in Peter Robinson's town this week, and fans should give a scrappy junior team, full of ginger and ambish, plenty of support. We'll guarantee they'll see lots of action. This is the lineup that beat the big B's on Monday: Goal, Morrison; defence, Beggs, Giardino; centre, Rochetta; wings, Vitarelli, Connelly; subs, Mortimer, Clarke, Mackness, Nicholls, DeCarlo. That centre, Joe Rochetta, is not the best player on the team but looks like a real comer to us—tricky, heady and colorful. Beggs also is a natural. Bowmanville will gang up like the Gas House boys in this goals-to-count contest, and it'll be a streamlined sweetheart of a scrap.

* * * * * *

We got a kick out of the School Puck Loop final last e'en in the Brock. King Edward winning the title by 3-2 on the game and 4-3 on the playoff round. They just nosed out Prince of Wales, shy on subs, in a lively fray as the kid rooters nearly blew the shingles off the roof with their whoops of joy or displeasure. Congrats to Coach Don Crawford and his squad, and tough luck to the losers. The teacher-coaches of these six teams do a good job and the kids get a lot out of this minor league each winter. Quite a few right promising puckists were noted—and this isn't taffy, but they really could step along and massage the black biscuit. Lots of speed, puck ability and clean play. It's first-rate training for hockeyists here.

* * * * * *

Jim Ellis writes home from Miami that he and Mick Magee are stepping around places now with Madeline Horn, international speed skating champion from Wisconsin. We can imagine Jim and Miss Horn whirling around the corners on ice, both being ace steppers on the frozen aqua. Their puck loop has nearly folded, more or less exhibition tilts now—with Jim and Mick on an all-star team which won its first start—but both Peterborough players will stick there till spring, playing and teaching skating. Can't help wondering what they've got that we haven't, to kick in such a soft winter down there!

* * * * * *

Quite a few local and district hockey fans will trek to Toronto this Saturday on the C.N.R. special train to see Boston Bruins and Leafs tangle. On account of it is Dit Clapper Night at Maple Leaf Gardens. The Hastings' boy will receive a presentation from his friends in Hastings at the game, and fans are going from Campbellford, Hastings, Keene and Peterborough. Leaves here at 2.10, return fare being $1.95 for adults. Info may be had at the ticket office. We understand a block of seats at the rink will be reserved and can be bought here or on the train. It's quite a thing, too, when the Bruins come to town in Toronto as there are half a dozen train excursions there that day—including one from Buffalo.

Colts Were Haltered

Our junior Colts were shovelled out of further "B" competition for this year last e'en in Oshawa, suffering a 10-0 reverse in their third loss of four starts. The Motor City crew proved too tough for 'em and that is decidedly that. Cournyea played a good game in goal, with little protection whilst Wade, Parnell, Williams and a few more tried hard in a losing cause. The Colts didn't click so well this season as a team, though there are half a dozen promising young puckists with the squad. Boys who will be heard from in hockey here within the next year or two. So it's tough luck, Colts, and farewell for this semester.

Whitby Argos—they used to be the Red Wings but must have moulted that monicker—are playing the Legionnaires tonight in Lakefield at 8.15 o'clock. First of the home-and-home O.H.A. intermediate "B" group semi-finals, return at Whitby on Friday. It'll be a sizzling scrap for Mucker Legros and his merry men, but the Legionnaires feel they can win the joust and stick a couple goals in the bank against the return fray. It's goals to count, y'know. Three Peterborough players will be with the Lakefield lads this e'en, Cy Whatley, Les Burton and Mike O'Leary. In the other group semi-final bracket, Sutton last p.m. beat Lindsay 4-2 and will tote a two-goal lead to Scugogville on Thursday.

Southend Hockey

Southend Hockey League games last night were called off owing to heavy snow. Tonight at the Sacred Heart ring at six o'clock, Canucks and St. Peter's clash in a sudden-death bantam semi-final game; Thursday's tilts are: King Edward vs. Beavers at seven in a sudden-death midget semi-final, the winner to meet Westenders in finals—while Maroons and Canucks have their deciding intermediate game at eight, and the first of the two-in-three juvenile finals between King Edward and St. Peter's is at 9.15 o'clock.

Set Torrid Scoring Place On Drumheller Team

Five Brothers Line Up For Alberta Hockey Team

By JACK DEAKIN
Central Press Canadian Correspondent

EDMONTON, Feb. 22.—Brother acts are not new in hockey. Most famous were Bill and Bun Cook of New York Rangers in the National league, and as they faded before Father Time, Neil and Mac Colville took their place with Patrick's razzle-dazzle crew.

Usually the brother act consists of a brilliant duo and seldom more than that. Alberta's Senior Seven league is supplied with color by an exceptionally unique brother attack. Five brothers, the most ever banded together on one team, form Alberta's big brother attack. They are the Bentley boys—Max, Reginald, Scoop, Douglas and Roy—who are sparking Drumheller Miners as they aim for the Dominion's top hockey honors. The Alberta league is composed of Lethbridge, Turner Valley Coleman, Calgary, Olds, Edmonton and the Bentley powered Miners.

Only three of the Bentleys were in Drumheller uniforms last season. Their play, however, paid heavy dividends and they proved popular with fans at the small but hockey-minded coal mining city, in addition to attracting patronage around the league circuit.

All Brought Together

When Drumheller began to build its 1938-1939 squad the club executive was attracted by Doug. and Reg. Bentley, who played with Moose Jaw Millers the year before and plans were made to complete the five-way Bentley brother act. Doug. and Reg. discarded Moose Jaw colors and joined Brothers Scoop, Max and Roy with the Miners.

The Bentley-powered attack produced results and Drumheller has been the highest scoring team in the league, boasting more goals than even the top-flight Lethbridge Maple Leafs. The brothers have amassed more than 75 goals between them as the Miners hit the home stretch with more than 100 goals to their credit.

Miners ice two high-scoring lines and Bentley boys are lethal snipers on both strings. One line, the number one trio, is led by Max, youngest and most brilliant of the five brothers. Max pivots between Doug. and Scoop while Reg. teams up with Dempster Hemming and Bob Kennedy, the latter a threatening candidate for team scoring honors. Roy plays sparingly but has seen much action in utility duty and can hold down a centre or wing berth.

Max, at the age of 18, led the scoring parade in Alberta senior hockey last year. Now, one more year of senior hockey under his belt, he is again among the leaders and out to retain the honors he won last year. The trio, pivoted by Max, supplies Miners with the potency that may enable them to snaffle the playoff bunting at the completion of a gruelling schedule.

Passing Around the Honors

Max and Doug. have been the most consistent scorers, and have topped the statistics once or twice. Scoop, third member of this line, has not fared as prosperously as his brothers, but Reg. has teamed up well with Hemming and Kennedy on the other line and has rated around fifth place consistently.

Miners have rolled up many high scores in league play, and the scoring summary is usually a family affair among the Bentleys. In more than one game they have tallied as many as 20 points. It is a poor night's work if they fail to click for at least 10 points and it is their power that has assured Miners a playoff berth. No less than four of the brothers drop over the boards on a power play, to flash their smooth checker-board passing attack as they apply the pressure.

Four of the five Bentleys—Max, Reg., Scoop and Doug.—were born at Delisle, Saskatchewan. Roy, the eldest, was born at Saskatoon. Roy is 32 years old, Scoop is 26, Reginald 24, Douglas 21 and young Maxie 19. Roy, the big brother in this colorful combination, takes his rightful place at the head of the hockey-playing family. He is playing-coach, and has done a good job in keeping peace in such a large hockey-minded family...and on the team.

Remember When—

Los Angeles All-Stars defeated Fords at Windsor two years ago tonight to win a series billed as the world's amateur basketball championship. The Californians, 1936 Olympic titlists, followed their 40-31 victory over the Canadians with a 28-19 verdict in the second game of the best-of-three series.

Sisti, The Artist, Raises Rent

By Bill Boni
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP).—Tony Sisti, who lives in Buffalo and teaches painting in Buffalo and New York, will expose his work to the art critics next Monday, when a one-man show of his oil paintings and sketches opens at a midtown gallery. But the art critics will be a week late. They should have seen Tony last night.

Ten and 15 years ago, Sisti, on his record, was a pretty fair club fighter. After winning the western New York State amateur bantamweight title by beating five guys in one night, he turned pro and campaigned as a lightweight around Buffalo and Detroit and in Canada.

Meanwhile he had been studying art. When he decided to extend his studies to Europe, he took his boxing gloves with him, and had better than average success in France, Italy and Holland.

Then he hung up the mitts and concentrated on the paint brush and palette—until last night, that is. Last night he came back to fight one more fight, to raise rent money for the gallery where his pictures are being hung.

Out Of Ring 10 Years

But it wasn't a bout for a boxing writer to judge. The boxing writer would have known that Sisti was 36 years old and that he hadn't been in the ring for 10 years. The boxing writer would have noticed the bald spot on the back of Tony's head. He would have seen that Tony's rival, before going down for the second and last time in 1:10 of the first round, hadn't landed a blow.

The art critic, though, could have ignored all that. He could have concentrated on the fact that Sisti threw enough punches to do credit to Henry Armstrong.

The art critic could have admired the technique, the master-touches put in by Freddy Sallanti, Sisti's opponent. The art critic, in fact, could have agreed with the ringsider who said:—

"A work of art, that's what it was." Is there an art critic in the house?

Onion a Fruit

BALTIMORE, Feb. 22.—(AP).—Because Police Magistrate Harry Fine regards the onion as a fruit, not a vegetable, Mrs. Mary Selden was acquitted of a charge of selling four cents' worth of onions in violation of the Sunday law prohibiting the sale of vegetables, but not fruits. "It is a matter of individual taste," said Magistrate Fine.

Edmonton Grads Trim Hamilton

HAMILTON, Feb. 22.—Perennial champions of the ladies' basketball world, Edmonton Grads used graceful and highly effective motions with which to race through an exhibition game against an all-star Hamilton team at Westdale Schools here last night, gaining their 469th victory in twenty-three years of competition by a score of 71-28.

While Hamilton's forces, recruited from McMaster University co-eds and stars of various other local teams, turned in what otherwise would have been a smart display, they were anything but a match for the polished world's champions, who coasted through the opening half in command of a 38-12 score and then turned on the pressure in the last half with a display that lacked little in cohesion, accurate shooting and brilliant ball-handling.

Hamilton showed several players who appeared right at home in the clever warfare, notably Misses Gladys Taylor and Kay Fox, who scored 22 of the team's 28 points between them.

Led by the diminutive Helen Northup and Noel MacDonald, who each scored 17 points, the Grads divided their scoring almost evenly throughout every quarter.

Hamilton—Taylor f 16, Miller f 2, Fox c 6, Stuart g, Smith g, Frey s, Gatenby s, Hillborne s, Brockbank, Bryce s, Young s 4, Hollier s, McFarlane s. Total 28.

Edmonton—Northrup f 17, Brown f 10, McDonald c 17, Dann g 12, Minton g 16, Williamson s 5, Ross s 2, Daniel s. Total 81.

FINN FOR STARTER

HELSINKI—(CP).—Starter Miller, the German who officiated at the Berlin Olympic track events in 1936, will not act at the Olympics here in 1940 as suggested. Official started will be chosen from the Finns.

Game With Whitby Has Been Postponed

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 22 — According to word reaching here from Whitby the Midget game scheduled to be played here on Wednesday night, together with the return game slated to be held in Whitby on Friday, have been indefinitely postponed. Whitby has already eliminated Lindsay in the playdowns and the locals have been conceded a good chance of taking the Whitby team, which is sponsored by the Lion's club there.

Dr. Cuddy called officials here today stating he did not think it wise to expose members of the Whitby team to the scarlet fever which has closed Campbellford schools. No word having been received to the contrary the Lindsay Juveniles will mix it up with the local sextette on Wednesday.

"This group is considerably behind schedule," stated Harold Dunk, who is responsible for the local youngsters' hockey groups, "and we are very anxious to get the game played." Lindsay is tops in this league, comprising Lakefield, Peterborough and Campbellford, and if the bout comes off here Wednesday evening, it should be an interesting affair to watch because the locals have plenty of speed and really get in and play.

Sportsmen Find The Great Outdoors At Its Best In New York Palace

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—(CP)—It was quite a trick but they've done a pretty fair job of cooping up the great outdoors in Grand Central Palace, Lexington Avenue, hard by famed 42nd St., and each day fishermen are rising to the bait at the fourth annual Sportsmen's Show.

Woodland scenes, scent of pine forests, gurgling brooks, snug cabins, Indians, lumber-jacketed guides and not-so-wild animals provide an appropriate setting for displays of hunting and fishing paraphernalia.

There are tanks in which trout flip around lazily; tanks for rainbow-hued tropical fish and an artificial lagoon in which log-rollers and canoe-tilters from Eastern Canada vie with the best from the United States.

Sooner or later the gentry who go indoors to get outdoors meet up with guides from the woods who are there to tell one and all just where to go to get the best of whatever they want. And if you don't meet him right off, you at least hear about George Allen, a wiry little man from New Brunswick, and meet him later.

35 Years On The Job

He's been guiding hunting and fishing parties through New Brunswick for 35 years. He figures, as do many of the other guides, that women as a rule make better "sportsmen" than men and insists you don't have to be wealthy to make a trip in the woods.

"Women are better 'sportsmen' than men because they do less complaining when they meet up with hardships," says Allen. "They are more practical, I guess."

Allen adds that all outdoor sportsmen are democratic but none more so than one of his parties last year, the second cousin of King George VI, Lord Lonsdale, his wife and 12-year-old son.

"Lord Lonsdale?" says Allen. "Well it might have been. He never said so. I always called them Mr. and Mrs. Lonsdale—and the boy—a wonderful little gentleman."

Altogether it's quite a show but the best anglers are not on the billing at all. They are the salesmen in the booths who can lure any wide-eyed hunter or fisherman just by holding up some rod or reel or trick gadget.

BOSTON AND RANGERS CRUSH BLACK HAWKS AND RED WINGS

Rangers Pound Red Wings Down By 7-3

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Feb. 22.—(CP)—The second place New York Rangers unloosed a furious attack for two periods against Detroit Red Wings last night and then coasted to a 7-3 victory that kept them in step with tha National Hockey League's leading Boston Bruins.

A crowd of 10,000 watched the game.

Tiny Thompson suffered a severe injury above the left eye and retired from the game late in the third period. Four minutes from the end of the game Thompson was hit by a terrific drive from Mac Colville and blood streamed to the ice as he went down.

Tiny Thompson

The veteran goaltender was assisted to the dressing room and received five stitches above the left eyelid.

Chuck Conacher took his place without pads in goal, but the Rangers fell back to defensive play and he had no shots to handle.

Two Goals Apiece

Clint Smith and Phil Watson each tallied twice for the Rangers, with Babe Pratt, Neil Colville and Cecil Dillon adding singles. Lynn Patrick picked up three assists in the free-scoring encounter.

The Red Wings played a better game than the score would indicate, giving the Ranger defense plenty of work throughout. They scored one goal in each period, the marksmen being Carl Liscombe, Pete Kelly and Ebbie Goodfellow.

Detroit: Goal, Thompson; defense, Goodfellow, Bowman; centre, Giesebrecht; wings, Wares, Lewis; subs, Young, Barry, Howe, Liscombe, Kilrea, Motter, Stewart, Conacher, Kelly.

Competing

European skiers are proving a trifle to much for Ted Zinkhan, ABOVE, and Luis Cochand, Canadian stars competing in some of the championships over there. In the downhill, 3,600 metre event Cochand placed 30th and Zinkan 33rd, while the combined slalom and downhill proved a little too stiff and they withdrew after the first course.

Monarchs Play Here Tonight

Bowmanville and the local Monarchs clash here tonight (Wednesday) at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink in a group semi-final playoff. The Monarchs, by virtue of an 8-5 win over Bowmanville in Whitby on Monday, carry a three-goal lead into this important tilt. If they can maintain their margin here tonight, the locals will go into the O.H.A. junior "C" group finals against Lindsay Midgets on Friday. But a loss by more than three goals would finish the young Petes for the year and send Bowmanville into the group playoffs. This is a highly important game and should draw a big crowd of fans here tonight.

The young Monarchs are playing a scrappy style of hockey now. Nearly eliminated sometime ago, they fought back to rub out the favored Cobourg crew and then surprised everyone Monday by stepping into Whitby and defeating the big bruising Bowmanville band. However, the latter will gang up here and make it a terrific fight, and the round should end in a blaze of furious action. These teams play hard, exciting hockey and will be playing for keeps tonight. The locals will be at top strength but for Nicholls, out with an injury, while all the Bowmanville team will be on deck. The biggest junior crowd of the year is expected out.

Albert College Whipped 6-3 By Madoc High

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Feb. 22 — The Madoc High School hockey team defeated Albert College, 6-3, in the first game of a home-and-home series for the championship of the eastern section of the Bay of Quinte division C.O.S.S.A.

With goals to count on the round, the black and gold clad lads return to Belleville Thursday night to battle it out for the right to meet Norwood, the winner of the western section.

The brand of hockey put up by both teams was pretty ragged, but both teams were in there with everything they had. Due to road conditions the homesters had only a handful of spectators to support them.

The visitors had a 2-1 edge in the first frame, only to take the low end of it at 4-2 in the second and 6-3 in the last.

Belleville counted first, midway through the opening frame, Partridge slamming in Campbell's pass. Warrel made it two on Harrison's assist, Munro put Madoc on the score sheet by banging in the rebound of J. Thompson's shot.

In the second Nayler tied it up from a scramble beside the Belleville net, then Keller picked the upper corner, to take the lead. Nayler got another on a backhand shot from a mixup in front of the net.

Stewart counted in the third on a long shot that was poorly handled. Nayler got the last for Madoc from Moon and Munro. Belleville got their final on a solo by Moulden, who caught the locals four men up.

Six penalties went to Hawthorne and Lougheed, evenly divided. The game was handled by Townsend of Belleville and Watson of Madoc.

The teams:

Belleville: Goal, Stewart; defence, Lougheed, White; centre, Moulden; wings, Campbell, Partridge; alternates, Woodley, Harrison, Finlay and Warrel.

Madoc: Goal, W. Hawthorne; defence, Moon, T. Hawthorne; centre, Keller; wings, Nayler, Stewart; alternates, Munro, J. Thompson, W. Thompson and White.

Santa Anita Derby Draws Thousands

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The Santa Anita Derby, colorful winter classic for three-year-olds, drew thousands of turf fans to Santa Anita Park to-day for the fifth renewal of the $50,000 event.

Sixteen candidates—10 colts, three geldings and three fillies — were named to go postward for the mile and one furlong race.

Standing out as the general favorite to win the Derby, and move into the forefront of the coming Kentucky Derby picture, was W. E. Boeing's flashy bay colt, Porter's Mite, which proved his class last year in capturing the traditional Belmont Futurity and earning around $70,000.

Peterborough Aces In District Puck Playoffs

Puck Loop Title To King Edward

King Edward School won the 1939 championship of the Public School Hockey League last evening when they nosed out a 3-2 win over Prince of Wales, to take the round, 4 goals to 3. The previous tilt in the home-and-home playoff series, at All Saints' rink, saw these well-matched young squads battle to a 1-1 tie. Yesterday's final was played at the Brock to the accompaniment of much noise from their youthful followers.

Prince of Wales had a 2-0 edge in the first period, with King Edward notching one in the second, and two in a ganging-up third heat. Lack of reserves proved costly to the Wales' squad as they held their own tenaciously throughout in a speedy and interesting tussle. Maudsley got both goals for the losers, while Harris rammed home the first for King Edward, Reil tied the count and Lawson's shot won the game. The teams:

Prince of Wales: Goal, Dorset; defence, Maudsley, Hotrum; centre, Henry; wings, Saunders, Doughty; subs, Beatty, Murduff.

King Edward: Goal, Welch; defence, McGregor, Lawson; centre, Anderson; wings, Jamieson, Riel; subs., Blackwell, Murduff, Close, Harris, Brown.

But 5 Rookies Eligible In Cup Race, Three With Boston Squad, Plus Giesebrecht And Fields

By Jack Calder
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, Feb. 22 — (CP). — It's Boston Bruins and you take your choice when the time comes for calling the National Hockey League rookie of the year, unless the voting ranks go anti-Boston and pick Gus Giesebrecht of Detroit or Willie Fields of New York Americans.

Only five strictly first-year men have made good in the big ice show this season and three of them are brilliant young members of the league-leading Boston club, Goalie Frank Brimsek, Defenceman Jack Crawford, and Wingman Roy Conacher. The others are Giesebrecht, a blond centre, and Fields, a defenceman.

They are the main eligibles for the trophy awarded each season by the league president, Frank Calder, to the top-ranked rookie. Other freshmen have been up for short periods and gone back to the minors, or have made the jump late in the winter.

Amid the paucity of new material the showings of the three Bruin fledglings have been amazing — if they hadn't been, Boston wouldn't be in front. Brimsek is the leader for the Georges Vezina Trophy, awarded to the goalie of the season, and is most people's choice for the Calder Trophy. Crawford has been a success from the start on the league's best defence combination and Conacher has promised to live up to the examples of two illustrious brothers.

Brimsek the Best?

Calder decreed last winter that the winner of his trophy must have started his N.H.L. career in the current season. A single game in the previous season disqualifies the contender.

To many, the balloting for best freshman starts and stops with Brimsek, who tops the league's netminders in shutouts and goals against. Twice he has compiled strings of three straight shutouts, and in stepping into the difficult shoes of Tiny Thompson, the Minnesota youngster has proved himself a cool, confident net guardian.

Others, though, will cite the strength of the Boston defence for a good deal of Brimsek's success and will turn to one of the Bruin C-men, Crawford or Conacher.

It was a tough spot they dropped Crawford into, when Eddie Shore refused to sign a contract at the season's opening. But Toronto Johnny replaced Eddie ably, earning himself a berth for the winter. He is one of the league-leading play-makers among defencemen and a steady cover-upper, adopting many of Shore's mannerisms since the veteran's return to the line-up.

Upholds the Name.

Conacher, fresh from the Toronto amateur ranks, has lived up to the tradition established by his brothers, Lionel and Charlie. With a shot that may equal Charlie's some day, and a hockey sense on the lines of Lionel's, he combines pretty skating and team-play.

Giesebrecht has been a first-class playmaker on a team that never has risen above fifth place. A product of the Michigan-Ontario league he lacks only finish to come up with the league's ranking pivotman. He is seven points below Conacher in the scoring totals.

Fields has had to carry a considerable load since injuries forced Al Murray from Americans' defence. But the youngster from Seattle hasn't been a rushing rear-guard of the Crawford type and his first goal of the season came only Sunday night.

Among the players who have been up for brief periods there is a likely crop of youngsters who likely will get further initiations next season, principally George Allen of New York Rangers, Syd Abel of Detroit, Normie Mann of Toronto and Terry Reardon and Red Hamill of Boston. But they're hardly among the contenders for the Calder trophy.

See Easy Victory For Galento

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 22—(AP). — When Tony Galento, mystery man of the heavyweights, trundles his beer-barrel stomach into the ring for a punch-session with Abe Feldman tonight there probably won't be a man in the crowd who thinks the affair will last six rounds.

It's one time the fight faithful can't complain they weren't warned. The experts have told them Feldman hasn't a chance and the promoters themselves made less than a half-hearted effort to build him up.

Promoter George R. K. Carter, a one-time associate of Tex Rickard, has talked of a $60,000 gate, but those in the know expect it to run about $25,000, with some 12,000 persons in the municipal stadium. Prices range from $1 to $10.

Young Ben Brown of Atlanta will meet Solly Krieger, the National Boxing Association's middleweight champion, in a 10-rounder that is expected to provide the only real fireworks on the program.

Conacher Paces Bruin Raid 8-2 On Hawks

BOTON, Feb. 22.—(CP)—With young Roy Conacher equalling the season's goal-getting record of four tallies for a game, Boston Bruins crushed Chicago Black Hawks 8 to 2 last night to block the champions' bid for fifth place in the National Hockey League.

The game was played before 14,000 at the Boston Garden. The one-sided triumph enabled the top-place Bruins to retain their 10-point lead over New York Rangers, who crushed Detroit.

The 22-year-old Conacher, youngest member of the famous hockey family, scored once in the first and third periods and twice in the middle frame to run his season's total of goals to 17. His previous best marksmanship was a three-goal blast against Rangers.

Roy Conacher

After the Bruins ran up a 4-0 lead in the opener, the Hawks became disheartened and disorganized and during the second frame they had only two shots against Goalie Frank Brimsek, one of which, fired by Charlie Mason, he was unable to handle. Cully Dahlstrom scored the other Chicago tally without assistance in the finale.

The remaining Boston tallies were supplied by Flash Hollett, Bobby Bauer, Dit Clapper and Woody Dumart. Bill Cowley assisted on three of the Conacher goals and Hill was on the starting end of the fourth.

Chicago: Goal, Karakas; defense, Wiebe, Seibert; centre, Thoms; wings, Shill, March; subs, MacKenzie, Cooper, Blinco, Robinson, Northcott, Mason, Desilets, Dahlstrom, Gottselig.

Boston: Goal, Brimsek; defense, Shore, Portland; centre, Cowley; wings, Conacher, Hill; subs, Clapper, Hollett, Crawford, Bauer, Schmidt, Dumart, Sands, Getliffe, Weiland, Pettinger.

Mounties Taking Precaution Upon Sabotage

OTTAWA, Feb. 22—(CP).— The Royal Canadian Mounted Police co-operate with Provincial Police in all provinces to maintain order in cases of emergency, Justice Minister Lapointe told the House of Commons yesterday in answer to a question from J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader.

Mr. Woodsworth based his question on a dispatch from Toronto quoting Attorney General Conant of Ontario as stating steps were under way for the formation of an anti-sabotage force to operate in the event of war or other emergency and mentioning a committee under the National Defence Department.

Mr Lapointe sad the Mounted Police were still under the Justice Department. He was glad to say the force co-operated closely with other police forces in the country and together these forces were taking all necessary precautions. He hoped it would never be necessary to use the precautions but it was necessary to be prepared.

"What is the secret committee of the National Defence Department which is mentioned?" asked Mr. Woodsworth.

"It can't be very secret since my friend knows about it," said Mr. Lapointe. "I can only say there is close co-operation between the different departments of government."

Earlier Commissioner S. T. Wood of the R.C.M.P. sai dthat while the question of anti-sabotage measures was under discussion no "anti-sabotage organization" had been formed.

Still Being Shaped Up.

"The whole thing is still in the preparatory stages," he said with reference to the report that an organization had been formed.

"We may make a survey to see what vulnerable points there are that might require protection against sabotage in case of war."

"Vulnerable points" doubtless would include the railways and the Welland Canal, which were given special protection during the last war.

It had not yet been decided whether the body in charge of anti-sabotage arrangements would be formed from the National Defence Department or whether it would be an interdepartmental committee, he said.

The question of who would be responsible for protection of the Hydro-Electric Commission system would depend on whether the system was considered to be of national importance. Probably each city would be responsible for its own system. The provincial government would have a certain responsibility, but it would be difficult to say where the responsibility would lie until the survey had been made. If the system was considered to be of national importance, some assistance would probably be given by the Federal government.

Death For Treason In New Eire Bill

DUBLIN, Feb. 22—(CP-Havas). — The death penalty may be imposed for acts of treason committed within or outside the State under the terms of Eire's new treason bill, the text of which was published last night.

Designed to combat the wave of terrorism imputed to members of the illegal Irish Republican army, the bill is described as an "act to provide for the punishment of treason and ancillary offences, and repeal the treasonable offences act of 1925."

Treason is specifically defined as "levying war against the State, assisting any State or person or inciting or conspiring with any persons to levy war against the State, or attempts by forces of arms or other violent means to overthrow the organs of the government established by the constitution, or partaking or being concerned in or inciting or conspiring with any person to make or partake or be concerned in such acts."

The first section decrees death for every person convicted of committing treason within the State. Sub-sections provide similar punishment or conviction to anyone who, being an Irish citizen or who ordinarily lives within the State, commits treason outside Eire.

Cahan Sees King

lie utterances of his political opponents.

Mr. Cahan said the strongest speech he had ever made against any American policy was in Washington to the American chamber of commerce following increases in the American tariff in 1930. At the time Mr. Mackenzie King was in power and he had taken the precaution to ascertain that the speech was not objectionable from the point of view of the government.

Some Old Speeches?

While he had no hostility for the people of the United States and had never expressed any, he had at times criticised the utterances of certain American politicians and certain propaganda sent out from Washington. He suspected Mr. Mackenzie King had been reading some old speeches made at the time of the Alaskan or Venezuelan boundary disputes.

A defence of the trade agreement came from Revenue Minister Ilsley, who represents the Nova Scotia apple-producing area of the Annapolis Valley. He was convinced the reduction in the British duties on United States apples and the consequent cut in the preference accorded Canadian apples would not injure Canadian growers.

The former high duty, if continued, might in time lead to increased production in Great Britain and possibly the imposition of a duty against Canadian apples.

The minister, however, said his constituents in Digby-Annapolis realized the treaty was a constructive move towards freer trade between the United States, Great Britain and Canada. The preferences were not the act of Canada but of Great Britain and had Canada stood in the way of the Anglo-American agreement there was no assurance the Canadian agreement with Great Britain under which the preferences were granted would be renewed when it expired in 1940.

R. J. Deachman (Lib. Huron North) said tariffs increased the productivity of neither capital or labor. He saw little advantage in stirring up quarrels which were past and gone as Mr. Cahan was inclined to do.

Farm Products Down

Prices of farm products were now relatively much lower than prices of manufactured products. A bushel of wheat would buy only 46 per cent as much of the goods a farmer required now as it would before the war.

The index of farm products prices was now 64.8 on the basis of 100 in 1926. The index of manufactured products was 73.5 against 100 in 1926.

In the face of these facts it was ridiculous to maintain a high tariff structure which would enable manufacturers to hold up their prices when it was admitted nothing could be done to better the farmer's prices.

Conservatives argued the new treaty would ruin the railways and other transportation agencies. The facts proved the contrary. During the four years when imports from the United States were highest in history, railway earnings were highest in history and in the four years when imports were lowest railway earnings were lowest.

"These boys never learn anything," Mr. Deachman said. "They suggest this was only a coincidence but if these coincidents occur all over the pages of our economic history what can they say?"

It was also alleged the United States got the best of the bargain as Americans were shrewder traders. If they were in figures did not show it because they had not increased their trade as rapidly as had Canada. With the year 1929 as the basis taken at 100, United States trade in 1932 stood at 31 and Canadian trade at 42. In 1938 United States trade had increased to 59 while Canadian trade rose to 70.

Full Of Loopholes.

T. A. Thompson (Cons., Lanark) said the treaty was full of loopholes and lent itself to great injustice in its administration. Moreover, it was clear from the first that Canadian industry and Canadian agriculture would be injuriously affected and preferences in the British market seriously impaired.

Reductions of the duty on cream and increase of the quota meant nothing to Canadian producers since the duty remained prohibitive and exports never even approached the previous quota. The same was true of milk and potatoes. Much had been said in praise of the civil servants who negotiated the agreement but "I venture to say they didn't know potatoes," Mr. Thompson said.

Transport Minister Howe tabled correspondence revealing James Y. Murdoch resigned as a director of the Canadian National Railways because he could not agree to the reappointment of S. J. Hungerford as president for a further term.

Justice Minister Lapointe indicated government opposition to a bill sponsored by Wilfrid Lacroix (Lib., Quebec-Montmorency) to restrict the distribution of Communist propaganda through the mails. He said the existing law was sufficient and the bill would hamper rather than assist the postal authorities. There was other objectionable propaganda being distributed as well as Communistic and the bill would not touch it.

Lapointe Celebrates 35th Anniversary

In celebration of Hon. Ernest Lapointe's (inset) 35th anniversary as a member of the House of Commons, a testimonial dinner was given for the veteran justice minister at Quebec city. Prime Minister King and practically his entire cabinet were among the 1,500 guests who attended the dinner. While addressing the guests, ABOVE, the prime minister announced that despite Hon. Mr. Lapointe's long years of service to Canada, the veteran parliamentarian would remain active in public life. Seated beside Mr. King were Hon. P. J. Cardin, LEFT, and Hon. Raoul Dandurand, RIGHT.

Quebec Ministers Given Power To Halt Grants

QUEBEC, Feb. 22—(CP). — After lively discussion, the Quebec Legislative Assembly approved on division Tuesday a measure according the province's treasury board power to suspend any administrative grant or credit made by the legislature.

Over objections raised by opposition members, the bill, sponsored by Premier Duplessis, carried, 41-13. The premier said it merely gave the board authority to turn down "when necessary" orders by the provincial auditor for departmental grants.

In reply to charges by the opposition that the measure constituted a "dangerous centralization," the Union Nationale leader said the treasury board already had the power to overrule the provincial auditor's refusal of a money grant by the legislature, and should "be able to halt a grant, too, when necessary."

May Suspend Grants.

The bill's explanatory note said its object was to "provide better control of the expenditure of public moneys," and the premier read from its text that the treasury board "may order the suspension, from such time as it may deem expedient, of the employment and payment, in whole or in part, of any particular legislative grant or credit."

Last year, said the Premier, the treasury board's membership had been increased from three to four ministers who would "work in co-operation with the auditor."

Describing the bill as "one of the worst ever to come before the legislature," Liberal House Leader T. D. Bouchard said it "means if the Premier decides a minister is not spending according to his views, the treasury board can suspend grants made by the legislature to that minister's department."

If the legislature had authorized any expenditure by a department, there was "no reason," Bouchard said, "why the treasury board should take over powers the minister should have.

The Liberal leader added he was "absolutely opposed" to the measure because "it means the transfer of power to one man and decrease in the powers of the legislature."

The opposition leader is not serious," retorted the Premier. "The treasury board's membership has been increased from three to four. At present the auditor can be forced by the board to make any disbursement. It's logical he should be prevented if it is necessary."

"I think the fact that this bill comes before the House is proof the prerogatives of the legislature are respected," he added.

P. J. Leduc, legislature member for Laval and former roads minister, voiced objection to the measure and so did National Party members.

Druing the sitting, a measure to restore two-year-old salary cuts taken by the premier and ministers with portfolio also was approved.

There was considerable debate after Provincial Treasurer Martin Fisher had explained the Premier's salary had been decreased by $2,000 and the ministers' by $1,000 as a "measure of economy" at the start of the Union Nationale administration but "increased revenues" warranted the restoration.

Goebbels Indignant

BERLIN, Feb. 22—(AP)—Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels' newspaper Der Angriff today described disturbances at a meeting of the German-American Bund in New York last night as "a new attempt of Jewry to express its hate and revenge."

It declared the German people and "all civilized nations" learned with indignation of the disturbances in connection with the gathering at Madison Square Garden.

Sidley Legacy Given To Bull, Narrows

RACINE, Wis., Feb. 22—(AP)—An order filed in Probate Court yesterday for payment of legacy to W. Perkins Bull, Toronto attorney, revealed he would receive nothing from the estate of Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley which he does not already have in his possession.

Bull, at whose home Mrs. Sidley died last July, was bequeathed $250,000 plus a third of her residuar estate. The will was attacked by her son, William Horlick Sidley, 27, and a settlement was reached January 24 in which, it was announced, Bull renounced his claim to the residuary third.

The order filed yesterday showed that instead of the $250,000, Bull and his family would retain a trust fund, jewelry, furniture and a certain mortgage.

For receipt indicating that Bull's $250,000 legacy had been paid, Sidley agreed to release all claims to the Canadian property and assets, chiefly because of legal expense and duties.

The petition for payment of legacy was the final move in settlement negotiations. With young Sidley now receiving approximately two-thirds of the estate, it will be probated in routine order.

Management Dispute Behind Murdock Move

OTTAWA, Feb. 22—(CP).—James Y. Murdock, of Toronto, has resigned as a director of the Canadian National Railways because "of his failure to agree with his fellow directors on a matter of internal management," Transport Minister Howe told the House of Commons yesterday.

The Minister, answering a question from Conservative Leader Manion, said Mr. Murdoch's resignation was received a few days ago and correspondence in connection with it would be tabled in the House to-day.

Mr. Murdoch, prominent Toronto lawyer, is president of Noranda Mines Limited. He was appointed to the C.N.R. directorate in 1936 when the present system of control of the railway by directors was set up to replace the former system of operation under a Board of Trustees.

Hepburn May Test Australian Banking

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22—(CP).—Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario returned from the Antipodes yesterday with the assertion Australian banking and economic methods "might be applied" in his home province.

The Premier said he found "very interesting" the Australian Commonwealth's policy of converting private domestic loans to lower interest rates as a means of stabilizing business conditions.

Accompanying Mr. Hepburn, who the Antopodes were R. H. Elmhirst, the Premier's private secretary; Hon. Colin A. Campbell, Public Works Minister in Ontario; and Chester Walter, Deputy Provincial Treasurer.

The Officer Wins

TORONTO, Feb. 22—(CP).—Constable Len O'Hara, police athlete, won a half-mile race today and captured a shopbreaking suspect. O'Hara, trying the rear door of a Yonge street store, heard someone walking around inside. He tried the door but it was fastened.

Just then two men in the store ran out the front door. The constable ran after one of them and chased him several blocks before he got near enough for a flying tackle. The suspect is Elmer Davis, 21.

Mystery Man Dies Waif Of Blizzard

SWAN RIVER, Man., Feb. 22—(C.P)—Royal Canadian Mounted Police today sought the identity of a half-starved, frost-bitten man who died in hospital here Sunday night after an unsuccessful battle against a howling blizzard, blocked roads and freezing temperatures. Hero of the rescue attempt is W. Linklater, lonely trapper of the overflow river district 80 miles north of Swan River.

Linklater was startled last Thursday night when a badly frozen stranger staggered into his cabin, delirious from lack of food and pain. Realizing the man was in serious condition and that it would be impossible to take him to medical aid in the raging blizzard, Linlater administered what first aid he knew.

Early next morning the trapper placed his patient in a sleigh and started for Mafeking, nearest railway point. He arrived at midnight and wired the R.O.M.P. to send a doctor but was told no trains were running, roads were impassible and the only snowplane in the district was absent.

It was not until Sunday morning the snowplane was able to make the trip from Swan River to Mafeking to return the frozen man to hospital. He died early Monday without regaining consciousness, his identity still unknown.

Swan River is 300 miles north of Winnipeg.

No Criminal Cases On Victoria Docket

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Feb. 22. — Victoria County sittings of the Supreme Court of Ontario opened at the Court House Tuesday afternoon. There were no criminal cases on the docket. An action for divorce was up for hearing, and was dismissed by Mr. Justice Godfrey. The parties in the action were originally from Quebec, but have been living in this district.

Mrs. Christie Appeals

Mrs. L. C. Christie and her brother, C. M. Petrie, through her solicitor has entered an appeal against the judgment of Justice Urquhart, who dismissed the action brought against the Dominion Bank of Canada and other defendants in connection with the Coboconk lime plant. This case was dealt with in Toronto in January.

NORWOOD

Mr. Earl Johnson has returned to Elmvale after spending the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Johnson.

Mrs. Wm. Beckett, also Miss Barbara Ball is motoring to Toronto this week, where they will take the train to their new home in South Porcupine.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Annis, also Mrs. W. Widman have returned to Toronto after spending the week-end with the latter's sister, Mrs. Fred Stewart, and other relatives, Mrs. Stewart returning with them.

After recovering from a week of illness, Miss Iris Darling who has been visiting her grandmother, Mrs. N. Bell, has returned to Peterborough Normal. We are glad to report that Mrs. Bell, who has also been ill, is much improved.

Miss Marguerite McGee was a visitor over the week-end with her mother, Mrs. S. McGee of Elgin, and also with friends in Norwood.

Abel Hendren, Builder, Dies In Lakefield

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 22—Abel Hendren, well-known builder of Lakefield, died at his home here on Monday at the age of 87 years. Mr. Hendren, who has been an invalid for the past five years, suffered a stroke on Friday, and did not regain consciousness. He died at 6 a.m. Monday morning.

The deceased, who was a life-long resident of Lakefield, was well-known as a carpenter and contractor until illness forced his retirement from business five years ago. He is responsible for the erection of many of Lakefield's finest homes and public buildings, including the Lakefield United Church from which he was buried today.

Mr. Hendren is survived by his widow, formerly Della Ruth Haight, and six children: Gordon, Howard and Roy, all of Toronto, and Mrs. William E. Forster (Elva) of Toronto; Mrs. Gerald Kennedy (Vivian) of Kirkland Lake; and Miss Thelma Hendren at home.

The funeral was held from the Lakefield United church this afternoon. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

Harwood Blacksmith Has Sold Business

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HARWOOD, Feb. 22.—Mr. Frank Arthurs, who has had a very successful blacksmith business here, has sold to Mr. Kenard Harvie of Centreton.

Mr. Arthurs has been at this trade here for the past 26 years, and the community is indeed sorry to have him leave. Mr. Arthurs is leaving on March first to make his home in Peterborough.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Harvie have rented a house from Mr. William Lee, formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Harvie.

We welcome Mr. and Mrs. Harvie to this community and wish them every success.

OBITUARY

BURTON EAGLESON.

The death took place in a Brooklin hospital, New York, on Monday, Feb. 6th, 1939, of Burton Eagleson, aged 65 years.

The late Mr. Eagleson was born on the homestead farm at Baillieboro, Ont., a son of the late Andrew and Mary Eagleson.

In 1889 he went to the United States, where he had resided ever since.

Two brothers predeceased him, John F. and William. Left to mourn his passing are his sorrowing widow, and three brothers, James of Orono, George of Baillieboro and Walter of Toronto.

Interment took place in the family lot in the Presbyterian cemetery at Centreville, Ont., on Wednesday, Feb. 8th, with the Rev. D. A. McKenzie officiating.

The pallbearers were Messrs. T. A. Skitch, Dawson Rutherford, Roy Greer, Edwin Eagleson, Percy Elgar of Baillieboro and Arnold Larmer of Oshawa, Ont.

MRS. FRANCES C. FOSTER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Feb. 22.—The death occurred at the family residence, 3rd Concession of Hallowell Township, early Tuesday morning, of Mrs. Frances Catherine Foster, wife of Mr. George A. Foster, who passed away in her 66th year, after a lengthy illness. A resident of that district for the past 34 years, Mrs. Foster had a wide circle of friends.

A daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Morden, Mrs. Foster was born on the 4th Concession of the Township of Tyendinaga. Mrs. Foster was a very active member of the United Church, and allied organizations.

Leaving to mourn her passing are her husband; one daughter, Miss Mary Foster, at home; Mr. Harold Foster, East Lake, Prince Edward County; Mr. Morder Foster, at home; and Mr. Alfred Foster; one sister, Mrs. Horace B. Dale of Detroit, Mich., and one brother, Mr. Harry Morden, Demorestville.

Duke's Sinking Yacht Beached Crew Safe

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Feb. 22—(AP)—The United States coast guard received a radio report here today that the yacht Sanspeur, owned by the Duke of Sutherland, had been beached near Cape San Lucas, lower California, and that the entire crew is safe.

Coast guardsmen said the Sanspeur, more than 800 miles south of here, is outside their jurisdiction. A salvage tub probably will be sent from San Diego.

The San Diego harbor master today stated he received a message from the Duke of Sutherland's yacht Sanspeur, stating the Duke and Duchess were on board. The message said the yacht hit a submerged rock in the Gulf of Mexico and is leaking water at four places. It requested aid by the coast guard or a salvage vessel.

Convalescing After Sickness

After many severe illnesses such as influenza, scarlet and typhoid fever, pneumonia, etc., or an operation, the patient is usually left in an extremely weak, nervous and exhausted condition.

To all those convalescents who need a tonic to strengthen and build up their weakened system we would recommend Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills to assist them back to the full enjoyment of robust health. They supply the elements so necessary to build up the shattered nervous system, and bring back bodily strength and vigor.

A trial will convince you of their merits.

POLIDENT CHANGES FALSE TEETH CLEANING FROM A PROBLEM TO A PLEASURE

Do your stained plates shout— "FALSE TEETH"?

Keep them sweet and purified —clean as new—with POLIDENT

Why let tell-tale stains or "denture breath" tell the whole world your teeth are false? Learn what a real pleasure they can be when kept clean and purified like new . . . sweeter, cooler, more comfortable and hygienic—with Polident.

Prevent Denture Breath

Even worst old stains, deposits, tarnish and odors are dissolved away right before your eyes! No brushing, acid or danger. Millions use Polident daily and call it a blessing for comfort and convenience. Leading dentists everywhere recommend it for all who wear a plate or removable bridge.

Try Polident today and see what a difference it makes. At all drugstores—3 oz. can 40¢—7 oz. can 75¢. And your money back if not delighted.

PLATES LOOK BETTER

Plates can get a stained "dead" look when cleaned by inefficient methods. Polident brightens them—makes gums look more alive and natural.

PLATES FEEL BETTER

Polident prevents sore gums due to unclean dentures. Plates feel cooler and more comfortable — your mouth fresher and sweeter.

BREATH IS SWEETER

Offensive breath is no common among denture wearers that dentists call it "denture breath". Polident prevents denture breath.

WORKS LIKE MAGIC

Keep plates sweet, clean and purified by doing this daily: Add a little Polident powder to ½ glass water. Stir. Then put in plate or bridge for 10 to 15 minutes. Rinse—and it's ready to use.

CLUB HOUSE ENTERED

The club house at the Quaker Oats rink was broken into during Monday night and cigarettes valued at $4 were stolen. Entrance to the place was gained by forcing a window.

IS PROMOTED

Charles E. Nevins, who during the past year has been associated with Jackson Bros., farm implement dealers, has been transferred to the head office of the Cockshutt Plow Company at Brantford.

THROUGH FROM BANCROFT

In spite of the additional snow throughout the night the bus from Bancroft reached Peterborough in good time this morning and the driver reported the travelling conditions as not bad.

INTERSECTION CLASH

Fenders on both cars were damaged when automobiles driven by Ralph Harris, Dufferin street, Belleville, and Earl Sutherland of Peterborough collided at King and Stewart streets, on Tuesday.

FENDER DAMAGED

Patrick Anglesey, 219 Lake street, was driving east on Hunter street east Tuesday and as he was making a right hand turn at Armour Road his car came into collision with an automobile driven by Dr. C. M. Scott. A fender on the Anglesey car was damaged.

FRACTURES ANKLE

Lt. Col. G. G. Winterbottom, is in Nicholls Hospital suffering from a fractured ankle. He was skating on Saturday when he fell and in striking the ice, his foot twisted, breaking a small bone. He is expected to be laid up for several weeks.

REFUGEE PROBLEM

Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt is listed as the speaker at the annual meeting of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association on February 27th, when Founder's Night will also be observed. He will discuss the question of whether Canada admit refugees from any of the European countries.

WORK HAS SLOWED UP

The return of winter weather to this district has caused work on the Buckhorn-Bobcaygeon highway to come almost to a standstill. Engineers find conditions almost impossible for determining of grades and levels, with snow piled high in all directions.

AN ERROR IN THE AMOUNT

The Nicholls Hospital bylaw has many supporters if telephone calls which followed the publishing of an error in last night's paper is any criterion. In an article dealing with the date set for the vote on the bylaw, the reporter set the amount being sought at $490,000 instead of $395,000, the correct figure.

TRAFFIC CASES

Driving a car without possessing the necessary license cost Robert McDougall $10 and 75 cents costs on a written plea of guilty in traffic court this morning. On a similar charge Raymond St. Louis was given a week's adjournment. Jack Leith paid $2 and $3 costs for entering a through street without stopping.

BAD IN TORONTO

"After seeing the condition of the streets in Toronto a person is glad he lives in Peterborough," remarked Ald. G. N. Gordon this morning. Mr. Gordon was in the Queen City Tuesday and states that the Toronto streets were in frightful shape as the result of snow and ice. "I could not see much signs of sanding, except on Yonge street," the alderman stated.

SNOW SHOVELLERS

Householders who find snow shovelling a tedious task these days can save themselves the trouble and at the same time do a good turn for their less fortunate fellow citizens, W. H. Mellis, superintendent of the Employment Service of Canada, said today. Mr. Mellis has any number of men available who are only too willing to earn a little money by shovelling snow. Their services may be obtained by telephoning 571.

ONE CAKE DAMAGED

A bread wagon driven by Darcy Windsor upset on Carlisle avenue yesterday when a dog jumped at the horse, and as the horse shied the wagon was thrown against a large bank of snow and tipped over. Quick work by the driver prevented a runaway, and when Mr. Windsor righted the wagon and examined the load of cakes and bread, he discovered that only one cake had been crushed. The wagon and harness were not damaged.

PARK ANY PLACE

An Ashburnham motorist pulled up to the stop light at Water and Hunter street Tuesday night behind another car which was in the traffic lane. When the light turned green the car in front didn't move, and after several honks of the horn, the Ashburnham driver realized he was behind a parked car. A large bank of snow several feet from the curb had discouraged the other motorist from pulling nearer the street, so he just stopped the car and climbed out, leaving it in the traffic lane.

270 Examined By Travelling Chest Clinic

Of the 270 persons recently examined at the travelling chest clinic of the Ontario Department of Health at the City Hall, 244 were found by the doctors to be without trace or sign of tuberculosis.

In the report of Dr. G. M. Fraser, M.O.H., to the Board of Health Tuesday night it was shown that 38 of the 270 persons were non-residents of the city, and 232 were resident.

Of the residents there were 2 active cases, 2 suspected, 2 of questionable activity, 4 quiescent, 11 arrested and 211 with no tuberculosis. And of the non-residents, one case was quiescent, 4 arrested, and 33 "no tuberculosis."

"It means that 75 per cent of the cases examined at the clinic should not be back to another clinic," Dr. Fraser said, "and we should never have such a large number of patients at another chest clinic in Peterborough."

Dr. Fraser and members of the board remarked that the result of the clinic indicated a decided improvement in Peterborough's health conditions, especially in regard to apparent checking of the advance of tuberculosis, and the further evidence of fewer cases.

"We now have a large number of persons who have been thoroughly examined, and we can take them off our books," said Dr. Fraser.

The Local Clinic.

Some discussion arose about continuing the work of the chest clinic that has been conducted by the Peterborough Health Association, in which Dr. F. C. Neal has been long interested.

"I am sure Dr. Neal will continue to do the examinations free of charge, and what the Board has to do is pay for all X-rays that may be necessary," Dr. Fraser explained. "We want to assure Dr. Neal that if the Health Association is discontinued this chest work will not be neglected."

The X-ray charges, it was said, are $3 in the event any T.B. cases are found. The Board decided to assume this cost.

J. J. Duffus Undergoes Serious Operation

MONTREAL, Feb. 22.—(CP)—J. J. Duffus M.P. (Lib. Peterborough West) underwent a serious operation today at the Montreal Neurological Institute.

Admitted to the institute last week-end, Mr. Duffus had been under observation until yesterday when an operation was decided upon.

The operation was a lengthy one and it was said at the institute that no bulletins on the member of parliament's condition would be given out until evening.

Dr. Wilder Penfield, director of the Neurological Institute, and Dr. W. V. Cone performed the operation.

Invite Miss Smellie To Discuss Nursing

Invitation to Miss Elizabeth Smellie, chief superintendent of the Victorian Order of Nurses, Ottawa, to come to Peterborough to discuss organization of a branch of the Order here, is being left by the Board of Health to the Peterborough Health Association. It was suggested at Tuesday's meeting that the Association might also invite T. F. Matthews of Toronto and the members of the council to attend the proposed meeting. J. J. Turner wrote the council several weeks ago estimating that three V.O.N. nurses might be engaged here at a saving of $1,000 a year to the city.

The Rambling REPORTERS

CARS IMPOUNDED

There is one back lane in the north end of the city on which a number of garages are located. The last snow storm, with sleet and freezing, has sealed this throughfare as effectively as could be. There has been a good deal of digging taking place but when the frozen snow is thrown out it still remains in the lane. So far there has been no traffic nor will there be until the weather man sees fit to do something about it. Meanwhile, the car owners, who so carefully put their equipment away each night are walking, while the careless fellows in the neighborhood who leave their cars out in the open are driving as usual. —K.

POOR PA

On Monday when the Keene bus was unable to plow through the snow and carry the Keene pupils to the Peterborough Collegiate, one girl anxious to attend classes, waited until her dad was away from the house, then jumped into the family car and headed for school. About a mile from the village, the car smacked into a snowdrift and stayed there, resisting all efforts of the young woman to get it free. The girl then started to walk to Peterborough and was able to get a ride most of the way. When she arrived in town she telephoned her dad and told him the car he had wanted to use was stuck in a snowdrift a mile from home.—McG.

GRIEVES OVER HER DOG

Candy usually chases tears when a child is concerned but tears and candy walked side by side yesterday, and a reporter was an eye-witness to the unusual spectacle of seeing a ten-year-old girl sit in a truck cab and munch candies while tears coursed freely down her cheeks.

Wondering what was behind this little tragedy, the reporter opened the cab door and questioned the girl.

Still sobbing and with her eyes red and swollen, the child blurted out that her little doggie had died from distemper.

Immediately the reporter's memory raced back twenty years to a dreary Saturday afternoon when he had bid his little pal goodbye beside a mound on Armour Hill, after someone had poisoned the dog.

Here was the same problem, and with genuine sympathy for the grief stricken child, the reporter consoled her with the suggestion that her dad could easily get another dog that she would like just as much.—McG.

Two Youths Given Reformatory Terms

Declaring that both boys had apparently determined that they were going to go wrong, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning sentenced Volney Woodcock, 21, to a term of not less than one year and a further indeterminate period of six months in the Ontario Reformatory, and Joseph Fontaine, 19, to not less than nine months and an indeterminate period of six months in the same institution on a charge of breaking and entering and theft.

The two had pleaded guilty on Monday morning to entering the service station of Thomas Ruth, Charlotte and Stewart streets, early Sunday morning and stealing 30 cents and a quantity of cigars, cigarettes and chocolate bars.

"Fontaine, you have come to the end of your rope," the Magistrate said in imposing sentence on the younger of the two. 'You have been given leniency on other occasions; I suspended sentence the first time you were convicted before me, but evidently you have made up your mind to go wrong."

Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C., had previously read the accused's record, which included several terms in the county jail but contained no reformatory sentences.

In the case of Woodcock, it was shown that he had served terms both at Guelph and Burwash.

"Apparently you would just as soon be in as out," commented Magistrate Langley, as he sentenced the older prisoner, who was given three months longer than Fontaine because of his reformatory record.

Parked Cars Detained City Bus Drivers

Peterborough bus lines have made a slight change in the C.G.E. route. Drivers encountered too much trouble on Lafayette street looking up the owners of cars blocking the way. The Albert-Lafayette turn has been pushed over to Park and Chamberlain streets.

"Lafayette is an exceptionally narrow street," Laurie Mitchell, manager of the system, told the Examiner today. "Traffic wasn't so bad if automobiles were parked on only one side, but when they were parked on both sides it meant that our drivers had to stop and knock at doors until they found the owners of cars, and ask them to open up the traffic lane. They are going around by Park and Chamberlain streets, crossing the C.P.R. in two places, but that looks better to us than the trouble we had on Lafayette."

Farms Flooded In Chatham Area

Farmers in the area of Chatham, Ont., feared as teeming rains overflowed ditches and flooded highways and farm land. Should a freeze-up occur farmers fear that their fields will be turned into a mass of ice and their wheat crops completely ruined. Water laps at the veranda of this house in the afflicted area.

Milk Reports Are All Favorable Inspector Reports To Board

Milk reports were all favorable, with some of the samples of cream showing butter fat content ranging from 25 to nearly 50 per cent, according to the report of Sanitary Inspector R. M. MacPherson, to the Board of Health last night.

Improvement was also reflected in a declining number of cases of infant mortality and tuberculosis, indicating gains in the city's public health that were agreeably received by the Board. Alderman Stocker, chairman, presided with Mayor Hamilton, Alderman Dutton and Dr. G. Murray Fraser, M.O.H., present.

The Queen Mary Hospital has been unoccupied since January 13, and proposal for a permanent matron as received in a letter to the board by Dr. Fraser, was deferred to a later meeting.

Vital statistics for January were: Marriages 16, deaths 32, 73 live births and 3 still births. Nine of the deaths were from diseases of the heart, four of cancer, and five of pneumonia. Of communicable diseases during the month there were 13 of chickenpox, three of measles, four of whooping cough.

Nurse's Report

The report of Miss Zeta Kearney, public health nurse, mentioned in her January activities, 37 tuberculosis families visited; total number of cases and contacts visited, 91; one case discharged from a sanitorium, one new case and two re-admittances. Special appointment were made for seven out-of-town persons to be examined by Dr. F. C. Neal in the bi-monthly chest clinic.

Miss Helen Gainey, Separate School nurse, reported 190 classroom inspections, 91 special physical inspections, 50 first aid dressings, 162 home visits.

Sanitary Conditions

Sanitary Inspector MacPherson reports continuing improvement in the quality of milk arriving at the pasteurizing plants. Of 21,600 pounds of milk examined, 500 pounds were condemned for visible dirt and excessive temperature. Of 295 sediment tests only 3 per cent showed visible dirt in the milk. It was rejected, and the producer warned that his permit would be cancelled if he persisted in supplying dirty milk.

"This information made it clear that 97 per cent of the milk received at the plants was clean, cool and of good quality. It is to be hoped that this high standard of quality will continue."

"I am pleased to report that every stable from which milk is shipped for city bottle trade has now a well drained cement floor. One producer was prohibited from shipping for city trade due to the fact that despite repeated warnings extending over the last twelve months, he continued to send an unsatisfactory product. Of 6 tests, 5 showed visible dirt in quantities sufficient to reject the milk. It is easily understood that on occasion a producer may, through some accident, contaminate the milk However, when over a period of a year a man ships continuously dirty milk, I think we are justified in saying he has failed to grasp the essentials of milk production and does not qualify to ship for city bottle trade. Two permits to sell milk to city trade were issued during the month to producers who have complied in every respect with the bylaw and regulations."

Davidson's Outfit Issues Challenges To Williams' Crew

(Examiner Correspondence.)

Campbellford, Feb. 22.

A CHALLENGE has been issued! It all started because Davidson the captain of the East side hockey team was unable to attend the all star performance put on by his teammates at the Rotary Carnival. Needless to say they lost the bout and though Charlie is good natured he can just stand so much kidding so after taking a ribbing from the boys around Locke's for the past three days he issued a formal challenge to Fire Chief Williams and his crowd to stage a return bout. The east siders who went down under the onslaught of Atkinson, Johnson and Sloggett have accepted Although there has been nothing official as yet the performance will take the form of a benefit.

OBITUARY

CHARLES EDGAR TYNDALL

The death of Charles Edgar Tyndall occurred at his home at 501 Donegal street on Tuesday. In his 69th year, Mr. Tyndall has been ailing for a long time.

A resident of Peterborough for the past twenty years, he came to this city from the vicinity of Picton, where he used to operate a threshing machine. He was born in Belmont township, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Tyndall. His wife, formerly Lydia Jane Hutchinson, predeceased him five years ago.

Surviving are two sons, Andrew D. and Wilfred R. Tyndall, both of this city; also three sisters, Mrs. E. Ball of Albany, N.Y., Mrs. Alice Scarlett of Toronto, and Mrs. Ada Clark of Peterborough; and one half-brother, George Perry of Oshawa.

The funeral will be on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street, Rev. Dr. E. W. Young of St. Andrew's United church officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

MERCHANT VERY ILL

F. R. J. MacPherson, well known plumbing contractor is reported to be making slow but steady progress, following an operation a week ago in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto. He has been in poor health for some time but did not go to Toronto until a little over a week ago.

People Came Miles To See First Stove Otonabee Pioneer Relates On Birthday

TORONTO, Feb. 22.—Active and vigorous as most women of half her age, Mrs. James H. Campbell is celebrating her 95th birthday Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. T. Edgar Rathbone, Kingsway Cr. "Keeping active and take an interest in the topics of the day" is her prescription for longevity.

"She certainly follows her recipe literally," laughed Mrs. Rathbone. 'She keeps up her visits to friends, and only a short while ago she attended a luncheon party.

Mrs. Campbell delights in modern fiction. "We really find it hard to keep her supplied with reading matter," her daughter remarked. "She reads the newspapers thoroughly."

She was born in 1844 on her parents' farm at Keene. She was married at 20 and lived in various parts of Ontario, including Havelock and Cobourg. About 50 years ago she resided for a time at Portage La Prairie, Man.

Mrs. Campbell recalled that her father bought a cook stove when open-air ovens were the rule. First of its kind in the Peterborough district, people came for miles to inspect the "newfangled contraption." Her family was the first in the township to have a buggy with a covered top. "We felt mighty proud sitting up there shaded from the sun," she laughed, "while the other folks had to sit and burn."

She is proud to be the same age as Sir William Mulock. She says she would like to meet him, but never has.

First Robin Arrives With Frozen Feet Boy Puts Bird In Box Beside Stove

EAU CLAIRE, Feb. 22.—(Special.)—The first robin of 1939 has arrived. The bird was noticed by Melville Adams, a pupil attending the Eau Claire public school, 27 miles east of North Bay, yesterday as he walked to school and when the bird did not fly at his approach, he investigated and discovered both feet of the robin were frozen to the top strand of frosted wire on a fence alongside the road.

The boy was able to free the bird and carried it into the school, where it flew around most of the day, and was treated to a generous meal during the noon hour, when the pupils were eating their lunches.

At four o'clock, Melvin found a shoe box which he used to carry the robin to his home. He intends to keep it in a warm place until the sun shines on both sides of the fence again.

The little incident was told in a letter from an Examiner subscriber now living at Eau Claire, who until a year ago lived in this city. The family still gets the Examiner and keeps tab on the events in the old home town.

Canadian Author Creates Stir Among Shakespearean Critics

By Edwin S. Johnson
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 22—(CP).—A rising star in Britain's theatrical firmament, W. Robertson Davies, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Rupert Davies of Kingston, Ont., has created a stir among Shakespearean enthusiasts with his first appearance as a full-fledged author.

Although still in his 20's, he has made an auspicious bow with his first book, "Shakespeare's Boy Actors and their Influence on His Art," an absorbing study of a novel theme.

Interested in the theatre since early boyhood, Davies has won rapid recognition as an authority on Shakespeare and since graduating from Oxford has been closely associated with production work throughout the United Kingdom. When "Traitor's Gate," was recently enjoying a run in London, he served as stage manager, general understudy and wrote some of the incedental music.

Written for Boy Actors.

In his book Davies presents a detailed analysis of the technique employed in constructing women's roles in Shakespeare's plays and suggests they were primarily written to be acted by boys. He severely takes to task the modern actress who essays to reconstruct the Shakespearean heroine. That could only be accomplished with any measure of success, he says, by considering the circumstances of the Elizabethan theatre, along with the training and capabilities of the boy actors who played in it.

The author declares he would be "most unhappy" if his work were taken to reflect unfavorably upon the actresses who have graced the stage since Mrs. Hughes' appearance in 1660 or to hold in contempt an art he worships. However, believes it is time for plain speaking. He proceeds: "The tendency of attempting to give greater 'reality' to Shakespeare's heroes and heroins by playing them as young ladies and gentlemen with the manner and speech of the suburban tennis court, can only produce vulgarity in roles which were never meant to be that way.

"The greatest 'reality' is achieved in Shakespeare by those actors who are able to reach magnificence in technique and conception and can present a great man in his full and blazing colors, without attempting to give him 'reality' by stamping him as a dictator, or a gunman, or in some other way displaying that misplaced ingenuity which must always be imposed a meretriciously modern guise upon a timeless work of art."

No Violent Mental Struggles.

Because of the limitations of his boy actors, Shakespeare never presented a woman engaged in violent mental struggle. Furthermore, few actors had the power to overcome the efforts of a really selfish actress who determined to shine at his expense, and at the expense of the play, in a part "in which only a fool could fail."

"Unhappily," he adds, "too many actresses are without bowels in artistic matters, and, as those take an essentially low view of their art, it becomes in their hands mere self-exploitation . . . perhaps it may be said that Shakespeare spoke by means of the boy actor, whereas the modern audience must often feel he speaks in spite of the actress."

If an actress considered her part from the point of view of the boy actor, Davies observes, it would emerge as a simple and direct conception which she could bring to life with clarity and purpose. She would then be spared the necessity of dealing with complexities not inherent in the part and find her role a vehicle for her best qualities as an artist and not merely for mannerism and self-display.

It was only by achieving this simplicity the artist could hope to become a worthy interpreter of Shakespeare's female roles.

"Revival of the convention of the boy actors is neither advisable nor practicable," the author maintains. "It remains, therefore, for the actresses of today and tomorrow to study to give us what was best in the boy actors' as well as what is best in their own art. And by this means though the poetic drama may not revive again in England, the drama of Shakespeare may live anew."

Boy Accepts Dare Places Tongue On Iron Railing

HENCEFORTH when any of the other boys dare young Jimmy Shaughnessy to do anything it is a fairly safe wager that the youngster may pass up the defi. Tuesday night some of his youthful friends told Jimmy that he was afraid to touch the iron railing of the Locks bridge with his tongue and the boy promptly accepted the challenge with the result that the tongue immediately froze to the railing and he was unable to release himself. In fact it was not until hot water had been secured from the home of Police Sergeant John Thompson nearby that the boy's tongue was liberated and by that time it had been rather painfully injured.

Cummer Elected Y.M. President

Charles S. Cummer was re-elected president of the board of directors of the Peterborough Young Men's Christian Association at the regular meeting of the board Tuesday evening. Charles Lacheur, 1st vice-president, Dr. H. M. Yelland, 2nd vice-president; J. R. Marshall, treasurer, and W. L. Ferguson, recording secretary, completed the slate of officers. Committee chairmen were chosen as follows: House and property, R. L. Dobbin; finance, J. R. Marshall, membership, A. L. Elliott; physical, J. L. Gillespie; boys' work, Dr. H. M. Yelland; religious and world service, Charles Lacheur; education, H. L. Garner.

Two newly elected directors, H. L. Garner and I. F. McRae, were welcoed by the president. Nelson McEwen of Toronto was present. The dates for annual financial campaign were decided, the week of March 27, being agreed upon. Preliminary steps were taken in the selection of chairmen of the various committees and a working schedule adopted.

The general secretary reported on the formation of a life-saving class for the Scouts of the city, starting this week under the direction of Gordon Minty, and the annual Masonic picnic to be held Thursday, March 2nd.

3 Bandits Slain

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 — (AP). — Three bandits surprised while holding up 20 negroes in a Harlem basement apartment early to-day were shot to death in a gunfight with police.

The slain men were negroes. A negro girl in the room, Ruby McCoy, 18, was caught in the crossfire and critically wounded in the stomach.

Police were summoned by a man who slipped out of the apartment while the holdup was in progress.

Mother Returns In Tears To Four Sons

TORONTO, Feb. 22.— Four little boys went to sleep last night with smiles and with the tears of a weeping mother on their cheeks.

Four days ago the boys were left by their mother in front of Salvation Army headquarters, Albert St., with a note asking that they be sent to a children's shelter, as she could no longer care for them. Then the mother, Mrs. Annie Robertson, disappeared. Last night she returned in time to tuck the youngsters in bed in their Ossington Ave. home.

"I just had to see my children again," she said. She says she went to the home of a friend.

"It was a terrible thing to do," she cried, "and I'm to blame for it all." She caressed the heads of the four beaming youngsters. "The night I left my home and my children I was desperate. This is a big house and we have only enough furniture to fill three rooms. When I was walking around day after day in the place and with hardly any food for the children I just got desperate and thought if I didn't do something I would go mad."

She paused to wipe her tears away as the youngsters urged her not to cry. She smiled and continued.

"After I left them downtown I wandered for hours about the streets and then went to a friend's house," the mother continued. A little while ago I would have condemned anyone for doing such a thing, but when you go on and on for three years, moving from house to house and you can't scare up any rent, you find that you can go only so far.

"I tried to make a break to escape all this poverty and worry, but I got to thinking about my children and I had to come back."

Mrs. Robertson said she was afraid to face her boys, Alexander 10, Donald 7, Richard 5, and John 4.

"But the younger ones didn't realize what I had done," she murmured thankfully. "It was only Alex, who seemed to understand. He asked me, 'Mother, have you had anything to eat?'"

Centreton YPS Holds Valentine Social

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CENTRETON, Feb. 22.—The Y.P.S. held a social meeting on Tuesday night with about 25 present.

Miss Bessie Hinton had charge of the meeting as follows: readings, "The Legend of St. Valentine", Miss Roberta Webb; others by Merle Blogett, Ona Stewart, Jack Stewart and Miss Hinton; piano solo, Miss Marion Nicholl; solo, Clara Coffey. A dramatized story was then given and refreshments were served and a social time was spent.

The Young People expect to have their three-act play "Here Comes Charlie" ready to put on by the first part of March.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

I lay on my bed, my eyes closed. For over an hour I had lain, not moving my body at all. But if my bones and muscles were motionless, my brain was not. It spun around and around in an endless, tireless circle, around and around, like the words of a silly song.

Downstairs in the library (I had left it at Mac's insistence) the inquiry was still in progress. Chief Ellis was questioning the servants. Mrs. Greely had come in as I came out. I had not wanted to leave in the middle of things, but Phil had promised faithfully to recount the details, and so I had left.

Now I could stand the inactivity and uncertainty no longer. I sprang from the bed and went to the writing desk. I picked up a pencil and some paper. Perhaps, I thought, if I made a list of suspects, of motives and opportunities in the case, it might help to quiet my shattered nerves and to set things straight in my mind. Story book detectives always made such lists, I knew, for I had read about dozens and dozens of them. I wet the tip of my pencil and poised it above the paper. I wrote my headings:

MURDER OF MRS. W.
MURDER OF MRS. H.

Of course I had no way of knowing positively that Mrs. Witherspoon had been murdered, but this I took for granted. Otherwise I could see no necessity or reason for the apparent senseless poisoning of Mrs. Horace. In my own mind I was convinced that we had not one, but two, murders to solve, and that the second was but an appendage of the first.

When I had entered my sub-heads my page appeared thus:

Family
MURDER OF MRS. W.
DAPHNE

Motive: To avoid marriage with Count Orsini and at the same time to collect inherited fortune.

Opportunity: No info.

Suspicious Circumstances: Threat to mother afternoon of ball.

MURDER OF MRS. H.

Motive: To insure mother's silence.

Opportunity: No info.

Suspicious Circumstances: Had suggested perm. Visit to salon during perm. Midnight visit to salon. Refusal to marry anyone. Attitude when questioned by police.

I rested my pencil and stared blankly into space. Set down in black and white the evidence, or lack of it, seemed hopefully meager. Had I been exaggerating Daphne's danger? Regretfully, I shook my head. The assumption of the girl's guilt rested not so much with known facts as with her peculiarly withdrawn manner, which suggested a wider knowledge than she admitted. I continued:

(Murder of Mrs. W.)
RICHARD

Motive: To secure money refused to him by Mrs. W.

Opportunity: No info.

Suspicious Circumstances: Relations (?) with Toots. Missing jewels.

(Murder of Mrs. H.)

Motive: To insure mother's silence.

Opportunity: No info.

Suspicious Circumstances: Telegram. Toots. Attitude when questioned.

I paused to reread what I had written. I had not, I realized, presented against either comprehensive case against either Daphne or Richard. Countless pieces of the puzzles I had omitted. And many of the bits I had assembled could well and easily be explained.

Suppose that Daphne were protecting her brother? Would this not account for her strange actions? And likewise for Richard were he shielding his sister But did not this very assuption presume the guilt of one or the other? Oh, it was a hopeless mess. I sighed. I went on.

(Murder of Mrs. W.)
MR. HORACE

Motive: To secure fortune to back play and so win Della.

Opportunity: No info.

Suspicious Circumstances: Neglect to mention previous friendship with Della. Indifference to loss of jewels. Request that I withhold info regarding my absence from salon at time of mother's death.

(Murder of Mrs. H.)

Motive: To rid himself of wife and so marry Della.

Opportunity: No info.

Suspicious Circumstances: ?

Again I paused. Try as I would, I could not picture Mr. Horace in the combined role of murderer and Lothario. Naturally, as I was well aware, in the best detective fiction the guilty party is invariably the one upon whom the breath of suspicion has not blown, but Mr. Horace as a killer-lover—well—that was a bit too far-fetched!

There remained of the family Miss Henrietta. And so far as I could see she had neither motive nor opportunity for either crime; suspicious circumstances there were none, unless one accredited the ravings of a ravaged brain. Personally I gave no credence to her crazed mutterings. She was harmlessly mad, a religious fanatic, who did not count in the scheme of things.

Thus far I had described three motives for each of the crimes, any one of which, I feared, would be viewed by a court of law as reason enough for premeditated murder. True, I had proved nothing aside from the fact that the individual members of the family had ample motive to wish the grandmother and the mother out of the way. I had not touched upon opportunity, but that was because, owing to he peculiar circumstances of the two deaths—the fact that the murderer had not needed to be present at the time of his crimes—the opportunity was seemingly limitless in both instances.

I reached for a fresh sheet of paper and labeled it "Guests." I wrote:

Guests
MURDER OF MRS. W.
JEFFREY TODINGTON

Motive: To free Daphne from loveless marriage and secure her for self.

Opportunity: No info.

Suspicious Circumstances: Admission that he is in love and wants Daphne.

MURDER OF MRS. H.

Motive: To remove further obstacle against marriage with Daphne.

Opportunity: No info.

Suspicious Circumstances: ?

(Murder of Mrs. W.)
COUNT ORSINI

Motive: ?

Opportunity: ?

Suspicious Circumstances: Squeaky shoes.

(Murder of Mrs. H.)

Motive: ?

Opportunity: ?

Suspicious circumstances: ?

(Murder of Mrs. H.)
DELLA CRAIG

Motive: To secure Horace and his fortune.

Opportunity: No info.

Suspicious Circumstances: Denied previous friendship with Horace.

Motive: To secure Horace and his fortune.

Opportunity: No. info.

Suspicious Circumstances: Denied previous friendship with Horace.

(Murder of Mrs. W.)
(Murder of Mrs. W.)
TOOTS LEMOINE

Motive: To marry Richard and fortune; secure emeralds.

Opportunity: No info.

Suspicious Circumstances: Knowledge of theft of jewels. Conversation under landing.

(Murder of Mrs. H.)

Motive: To prevent interference with marriage to Richard.

Opportunity: No info.

Suspicious Circumstances: Announcement of engagement to Richard.

Glad Wescott I ignored; likewise Reginald Ainsworth, and that completed my list. The odds, I was forced to admit, were for or against the family. True, Della Craig might have committed the murders for the motive credited to her, but it was, I believed, unlikely. She had not displayed the least interest in Horace, and, doubtless, she could secure another backer for her play.

Of the guests I fancied Toots Lemointe. She was not a girl to stick at murder if murder suited her purpose. But if, as I suspected, she possessed the emeralds, she was guilty of blackmail alone, or, at the worst, of witholding information which might lead to the killer's identity.

As for the others—although Jeffrey Todington might well have wished to prevent the announcement of Daphne's engagement to the count, I did not think he would have stooped to murder, however much he wanted the girl for himself.

Count Orsini, on the other hand, was something of a dark horse. Apparently he had no reason to desire Mrs. Witherspoon's death, unless at the last minute she had changed her mind concerning his future relations with her granddaughter. And while this was possible it was not probable. There was no proof whatsoever that Mrs. Witherspoon had meant to postpone or cancel the engagement plans.

Had it not been for the business of the squeaky shoes, I would have dismissed the count from my mind. But there was the business of the shoes! And very perplexing it was, too.

As I have already stated, I did not consider Glad Westcott or Reginald Ainsworth in my list of suspects. There was not the slightest evidence against either of them unless one believed, as I could not, that Reginald was so desirous of acting in Della's play that he had committed murder to secure the money for its production. Not even Chief Ellis, I thought, smiling, would go that far!

And that, then, was that! I drew another sheet of paper from the pile. I headed it:

QUESTIONS

1. What was the object of Mrs. Horace's visit to the salon the night of my arrival at the Manor?
2. Who was the midnight prowler in the salon the same night?
3. Who entered salon during my absence and stole the emeralds? Were thief and murderer same person?
4. Who was the man with Toots Lemoine under landing?
5. How did Toots know emeralds were missing?
6. Why did Mr. Horace ask me to remain silent about my absence from salon at time of mother's death and why was he indifferent to loss of jewels?
7. Why did Mrs. Horace virtually accuse Daphne of knowledge or guilt in grandmother's death?
8. What made Mrs. Horace decide to have permanent and why was Daphne anxious for her to have one?
9. Who jimmied driers? Why did not electrician show up?
10. What caused Dephne to receive shock at question, "Did anyone else know of mother's permanent?"
11. Why did both Della and Mr Horace suppress information regarding former friendship?
12. Why did Daphne say Richaerd had sent telegram for her at Kirby Hotel?
13. Did Daphne know of brother's dealings with Beeman?
14. What was meaning of telegram.
15. Why did Daphne visit salon late at night and carry away bottle of beauty mask?
16. Who was person in squeaky shoes?
17. Who marked book in library?
18. Who was sender of note on Daphne's desk?
19. Why did Daphne refuse to marry anyone?
20. What does Miss Henrietta know?

Schoolgirls will be just thrilled with this sophisticated two-piece costume. The wide flaring skater-skirt accents the darling "hug-me-tight" jacket blouse. She'll find it loads of fun matching and mixing sweaters with the skirt. She'll wear the jacket blouse over some of her other frocks. The same dress all-in-one material with zipper up the front of the front of the front of the blouse, will look entirely different. Soft blue cotton chambray or a tiny checked cotton in orchid coloring is very smart. Again the pattern can be used for separate blouses or separate skirts.

Style No. 3342 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires ¾ yard of 39-inch material for blouse; and 1¼ yards of 39-inch material for skirt and collar.

Many "Old Maids" Are Such Because They Set Their Ideals Of a Husband Too High And Cannot Bring Themselves Down To An Ordinary Level

A GREAT many women are old maids because they have wasted their marrying time waiting for a man who never existed. They are the victims of a dream that never came true. They are pathetic sacrifices to a deception they have practiced upon themselves.

In their adolescent days, when they still believed in fairy tales, they began building up an ideal of a Prince Charming who would come riding down their street on his milk-white steed and bear them off to realms of romantic bliss. He would be tall and slender and wondrously beautiful, with flashing eyes and waving locks. He would be bold and daring and dashing; cold and stern to all the world, but soft and tender only to them. He would speak in beautiful and poetic phrase and be incredibly rich. And at the mere sight of him, at the sound of his footsteps, they would thrill from their permanent waves to their toes.

Well, somehow the dream lover never materialized. Nobody who even remotely resembled him ever passed their way. There was only Tom, who was short and stout. Bob, whose office coat no one could possibly mistake for a suit of shining armor. Sam, whose conversation centered around the sport page and the stock market, and whose Adam's apple rose in his throat and choked him when he tried to tell a girl that he l-o-v-e-d her. And so they passed up these good, honest, commonplace chaps for the ideal who never came.

I get many letters from women who are still on the lookout, waiting for the Impossible He to cross their paths. They ask me if they shall give up their vigils and marry the good men who are asking them to be their wives or if they shall continue their watchful waiting?

They say that Tom is so kind and considerate and a tower of strength to lean on in times of trouble. That Bob is so well off and could give them every luxury, and they are so tired of working in an office and long for a home and a man of their own and children. That Sam is so congenial and so companionable. But Tom and Bob and Sam are so unlike the men they had always dreamed of marrying. It seems like descending to a lower level to marry them. And, besides, neither Tom, Bob nor Sam raise any thrill in their breasts. They are awfully fond of them. They enjoy being with them, but they don't palpitate or grow hot and cold and trembly at their approach. And they want to know if just respect and liking are enough to marry on.

I always feel like asking these optimistic ladies who are still looking for the Fairy Prince what they think is about them that would attract the roving eye of His Royal Highness? Are they Miss Americas? Are they brilliant and scintillating and fascinating sirens who could cast a spell over any man? Or are they just nice, good, ordinary women who are fit mates for just nice, good, ordinary men?

Silly enough, isn't it, for a woman to cut herself out of a good husband who would be a good provider because he is three or four inches shorter than her ideal? And sillier still for her to be afraid to marry a man because she doesn't thrill to his touch, when probably nature gave her more logic than imagination and she is not of the thrilling sort. Yet there are plenty of women who are spinsters because they couldn't find their dreams a-walking and because they couldn't get all wrought up and excited over meeting the men at dinner with whom they had worked all day at the office.

As for whether respect and congeniality and liking are enough to marry on, that is for every woman to decide for herself. Personally, I think they are a mighty sound foundation for marriage, because they are what every happy marriage comes to in the end.

Husbands and wives cease being romantic and glamorous to each other, but if they admire and respect each other there is a bond between them that grows stronger as the years go by and that draws them closer and closer together.

Great expectations are as foolish in marriage as they are anywhere else in life. If women would quit looking for Prince Charmings for husbands there would be a lot more marriages and fewer disappointments in marriage.

Have Stacks of Fun With Card Fortunes

"Lots of sunshine in your life, just a few showers," says Phyllis, quickly sizing up lucky and unlucky cards in Ralph's fortune.

"Good news of money will come in a letter, says the Ace of Diamonds. A staunch friend is promised by the King of Clubs—and the Seven of Hearts says you're going to win in love."

"Lady, you overwhelm me," chuckles Ralph. "But," Phyllis goes on, "you'll have a disappointment, that Ten of Spades says. The Seven of Clubs hints a spot with someone. And before that final grand love affair, there'll be a broken engagement, according to the eight of Spades."

Fun and easy to tell fortunes like that, to learn the meanings of other luck and unlucky cards. Read tea leaves, too. Haven't you seen a chain of leaves in your cup? A wedding, that means. A pipe-shaped group of leaves promises adventure.

Or amuse the crowd with domino fortunes. Our 32-page booklet gives these and many other thrilling ways to tell fortunes—tea leaves, crystal gazing, cards, horoscopes. Fortune games.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of FUN WITH FORTUNE TELLING to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, February 23.

Rapid strides may be made in affairs on this day through initiative, enterprise and high-stimulated faculties and forces, whic hmay seek new channels for creative expression. With steadiness and perseverance much may be accomplished, although there may be obstacles, opposition, and resistance, which may be overcome or compromised by tact and discretion. There may be some anxiety concerning the health or welfare of feminine members of the family.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a very lively and strenuous year, with much to be gained by initiative, independence and determination, especially in breaking down opposition and hostility or stubborn obstacles. The health should receive due attention and discretion. It is a propitious time for launching new projects, innovations or audacious experiments, although in intimate or personal affairs such audacity might call for moderation or circumspect handling.

A child born on this day may have excellent creative talents, with keen vision in developing and promoting novel, bold or unusual adventures. In these it may be persistent and steadfast as well as audacious. It should be personally popular and well liked for its geniality.

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

"My goodness!" said Hanid when she looked at Clarence, the puppy. "How did you get that scratch on your nose?"

"I bet you got it from a cat," said Knarf.

Clarence nodded his head sadly. The two shadow-children could tell that he wasn't very happy because his little tail didn't wag. "Yes," said Clarence, "a cat scratched me. And I don't know why."

"You must have come too close to her," Hanid said.

"I did come pretty close. But I just wanted to be friends with her. That's all."

Don't Like Dogs.

"Cats don't like to be friends with dogs, not even with puppies," said Knarf.

"But why?"

The two shadows were silent. They didn't know exactly why. Clarence

"How did you get that scratch?" felt sadder than ever. His little tail hung right down between his legs.

"I didn't try to scratch her," he said. "I just ran up and said: 'Let's be friends!' When I do that to the children they just pat me on the head. They're glad to be friends. I like everyone to be my friend. I don't know why anyone should scratch me on the nose."

Keep Away.

"You'd better keep away from cats after this," Hanid said.

"I suppose you're right."

"They'll always scratch you if you come too close,' 'added Knarf.

The little puppy was silent for a moment or two. Then suddenly he gave a joyful little yelp. He wagged his stubby tail. "That cat really didn't mean to scratch me," he exclaimed. "She was just frightened because I ran up to her so fast. She though I was going to bump into her."

Will Know Better.

He wagged his tail more and more. "But I'll know better next time. I'll walk up to her slowly. I'll stop before I come too close to her. I'll just stand still in front of her and say: 'Please let us be friends, Mistress Cat.' Then I'll wait and see what she says. If she says 'Yes, let's be friends,' I'll go right up close to her."

"And if she doesn't?" Knarf and Hanid asked.

"Well, if she doesn't, I'll just go away again. But I'll greet her again the next time I see her. I'll go up to her and wait for her to be friends. And I'll wait and wait and wait. And finally, one of these days, she really will know that I don't mean any harm to her. And then we will be friends. You'll see!"

Looking Back
On This Date

This is an important anniversary in Canadian theatrical history, because it was on Feb. 22, 1879, 60 years ago, that the first production took place in Canada of a Gilbert and Sullivan opera, It was "H.M.S. Pinafore" and the locale was the Royal Opera House in Toronto, the production being by the then famous Holman Opera Company. It was less than a year after the first production in London on May 17, 1878, but the English appreciation, followed by similar success in New York, had created much curiosity in Canada.

The event was well advertised. Music lovers came from all parts of the province and even from Buffalo to witness the production. On the whole, the performance was worthy of the Holman family, though the critic of the Mail (who had seen the production in New York), of course, according to the spirit of that time, contended "nothing Canadian could compare with the New York performance. He had to admit, however, that "on the whole, the opera was rendered very creditably."

After several weeks' run in Toronto the Holman Company took the show to Philadelphia where "Gilbert and Sullivan's opera presented by a strictly English company from Canada" held the boards for a couple of months, then moving on to Chicago where fresh applause and many dollars were gained.

This production of "Pinafore" was notable also for the fact that all the scenery and all the costumes were made in Toronto, the first "Made in Canada" theatrical tour on record. Within a year church choirs and other amateur musical organizations were "bootlegging" the opera, as they did with others until D'Oyly Carte saw to it that all producers had to pay royalties—at such times as he could get the local courts, especially in the United States, to recognize his rights to royalties.

Clean Kidneys of Acid and Poisons

Gain in Health and Stop Getting Up Nights.

When kidneys are clogged they become weak—the bladder is irritated—often passage is scanty and smarts and burns—sleep is restless and nightly visits to the bathroom are frequent.

One right, safe, harmless and inexpensive way to relieve this trouble and help restore healthy action to kidneys and bladder is to get from any druggist a 40-cent box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules and take as directed—you won't be disappointed.

But be sure and get GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules—the original and genuine—right from Haarlem in Holland—a time-tested kidney stimulant and diuretic. Remember also that other symptoms of kidney and bladder troubles are backache, leg cramps, puffy eyes, moist palms, and nervousness.—(Advt.)

Illustrated Travel Talk Feature Of Meeting

Rev. M. C. Parr gave a brief outline of his trip to Europe, and illustrated his talk with a series of beautiful slides in color, dealing chiefly with historic Scotland, at an interesting meeting of the George Street Young People's Union on Tuesday. About sixty young people were present, and the meeting was conducted by the Christian Citizenship group, led by Mr. M. Akers.

A short sing-song opened the program, with the scripture and call to worship given by the group leader, Miss Helen Wellman led in prayer.

Mrs. C. R. Wasson, president, presided during the business period, and announced the Y.P.U. anniversary service which is to be held Sunday evening, February 26, when Rev. M. C. Parr will give an illustrated sermon entitled "Triumph of the Church." Announcement was also made of the comedy-drama, "Lena Rivers" to be presented by the Y.P.U. on March 10, and that tickets were already on sale.

A short recreation period led by Miss Loretta McDougall, and the benediction pronounced by Mr. Parr, closed the meeting.

Dawson—Dawson

BAILIEBORO, Feb. 22. — The marriage took place in Bowmanville on Saturday by the Rev. Mr. Foley, of Mrs. Mildred May Dawson, to Aylmer, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Dawson. The bride was becomingly attired in an ensemble of blue with matching accessories. The couple were attended by the bride's cousins, Dr. and Mrs. Storey of Bowmanville. After a brief honeymoon they will live in Bailieboro.

Gibson—Marsden

ALDERVILE, Feb. 22. — A wedding of much interest to many in Alderville was solemnized on Saturday, February 11, when one of the popular young ladies, Sara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Marsden, was united in marriage to W. Gibson, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Gibson of Lansdowne Avenue, Toronto.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. William Allan in Dovercourt Road Presbyterian Church, Toronto.

The bride was gowned in blue satin with accessories in harmonizing tones, and carried American Beauty roses and carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson, who are residing in Toronto, spent the past week at the bride's home in Alderville, and were honored by about 100 friends who gathered and presented them with gifts and good wishes. The house was decorated with the bridal colors and potted plants. Following dinner, Alderville Orchestra furnished music for dancing.

We Noticed

...That either from necessity or from sheer madness, millinery has taken to gadgets this spring. It may be because the hats are so inadequately secured to the head, or it may be because of womans inherent love for fuss and fanfare, but at any rate the spring hats are held on with anything from large shell hair pins, flower edged snoods, and Dauphin bows, to bandeaus with flower appliques, and large veiling bows caught in the center with barrettes.

✧ ✧ ✧

...That a note observed pretty consistently lately is the one of sleeves made of a fabric contrasting with that of the rest of the dress. Emphasis is heavy on the whole sleeve question, incidentally. Many long sleeves are used in spring and summer things—especially the variety that is rather full above an unusually long, tight wrist band.

✧ ✧ ✧

...That when spring gets into the spirit of the fashion-wise, they always burst forth with something a little special. Last year, as you will remember, it was the rage for dirndls that made practically all of the season's best have something of that peasant motif about them. There were dirndl play-suits, town dresses, suits and evening dresses. This year, the fad is for basque lines—taut drawn bodices, comparatively slim hips, and full skirts, with the waistline dropped down accordingly. Sometimes it is pointed; otherwise, it is straight — but always, it is emphasized.

ALWAYS HIGH STYLE

By ALICE ALDEN

There are hats composed of flowers; there are other charmers fashioned entirely of veiling! But, midst all the flowers, and the veils, and the ribbons, don't forget the classic felt number. It will be doing business long after the fussy hats have had their days, and it is always high fashion. Here is something new in felts, something which will be seen more frequently as the season progresses. It is trimmed with ribbed straw to give it a less wintry and more definite spring touch. The cone-shaped crown can be dented in at the top for less height.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by Mrs. MARY MOORE

Question—Would you please tell me what sort of napkins should be used with a lace cloth? Should linen dinner napkins be hemmed on two or all four sides? What size napkins should be used for lunch? Should they be the same material as the cloth or runners used? Ida B. C.

Answer: Thank you for your letter.

Napkins to be used with a lace cloth are linen edged with lace. If cloth is off-white or ecru, oyster linen napkins either hemmed or laced-edged are correct.

If dinner napkins are hemmed by hand they are hemmed on two sides only—if they are hemstitched they are done on four sides.

What size napkin should be used for lunch—these should be squares of varying size from 12 to 20 inches; folded and creased twice to make a square—and folded once more to make a triangle when placed on the table.

The same material as the cloth or runners should be used for napkins whenever possible—however, this is impractical when lace cloths or runners are used—so lace edged linen is used—as suggested above.

We hope these questions are answered satisfactorily and taht we can help you again.

Question: Kindly help me to solve the problem of making home cured meats—such as ham, bacon and ribs.

I have bought 200 lbs. of pork and would like to fix it in such a way that it would keep during the summer hot days. Would be very glad to hear from you.—T. S.

Answer: Thank you for your letter.

It is not advisable to cure "ribs" as they are too thin to stand the long curing time hams and bacon need—they would have to be cured separately—but are best if baked when fresh. They can be stuffed, baked and preserved by pouring lard over them to completely cover them and kept this way until spring—but no longer.

Sugar Cured Hames, Bacon, Etc.

For every 100 lbs. meat weigh out 10 pounds of salt, 2½ pounds brown sugar, and 2 oz. saltpeter (you would have to double these quantities as you have 200 lbs. meat). Mix these together very well, being sure the saltpeter is finely powdered. Dissolve it by stirring it into 4 gallons boiling water. Allow this brine to cool, then pour it over the meat—which has been cleaned and trimmed of all ragged edges. If this brine does not cover the meat more water should be added—the meat should be completely submerged at all times. It should be weighted down with a block of clean heavy rock—for any meat that projects will quickly spoil.

(If the brine shows signs of fermenting during the curing process it should be drawn off, boiled, cooled, strained and poured back on the meat.).

The bacon (or tongues if they are added) may be taken from the pickle after four to six weeks, and after being washed in warm water they may be hung in the smokehouse and smoked. The lighter hams and shoulders will be ready to take out of the pickle in six to eight weeks, and the heavier ones at the end of the eighth week (the heaviest pieces should be at the bottom of the brining barrel to make it convenient to take out the lighter pieces as they are done).

It is considered good practice to sprinkle the rinsed and dried meat with black pepper before hanging it to smoke—it usually requires about 6 days of steady smoking—each piece of meat should be wrapped in cotton—such as sugar bag or cheese cloth to smoke it.

Meat should never freeze before, during or after the curing process.

We hope this information is what you want and that we can help you again.

QUESTION.—I am planning on giving a small shower for a friend who is to be married soon, and wondered if you would be kind enough to help me.

Could you suggest a menu suitable? Our means are very limited, so something not too expensive would be best. I know you are very good along these lines and will appreciate your help very much. I would also be glad to have any suggestions you may have as to how to entertain these ladies (about 15 I think). —M.H.

ANSWER:

Shower Refreshments:

SUGGESTED MENU No. 1
(Buffet Style)

Creamed Ham and Tuna fish (or (Shrimps) on Patty Shells or Toast Points
Celery Hearts Olives
Mincemeat or Lemon Meringue Tarts
Coffee. Tea. Mints

SUGGESTED MENU No. 2

Assorted Fancy Sandwiches (white cheese with ground almonds; some openface; some rye or whole wheat bread); Ground ham and pickle; mushroom and walnut)
Cheese Stuffed Celery Sticks
Hot Chocolate Petit Fours or Chocolate Frosted Cup Cakes
Salted Nuts

(Homemade Vanilla Ice Cream could be served with this menu.)

One idea for a shower that I like is to enclose a card which fits an indexed recipe box with each invitation, and ask each guest to present the bride with her favorite recipe, neatly printed or typed on it.

Recipe Contest

Give each guest a small paper bag. Have hidden about the house cards with names of ingredients of recipes on them such as "2 cups flour," "1 cup sugar," "sprinkling paprika," "2 tablespoon finely ground onion,"—such ingredients should not all be for cookies or cakes but savory dishes too, for when the guests find the hidden cards they are to compose a recipe, each one from the ingredients she has found. The confusion and nonsense that this entails is good fun. The one who does the best recipe gets a prize—the worst a cook book!

We hope our suggestions help you and that you will write again.

QUESTION.—Kindly give me the recipes for the following as I am unable to get them at present: Spaghetti Italienne, Hungarian Goulash, noodles, Braised Short Ribs of Beef.—T.S.

ANSWER.—Thank you for your letter.

Spaghetti Italienne.

One-half pound spaghetti (or macaroni), 2 slices diced bacon, ½ lb. ground steak (this is optional), 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ cup olive oil (or salad oil), 2 medium sized onions, 2 tablespoons green pepper (these are optional), 2 cups canned or fresh tomatoes or juice, 2 teaspoons sugar, grated cheese. Heat the oil in large pan and add onions, peppers, bacon and meat and stir until well sauteed (about 5 minutes), then add tomatoes, salt and sugar and simmer slowly until onions and peppers are tender and sauce is reduced by one-third. Cook spaghetti in large quantity of rapidly boiling water until tender. Serve spaghetti without breaking, pour over sauce and sprinkle with grated cheese.

Hungarian Goulash

(Recipe for Hungarian Goulash appeared in the paper a few weeks ago—the following version is slightly Canadianized.)

Using about 2 pounds cheap cut beef (from the shin, shoulder or shank), free from bones, fat or skin, cut into 1-inch cubes. Slice one large onion into about ¼ cup good drippings or butter or oil in pan, then add the meat and stir until browned—about 5 minutes. Put alternate layers of this mixture and sliced onions into a kettle or large casserole, using about 6 onions in all. Sprinkle each layer with salt and pepper. Cover with cold water and bring to boiling point. Then add 1 pint canned tomatoes and simmer slowly or bake for about 2½ hours—without stirring if possible—if on top the stove an asbestos pad should be used. About 20 minutes before it is done add 1 dozen small pared potatoes and cook these until tender. Uncooked rice may be added when the meat is being sauteed—about ¼ cup—in this case the quantity of water is increased.

Noodles

For six people mix 3 well-beaten egg (or yolks mixed with 3 tablespoons cold water) very well, then add 1 teaspoon salt and enough flour so the dough will not stick to the pastry board when it is rolled out. Roll out as thinly as possible, dust with flour, let dry. Then roll up like jelly roll and slice in ⅛-inch slices. Shake out strips and let dry for one-hour. Then cook in boiling water for 5 minutes. Serve with butter. These can be fried in butter, or served with soup or stew.

Braised Short Ribs Of Beef

Ribs for braising should never be more than 4 inches thick—nor contain more than 2 ribs. Lightly sprinkle your meat with flour, salt and pepper. Brown it on all sides with constant turning, in drippings or fat in pan (preferably a Dutch oven—it is essential that the cooking utensil have a tight fitting cover). When browned add enough boiling water to just cover the bottom of the kettle, put on cover and slowly cook 2 hours. Then add 1 cup canned tomatoes, 2 chopped carrots, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, ½ cup diced celery, 1 medium sized onion chopped finely, and cook slowly another hour. Serve the vegetable sauce over the meat. Meat cooked like this is especially nice sliced cold—brisket is well adapted to this type of cooking.

Novel Tea Is Sponsored By St. Paul's Aid

Pouring tea from a flower sprigged china teapot into cups of blue willow ware, and looking very charming in her gown of rustling black taffeta trimmed with heavy lace, and quaint little cap of purple velvet, a grandmother in the stylish garb of half a century ago presided at the tea table Tuesday afternoon when the members of St. Paul's Ladies' Aid held a delightfully novel tea in the Sunday School rooms of the church.

The many guests who called during the afternoon were received by the president, Mrs. W. C. Steinkrauss, and Mrs. A. T. Barr, and witnessed a pageant in which the various stages of life from infancy to the dignified position of grandmother were unfolded. Visitors paused at tables in front of each alcove depicting the age of infancy; school days; youth; bride; modern mother, and grandmother. Orange juice and arrowroots were served at the infancy table, where a booth represented a child's nursery, complete with a baby sleeping in its crib, tiny red tables and chairs, and quantities of toys. Sandwiches and cookies were served from lunch boxes at the school days table; colorful salads and biscuits came next under the label of youth, and at the bride's table, centred with a glass reflector wreathed with orange blossoms on which a miniature bridal party was mirrored, fruit cake and ice cream were served by the bride herself, wearing a lovely gown of white net with lovers' knots of blue satin, and orange blossoms in her hair. The modern mother's table was also in the list, and here delicious raisin bread and very up-to-the-minute little cakes and cookies made an attractive display. Mrs. H. G. McKenzie was in charge here, assisted by Mrs. T. Kay and Mrs. F. Haggart.

Mrs. E. McGregor and Mrs. J. Marsh, the latter in old-fashioned costume, poured tea. Mrs. C. Lacheur was tea convener, and the assistant tea hostesses included Mrs. V. E. Forbes, wearing a quaint gown of deep blue velvet with a lace jabot at the throat, a fashionable bustle, and a cap of black stiffened net; Mrs. W. S. Hill, in a cream silk poplin of a style in the height of fashion thirty-five years ago, with lace yoke, and deep lace cuffs; Mrs. W. E. Curry, and Mrs. R. C. Prophet. A glass comport of fruit on a linen centrepiece nearly a century old was used on the tea table, and the china was all of lovely, old-fashioned design. Cookies and cakes from grandmother's recipe book were served, and afterwards conversation lozengers and nippy mints.

In keeping with the setting, a program was given typical of each period, with Mrs. H. V. Dobson at the piano. A tap dance, "When I Grow Up," Shirley Fitzsimmons; "School Days" was sung by all the guests; a wedding march was played, and Miss Quartermaine sang "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

A table of home cooking was under the direction of Mrs. C. Fairbairn and Mrs. G. Metcalfe. The infancy table was convened by Miss I. Brealey, assisted by Mrs. A. Rudd, in nurse's unform; Mrs. W. J. Moorhead was convener of the school days table, assisted by Mrs. B. Ellis and two school girls, Jean Fergus and Lenore Fleetwood; the youth table was in charge of Mrs. J. Anderson, assisted by Mrs. D. W. Clarke, Mrs. J. P. Pulkinghorn, Mrs. W. J. Hancock, Miss Betty Jack and Miss Margaret Jackson. Mrs. M. Chenhall, assisted by Mrs. W. McKee, Mrs. J. John, Mrs. J. A. Middleton and Mrs. J. McDonald, were in charge of the bride's table, and the pretty bride was Miss Mary Wainwright. Mrs. H. G. McKenzie was convener of the modern mother's table, assisted by Mrs. T. Kay and Mrs. F. Haggart. Mrs. T. Hendry was treasurer for the occasion.

Do You Know?

...If, before covering apples with pastry when making apple dumplings, the fruit is dipped in a basin of cold water, completely submerging it, the paste will stick to the apples and not slip away in cooking as sometimes happens?

✧ ✧ ✧

...Mustard, if not made with vinegar, is improved by the addition of a pinch each of sugar and salt? Mix the mustard with boiling water instead of with cold to keep it moist longer.

✧ ✧ ✧

...Kippers are usually ruined by being cooked for 8 to 10 minutes in a frying pan? Instead, soak for 10 minutes in cold water and then pour on really boiling water and let soak for 5 seconds. Then place on a hot greased grill only until thoroughly heated, and send very hot to the table.

Fashions

Just fasten the buttons down the front....There you are already to prepare breakfast....Looking as smart and fresh as a daisy. There's slimness in the coat-like closing of this cotton print utility frock. Inverted tucks fit the waistline snug to the figure. The model also includes a shirt collared version, that is smart enough to take south or on a cruise. Make it of striped or checked cotton in yellow-green or coral. How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Just get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a reliable "WOMAN'S" tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. Pinkham's is WELL WORTH trying.

BABY'S STOMACH UPSET?

BABY'S little "Tummy" is often easily upset. It is easily righted again, too, if you know just how to do it. Let Mrs. M. S. Alway, of London, Ont., tell you: "Baby's Own Tablets are a great help at the first sign of upset stomach, during teething time or when a cold is coming on. They work quickly yet gently to carry away poisons and promote quiet sleep. Walking floors at night is unknown in our home."

And Mrs. W. R. Sharp says: "I nursed my baby shortly after being alarmed over a motor accident and that upset her almost to the point of convulsions. I gave her Baby's Own Tablets and she soon stopped crying—went to sleep and when she awakened was her own good self again."

Equally effective for diarrhoea, colic, teething troubles, simple croup, constipation and simple fever. Sweet-tasting, easy to take, prompt in their action yet harmless. Analyst's certificate in every box. Buy a box today for sickness so often strikes in the night. 25 cents. Money back if not satisfied.

To Relieve Bad Cough Quickly, Mix This at Home

Does the Work in a Hurry. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother used, and, for real results, it is still a very dependable thing for distressing coughs. Try it once, and you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really superior cough remedy—more than you could buy for four times the money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

This splendid home mixture has a three-fold action. You can feel it take hold at once. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. This explains why it gives such prompt, pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, well known for its prompt action on throat membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

IN MEMORIAM

DEYMAN. — In loving memory of my dear husband, Lewis H. Deyman, who passed away one year ago to-day, February 22.

His smiling face and pleasant way
Are a pleasure to recall,
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
Some day I hope to meet him,
Some day, I know not when,
To clasp his hand in the Better Land
Never to part again.
—Sadly missed by his loving wife, Sarah A. Deyman.

MAHOOD. — In loving memory of our dear father, Alexander Mahood, who passed away five years ago to-day, February 22, 1934.

Deep in our hearts lies a picture
Of the loved one gone to rest;
In our memory's frame we will keep it,
Because he was one of the best.
Our lips cannot speak how we loved him,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how we miss him
In our hearts that are lonesome to-day.

To those who have a father:
Treasure him with care;
You will never know his value
Till you see his vacant chair.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by daughter Mabel, and sons Wilmot and Bert.

HEASMAN.—In loving memory of my dear sister Jennie, Mrs. J. F. Heasman, who passed away one year ago, February 16, 1938.

One by one they go before us,
They are fading like the dew,
But we know they're watching o'er us,
They the good, the fair, the true.
They are waiting for us only
Where no pain can ever mar,
Dear ones who left us lonely
Watch us through the gates ajar.
There a father, there a mother,
Three sisters and two brothers,
Gone within those gates ajar.
—Sadly missed by sister Hattie, Mrs. William Preston.

WRIGHT.—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, William Albert Wright, who passed away February 22, 1931.

Till memories fade and life departs
He lives forever in our hearts.
—Kindly remembered by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Armstrong and family, Bolivar street.

Stitchcraft Club Holds Sixth Meet

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 22.—Mrs. E. J. Powell entertained the Girls' Stitchcraft Club for its sixth meeting since organization for the current year at her home, King street east, on Saturday at 2.30 p.m., with the president, Miss Ruby Fallis, in the chair.

The roll was called by the secretary, Miss Ethel Belch, and was answered by "Samples of Italian hemstitching" lessons in which had been given at the previous meeting.

The president reminded the girls of the 'Country Store' which the Women's Institute is holding in the community waiting room on Saturday, February 25, and of their promise to contribute articles to this sale. The leader, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, gave a talk on the making of screens for a girl's bedroom, dimensions and materials being included in the details furnished in a practical manner.

Mrs. Armstrong also taught the members how to mitre corners, and how to make frills for dresser scarfs, and concluded with a talk on "How to judge articles at fall fairs." Mrs. Powell invited the club to hold its next meeting on Saturday, March 4, at her home, and the home assignment for this gathering includes materials for chair seats and the entries in individual record books to be brought up to date. Also to work on their dresser scarfs.

The vote of thanks to the hostess was sponsored by Margaret Smith, and Vera Fallis, and the roll for the next meeting will be answered with, "Difficulties in our work."

COE HILL

W. N. Gilroy, superintendent of the United Church Sunday School and Herbert LeHigh, accompanied by several teachers, attended the ice carnival at Belleville on Thursday.

Mrs. C. Bush of Clydesdale, who had the misfortune of breaking her ankle late in September, is reported much improved.

Mrs. Cameron of Clydesdale, 92, who has been confined to bed, is improving after a lengthy illness.

Road conditions have been very poor and travelling has had to be mostly by horse-drawn vehicles.

Owing to road and weather conditions in North Hastings County, a number of this vicinity were unable to attend the funeral of the late Clayton Peacock.

Bruce Coones went skating at Coe Hill rink on Thursday night to try out his boyhood sports after forty years, and when partly around the rink once, lost his balance and fell, breaking his wrist, being rushed to Bancroft Red Cross Outpost, where he received medical attention. Mr. Coones resides one mile east of Coe Hill, and is in his sixty-ninth year.

Guests of Mrs. Bert Caldwell on Wednesday were Mrs. Jane Peters and Mrs. Fred Whitmore.

Nearly 30 American professors or assistant professors were in Paris at one time recently.

Cleanse BIG BOWEL First!

Take a Laxative That WORKS Where the Help is NEEDED.

When you feel "constipated," the trouble seldom extends through the whole bowel tract. Sluggishness is commonly confined to just one part—usually the big bowel or lower colon (marked X).

That's where body waste often jams just when it has almost reached the point where bowels should move. That's where help is needed. So why upset the whole bowel tract with laxatives that work elsewhere?

Does like calomel act chiefly near the upper opening of the bowels. Salts flush from end to end. Olls affect the small intestine.

But Chocolate Flavor Cascarets concentrate their help where constipation usually occurs—in the big bowel. They move body waste those last few inches, bringing relief overnight. Chocolate Cascarets can do this because they contain cascara, said to give nearest to natural action of any cathartic, which acts to cleanse the big bowel in 10 to 12 hours.

Get Chocolate Cascarets now. Try them! Each foil-wrapped tablet is a gentle, effective dose. Pleasant to take because the taste is that of fine milk chocolate. All druggists, or write Dept. P-5, "Cascarets," Windsor, Ont., for free sample.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

We are still making progress with the "Neill" trophy.

A number of rinks were knocked out of the primary competition last night and moved on down to the consolation event.

Tom McArthur came through with two wins to put his rink into the quarter-finals, as did I. Hamley.

This boy Hamley plays no favorites. He grabs off a big seven on the ninth end, and then goes on to win the game by the extra round route from Jack McWilliams, and he then steps over to ice No. 6 and slips a six-end over W. Pratten. Thirteen points is not bad picking for two ends.

Three Lakefield rinks are still in the main event.

E. Metcalfe's rink was the first one to lose out in the consolation.

Gordon Matthews, Tom Holyman, W. Harvey, R. Downey are still going strong.

There will be no trophy games tonight, but we will have a bonspiel, draw from the board, at 7.30 p.m. sharp.

Talk On India's Past Given Havelock WMS

HAVELOCK, Feb. 22 — The Women's Missionary Society of Knox Presbyterian church met at the home of Mrs. A. S. Thompson for the regular February meeting, with quite a number of members present. The president, Miss E. E. Chase, in the chair, the meeting opened with hymn and prayer, the scripture lesson being read by Mrs. Robert Buchanan. The call to prayer was given by Miss Chase in preparation for the World Day of Prayer service which is to be held in Knox church next Friday afternoon.

An interesting paper entitled "India's Past" was presented by Mrs. Thompson as an introduction to their new study book, "Moving Millions." Prayer was offered by Mrs. J. Kinnaird, and following a short business period, the meeting concluded with prayer by Miss N. Scholey.

Refreshments were afterwards served by the hostess and a social half-hour much enjoyed. The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. Martin.

MR. CAFFEINE-NERVES fails to spoil Mary

MANY people can safely drink tea and coffee. Many others—and all children—should never drink them. If you are one of these, try Postum's 30-day test. Buy Postum and drink it instead of tea and coffee for one month. Then, if you do not feel better, return the container top to General Foods, Limited, Cobourg, Ontario, and we'll gladly refund full purchase price, plus postage. Postum is delicious, economical, easy to prepare, and contains no caffeine.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

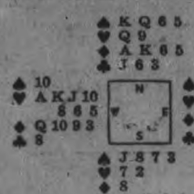
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

LEAD THROUGH HIM

IF THE PARTNER of a pre-emptive bidder doubles the contract you finally reach despite the shutout, the probable location of any important outstanding trumps is pretty well marked for you. The job then is to manipulate your cards in such a way that you can lead through the fellow who is marked as holding most of the trumps.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

When West bid 4-Hearts to open this deal, North doubled. With most good players that double is optional, meaning to leave it in for penalties unless you have a spade holding, but not indicating preparedness for a bid as high as five-odd in minors. South read the double correctly and called 4-Spades, which East doubled.

By using the information vouchsafed to him by the pre-emptive bid and the ensuing business double in the East, South made an overtrick. He won the club lead in his own hand, led to the two high diamonds, discarding a heart, lay down the spade K to drop the singleton 10, finessed the spade 8, then led the spade J to force East's ace. A heart was led to the K, and West returned another heart, which South ruffed with the 7. He entered dummy with the club J, dropped East's last trump with the Q, then finished up with club tricks in the South.

If West had led his heart honors at the start, there would of course have been no overtricks, but the real culprit was East, who had the temerity to double when his partner had shown defensive weakness with a pre-emptive bid.

• • •

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

What main principle governs the fact that, after normal preliminary bidding, North should put the contract on this deal into diamonds instead of clubs?

Copyright, 1939, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

CONTRACTORS' MISTAKE

Mr. and Mrs. F. Milton of Biggleswade, England, had the roof taken from over their heads when contractors started to raze it in mistake for a condemned house in the neighborhood.

Canadian Liner Combs Sea In Vain Search For Torpedoed Vessel

Unidentified Craft Believed To Have Sunk After Attack South Of Azores; Mystery Has Many Nations Puzzled

CHATHAM, Mass., Feb. 23 (CP).—Veiled in silence, the fate of an unidentified vessel which sent a startling report she had been torpedoed and was sinking about 360 miles south of the Azores, today perplexed shipping heads and government officials of two continents.

No word has been heard from the ship since Radio Marine Corporation here intercepted an electrifying SOS signed "Pecc" yesterday, and the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Australia, reporting from the position given in the call for help, radioed she had sighted no sign of the ship or wreckage.

The mystery deepened when the Porlshead radio station in England reported that the British tanker Pecten had accepted a radio inquiry from the Associated Press at 4.23 a.m., E.S.T., giving assurance that the tanker, believed for a time to have been the vessel which sent the SOS, was still afloat.

Owners of the British vessel, the Anglo-Saxon Petroleum Company, said "there is every indication" the vessel which sent the SOS was not the Pecten. Spokesmen for the company said they had radioed the vessel for information but added, "We are not a bit anxious," pointing out the ship was 1,000 miles away from the point where the call for help emanated.

Not a British Ship?

They said the call letters used did not apply to British, but to foreign vessels.

Two facts led to the earlier belief in shipping quarters that the vessel which sent the message might have been the Pecten:

1. The letter C in international code stands for "ten," or Pec-ten.

2. The Pecten, en route from Trinidad to Southampton, apparently was in the area from which the SOS came, as indicated by its last reported position.

Radio officials expressed belief that, if the message was genuine, the fact that it was not repeated indicated the vessel had plunged to be bottom immediately.

Lending credence to the affair was a report from Horta, the Azores, by shipping officials who said officers of a vessel which reached there last Friday announced sighting two submarines of unidentified nationality in the vicinity of Fayal Island, in the general area from which the SOS was sent.

The Mystery Call

The message, picked up by the Portuguese navy department at Lisbon, Portugal, as well as by the station here, said: "Have been torpedoed by unknown submarine. Holed below water line. Sinking. Urgent."

The call letters by which the message was signed—"PECC"—are not assigned to any vessel at present, leading to a wide range of conjecture. The region from which the SOS emanated was far east of the area where the United States fleet is engaged in war games and west of the waters where insurgent Spanish submarines have operated.

Chamberlain's Hopes Rest On Trade

By J. F. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Feb. 23—(CP Cable).—Prime Minister Chamberlain pins his faith on a combination of European appeasement and increased export trade to reduce the ranks of Britain's unemployment army of 2,000,000.

Speaking at Blackburn in Lancashire last night, the prime minister declared that "even a slight improvement in trade generally does more to reduce unemployment than all the artificial remedies anyone has ever thought of, and it is a significant fact that the easing of international tension which made itself felt after the German Chancellor's speech at the end of last month produced instantaneous improvement in the trade reports which come in to the government from all parts of the country."

This double objective lies behind the trade tour arranged for Robert Hudson, parliamentary secretary to the department of overseas trade, to draw the nations of Europe into closer economic harmony and assist all of them to prosper.

Mr. Hudson will visit Berlin the middle of March and then go to Warsaw, Moscow, Helsingfors and Stockholm, the whole trip lasting three weeks. His primary purpose will be to sell British exports and build up British trade so more men will be employed at home.

Mr. Chamberlain said at Blackburn he did not believe the United Kingdom ever can "hope to recover the position in world cotton trade that we formerly held."

He added, however, that the government was seeking broader foreign markets for English cotton goods through an agreement being negotiated with India and through other trade agreements.

While the cotton industry itself is improving in Lancashire, new industries also are being encouraged in the area.

"That is not all the government are doing," he added. "In carrying out the armament program, we have kept in mind the condition of counties like Lancashire where unemployment is high and we have en-

Rowe Barns Burn Trotter Saved

NEWTON ROBINSON, Feb. 23 (CP)—Fire of unknown origin early today destroyed three barns and a season's crop of grain on the farm of Hon. W. Earl Rowe, former leader of the Conservative party in Ontario and now Conservative member of parliament for Dufferin-Simcoe.

A number of horses and cattle in the barns at the time were believed to have been resuced, according to Mrs. Rowe.

She praises her foreman, Mitchell Reilly, who risked his life when he led out "Peter Chilcoot," Mr. Rowe's favorite trotter, from one of the blazing barns.

Rabbit And a Half

UPHILL, Ont., Feb. 23—(CP).—Walter Grigg has a pet he says is a rabbit but the way he describes it, it sounds more like a rabbit and a half. It has three ears and five feet with the fifth foot attached to a front leg. The extra foot and extra ear are normal but the rabbit has an extremely long tail while most others only have short ones.

3 Die In 2-Plane Crash

KARACHI, India, Feb. 23—(CP-Havas).—Three persons were killed today when two Indian national airways planes collided over the jungle 20 miles from here. One of the dead was believed to be a United States oil company agent named Davidson. The others were P. D. Sharma, winner of the Viceroy's gold medal air race, and his brother.

1,300 Women Hiss Police As 30 Officers Spoil Bingo Game

Detroit, Feb. 23 (AP)

PRINCIPALS in a riotous scene that accompanied a police raid on a bingo game involving 1,500 persons at fraternal order temple here last night, found quiet today—in recorder's court.

An estimated 1,300 women in the game greeted the 30 raiding policemen with hisses and hoots, and a barrage of bingo cards. Some rushed for the exits, some attempted to grab a score of smoked hams offered as prizes, and others jammed the temple stage demanding refund of their admission.

Police seized $692 in admission fees.

Seven men were held on charges of operating or aiding and abetting a gambling enterprise.

Guelph Children Find "Booklets" In Theatre Have Grand Time Tossing $100 Bonds About

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 23—(CP).—For a few hours last night, a group of Guelph children became "capitalists"—although they didn't know it.

Ignorant of the value of four gilt-edged and embossed "booklets" they found lying on a theatre seat, the youngsters were having a swell time handing them around to their friends for inspection until an adult investigated.

When it was discovered that each nicely embossed "paper" was in reality a $100 six per cent bond, each bearing coupons payable half-yearly until 1951, and each bearing $6 overdue coupons, which could have been cashed by anyone, police were notified.

Three of the bonds were recovered, but several youths had to be rounded up before the fourth was found. Police are waiting to hear from the owner.

Snow Blocked Roads In Cavan-Bethany Area

The department announced Wednesday it was keeping more roads open this winter than ever before, but that statement is giving no pleasure to farmers and truckers in the vicinity of Cavan and Bethany, who complain that Highway 7A is in deplorable condition most of the time. These pictures give the impression that probably they are right, for all were taken on the highway between Cavan and Bethany Wednesday at noon. The Examiner's truck became firmly stuck a scant mile beyond Cavan, enroute to Bethany and had to turn back. Even rural mail marriers, driving in cutters, found travel impossible along the highway. Farmers who Examiner employees met, said the best condition the road was ever in was just before the Ontario championship skiing at Bethany a couple of weeks ago. (Examiner Staff Photos.)

Purely 'Mistake' Japs Brand Hong Kong Raid

TOKYO, Feb. 23 — (AP). — The Japanese foreign office announced today that the bombing of a railway station within British Hong Kong had been explained as a "mistake" to the British ambassador, Sir Robert Craigie.

It was said that foreign minister Hactiro Arita invited Sir Robert to call today and had offered an explanation of the attack, saying that one Japanese plane dropped a projectile within the crown boundary "by mistake." Arita expressed regret.

(Nine persons, including a British Indian policeman, were killed when a railway station on the Canton-Kowloon railway was struck. Hong Kong officials were inclined to consider it a "localized incident.")

Second Muskoka Road Planned

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—(CP).—The Ontario Department of Highways is planning a direct, double-lane highway link between the border at Bufaflo and Muskoka districts, R. M. Smith, Deputy Minister, said today.

The proposed route via the widened Brown's line north from the Middle Road, would allow United States' visitors to reach resort areas without touching Toronto and having to proceed north on the congested Yonge street highway, he announced.

With the Kingston Road development and the Middle Road extension from Brown's Line to the Humber now under construction, the chain of modern highways will eventually stretch from Oshawa to the Peace Bridge at Fort Erie, Mr. Smith disclosed.

The Department plans, he said, to continue the scenic Middle Road across the Burlington bridge to a route north of Highway No. 8, which passes through Grimsby, Beamsville, St. Catharines and other places. The dual lane highway would proceed direct to the Peace Bridge, on a parallel route north of the boulevard road which runs along the Niagara river bank.

"The idea is to develop a route to the north for traffic from the United States at a point west of Toronto and that is the reason for the Brown's Line project," he added.

Weather conditions have slowed work on the Brown's Line widening and extension but the Department intends to proceed at full speed on the project in the spring.

Also under the Department's consideration is the extension of Highway No. 25 north from Milton to Acton, where it would connect with the Guelph-Brampton road. No. 25 is now paved from Palermo north to Milton. Under the plan, the 12-mile gravel stretch from Milton to Acton will be widened and paved.

Building Invincible Fleet, Romans Boast; "Ships Superior To Imperialistic Navies"

MOSCOW, Feb. 23—(AP).—An invincible Russian fleet was forecast today by navy commissar M. P. Frinovsky in a statement published on the occasion of the 21st anniversary of the Red army and navy.

"We are constructing a large, powerful fleet to defend the country's wealth and the peaceful labor of citizens of the Soviet Union," Frinovsky wrote.

"While pursuing a constant policy of peace, demonstrating repeatedly to all countries an aim to safeguard peace, the Soviet Union cannot remain passive and indifferent in the face of the furious armaments race carried on by capitalistic countries.

"Our own industry during recent years has built and armed many new ships for the navy, in military quality, are not only equal to the ships of imperialistic navies but even superior to them.

"During the third five-year plan (started last year) our sea forces will be augmented with powerful big ships armed with long range artillery."

No New Taxes Hints Morgenthau; U.S. Uptrend Seen In April

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP). — Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau told United States business men today they not only need not worry about new taxes but may hope for improvements in present taxes to help business.

Expanding on and endorsing President Roosevelt's statement of last week that business men need fear no new taxes, the Treasury head said:

"I sincerely hope Congress will take a careful look at the tax laws and see if there are any deterrents holding back business and business men from making further commitments.

"I think the business man ought to feel that the administration wants him to go ahead and take normal business risks and make money."

Morgenthau made his statement while a group of government economists were forecasting a further business uptrend would begin in April.

After an improvement which carried the Federal Reserve board index of industrial production from 76 last May to 104 in December, factory paces have been unchanged since Christmas.

Balance Coming Back.

The economists who advise major government departments viewed this recent levelling off as a necessary breath-catching pause. Production, they said, got ahead of consumption, but now the two appear nearly in balance, since retail trade has been holding up well.

Government spending, home building, and possible utility and railroad spending are among the factors which the economists named in predicting further upturn.

One of the group said he expected the rise to continue generally throughout the year and to make possible a 1939 average of industrial production of 106 on the Federal reserve index. This would compare with an average of 86 in 1938 and 110 in 1937. The index is based on 1923-25 as 100.

Private prognosticators also have been optimistic recently, including Leonard Ayres of Cleveland, who said last week that "the business gains so far attained are likely to be pretty well held, and that new advances may well be expected."

Tumor Removed In Operation On J. J. Duffus

MONTREAL, Feb. 23 — (CP). — Condition of J. J. Duffus, Liberal members of the House of Commons for Peterborough West, operated on yesterday at Montreal neurological institute for a brain tumor, was reported today to be "improving."

"His condition is good," it was stated at the institute, where Dr. Wilder Penfield, neurologist, performed the delicate operation, removing a pituitary gland tumor pressing on Mr. Duffus' optic nerve.

Dr. Penfield, in a bulletin issued late yesterday, described the tumor as of a "benign nature" and said that Mr. Duffus' general condition was "at present satisfactory."

Mr. Duffus entered the institute last week-end and was under observation until Tuesday when diagnosis was established and an operation decided upon.

Dr. Penfield's bulletin said:

Mr. Duffus has been operated upon this morning. A tumor of the pituitary gland was found and removed. It was situated behind the eyes and was pressing upon the optic nerve.

The tumor is of a benign nature and the eventual outlook is good. His general condition following the operation is at present satisfactory.

Lad Only Bruised In 250-Foot Fall

TORONTO, Feb. 23. — (CP). — Seven-year old Lionel Willis to-day had only a few bruises and a black eye to show as evidence that he hurtled down a 250-foot icebound cliff at suburban Birch Cliff.

Caught in a crevice about 50 feet above the Lake Ontario beach level, he was rescued yesterday by Jack Hilton, 19-year-old High school student. The final 50 feet was negotiated by the child with his rescuer's assistance.

His feet slipping beneath him as he played at the Cliff top, the child fell and slipped 250 feet down the cliff before he was able to dig his toes into a crevice. For more than half an hour he struggled to make his way back to safety and his cries for help were unaswered.

When the boy's father returned home from work to find his son missing, he went to the cliff and was the first to shout words of encouragement to young Lionel. Hilton heard of the mishap and rushed to the scene.

Noticing a wire cable, part of a system to prevent the cliff falling away, young Hilton made his way to the boy. Preceding Lionel down the final 50 feet of the slope to check his slide, Hilton finally brought him to the beach.

Toronto Taximan Is Forced On 330-Mile Drive At Point Of Bandit's Gun

Robbery In North Bay And Second Cab Theft Follows Jaunt To Temagami During Which Gunman Hits Plow, Is Ditched

NORTH BAY, Ont., Feb. 23 (CP).—Cecil Palmer, taximan, was slugged on the head today by two men who then stole his taxi. The pair are believed to be the men who held up a restaurant here during the night.

Albert Powell, a Toronto taximan, reported to police he had been forced to drive two men from Toronto to Temagami yesterday and then back to North Bay. Belief here was this pair was the same as in the two other crimes.

Palmer said he was called to a North Bay store at two a.m. There two men met him, and after getting in the cab, one of them drew a gun and ordered him to drive to Callander. There Palmer got out of the cab on the pretext of checking his gasoline.

When the driver refused to re-enter his car, the men slugged him over the head with guns and drove away in his cab. Palmer suffered head gashes.

A Long Jaunt.

A 330-mile drive with a pistol menacing him at all times was described to police by Powell. He said he had been forced to drive from Toronto to Temagami and back to North Bay by a lone gunman. Powell claimed that before the gunman and an accomplice, who had been picked up at Temagami, left him in North Bay he was robbed of $20.

The provincial police, after questioning Powell for about two hours, took him to Temagami to see if they could locate the house where he said he and his abductor spent several hours.

According to Powell, a young man entered his car a 3.30 a.m. Wednesday, on the stand opposite Toronto Union Station. "He told me to drive to an address on North Yonge street," Powell said, 'a'nd as soon as we got above College street, he put a gun against my back and told me to keep both hands on the wheel.

"Act natural, that's the way to stay healthy," he commanded," Powell added.

At Barrie, Powell said, they drove into a service station and obtained gasoline, for which the driver paid. Then they drove to a restaurant near the station and had some coffee. "The gunman held his hand in his pocket while we were drinking the coffee," Powell said.

Run Into Snowplough

North of Barrie, Powell said, his captor took the wheel and drove in short shifts of about 15 minutes at a time.

During one of his captor's turns at the wheel the taxi struck a snowplough on the road between North Bay and Temagami, Powell said. "The car skidded into a snow bank and stopped, after we struck the plough a glancing blow. The gunman put his hand in his pocket, pulled the gun partly out and told me to keep quiet. He left the car and apologized to the men on the plough.

"The men helped us get the car out of the snow, and we were on our way again."

Powell said he was taken into a house in Temagami and had a meal after which he slept for several hours. He and the gunman and another man then drove back to North Bay.

Three Orillia Girls Suffocate As Home Burns

ORILLIA, Ont., Feb. 23 (CP)—Three young Orillia girls suffocated early today in a fire of unknown origin in their frame dwelling. Their 17-year-old brother, Arnold McLaughlin, saved himself by leaping from an upstairs window. Firemen, attempting a rescue, found the girls dead in an upstairs bedroom.

The dead are Lorraine, 15; Audrey, 14; Marjorie, 10. They were daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McLaughlin, away at the time of the blaze.

The brother told firemen he and the girls were in their beds but were not asleep when he smelled smoke. He said when he attempted to go downstairs he was forced back by a choking blast of smoke.

He called to his three sisters and heard them answer. Then he threw open a window in a room next to the girls and leaped 20 feet to the ground. An unidentified passer-by called firemen.

Firemen raised a ladder to the widow of the room which contained the three girls, and discovered the smoke had suffocated them. Parents of the children returned home after firemen arrived.

Sister Smells Smoke.

"It was around one o'clock in the morning and we were all in bed," Arnold said later as he told of the outbreak. "Lorraine called out that she smelled smoke. I got up and went to go down the stairs to see what was the matter. Smoke and fire blazed up at me. I went back up and yelled to the girls to all come to mother's room.

"They answered me, but they didn't come. I waited and yelled again. Again they answered me. Still they didn't come. The smoke was getting so bad I could hardly breathe. The heat was awful. I yelled a third time. They didn't answer me at all.

"I couldn't stand the smoke and heat any longer. I jumped out of the window and lit in the snow, about 15 feet below."

Ransomed Boy 4 Again In Danger

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Police guarded the Brooklyn home of George Katz, accountant and race track figure today, after fresh threats against the life of his four-year-old son, Michael.

Katz, to whom kidnappers returned the boy after the father paid $250 of a $7,000 ransom, said a later demand had asked more money.

"We want the rest of the money," he told police a man telephoned him, "or some harm will come to your kid. We want it in $20 and $50 bills."

Michael was snatched Monday morning from a maid taking him to school. Following the abductors' directions, Katz left the money in a darkened Manhattan hallway and found him son a few moments later in an adjacent doorway.

Germany Orders Jews To Turn Over Jewels, Precious Stones

Berlin, Feb. 23 (AP)

ALL GERMAN JEWS and stateless Jews in Germany are required by an order published today to turn over their jewels, precious stones and objects in precious metals to the state within two weeks. The order said the articles would be paid for but made no mention of the rate scale to prevail at the government-owned pawnshops where they are to be deposited.

Girl Is Injured Sleigh Riding

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 23. — Mary Grills, aged 12 is in a serious condition in Belleville hospital as the result of an unusual accident on Tuesday morning. A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grills of Seymour township she started out for school with her younger sister Loraine, 10, when she rolled off her sleigh as it headed for a tree and slid into it on the slippery crust of ice which covered the fields. According to the story told by the girls when they reached home the older girl had seen the sleigh was headed for a tree and thought she could miss it if she jumped off. Instead she slid into it taking the full impact herself. When a doctor was summoned to the house it was found she was suffering from internal injuries of an undetermined nature and she was immediately rushed to Belleville.

Tanker Drifting 4 Days In Lake Erie Ice Floe Breaks Free As Food For 17 Men Runs Out

KINGSVILLE, Ont., Feb. 23.—(CP).—The Gulf Refining Company oil boat the Taratex, with a crew of 17, was safe here today after drifting for four days in an ice floe, while en route from Toledo to Cleveland. The boat was ice-bound several miles off shore here since Tuesday noon and a break in the ice today permitted the boat to come within 100 yards of the Kingsville dock.

Supplies Had Run Very Low

Only a change in the 25-mile-an-hour wind permitted the boat to come into the harbor today. Lights on the boat last night caused considerable speculation here and hundreds lined the shore, thinking it was an airplane in distress.

The tanker left Toledo four days go and during the first day an ice floe started to carry the boat across the lake.

Kingsville is 26 miles southwest of Windsor.

Charge Highway Revenue Is Diverted

TORONTO, Feb. 23. — (CP). — Hon. G. D. Conant, Ontario Attorney-General, and Hon. Eric Cross, Ontario Minister of Public Welfare and Municipal Affairs, will be leading speakers at the Ontario Good Roads Association convention here to-day. Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Ontario Highways Minister, will speak at the annual banquet to-night which concludes the two-day session.

T. J. Mahoney, Hamilton, secretary of the association, told delegates yesterday that certain parts of the Chevrier Commission's report on provincial transportation problem tended to show that auto and truck owners were in debt to the province for highway construction to the amount of $212,000,000.

He charged that figures presented to the commission in the associations brief showed a deficit of but $69,000,000 in the expenditure on highways against the traffic taxes collected by the province. He contended that money collected from highway traffic revenue was diverted to other provincial services in recent years.

Mr. Mahoney also said that the "pay-as-you-go" policy urged by the commission for highway construction failed to take into account the permanent aspects of modern roads.

Would Shy Off Abuses.

President J. G. Cameron, Cornwall, said that "abuses which have crept into our water and rail transportation system" must not be allowed to enter the highways system.

When the chartered use to which provincial roads have been put is considered, the roads no longer can be considered free for the use of the people, he said. Permission is necessary almost to walk on the streets.

Mr. Cameron said he believed that a short motor trip from Ottawa to Toronto would be appreciated "by all concerned," in suggesting that the King and Queen's visit to Canada this summer include a tour of Ontario highways.

Only Single Outlet For Ontario Wheat

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—(CP). — Ontario farmers have but one means of getting their product to market, whereas western farmers have outlets via Hudson Bay and via the Great Lakes, C. E. Soward, sales manager of the Maple Leaf Milling Comapny said yesterday in evidence before the Dominion Board of Transport Commissioners.

The Board continued its hearing on the Ontario application for lower freight rates on grain to Montreal. At present western grain moves cheaper to Montreal via rail and water than Ontario grain does by rail. Elimination of this differential is sought.

The low-grade western wheat that competes with Ontario winter wheat in such markets as the British West Indies represents about four per cent of Western Canada's crop, said Mr. Soward. Present freight rates were fixed on a 1905 basis, but since then there had been changes disadvantageous to the Ontario wheat grower. There is practically no Ontario wheat export now.

Grief Kills Dog

ELIZABETHTOWN, Pa. Feb. 23 (AP)—For a week after William Hossler died his collie dog refused to eat. Efforts were made to feed the animal by force, but he sulked, weakened and finally died. Members of the family said they believed the dog starved to death grieving for his master.

Robs As Prosecutor Now Vengeance At Hand For Official

Detroit, Feb. 23 (CP)

ASSISTANT Prosecutor Richard Lamb was hopeful today he would have the chance to prosecute Raymond Coredero on 20 theft charges for Coredero for 10 years had plagued Lamb by using Lamb's name as an alias in his crime career.

Police said Coredero has confessed 20 robberies committed during the last six months. When brought to jail, he continued his practice of giving his name as Richard Lamb.

Ontario Warned Of Poor Potato

TORONTO, Feb. 23.— (CP). — With a new name, the Ontario Crop Improvement Association concluded its convention here last night. The name was formerly the Ontario Field Crop and Seed Growers' Association, but at the annual meeting it was decided to change it.

W. T. G. Weiner of Ottawa, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, warned the members improvement in seed quality was useless if producers retained the idea "the land is an inexhaustible reservoir of plant food."

Mr. Weiner described present production practices as extremely wasteful. Economical production of farm crops, he said, is "essential to the whole success of agriculture as an industry."

E. C. Drury of Barrie, former Premier of Ontario, said reforestation was necessary to combat the results of indiscriminate clearing of land in the early settlement of the province. "Many settlers didn't know the difference between good land and bad," he said.

Agriculture Minister Dewan said improvement in Ontario's potato crops must be effected if markets are to be retained. "We must tackle the job if we are to hold the potato markets of the country," he stated.

Other speakers included C. A. Scott, Ottawa, James Laughlan of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, James Bryden of O.A.C., and J. T. Cassin of the Ontario Agriculture Department.

Alexander Stewart of Ailsa Craig was elected president.

Ontario Pledged To Active Reforestation

TORONTO, Feb. 23 — (CP). — The Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce had the assurance to-day of Lands Minister Peter Heenan that the province is committed definitely to an active program of forest conservation and reforestation.

Replying to a resolution adopted by the organization and presented by delegates, the Minister outlined briefly the fire-fighting resources of the Department of Lands and Forests, consisting of 26 seaplanes, 4,000 lines of telephone wires linking observation towers and department depots, 175 steel towers, 570 portable fire-fighting units, 800 canoes, 39 motorboats, and 109 trucks.

In addition the communication services included portable radio sets and "probably the most modern three-way radio communication in the world, connecting four chief stations."

Mr. Heenan refused to answer a charge by Sir William Mulock before the Ontario Reforestation and Conservation Association of "lack of energy on the part of the Government in failing to take leadership in reforestation. Mr. Heenan said now there are 12 counties working in agreement with the Department on the reforestation project. There are 16 forests in the 12 counties.

1,000 Acre Blocks.

He explained that under the scheme the counties supply land in blocks of 1,000 acres or more and the Department supervises the plantations and looks after fire control and control of pests and disease. At the end of 30 years the Government may take over the forest and compensate the county, the county may take it over or the two parties may enter a continuing agreement on a joint basis. About 20,000 acres of land has been planted in the 12 counties.

About 12,000,000 trees were distributed last year by Government nurseries and the Department is prepared this year to distribute 22,000,000. The Department, Mr. Heenan said, supplies up to 3,500 trees, free of cost, to an individual farmer. Last year between 7,000 and 8,000 farmers received tree-planting stock.

Only 1 Of 12 Ballot Boxes Sealed Renfrew Election Case Reveals

PEMBROKE, Ont., Feb. 23—(CP).—Only one of the 12 ballot boxes used in the Renfrew municipal election Jan. 2 were returned sealed to clerk-treasurer Roy L. Kennedy, it was brought out in evidence yesterday when the hearing of the motion to unseat Mayor F. A. Wade and Reeve F. X. Plaunt, of Renfrew, began before County Judge J. T. Mulcahy.

James Fennessey, who was defeated by two votes for Reeve, seeks to have the election declared void on grounds certain people were allowed to vote when not qualified and because of alleged violation of the secrecy of the poll and for impersonation of votes.

Mayor Wade and Reeve Plaunt have a counter-motion for the hearing, which will continue today, alleging Fennessey participated in certain irregularities which automatically disqualified him.

One paragraph of the counter-motion alleging Mr. Fennessey was "an undischarged bankrupt and insolvent and not entitled to be a candidate or relator in the hearing" was deleted yesterday when James A. Maloney, Fennessey's counsel, produced a certificate showing Fennessey had been discharged from bankruptcy some time ago.

Kennedy testified he had given no receipts for the Ballot boxes when they were returned to him after the election, and that only one of the 12 boxes was returned sealed, although all returning officers had been provided with sealing wax.

None Tampered With?

On cross-examination by defence counsel, Walter F. Schroeder, Kennedy said he was satisfied the ballot boxes had not been tampered with before a recount some time after the election, although all the boxes were not locked and had the keys attached to them. Witness said he placed the boxes in a room and sealed the door and the seal had not been broken.

Harry Fishenden, returning officer at one poll, said he remembered a man named Landriault or Latendresse coming to his poll and that Plaunt was there at the time. Asked if the reeve accompanied anyone to the polling booth, witness said Plaunt went with Landriault or Latendresse, and that Plaunt was in the room when the returning officer marked the ballot for the voter.

Fishenden also said a James Leclair came into the polling booth with a lady while she marked her ballot.

OBITUARY

HATTIE ELIZABETH KIDD.

Death occurred in Cobourg on Wednesday, February 22nd in her 73rd year of Hattie Elizabeth Kidd, daughter of the late Daniel Kidd and Isobel Anderson. She was born in Warsaw but spent practically all her life in Lakefield and Fraserville, and was living at Fraserville until a short time before her death. She had been ill for quite some time.

The late Miss Kid dwas a Presbyterian and she is survived by one sister, Miss Clara Kidd and one brother, Bert Kidd, both of Lakefield. The funeral will be held on Friday, February 24th from the Nisbett Funeral Home at 2.30 with interment in Lakefield cemetery. The Rev. G. Kelly of Lakefield United Church, will conduct the funeral service.

JOHN SPENCE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 23.—The funeral of the late John Spence, whose death, following an extended illness, took place on Thursday, February 16, was held from the family residence, Main street, on Saturday at 2 p.m., the Rev. A. L. Sisco conducting the service.

Mr. Spence was born on the family homestead in Emily township on the Orange Line eighty-three years ago, and was a son of the late William and Sarah Spence. He continued to live on the home farm until 1919 when he came to Millbrook and purchased the resident on Main street, formerly the property of J. R. Eakins, residing there until his death.

Forty years ago the marriage of John Spence and Martha Jane Sanerson, also of Emily township, took place his widow surviving him, with their three daughters, Mrs. G. Roscoe Peacock, of Woodville (Gertrude); Mrs. Cecil Hubbeard (Marian), of Millbrook; and Miss Elsie, of Toronto; there are two grandchildren.

Mr. Spence had a life-long connection with the Methodist and United Churches, was a Conservative in politics, and was devoted to the interests of his home and family.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. A. J. Henderson, J. A. Brown, H. C. Lord, J. Pitt, W. C. Fallis, and F. A. Kidd; interment was in the family burial plot at the Omemee cemetery.

MRS. ANN DONOGHUE.

The life of a noble pioneer woman was ended when death called Mrs. Ann Donoghue to her eternal reward on Tuesday morning, February 21.

The late Mrs. Donoghue, whose maiden name was Ann Crough, was born in Ennismore in 1848, a daughter of Mr. Michael Crough and Bridget Carew. Her early days were spent in Ennismore, where she married Mr. Robert Donoghue, and lived in that locality until 1907, whence they moved with their family to Peterborough. Five sons and four daughters constituted the family, seven of whom survive. They are: Sister St. Robert and Mrs. E. English of Peterborough, Mrs. Margaret Clancey of Detroit, Michael, Daniel and Robert of Peterborough, and Timothy of Alberta. Mr. Donoghue predeceased her nineteen years ago, also one son, John T., and a daughter Mary.

Blessed with the faith of the good old Irish stock to which she belonged, she faithfully accomplished her duty through all circumstances. Few, if any, who read the account of this life, can look back in retrospect over ninety years, and that few only can appreciate the trials and hardships of those pioneer days. Then it was that this good woman found time, not only to accomplish the many and varied duties of her own household, but to minister to the sick and needy of her neighborhood. Of her could truly be applied the words of the poet:

"Fearless of well-doing, in sorrow strong,
Healer of wounds, affliction's minister,
More good than pious, just a little blind
To mortal weakness."

The patient suffering of the last four years during which Mrs. Donoghue had experienced a period of inactivity and sickness, proved "the valiant woman." Up to the last days she exhibited that buoyant spirit of welcome for those who visited her, always ready to accept the will of God in the matter of her life or death.

Her funeral took place from the residence of her son, Mr. Robert Donoghue, 264 Reid Street, to St. Peter's Cathedral, where Solemn Requiem Mass was sung by Rev. E. Welsh, assisted by Rev. V. J. Masterson, D.D., and Rev. E. Grant. Present in the sanctuary were His Excellency Most Rev. Denis O'Connor, D.D., LL.D., Rev. V. G. McFadden, P.P., Downeyville; Rev. J. V. McAuley, P.P., Campbellford; Rev. C. J. Carroll, P.P., Norwood, and Rev. C. J. Maloney of Sacred Heart Church, grand-nephew of the deceased. An inspiring and consoling sermon was preached by Rev. E. Welsh.

After the chanting of the Libera and the last absolution the remains were taken to Ennismore for burial near the resting place of her beloved husband. Prayers at the graveside were said by Rev. V. Gillogly, P.P., Ennismore.

The pall-bearers were her six grandsons: Edward and Robert English, William, Timothy, Elmer and John Donoghue.

Relatives from a distance included Mrs. Margaret Clancy, Miss Mary Clancy and Mrs. Margaret Donoghue —all of Detroit.

Congress Likely To Lift Limit On Planes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP).—While the House of Representatives approached a vote on the controversial Guam naval project, two developments raised the possibility today that the United States Congress might expand the Army Air Corps beyond the 5,500 planes authorized by the House.

1. The Senate received from its military committee a unanimous recommendation that the army plane limit be raised to 6,000.

2. Chairman Sheppard (Dem., Texas) of the committee made public a letter from War Secretary Woodring suggesting that no maximum be set on the number of aircraft the army could acquire.

Woodring urged that all limits be removed so that if mass production of planes made possible the acquisition of a greater number without additional cost, the army could take advantage of the opportunity.

Representative Martin (D., Colo.) assailed the German-American Bund and denounced in particular its so-called "Americanization meeting" in New York on Monday night.

"Every man in that mass meeting who is in sympathy with it is a traitor to American democracy and government whether he is still an unnaturalized alien or was born on American soil," he said. "In the World War, their fealty was to the Kaiser. Now it is to Hitler. . . .

"Shades of Washington, must such things be tolerated in the name of liberty on the free soil of America. God save America from Nazi-Christian Americanism."

A reply came later from Representative Hawks (Rep., Wisconsin).

How About The Reds.

"I did not hear the gentleman refer to Communist meetings that were being held all over the United States at the same time that a few German people were meeting in New York," he said. "Why under the sun—what reason is there that during the past few weeks in the House there has been no mention of the Communists.

"We have been attempting to malign the German people, we have been attempting to malign the Italian people. We have had to listen to statements such as the gentleman from Colorado made this morning, with very little said about the slimy, dirty, operations of the Communists in this country."

The Senate committee, in favoring the Air Corps development, approved yesterday the army expansion measure constituting the bulk of the administration defence program. It voted to authorize $23,750,000 to strengthen Panama Canal defences and 34,500,000 to train private industry in munitions production.

This was $2,000,000 more than the sum in the bill as approved by the House.

Debate over the $5,000,000 Guam project diverted attention to the House from the rest of the naval air base program. With scarcely any discussion, it tentatively approved 11 other projects. They included new air bases in Alaska, the mid-Pacific and Puerto Rico as well as expansions in existing domestic stations.

Critics denounced the Guam development, however, as the first step toward complete fortification of the island and a measure likely to enhance the danger of war.

It was just as vigorously supported by members who said it would "save American lives" if war should come in the Pacific.

Omemee Votes To Remain Dry

OMEMEE, Feb. 23.—This village stays in the dry column. Yesterday's local plebiscite on the question of getting a beverage room for the community gave a sharp negative answer of 195 to 122. The issue was considered without any undue heat of sentiment between the two opposition groups, but interest was keen and a large vote was polled during the day.

The "wets" required a two-thirds majority to win for Omemee a beverage room authority.

Air Mail Service To British Columbia

Inauguration of the overnight Air Mail Service on March 1 will whisk Peterborough letters to the Pacific Coast while people here are sleeping.

The Mail will close at the Post Office at 4.15 p.m. for despatch on the afternoon train for Toronto, where it will connect with the Air Mail Service the same evening and be in Vancouver 11.35 a.m. the following morning, and the intervening points such as Winnipeg, Regina, Lethbridge, Edmonton, and Calgary following morning, enjoying the same service as a letter posted for Toronto or Montreal.

Charles Lacheur, postmaster, states that the service would bring far-reaching benefits to the business men of this city, also the public in general. The new service will be a gain of 30 hours to Winnipeg and 72 hours to Vancouver, and proportionate gains to intervening points.

This Mail Service will be daily, including Sunday. Mail on Sunday will close at 4 a.m. Postage within Canada is six cents for the first ounce and five cents for each additional ounce or fraction thereof.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Feb. 23 — (CP). — Light selling late in the session influenced by hesitation at Chicago caused Winipeg wheat futures prices to slip fractionally to-day. Final quotations were ⅛ to ⅜ cent lower, with May at 62¼, July 63, and October 63⅛ cents.

Only a few loads of Canadian export wheat were reported worked tober 63½ cents.

late decline to the easier European situation.

Sale of two Australian wheat cargoes to Shanghai and reports of further inquiries held Liverpool values around previous closing levels as the English market finished ½d lower to unchanged.

Market Review

TORONTO, Feb. 23 (CP)—Encouraged by new forecasts of a spring business pick-up, the stock market pushed ahead today for moderate gains in all index groups. While prices stiffened, the buying continued on a Conservative scale, indicating the public was still keeping an eye on developments in Europe. Aggregate turnover was little better than 360,000 shares.

Add market Review ... ...

The market was strong but dull through the early session. Only 210,000 shares changed hands in the first three hours but despite the lethargy all indices were higher at noon.

In the industrial section steel and liquor stocks firmed, while utilities were lower and the senior oils, foods and papers steady.

Western oils improved, producing minor gains for Home, Calgary-Edmonton, Davies and Anglo-Canadian. In the mining division some of the gainers were McIntyre, O'Brien, Macassa and Sylvanite.

Wall Street Close

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP). — The Stock Market took a hesitant step forward to-day, but lapsed into a drift again as traders held off waiting for the February stalemate to end.

Following a forenoon buying flurry on Secretary Morgenthau's statement the administration was seeking to encourage business profits and studying tax revision, dealings dried up to a thin trickle. Gains ranging to more than a point, however, were in the majority near the final hour, mostly among the steels, motors, aircrafts and chemicals.

Transactions were about 450,000 shares.

Air Raid Shelters

LONDON, Feb. 23—(CP-Havas).—Sale of 8,000 galvanized steel movable air raid shelters will start Monday, it was announced today.

Sir John Anderson, lord privy seal, today inspected one of the first shelters to be delivered and said they will sell for about $8 ($40).

Log House Over 100 Years Old Is Rebuilt Into A New Dwelling

Pulled down log by log on its original site in the township of Douro, this log house, which is well over 100 years old, has been re-erected by Michael Smith in North Monaghan. Mr. Smith plans to sheet the house on the outside and then he claims he will have the warmest house in the district.

Perhaps the oldest house in Peterborough district and one of the most substantial, is that owned by Michael Smith on Business street, in North Monaghan. It is more than a hundred years old.

"Can a man build a home for less than $500 that has walls eighteen inches thick, that is thirty by twenty feet in size, two-storied, and that will probably be as good in a hundred years as it is now?" a reporter asked a local contractor and got an immediate "No" for answer. Yet that is exactly what Michael Smith is doing. He is living in his house now and it has cost him to date $165. On the coldest day of winter he cannot even hear the wind outside, much less feel it in the house, and he has only a kitchen stove to heat the entire building.

Stood On Douro Farm.

It all started when Smith, an employee of the Peterborough Lock Works, lived in Douro. He saw in the neighborhood an old log cabin. It had stood on a farm near there for more than a century. John Dwyer of King street, who celebrated his 84th birthday recently, told the Examiner his grandfather had bought the old house for $40. Every day after work he peddled on his bicycle out to Douro and kept tearing the place down, numbering each log carefully. Then, by assisting in the transportation himself, he had it moved by truck to Peterborough for $10.

Raising the building was quite a job, Mr. Smith admitted, but he had good friends and relatives. They had a building bee one Saturday or two, and they managed to get the logs into their proper positions. Biggest job of all was the raising of the last two logs on each side, all of which measured thirty feet in length and had to be lifted to the top of the two-storey walls. Others lower down were cut to allow for windows, but these two top ones were the full length of the house. Mr. Smith had no idea how much they weighed, but he did know that it was one of the toughest jobs he ever tackled.

That was the beginning of the job, made nearly two years ago. Every day after work he cycled to Business street and kept plugging away. In the past two years he has not had a single free Saturday, but has worked at least as hard as he does at the Lock Works. But he's getting results. Last fall he decided the house was far enough advanced to be called a home and he and his family moved in. They have never regretted that step for they have lived in comfort through all the cold weather.

Will Be Sheeted.

Mr. Smith said he has a lot of work ahead of him yet. When his home is completed no one will know it is made of logs, for he is going to cover it with an outside sheeting. A casual passer-by will think the house is merely a frame structure, little suspecting those 18-inch walls. The building is a two-storey affair although the upstairs is not yet completed. There wil lbe four bedrooms.

All his friends told him when he started to build his home that he would never finish it, Mr. Smith said. A man of slight build, he had great perseverance, never stopped.

He has become a proficient carpenter, although he knew little of the work he started. In England he had attended an industrial school and found when he started to build his home that some of the things he had learned there still remained. He built steps, windows, sinks, cupboards, and all the other things that go with a home. It was a pretty tough job, he admitted, "but we had been married for quite a while and I decided it was time we had our own home."

The foundation of the home is a solid affair. Cement pillars sunk four feet in the ground and rising sixteen inches in the air, into which are set numerous angle irons from beds, support the weight of the house. Joists that are seven by seven inches are laid beneath the floor.

That is the house that Michael Smith is building—one of the city's oldest houses, yet one of the newest. Michael Smith has a vision; he sees that house still in good condition in another hundred years, and he sees his children and his children's children still living in it, handing down from one generation to the next the story of himself and how he struggled every free hour he had for more than two years to build that firm house, that he and they might have warmth and security.

Centreton W.A. Plans Pot Luck Supper

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CENTRETON, Feb. 23. — The W. A. met at the home of Mrs. John Merriam on Wednesday afternoon, with 16 present. It was decided to hold a pot-luck supper on March 17. Mrs. R. Webb, Mrs. C. Turk, and Mrs. S. McBride were appointed to cut out the quilt blocks ready for sewing. Donations of prints were received from Eaton's and Simpson's, and several pieces were taken by members to make up.

A member on each road was appointed to seek new members.

Program committee for March is Miss M. Fleming, Mrs. J. R. McBride, Mrs. R. Stewart. Lunch committee, Mrs. A. Birney, Mrs. J. McKenzie, and Mrs. F. Birney, with the meeting to be held at Mrs. C. Turk's. Mrs. R. Stewart sang "That Beautiful Garden of Prayer" and Miss M. Fleming gave a reading.

A lunch of sandwiches and cake was served by the committee, Mrs. Bromwich, Miss Wolfraim, and Mrs. C. Blogett, and a social time was spent.

Asphodel Man Marks His 85th Birthday

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 23.— A constant reader of the Examiner, Gavin Shearer, one of Asphodel Township's oldest residents, celebrated his 85th birthday last Wednesday. He is in excellent health and resides with his daughter, Mrs. Roy Humphries. Ordinarily, the job of keeping the wood and water supply in the house would be easy, but Mr. Shearer does these chores despite the deep snow and chill winds of this winter. He makes a daily trip to the mail box at the end of their long laneway.

Friends Banquet Giant 8 Foot, 491 Pounds As He Becomes a Man

Alton, Ill., Feb. 23 (AP).

ROBERT WADLOW, the world's tallest person, today for the first time could call himself a man.

The youthful giant, who has grown three-quarters of an inch and gained 11 pounds in the last six months, quietly observed his 21st birthday—resting up for a party tonight in which scores of townspeople and friends will participate.

"I can't see any difference in being 21," he laughed.

Latest official measurements, taken three weeks ago at the Washington University Medical School, St. Louis, showed his height, in his bare feet, to be eight feet 6¼ inches; his weight, 491 pounds.

Major W. F. Burnham Dies In Winnipeg

WINIPEG, Feb. 23. — Major William F. Burnham of Winnipeg, veteran of the Riel Rebellion and South African War, died in the Misericordia Hospital in his 73rd year.

A first cousin of the late Marie Dressler, film star, Major Burnham was born in Port Hope, Ont. He joined the infantry school corps as a bugler in 1883 and two years later he served under General Middleton in that capacity. He was a member of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association, and each year took part in the Decoration Day parades.

Major Burnham organized the first cadet corps in Manitoba which was presented in review before the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, who later became King George and Queen Mary. The Duchess personally complimented him for the fine work of the cadets.

Until his retirement in 1934 Major Burnham was chief inspector for the Child Welfare Committee.

Ottawa Favors Merit System

OTTAWA, Feb. 23—(CP).—State Secretary Rinfret yesterday declared the Government was entirely and unequivocably behind the merit system of appointments to positions in the civil service. He did so as the House of Commons approved his motion to reconstitute the committee which inquired into the operation of the Civil Service Act last session.

A lengthy debate on the motion was precipitated by J. P. Pouliot (Liberal, Temiscouata), chairman of the committee last session, and who indicated he would not act in that capacity again.

The vexed question of political patronage in the appointment of persons to small positions throughout the country provided material for the debate. Several members took the ground such appointments should not be under the jurisdiction of the Civil Service Commission but should be made by the government on the recommendation of the local member of parliament or some person in whom the government had confidence.

Mr. Pouliot said the Civil Service Commission was a farce and an agency "for buck-passing." W. R. Tomlinson (Liberal, Bruce), said it was a waste of money to leave small local appointments to positions not requiring skill or special knowledge to the Civil Service Commission.

What Is The Reason?

In a number of court cases it is noted that an accused person who has had a previous prison or reformatory record is apt to receive more severe sentence than a first offender or one who has previously served say a jail term. The feeling seems to be that repeating in crime is accepted as evidence that the offender is a determined individual and therefore the law must take a stiffer attitude toward him.

To what extent there is actual justification for that attitude presents quite a question. When an accused person is found guilty he is sentenced to a term which is supposed to fit the crime which he has committed. It is taken for granted that he is a debtor to the law and the law says to what extent a term shall be served in order to discharge that debt.

When the prisoner has completed that term is it not a fact that he has paid his debt in full? He owes nothing at all, but has complied with all the demands made upon him and he is a free man. Following that course of reasoning what justification is there for holding his previous sentence against him when he appears the second time. We quite well understand that for certain infractions of the law a second offence is more seriously regarded than a first, and a third offence draws a greater penalty than a second. But in cases which do not come under that sort of ruling we have often enough wondered why the fact that an individual has already served time should have the effect of him receiving a harder sentence than the first offender. We admit having heard a good many explanations, but none of them seems to wipe out the fact that a prisoner in court is being tried for a definite offence, and not on the charge that at some previous time he served a stretch in prison or reformatory.

Have We Such a Man?

Apparently things have not been going too smoothly in the workings of the Board of Directors of the C.N.R. James Y. Murdock has resigned and the reason given is that he could not secure any action favorable to his desire to bring about the retirement of S. J. Hungerford, president of the system. Mr. Murdock believes the president is too old a man for the position—he is 66—and that his health is not sufficiently good to carry on, and for that reason there is not the active and dynamic energy at the head of the road which circumstances warrant.

Mr. Murdock is also of the opinion that the C.N.R. needs a spokesman to compete with the campaign carried on by President Beatty of the C.P.R., who is constantly going about the country from coast to coast telling people the lines in Canada should be unified. Sir Edward is a persistent apostle of the railway gospel which he expounds. It is doubtful if the C.N.R. under its present ownership and set-up lends itself to the same sort of treatment. When Sir Edward Beatty makes a speech he knows well enough he is not going to be called into the office next morning and asked why he said this or that or who gave him authority for making such and such a statement. The C.N.R. is owned by the government on behalf of the people and managed by a board of directors named by the government. Then we also have a Minister of Transport. The man who is going forth to give addresses so he will give aid and assistance to the cause and at the same time satisfy all those who sit in various places of authority would have to be a remarkable individual.

Hard To Understand

R. J. Scott of Belgrave, president of the United Farmers' Co-operative Co., made a significant statement when he appeared before the Dominion Board of Transport Commissioners. He was dealing with the freight rates which farmers had to pay to get their produce shipped in this country.

Referring to corn, Mr. Scott declared that Ontario, one of the finest corn-producing areas in the world, had virtually ceased to produce it today "because Kansas corn could be shipped to Montreal, a haul of over 2,000 miles, for eight cents a bushel less than corn from Sarnia district can be sent to Montreal."

One can discount Mr. Scott's statement to some extent about Ontario having ceased to produce corn. A great deal of it is grown for silage purposes, but it may be true enough the rates referred to have much to do with making it impossible to get ride of it for export. What the explanation may be we do not know, nor was any offered at the meeting, but it would require a deal of it to show that corn should be transported 2,000 miles from Kansas to Montreal for eight cents per bushel less than the 530 miles between Sarnia and Montreal.

The Horse Has His Day

When there is as much snow on the ground as we have at present the team of horses and the bob-sleigh has an advantage over the motor car. And a big one.

In the city we have been getting snow so rapidly and it has been more or less galvanized by a covering of sleet that we find it difficult to move the stuff; we can't whisk it away with a broom nor can we do much with a shovel.

Yesterday in the parking lot beside the Examiner office there was trouble for a number of cars and that has been the case for several days. The city scraper had piled up a nice ridge along the edge of the road and cars could not bunt through it. At that time there was a farmer with a team and a bob. He had about a dozen milk cans and was on his way home. He came to this ridge of snow and merely drove over it or through it and there was no difficulty at all. If the horses could have taken in all that had been happening right there they might have been pardoned if they grinned slightly as they walked right through and on because they were doing something the car drivers had failed to accomplish.

Meals For Transients

When the town council of St. Marys held its last meeting members talked at length about the best way to deal with transients. St. Marys, like Peterborough, is on No. 7 Highway, between Stratford and Elginfield, and there are more transients in that part of the province than one encounters in our district because centres of population are closer together.

St. Marys used to issue one meal per day but it was found that the one meal caused a good many to stay around and wait for it. After it was discontinued the transients going into St. Marys had to shuffle for themselves and they did by going from door to door looking for meals, and that is what they are doing now. Citizens who had approached the mayor were not asking that steps be taken to make it harder for the transients who need a meal, but they appear to believe it is something to which the town should attend rather than having unknown men calling at various homes at all hours.

In Peterborough transients can sleep at the police station and they can secure two meal tickets per day, but about two days and two nights is the limit of the provision, after which the transient is expected to demonstrate that he can live up to the name of his classification and be off to another community. It is only during the winter season that meal tickets are provided, and the giving out of the meal tickets has apparently made little or no difference in the number of transients. Our belief is that it is better to have tickets provided at the police station than to have strange men making their appeals at houses. A good many hours a day a woman is alone in the home in many instances and she may be uneasy enough when a stranger comes asking that he be given a meal.

Rosedale Wants No Boarders

People who prefer to live in the Rosedale section of Toronto and who can afford to abide by the tradition and restriction that it is strictly residential, are determined there shall be no boarders allowed in houses there. Even if the boarders go under the more dignified name of "paying guests" they must be ousted. In order to show that they mean business they had one woman brought to court and she was fined $20 because she had boarders in her home.

Rosedale is a rather swanky spot in Toronto, but there are other sections which used to be in the same class which have since lost their glamor. The court cases which are being brought on now seem to indicate a form of snobbishness which leaves out of the running entirely the serious business of making a living. It is quite conceivable that a family may have secured a home in Rosedale twenty years ago, and at that time there was sufficient income and the future looked assured. In recent years the positions and fortunes and incomes of a good many formerly substantial families have been rather rudely shaken out, and because a family was living in Rosedale offered no protection at all. The shaking out process would reach in there just the same as elsewhere.

If the family desired to make an effort to retain the home it would be necessary to seek some more income. If the home were large—and many Rosedale homes are—there would be rooms which could be rented to people who would be glad of a chance to live in that district and able to pay a fair price. The law of common sense would indicate that as the proper thing to do. There would be no opportunity to sell the home and recover the original investment. The only other way would be to struggle and lose, and the decision to fine a woman $20 for keeping boarders makes it clear that such is the course which is being insisted upon.

It is distinctly Toronto's problem at the moment, but it has in it the broader question of tolerance, and it is also a study in the changing fortunes of a good many people and families who a few years ago considered themselves financially secure. When it comes to the point of deciding that a family must not make a living in the only way which seems open then it would appear as though local bylaws and restrictions had invaded a field which they have not the right to occupy.

Let Them Agree On It

A. Edwards, Labor member in the British House of Commons made the claim that "two days before Hitler threatened to march into Czechoslovakia 400 tons of copper arrived at German ports from Canada."

The reply as given by Sir John Haslam, a Conservative member, was that Canada is at liberty to do as she thinks fit in such a case as Canada is a self-governed unit.

Mr. Edwards believed if there were united action in such matters much could be done to stop war, particularly if United States worked in the same direction and for the same purpose.

If there is to be a general movement for this purpose then Canada will wish to join with it; our country would have no desire to be working at cross purposes with the Empire nor yet with United States in the matter of denying material which was going to be used for the purpose of waging war.

But the problem is deeper than appears on the surface, and it would be necessary to start working in some of the war equipment plants in which the British people as investors are deeply concerned. It has been stated many times that during the war factories where munitions or armament of war were being manufactured were not bombed or molested in any way in any country. Then there is the international traffic in arms by which method patriotism does not exist and those who have orders for armament are treated as customers on the same basis as those who seek any other kind of merchandise.

If there is to be any progress made in shutting off war supplies then it will have to start on a broad scale; the program will have to be definite; it would have to be wider than 400 tons of copper from Canada because copper is something which could be secured from a good many sources in the world.

We believe the British Empire and United States could go a long way in stopping the war race if they came to an agreement about war supplies. Between them they control much of that which is absolutely essential. The desire for trade and for export and for profit has so far defeated any higher scheme looking to the placing of serious barriers in the war race by shutting off raw materials. If any such plan is proposed on a workable and sincere basis Canada will not hesitate to be in line.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We still contend that for a little fellow February is putting on quite a show.

The aldermen in Guelph have decided to adopt the pay-as-you-go plan. That is, they will be paid $5 each time they go to a meeting of the city council.

We are informed that half of the top soil in the state of Indiana has been blown over there from Ontario. That's the price we pay for maintaining that friendly international border line.

It is said that 37 per cent. of the Nazi forces are flatfooted from too much walking and parading. We're getting that way in this country from keeping the foot on the gas.

Various reports tell of communities finding flood threats vanished by the return of cold weather. Fine—but some day it will thaw and there is an unusual amount of snow which will desire to be off in a hurry.

A woman from Vancouver visiting in California reports that jewels to the extent of $100,000 were stolen from her suite. A few stories like that should convince people in the States that in this country we do a couple of other things besides chasing bears and selling beads to the Indians.

TOO LATE

(By A.R.K.)

¶ I read in papers sent from home, Tobias Jones died all alone, and he was eighty-two; there was a column written well, and it spread detail there to tell, of things he used to do.

¶ Tobias was a kindly gent, who lived and moved with good intent, and never reached for more; and lots of folk around the town, when they were weak or running down, came to Tobias' door.

¶ If there was sickness here or there, he seemed to make it his affair, he knew just what to do; if he found out the purse was thin, Tobias called his doctor in, and he would pay him too.

¶ The paper joined in giving praise, to good Tobias and his ways, the editor was grieved; he spoke of all the good he'd done, he never shut the door on one, the scribe felt much bereaved.

¶ And preachers from their pulpits spoke, Tobias walked with saintly folk, their tributes were profound; and all the kindly things they said, about the goodly man now dead, made such a pleasant sound.

¶ It's just away this old world takes, it blunders and it makes mistakes, the same year after year; if they had poured their tributes out, when he was out and round about—Tobias then could hear.

Our Statesmen At Their Labor

Report of the House of Commons

MR. MANION: . . . well remember, and I thought of it as the right hon. gentleman (Mr. Mackenzie King) spoke the other day, an expression used by an old friend of his, and incidentally of mine, the late Right Hon. W. S. Fielding, but not with reference to the Prime Minister. He said that a certain gentleman on the other side of the house could make a hogshead of lather out of an ounce of soap. I could not help but think of the expression when the right hon. gentleman got so much worked up the other day on this question. I envy him at times when he does that sort of thing. I am not able to do it. I am just a plain, blunt man who sticks to the facts. I do not use language—

Mr. DUNNING: My hon. friend does not need any soap at all to make a lather.

Mr. MANION: My hon. friends opposite are pretty slippery with the soap they do use. I use language to express my thoughts, not to hide them.

❖ ❖ ❖

Mr. EULER: What is the hon. member reading from?

Mr. MANION: From the United States press release.

Mr. EULER: Propaganda like ours?

Mr. MANION: The hon. gentleman admits that theirs is propaganda. He contradicts his leader. I do not blame his leader for looking crossly at him at the moment.

Mr. EULER: I merely used the hon. gentleman's extravagant language. That is all.

Mr. MANION: The minister need not use any extravagant language of mine; he can be extravagant himself.

❖ ❖ ❖

Mr. WOODSWORTH: . . . I am not a lawyer. But I remember nearly forty years ago having to coach a few law students in logic. I must say that after the experience of those weeks I have never been overwhelmed by what the lawyers instinctively know about reasoning or accept unreservedly their conclusions.

Mr. MARTIN: They were just young men.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: Yes, quite so.

An hon. MEMBER: Like yourself.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: But I submit there is no inherent quality in a lawyer as such which makes his deductions necessarily logical.

NEED OF PROTECTION.

NO MORE convincing argument for the need of adequate protection for Canadian industry could be advanced than the recent annual report of one of the textile companies located in an Ontario town. The company has ample working capital, no bonded indebtedness, and a strong, liquid position has been maintained so that its credit is good. Yet this firm was compelled to operate on a reduced time schedule during 1938 with fewer employees because of the competition from foreign countries.

"The average number employed by the company," says the report, "during the year was 624, and the total wages paid amounted to $556,000. This was a decrease from the previous year of 127 employees, and $93,500 in wages. While textile workers in Canada were being laid off or placed on short time, there was a heavy sale in the Dominion of textile goods made by workers in other countries." Admitting that international trade is necessary, and that goods must be exported and imported if it is to be maintained, it does seem to be a regrettable state of affairs when Canadian workers, who are paid good wages, have to be laid off because of cheap goods imported from other countries where the wages are not as high, the conditions of labor not as good, and where products are frequently subsidized in one way or another by governments. — Brantford Expositor.

DESTROYER TROUBLES.

Completion of eighteen new destroyers for the navy will be delayed for months by reason of defects discovered in the turbines of the first of the group, the Benham, after her trial runs.

This is a business that will be extremely hard to explain to laymen. The Benham was built to use high-temperature, high-pressure steam, which is to say, the designing and building of her turbines presented new problems. Therefore, if unexpected failures developed when she was tried out, that is nothing surprising.

What the laymen cannot understand is why the navy should have proceeded with the construction of seventeen other destroyers powered with turbines of the same design before the first one was thoroughly tested. At least two of the seventeen are nearing completion, and the others are so far along that tearing out and replacing their engineering installation will be slow and difficult work.—Baltimore Sun.

CURE FOR DIVORCES.

— . . . Some of the Ottawa ladies talk about women's esteem for masterful men — "he-men", some of them term them. No mere man should be deceived by reference to the native love for the caveman type. Famous advice to young couples about to get married was "Don't!" Similar advice might well be offered to the foolish husband who has the idea of the Chicago judge about slapping the fair lady.

No doubt some of those devoted Ottawa women murmured, "What's a slap between friends!" But even The Ottawa Journal didn't have the fairness to give the reply of one lady visiting the Capital city.

"If more wives were slapped", said the Chicago judge, "there wouldn't be so many divorces." "Maybe", replied the gentle visitor, "but if more men had their blooming heads bashed in, there wouldn't be any divorces at all."—Timmins Advance.

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics

NOT RELATED

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—A statement was made at the meeting of the Men's Forum in George Street Church Sunday afternoon which needs correcting. During the discussion period it was stated that the Germans and Anglo-Saxons are of the same blood.

This is very definitely not the case, as any authority on racial origins will testify. Only a small minority of Germans in Saxony are of Anglo-Saxon stock. The remainder, mainly Prussians and Bararians, are descended from the ancient Assyrians, a warlike and ruthless race. Ex-kaiser William boasted his descent from the Assyrian kings. Prussian and Anglo-Saxon have few traits in common. To compare them is like comparing oil and water. They are unlike physically. The Prussian head is square, that of the Anglo-Saxon is elongated. In temperament they are as far apart as the poles. It is true that the Anglo-Saxons inhabited Central Europe in the early centuries of the Christian Era, but they continued their migrations west and north into Scandanavia, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, Normandy and the British Isles. The Germans occupied Central Europe later. This writer has no wishes to be classed as even remotely related to the Prussians.

Very truly yours,
ANGLO-SAXON

"IS IT FAIR PLAY"

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Is it fair that the property owners of Peterborough should build and maintain a hospital to accommodate the residents from five counties?

It seems that is what we have been trying to do and at a loss on each patient, the charge being $1.75 a day, and hospital authorities claiming the cost around $3.50. Omemee is in Victoria County and a large number of patients come from around this section as the boundary of Victoria is only eight miles from Peterborough. Why not utilize Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay? Millbrook is in Durham County. Should not the people from that section go to Port Hope? Bewdley, Gore's Landing, Roseneath, etc., are in Northumberland County and patients come from Roseneath because $1.75 a day in our hospital is cheaper than a nurse could be provided and maintained in their homes. The loss sustained is made up by two-thirds of the home owners of Peterborough. The deficit for 1938 is around $6,000.00 and I suppose does not include the amount which would be charged against the property for indigent patients. The proposed cost will be over $400,000.00 and the upkeep will be more than on a smaller institution, and therefore the deficit will likely be larger.

Peterborough people are not "pikers." We have bought the gas plant, the waterworks system, built a splendid filtration plant, a disposal plant, a large hydro sub-station, paved a good percentage of the roads and are trying to pay $550,000.00 for the Hunter Street bridge. Some tax payers have been struggling along meeting all these payments and were hoping for a little appeasement for at least a few years before they die but it seems there are those who do not want to ease up no matter whether the householder is getting work only three days a week or none at all, and we know wages have not been going up.

The Technical School proposition is a heavy liability and after it was completed the Government refused further help and it means a big load should anyone care to look that matter up.

Should our minsters enter this matter as they are not tax payers and are in most cases only temporary residents? Some tenants also take part in the discussion but they may be living somewhere else soon, but these liabilities are a mortgage on your home and mine and will be for the rest of our lives.

If patients outside of the County of Peterborough were accommodated in a hospital supported in their own county, this would relieve a tremendous amount of the congestion, and has any effort been made to provide a Maternity Hospital, which would also lighten the load? If a wing were built to the Isolation Hospital to provide for infectious cases when there were any, would not that institution make a splendid Maternity Hospital? It is costing the rate payers considerable and is for the most part empty, although the maintenance costs are considerable yearly. Is this question to be submitted to the non-Catholic population in its present form likely to receive a favorable reception? One does not like to be hypercritical, but with the hospital full to the roof nearly all the time it does seem to me it should be self-sustaining. A former member of the Board informed me that while he had been a member sometime he felt that he had actually nothing to do with the operation of the hospital as bills, etc., coming before the Board were practically always ok'd, and he felt that he was to a great extent simply a rubber stamp.

In the Examiner of the 14th, I saw an item where a young man of Campbellford was ill in Nicholls Hospital, and while the people would be sorry indeed if anyone needing treatment could not receive it, the question as raised in the heading is, "Is it fair that the householder in Peterborough who is not having an easy time should be called upon to make hospital provision for Central Ontario?"

REPLY TO HIRED MAN

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I do not know where "Hired Man" has worked or whether he has any farm experience or not but I do know in our locality that conditions as he pictures them are not the rule.

The hours in winter are from 6 to 7 in the morning till six at night with a few minutes work after supper. The noon hours are not interferred with in any way and the winter wages are from $12 to $15 per month not $8 as he stated, with board and home the same as the owner enjoys.

There may be a few exceptions where the whole milk trucks, call at unseemingly early hours but in the main the above conditions apply. As soon as spring opens the prevailing wages are $20, $25 and $30 per month with board and one hour earlier start in the morning. The farmers as a rule would prefer to pay greater wages if only their incomes were increased.

"Hired Man" might be without experience. In that case, what are his returns when serving 3 or 4 years apprenticeship at his trade? No board is included in these cases. I would say to him that farming requires experience just as do the other trades. Yours,

EMPLOYER.

Ottawa and Its Traditions

ACCORDING to the newspaper dispatches there was considerable editing of Mr. Mackenzie's speech before it appeared in Hansard. Whether the editing was done by Mr. Mackenzie or by the Hansard staff is not clear. Members after they have delivered a speech are given a copy for editing before it is sent to the King's Printer writes A. R. Ford in London Free Press. The intention is to permit minor corrections, but in recent years there have been complaints on several occasions where ministers or members have made wide changes. Hansard is supposed to be a verbatim report of the proceedings of the House and if many changes are made it loses much of its value.

One of the most graphic pieces of reporting is to be found in the closing scene of the Parliament of 1878. There was at the time bitter feeling between Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper and Donald Smith, later Lord Strathcona. At the closing session, while the House of Commons was waiting for the Black Rod to summon the members to the Upper House, Sir Charles Tupper on a question of privilege, opened an attack on Smith. He was suported by Sir John A. The House was soon in pandemonium. "Coward" and "liar" were bandied across the floor and so great was the noise that the Black Rod could not be heard for some time as he waited to gain entrance. There was no expurgated report embalmed in Hansard.

Mr. Mackenzie is not the first member who has regaled Ottawa with a Gaelic speech. The late John Tolmie, who was member for North Bruce from 1896 until 1911, once surprised the House with a speech in Gaelic. Mr. Tolmie was a great admirer of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and a close friend. He had many stories to tell of his chieftain. One of his best refers to a visit during a campaign which Sir Wilfrid made to Bruce. Mr. Tolmie met Sir Wilfrid in a neighboring riding and accompanied him to Bruce. Sir Wilfrid, astute politician that he was, always posted himself before he entered a constituency on the local political situation and found out what man he should appear to know. He asked Mr. Tolmie if there were any men in his riding who would be present at the meeting whom he should greet as old acquaintances.

Mr. Tolmie gave him several names and then added that there was an old Highland Scotchman, Sandy MacPherson, who was a strong supporter of his and an intense admirer of Sir Wilfrid's to whom he wanted him to pay particular attention. When Sir Wilfrid reached the meeting place he was introduced to Sandy. The Liberal chieftain made a great fuss over him as if he was a long lost friend. Evidently Sandy was bewildered. A few days later he came to Mr. Tolmie.

"I remember now," he said to Mr. Tolmie.

"You remember what" asked John.

"I recall now why Sir Wilfrid knew me. In 1884 I was working in Northern Ontario on the building of the C.P.R. There was a French Canadian working in the same gang. His name was Laurier. It must have been Sir Wilfrid."

ANTICS AT CITY HALL.

Toronto City Council continues its contribution toward promoting the gaiety of nations; which may be worth while in these drab times. Last year the civic solons voted to cut their salaries; repented in a few hours, and voted to restore the cut.

Recently Council decided to provide a pension for Magistrate Jones, retiring from office; on Monday decided against giving him a pension.

This procedure rather than the merits of the case is in question. If it was wrong on Tuesday to grant the pension, it also was wrong when the annual sum was voted. Nothing altered the situation basically in the meantime. Council merely yielded to pressure and changed its view. Should more powerful pressure be applied in favor of the pension, no one will be surprised if Council makes another right-about-face.

Meantime the retiring official suffers more deeply than if Council had known its own mind in the first place and refused the pension. Why should the city be made a laughingstock for the general public? — Globe and Mail.

Ontario Patents Weed Killer For 'The People'

TORONTO, Feb. 23 — (CP). — Patents on a new chemical weed killer have been obtained by the Ontario Department of Agriculture and the formula will be made available to municipalities and individuals who wish to use it, Hon. P. M. Dewan, provincial Minister of Agriculture, said yesterday.

Addressing the annual convention of the Ontario Good Roads Association, Mr. Dewan said the new mixture was non-inflamable and that it will be possible for users to obtain the ingredients and mix them at home. The formula will be disclosed in a pamphlet soon to be distributed by the department.

Weed killers now on the market are controlled by patents and dissatisfaction has been evident throughout Ontario owing to this restriction, the minister continued. In order to meet the demand, he said he had arranged with department chemists to work on a preparation which would belong to the people of Ontario, the patents being controlled by the province.

Patents on the new chemical arrived at the Department only today, Mr. Dewan announced. Arrangements have been made for information to be given out regarding purchase, mixture and use and municipalities "will find the mixture convenient, efficient and safe to handle."

The minister said losses to Ontario farmers through weeds last year was estimated at between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000.

Oshawa Rate Set At 32 Mills

OSHAWA, Feb. 23.—City Council meeting in committee last night set a new rate of 32 mills for the year. The new rate is two mills higher than last year.

In making his motion for the rate, Alderman J. C. Anderson, chairman of finance, pointed out that the major answer to the increased rate could be attributed to the deficit encountered by last year's council, amounting to $48,820.67, as a result of increased relief costs.

"This year the relief budget is some $20,000 less than the total actual cost of relief for 1938."

Alderman Anderson stated, pointing out that to take care of last year's relief deficit and general deficit and this year's general levy for relief, the taxpayers would be called upon to meet a naditional $80,-170.27, or slightmly more than three mills.

Council instructed that a pumper be purchased for the fire department, with the proviso that permission be secured from the Department of Municipal Affairs to float debentures to meet the cost of it could not be borne in the general mill rate.

Higher Domestic Consumption Is S.C. Demand

OTTAWA, Feb. 23—(CP).—Stable prices at a fair level and the maximum possible consumption of goods in Canada should be the objective of the trade police of the country, in the opinion of the Social Credit group in the House of Commons.

Joseph Needham (S.C. The Battlefords) speaking in the debate on the Canada-United States trade treaty yesterday put the "considered view" of his group on record and reminded the House the Social Credit members had been sent to Parliament to work for a new economic system.

His statement coupled, with an earlier remark by John Blackmore, leader of the parliamentary group, to the effect that Social Crediters preferred to refrain from speaking in debate to which they could make no important contribution and concentrate on financial policies, was taken as an indication they would have little more to say in the treaty debate.

"We believe in the principle of freer trade between nations," said Mr. Needham, "but we say that while there is so much want and poverty in Canada the first concern of the government should be the welfare of the Canadian people.

Less Buying Power

"We reaffirm the statement we have often made that foreign markets are not a solution to Canada's economic problems: That our troubles are not so much due to lack of external markets as to restricted consumption at home restricted consumption means restricted markets; restricted markets mean restricted production. This in turn means restricted purchasing power.

"We believe that the basis of all price for both primary and secondary products should be the cost of production plus a fair commission. To that end we favor a proper adjustment of tariffs or subsidies, not to benefit one class only, but for all citizens; that exchange rates should be fixed by agreement between nations having regard to the price levels of the various countries and the rates necessary to give each of them approximate equilibrum. When this is accomplished the general price level will remain stable.

An Even Trend.

"The object of each nation should be to keep its imports and exports as nearly equal as possible over a period of time, so that international trade would become an exchange of goods and services between nations to their mutual advantage instead of a desperate struggle by each to lower its price level with a view to underselling others."

Sacrifices of certain British preferences to facilitate the Anglo-American trade agreement will nullify the whole British preferential system, T. L. Church (Con. Toronto-Broadview) said.

"When this treaty terminates at the end of three years, Great Britain will have made other arrangements and forgotten all about the Dominions who tried to get away from the Ottawa agreements."

He termed the Canada-United States pact a "political treaty which has arisen through the failure of Canada and other countries represented at Geneva to do what they set out to do."

Gordon Graydon (Con.-Peel), said the present parliament was "undergoing perhaps a more critical and interested observation and examination than any other parliament of recent years. The general public is tired of old platitudes and nostrums whether they be in familiar garb or in new wrappings."

It was the duty of parliament to occupy itself first with the welfare of the people and turn to other considerations afterward. With respect to the trade agreement, Mr. Graydon said it could not possibly be as good as Liberal speakers claimed nor as "devastating" as some Opposition speakers described it.

At best the treaty contained only the puniest possibilities of increasing international good will said Mr. Graydon. It was not likely the United States would become entangled in European affairs or that Hitler would change his attitude to the rest of the world because vegetable growers in Canada were deprived of some of their protection.

Harm In Peel

The treaty would injure many industries in Peel county, said Mr. Graydon, through reductions in the duties on building and paving brick, knitted garments, socks and stockings, boots and shoes, ruled or coated paper and parts for loose-leaf binders. Many workers in these industries had difficulty making ends meet and their lot would be made more difficult.

Farmers were disappointed at the quota on cattle. They expected Canada would be able to ship 60,000 head a quarter at the lower rate of duty but the quota for the first quarter was already exhausted due to the inclusion of Mexican cattle in the total.

A reduction in the duty on cut flowers from 40 to 25 per cent injured the flower growers of Brampton where more than 40 acres of land was under glass and devoted to flower production.

Vegetable growers would also suffer from lessened protection and a shortening of the period in which seasonal values for duty are applied. This shortening of the season was sure to give rise to a conflict between the early and late produce as to the time at which the values should be applied. He suggested the government consider splitting the period so that both groups would get some benefit.

Ralph Maybank (Lib. Winnipeg South Centre) and A. E. MacLean (Lib. Prince) commended the treaty, the former because it would benefit the Canadian consumer and the latter because it opened United States markets on a larger scale to potatoes and fish products from the Maritime provinces.

Roads Plugged In Hastings Area

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 23. — Drifting snow plugged many roads in this district yesterday and left some barely passable. Morley Dingman, Anglin bus driver, said that he was forced to make a detour from his regular route last night at Campbellford, and he arrived here about an hour late, having come around by Havelock in place of the Hastings-Campbellford road. This road is impassable, according to the driver. Motorists reported coming in from Norwood later with considerable difficulty. They said there was a single car track, but did not think it would get any worse since the wind had died down.

Side roads for the most part are filled in to a great extent since they have not been plowed all winter except in rare cases where the farmers themselves have gone to the bother of making it passable for their own cars and convenience.

Some anxiety was held out at one time over the likelihood that the delegation going from here to Toronto on Saturday for the hockey game might be held up if road conditions were not favorable. This was disregarded when it was announced that a special train would be run on that date and a number immediately changed their plans from driving cars to the surer method of travel on the train.

Harry Petersiel, who has been visiting in New York City for some time, returned home to report that he had come from summer weather to real winter temperature.

Farmers Advised To Have Soil Tested

TORONTO, Feb. 23 — (CP). — Soil conservation in Ontario rapidly is approaching the stage where it is becoming of national importance and public concern, G. N. Ruhnke, Professor of Chemistry at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, said here on Wednesday.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Ontario Field Crop and Seed Growers' Association, Prof. Ruhnke said soil is the basis of agriculture and should rank in first place in national resources. Farmers cannot mine the soil indefinitely "and if we wish to maintain fertility we must return pound for pound all fertility removed," he added.

Farmers no longer can depend on farmyard manure alone for soil fertility, said Prof. Ruhnke. Commercial fertilizer was becoming an established factor and if fertility levels were low, commercial fertilizer would be necessary to correct the deficiency as well as green manuring.

Test Shows Up Needs.

Discussing Ontario's regional farm problems, he said most heavy soils in the Niagara district are acid and need lime while in some parts of Southern Ontario less lime is needed. Prof. Ruhnke urged farmers to have their soil tested for lime requirement as the first step in soil improvement.

President Alexander Stewart, prominent Alisa Craig farmer, told the meeting there are at present 13 county organizations in the association and this year 11 county seed fairs will be held. He urged the delegates to view the seed display held in connection with the meeting. Ninety-eight samples of grain are on display, representing a total of 48,000 bushels.

W. R. Reek, Deputy-Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, expressed his approval of changes in the constitution, adopted at the meeting whereby county units become the basis of representation. He announced the Provincial Government will give $200 annually to each county unit and each county that at present has no seed organization will be given $25 for organization purposes.

Advice Costs $10

CORNWALL, Ont., Feb. 23—(CP). —Mrs. Frederica Flaro was having domestic difficulties when she decided to call the police for advice. There was no 'phone handy so she turned in a fire alarm and brought 13 firemen and two trucks to the scene. The firemen were not very sympathetic and Mrs. Flaro wound up yesterday in court. She was fined $10 and costs.

HAVELOCK

Over 150 Attend Oyster Supper

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Feb. 23.—An "oyster supper" sponsored Tuesday evening by the ladies of St. John's Anglican Church proved quite a success, with over one hundred and twenty-five persons in attendance. Held in the church basement, the supper was served at 5.30 p.m.

The oyster soup was appetizingly prepared for the occasion by Mrs. George Smith. A quantity of food still remaining, a special 15c supper was held last evening to dispose of it. This also was well attended.

Total receipts amounted to approximately $55.

Girls' Club Entertained.

The Girls' Class of the Havelock United Church, under the supervision of their leader, Miss Minnie Williams, entertained the members of the Girls' Friendly Club of Knox Presbyterian Church at a social evening on Tuesday. There was a good attendance and an enjoyable time was spent playing a novelty game, "Chinese checkers." Two contests were also conducted.

Mrs. Trevor Watson and Miss Viola McGown won prizes in the checkers, while Miss Ruth Hagerman and Miss Marion Forsythe were winners in the contests.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the evening by members of the hostess organization.

Russia plans several new air lines.

LAKEFIELD LEGIONNAIRES GRAB TWO-GOAL LEAD OVER WHITBY

Take A 5-3 Win In First Tilt Of Semi-Finals

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 23—Lakefield Legionnaires laid a nice foundation for play-off honors when they took a 5-3 win from the classy Whitby Argos here last night, and salted down a comfortable two point lead for the return struggle on Friday evening.

The battle last night was the first of two (home and home) games in the intermediate "B" O.H.A. group semi-finals. Whitby has been leading the group all season, and ended the regular schedule with nine wins out of ten games. As things stand now, the Legionnaires can afford to take a one point loss in Whitby on Friday and still oust the lakeshore town from the play-offs. And if the Legionnaires play like they played last night there is every reason to expect that they will do it.

Went To Work

Lakefield stepped onto the ice last night with the apparent intention of chalking up an early lead, for play had scarcely started before Blewett broke away, brought the puck up from centre ice and bounced in a goal unassisted about five seconds after the opening faceoff. Not content with his, Whitton counted a lovely one for the Legionnaires after two minutes of play, to bring the score to 2-0.

Such activity on Lakefield's side stung the Argos to action, and a drive on the Lakefield net resulted in a tally by Heard. Brown, on the Argos' defence, pushed in a second goal for the visitors and Chappell made the last counter of he period, to end the session 3-2. Three penalties in this period went to Whatley, (Lakefield), and Thompson (Whitby) 2.

Score Fast

Early in the second Phelps scored for Whitby, to tie up the count at three-all. Play was fast in this period, both sides trying hard to break through the opposing defences. But the defence in both cases was holding. Loyst, Burton and Whatley staved off some dangerous attacks from the Whitby forwards, and once Chittick picked the puck from the danger zone and took it the length of the ice but failed to fool the masterly Argo net tender.

Loyst made some lovely stops on long shots in this canto. O'Leary tore off a beautiful break-away towards the end of the session, and he seemed to have outguessed the Whitby defence, but the burly Argo centre tripped him most effectively and, though he earned thereby a penalty for himself and a penalty shot for the Legionnaires, he prevented what must have been a certain goal. Whitton took the penalty shot, but Clarke, in the Whitby goal, turned it back.

Clarke made a peach of a stop on a long, fast shot from centre ice by Blewett, and with his defence repulsed concerted Lakefield's drive when the Argos were minus a man.

The score, end of the second, stood at three all, with two penalties in the period going to Whatley and Thompson.

Bangs It Home

In the third period there was considerable play at the Whitby net before Deeth pushed the rubber around the goal-post for a nice tally.

Burton, who played a consistently oustanding game all evening, made some nifty attempts in this canto, but failed to reach the net.

Whitton broke away and seemed to have an A-1 chance of scoring, but as he hesitated, seeking to outwit the goalie, the defencemen were upon him. The final goal of the evening and perhaps the most spectacular, was put in by Jerry Creighton on an assist from Deeth. Chappell and Deeth had been staging an attack, while Creighton was somewhere in the background. Suddenly Deeth pushed the puck towards the side, and Creighton whizzed up on the right and whisked it into the net before Whitby could get out of the scramble.

Thompson, Heard and Piper were Whitby's outstanding performers, with Blewett, Whitton, Burton, O'Leary and Deeth sharing the honors on the Lakefield squad. The Legionnaires played a fast, steady game and displayed occasional bursts of brilliance, which made them look pretty good to the fans, and left the Argos guessing.

The teams:—

Whitby Argos: Goal, Clarke; defence, Brown and Oke; centre, Heard; wings, Bagrell and Hodge; alternates, Thompson, Vipond, Piper, Mayne and Phelps.

Lakefield Legionnaires: Goal, Loyst; defence, Burton and Whatley; centre, Whitton; wings, Blewett and Jewell; alternates, Deeth, O'Leary, Chittick, Chappell and Creighton.

Referee, Red Creighton.

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

When this year's bowling averages are figured up, it will not be a very big surprise to see Jack Playford's name on or near the top. Last night "Jawn," the splash ball specialist of the C.G.E. and City Leagues got in another brilliant pin-spilling effort to chalk up 847 for his three-game string of 299-286-260.

The evening's good scores included two big games. Induction Motors of the C.G.E. turned in H. Darling's 7233, H. Taylor 674, E. Kelly 646, T. Busby 626, R. Clyde 604 for a 3278 total. In the Automobile League, the Hudson team combined for 3237 made up of Worboy's 767, Post 605, McCleary 606, Inch 618, and O'Neill 631. Four big singles were knocked off: F. Maloney of the C.G.E. 367; G. Millen of the Westclox 314; J. O'Brien and B. Rollins of the Quaker Oats 336 and 302.

Forty-one men trundled over the 600, mark. The scores included:

C.G.E. League: J. F. Reed 691, F. Maloney 680, L. Calladine 671, F. Wood 654, T. Miller 659, J. Grierson 644, C. Kearns 644, R. Blair 639, M. Ruiter 626, S. Adamson 608, J. Doris 600.

The Westclox Office League: H. Yelland 728; Pat Hayden 689, O. Martin 656, G. Millen 649; Rus Kitchen 638, S. Pammet 608, E. Dawe 603, Margaret Johnston 570 (254), Mary Sisson 552 (229), Viola Martin 509, Phyllis Webster 494 (222), Doris Ackford 456, F. Scott 455.

The Quaker Oats League: P. Henricksen 717, E. Guerin 689, J. O'Brien 687, G. Fullbrook 662, G. Anderson 625, J. Ferguson 615, E. Dixon 609.

The Automobile League: A. Watson 712, W. Pinn 663, V. Fitzgerald 655, G. Copping 646, J. Allen 623 and S. Craig 610.

Pickering Wins From The Grove

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 23.—Pickering College wangled a victory from the Lakefield Preparatory School by a narrow margin here on Wednesday afternoon, when one of the Pickering forwards placed a counter in the net a few seconds before the final bell, to break a four-all tie and end a hard-fought inter-scholastic hockey battle with the final count standing at, Pickering 5, Lakefield 4.

It was an exciting struggle between two well-matched teams with the Pickering lads having the advantage of weight on their side.

The Grove drew first blood when La Nauze scored in the first, with a tally by Chester, on Pickering's forward line, bringing the count to one all at the end of the first period.

Visitors Take Lead.

Pickering took the lead in the second when she chalked up three goals to Lakefield's two to enter the final canto with the count standing at, Pickering 4, Lakefield 3.

Frewer, who played an outstanding game, made both goals for the local Prep School, while Meyers, McGillivray and McComb did the scoring for the visitors this session.

MacLaren, efficient Grove defenceman, evened things up in the third when he broke through early in the period for the Prep school's fourth and last counter.

It looked through most of the third period as though the game would end in a draw, for though both teams were struggling for that deciding tally, they weren't making much headway. Pease, in goal for the local team, made some lovely saves, and it was not until the last few seconds of play that MacGillivray, Pickering forward, got around him to place the winning counter.

Final score, Pickering 5, Lakefield 4.

The teams:

Pickering College—Goal, Rogers; defence, Taylor and Campbell; centre, Hall; wings, MacGillivray and Robertson; alternates, Chester, Myers, McComb, Creed and Strouse.

The Grove—Goal, Pease; defence, Rose and MacLaren; centre, Crickmore; wings, Frewer and Harris; alternates, Foster, Roberts, Carson, LaNauze and Langmuir.

Digging up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Just a word or two on basketball hereabbuts the rest o' the week. Tonight at 6.30 in the P.C.I. gym, Westclox damsels and Quaker Aces collide in a Ladies' Loop fray, followed at 7.30 by Quaker Maids and the Debs. Two Port Hope teams are here tomorrow eve for interscholastic tilts with P.C.I. squads, junior boys and senior girls. No senior boys' game. At the Y.M. this Saturday evening, Dominions play St. John's at seven, C.G.E. meets Quakers at eight, and Heclas clash with St. Paul's at nine. These are senior city men's cage fixtures. One gals' game was played here last night. Dunno when C.G.E. or Orfuns of the L.O.B.A. group see action again.

* * * * * *

This from Red Taylor's column in the Woodstock sheet: "Peterboro' senior footballers lost about $300 on last year's operations in the O.R.F.U. But they're all ready for a better season in 1939. Hendrie, Toronto boy who played for them last year, is back in the Queen City for good. He played good football for the Petes, but will be replaced. Note to Western Ontario footballers: Peterboro' Orfuns are looking for a good young quarterback. Echo answers, who isn't?"

Clark Boys Clicking

And here's a clipping from the Watertown Times in N'Yawk State: "The Clarkson freshmen hockey team trounced the St. Lawrence University yearlings 9-3 Monday night in the Clarkson arena. The feature of the game was the spectacular playing of Tech's Clark twins, Al and Grant. The brothers scored three goals each." And it goes on to describe the play. We are glad to see the ex-Colts of Peterborough clicking so well in hockey over around Potsdam, both being likeable young chaps and smart athletes in several lines. Hope they don't forget to come home in time for the ball season around here.

Down in the senior city puck playoffs in Ottawa, the Air Force gang have a game edge, beating Hull Volants the other p.m. by a 5-3 score. Cowley, McNeeley and Lalonde—doughty opponents of the Petes the past two seasons for Trenton Fliers—figured prominently in the victory. Near the end of the game, the Volants pulled their goalie to put an extra forward out. In a faceoff near the Air Force cage, Lalonde banged the puck all the way down the ice and it slithered into the net for a goal. Provided quite a chuckle, but we're wondering how come the whistle wasn't blown when the disc crossed the second red line.

They Keep A-Winnin'

Monarchs rubbed out the Rubbertown huskies here last eve with a 9-5 eraser. The round score in the junior "C" group semi-finals was 17-10 for the young Petes and they looked impressive in their chore. Checked their noggins off, hanging onto rival puck-toters like burrs on a collie—and they can lick Lindsay with the same persistent checking style all over the ice. The local scrappers open their group final series, two games out of three, here tomorrow night against Lindsay's large Midgets and it ought to be a swell struggle. The Midgets scouted the tilt here last p.m. and scouted the idea of Monarchs putting 'em out—why, they had the Ontario title in the bag already, it seemed. Well, they're good, but both Cobourg and the boys of Bowman Villa thought they were, too, till Monarchs met them in money games.

* * * * * *

The game was fast, clean and interesting—but kinda comfortable, too, as the Vitarelli-coached crew had a three-goal lead and still played a better game here. Though Bowmanville banged in a few in a belated drive near the end. The losers never gave up hope, but the pesky young homesters harried them like book salesmen—or mosquitoes on a hot night. At that, the winners muffed quite a few chances and the second line hogged the rubber far too much. A very poor crowd last p.m., and we wonder what the fans want in the way of hockey. Here's a winning scrappy junior team in the most important game of the week, yet hardly a hundred fans show up for it.

* * * * * *

Just Two Young Pests

Vitarelli and Rochetta were the big snipers for Monarchs last night, while Cauley, Connelly, Giardino, Morrison and the rest all turned in a good game. The kids are improving right along, and will be as full of fight and pep as Boston bull puppies for the Scugog serial. Just gotta check Cook and Jackson to the point of prostration and that'll be that. Goalie Hooper of Bowmanville yester gloaming got quite weary of looking up and seeing Joe Rochetta parked on his doorstep like a poor relative — always hanging around and causing trouble. Joe and Vitarelli were rather wearing on young Hooper in this tilt. Referee Rowden turned in a darn' good effort.

* * * * * *

Up in Lakefield last twilight, the Legionnaires copped a two-goal lead with a 5-3 win over Whitby to carry back to the Argos' rink on Friday in group semi-finals. The boys dished up a speedy, smart style of hockey to hand the four-star Whitbyites their second loss in 11 starts this winter. The chips will be down — and maybe flying, too—in the return tilt, but the Lakefield lads feel they can hang onto that slim margin. It'll be a honey of a setto and no doubt a lotta Lakefield rooters will steamboat up to the Oshawa outpost on the morrow. Five different players tallied for the victors yestiddy, showing a well-balanced band of pucksters. Down two goals, Sutton ends its semi-final serial tonight in Lindsay.

Picking 'em off the grapevine: Kingston copped a 4-2 win over R.M.C. last p.m. to go a game up on the three-game series; next one is Friday....Oshawa juniors, who beat our Colts, now play Kingston's "B" team....Oshawa "A" juniors want an exhibition fray this week with the Petes' seniors, but arrangements aren't likely to be concluded now....Cobourg Gradettes beat Belleville gal eagers, 31 to 19, last eve to win their L.O.B.A. group—barring a possible protest from here....Drake Jopling, with the Lake Shore team at Kirkland Lake — Allen Cup timber — has stomach trouble at present....Stew Williamson earned a fistic nod over Shupe of Sutton in their recent rough joust....Don't forget the C.N. special to Toronto this Sat'day to pay tribute to Dit Clapper at the Gardens ....Church hockey tonight: Knox Bantams vs. George St. at six, Mark St. vs. All Saints at 7.15 in a juvenile semi-final, and St. Paul's vs. All Saints at 8.30 in a junior final....The Peterborough Badminton Club took a 30-23 triumph over Port Hope Garrisons the other night here....Three more weeks and it'll be almost spring tra la!

Ski Notes

Tonight (Thursday) is our big jamboree at Jackson Park. There will be a ski run from the Club cabin followed by a bean-feed with all the trimmings. This party is "on the house" and we want all of our two hundred members to attend. Let the secretary know you're coming so that provision will be made for you.

Saturday afternoon at Nassau there will be a big "Get Together" for all Juniors. Free transportation is being provided from the Duffus Garage at 1.30 p.m., and the Junior section is urged to attend "en masse." Instruction, competition, games, lunch etc., will guarantee fun for all.

The Ladies will have their day at Nassau on Sunday afternoon. Two years ago we held our first Ladies' championships at Omemee and they were a huge success. We want keen competition for the beautiful Schneider Trophy, so let's have a large entry on Sunday afternoon at Nassau.

Two of our members, Jack Holland and Howie Shields left for Fort William yesterday to attend the Dominion Ski Championships being held there this week-end. Jack is representing the Peterborough Ski Club in the jumping, downhill and slalom events and we all wish him the best of luck.

We have been asked to warn all skiers not to ski at the Rifle Range this coming Saturday. The new Bren gun is being tried out on that day and the ranges must be kept clear.

Sponsored by the Canadian Amateur Ski Association, a contest for photographs of skiing in Canada is being conducted. The contest is open to everyone. Cash prizes total $100.00.

Count Rossi Wants Crack At Harmsworth Finds Million Outlay Too Much To Spend

By Gayle Talbot
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23 (AP)—Count Theo Rossi, who is what you might term the leader of the younger set of speed boat drivers, is in a predicament these days.

The Count, who owns most of the Vermouth Mines in Italy, wants to challenge Gar Wood for the Harmsworth Trophy, but he can't find in all the world any engines suitable for the task and he can't quite make up his mind to spend approximately $1,000,000 building such an engine.

That's what is embarrassing to the Count—to have to let a little thing like $1,000,000 stand in his way.

"Sure, I could have such an engine designed and built for me," he said, debating the matter with himself. "But it would take maybe $1,000,000 and three years to do it. I'm afraid that would be a little foolish. I guess I must wait and see if some airplane factory develops such an engine soon."

The Count wants to be recognized as the world's speedboat king, not the crown prince. He won the Gold Cup and the President's Cup in the United States last year hands down, and nobody seems to doubt he will do it again next summer.

The Harmsworth race is a brute, however. It calls for three separate races of 50 miles each over a triangular course. It demands a terrific amount of boat.

The most remarkable aspect of the situation is that Miss America's motors now are nearly 15 years old, and yet a man like Rossi, of almost unlimited wealth, can't find a set of powerhouses to match them.

Lindsay Team Takes First Game Of Juvenile Playoffs 4-3

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 23.—Lindsay took the first game of the playoffs in the O.J.H.A. series, group 16, which began here last night, by a score of 4 to 3. Although the locals looked as fast as the winners they held the edge of their combination plays while Harold Dunk's boys who worked hard all evening were persistently dogged by hard luck.

Both teams gave a good exhibition of hockey with plenty of speed all evening and if there was any star on the ice it was S. Donald who gave about the nicest display in the Campbellford nets that spectators have seen in this town during the season. It was the locals who drew first blood but the visitors countered with two in the opening period and it was not until half way through the second stanza that they registered their second goal against McQuarrie to tie up the count.

Lindsay opened the scoring in the third with Warrian sinking one after drawing Donald out of the net but the locals once again got the equalizer with Baskin sinking the disc on a scramble in front of the net. Both teams bored in hammer and tongs in an endeavour to get the winning goal and it looked like anybody's game. Attack was followed by counter attack and what the local defense line of Puffer and Tinney let by Donald was stopping from every angle shots that looked impossible. He finally let one by when the two Connelly brothers teamed up to do some clever passing right in front of the net and drop one over the line for the winning tally.

McCutcheon and Puffer worked hard for the locals offering plenty of resistance with both forward and back checking which succesfully broke up many of the Connelly-McDonald rushes.

During the final stanza both teams adopted gunning attacks with four and five men playing inside the blue line and Farrell-Kelly combination was a serious threat around the Lindsay net as Kelly dogged the puck all evening never missing a chance to shoot on the net.

D. Warrian who starred on defense with Sharpe looked equally good in the rushes but McDonald and Karry led the way for the visiting snipers. The locals will play the return game in Lindsay on Friday.

Summary:

First Period

1—Campbellford, Puffer (Farrell) 3.30
2—Lindsay, Karry 4.00
3—Lindsay, MacDonald (Karry, Connelly) 17.00

Toronto Favored Major Winner In Arms Assault

TORONTO, Feb. 23 (CP)—Final drills were held today for the annual intercollegiate assault-at-arms to be held at University of Toronto's Hart House tomorrow and Saturday. Boxing, wrestling, fencing and gymnastic teams from McGill and Queen's Universities and the Ontario Agricultural College will compete with the Toronto students.

Holder of the Tom Gibson Trophy for the boxing and wrestling championship, the Caron and Werry Trophies for the team and individual championships in gymnastics, and the individual fencing crown, Toronto is favored to retain all its titles and is considered to have an even chance to take the Charles Walters' fencing team championship won by McGill last year.

Toronto last year won the boxing and wrestling title for the second straight year by seven victories to McGill's four. The crown has been taken by Toronto 15 times. Winner in the 118, 135 and 165 pounds boxing classes the Blues expect to hold each title and looks for an additional victory by Ted De Wolfe at 155. Lou Dillon won the 118 pound class, Stu Parker the 135 and Jack Pigott the 165. Each bout will be at three rounds.

A tight race for the gymnastic championship, won by Toronto the past six years, is seen among the defending titleholders, McGill and Queen's who have entered a team for the first time. Al Garcia, Canadian intercollegiate senior fencing champion, is favored to capture his third straight title.

Shipyards of Sweden had orders for 78 vessels, 51 being from foreign countries, at one time recently.

LOCAL MONARCHS MAKE JUNIOR GROUP FINALS WITH 9-5 WIN

Rub Out Bowmanville Team By A 17-10 Round Score In Group Semi-Final Series

Peterborough Monarchs stepped into their O.H.A. junior "C" group finals against Lindsay by virtue of a 9-5 win here last night over Bowmanville, taking the semi-final series by a 17-10 round score. A small crowd of fans at the Brock saw the locals outplay the big Bowmanville bunch to rub them out for the season. First of the group finals will be here on Friday against Lindsay.

It was a fast, exciting tilt but the locals had an edge on play in the game and, with their three-goal margin from the previous tilt to work upon, the issue was never in doubt. Outside of the final frame last night, the visiting squad never threatened. The score was 3-0 for the locals in the first period and 6-1 for them to end the second. While Bowmanville had a 4-3 margin in the third on ganging-up play, the Monarchs easily held their own.

Play was quite fast and lively all the way, with little rough stuff shown. Of the six penalties drawn, the locals were guilty three times. Persistent checking back, good defensive work and nice playing in goal held back the Bowmanville boys, while the Monarchs showed a lot of heads-up hockey around the losers' net. They scored several goals on partial breakaways as the visitors ganged up the last half.

Main Scorers

Rochetta and Vitarelli were the chief scorers for the winners, notching five scoring points apiece in a fine showing. Connelly and Cauley were also potent on the attack, while Morrison, Beggs and Giardino were strong defensive factors. The whole team clicked in good style, skating fast, checking well and keeping their heads. The second line might have done more damage but for failure to pass the puck. Morgan, Depew and Dilling went best for the losers, all the gang trying hard to the very end.

The Monarchs stepped right out on the attack in the initial inning, with Connelly scoring on Rochetta's rebound early. Burkhart went off for triping and the locals pressed, but the visitors were at full strength again when Clarke took Cauley's pass to tally. Monarchs had an edge on play in a fast, clean frame. Later four Bowmanville boys went up on the attack but the locals still held their own. Rochetta made it 3-0 on Vitarelli's rebound on a breakaway before the end, and Morrison had to be good near the finish as the whole Bowmanville squad went on the attack.

Keep Pressing

Shortly after the second opened, Vitarelli counted for the home crew on Rochetta's assist in close. Depew got the air for tripping and the locals pressed hotly but did no damage. Burkhart got the finger again for tripping and Connelly batted home Vitarelli's rebound to make it 5-0. Later play was fast and fairly even till Rochetta got the gate for charging the goalie. The visiting outfit tore in hard and tallied a nice one, Morgan batting the disc in on assists from Dilling and Witheridge. Play was quite close and peppy the rest of the way with the young Petes nabbing one more counter near the close when Cauley slammed the rubber into the hemp.

Depew scored for Bowmanville on Morgan's pass early in the third, but Vitarelli got it right back on a hard angle drive. Morgan notched another for the losers on a solo effort, giving Morrison no chance. The Bowmanville band were ganging up and pressing dangerously with the home goalie kicking a flock out. Bird notched another at point-blank range in a scramble and, when Cauley went over the boards for tripping, they pressed harder than ever. Giardino followed suit for tripping and the locals were in dire straits for a minute but held their own till all were back. Rochetta on a breakaway had to circle the net to count a fine goal and later he got another on a pass from Vitarelli in close to end it.

The teams:

Bowmanville: Goal, Hooper; defence, Burkhart and Witheridge, centre, Depew; wings, Morgan and Dilling; alternates, Bird, Wiseman, McMullen, March and Nicholls.

Monarchs: Goal, Morrison; defence, Beggs and Giardino; centre, Rochetta; wings, Connelly and Vitarelli; alternates, Mackness, Clarke, Mortimer, Cauley and DeCarlo.

Referee — G. Rowden of Port Hope.

Tweed Shades Madoc Green Shirts In Suspicious 8-7 Victory

TWEED, Feb. 23. — In one of the most wide open games of the season, Tweed White and Red Shirts eked out an 8 to 7 count over the Madoc Green Shirts to score their first victory over their rivals this season, on Wednesday night. The game was featured with wide open hockey and brilliant goal tending, especially by Hollingsworth in the Madoc nets, who pulled off several spectacular stops in the second and last periods, to prevent a bitter defeat.

Madoc opened the scoring in the first period when S. Kerr drilled a long shot past Reeves. However, Meraw soon tied the count on a three-way passing play from Wager and W. Leal, to bang in the counter from close in. W. Leal, Meraw and W. Hall were sent to the box in this canto for minor infractions.

The second period was one of the most wide open periods of hockey on local ice this season, with nine counters being tallied. J. Courneyea took a pass from W. Leal, to put the local boys in front, onl yto have Loveless drill a shot from close in to tie the count on a pass from Alexander. The locals then went into another one-goal lead when Elsbury took Tummon's pass to drive the third counter behind Hollingsworth. The locals then continued to increase their lead when Courneyea took a pass from Elsbury, Meraw took a three-way pass from W. Leal and Wager, and Elsbury sunk two solos to make the count seven to two. Near the last of the second canto, Madoc secured two counters, when Heyworth and Hall tallied to cut the lead to three and left the count 7 to 4 for the home forces. J. Tummon went to the box twice and O'Neill once in this period. Penalties were costly, particularly for the Madoc team, who were bottled up, and only brilliant work by Hollingsworth saved the count from soaring when O'Neill was serving his time.

In the last period the locals were held to one goal, tallied by W. Leal on a pass from Elsbury and Courneyea; while Madoc hammered away at the Tweed goal, to rap in three counters. O'Neill tallied the first Madoc goal in this period, with Reynolds and S. Kerr sinking rapid counters. Penalties were handed to W. Leal, Loveless, Tummon and Heyworth.

Something Wrong.

The game was one that drew the fans, but an odour developed when it was learned that the Madoc team, although putting up a good game, were not anxious to win, and were allowing the Tweed boys to take the game if they could, in order that they would be assured a berth in the playoffs.

This situation has been one of the downfalls of the Trent Valley Hockey League for many seasons, and it is very doubtful that if Madoc had played up to the mark that the Tweed boys would have won the game, especially so, when after allowing such a lead to accumulate, the Madoc team were able to come back and whittle down the count to a one-goal lead.

It is known that Madoc is the best team in the circuit in the league this season, and it is too bad that they feel they have such a commanding lead that they can allow the underdogs of the league a win or two to keep them in the playoff positions.

Summary.

First Period.
1—Madoc, S. Kerr.
2—Tweed, Meraw, Wager, W. Leal.
Penalties—W. Leal, Meraw, W. Hall.

Second Period.
3—Tweed, Courneyea, H. Leal.
4—Madoc, Loveless, Alexander.
5—Tweed—Elsbury, Tummon.
7—Tweed, Meraw, W. Leal, Wager.
8—Tweed, Elsbury.
9—Tweed, Elsbury.
10—Madoc, Heyworth.

Third Period.
12—Tweed, W. Leal, Elsbury, Courneyea.
13—Madoc, O'Neill.
14—Madoc, H. Reynolds.
15—Madoc, S. Kerr.
Penalties—W. Leal, Loveless, J. Tummon, Heyworth.

The teams:

Madoc— Goal, Hollingsworth; defence, Hailstone, Hall; centre, Heyworth; wings, Alexander, Akey; subs., Leonard, Reynolds, Kerr and O'Neill.

Tweed — Goal, Reeves; defence, J. Tummon, J. Orr; centre, Courneyea; wings, H. Leal, Elsbury; subs., Meraw, W. Leal, Wager.

G-Men Wallop Chiefs 7-2 In Sudden Death

(By the Canadian Press.)

Delayed a bit by a team of gallants who nearly upset the pre-season figuring, the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" finals open on a best-of-five basis in Toronto to-morrow night. Last year's champions, Toronto Goodyears, have as their opponents the doughty Oshawa men, who appear "hot" right now.

The Oshawas turned on St. Catharines Chiefs, their persistent tormentors, in Toronto last night and walloped them 7-2 in a sudden-death game. Before the "cut-throat" affair was ordered by the O.H.A., it appeared as if the series might go on indefinitely for Oshawa had been able to win only once in three games and the Chiefs, a first-year senior team, had forced two ties.

Oshawa, who finished second behind the undefeated Goodyears in the regular 20-game schedule, left no doubt of their superiority last night. Against the team that just managed to squeeze into the fourth and last playoff slot they scored three goals in the opening session and added two more in each of the second and third frames. St. Kitts scored their first in the second period after Oshawa had taken a four-goal lead, and added another in the last.

Chisholm Leads the Way.

Lex Chisholm, the league's leading scorer, rode at the head of the victory march with two goals and an assist. Doc Rowden, a veteran charger of the Oshawa rearguard, made three assists and snared a goal. Oliff Maundrell, with two goals, and Regina Tisdall, with one, completed Oshawa scoring. Teddy Lister and Arn Ronbough were the St. Kitt's snipers. Boyd earned an assist on both tallies.

Maundrell and Chiefs' Sammy Phillips became embroiled in fisticuffs near the end of the second period and both received major penalties. Maundrell also required treatment for a cut ear received in the scrap.

R.M.C. Whipped.

At Kingston, the city team defeated Royal Military College 4-2 to go one game up in their best-of-three series for the district Senior "B" championship. The teams tied 2-2 in the first game last Monday. Third game will be played Monday.

Kingston took a three-goal lead on shots by Scrutton, Crawford and Gow before Jansen scored for the Cadets late in the second period. Brooks scored for the College and Kosick for Kingston late in the third.

Lindsay Squad Here Tomorrow

Lindsay Midgets will be here tomorrow (Friday) to play the local Monarchs at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink in the O. H. A. Junior "C" group finals. It will be best two out of three games and the locals will be trying desperately to grab off a win to take to Lindsay on Monday night. The locals reached the group finals in surprising fashion, after being practically counted out of the running, when they eliminated Cobourg in the final scheduled game and then rubbed out the big Bowmanville team in a two-game semi-final serious, taking both games handily. The tilt here tomorrow night rates a big crowd of fans as the Monarchs are battling hard and dishing up fine hockey in recent weeks.

The visiting squad tomorrow is plenty tough, and officials of the Midgets' club claim nothing in "C" company in Ontario will stop them this year. They feel they can trounce the locals and go right through to an Ontario title. The team is big, experienced and packed with imports. But the scrappy young Monarchs will be tough to stop now that they've found themselves. In schedule games they tied Lindsay here but lost out on Scugog ice. They believe they can beat Lindsay here tomorrow, and it'll be a swell hockey game.

Galento Boasts Feldman Easy

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23 (AP)—Tony Galento, brought into better fighting trim by a few extra bottles of beer, declared himself ready to go into the ring tonight and kayo Abe Feldman in masterful style.

Promoters of the heavyweight scrap, successful in selecting the only overcoat day Miami has seen recently, postponed the fight from last night.

Two-Ton Tony was undisturbed by the delay.

"I'll knock Feldman kicking and then they can bring on Joe Louis, if he will fight me," he modestly announced.

It is expected the crowd tonight will total nearly 15,000 and the gate will range between $25,000 and $30,000.

Everton Humbled By Wolverton Wanderers By Score 7-0 In Football League Match

LONDON, Feb. 23 — (CP Cable). —Playing before a home crowd Wolverhampton Wanderers humbled Everton, league leader, 7-0 in an English Football League match on Wednesday. The contest was in the nature of an English Cup rehearsal as the clubs will clash in the sixth round of the famous competition on the same ground, March 4.

Wolves moved into second place in the league table, two points behind Everton. The Midlanders are tied with Derby County, each team having 38 points, but Wolverhampton gets the runner-up position through a greatly superior goal average.

Celtic qualified for the fourth round of the Scottish Cup with a 2-1 overtime triumph in a third-round replay against Hearts at Parkhead. Last Saturday in Edinburgh the teams drew 2-2. Alloa also joined fourth-round contestants by edging out a 3-2 victory over Dunfermline. The teams drew 1-1 at the week-end.

English League.—Div. I.
Brentford 2, Portsmouth 0.
Bolton Wand. 3, Birmingham 0.
Wolverhampton W. 7, Everton 0.

SCOTTISH CUP.
Third-Round Replays.
Celtic 2, Hearts 1 (overtime).

Trenton Couriers Blanked 6-0 By Combines

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Feb. 23. — Shutting out the third place Trenton "Couriers" 6 to 0 last night at the Norwood arena, the Norwood-Havelock "Combines," led by Doug. Brennan, ex-N.H.L. star, went into fourth position in the Trent Valley Hockey League race. With two games remaining in the schedule, and both of these at home, the locals stand a good chance of copping a playoff berth. Tweed will visit here on Friday evening, which promises to be quite a tussle with both squads fighting for a spot in the approaching finals. The regular schedule winds up next Monday night when Stirling will be the visiting team.

Late in starting, the visitors having car trouble on their way here, the game never got under way until past 10 o'clock.

The "Combines," needing the win to keep them in the running, proved themselves superior in every department. Baker, grabbing off his first shutout of the season, excelled himself in the Norwood nets, doing an especially good chore of clearing. He was given great support, however, by his defence, and the wings covered up effectively all evening.

Minus the services of their regular defenceman, Kerr, out for the season with a broken shoulder, and of Norm. Johnson, brilliant winger, temporarily on the sidelines through sickness, the "Couriers" failed to show the power which they possessed on their first appearance here.

No Penalties.

The game was the cleanest witnessed here this season, not a single penalty being handed out during the three periods.

Trenton started strong in the first stanza. Brennan, however, finally broke it up, slipped Ibey a pass in front of the nets for the first goal of the evening. Nine minutes later G. Puffer, sinking the rubber during a scramble in front of the visitors' net. "Chuck" Puffer's goal, with G. Puffer and Rogers also in on the play, ended the scoring for the initial period.

The "Couriers" played a four-man offensive going into the second, with sometimes five men up the ice. It was then that Rogers grabbed his chance for a score. Norwood's fifth counter came when Brennan started another of his effective rushes, this time passing to Gordie Puffer just inside the visitors' defence. Puffer just managed to get his shot away before he was dumped heavily by Lemoire.

Despite their commanding lead the locals continued to carry the play going into the final session. A scramble in front of the Trenton cage resulted in another Norwood goal. Ibey flipping in his second of the evening on a neat backhand shot. Richardson and McMullen also took part in the play.

The teams:

Norwood: Goal, Baker; defence, Brennan, R. Webb; centre, G. Puffer; wings, C. Puffer, Rogers; alternates: Ibey, Richardson, McMullen, W. Webb and Rathwell.

Trenton: Goal, Steenburgh; defence, Cain, Haffey; centre, Inglis; wings, Johnson, Anderson; alternates: Lott, Hood, Sager, Heeney, Lemoire.

Referees: J. O'Malley, Trenton; P. Voyer, Havelock.

Windsor Chryslers Practice In Secret

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 23—(CP).—Windsor Chryslers practiced today behind closed doors for their playoff series starting tomorrow night against Stratford Majors. Manager Al Drennan said the Majors would prove no set-up in Michigan Ontario amateur hockey league playoffs.

Windsor opens the series here tomorrow with all except one player in harness. Mickey Drouillard is suffering from flue and will be out of the first game of the best-of-three series. Gordon Anderson, brilliant Windsor left-winger, who has been out of the lineup for weeks ill, likely will be playing tomorrow.

Ciencia Victory Is Initial For Fillies

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—(AP).—Name of a great little filly, Ciencia, took its place in the hall of Santa Anita Derby champions to-day, the first of her sex to be so honored.

As turf followers began looking ahead to the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, trainers and horse experts picked up the pieces left in the wake of the flying hooves of this impudent filly.

Ciencia won the $50,000 added race yesterday by five lengths. Mrs. Bessie Fransheim's Xalapa Clown, ridden by Nick Wall of Glace Bay, N.S., was second, and Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Impound was third in a photo finish with W. E. Boeing's highly favored Porter's Mite.

The Clown, Impound, Porter's Mite, and the rest of the field of 14 had no excuses. Ciencia, ably ridden by Jockey Carroll Bierman, virtually ran them off the track.

Victory to the winner, owned by Richard Kiegberg, was worth $41,850; Xalapa Clown won $10,000, Impound $5,000, and Porter's Mite $2,500.

Vatican City Has Own Flag For New Pope

(By The Associated Press)

It is anyone's guess who will be elected pope to succeed the late Pius XI. But, on the basis of precedent, he is almost certain to be one of the 62 cardinals—though he need not be even a priest—and an Italian.

The cardinal most often in the news in recent years has been Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, who served as papal secretary of state under Pius and is now temporary head of the Vatican. But cardinals who have achieved such prominence are rarely elected.

Usually the archbishops of important Italian sees have the best chance of their administrative experience. Recent popes have come from that group. Youth seems to count, too.

Ruler of Vatican

The new Pope will be not only spiritual ruler of the world's 331,500,000 Roman Catholics but also temporal ruler of the world's smallest independent state—Vatican City. The Vatican, where St. Peter's tomb is located, symbolizes in the minds of all Catholics the authority, dignity and power of the church.

Since Constantine I. began construction of a magnifcet basilica over the tomb of the first Roman Bishop St. Peter, in the early fourth century, new buildings and additions have added to the size and splendor of the site.

Once a hill where Christians were martyred, the Vatican now is a city of mediaeval splendor and renaissance art. It has its own government, its own police and courts, and its own railroad and radio stations.

A treaty negotiated by Pope Pius XI with the Italian kingdom in 1929 established the Vatican as an independent state and the 1,000 persons living on its 108.7 acres are Vatican citizens living under the Vatican flag—a white and yellow banner charged with crossed keys and triple tiara.

The residents live in Belvedere Palace at the rear of the papal quarters. They spend Vatican money—first coined in 1931—and use Vatican postage stamps.

Governor Runs City

Although the Pope is temporal ruler of the domain, he appoints a governor charged with the protection of property, the maintenance of public order and hygiene, and ordinary relations with the church. The Secretariat of State acts as the Vatican's chief political organ.

Four branches of the colorful Pontifical Armed Corps carry out the city's police duties. They are the Nobile Guards, chosen from Nobility; the Pontifical Swiss Guard, the Palatine Guard of Honor and the Pontifical gendarmerie.

The impressiveness of the huge St. Peter's Square at the main entrance to the city carries on throughout the entire state. No building is more awe-enspiring than St. Peter's bascilica, built and decorated during the 16th century to replace the original Constantine bascilica. Its huge colonades represent Christ opening his arms to receive in a protective embrace his millions of children spread all over the world.

The 1,000-room papal palace, although the chambers of the Pope are relatively simple, has been added to and beautified during nearly every Pontificate since the papacy finally was transformed back to Rome from Avignon in 1367.

Palace Additions

The Sistine Chapel, where Cardinals will elect the Pope, is one of the most famous buildings in the city, its beauty enriched by the famous frescoes of Michelangelo.

The famous Vatican gardens are a major item of interest to visitors. There the late Pius XI often walked.

Pope Pius XI, during his 17-year pontificate, earned the reputation as the greatest Vatican builder. During his time the radio station, which carries out programs from the Vatican for rebroadcast, was set up. Another modern addition was the office for the Osseratore Romano, papal daily, which has a circulation of 50,000.

A central heating and power plant was another major addition, along with a railroad station, the School of Mosaics, the Governor's Palace, a museum of paintings and barracks for the Swiss Guards.

Pius also modernized and catalogued the vast Vatican library and had another entrance built for the city.

Waiting For Twin

JASPER, Ind., Feb. 23—(AP).—Eight days after birth of a son to Mrs. Robert Scherle, the 28-year-old wife of a Jasper factory worker today for arrival of another child—the twin of the new baby. Doctors had predicted she would bear twins. Today they admitted they were in the dark as to when the second would arrive.

WINDSOR, N.S. — (CP). — An American eagle, weighing 30 pounds and having a wing spread of seven feet was shot near this town.

All That Is Left Of Hospital

Blackened walls and smouldering ruins are all that is left of the $1,600,000 St. Michael Archangel hospital for the Insane, near Beaufort, Que. Sisters of the Grey Nuns removed the 2,835 patients from the buildings with aid of police.

deavoured to put as much work there as possible."

The Prime Minister also spoke of the training centres for rehabilitating men who had been unemployed so long they had lost their aptitude for work. He also spoke of the centres at which young men are trained for semi-skilled jobs and urged that fullest use be made of these facilities.

Although the government's chief policy for the jobless consists of increasing Britain's export trade, there are other considerations under review. One is State assistance of Lancashire's cotton industry, which has been hit hard by Japan. At one time cotton formed the bulk of Britain's export trade but now the industry is in the economic doldrums, with thousands of its skilled workers on the dole.

The government is still considering legislation for the cotton trade but it may be introduced in the House of Commons within a week or 10 days, after consultation with leaders of the industry. This plan includes establishment of a cotton industry board, financially assisted by the Board of Trade. It would have wide powers.

50 New Camps.

Meanwhile Earl De La Warr, president of the Board of Education, annouced in the House of Lords yesterday that unemployed would be given priority in constructing 50 camps, each to accommodate 350 persons, which form part of the government's war-time evacuation plants. Although financed to the extent of £1,000,000 ($4,689,376) by the Exchequer, the camps will be constructed by a public utility corporation.

With respect to foreign affairs, Mr. Chamberlain offered to win Germany's friendship with a trade understanding, and at the same time warned that Britain is powerful enough to "maintain her rights and liberties against any who might be rash enough to attack them."

The Prime Minister, declaring that war material now ase "pouring out of British factories, turned to Shakespeare to express the nation's position. He said: "We may well feel that, to quote from our own Shakespare: 'Come the three corners of the world in arms, and we shall shock them'."

Mr. Chamberlain qualified his quotation from King John with the statement: "I do not speak these words in any boastful, still less in any aggressive spirit. Our armaments threaten no one, nor have we any thought of anything but friendliness to any people in the world."

Norwood Institute Holds Euchre Party

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, Feb. 23—A progressive euchre party sponsored by the Women's Institute was held in the Orange Hall on Tuesday evening.

Owing to the condition of the roads around the neighborhood, there was not the usual attendance.

Lunch was served at the close of the games, after which the prizes were awarded. The ladies' prize went to Miss Rhea Preston, and the gents' prize was won by Mr. Robert Sedgewick.

Sleigh Riding Party Is Held By A.Y.P.A.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, Feb. 23—A sleigh riding party was held Monday evening by the young people of the Anglican church.

The party left King's Hotel, journeyed around the village first, and then out to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Johnson's home, who live near the Clarina cheese factory.

The evening was spent in playing games and other amusements, after which a hot lunch was served. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were thanked for opening their home for this occasion and all report a most enjoyable time.

Urge Placing Jobless On Defence Forces

HALIFAX, Feb. 23—(CP).—Voluntary enlistment of all Halifax single unemployed in Canada's permanent defence forces at military pay for a three-year-period during which they would be instructed in some useful occupation is proposed in a resolution forwarded city council by the direct relief committee.

The plan, proposed by Dr. P. A. Gough, a city alderman, was ordered sent to council for consideration after a relief committee meeting last night. It was suggested the proposal be sent to the Association of Canadian Mayors, Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Premier Angus L. MacDonald of Nova Scotia.

Dr. Gough said he drafted the proposal with assistance of the city solicitor.

Dr. Gough's resolution said the problem of caring for youth had "assumed alarming proportions" in Canada and the present relief system was harmful to them. "Since there is no indication at the present time that the situation will be remedied in the future some action must be taken," the resolution said.

Bombay and Ahmedabad, in India, are to be connected by a motor road.

Blocked Roads Close Co-op Campaign

Thursday night's home meetings and the concluding dinner on Friday night in George Street Church Sunday School hall ,to wind up the Co-operative education campaign, have all been cancelled.

Members of the U.F.O. executive decided Wednesday afternoon to surrender to the almost impossible conditions on rural roads, and to postpone for several weeks the final features of the campaign which began so promisingly two weeks ago.

Only one of Wednesday night's meetings was held and three of the eight scheduled for Tuesday night. The meeting last night was at the home of W. W. Dawson, Otonabee, with twenty people of the neighborhood present.

"Just as a sample of our trouble," said E. H. Brown this morning, "we could get to within a block of the Douro Community hall by going out the Warsaw road, that is we had our speakers, but they were snowbound at Albert Armstrong's on the Fourth Line of Smith. The reason the meeting at Mr. Dawson's home went ahead was because our two lady speakers went over from Zion yesterday morning and became stranded there for the day. The people who went out to home meetings this week had to use sleighs, and as we couldn't get around conveniently, and couldn't expect many people to come in for the dinner Friday night, we called off the final part of our campaign and the eight visiting speakers have all gone home."

Crokinole Party Is Held In Bailieboro

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BAILIEBORO, Feb. 23—Approximately sixty people gathered in Bateson's hall Tuesday evening for a crokinole tournament, sponsored by the W. A. of the United church. Ten tables were occupied and play started at 8.30 and ended at 11 o'clock.

The ladies in charge served a delightful lunch, after which the prizes were distributed, highest honors being won by Mrs. Meredith Perrin, consolation going to Nellie Park.

The bean guessing contest for the quilt was won by Mrs. Fisher.

Mr. W. C. Jewison wa stime-keeper and Mrs. Harry Barnard and Mrs. Jewison were score markers for the crokinole play-off.

Auction Sale.

Owing to the cold weather and bad roads the crowd was not as large as usual at the sale of Thompson Huggin's on Tuesday. Prices were fairly good. Horses brought around $110 and cows from $40 to $65, young cattle, $20. James Roddy was the auctioneer.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thistlewaite and Robert Elliott of Elgin attended the funeral of the late, Mrs. Robert Leeper, Sr. which was held in Peterborough Monday.

Stays Lodge Pal In Plot For Ransom

MORRIS, Ill., Feb. 23—(AP).—A life-long friend and lodge brother of Abner Nelson, 38, wealthy batchelor farmer, was held today on a charge of slaying the missing man in a plot to collect ransom.

State's attorney S. J. Holderman said Elvin Wood, 37, a prominent Grundy county farmer, confessed last night he ended a friendship with Nelson by shooting him in the back.

Wood's confession, the prosecutor, said, was substantially as follows:—

Wood went to Nelson's modern farm home last Sunday with the intention of killing him, disposing of the body and then demanding ransom from the victim's wealthy relatives.

After chatting for two hours with Nelson, who lived alone, Wood suggested that they drive to town. He fired five shots at Nelson as they reached the farmyard, placed the body in his car, drove through town and proceeded about seven miles to a bridge near Seneca, where he dumped the body into the Illinois river.

Wood was charged with murder. Sheriff Hoyt, fearful of Wood's safety after townspeople began to gather, took him to Joliet for safe keeping.

OBITUARY

MISS HELEN E. CAMERON

The death occurred on Tuesday afternoon of Helen E. Cameron, well known resident of Otonabee who passed away at the home of her brother R. Y. Cameron after a lingering illness. Miss Cameron was born in Asphodel and was the daughter of the late Donald Cameron and Catherine Neilson. She was in her sixty-second year.

The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon from the home of R. Y. Cameron at 2 o'clock to Cameron's Cemetery for burial. Rev. F. W. Newell, pastor of Hastings United Church will officiate.

3 out of 4 WOMEN Prefer CONCENTRATED SUPER SUDS in Amazing "MASKED SOAP" TEST
1,000 Canadian housewives were given different granulated soaps packed in PLAIN boxes, identified only by number. These women were asked to do their washing with these granulated soaps and then to write which soap they liked best—and why! 3 out of every 4 women expressed an overwhelming preference for "Soap No. 1", CONCENTRATED SUPER SUDS. Let us quote from a few of hundreds of letters received:—
"No. 1 GIVES FAR MORE SUDS IN TUB OR MACHINE. I recommend it highly for ALL household purposes. EASY on your hands."
"No. 1 SUDS LAST RIGHT THROUGH MY WASHING. It softens water best. Goes FARTHEST and rinses out easiest."
"BABY'S FLANNELETTE CLOTHES CAME OUT SPARKLING WHITE from No. 1 suds. This soap dissolves best."
"No. 1 SOAP SOAKED OUT DIRT FAST. The rich suds stood up longer. It left no streaks in my clothes, and was grand for DISHES."
"MY COLORED CLOTHES KEPT THEIR BRIGHTNESS when washed with No. 1 soap. My other wash was beautifully white."
You owe it to yourself to try Concentrated Super Suds, next washday. This superior granulated soap contains MORE SOAP, that's why it gives you MORE SUDS. Safe for your clothes and gentle to your hands. Washes your clothes Hospital-clean. Most germs dangerous to health are killed or removed in the washing process. Very economical! Being concentrated a little goes a long way!

HORTICULTURAL MEETING.

A meeting of the Horticultural Society is booked for to-night at the office of F. C. Paterson of the Department of Agriculture.

BANK CLEARINGS.

Clearings for the past week totalled $473,741 it was reported by the secretary of the Clearing House to-day. One year ago the clearings totaled $501,853.

TAG DAY ALLOWED

An application for a tag day from the Canadian National Institute for the Blind on Saturday May 27 was authorized at Wednesday's meeting of the police commission on motion of Mayor Hamilton and Judge Smoke.

CONSTABLE PROMOTED

Constable John Rogers was raised to the rank of first class constable dating from February 1, at Wednesday's police commission meeting. Constable Rogers who has completed two year's service will now receive a salary of $1,500 a year.

NO CITY CASES

There were no city cases on the docket at police court this morning. After last week's excitement there has been a lull in local police circles this week.

GETTING READY

As a further step toward the establishment of Peterborough's two-way police radio system the police commission Wednesday decided to make a formal application to the city trust commission for permission to erect an aerial on the roof of the city buildings.

AN EXPLANATION

In a report of a minor traffic accident at Hunter street and Armour Road which appeared in Wednesday's Examiner it was stated that Patrick Anglesey was making a turn when the collision occurred. Mr. Anglesey states that it was Dr. C. M. Scott and not himself who was making the turn.

ICE CUTTING UNDERWAY

Allin Ice Company started to draw ice this afternoon from the upper stretches of the Trent Canal. The ice is sixteen inches thick and of good quality. Only a small gang of men have been hired so far, but it is expected the ice cutting operations will be in full swing by Monday. The cutting is being done in Golf Link Bay.

FUEL SALES CLIMB.

Home fires have been burning steadily this week to combat Jack Frost's latest near zero wave, and many householders have been forced to replenish the stock of coal or wood. In city wood yards business has been particularly good during the last two weeks, as the demands of the cold spell made people realise their fuel supply would not suffice for the winter.

MOVES PILE OF WOOD.

The huge, orange-colored snowplough that keeps many of Peterborough's streets clean these days, gave a demonstration of its immense power on Park Hill Road west of Aylmer Street on Wednesday. Coming down the steep hill, it was confronted with a cord of firewood that had been thrown in the roadway to one side of the single lane that had been ploughed out previously. The plough was bent on widening the road and when it came to the full cord of wood it never wavered, just took it in its stride, and piled the whole thing, snow and wood alike, far over to the side of the road, with no apparent effort.

Man Fined $10 Giving Liquor To Girl Of 18

Supplying liquor refreshment for a young girl of 18 has proven an expensive operation for Herbert Goodwin of North Monaghan. In police court this morning, Goodwin who had previously pleaded not guilty to a charge of "knowingly" supplying liquor to a minor changed his plea to guilty when the indictment was amended by dropping the word "knowingly."

W. B. Gordon, who apeared for the accused urged that the circumstances of the case justified the minimum penalty and E. F. Borbridge who was crown prosecutor in the absence from the city of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry stated that the case was not a flagrant one and that he would be satisfied with the minmum.

Magistrate Langley accordingly made the fine $10 but the costs, including witness fees, amounted to more than the fine totalling $11.50, so that altogether Goodwin had to pay $21.50. The alternative was fifteen days in jail.

Mr. Gordon objected to the costs but the $11.50 was allowed. And the fine and costs were ordered paid forthwith.

BrintonCompany Busy Making Royal Carpets

The King and Queen will see work done by residents of this city when they visit Ottawa in the summer. Employees of the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Company are busy these days fashioning huge rugs that have been ordered specially for the Royal visit.

Rugs that measure a hundred square yards in size are being made for use at Rideau Hall, R. V. Dawson, works manager of the company admitted to-day. He said the rugs are all of solid single colors, each one a different color, and are made of the best material available. Their enormous size, required to suit Rideau Hall, is far in excess of anything normally made by the company, he said. The entire order made necessary by the Royal visit is a large one, he said, but has been split among the company's four plants, so that Peterborough's share is not a great one.

Winter Travel Something unique in the field of modern transportation is this improvised cutter, snapped on Lakefield's main street. It is fashioned from the front half of a bobsled, with two kitchen chairs thrown in for comfort. With a fur robe about their feet and a good horse to draw them, Mr. and Mrs. George Harrison of Lakefield find this a more satisfactory method of getting around over country by-roads than their modern coupe.

Farmers Labor 26 Hours Digging Passage Through Two Miles Of Snow-Filled Roads

DRIVEN by the necessity of a funeral, farmers of the Cameron settlement on the boundary between Otonabee and Asphodel labored twenty-six hours yesterday digging a passage two miles long through snowdrifts and banks plied eight feet deep by the week's stormy weather.

The road had to be dugout for the funeral of Helen E. Cameron, Friday afternoon, from the home of her brother, Robert Y. Cameron to the old Cameron cemetery on top of the hill from the original settlement of the pioneers of this well known family in the Asphodel-Otonabee country.

The boundary runs north and south, and had been filled in by continuous winds shuttling across the road from east to west and back again. The job of toiling through the long reach of snowdrifts seemed a timeless recurrence of conditions to which the old pioneer families of the county were accustomed, especialy in winter when roads were sketchy and snow was deeper than nowadays.

Snowfall In Past Twenty Years Has Shown Very Little Change

Old-timers to the contrary, there has been little change in the amount of snowfall at any time in the past twenty years. Oldsters will reminisce and tell you that twenty years ago "we had real winters, with all kinds of snow." You don't know what a real winter is, they will say. Don't believe them, is the advice given by Alfred O. Phillips, official weatherman for Peterborough, and he brings statistical proof to back up his advice.

His record of snowfall, covering a twenty-year period, show that the average fall during the ten years from 1919 to 1929 was 77.28 inches, while from 1929 to 1939 it is 72.93 inches, with still a couple of months to go. The greatest fall of snow in the past two decades was in the winter of 1925-26, his records show, when 101.3 inches fell. December of that year had 16 inches, January had 18.2, February had 19.7, March had 25.7, and April had 15 inches. The first part of the winter was mild, but once December came along residents of this city shovelled every spare minute they had.

98 Inches Of Snow.

Ten years later came the winter that stood closest to that mark. In the winter of 1935-36, there was a total of 98 inches of snow. Greatest months that year was March of all months, when 41.4 inches fell. On the other hand the year with the least snowfall was away back in 1920-21, when only 45.6 inches fell.

A casual glance at the tables prepared by Mr. Phillips would convince one that the month of March, usually regarded as more or less mind, is often a lion. Here is the record of March during the past nineteen years, starting with the year 1920: 10.5 inches, half an inch, 9 inches, 29.7 inches, 1.6 inches, 9.5 inches, 25.7 inches, 4.5 inches, 27.5 inches, 10.5 inches, 17.7 inches, 19.5 inches, 22.1 inches, 12 inches, 10.5 inches, 15 inches, 41.4 inches, 13.8 inches, and 5.8 inches. The greatest fall of snow in any March in that time, then, was in 1936, when 41.4 inches tumbled out of the sky.

Twice in Month of May.

April does not often see much snow, although in 1926, 15 inches fell that month, and the year before 14.5 inches were recorded. May has seen snow only twice in the past 19 years, it is recorded. Three inches fell in May of 1923, 1.7 inches in the same month of 1928.

Here are the total of snowfall for each year: 1919-20, 75.8 inches; 1920-21, 45.6 inches; 1921-22, 63.3 inches; 1922-23, 94.6 inches; 1923-24, 82 inches; 1924-25, 77.8 inches; 1925-26, 101.3 inches; 1926-27, 82.2 inches; 1927-28, 91.7 inches; 1928-29, 58.5 inches; 1929-30, 97.9 inches; 1930-31, 62.7 inches; 1931-32, 66.5 inches; 1932-33, 55.2 inches; 1933-34, 94.5 inches; 1934-35, 86.5 inches; 1935-36, 98 inches; 1936-37, 53.5 inches; 1937-38, 49.4 inches; and to date in 1938-39, 65 inches.

Fair To Sponsor Foal And Calf Clubs

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 23.—The Seymour Agriculture Society will again sponsor foal and calf clubs at their annual fall fair it was decided at an officers and directors meeting. Following the policy adopted in previous years a committee to take charge of both clubs was appointed with Ian McLeod, district agricultural representative as supervisor. Douglas Rutherford and Victor Irwin were named on the Foal Club committee and Lindsay Anderson and John Locke headed the Calf Club. In recognition of the untiring work and interest of Alex Hume in the interests of the Society of which he is one of the oldest and most active members it was recommended that his name be placed before the Ontario Association of Agriculture Societies for a service diploma.

Come Miles To Court Over Blocked Roads Find Cases Could Not Be Proceeded With

Because Calvin Lee and Charles Lytle of Dummer made a fruitless trip into Peterborough today to attend a trial that could not go on Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., promised that the cases would be heard at Norwood, setting March 7 as the date by consent.

The two men had been charged last week with stealing trees from crown lands in Dummer and in Lee's case the evidence was heard a week ago and an adjournment ordered to permit of a survey of the boundary of the property being made at the request of the magistrate, while Lytle's case was adjourned also, without any evidence being heard.

The blizzards and snow storms of the past week have made it impossible to do the necessary surveying and the defendants were to have been notified that the trials would not go on today.

However Lee told the magistrate that he had received no mail all week because of the blocked roads and that he could not be reached by telephone. He had managed to get into Norwood last night in order to get to Peterborough for trial this morning.

Expressing regret that Lee had made the difficult trip to Peterborough for nothing Magistrate Langley said that he would arrange the hearing of the case at Norwood and would also hear the charge against Lytle at the same place.

"If it should happen that I should have to find you guilty I will take into consideration the inconvenience you have had in coming here today," he told the accused.

30 Days In Jail Giving Liquor To Girl Of 13

LINDSAY, Feb. 23. — George Workman, acquitted last week on the charge of keeping liquor in an illegal place, was Wednesday sentenced to serve thirty days in jail for supplying a thirteen-year-old girl with liquor. He pleaded guilty to the charge. J. E. Anderson, County Crown Attorney, conducted the prosecution, and told the court that the girl had been made a ward of the Children's Aid Society. The girl and her mother had visited the business section and upon the child's return to the Shelter the officials detected the smell of beer. The authorities were then notified. "I think the mother is as much to blame as the accused," the Crown stated. Mr. Anderson stressed the seriousness of the case of the girl being served in a beverage room. "She looks older than she really is, but I do not think old enough to warrant giving her a drink," remarked the County Crown Attorney.

A young man from Sonya, named McNeil charged with threatening a girl with whom he had been keeping company, was remanded until Friday on a surety of $1,000.

Hand Hurt In Pulper

Reginald Chase, of Mariposa, was painfully injured this week on the farm of L. Everson, Oakwood. His hand was caught in a motor driven pulping machine, and thirty-two stitches were required to close the wound. Chase was wearing a heavy pair of mitts at the time and these became entangled in the machine. Two of the fingers were also bared to the bone. Hope is held out that the hand may be saved.

13 Taxi Owners Given Licenses

Thirteen taxi owners and twelve drivers will receive licenses under the new by-law, the board of police commissioners decided at the regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon. Five other owners and two drivers whose applications for licenses were not reported favorably upon by Chief Constable Samuel Newhall, were turned down by the commission.

The owners who will receive licenses and incidentally will also be licensed to drive are John C. Fausett, P. J. Allan, H. E. Dunford, Darrel Rose, Dominic Malo, Joseph Fontaine, H. M. Stinson, Herb Stinson, Hugh Davis, Austin Gorman, Harold Howell, Wesley Howell, John Drummond.

The drivers whose applications were approved were R. P. Johnston, Arthur Baker, T. B. Rose, Joseph Finnie, Gerald Turner, William Drummond, Donald Howell, Fred Vilneff, Max Kimball, R. J. Thorby, R. W. McLean and Sam Calladine.

At the request of the taxi owners several changes were authorized in the new by-law. One of the most important makes the western boundary of Zone 1, the western city limits, rather than Monaghan Road, as first set out, and changes the southeastern boundary to Lansdowne street, instead of the C.N.R. bridge.

The fare for carrying passengers from Zone 1 to Zone 2 or vice versa at night was made the same as in the day time, this also at the request of the taxi men but a further request that Zone 2 be made the territory within a one-mile radius of the city, instead of three miles as originally provided was turned down by the commission.

The owners and drivers whose applications were approved will receive their licenses to-day.

Minstrel Show Complete Success

Financial statement of the Whizz-Bang Minstrels has not been completed yet, but indications are that the venture was a complete success. On Tuesday night the crowd attending was considerably larger than on Monday night and there was a good attendance at the Monday matinee for school children.

Misfortune dogged the footsteps of the cast almost from the start but as the date for the show came close, their luck changed and Morley Plunkett, director expressed approval of the program. The first bit of ill luck which struck the cast was the transfer of Dan Douglas to another post outside of Peterborough. Mr. Douglas was being depended on to provide strong vocal support in the chorus and a solo. Tommy Farr, another soloist had a plank fall on his head while he was working in a local factory and was under observation for three days. It was feared at the time that he had concussion, but everything turned out fine and he was on the job when the curtain went up. His singing was thoroughly enjoyed. Miss Jean McIlwain, a member of the Hawaiian troupe, the Aloha Serenaders, broke her left arm, ten days before the show was held, but she too was able to be on hand even though the arms was still in a cast.

Several American students are working among the archives at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Paris.

Amateur Artists Are Holding Annual Exhibit

The Peterborough Men's Amateur Artists' Club have made all preparations for their third annual exhibition at the Richard Hall store. That in a general way describes all the trips made by gentlemen of the city bearing parcels and bundles toward the downtown section recently.

Perhaps you never tried to paint a picture, and that takes in most people. You would say you knew nothing about it; you would not have the least idea how to go about it. The answer is that nearly all the members of the Artists' Club here were in exactly the same position a year or two ago. They started to paint by starting to paint, and of course they have the advantage of living in a district where there is much to offer suggestion and inspiration. But one sees in the exhibit this year anything from the coast of Maine to the quaint scenes of Petworth, Eng., or from Chemong to Georgian Bay. Adrian Macdonald, formerly of the Normal School staff, who was transfered to Toronto some time ago, became one of the enthusiastic members of the group, and advanced to the point where he was doing portraits of a rather creditable sort. His work is on exhibition.

On occasions members have had the assistance of artists from the outside world who have been glad to lend a hand, but for the most part progress has been by the old process of keeping at it.

Exhibitors at the 1939 display include J. E. R. Munro, C. H. Saunders, H. Steggles, Carl S. Browne, Stan Harris, Fred Ford, A. B. Burrows, Adrian Macdonald, and original flowers in pastels by Mrs. J. E. R. Munro, exhibited at the invitation of the club. In all there are more than 100 pictures on display at the exhibition.

Social Evening Held By Masons

A social evening was held in the dining room of the Masonic temple on Wednesday night by Peterborough Lodge. It was the second one of these events held this winter and from the number attending this new feature is going over big. The program was in charge of Bros. William Hurrie and Norman Crowe. Bridge, euchre, crokinole and checkers were played and during the evening W. Bro. Ross Dobbin showed two reels of film one a news reel and the other colored showing the activities of the Ketchecum Hunt Club in the fishing season during the past three years.

Prize winners at cards were euchre, W.Bros. William Anderson and Bro. Doug Loomis; bridge, Rt. W.Bro. John Comstock and Bro. Robert Dutton. Two draws were made with the prizes going to Bro. Jack Nicholls and V. W. Bro. M. Breckenridge. During the evening Harry Northrop also rendered piano solos.

The Rambling REPORTERS

THE WRONG FURNACE

It all happened because Jimmy Halsey wanted to go to the Minstrel Show and had no ticket. He confided his tale of woe to Jack Smith and Harold Freeman while the two were busy with customers, and Smith suggested that Jimmy run down stairs, close the door of the furnace and open the bottom draft. Jimmie did this little chore with alacrity and when he returned Smith handed the little fellow a ticket to the show, and Jimmy went his way a happy boy. Something was wrong, because the thermometer in the barber shop continued to drop, and when it had reached fifty Smith went into the cellar and found the drafts all turned off, Jimmy had failed. In McCannan's next door it was a different story, the mercury climbed steadily, and when the temperature hit 85, Ken went down cellar and found the furnace roaring with all drafts wide open. He came upstairs and proceeded to give Nick Harkley, an employee, a severe lecture on fuel economy much to the latter's surprise. He hadn't been near the furnace, Jimmy Halsey had, apparently turned right instead of left and earned his ticket to the Minstrel show by turning on the drafts on McCannan's furnace. Both furnaces are in the same cellar.

Must Provide Clear Path For Mail Carrier

If a mail carrier has to plow through deep snow to deliver a letter to your home, or mail box, he may decide otherwise and carry the letter back to the Post Office.

This rule is covered in the rules and regulations dealing with the carrying and delivery of His Majesty's mails, and it is plainly set forth that householders are obliged to provide a clear path for the mailman. The sidewalks must be plowed and the walks leading into the houses shovelled clear of snow sufficient to permit the mail carrier to enter. Farmers and others who have rural mail boxes on posts along the road must shovel the snow away from the box so that the mail carrier may drive close enough to the box to place the mail therein. In the past two weeks, many rural mail carriers have been forced to break their way through deep drifts in order that mail might be placed in a rural mail box. They are not obliged to do this as the regulations plainly set forth the duties of the box owner, who must shovel the snow.

Rarely if ever do the mailmen take advantage of their right to refuse delivery, but on the other hand are interested in giving the maximum in service, and even city mail carriers plow through snow to their knees in many places to reach a verandah. This is another reason why those living in the city should keep their walks free of snow.

BUYING FIVE BUSES.

Kitchener's Public Utilities Commission is buying five Yellow Coaches from General Motors at a cost of $32,000, and will apply a five-cent fare for an experimental period of six months. Peterborough's Bus Lines will put two new buses into commission during the next two weeks.

Lumber Trucks Are Idle; Roads Blocked

Probably the charges on the almost complete tie-up of traffic in the country have been sung sufficiently, but here's another tune in the same key.

Trucks hauling timber and lumber into Peterborough are nearly all idle, and the industry in the district is reported to be at a standstill.

Supplies of lumber from five mills in a wide area on both sides of Peterborough have been temporarily cut off from their market, H. R. Scott said.

"One of these mills is down at Kaladar, 105 miles from here," Mr. Scott told the Examiner to-day. "They generally make the trip in about eight hours, but a week ago Wednesday it took them thirteen hours. We've had nothing from them since. A mill at Rose Island, north of Apsley, is shut off; Wallace Shearer of Buckhorn reports that the roads to the north are plugged, and no logs are coming down to him. The road north of Buckhorn is open to the Bobcaygeon turn, but beyond that it is filled in with snow and ice."

The Peterborough Lumber Company tells the same story, the first time in years that deliveries of logs and lumber have been held up by snow blocked roads. Fred J. Overend said the trucks are held up, and conditions in the woods will probably require the closing of the company's lumber camp within the next week or so.

Suspension of local lumbering is likely to continue until the weather brings a thaw or some other form of traffic relief.

COLDS AND INFLUENZA

There is at present an increased number of individuals suffering from colds and influenza or "la grippe". These disease, while apparently minor illnesses may cause serious complications such as bronchitis, pneumonia, middle ear infection, etc., which may be serious.

Prevention of the common cold and influenza is possible. The following precautions should be observed:

1. Avoid persons already infected. These diseases are contagious, i.e., they are spread from person to person.
2. Avoid chilling the body by unnecessary exposure to cold or wet.
3. At the first sign of a cold go to bed and stay there.
4. Call your doctor.
5. Protect others in the community by remaining isolated until your cold is better.

White Lake Wolf Is Declared To Be Wild Dog

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Feb. 23. — The large "wolf" trapped by George Palmateer near White Lake near the northern boundary of the township of Huntingdon a few months ago, has been identified by experts of the Ontario Government as a species of wild dog of the collie breed. Application of Palmateer for the wolf bounty of $15 has been refused.

The animal was trapped and killed by Palmateer following raids of a pack of animals in which twenty-six of his sheep were destroyed.

The pelts of the nine wolf cubs destroyed near Marysville by Delbert Reid, Tyendinaga Township hunter, have been forwarded with Reid's application for the bounty to the Ontario Government.

Grabbed After Theft

Earl Hay, 23, Belleville, was arrested by Chief J. Clair Hayes when he was found in possession of a stolen overcoat, a scarf, and a hat, taken from Quinn's Opera House, Tweed, during a dance on Friday last.

He appeared before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd in County Police Court, and pleaded guilty to two charges of theft and one of intoxication. On the first charge, he was sentenced to three months, on the second to one month, and on the third to fifteen days, the terms to run concurrently. B. C. Donnan represented the Crown and produced Hay's previous criminal record, which showed a number of convictions.

Arising from the above investigation, three other residents of Belleville, Bruce Keegan, Verge Little and Earl Pope have been summonsed to answer a charge of intoxication and will appear later.

$234,000 For Cagney

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP).—James Cagney was Warner Brothers' highest paid movie star in 1938, with earnings of $234,000. His salary was disclosed in the company's annual report to the United States securities commission, made public today.

Kay Francis, actress, was second on the list of Warner Brothers Pictures, Incorporated, with $224,000, compared with $209,100 in 1937. Cagney's name was not included among the top-ranking earners for 1937.

Apsley's Agricultural Society Open Meeting Well Attended

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Feb. 23.—An open meeting of the Apsley Agricultural Society was held on Friday evening in the town hall. The subject of the speeches was "Co-operation." A good crowd turned out. After the meeting the ladies served lunch.

Boys Entertain Girls.

The Church Boys' League entertained the Junior W. A. Girls on Saturday in the parish hall to a Valentine party. Games were played and lunch was served to the girls, the boys acting as waiters and serving refreshments. Valentines were also exchanged and a good time was spent by all.

Play By A.Y.P.A.

A play entitled "For Pete's Sake" was enacted in the parish hall on Saturday night by the A.Y.P.A. of Warsaw Anglican church. A good crowd filed the hall and the play was pronounced excellent. The proceeds were given to the Apsley United church.

Roads in Bad Shape.

The roads in this district are reported badly blocked, both on the highway and also the side roads. The Apsley-Bancroft bus was unable to proceed further than Clanricarde on Saturday night. The snow plow was out both on Sunday and Monday. Snow and sleet and high winds prevailed all day Sunday and Sunday night.

Miss Jean Tanner was a guest of Miss Lillian Smith on Sunday.

Master Bert Smith was a guest of Master K. Tanner on Sunday.

Miss Elsie Northey was a weekend visitor at her home near Selwyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Chesel McColl were guests of the latter's parents on Monday.

Church Societies Hold Get-Together

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 23—Rev. T. S. Gault referred with enthusiasm to the splendid work being done by the various church organizations, when he addressed a gathering in the Parish Hall on Monday evening. The affair, which took the form of a get together for the different societies, was planned as a means of bringing about closer cooperation between them and at the same time opening up for discussion any problems of special interest. Rev. Gault stated he was highly pleased with the efforts being put for both individually and by the societies as a whole. Hilton Beatty presented a review of the finances of the parish since the first of the year, and was most encouraged by the continued financial success of the societies.

At a preliminary meeting, members of the A.Y.P.A. passed a resolution which favored turning over to the wardens their surplus. They also decided, in view of the several postponements of the visit of Peterborough Lion's Club Band, the concert would if necessary be held during the lenten season. A special feature of the meeting was the announcement that it was a birthday anniversary of Miss Ehel Bedford, who has for a number of years taken a prominent part in the work of women's organizations. She received the hearty congratulations of all those present.

Other items on the program included a dance by Mr. Roy Ramsden and a period of games and contests. The evening was concluded with refreshments.

Speaker Threatens To "Name" Member

REGINA, Feb. 22 — (CP). — A threat by Speaker Charles Agar to "name" J. L. Phelps (C.C.F. Saltcoats) startled members of the Saskatchewan Legislature last night during a verbal flurry on a point of order.

It was the first time in years a member was threatened with that procedure. To "name" a member is to have him ejected from the House by the Sergeant-at-Arms for improper conduct.

The Speaker was expressing an opinion on th propriety of a statement made by Omer Demers (Lib. Shellbrook) to the effect that the C.C.F. was not interested in seeing that the farmers of the province obtain seed this spring.

The Speaker ruled Mr. Demers' statement was proper. Then he burst out: "I resent the member from Saltcoats, every time the Speaker is giving an opinion, shaking his head and waving his arms around. If he continues to do so, it is my intention to have him named on the floor of the House."

The warning came during debate on a C.C.F. resolution urging the Government to make immediate plans for obtaining seed for farmers with payment provided on a bushel for bushel basis.

Will Announce Big Winners

Most motion pictures audiences will be interested in National Announcement Night, that will be held in motion picture theatres throughout the country on Monday evening, February 27th; for this day will be truly remembered by 5,404 — winners of the $260,000 Movie Quiz Contest. On this occasion announcement of the winners will be made from the stages or screens of all the motion picture theatres that have participated in the campaign that marked Motion Pictures' Greatest Year.

Manager Art Cauley of the Capitol Theatre will celebrate this occasion by announcing the names of all national prize winners from the $50,000 first prize, $25,000 second prize, $10,000 winners, $5,000 prize winners, down to the $1,000 successful contestants. In addition all local prize winners will be announced. Should winners be present in the theatres, certified cheques, issued by the Chemical Bank and Trust Company of New York, will be presented to them on this occasion.

The judges of the contest are: Mrs. Ogden Reid, Dr. James E. West, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, the Honorable Bruce Barton and Mr. Hendrik Willem van Loon.

In the selection of the winning letters, the entries were considered without signatures and identified by a key number. In that way even the judges did not know the names of the successful contestants until after they made their selections.

The motion picture industry is proud of the success of this contest and the maner in which it was judged. Although a tremendous task, because of the large number of entries, each answer was carefully checked by a staff of experts, and through a process of elimination the letters were graded and then considered by the judges.

TAKE THE LEAD OUT OF YOUR LEGS

Get Oxygen in Your Blood and You'll Get the Pep that Sends You Bounding Up the Stair.

People who smother to death die because oxygen has been completely cut off from them. Just as surely you are slowly smothering if your blood lacks red corpuscles. Red corpuscles are your oxygen-carriers. They carry the oxygen you breathe in to every part of your system. Without enough oxygen-carrying corpuscles, your kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels slow down. Your skin gets pale, flabby, often pimply. Your nerves may become jittery — you tire quickly — feel depressed.

What you need is Dr. Williams Pink Pills. These world-famous pills help make more and better red corpuscles and thus increase the oxygen-carrying power of your blood. Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today at your druggist. See for yourself how quickly this time-proven blood-builder will help give you back your pep. Copr. 1938, G.T. Pulford Co., Ltd.

PAINFUL PILES

Can Be Quickly Relieved

If you think there is no way to relieve the misery of piles, it's because you don't know of HEM-ROID, an internal medicine, from a prescription written by Dr. Leonhardt, a western physician.

The real cause of piles is on the inside—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel, with the tiny rectal veins full of stagnant, impure blood.

Dr. Leonhardt decided the way to relieve piles was internally, with a medicine which would ease the congestion of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and help to heal and restore the sore, tender spots. After many tests he wrote the prescription which has been so successful in giving quick relief from pile misery. It is now offered to you with our promise that you may have your money back if you are not completely satisfied after using one bottle.

No matter what kind of piles you have or how long you have had them, HEM-ROID must show you the quick, clean way to get rid of your pile misery or your money will be given back to you. McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Stores or any other druggist can supply you with HEM-ROID and will back up this promise.—(Advt.)

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

TWENTY questions I had compiled. And did not know the answer to one of them! I—my hand holding the pencil stopped in mid-air, for a scream, the scream of a woman in mortal agony, echoed through the house!

Somehow I got to my feet and somehow I ran the length of the corridor to the front stairs. I will never forget the scene that confronted me: Mr. Richard, his face gray and ashen, stood on the upper landing. He was peering over the banister — peering downward — peering helplessly, hopelessly at a shapeless blanketed bundle that bounced crazily from step to step until, at last, it came to a sudden, still stop in the hallway below.

I shrieked! I must have shrieked, for suddenly on all sides doors opened. Upstairs and down. McIntyre, his coattails flying, rushed from the library followed by Phil and Chief Ellis. Men and women flooded the corridor. I half walked, half crawled down the stairs. My knees were so weak they doubled under me at every step.

"Dear God! It's Eliza!" Daphne, her face a white mask of horror, whispered the words.

"She's done for!" The chief knelt beside the blanketed bundle.

"She's dead?" A man's voice whispered the words. Mr. Richard stood beside me. His dazed eyes wandered around the enclosing circle.

"What—what is it?" Mr. Horace appeared seemingly from nowhere.

"She's dying!" Ellis arose. "Call a doctor, someone!"

"Dying? Who is dying?" Mr. Horace did not understand. He looked from McIntyre to Ellis. The former said softly:

"It's Eliza, Mr. Witherspoon. She is dying. I think—I think she must have fallen down the stairs!"

"Fallen!" The chief laughed shortly. "She was pushed, more than likely! Is anyone going to call a doctor?"

"I'll—I'll phone my physician." Mr. Horace pulled himself together and ran into the library.

"O. K.! Benson, give me a hand. We'll get her upstairs."

"Right." Phil walked over. Sickened, I closed my eyes.

"You — Todington!" shouted Ellis.

"Yes?" Jeffrey sounded badly shaken.

"Take my place here with Benson. I've things to do here below."

I opened my eyes. "Now, then, Miss Ritter! He was pointing to me. "Did you push her down?"

"I?" I could not believe my ears. "Why—I was in my room! I heard a scream and I rushed out. Mr. Richard was there and we saw—we saw — her falling down the stairs, and—"

"Mr. Richard, you say?"

"Yes, and—" I stopped, appalled. What had I said? In my eagerness to defend myself what had I said? I glanced fearfully around the silent circle. All eyes were upon Richard Witherspoon. My heart turned over in my breast. Ellis advanced upon the stricken boy.

"So it was you who pushed her!"

"No! Richard denied the accusation. "I was in—in—"

"Well?"

Richard frowned slightly. "I did not push Eliza! Why should I push her?" He looked to his sister. Daphne was weeping silently.

"Why" — he stammered, the light of comprehension dawning in his eyes—"why—you think I did it!"

"I suppose" —and Ellis was openly disbelieving— "I suppose you just happened along, eh?"

"Yes! I heard a scream—"

The chief interrupted him: "Just where were you when you heard this scream?"

"Why — why — I was coming down the corridor! I ran to the head of the stairs. I saw something wrapped in a blanket bouncing from step to step!" He shivered. "I didn't know it was — was Eliza. Then Miss Ritter came running, and I followed her down the stairs—"

Ellis laughed: "You'll have to think up a better one than that, son!"

McIntyre intervened. "Perhaps she did fall! We have no proof that she was pushed. She may have tripped on the blanket!"

"Of course!" Daphne came forward. "She must have tripped! Why should — anyone have pushed her down the stairs?"

Ellis said darkly: "Maybe she knew a thing or two! Well, is she alive?" he demanded as Phil and Jeffrey Todington came down from above.

Phil was sober-faced. "She's alive," he said, and I sighed in relief. But he went on, adding something: "She regained consciousness for a moment. She—she said something—"

"She did!" Ellis was jubilant. "Well, out with it!"

"She said," Phil began, and the silent circle of men and women involuntarily closed in upon him, "she said these words: "He did it!"

"So!" The chief exhaled loudly. "Did she mention a name?"

Phil shook his head. "She lapsed into a coma."

"Well, she said enough!" Ellis moved toward Richard Witherspoon. "The only 'he' around when she went down was sonny, here!"

Mac protested: "Don't make a mistake, chief! You have no definite proof!"

"Proof enough! The boy pushed her down as sure as I'm standing here! Why, he was caught red handed!"

I interrupted: "But you must be wrong! If he had pushed her, he wouldn't have waited to be caught red-handed. He would have run away!" I was sick at what I, in my folly, had done. If only I had not been so eager, Ellis would never have known of Richard's presence at the head of the stairs. I did not believe Daphne's brother guilty. Not for one minute! Someone else had pushed Eliza! Someone who had done it quickly, silently, and then had fled.

"That's beside the point!" Ellis was convinced of the truth of his own deductions. "Probably the lad was too scared to run."

"I didn't do it! Before God I didn't." Richard was half-crazed with fear and shock.

"Come along, son!"

"You — you aren't arresting him!" Daphne shielded him with her body. "You aren't taking him away!"

"It's the law—"

"Please!" She implored him. "He is innocent! You haven't proved a thing!"

"That's for a jury to decide."

"I wouldn't pull him in so fast, if I were you!"

"What?" Ellis spun on his heel. Toots Lemoine, arms akimbo, stood behind him.

"You heard me! He didn't shove the old girl down the stair!"

"He didn't, eh?"

"No, he didn't!"

"Oh, are you certain?" Daphne's despair yielded to hopefulness.

"Sure, I'm certain!" Toots shot her a glance of scorn. "Richard was with me — in my room! Weren't you, darling?"

"Yes! I was with Miss Lemoine in her room!" the boy affirmed eagerly. "I was in her room when I first heard the scream!"

"Is that so?" Ellis pursed his lips; he frowned. I held my breath. "Well," he said hesitantly, "why didn't you say so in the first place?"

Toots shrugged: "The kid's got screwy ideas, copper. He thinks being in a lady's room ain't nice!"

"Well, it isn't!" Ellis scowled. His hesitancy yielded to certainty. "Perhaps he was there, and perhaps he wasn't! And just to make sure, I'll take the two of you down for good measure. Then, all three of us can have a nice, quiet little chat—in jail!"

"My God!" sounded the voice of Mr. Horace.

WANTED—GOLF RELICS

LONDON — (CP). — Four distinguished women golfers, Mrs. T. H. Miller, Miss M. H. Benton, Miss E. T. Bolton and Miss Cecil Leitch, plan a golf museum which for the present will be housed in Whitehall Court.

Germany is edging up on the United States in the sale of goods to Chile.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—My husband and I have been married for nearly five years and are still romantically in love with each other and very happy. Nevertheless, I have a matrimonial problem that I want to ask you about. It is this: I baby my husband. If he wants to step out of an evening I grab my hat and go with him. If he is tired and wants to snooze on the couch I throw a rug over him, turn down the lights and read a book instead of complaining that I am lonesome and would enjoy a talkfest. If he brings home company for dinner it is all right by me. I open up another can of something and have a jolly dinner party. If it interferes with his pleasures, I let what I want to do go hang and do his way. I put myself to as much trouble dolling myself up and trying to make myself attractive to him as I did before marriage. And so far my plan has worked out fine. There never was a kinder husband nor one who loved his home more. But my friends say I spoil him too much and so does my mother. That makes me wonder if I am making a mistake. What do you think? A HAPPY WIFE.

ANSWER:

According to the old proverb, the proof of the pudding is in chewing the string, and inasmuch as your five-year plan of getting along with a husband amicably has worked out so successfully it would be folly to change it. Better let well enough alone.

There are, of course, many schools of thought on how to manage a husband. Some wives believe that the proper thing to do is to tear a young husband all to pieces as soon as they get him and make him over according to their own paper pattern. Other wives believe in the strong-arm method of clamping right down on a husband from the start and taking away from him all of his personal liberties and his pay envelope.

Others hold to the terrorist theory and believe that a wife best gets in her deadly work by nagging and making scenes or dissolving in tears so that her husband is so much afraid of her that he yes-mam's her and meekly does as he is bidden.

But while these strenuous methods of dealing with husbands appear to work as seen from the outside, there is abundant evidence to prove that they are really not so successful after all. Many a downtrodden husband avenges himself upon his oppressor by refusing to work to support her. And many a henpecked husband flees from the wife who makes him feel like a worm of the dust to some other woman who tells him how big and strong and wonderful he is.

Somehow the soft-soap theory of dealing with husbands has never made a hit with the majority of married ladies. They think it a lack of spunk and intestinal fortitude for a wife to jolly her husband along and use as much tact in rubbing his fur the right way as she would her boss if she had a job from which she could be fired if she didn't give satisfaction. Yet in reality the only way that any wife ever keeps her husband eating out of her hand is by putting angel's food in it.

Vinegar no more catches flies in marriage than it does elsewhere. If a husband stays in love with his wife and still prefers her to all other women after the romance of courtship has died out it is because she has made life pleasant for him. She has kept him conscious of her love and admiration for him and shown that she has preferred his happiness above her own. If you look around at the middle-aged Darbys and Joans who are still all-in-all to each other you will invariably find that the wife babies her husband and caters to him.

So I think that spoiling a husband is just about the best way to hold him. Mighty few of us ever run away from an adorer.

* * * * * *

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am 22. For six years I have gone with one man. Ever since our mud-pie days it has been understood that we would some day marry and I have had very few dates with any one else. Now the time has come when we are to be married in six weeks and I have met a man, a stranger, with whom I have fallen violently in love. It thrills me just to look at him and I have lost all interest in my fiance. Dread his coming to see me. Can't bear to think of my wedding, because my heart is not in it. What can I do? How can I break my engagement and embarrass my fiance before all of our relatives and friends? But I don't want to marry James. Will this queer feleing of mine pass away? What shall I do? I have no reason to think that the other man feels about me as I do about him.

MARIE.

ANSWER:

Spar for time. Put your wedding off on some pretext or other until you can analyze your emotions and find out whether what you feel for this stranger is a temporary fascination or a lasting passion.

My diagnosis of your case is that you are not really in love with James at all. You are the victim of the iniquitous custom that pairs a girl and boy off together in their school days and virtually forces them to marry because everybody expects them to and because they have become a habit to each other.

Neither one has ever gone about enough with other boys and girls to get really acquainted with them. Or to find out if some other girl or boy was not more congenial to them and had qualities that were more attractive to them than the old standbys with whom they had been keeping steady company ever since their childhood.

I surmise that that is your case, and that is why you have been swept off your feet by this stranger who thrills and excites you as poor dear James has never done and can never do. You are like a person who has lived on bread and butter and who has been given a taste of caviar and finds out that is what she has been hungry for all her life.

Of course, it will be hard on James for you to break the engagement. But you will do a more cruel thing if you go and marry him when you are already tired of him. Better break an engagement on the church steps than to go on with it when there is no love in your heart for the man you are marrying. It takes a lot of love to make a woman a good wife.

DOROTHY DIX.

Simple Ways to Keep Dog in Tiptop Form

Doggy comes to your house to live? Give him simple but right care and you'll have a pet to be proud of—a sturdy little fellow who'll win against distemper and other ills.

During cold weather give him two warm meals a day. Meat's the main part of his diet — no pork, however. Fresh fish is good, too, also milk and buttermilk.

Vegetables? A small portion —cooked and mashed or ground raw. But starchy foods such as macaroni and rice you feed sparingly, for they may cause skin and digestive troubles.

And now with plenty of drinking water, clean quarters, your pet should be doggishly happy.

But be on the safe side! Know how to recognize and act on signs of distemper—slight fever, refusal to eat, affection of eyes and nose, and general listlessness.

How to train Mr. Dog to obey —to do tricks? In a short time you can teach a happy dog to "come," "Fetch," other tricks.

Make your pet a credit to you. Our 32-page booklet by an expert tells how to train your dog. Gives complete instructions on feeding, grooming, housebreaking. How to recognize and treat dog ailments.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of HOW TO CHOOSE AND CARE FOR YOUR DOG to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, February 24.

A day of unusual, intriguing and probably drastic and exciting events is the augury based on an interesting chain of planetary aspects. It is a time for forging ahead to high goals, with much initiative, originality and ingenuity. This may involve some radical departures in plans, ways and means, or even in environment. Rather usual or curious angles may crop up, but all should succeed, giving much gratification, but restraint, discretion, and vigilance are enjoined.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of rather unusual adventures. There may be sudden and drastic action, as well as temptation to rash, intemperate and violent behavior. These should be held in check; also there should be precaution and alertness to pitfalls and snares. Elders and superiors may be friendly disposed and ready to assist in promotion of sound plans.

A child born on this day may be eager, energetic, ambitious and well-equipped for reaching desired objectives.

SPORT-LOVING SWEDES

STOCKHOLM — (CP). — Within four years 80,000 persons have won the Swedish Sport Association's medal for swimming 200 metres and since 1916 about 252,000 have earned the association's skiing medal.

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

When Knarf, the shadow-boy, saw his master laying out his set of colored building-blocks on the playroom floor, he danced with joy.

"Build a house! Build a house!" he cried.

Now I'm quite sure his master, who was a little boy named Frank, didn't hear a word which the shadow was saying. Even when shadows shout their loudest, children can't hear there. Shadow-language you see, is spoken so softly that unless you have four ears you can't hear it.

But Knarf kept right on shouting just the same. "Build a house with the blocks! Build it for me!"

"Is it really for me?"

All at once he was delighted to see that little Frank was starting to build a house.

"Is it really for me?" he asked as he stood on tip-toe and looked over his masters' shoulder. "Am I going to live in it?"

The boy didn't answer.

"Then it is for me," said Knarf, who believed in answering himself when no one else did.

Knarf was so proud that he darted around to all the other toys in the playroom. "Just look at my beautiful new house! My master is building it just for me to live in!" he announced to Punch and Judy.

"It's a palace," said Mr. Punch.

"Such a lovely location, too," added Judy. "Right in the middle of the playroom floor. You'll never have any trouble finding it."

"As soon as I move in," said Knarf happily, "I'll have a big party. You'll both be invited."

Then Knarf darted to all the rest of the toys in the playroom: Mary-Ann, the rag doll; Jub-Jub, the monkey; Jack-in-the-Box, the Roly-Poly family, the Tin Soldier — he went to all of them. "You're all invited to a big party in my new house! Just look at it! Isn't it beautiful?"

They all looked. But there wasn't any house. All they saw was a little boy putting colored blocks away in a wooden box.

"Well," said Knarf, tring to smile, "I guess I don't care much about living in a house after all. It's so much trouble going in and out. And you have to keep opening and shutting windows, and sweeping and dusting to keep it clean. No—it's no fun at all. I'd rather just live in this playroom."

And he tried harder and harder to keep smiling.

Looking Back On This Date

Watchers of the political stage often wonder what is going on behind the scenes. Sometimes they get a slight idea through some passing event, but as a rule they have to wait until the deaths of the principal actors to get the solutions to many intrigues and cabals. Sir Robert Borden's memoirs supply many illustrations of this. Here is an instance of early dominion politics.

In 1870, Sir Alexander T. Galt, who had been minister of finance in the first dominion cabinet, came out in the debate on the address in the House of Commons against Sir John Macdonald, who wrote on Feb. 23, 1870, to Sir John Rose in London, England:

"Galt came out, I am glad to say, formally in opposition, and relieved me of the difficulty connected with him. His warm alliance with the Lower Canadian French rendered it necessary for me to put up with a good deal. But he is now finally dead as a Canadian politician. He has come out squarely for Independence, has rung his death knell, and I shall take precious good care to keep him where he is. He has seduced Cartwright (later Sir Richard) away, and I have found out how it was managed. Cartwright and he formed at the club last session a sort of mutual admiration society, and they agreed that they were the only two men fit to govern Canada. Galt rubbed it in pretty strong, telling Cartwright that he should have been minister of finance. They are a pretty pair."

Yet, within ten years, Macdonald in 1880 named Galt as the first high commissioner to London, an indication that the quarrel must have been bridged over. Sir John had a habit of heaping coals of fire upon party rebels, and perhaps it was so in Galt's case. Certainly Macdonald appreciated Galt's work in London and urged him to "stay on the job" when Galt wanted to come back to Canada after three years.

Mission Circle Reviews Study Book

An animated discussion resulting from a question and answer review of a chapter of their study book on "learning to live together" was taken part in by members of the Living Link Mission Circle of Trinity Church at their monthly meeting. The discussion was led by Miss Edna Forester, and several personal experiences were given by the members to illustrate their interpretation of the chapter.

An interesting item dealing with temperance was given by Miss Mary Webster, and reports from the Presbytery were presented by Mrs. C. Frisken and Mrs. W. Fanjoy. Mrs. C. Ashby conducted the devotional period, and prayer was led by Mrs. W. Fanjoy. Plans were made for a crokinole party to be held before the next meeting.

300 Attend Popular Cooking Classes

The popularity of the cooking classes which Mrs. Mary Barrett of Toronto is conducting in the Reid Street Hall Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week, and which are being sponsored by the Elizabeth Parker Auxiliary of Trinity United Church, was further demonstrated Wednesday afternoon and evening by an attendance of approximately three hundred interested women.

On Tuesday afternoon the door prize was won by Mrs. N. W. Thompson, and draw prizes by the following: Mrs. A. Cowling, dinner; Mrs. J. Kingsbury, lemon pie; Mrs. O. Ward (Trenton), dessert; Miss Jeanne Tully, cookies; Mrs. J. Valery, cookies; cakes, Mrs. J. Garside, Mrs. Glenn Edwards, Mrs. C. R. Pogue and Mrs. J. Sills.

Wednesday afternoon the door prize, an electric iron, went to Miss Sybil Harrison. Draw prizes were won by Mrs. V. Whittington, meat; Mrs. Walter Giles, dessert; Mrs. T. McMillan, baked apples; Mrs. Geo. Jefford, supper dish; Mrs. G. E. Macfarlane, cake; Miss A. Somerville, cake; Mrs. Fred Leslie, macaroons; Miss Ella Krohn, macaroons; Mrs. B. Wardle, tea biscuits.

Wednesday night the door prize, an electric clock, was won by Mrs. C. Richardson. Draw prizes were won by Mrs. Roy White, meat; Mrs. C. K. Garside, dessert; Mrs. Bradley, Mrs. Norman Hamley, Mrs. H. K. Clifton and Mrs. C. R. Pogue, jelly rolls; Miss S. Bennett, butterscotch curls. Door prizes have been donated by the C.G.E. Company.

We Noticed

...That an ingenious milliner has designed a new spring bonnet minus a crown, so milady's curls can come right out through the top without fear of disarranging them. The brim may be any size you wish, and trimmed with a huge velvet bow, or a bunch of colorful flowers.

❖ ❖ ❖

...And speaking of hair, here's a hint for smart girls—if you want your hair to stay up, cut it short! That's the newest, smartest style for spring, anyhow. And it's extremely charming—just have your hair clipped and done in a band of curls encircling your head — have a few extra curls on top in the front—and there you are. It will stay, too.

❖ ❖ ❖

...And here is the latest word regarding hair styles, and it bears out the above paragraph very well —"Short hair, curled in ringlets close to the head, is fashion's newest decree for milady, Philadelphia hairdressers were told on Tuesday at their annual trade show." And the president of the association, Anthony Bocha, emphasized that this year's hairdo is to be very, very slick, with no straggles.

Museum Employee Has Sewed For Two Queens

TORONTO, Feb. 23 — The Royal visit to Canada this spring is eagerly awaited by Mrs. E. W. Stephenson of the staff of the Ontario Museum. Mrs. Stephenson is associated and once sewed for Queen Victoria and later for Queen Mary.

Fifty-eight years ago, when Mrs. Stephenson was a girl of 18, she was apprenticed to a London firm which enjoyed the royal patronage. Among her first work was the quilting on garments for Queen Victoria. For more than 25 years she was a regular visitor to Buckingham Palace, where she cut dresses for both queens.

Since she came to Canada in 1911, Mrs. Stephenson says, she has received several letters from Queen Mary, the last shortly after the death of King George V.

Among the royal garments on which Mrs. Stephenson worked was the gown in which Queen Mary was crowned. It was done of two shades of gold cream-colored satin she recalled. The embroidery designs were symbolic of the dominions of the commonwealth.

Mrs. Stephenson became associated with the museum when she read two of Queen Mary's coronation dresses had been donated. She offered her services to assist in making forms for the dresses on which she had worked.

LITTLE BOY INFLUENCE

By PRUNELLA WOOD

The Eton-type of jacket in dressmaker suits is as new this spring as the elongated jacket is in the tailored suit. Usually, as in the costume sketched today, it's combined with a finely-pleated or full skating skirt, with graceful results.

That trim waistline comes from stitching the skirt pleats several inches below the midriff.

In this costume, the printed blouse is separate. Other suits, giving the effect of three pieces, are simply a dress with attached printed bodice and a similar jacket.

Dutch Houses Resemble Arks

It is not for nothing that so many Dutch houses are built like arks, with a second angle in their roofs. They almost are arks, being, so many of them, built laboriously on piles and having water at their front doors. Many of the canals have a second ditch or dike on either side, and these must be crossed by a bridge before the house can be reached. Dutch houses would hardly know themselves without this bridge which is a natural part of their equipment. In some parts—for 40 per cent. of Holland is below sea-level—the road along which the motor speeds is tremendously built up, and where the land is very soft it has to meander with numbers of S turns. The car runs along the top of this with a canal on either side to fall into and only a few posts at the turns for protection. Houses are not possible on such wet land, but these roads, which really lead across marshy ground, connect the various places and bring one to more canals and more dikes again with the bridges which enable the amphibious Dutch to get about.

Some of the new municipal buildings, particularly those of Amsterdam, have almost instinctively taken the form of a ship. Situated in what was a fishing village, they might be great liners, instead of four-storey blocks of flats. Thus architecture adapts itself, at first almost instinctively to the land and later more consciously. On the other hand, many of the large barges look like houses, especially when a little black schipperke on deck barks at the stranger who ventures to look at him.

Japan is taking a census of all agricultural workers, their pay, and the machinery and equipment they use.

Do You Know?

...Egg stains may be quickly removed from your breakfast silver by rubbing with a little damp salt?

❖ ❖ ❖

...To make Javelle water to remove stains from clothing, dissolve one pound sal soda in one quart boiling water. Dissolve one-half pound chloride of lime in two quarts cold water. Let mixture settle and then pour off the clear liquid. Mix this with dissolved soda, bottle and keep in dark place. Label carefully and keep away from children.

❖ ❖ ❖

...Hard-boiled eggs will look their best when shelled if they are boiled for 10 or 12 minutes and then put immediately into very cold water? The sudden shock prevents the white from discoloring.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

'Ukrainadians' Contribute Some National Dishes

"Pyrohy" is traditionally served on Christmas eve in the Ukraine—and is easily made, and one of their dishes that many Canadian housewives adopt into their cooking routine.

Pyohy (a savory filled dumpling)

One cup flour, ¾ cup lukewarm water, pinch of salt. Sift the flour and salt and add enough lukewarm water to make a fairly soft dough. It should be like bread dough. Let stand covered in a warm place for 10 minutes, then roll out as thin as pie crust. Cut into squares of about 2 inches and place a teaspoon of the filling on half of them—or place ½ teaspoon of the filling on all of them and fold over like triangle. If to be left square cover filling with remaining squares and press edges together tightly. Drop into boiling salted water and boil for 5 minutes. Serve sprinkled with butter crumbs or sour cream.

Filling For Pyrohy.

One-half pound dry cottage cheese, 1 egg, salt and pepper. Use uncreamed cottage cheese for this. Mix it with the beaten egg and season with salt and pepper.

Leftover meat may also be used for filling.

Holubchi.

Many versions of this dish are made in Europe—I think it is because it is so tender, tasty and cheap.

One medium sized cabbage, ½ lb. rice, 1 medium onion, ¼ lb. bacon (or other smoked pork), salt, pepper, 2 cups tomato juice. Remove the core from the cabbage and scald the whole cabbage in boiling water long enough to wilt the leaves. Remove the leaves separately and slice off the heavy part of the midrib from each leaf, so that it will not break when rolled.

Wash the rice and boil hard for 10 minutes in boiling salt water. Drain well. Dice the bacon finely and fry it until crisp, add it with the fat that was rendered out of it to the drained rice, and the finely chopped onion. Add the salt and pepper. Mix well. Spread a spoonful of this mixture on each cabbage leaf, then roll them up tightly. An expert can make these stay without toothpicks but I could not.

Line a large baking dish with cabbage leaves—place the cabbage rolls close together on them and pile them on top of one another until the dish is full. Pour over the tomato juice. Cover the top with more cabbage leaves and bake in oven of 375 deg. F. for 1½ hours. When top leaves begin to brown, cover. When ready to serve these rolls are as tender as possible and delicious. I know you will like them.

Ukranian Gorsch

(A rich cream soup).

One lb. spareribs, 1 small beet, 1 medium sized onion, 1 apple, salt, 2 tomatoes, ¼ small head of cabbage, 1 tablespoon each vinegar and sugar, 1 mushroom, dry or fresh.

Cut the spareribs apart and cover with 1 quart water and cook slowly for 45 minutes. Chop the peeled beet an donion finely and add them. Quarter the cabbage, the apple and tomatoes and add them with the mushroom (the mushroom may be omitted if one is not at hand). Cook for 1 hour replacing the liquid with boiling water as it boils away.

When all the vegetables are cooked and meat is tender enough to slip off the bone easily add the sugar and vinegar. Some people add 1 cup cream beaten with egg and teaspoon flour. This makes the soup very rich.

Potato Pancakes

(Using grated raw potatoes).

Peel four potatoes and grate them raw. Immediately add ¼ cup flour, 1 egg and salt and pepper and beat well. The batter should be fairly thin an dwill be if potatoes are grated finely enough. Fry like pancakes on very hot griddle. They should be fried until they are well browned, when the centres will be tender and soft and the edges crisp. Serve with pot roast.

Mediwnyk (Honey Cake)

One cup honey, 1 cup sugar, ¾ cup cooking oil, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 2½ cups flour, 3 eggs separated, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon cloves, shredded blanched almonds. Bring the honey to a boil and let boil for about 1 minute. That deepens the color and develops the flavor. Cream the oil and the sugar and add the egg yolks one at a time. Beat hard after each addition. Add the honey, which has been cooled, and the sifted dry ingredients. Then fold in the stiffly beaten whites and the almonds, which have been blanched and shredded lengthwise. Pour into greased pan about 8 by 10 and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for from 25 to 30 minutes.

This cake is delicious and keeps well. We will give you Chinese recipes next week.

Women Of City To Pray For World Peace

The first Friday in Lent is expected to be a day of prayer for women the world over, and a day when missionary-minded women from every country will follow a program that has as its theme, "Let us put our love into deeds, and make it real."

In Peterborough the World Day of Prayer will be observed by women and girls of the city in St. James' United Church. The period of intercession includes prayers for those in special need, for the children and youth, for their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, and for all heads of nations, for the Christian church, her leaders, and for world peace. Representatives will take part in the program from St. James' United Church; Murray Street Baptist; St. Paul's Presbyterian; George Street United; Knox United; Salvation Army; Mark Street United; St. John's Anglican; St. Andrew's United; Park Street Baptist; All Saints'; Pentecostal Church; St. George's, and Trinity United.

Mrs. Wesley Rose, president of the St. James' W.M.S., will conduct the afternoon services for women; in the evening at seven o'clock teenage girls of the city will meet, and a service which will include responsive readings, prayers, etc., will be led by the president of the Girls' Council. Mrs. N. Warrander will be guest speaker, and Miss Helen Hetherington guest soloist. Services for young women of the city will commence at eight o'clock under the leadership of the president of St. James' Church Auxiliary. Miss Elizabeth Walker will be the speaker.

The first conception of this world-wide day of prayer for women was born on the North American continent. Before 1900, the Presbyterian women of Canada had for years a Day of Prayer for all their mission enterprises, Home and Foreign. In the 1890's the Women's Home Mission Council and the Federation of Women's Boards of Foreign Missions, international women's groups of the United States, had their separate days of prayer. In 1920, in Canada, the five Women's Boards in the newly-formed Inter-Board committee united in a Dominion-wide observance of the Day of Prayer. The same year, through the efforts of Mrs. Henry W. Peabody and Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery, the Home and Foreign Mission Boards of the United States took a similar step. Two years later, in 1922, the American groups asked the Canadian women to unite with them in a continent-wide day of intercession, which was first observed on March 3, 1922, and the first Friday in Lent was chosen as the permanent date.

But the end was not yet. The yearning of the women of North America had taken form and substance, but there were hosts of other women in Great Britain, Europe, Asia and Africa, whose hearts beat with the hearts of North American women, and in 1927, only seven years after the first services were held in Canada and the United States, the observance could be truly said to be world wide. In 1937 services were held on the same day in Great Britain, Europe, Africa, China, Japan, Korea, India, Mexico, and the South American republics. These services were similar to the ones used on this continent, and the programs were identical.

Snowcycling Winter Sport

Winter used to mean the end of tricycle days till Spring but not for this lassie. Her dad did a little doctoring on the outfit and by removing the back wheels and slipping on a pair of little steel sleigh runners and using some heavy insulated wire on the front drive wheel for chains the transformation becomes a snowcycle. The little lady at the handle bars is Denise Elaine, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reg Doubt, of Reydon Manor, Lakefield, and she has lots of fun these days since the heavy crust of ice, scooting about the sidewalks, driveways and even the glassy fields sloping down to the Otonabee river ice. She says it goes easier than in the summer. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

With The Girl Guides

The birthday of both Lord and Lady Baden-Powell was observed on Wednesday, February 22, and we observe this thanksgiving day by a church parade to St. John's on Sunday. Protestant Guides from Third company are welcome—this is for Brownies also. Second company is to meet at nine o'clock at St. Peter's.

Brownies: On Saturday the First pack held an enrolment ceremony and Mrs. Whalon enrolled the following: Dorothy McNeeley, Marguerite McNeeley, Coreen Hanrahan, Teresa Stewart, Beverley Littlefair.

Third pack entertained their mothers at an enjoyable tea, and the cushion was won by Mr. J. Scott, Wilson avenue. The winning ticket was sold by Betty McIlwain.

All Guiders are asked to attend First Company meeting on Monday, March 6. This is IMPORTANT. Seven-thirty p.m. (uniform).

Duchess of Kent Has Planned New Coiffure

Among details of the Duchess of Kent's appearance which will interest the women of Australia when she and her husband are in residence in that country will be her coiffure. And already the Duchess is considering with her very capable personal maid, Miss Arter, what hair style she should adopt to wear "down under." It will be spring there when she arrives, and she will need a coiffre suitable for those big hats which she wears with such success during the English summers.

The high-piled curls which gave the Duchess a resemblance to Queen Alexandra have, says our London gossip, been forsaken now by this royal leader of fashion, who found them inclined to be severe, and "wispy" at the back of the neck. Instead, she wears a row of tiny curls across the nape, and large, loose curls on either side of her centre parting. During the coming season the Duchess will probably wear her diamond clips as hair ornaments.

Shampoo En Route

For use during the long journey to Australia the Duchess has tried out a new shampoo in the Bond Street salon where she has her hair washed and dressed. In the form of a paste, this preparation can be applied while she is sitting at her dressing-table. It turns to a light, fluffy foam when massaged into the hair, and can be rinsed off with the minimum of time and inconvenience.

Australian women will find that their new Governor-General's wife has a lovely complexion which owes little to cosmetics; the Duchess mixes her own face powder from one or two shades, according to the time of year and the weather, and her nail varnish is a very delicate pale shell pink, hardly to be distinguished from the natural nail color.

Cadogan Bow Is Revived

Arrivals from Paris are enthusiastic about the new hair-dress, the long bob tied in back with a Cadogan bow, identified with the era of Louis XIV and Louis XV. Parisian modistes have gone so far as to arrange veiling or ribbon attached to the hat to tie around the hair in this fashion.

With so many of our younger set continuing to wear the long bob, this fashion seems an excellent solution, in that it will look new tied at back and certainly much more groomed without losing any of its youthful appeal.

The bonnet and other off-face silhouettes which look onw to be among the outstanding leaders for spring, are excellent worn with this type of coiffure since the Cadogan bow which ties the hair comes below the hat brim, and the curls may be worn over the forehead to soften the front line.

W.C.T.U. Honors Memory Of Frances Willard

"Frances Willard Day" was suitably celebrated to her memory and to her honor at the meeting of the local W.C.T.U. yesterday afternoon in the newly decorated Green Room at the Y.W.C.A., with a good attendance of both members and visitors.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. H. T. Rehill, through illness, the chair was capably taken by the vice-president, Mrs. W. Boorman, who opened the meeting with prayer, with all joining in the Lord's prayer. The appropriate portion of Scripture was chosen by Mrs. E. Armstrong from the nine Chapter of the Acts of the Apostles; after prayer was offered by Mrs. C. Elliott and Mrs. E. Wand.

The beautiful vocal solo, "The Twenty-Thid Psalm," sung by Mrs. Shadgett, with Mrs. Routley accompanying, was an inspiring message.

In a brief business session the minutes and treasurer's report were given, together with those of some department superintends' when Mrs. J. H. Rowe spoke for the Little White Ribboners and Mrs. E. Manning for the Flower Mission. Correspondence was read by Mrs. C. Elliott, from Mrs. McIntosh, of Springville, expressing thanks to Peterborough Union for marking the temperance papers of the Springville contestants and for the beautiful prizes given.

The fiftieth anniversary of Peterborough W.C.T.U. was announced for the afternoon of March 20th, to be followed by a splendid banquet, when Mrs. John Wright of Brantford, president of the Ontario W.C.T.U., will be guest speaker. Committees were appointed to look after the details, and a fine temperance rally for the occasion is assumed.

Rev. H. Wilkinson, of Bridgenorth, was speaker for this Frances Willard meeting and brought into the apparent hopeless temperance problems of today a most optimistic outlook. Mr. Wilkinson gave the history of "The Evils of Alcohol" from its earliest discovery down through the centuries and declared that this was a "world" problem and always had been. He traced the efforts of temperance workers also down through these ages. In 1833 there was a revival of abstainers, when 847,000 people signed the pledge as total abstainers from alcohol. He commended the work of Frances Willard in founding such an organization as the W.C.T.U. in 1874, and the women who today are still supporting it. Alchol is a problem the world over. All churches are against it as the world's enemy number one, but do not forget that the temperance sentiment is rising, and must eventually prevail.

The "Clip Sheet" was led by the presiding officer, assisted by eight members. This exercise was intended to refresh the minds concerning Frances Wilard's work an words, and to draw inspiration. We may well remember that temperance work is all a venture of faith, and this challenge is sure of an ultimate answer, so let us renew our faith.

Frances Willard, as a pioneer W.C.T.U. organizer of women, to protect the home, the women and and children from the ravages of liquor, wrote the famous resolution, which was the ruling principle of her life: Wherever the temperance cause has a champion there is the name Frances Willard loved, cherished and revered. She is the world's greatest philanthropist of the 19th century. She calls upon us to pray and to hammer away stoutly against the well-organized enemies of prohibition."

The members all stood and again renewed their pledge. "The Glory Song," as a delightful piano solo, was contributed by Mrs. M. C. Parr.

The thanks and appreciation of the Union to the soloists, the speaker and the accompanist, were expressed by Mrs. E. E. Lord, and the Mizpah benediction concluded the meeting.

Wife Preservers

Small braided rugs under the casters of furniture will prevent the piano slipping on the polished floor. The rugs also prevent the floor from being scratched.

Unemployed in the United Kingdom now total 1,911,203, or 300,000 more than the population of New Zealand.

Haliborange

Vitamins A, C and D

IF your child is weak, sickly or ailing, it is probably because it lacks sufficient of the body-building, bone-forming and germ-resisting vitamins A, C and D. An excellent way to make up this vitamin deficiency is to give it steady treatment with Haliborange, which contains these three vitamins in perfect proportion.

Haliborange is a concentration of Halibut Liver Oil and pure fresh natural orange juice. Delicious to take. No fishy taste or odour. Ask your druggist about Free Tasting Sample offer.

DIED

CAMERON, Helen E.—At the home of her brother, R. Y. Cameron, 1st Concession of Otonabee, on Tuesday, February 21, 1939, in her 62nd year, Helen E. Cameron, after a lingering illness. The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon, February 24, 1939, at 2 o'clock, from the residence of her brother, R. Y. Cameron, to Cameron's Cemetery. Rev. F. W. Newell, pastor of Hastings United Church, will officiate.

KIDD Hattie Elizabeth.—On Wednesday, February 22, at Cobourg, in her 73rd year, Miss Hattie Elizabeth Kidd, daughter of the late Daniel Kidd and Isobel Anderson. Born in Warsaw and spent most of her life in Lakefield and Fraserville. Funeral on Friday, February 24, from Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street at 2.30, with the Rev. G. Kelly, Lakefield United Church, officiating. Interment in Lakefield Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

FOWLER.—In loving memory of my dear husband and our dear father, Archibald Fowler, who passed away February 23, 1937.

Call not back the dear departed,
Anchored safe where storms are o'er,
On the borderland we left him
Soon to meet and part no more.

C.G.E. Lasses Beat St. John's

C.G.E. scored in the final minutes and last night defeated St. John's 12-10 in a scheduled Ladies' City Basketball League game in the Collegiate gym, before a small crowd. The winners were behind 8-7 at the half, but led by H. Bradley's 4 points, outscored St. John's 5-2 in the last half for their first win. It was the Anglicans' second loss of the year, and dropped them a notch in the standing.

The winners were guilty of five fouls and St. John's seven, C.G.E. making four from the free throw line, and St. John's missing all their chances. H. Bradley made 8 of her team's points and starred throughout with I. Shadgett who had 3. E. Clarke and A. Bowler were best for the losers. The teams:

St. John's — A. Bowler, E. Clarke, T. Laws, E. Foster, D. Groombridge, J. Castle, V. Douglas.

C.G.E. — H. Bradley, J. Alexander, R. Devine, J. Bartley, H. Harte-Maxwell, I. Houghton, R. Milburn, M. Wright, I. Shadgett.

Cobourg Cagers Defeat Locals

Cobourg Grads, O.A.B.A. Intermediate entry, took an 18-5 first half lead over Dominions of the Senior City League and then turned on the pressure in the last half to win 39-26 in a fast exhibition basketball play in the Y.M.C.A. gym last night.

The Cobourg squad, led by big "Chuck" Peck of Queen's football fame, and the Lucas brothers, were ahead all the way, but had to fight down the stretch as Dominions rallied near the end. A total of thirty fouls was called on the combined teams, the winners making 8 out of 14 tries and Dominions dropping in 6 out of a possible 16. J. Lucas Cobourg's pivot man, G. Campbell, who totalled 19 points, and C. Peck starred for the winners, and Holmes, Grose, and Sedgewick for the Dominions. The teams:

Dominions (26) — Centre, Holmes (9); forwards, Weese (2), Dundas (6); guards, Grose (1), Wolstenholme (1); subs., Csumrick (1), Rennie (2), Sedgewick (4).

Cobourg (39) — Centre, Campbell (19); forwards, J. Lucas (11), R. Lucas (7); guards, Peck (1), Payne (2); subs., Cooper, Labrash, Hall, Ashley.

Tea And Dance Held By Keene Students

KEENE, Feb. 23.— The girls in Home Economics held a delightful tea on Thursday afternoon for their mothers and friends.

Despite bad weather a large number attended. The party opened by all singing "O Canada." After a few words of welcome by Anna Houle the girls joined hands and sang "We Are Glad to See You Here." Then the girls paraded with the dresses they had made. A duet was rendered by Bernice Bidgood and Audrey Miller.

Miss Phylis Kempt read an account of the girls' work, and a short and educational play entitled "Beauty Secrets" was ably put on by the girls. Miss E. Atkinson and Miss Drummond poured tea.

A dance and presentation was held in the town hall by the pupils of the Keen Three Months' Course on Tuesday. Miss Jean Scott, teacher in home economics, Miss Elizabeth Atkinson, health teacher, and Messrs. Donald Bell and Robt. McKercher instructing the boys in agriculture.

During the evening the teachers were called to the front, when Laura Taylor read an address and a suitable verse was read by Dorothy Edwards, Jack Bolin, Catherine Bolin and Alex Eason, as they gave the presents. The ladies received purses and the men received military set brushes. Robt. McKercher thanked the classes on behalf of himself and the staff.

Keene Boys Beat Lang Team 9 to 6

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, Feb. 23.—The Keene public school hockey team defeated Lang Public school team 9 to 6 in an exciting game in Keene Tuesday before a good crowd. Keene opened the scoring in the first period but Foley for Lang soon tied it up. Lang went into the lead on Foley's sniping but goals by Robinson and McCarthy tied the game at the halfway mark. From then on Keene outscored their rivals when McCarthy, Bidgood and Robinson scored but Foley continued for Lang to score six goals in all. Robinson, McCarthy and Wright went good for Keene and Foley and Wright for Lang went good. The teams:

Keene: Goal, Horle; defence, Robinson and Robertson; centre, Wright; wings, Richardson, McCarthy; subs, Bidgood, Kempt, Thompson and Doris.

Lang: Goal, Ridpath; defence, Foley and Wright; centre, Foley; wings, Bishton and Creabe; subs, Nelson and Wright.

1st Test Tube Calf Is Born In States

STANTON, N.J., Feb. 23—(AP).—Shawmut Sally Queen, a week-old calf whose parents never met, held the interest today of dairymen and college professors.

Enos Perry, Dairy specialist of the New Jersey extension service, Rutgers University, said the calf was the first "test tube baby" born in the United States' first cooperative association for the artificial breeding of dairy cattle.

The calf was normal in every respect. A second was born in this section Sunday, and Perry said such births would be almost a daily occurrence now.

Massey Hotel Fire Costs Woman's Life

MASSEY, Ont., Feb. 23—(CP).—Mrs. Sarah Maltaise, 66, of McKerrow, 15 miles east of here, died last night in a fire that razed the Clifton House here with a loss of $12,000. Nine other hotel guests escaped though they lost all their belongings.

Mrs. Maltaise had been visiting her daughter, Margaret, an employee of the hotel. Her body was recovered from the hotel kitchen shortly after the fire started at 7.30 p.m. and death was blamed on shock and smoke, she having suffered only superficial burns.

It was believed Mrs. Maltaise gave up an opportunity to escape to hunt for her three-year-old grandson, Jack Rivers, not knowing he had been carried from the burning building.

Defective wiring was blamed for the fire. All guests were warned in time to escape but the fire spread so quickly through the brick building, they could take no time to save their possessions.

Silk cocoons produced in Turkey last year weighed 3,300,000 pounds.

Boiled Kettle With Old Crutches

Once Used Them Because of Rheumatism

He was not wrong, either—this man who concluded that he would not need his crutches again. Writing of his experiences, he says:—

"For five years I suffered terribly from rheumatic pains, and I began to think my case hopeless. I also had a bad stomach, and I rarely had a meal without my food repeating on me. One day an old friend told me to try Kruschen Salts. So I bought a bottle and gave it a trial.

"After some time I was able to enjoy a good meal and to walk more freely. One morning I got up and lit the fire, and my mother thought I was crazy, because I sawed my old crutches up and boiled the kettle for coffee with them. That was six years ago, and I am now back at my old job as a chef."—H.A.B.

Do you realize what causes a good deal of rheumatism? Nothing but sharp-edged uric acid crystals which form as the result of sluggish eliminating organs. Kruschen Salts can always be counted upon to clear those painful crystals from the system.—advt.

Domestic Attacked On Car Ride In Park

TORONTO, Feb. 23. — (CP). — Police searched to-day for a man Helen Saad, 24-year-old domestic, said attacked her last night in the Canadian National Exhibition Park. The girl, in hospital with head and face injuries, said the man, whom she had met earlier in the week, took her out last night for an automobile drive.

Miss Saad said the man attacked her after she got out of his automobile when he stopped in the park. She was noting the license when he struck her, the girl told police.

The license number the girl gave police was that of a Hamilton car which had not been out of the garage for several hours. Miss Saad gave police the name of the man, but they were unable to locate any such person.

Polo World Mourns Captain Pat Roark

PASADENA, Calif., Feb. 23—(AP)—The world of polo today mourned the death of Captain C. T. I. (Pat) Roark, 43, colorful British internationalist. He suffered a fatal brain injury in a fall during a match at the Midwick Country Club Sunday. He died yesterday.

Messages of condolence reached Pasadena from many points of the globe—from Ireland, where Captain Roark was born and first played the game as a boy; from England, India, Argentina and eastern states, where he had matched mallets and mounts with the world's best.

His last match was under the Midwick colors against four members of the British international cup squad, for which Roark played in 1927 and captained in the 1930 series against the United States. At one time he was Great Britain's 10-goal player, highest ranking in polo.

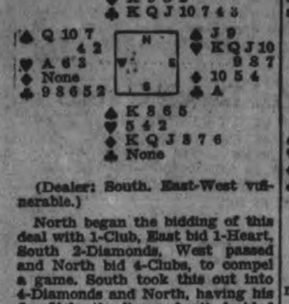
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

FAVOR THE FITTER

CONFRONTED WITH a choice between two suits for your side's final contract—one of them an immense string in your own hand and the other one in which you have a splendid fit for your partner's bid, there should be little argument. Except upon the rarest of occasions, you are better off to let him play it. The main reason is that it affords a lot of entries to both hands, and a safe way to go back and forth conveniently. Another is that you thereby obviate the danger of a defensive ruff of that suit. A third is that it offers the possibility of a cross-ruff if that be found advisable after the opening lead.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

North began the bidding of this deal with 1-Club, East bid 1-Heart, South 2-Diamonds, West passed and North bid 4-Clubs, to compel a game. South took this out into 4-Diamonds and North, having his fine fit for the diamond suit, decided there should surely be a slam in the hand. He consequently called 6-Clubs. West had sense enough to keep his own counsel, instead of doubling.

Guessing from the bidding that the second round of hearts would be ruffed, and that North was surely prepared for a lead of that suit, East decided to try the unorthodox lead of the diamond 10. West of course trumped this. Steered away from a heart return by the fact that his partner had clearly considered his own suit hopeless, West decided to return a trump. He had the great good fortune of finding his partner with the ace, and therefore got a chance to ruff a second diamond, putting the declarer down two tricks.

North's bidding was sound up to his very last call, which should have been 6-Diamonds instead of 6-Clubs. An overtrick was waiting at diamonds.

How would you recommend bidding this deal, after South opens with 1-Spade?

Might Reduce Legislatures Minister Of Labor Says, But Decision Be Up To People

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—The number of provincial legislatures in Canada might be reduced, Hon. Norman Rogers, federal Minister of Labor, said last night when he closed a debate upon Canadian unity at Hart House.

"It might be prudent to do so, but decision for such reduction must rest with the people of those provinces; it could not be done by threat or coercion," said Mr. Rogers.

"It is spectacular nonsense to suggest that all the provinces could be abolished."

"We are all in favor of leadership, but let it be leadership in wisdom, not in error," he continued. Later he expressed his "resentment toward those misguided people who described the present government at Ottawa as one of inactivity." The government, he said, had declined to proceed with an unemployment insurance scheme which was not laid on a solid constitutional basis.

The Dominion at present, he said, was faced with the alternative of expanding federal power over social services or maintaining the existing situation in which the provinces had jurisdiction over such services, but were unwilling or unable to accept their responsibility to pay.

Not Satisfactory Now

Mr. Rogers added that the present dual responsibility in respect to social services was far from the most efficient method of administration. If continued, it was almost certain to become an "irritant" in Dominion-Provincial relations.

The minister said the subject of the debate had been framed so carefully that he had difficulty in knowing which side he should be on. The question argued by half a dozen undergraduates of the University of Toronto was "That in the opinion of this House an expansion of federal powers over social services by amendment of the British North America Act will advance the cause of Canadian unity." The ayes carried the motion following Mr. Rogers' support by 82 to 11.

"It lies within the power of the provinces to impose pressure on the federal government so that it will increase its assistance in these social services," he declared. "This can only tend toward uncertainty and instability.

Quebec Objected

"We offered to take over jurisdiction in respect to unemployment insurance which had never been taken up by the provinces. We made a reasonable request for co-operation and were informed by Quebec that it was an encroachment upon provincial autonomy.

"If that contention is to continue, we are not going to get far," the Minister continued. "I recall Lord Baldwin's words respecting Arthur Balfour: 'He will be remembered as much for what he prevented as for what he accomplished.'

"I don't know how that philosophy will appeal to The Leadership League, because very often we confuse activity with progress. Nevertheless more and more people in Ontario are coming to realize that there are certain minority rights guaranteed the provinces which forever must remain inviolate. Nobody will attempt to change them."

Lack Of Good Business Judgment Causes Resignation

OTTAWA, Feb. 23—(CP).—Lack of "sound business judgment in the operation of the Canadian National Railway was the reason given by James Y. Murdoch of Toronto, president of the Noranda Mining Company, for his resignation Feb. 15 from the railway directorate. An interchange of correspondence detailing Mr. Murdoch's position was tabled by Transport Minister Howe in the House of Commons yesterday.

Despite Mr. Murdoch's complaint that active direction of the railways was too great a task for a man president S. J. Hungerford's years and in his present state of health, the board Monday recommended Mr. Hungerford's re-election to the presidency. He is 66 years old. Mr. Murdoch wanted the appointment of "a younger man with more initiative and directing energy."

The correspondence disclosed that Mr. Howe was "not enthusiastic" about changing the president.

However, the minister advised Mr. Murdoch that such matters lay outside his statutory authority. The president was the appointee of the directors although governmental approval was essential to sanction the appointment.

Mr. Howe had never attempted to influence any of his decisions while on the directorate, Mr. Murdoch wrote, commenting on an observation in one of Mr. Howe's letters relating to this point.

Mr. Murdoch declared he had admired the minister's attitude on this question and thanked him for it.

Mr. Murdoch would have been content for Mr. Hungerford to remain as chairman of the directorate, provided an individual, whose identity the correspondence did not disclose, was named senior vice-president. This person, Mr. Murdoch said, was regarded by Mr. Hungerford "as the best man available for the presidency if a change were made."

(The four vice-presidents at C.N.R. headquarters are: N. B. Walton, operations and construction; R. C. Vaughan, purchases and C.N. West Indies (steamship service); Alister Fraser, traffic; and D. C. Grant, finance and accounts.)

The correspondence disclosed that Mr. Hungerford had advised both Mr. Howe and Mr. Murdoch that he was prepared to resign.

Specifically Mr. Murdoch complained of inaction of the president in the face of newspaper criticism of the Montreal terminal, emphasizing that Mr. Hungerford should have issued an explanatory statement on the matter. Also, a clearer picture of the system and its relationship to the public should have been made in addresses before public bodies, in the light of the speeches delivered by Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railways.

Mr. Murdoch also protested against failure on the part of the management, to invoke the statutory powers which compel co-operation between the railways on issues which had given rise to differences of opinion.

He complained that Mr. Hungerford had taken vacations without leaving a "responsible official in command."

Italians Stay On

ROME, Feb. 233—(AP).—Premier Mussolini confirmed to General Franco to-day that Italian troops are at the Spanish leader's disposal until "final victory."

Mussolini made his re-affirmation in a telegram acknowledging greetings from Franco on the occasion of a big military review in Barcelona, fallen government capital. Italian legionnaires marched past Franco in the parade.

Opium, Gambling Den Raids Round Up 200

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23—(AP). — Eight hundred policemen and soldiers, including 100 Japanese, arrested nearly 200 persons in raids on opium and gambling resorts in Japanese-occupied territory adjoining the International Settlement today.

The raiders were seeking suspects in the wave of assassinations, robberies and other crimes in Greater Shanghai. The prisoners were held for questioning. Shanghai municipal police charged more than 40 opium and gambling dens in the area were being used as headquarters for desperadoes.

A policeman of the Japanese-dominated local government and a sergeant of the Chinese Settlement police were killed earlier in the morning when gunmen entered the Settlement from Japanese-occupied territory and attacked a police patrol.

The slaying yesterday of Marquis Li in the Settlement, the 53rd political assassination in the Shanghai area in the past 15 months, has stirred the Japanese to new protests against terrorism.

Domei, Japanese News Agency, in a dispatch from Nanking quoted Wang Tze-Hui, Minister of Industry in the Nanking government and blood brother of the slain Marquis, as saying Li played an important part in assisting in establishment of the Japanese dominated regime.

Passports Forbidden For Travel In Spain

OTTAWA, Feb. 23—(CP).—The Dominion government has forbidden the issue of passports for Canadians to travel to Spain or any Spanish island or Spanish African possession, Justice Minister Lapointe said in the House of Commons last night.

Mr. Lapointe said Premier Maurice Duplessis, Quebec, had charged him with issuing passports for Communists to go from Canada to fight in Spain. "This is not true," the Minister replied.

The foreign enlistment act prohibited Canadians from fighting in foreign wars, so it was illegal for Canadians to fight on either side in the Spanish civil war. Furthermore, the government had produced an order-in-council that prohibited the issue of passports to Spain. It was specifically stated on the 20,000 Canadian passports issued yearly that they were "not valid" in Spain or any Spanish territory.

The foreign enlistment act, continued Mr. Lapointe, made it illegal for Canadians to fight in the Spanish war, and the offence had been incorporated in the criminal code, so that attorney-generals of the provinces were responsible for the prosecution of any such offences coming to their knowledge. (Premier Duplessis is also attorney-general of Quebec.)

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Braley of Otonabee, were guests on Sunday of her sister, Mrs. Harry Campbell.

Mr. Ernest Anderson, Mary and Dorothy, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Willen were guests at the tea hour of Mr. and Mrs. Alf Jackson on Monday.

In the absence of Aylmer Dawson, lineman for the Rural Telephone Co., Wilbert Jewison was called to repair a break in the wire caused by Sunday night's ice storm. Mr. Jewison is a veteran of the Bell Telephone Co. of Toronto, having served in that capacity for over 30 years.

Audrey Beebe, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Beebe, is seriously ill in Nicholls Hospital.

Mr. Fred Patton was taken suddenly ill Sunday evening and rushed to Nicholls Hospital, where he is under observation. At time of writing the trouble is not known.

Mrs. Fred Wood, a visitor at the home of Douglas Fisher, had the misfortune to fall on the icy walk Monday, dislocating her shoulder. Dr. Wright of Millbrook, was called and attended to her injuries, which are of a painful nature.

Cavan C.G.I.T. Holds Basket Social

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, Feb. 22—A basket social, sponsored by the local Canadian Girls in Training, drew a crowd of around sixty person to the basement of the United church on Friday evening.

Mr. R. A. Sutton was chairman for an excellent program, which included: A mouth organ solo by Ed. Healey; song by Bernice and Mary Richards, Norma and Jean Gillis; song by Ernest Boyle; minuet in costume by Elaine Argue, Nan Fallis, Mary Richards and Jean Gillis; Mouth Organ solo by Ernest Boyle; song by Fraser Carr, with guitar accompaniment by his brother, Rex; recitation in costume of "The Man Behind the Plough," by Mr. W. White; song by George Flannigan; piano duet by Jean and Joyce Trumpour; vocal duet by Beatrice and Nan Fallis; and a vocal solo by John Tinney.

After the program fourteen baskets went up for sale with Mr. Lloyd Sutton as the competent auctioneer. Prices ranged up to $1.25 and averaged $1.00.

The girls sold lunch to those who had no baskets, realizing in all over $17 for the evening.

Service was withdrawn in Cavan United church on Sunday evening, owing to the illness of the pastor, Rev. J. R. Trumpour.

The next meeting of the C.G.I.T. will be held next Friday evening

Back Up France's Seizure

A new crisis in Africa was feared precipitated by the French seizure of a 12-mile strip of land north of Djibouti, French Somaliland. The territory, which had been ceded to Italy in 1935, but never occupied, commands a vital Red Sea outlet. France claims that Italy forfeited all rights to it by not occupying it, and to further strengthen their claim, marched Colonial troops into the disputed area.

Guam Fortifying Seen Likely To Be Approved

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP).—Advocates of a projected United States seaplane base on the island of Guam predicted today the controversial proposal would win approval of the House of Representatives, but they conceded the vote would be close.

Chairman Vinson (Dem-Georgia) of the naval committee, who told the house yesterday that the strategic position of the island in the western Pacific "makes it of inestimable value as a possible defence base," expressed confidence that the project would be approved.

The $5,000,000 project is contained in a $53,800,000 measure providing for naval air base construction along the United States west coast and on Pacific islands.

It was not the expenditure of $5,000,000, however, but the possible effect of Guam improvements on foreign policy in the Orient that occasioned yesterday the most heated debate yet aroused directly by President Roosevelt's $552,000,000 defence program, Party lines were split as both democrats and republicans in the house upheld and attacked the proposal.

Dagger at Japs' Throat

Representative Fish (Rep-New York) asserted there was "no more dangerous project that could come before the house in these days of war hysteria."

"If we were ever looking for war this is the way to get it," he said. "It's a dagger at the throat of Japan."

Guam is 5,400 miles from San Francisco and in an area of the Pacific now dominated by islands under mandate to Japan.

Vinson took pains to point out that the navy has no intention to fortify Guam at this time, but said that should it evenually be fortified, it "would act as a strong deterrent to any Asiatic power contemplating a hostile move toward the Hawaiian islands or the American continent."

10 Deer Carcasses Found In Bruton

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Feb. 23—Wolves in North Hastings and Haliburton Counties, are this winter taking a heavy toll on the deer population. The deer, hampered by the heavy snow, which averages two to three feet, are kept penned up, and are unable to escape from the roving packs. A recent survey revealed that within a small radius in the township of Bruton, ten deer carcasses were discovered, partly devoured.

Lumbering Easing

Lumbering operations in the vicinity of Millbrodge are not sufficient to keep even the local men employed, Henry Deline, resident of that district, stated. "Work is falling away quickly, and men are being laid off rather than being taken on," advised Deline.

However, the township of Effingham, the Sawyer-Stoll Lumber Co., Ltd., are carrying on extensive operations, and taking out one of the largest cuts of the district this winter; while west of Bancroft, the Standard Chemical Company, in the township of Bruton, is carrying on large operations.

A New Slant

Quick thinking on the part of two Indian lads, whose sleigh broke while they were taking a load of hay from the reservation to another part of the community, resulted in their extrication from an awkward situation, as well as expediting the delivery of the hay.

While crossing the highway, the reach on the sleigh broke, and the load of hay settled down in the road on the sleigh rack. Nothing daunted the youngsters, who promptly hitched the team to the rack itself and finished the journey with the boards of the rack providing excellent "runners" for the impromptu sleigh.

LONDON-CAPE RECORD

Japs Shape Call For Bigger Share Of Rule In Shanghai Settlement

TOKYO, Feb. 23 (AP).—Japan is preparing her own plan for policing the international settlement in Shanghai because of increasing anti-Japanese terrorism, the Foreign Office spokesman indicated today.

The spokesman said Cabinet leaders had conferred about a new police plan and some political sources believed demands would be presented to the Shanghai municipal council in the form of an ultimatum. The settlement now is administered by the council, which is elected annually under the supervision of the foreign consular body.

The Shanghai situation became acute with the assassination yesterday of Li Kuo-Chieh, better known as Marquis Li, grandson of Li Hung-Chang, famous Chinese statesman of the 19th century. Li, said to have been associated with the Japanese-sponsored Nanking reformed government, was killed in the settlement.

His was the 53rd political assassination in the past 15 months, although not all have been in the settlement. Itsuki Saito, adviser to the naval authorities in Shanghai, left Tokyo to return to his job today with the declaration that the "settlement is a hot-bed of anti-Japanese terrorist elements and the question must be settled once and for all this time."

Seizure An Easy Job.

Some believed he carried a government ultimatum. (Foreign observers in Shanghai doubted that Japanese forcibly would occupy the settlement but conceded they likely could do so without encountering resistance from the comparatively small foreign defence forces. Major-General A. E. Grasett, formerly of Toronto, is in command of the British troops in China, of which there are 1,400 in Shanghai.

Presumably for conferences on what should be done, Morito Morishima, counsellor to the Japanese Embassy in Shanghai, was reported en route here by plane. The Foreign Office spokesman said Yoshiaki Miura, Consul-General in Shanghai, protested immediately after the killing of Marquis Li.

A formal statement was expected to detail Japanese demands for greater police and administrative powers not only in the settlement, the home of British, American and other foreigners, but in the French concession which is governed by the French Consul-General with the assistance of an advisory board.

Little was known here of the other incident involving Japan with third powers—the bombing of the Lowu railroad station just within the boundaries of the British Crown colony of Hong Kong, in which nine persons were killed. An officer at the British Embassy said the Japanese made a "local explanation" of the Hong Kong bombing, declaring it was the result of a misunderstanding.

TWO HOLD-UP MEN GIVEN PRISON TERMS

Brothers Held As Murderers Of Jimmy Windsor; "Framed" Shouts Elder

Cadi Ignores Lawyer's News Story Protest In Room Filled With Detectives; $2,000 Reward Still Stands Unclaimed

TORONTO, Feb. 24 (CP).—Mickey McDonald, 30, and his 19-year-old brother, Alex., were remanded a week for preliminary hearing when they appeared in police court here today on charges of murder, laid in connection with the shooting of James Windsor, Toronto bookmaker, last January 7.

The men appeared briefly before Magistrate R. J. Browne who disregarded an ejaculation by Mickey McDonald: "We are being framed."

The brothers were arrested yesterday in the first break in the case since Windsor, 47, was shot to death in his North Toronto home early in the year.

The remand proceedings were as brief as court machinery permits. As the two were brought into court the room seemed to suddenly fill with detectives.

Regan After Reporter.

Young McDonald, a slim, white-faced youth, looked quietly at his defence counsel, Frank Regan, who was insisting on his rights to bring to the attention of the court an article which, he said, appeared in a morning (The Globe and Mail) newspaper:

"I want the reporter who wrote this article brought into court for contempt of court," said Mr. Regan.

"Why are you reading from The Globe and Mail here?" asked Magistrate Browne. "I am not interested in what appeared in the paper."

The still of the courtroom was broken by the elder McDonald's outburst. Mr. Regan again attempted to say what he had to say about the article.

"I am not interested in what appeared in The Globe and Mail," His Worship reiterated.

"No," burst out Mickey McDonald again. "No. You can't get justice here."

The expression of the younger brother, whose debonair demeanor was so marked on other occasions, did not change as his brother's husky voice shouted to the court.

One in Brampton.

Isidore Levinter told the court that Alexander McDonald was scheduled to appear in court at Brampton this afternoon.

"He was committed for trial last Monday. He had elected trial by jury, but it has been arranged with Crown Attorney Davis for him to appear and change his plea. I trust

Franco Grooming Spain To Grab Place In The Sun

BURGOS, Spain, Feb. 24 (AP).—General Franco, looking beyond the Spanish civil war, plans to wield a powerful army, navy and air force to maintain a "place in the sun" and to become a strong power in the Mediterranean.

The Nationalist leader already has warned other countries that Spain must be taken into consideration in any settlement of Mediterranean issues.

(This has been of major concern to Great Britain and France which hope to curtail Italian-German influence in Spain. France is concerned particularly lest Italy, with German and Spanish backing after the war, press more strongly for concessions in the French African colonial empire. Britain and France fear a coalition which would dominate the Mediterranean, their colonial trade route).

Franco is expected to have an army of nearly 1,000,000 men ready for an emergency immediately after the civil war ends—and Franco takes it for granted the end will be soon and he will be victorious.

2 Years In The Field.

The army will be one of trained fighters who fought 2½ years with modern weapons. These thousands of fighters would be the nucleus of a vast armed force.

It is pointed out that Franco has not dug deeply into his man-power since no men over the age of 32 or under 18 were conscripted.

The ruler of nationalist Spain also has made clear he wants a strong navy to back up his recent declaration to the effect that Spain no longer would be a "pawn" in Mediterranean politics.

He plans to increase the strength of the now small navy which he reviewed at Tarragona on Wednesday.

He also has mustered an air force which may number nearly 1,000 planes by the end of the war.

Government Holds Yorkshire Riding

HARROGATE, England, Feb. 24.—(CP).—The Government to-day held the Ripon division of the west riding of Yorkshire in a by-election necessitated by the death of Major J. W. Hills.

The government's majority was cut from 21,688 in the 1935 general election to 13,044. Chirstopher York, Conservative, polled 23,257 votes against 10,213 for R. J. Hall, Labor. In 1935 Major Hills polled 30,804 against 9,116 for Mr. Hall.

The constituency is predominantly agricultural, and the appointment of a new Minister of Agriculture, Sir Reginald Dorman-Smith rallied farmers' support to the government.

The voting leaves only one vacancy in the House of Commons, Batley and Morley, caused by the death Jan. 21 of Willie Brooke, Labor. Voting in tihs constituency takes place March 9.

Ripon was the fifth successive by-election won by the government since the reverse it suffered in Bridgwater in November when Vernon Bartlett, critic of the government's foreign policy, was returned as an Independent.

Vote 100 Million On Raw Materials

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 — (AP)—The United States Senate Military Committee approved unanimously to-day a Bill by Senator Thomas (Dem-Utah) authorizing expenditure of $100,000,000 during the next four years for the acquisition of strategic raw materials, many of which must be imported, some from Canada.

Senator Thomas said a board, consisting of the Secretaries of War, Navy, Interior and State, would be authorized to designate the strategic materials and would be empowered to encourage the development of substitutes for them.

An authorization for a $500,000 expenditure during the next four years, $350,000 by the Bureau of Mines and $150,000 by the Geological Survey, also was included to finance the development of raw materials in the United States.

Although the measure was not included in the administration's rearmament program, Thomas said it was allied closely with it.

"World conditions make this Bill timely," Thomas said. Similar measures are pending in the House of Representatives.

Three types of materials to be assembled by the Government for use in case of war include those which are not found at all in the United States, others which are present in the country but not yet developed and a third type which are available in Canada but not here.

Hitler Puts Finger On Single Men, Women, New Tax To Take 55 p.c. Of Incomes

BERLIN, Feb. 24.—(AP).—Unmarried men and women in Germany were hit hard by a revision of the income tax levy, published to-day, enabling the government to take up to 55 per cent. of their taxable incomes. It increased the tax on bachelors and unmarried working women by 12½ per cent provided that the increase does not make their total tax payments exceed 55 per cent of income.

An official statement said that the revision was drafted to equalize certain tax rates "for the general benefit of all" and because of "the extraordinarily large financial needs of the Reich." How much revenue it would produce was not disclosed.

As an inducement to have children the law provides that childless couples married five years with an income exceeding 1,800 marks ($720) annually can be taxed up to 45 per cent. of their income.

Hungary Strikes Blow At Nazis Rounds Up 500

BUDAPEST, Feb. 24—(AP).—The government undertook today to smash the Hungarists, the leading Nazi party of Hungary and at the same time formally joined Germany, Italy and Japan in their accord against international communism.

The anti-comintern pact was signed by foreign minister Stephen Csaky at a foreign office ceremony. German minister Otto Von Erdmannsdorff, Japanese minister Hajima Matsumiya and Italian charge d'affaires Omero Formentini, were present.

The Hungarian Nazi party was banned as a public safety and party property confiscated.

In Budapest, 600 of the capital's force of 670 detectives took part in the nationwide raids. Party headquarters in Andrassy street were surrounded. Tons of Nazi literature were seized and taken to the political police bureau in 12 vans. Scores of Hungarists throughout the country were arrested as they resisted the campaign.

500 Arrests Made.

More than 500 persons had been arrested by early afternoon. Political police occupied a greystone apartment building in Andrassy Street, which had been the Nazi headquarters.

Detectives were studying the party's long membership lists. They found the names of many prominent citizens.

All over the country the Hungarian Nazi Party symbol—crossed arrows—was disappearing. Police were scraping the emblem from walls and billboards and merchants sympathetic to the Nazis were taking posters from their windows.

Man Carried Revolver Real Coward

One Gets 4 Years While The Other Six Months Less

Joseph Champagne, alias Lucien Champagne, alias Joe Cideau, alias Joseph Gaudreault, 33, of Winnipeg, Man., was sentenced to four years and Harold Peterson, alias Harold Patterson, alias Melville Cox, 29, of Shelburne, N.S., to three years and six months in Kingston Penitentiary by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning for the armed robbery of Wilbert H. Peel, local garageman, on the night of February 15.

Had Nothing To Say.

The two men, arrested at Manvers Station on the afternoon following the crime after a farmer had tipped off the police, had pleaded guilty to the charge a week ago, and this morning told Magistrate Langley that they had nothing to say.

"I am sympathetic toward men who are on the road these days," said Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C., in addressing the court, "but the possession of a revolver indicates a willingness to commit murder. When a revolver is used in committing a robbery it does not mean anything else than that the party using it is willing to commit murder. I am thankful that in this case there was no murder. Regard must be had for the protection of the public, and while the previous record of these men does not indicate that they are beyond hope of reform, the possession of the revolver throws a different light on the matter. I am not going to ask for the maximum sentence, but I certainly am not going to ask for a light one."

Proof Of Cowardice.

"For fear that some of my remarks might have been misunderstood," the Acting Crown Attorney added, "I just wish to say that the man who carries a revolver is the biggest coward of all."

Addressing Champagne first, Magistrate Langley said that it would be well for him to remember that the maximum sentence for the offence of which he was charged was life imprisonment and lashes. The reason for that severity, he said, was because of what was implied in the possession of a deadly instrument.

"The seriousness of that situation is that it shows intent to use the revolver if necessary," said the Magistrate. "I understand you put the gun right up to the man's body. No one but yourself can tell whether or not you would have pulled the trigger if he had shown fight."

"I would like to see that revolver," the prisoner interrupted.

"You can't see it," Magistrate Langley replied. "I understand it has not been found yet."

Liberal M.P. Advises Premier King Against Election During 1939

OTTAWA, Feb. 24 (CP). — Long days of debate are in prospect before the House of Commons puts its final approval on the new Canada-United States trade agreement but already some members are expressing impatience to get on with other business. Such expressions coming from independent groups and a little straight talking to the government from a Saskatchewan Liberal featured the treaty debate yesterday.

The outspoken one was Dr. Harry Fleming (Lib., Humboldt) who admitted he did not want an election in 1939 and strongly advised the Prime Minister against an early appeal to the electorate for which he could see neither "rhyme nor reason."

Moreover, in Dr. Fleming's opinion, the government had some work to do before an election. It should smash the international combines which, he said, were holding up farm implement and gasoline prices. If action was not taken to reduce these prices and bring to the people some of the abundance Canada could produce there would be a revolt when the government goes to the country.

"The Minister of Agriculture has told us there were international combines and we should smash them," he said.

Revolt In The West?

"I say to the Liberal Government sitting here for the fourth session of this parliament that if they do not do something for the people of Western Canada by reducing the prices of farm implements and gasoline, and increasing the prices of primary products, there will be

Quits Chair Nick of Time As Stove Blows Up Piece Of Iron Pierces It

Dundas, Ont., Feb. 24 (CP)

DOUGLAS CHANTER decided to move from the chair he was sitting in just in time last night. A few seconds after he vacated the chair, a coal range in his kitchen exploded and a piece of iron was blown through the door into the dining room and through the back of the chair where Chanter had been sitting.

Chanter's daughter, Eva, who was in the kitchen, was cut by the flying debris.

7 Million Trout For Ontario

TORONTO, Feb. 24 — (CP). — Izaak Waltons of Ontario will have 7,000,000 more speckled trout to angle for this year and next in the lakes and streams of the province, in addition to the 1,000,000 bass stocked annually, D. J. Taylor, Deputy-Minister of Game and Fisheries, said last night in an address before the Toronto Anglers' Association.

He said the Department is making every effort to keep pace with the ever-growing army of anglers and doing its best to perpetuate fishing in the province.

Hepburn In Fighting Trim As He Arrives Home; Hops Howe, Rogers First

Drops 16 Pounds, Cuts Blood Pressure By 60 So Won't Retire For The Present; Holds Conversion Alone Can Save Canada

TORONTO, Feb. 24 (CP).—Premier Hepburn returned to Ontario today, rested and refreshed by a two-months' trip to Australia, announced he was not contemplating retirement "for the present," and promptly renewed a dispute with Dominion Government Ministers where it was left off when he left on his holiday trip late last year.

The Premier also said he had returned home with a "trunkful" of ideas gleaned during his stay in the Commonwealth, among which was a strengthened conviction that public-debt conversion is the "only thing" to save Canada from economic bankruptcy. His proposals for Canada's economic betterment wil lbe discussed with his Cabinet before being made public.

After Howe and Rogers.

One of Mr. Hepburn's first actions on his arrival in Toronto was to telegraph Hon. Norman Rogers, Federal Minister of Labor, and Transport Minister Howe repeating his demand expressed before his departure for Australia for substantiation or retraction of their charges that he and Premier Duplessis of Quebec conspired against Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

To a secretary who met him at the train, Mr. Hepburn snapped:

"Answer yet from Rogers or Howe? No? Then I'll wire them at once."

He expressed annoyance with what he indicated was overemphasis on the state of his health and reports of his imminent retirement from politics. It was the need of a rest that compelled the premier to make the trip to Australia to investigate economic conditions in that Dominion.

Blood Pressure Down 60.

"I feel rested," said Mr. Hepburn. "I have reduced my weight by 16 pounds as the doctors ordered and my blood pressure has been reduced to 190. (It was 250 when he left just before the end of 1938.) I am certainly not contemplating retirement at present and I shall lead the House through the coming session."

Asked whether he would lead the Liberal party in the next general election, due in 1942 or 1943, the premier said "that remains for decision in the future."

Judged in the light of his association with "courageous leaders" in Australia, Mr. Hepburn said Can-

McCall Goes To Chair For Fatal Kidnapping

RAIFORD, Fla., Feb. 24 — (AP).—Franklin Pierce McCall was put to death in the electric chair to-day for the fatal kidnapping of five-year-old James Bailey Cash, Jr., at Princeton, Fla., last May.

Admitting in open court that he alone stole "Skeegie" and collected $10,000 ransom from the father, McCall insisted he did not want to harm his victim and had smothered him accidentally.

The execution first was set for last Monday. Seventy minutes before the scheduled hour, L. F. Chapman, state prison farm superintendent, announced a delay until today.

The delay was given to permit McCall's attorneys to seek a stay through the United States Supreme Court. They were turned down by two Justices in Washington late yesterday.

McCall's pretty young wife visited him this morning.

Fight Refunding Road Debt In Thirty Years

TORONTO, Feb. 24.—(CP).—Ontario's Department of Highways has taken into consideration the permanent features of its work in estimating the ultimate cost to the public, Highways Minister T. B. McQuesten said last night at the annual banquet of the Ontario Good Roads Association.

After praising the report of the Chevrier Royal Commission on Transport, the Minister took exception to certain of its findings and recommendations—one of them an opinion that a fund should be set up to retire the province's highway debt in 30 years.

A large part of the expenditure on highways represents permanent value, Mr. McQuesten said. In the north grading, which was permanent, represented 75 to 90 per cent of the cost of road-building. In the south the modern dual highway included not less than 50 to 60 per cent of its finished cost for grading alone.

"These proportions in both cases are absolutely indestructible and should be amortized," Mr. McQuesten declared. The same factor of permanence entered into the province's investment in other public works, he said.

Mr. McQuesten and Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative party leader, were guest speakers at the banquet.

Without direct reference to the Chevrier Commission report, handed down last month, Col. Drew dealt with points with which the Commission was concerned when he debated the advisability of restricting any form of transportation.

Beery, Second Wife Seeking Divorce

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Feb. 24—(AP). — After being wed nearly 15 years, Wallace Beery and his second wife, the former Arleta Gillman, have agreed upon an "amicable" divorce, the actor said to-day. He added Mrs. Beery will leave, probably next Monday, for Reno.

"We aren't hiring a lawyer," said Beery. "We have agreed that our daughter Carol Ann will spend six months of the year with each of us."

Beery's first wife was Gloria Swanson. They were married in 1916 and divorced two years later.

Marriage to Miss Gillman, whose home was in Astoria, Ore., followed their appearance together in a silent picture, "The Sea Hawk." They adopted Carol Ann, a daughter of Beery's late aunt in 1932.

Nazi Reserves Called, War Goods, Guns Move To Italy Plants Make Tropic Uniforms, Fliers Study Africa

MANCHESTER, England, Feb. 24—(CP-Havas).—The diplomatic correspondent of the Manchester Guardian (Liberal), commenting on a denial that Germany is mobilizing, today said that while there has been no general mobilization, abnormally large numbers of reservists have been called to the colors and that if this continues what will amount to general mobilization will have occurred within a month.

"A considerable number of German troops have been dispatched to Italian possessions in Africa," the article continued. "Consignments of German war material are being sent to Italy the whole time, with Genoa as their destination.

"From there they are presumably forwarded to Libya. Four large consignments of German heavy artillery were sent to Italy during a period of 10 days recently.

"Uniforms and equipment for the tropics are being made in great quantities. A German engineering firm is producing barracks in sections. These too are bein sent to Genoa. Maps of Kenya, Tanganyika and Abyssinia (Ethiopia) are being prepared for German corps and divisional staffs. Most of these maps are for the use of airmen.

"Generally speaking the German military preparations as a whole—whether overseas or for service in Europe—indicate that the possibility of armed action on a big scale is reckoned with in Berlin."

BERLIN, Feb. 24 — (AP). — Chancellor Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter, under the headline "War Tunes From England," today said a speech by Viscount Halifax in the House of Lords yesterday apparently was designed to answer new French requests for an expression of British policy.

Discussing the foreign secretary's assertion that there is no war party in Great Britain and no statesmen who want war, the newspaper declared:—

"The foreign secretary, however, will recall that no lesser person than Prime Minister Chamberlain himself repeatedly has branded the activities of war agitators. This sudden weakness of memory is surprising."

PARIS, Feb. 24 — (AP). — The permanent national defence committee, composed of the nation's highest military, naval and aviation officials, studied France's preparedness at home and in the colonies today.

Reports from Tunisia, French North African protectorate bordering on Italian Libya, meanwhile said precautionary measures were continuing there, including the arrest of 15 Italians in the last few days. The director of a hotel alleged to be the meeting place of Italian agents was said to be among those arrested. Reinforcements have continued to move in the last few days into the southern Tunisian defence zones, reports said.

Cliff Dwellers Now Says Judge, Squabbles Taboo

Seattle, Feb. 24 (AP)

POLICE JUDGE James Devin fined a woman $25 for disorderly conduct following a family row, then explained:

"In olden days it was all right for a man and wife to hold a family squabble. They lived on several acres and the nearest neighbor couldn't hear them. Times have changed. We have become cliff dwellers and often dozens of people are disturbed when a husband and wife squabble."

3 Spies Executed

BERLIN, Feb. 24—(AP).—Three men were executed at dawn to-day as traitors, convicted of spying for an unidentified foreign state. The simple announcement of the execution did not say whether the axe or guillotine was used.

It said the three, Adolph Erbrich, 34; Bruno Labisch, 24, and William Mroczek, 36, made connections with the intelligence service of a foreign state and "conducted continuous espionage in favor of this country."

Meaford Bread War Has Prices Down To 5 Cents

Meaford, Ont., Feb. 24 (CP)

MEAFORD BAKERS sat back and watched today while two stores continued an individual bread war that has lowered their prices for a two-pound loaf to five cents. The Standard, nine-cent price still prevails elsewhere.

The fight started when one store cut the price to seven cents and then to six. Then the other store dropped the price to five cents and promised to give it away to prevent underselling by a competitor. Today the other store lowered its price to five cents too.

J. J. Duffus Reported Improving Steadily

MONTREAL, Feb. 24—(CP).—J. J. Duffus, Liberal member of the House of Commons for Peterborough West, who underwent an operation for a brain tumor on Wednesday, was reported "improving steadily" today.

Authorities at the Montreal neurological institute, where the operation was held, said that Mr. Duffus' condition was "good" although it was expected he would still be on the sick list for many days.

Hepburn Health Numbers Days In Politics

TORONTO, Feb. 24.—(CP)—In a despatch from Chicago by a staff writer, the Globe and Mail says today that Premier Hepburn's health "will not permit him to continue much longer in politics."

Mr. Hepburn arrived at Chicago yesterday on his return trip from Australia, where, with provincial government aides, he studied financial and economic conditions. He was accompanied by Hon. Colin Campbell, minister of public works; Chester S. Walters, controller of finances, and Roy Elmhurst, the premier's private secretary.

"The premier will lead the government through the next legislature session starting March 7, because he is reluctant to leave his colleagues at such a time," the newspaper's despatch says.

"I don't know about the future," it quotes Mr. Hepburn as saying. "No, I won't say anything definite about retiring from politics, but my health is not what it should be. And any action I take with regard to the future will be based purely on health consideratons."

Still Far From Well

The despatch continues: "The trip across the Pacific Ocean to Australia and New Zealand was a rest cure for Mr. Hepburn, but it did little to alter the concrete fact that he is not a well man. After six days of rest on the return journey, his blood pressure was 190. Shortly before leaving Queen's Park on the Australian trip his blood pressure was 230 and had he not received quick medical attention his heart would have yielded to the strain.

"The premier's weight has come down from 190 to 175."

"But appearances are deceptive," the despatch continues, quoting Premier Hepburn as saying: "My bronchial trouble will probably start up all over again."

The premier brought with him a trunkful of data dealing with economic and financial policies in Australia, the paper continues, but declined "either to deny or affirm that some of the results of the observations 'down under' may be translated into legislative action in Ontario."

"One thing is sure," the premier told the writer, "Australia has taken courageous action to solve its problems and today the country is going ahead. For years I have been advocating a debt conversion plan in Canada, but my pleas fell on deaf ears at Ottawa. But the Commonwealth government took action. As far as debt conversion is applicable to the states and the commonwealth, it has been an unqualified success. A conversion scheme should be sponsored in Canada by the Bank of Canada following consultation with the provinces and the Dominion government."

Just Sitting Waiting

Comparing Australian and Canadian methods, Mr. Hepburn is quoted as saying: "We have been sitting idly by, taking no steps to remedy our condition. I am more firmly convinced than ever that we will never solve our problems until the dominion government gives the type of progressive, enlightened leadership that has been given in Australia.

"Control of credit and finance is what is needed. Their relief problem is nothing compared to ours. As a matter of fact we did not see a single panhandler during our entire stay."

Turning to a contrast in laws, Mr. Hepburn was quoted: "We passed a resolution favoring sweepstakes, but the dominion paid no attention to it. In Australia they realize that nothing will eradicate the gambling spirit from human beings, and so they have legalized sweepstakes and in so doing derive substantial benefit from it."

Stay Sober

JACKSON, Mich., Feb. 24.—(CP).—Mrs. Mary Skuse celebrated her 98th birthday here to-day and revealed her secret for longevity. "Stay sober if you want to live long," she told a reporter. "But I guess a reporter wouldn't be interested in that kind of advice," she added sternly.

Hines Charges Trial Frameup

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Five weeks of charge and counter-charge in the second policy racket conspiracy trial of James Hines, veteran Tammany district leader, moved to a climax today with District Attorney Thomas Dewey seeking in final argument to refute defence claims of "frame-up."

Dewey had the entire day for his closing contentions, with the expectation that the politically-important case probably would reach the jury Saturday.

Last arguments in defence of Hines were made yesterday by Lloyd Stryker, defence counsel, in a five-hour speech marked by an attack on Dewey and by the claim of "frame-up".

Stryker finished his appeal for acquittal of Hines with tears in his eyes, after denouncing the three principal witnesses against the Tammany politican—J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, the late George (Bo) Weinberg and "Big Harry" Schoenhaus—as "beady-eyed rats."

Weinberg, who killed himself before he could repeat his testimony at the first trial, was characterized by Stryker as "that crooked, dirty, lying, professional perjurer and convict."

Stryker pointed out that Weinburg and Davis, who had acted as attorney for the Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Flegenheimer lottery, had been placed in a cell together.

"They got a chance to sit in that cell and make their plan, to conspire to harm a good American citizen and to help an ambitious young district attorney," Stryker argued.

Duffus' Condition Reported "Good"

MONTREAL, Feb. 24.—(CP).—Condition of J. J. Duffus, Liberal Member of the House of Commons for Peterborough West, operated upon for a brain tumor Wednesday at the Montreal Neurogolical Institute, was pronounced as "good" last night by Dr. Wilder Penfield.

Dr. Penfield, neurologist who performed the delicate operation to remove a tumor that threatened Mr. Duffus' sight, said that the Member of Parliament had passed a 'fairly comfortable" day.

BUILD ELEVENTH NEST

After patiently rebuilding ten nests which a housewife tore down, a pair af swallows are now "at home" in their eleventh nest on the original site, a post beside the front door of a house in Cyferkull, South Africa.

Stick To Cheese Farmers Urged

TORONTO, Feb. 24. — (CP) — Critical references to articles published in Toronto on behalf of the Leadership League were made in an address last night by Hon. James G. Gardiner, Dominion Agriculture minister, in which he also advised Ontario farmers to brush up on their production methods.

Mr. Gardiner spoke at a banquet of the Ontario Association of agricultural societies and urged farmers to improve production of cheese, hogs and cattle so they might gain a larger share in the British market. He devoted a section of his speech to a defence of governmental expenditures through his department and said he was prompted to do so because of the Leadership League articles.

As to agricultural production, Mr. Gardiner deprecated the swing from cheese to butter. In -900 Canada produced more cheese for export than at present. The drop was sharp since 1935.

"In spite of the fact that butter may go up in price, stay with cheese because there is a better permanent market for it in Britain," he urged dairymen, adding care should be taken in the product's appearance and quality.

The minister also reported a market for 100,000 dairy cattle annually in the United Kingdom if Canada could supply them; something she can't do now. He said cattle raised in the west and shipped to Ontario for finishing could command top price in Britain.

He found it unfortunate that with grain plentiful the quality of export hogs was deteriorating. He believed too much grain was being fed too few hogs and they were getting too fat. The British market, he added, doesn't want fat hogs."

Euchre Attracts Large Gathering

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 24—One of the largest crowds to date attended the euchre party held on Wednesday evening under auspices of L.O.L. 526. The committee in charge included Messrs. Arthur Redden, James Gaucher and Clarence Nicholos. At the conclusion of the evening delightful refreshments were served. Prize winners were Mrs. John Ackerman and Mr. Robert McGregor, both of whom received woollen blankets. Mrs. Ernie Haig won the special door prize.

Five Injured Sailors Taken Off Steamer

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 24—(AP)—Word of an accident aboard the British Wellington Court, somewhere off the coast of lower California, was flashed here by wireless today from the Panama Pacific liner, City of San Francisco.

Have returned 40 miles off course to contact steamer Wellington Court and remove five badly injured seamen. Will arrive Acapulco (Mexico) Thursday, 10 p.m." Other details were not disclosed.

The City of San Francico left here Saturday, New York bound. The Wellington Court is en route from Barry, England, to Vancouver, B.C. It is owned by the Court Line, Ltd., of London.

stern in dealing with serious offences, Magistrate Langley said that the prisoners had been convicted in a number of previous cases and they did not seem to have reformed.

Records Useful.

"In regard to records," said the court, "it is true that men who have been previously convicted have paid the price for their offences but it is an advantage that all the facts in the case should be known to the tribunal which has to pass sentence. When I consider a man's record I am not punishing him for that record but am using it because it enables me to judge better the kind of man I am sentencing."

"I am going to make your sentence a little longer," he told Champagne, "because you held the revolver. Technically Peterson is just as guilty in law as you are, however."

Magistrate Langley then sentenced Champagne to four years and informing Peterson that what he had said to his companion also applied to the younger prisoner he sentenced the latter to three years and six months in the penitentiary.

Many Convictions.

Champagne's record as produced was as follows:

1922—Dec. 12, at Montreal, theft of an automobile, three months as Lucien Champagne.

1929—July 16, at Ottawa, Ont., breaking and entering and theft. Six months definite and 18 months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph as Joe Cideau.

1930—April, paroled by the Ontario Parole Board and August reported as a parole violator.

1936—August, at Sudbury, Ont., convicted of possession of stolen goods and sentenced as Joseph Gaudreaut to two months in jail.

1937—May, at Dauphin, Man., theft of money, three months in jail.

Peterson's record was given as follows:

1929—April 22, Halifax, N.S., three months, trespassing on the C.N.R., 30 days, as Harold Patterson, sentences to run concurrently. 1929, Dec. 9, Halifax, theft of money, three months at Harold Patterson.

1930—Pictou, N.S., breaking and entering and theft, two years in Dorchester Penitentiary, as Harold Patterson.

1933—May, in Halifax, N.S., vagrancy, two months as Harold Patterson.

1934—Dec. 20, at Bracebridge, Ont., theft of $6.75, three months in jail as Melville Cox.

1937—November 15, Kentville, N. S., theft of money dismissed, theft of overcoat, two months in jail, as Harold Peterson.

The court room was crowded for the proceedings this morning and probably the two most unconcerned persons in the room were the two prisoners, who accepted their sentences without the least sign of emotion.

facilities can be arranged for him to reappear?"

"You will have to take that up with the Crown Attorney here," said Magistrate Browne.

The hearing to-day was transferred from the courtroom in which it originally was scheduled to be held and as a result many would-be spectators were disappointed. Mrs. Margaret (Kittycat) McDonald, wife of the older brother, was among those who were waiting in the wrong courtroom.

Reward Still Stands.

Meanwhile Mayor Ralph Day announced that reward of $2,000 in the case still stands. Speaking in his capacity as chairman of the Board of Police Commissioners, the mayor said that as far as he knew no application had been made for the reward following yesterday's arrests.

The reward is made up of $500 each from the city and the police board, and $1,000 from the province.

Windsor died a few minutes after four men invaded his home. One of the four shot him in the presence of five witnesses. As he slumped to the floor with a .45-calibre revolver bullet in his body ,the men kicked him and stripped him of jewelry worth $2,500.

Alexander McDonald was in custody at Brampton, charged with armed robbery of a Port Credit bank, when the murder charge was laid. His brother was awaiting transfer to Kingston Penitentiary to serve a two-year term for assault and robbery.

Want Three Others.

Today police sought two known criminals, suspects whose names have been connected with the case in stories told to investigators through prison bars and at hangouts of Toronto's gangster element. The round-up won't be complete even if these two are arrested, for authorities also want a man said to have received the jewelry taken from Windsor as he lay dying. The receiver is understood to have left town.

Toronto's first gangland killing, prompted an international manhunt that spread quickly to Detroit and Buffalo in the belief the killer might have been "imported." No possible claimants have been mentioned for the $2,000 reward posted by the city, the province and the Toronto police commission.

It was known the McDonalds had been questioned last week and placed in line-ups that were paraded before Windsor's family. Witnesses to the killing were Windsor's two sisters, their husbands and Lorraine Brqnell, friend of the slain man.

A scant clue was understood to have been provided in discovery of a broken .45 calibre revolver last week.

Marketing Costs Too High Cry Of Farmers

TORONTO, Feb. 24. — (CP).—There is a general feeling on the part of farmers to-day that marketing costs should be lowered and wider markets sought, according to George Wilson, director of the co-operation and marketing branch of the Ontario Agricultural Department.

Before the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies yesterday, Mr. Wilson said that governments had come to realize that quality production must be maintained and rigid grading and inspection ensured. New uses of agricultural products should be advanced through aggressive advertising and research work.

No solution for marketing problems would be obtained through blaming chain stores, wholesalers, truckster, transportation companies and middlemen. Producers must solve the problems as a united body if they wished for success, he said.

Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Agriculture Minister, told the Association last night that the government would not stand for "racketeering" at provincial fall fairs.

"Some of you did not heed the warning last year," he said. "There will be no grants to fairs that allow gambling and indecent and objectionable shows. Our fairs should not be circuses or side shows."

Dr. A. E. Berry of the Ontario Health Department, said that "fall fall sanitation is not all it should be on some fair grounds." He said that 16 cases of typhoid fever three or four years ago were traced directly to water on fair grounds.

Lillian Rutherford, Bolton, told the women's section of the Association that more girls are competing each year in food exhibits at fall fairs and even experienced exhibitors look to them for latest ideas. She explained that the girl exhibitors become proficient through short courses and project work.

U.S. Dancer Makes Hit With Adolf Hitler

CANNES, France, Feb. 24—(AP)—Marion Daniels, 20-year-old California dancer, says you can take it from Adolf Hitler she has "marvellous flexes." Miss Daniels came here today from Munich, Germany, where Tuesday she performed before Hitler.

"He spoke to me in German and I don't know what the word for it is," said the acrobatic dancer, "but a translator said he said I had marvelous movements of body and legs and I guess that meant flexes."

"When I had finished dancing I saw Hitler and his staff applauding hard," she said. "After the show we went to the Kuenstlerhaus (an art club). He was at the next table and said some very nice things to me in German—at least they sounded nice after they were interpreted."

The results of the economic program in Australia were a "revelation' 'to the premier, who said he probably would submit to the Legislature at the coming session a resolution urging the Dominion Government to adopt economic measures similar to those employed in Australia.

New Impetus for Business

It is the only thing to save us and the general public must be educated to the realization that they must accept a lower interest rate on government bonds," he said. "They must realize that with the reduction of interest rates on government borrowings, general interest rates would go lower and business would receive new impetus."

Any plan of debt conversion must be national in scope as the provinces "could accomplish nothing independently."

"Australia was going ahead because it has "courageous leadership." Australians "see the obvious and do what is necessary without regard for the political consequences."

The premier will go to his farm home near St. Thomas tomorrow, returning to Queen's Park Monday. He has called a meeting of the cabinet for Tuesday and he said he expected it would sit several days in succession preparing the Legislative program for the session opening March 8.

OBITUARY

Market Review

TORONTO, Feb. 24 (CP)—Further progress was made along the recovery road today by the Toronto stock market and all indices were showing gains at the close. Gold and western oil issues were prominent in the action and aggregate turnover for the day was around a half million shares, the best of the week.

Gains were showing for all index groups by noon and, although the trading tempo slackened in the early afternoon the price structure was not impaired.

Home Oil traded in heavy volume and advanced 10 to 15 cents while the tone was stronger for Calgary-Edmonton, Okalta, Davies, Model and others.

Teck Hughes, Hard Rock, East Malartic, Preston and other secondary golds were strong.

Food, steel, utility and liquor stocks advanced.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24—(AP).—Quiet rallying tendencies prevailed in today's stock market.

While trading was a bit livelier than in yesterday's proceedings, it could hardly be called fast. Early gains running to a point or so were chipped down by profit taking in the forenoon, but the list came back afterward and, near the final hour, advances ranged from fractions to 2. Transfers were about 700,000 shares.

An enjoyable Minstrel Show was presented Monday and Tuesday evening in the Sacred Heart Hall by the Sacred Heart boy scouts. Taking part in the show were Bill McKenzie (interlocutor), Gerald Grady, Jack Baldwin, Tom McCarthy, Donald Corrin, Bud Hallahan and Nelson Marsden (minstrels). The boys, with coal black faces, and wearing flashy minstrel costumes, gave a very talented performance. James Goselin tapped through two tricky dance routines; Don Corrin, Bernard Rose and Don DeNoble added much to the success of the show when they played selections on their washboard band. Miss Margaret McCarthy was at the piano. Refreshments were served to the cast after the show on Tuesday evening by the women of the club.

New Daughters-in-Law Have To Possess a Great Deal Of Tact If They Want To Keep Happiness Uppermost In Their Homes.

WHY are mothers-in-law and daughters-in-law so often secret enemies instead of the loving friends they should be? A group of women were discussing this question the other day and one of them said:

"I'll tell you. It is because mothers nearly always resent their sons' wives. They don't want 'em at any price. Now, when I married Bill, I was so much in love with him that my affection overflowed over all his family, and particularly submerged his mother. I idealized and glorified her. I was on my knees with gratitude to her for all the suffering and labor she had gone through in rearing for me my priceless husband.

"I felt that she had given me the supreme gift and I was filled with righteous indignation at the way the comic strips and the stage and the jokesmiths caricatured mothers-in-law and held them up for ribald mirth. And I wondered how any one could laugh at the stale mother-in-law joke. Afterward I knew that it is certainly funny because it is eternally true.

"So filled with the determination to be a daughter to my mother-in-law, imagine the shock I got when I found out that she was not adopting any more daughters and that she looked upon me not as an addition to the family circle, but as a scheming adventuress who had somehow broken into the fold and stolen its prize lamb. Never shall I forget her first kiss. Bur-r-r! There were icicles on it that still make me shiver.

"And then slowly the knowledge was borne in on me that it wasn't me individually that she resented. It was any woman. She didn't want Bill to marry. She wanted to keep him for herself. She couldn't bear the thought of not being first with him. She was filled with that terrible mother jealousy that is the cruellst and most devastating passion on earth.

"And I made another discovery. That was that she didn't think that I was good enough for Bill; but inasmuch as I had inveigled him into marrying me in some moment of mental irresponsibility on his part, the least that I could do was to be his humble slave, fetch and carry for him, wait on him hand and foot. Her big idea seemed to be that I should spend my days over the cook stove preparing feasts for my lord and master. That I was to yes-yes him when he spoke and be filled with joy when he condescended to show me any attention or consideration.

"Furthermore, I found out that she had two codes of conduct. One for her own children and quite another for her in-laws. She thought that her sons-in-law should work hard to support their wives and provide them with every comfort. That Mary and Sally and Sue should have pretty clothes and belong to clubs and go to parties and enjoy themselves. But she wept with pity at poor Bill having to toil so hard to support his wife and thought it a crime for me to waste his money on a servant and new frocks and good times.

"Then, of course, she felt she had a right to boss me and run my house because I was just a chit of a girl and she was an experienced housekeper; because she 'couldn't endure seeing Bill's money being wasted, and Bill's stomach being ruined by a bride's cooking.' Maybe she was right at that, but most of us girls marry to get out from under our mothers' thumbs, so we don't take it kindly when Mother-in-Law puts the pressure on us.

"I can laugh now, but I shed many a bitter tear over my mother-in-law always telling me just how SHE always did things, and asking me how much everything cost and somehow outjockeying me in furnishing my house and filling it with big, heavy, clumsy furniture that would wear—worse luck—instead of the smart modern pieces I craved and had planned to buy.

"Well, she is a lady and so am I, so we didn't literally get in each other's hair or have words. On the contrary, we have always been terribly polite to each other. But we have kept our claws sharpened and given each other many a dig, when we might have loved each other and been good pals if only she hadn't made me feel such an unwelcome addition to the family circle—if only she had shown me a little of the affection and understanding she gives her own daughters.

"And it would have made Bill so much happier. When I think of the heartaches our undercover feud has given him I am filled with remorse and wish that I had taken my mother-in-law lying down, so to speak."

Successful Year Reported By I.O.D.E. Chapter

Mrs. R. E. Clarke, regent of the 57th Regiment Chapter, I.O.D.E., presided Thursday afternoon at the annual meeting of the Chapter, held in the officers' mess at the Armouries.

A concise report of the year's work was given by the secretary, and a splendid financial balance was shown in the report of the treasurer. Reports of a successful year were presented by various conveners: Mrs. C. E. Newman for education; Mrs. R. G. Cotterell for flowers; Mrs. W. H. Andrews for hospital, who reported 700 visits during the year. Eight new members were added to the membership list. Empire study was taken up by the Chapter, New Zealand being the country studied. Current events were given at the meetings. Donations were made to the Red Cross relief in China; the Well Babies' Clinic; the Humane Society; the Children's Shelter; the Red Cross for Northern fire sufferers; local Red Cross; Christmas Cheer fund; the Y.M.C.A.; the Endowment Fund, and the school in India.

An annual custom of the Chapter was followed again on the 22nd of May, when 225 soldiers' graves were decorated in Little Lake Cemetery, and 36 in St. Peter's Cemetery. Mrs. G. R. Melton was in charge. 40 members visited the Purity Bakeries on a tour of inspection in May; the Chapter presented the sergeants' mess with a picture of His Majesty King George VI. The presentation was made by Mrs. R. E. Clarke to Sergt.-Major Frape, the picture to be hung in the sergeants' mess. A lovely garden tea was held at the home of Mrs. H. Dodds in June; in July the members were entertained at the regent's summer home, Chemong. The Armistice Tea in November was well attended, and various other monthly bridges were held during the year. Books were purchased for the adopted school at Minden, as well as stationery for the pupils of the school to correspond with pupils in Australia. A wreath of poppies was placed on the monument on Remembrance Day by the members. The Chapter is now planning its anniversary tea, which will be held in the Officers' Mess on March 29.

The guest speaker, Mrs. C. M. Scott, was introduced by the regent. Mrs. Scott expressed her appreciation to the members of the Chapter for their support while she held office in the local Council of Women, and asked that they continue to loyally support Mrs. E. Wand, who is newly-elected president. Speaking on the subject of "India's Position in the Empire," Mrs. Scott remarked that if the people of this country have no other interest in India, they are at least British subjects, and as such be more or less interested in the Empire.

Mrs. Scott outlined the different forms of government from the time of the East India Tea Company, stating that England's interest in India dates back to the year 1833. The central form of government is ruled by the government, she said, the native provinces are ruled by the native princes or Maharajahs, who are most loyal to the crown. Their opening of Parliament is much the same as the opening in Canada.

"There are little uprisings by the natives," the speaker told her audience, "but they are not nearly as serious as we are led to believe, and only last September, when the crisis was feared in Europe, the native rulers pledged their loyal support to Britain."

The meeting closed with the National Anthem, and tea was served afterwards by Mrs. Fanning and her committee.

Officers for the ensuing year are as follows: Honorary Regent, Mrs. T. W. H. Young; regent, Mrs. R. E. Clarke; 1st vice regent, Mrs. H. Dodds; 2nd vice regent, Mrs. R. G. Cotterell; secretary, Mrs. G. H. Cutmore; press secretary, Mrs. C. H. McWilliams; echoes secretary, Mrs. F. J. Frape; treasurer, Mrs. F. J. Frape; standard bearer, Mrs. W. H. Ashby; conveners: Mrs. C. E. Newman, education; Mrs. W. Hughes, social; Mrs. J. S. Fanning, relief; Mrs. D. J. Eldred, telephone; Mrs. W. H. Andrews, Mrs. Helson and Mrs. W. G. Howden, hospital; music, Mrs. W. Greenslade; local Council of Women, Mrs. D. A. Loomis and Mrs. R. G. Cotterell; Empire study, Mrs. W. H. Ashby; current events, Mrs. C. B. Hughes; councillors, Mrs. J. S. Fanning, Mrs. W. Sharpe, Mrs. W. Gordon Hall, Mrs. G. R. Melton, Mrs. D. A. Loomis, Mrs. W. Hughes, Mrs. E. Breckenridge, Mrs. J. Turnbull, Miss I. Wesley, Miss M. Rogers.

Amateur Artists' Present Annual Exhibit

Formed several years ago by a group of Peterobrough business men who wanted to paint "just for fun," and for the healthful relaxation such a hobby offered, the Peterborough Men's Amateur Artists' Club should prove a stimulus to others who may not be artistically inclined, perhaps, but who long for some method of developing their appreciative and creative powers.

Just a few ordinary individuals without any previous knowledge of painting, these men have developed, in a surprisingly short time, pictures which contain much originality; much beauty of color and design.

The Third Annual Exhibition of their paintings, which were on view Thursday night in the Richard Hall store, and which may be visited by the public Friday and Saturday, have aroused much interest and admiration. This year the exhibition is not so large, in order that pictures may be hung to better advantage. The character of the work ranges from delicate pastels to portraits in oils.

Of much interest is a group of pictures by Horace Steggles, done from color sketches made when in England last spring, and includes water colors of scenes near his home in Sussex, a particularly lovely picture of a sixteenth century cottage at Petworth, England; and a sketch of the well-konwn Rotten Row, London.

Absolutely different in style are a number of water colors by Stan Harris, displaying a rare delicacy of tone and coloring which reminds the spectator of rare old prints. Mr. Harris, who studied for some time in London, England, is the only member of the club who has had any previous art training.

A water color by C. H. Saunders is winning much admiring comment, and pictures a winding, wooded road to his cottage at Lake Nippissing just as the soft mists of early morning are beginning to rise. A number of other pictures in the collection, "Clear Lake" by Carl. S. Browne; "The Bay, Chemong," by Fred Ford; "Sunset (Lakefield Tourist Camp)" by A. B. Burrows, and "Stream near Burleigh," by J. E. R. Munro, are of particular interest to Peterborough folk. Three portraits by Adrian Macdonald, "Summer Girls," "Dora," and "Old Farmer," are very fine.

This year a little group of original flowers in pastels has been exhibited at the invitation of the club by Mrs. J. E. R. Munro, and of much charm is a pastel of peonies in a glass bowl, their colors shading delicately from white to rose, and a brown pitcher filled with brilliant nasturtiums.

Club members exhibiting pictures are J. E. R. Munro, C. H. Saunders, H. Steggles, Carl S. Browne, Stan Harris, Fred Ford, A B. Burrows and Adrian Macdonald

Following the exhibit last evening, coffee was served to a few friends of club members, by wives and daughters of the artists.

Our Reserves Can Shrink

There has been a good deal of discussion regarding the size and extent of the reserves in possession of the Peterborough City Trust which at present stands at something around $350,000. It raises an interesting question as to what will eventually become of this amount. It has been stated in apparent seriousness that it will keep on growing, but we do not see how that would be possible; as the conditions which caused it to come into existence in the first place and then enjoy a period of greater expansion no longer exist.

It is not correct to look upon it as a pile of money which is in our midst and which we might just as well go in and possess for current expenditure of the municipality. That reserve—or as it is often called, a surplus—came into existence when we were passing through a period when money had a high earning power. The investments which the City Trust has made are not perpetual; they have to be made continuously.

One bond which the City Trust holds will illustrate: It is $51,000 province of Ontario, earning 6 per cent., and it reaches maturity in 1941. When that time comes the Trust will have to reinvest that $51,000 and it will have to accept current interest rates which at the moment are 3 1-8 per cent. on the trustee list of securities to which the Trust is restricted in selecting its investments.

Then what happens? For some time the Trust has been receiving $3,060 interest on this $51,000 bond. If it were reinvested at the current rate of 3 1-8 per cent., the revenue would amount to $1,593.75 per year, and that would mean a decrease in earnings on that one issue of $1,476.25.

There is more to it than that because when the debenture which provided the sinking fund that made that $51,000 investment possible was drawn, it was computed on an earning power of 4 per cent., and that is 7-8 of one per cent. more than can be earned today, and that of course will cause a decrease, even if slight, in the reserve fund.

The prospects for a recovery in the earning power of money are not bright and the world situation is rather closely controlled between Britain and United States. National debts have reached such enormous proportions that every effort is made to keep down and force lower the rate of interest. Apart from that is the known fact that there is too much money deposited in our banks; so much that interest rates have been sharply curtailed, and in some countries cancelled entirely. These reasons have a direct bearing on the future of the reserves at present in the hands of the City Trust. Those reserves are subject to shrinkage just the same as are investments held by any individual or corporation.

Will It Help At All?

The Public Accounts Committee of the House of Commons is being sifted, revised and made ready for business. To that Committee will go the Bren gun inquiry. The judicial inquiry which wrestled with the matter for 34 days passed on much of the serious business of making conclusions and formulating policies to parliament. Parliament in turn had a number of field days but reached no conclusions, and the only way the debate was ended was by sending the matter along to the Public Accounts Committee, which means that the people who talked about the matter to no effect in parliament will now enter the committee and tackle it again.

Ottawa reports say that both Liberal and Conservative members of this committee have been switched. There is strong desire to have more lawyers representing each political party. In one case we notice where a farmer has made room for a representative of the legal fraternity. On that committee there are representatives of both political parties and of certain other groups, but in keeping with custom there will be more Government members than others, so the majority rests there.

We do not see how there can be any finality reached in the Public Accounts Committee. It is lifting the Bren gun business out of one political atmosphere and putting it in another of the same sort and temperature.

Out In The Open

The United States Senate Military Committee was informed at its last meeting that Germany would be prepared to sell 500 fighting planes to any country which was ready to pay for them. When the question was pointed so that it included France, the informant advanced the rather unusual reply that Germany would be ready to sell 500 planes to France. France could have secured planes right in Germany just as readily as she could have purchased them in United States. (France recently placed such an order in America).

One argument advanced by way of explanation was that the fighting plane is being changed rapidly to incorporate new ideas, and when Germany sold France or any other nation 500 planes she would immediately replace them with 500 newer and better ones for her own use.

At best it is a rather damnable sort of outlook. Germany would sell fighting planes to France, and then if the countries went to war France would send the planes over to kill Germans. Rather beautiful and comforting!

But that is the way of international arms traffic, the difference being that in this case the thing has been mentioned openly instead of having its birth pains secretly.

Potatoes To The Front

Now and again we come across something which for the moment does much to restore our faith in governments and their ways. So when we found the Minister of Agriculture for Ontario and the Minister of Agriculture for the Dominion talking about potatoes on the one and the same day it seemed right enough. The good old spud was not going to do its spring sprouting unseen in the dark cellar. It was out in front and being mentioned in the news of the day.

Hon. Mr. Dewan said we had to grow better potatoes if we are going to get markets for them. Having gone out of the business of growing potatoes we can afford to be enthusiastic over other people growing larger ones and better ones.

Hon. J. G. Gardiner at Ottawa was more definite. Some place in Peru there is a new sort of potato being grown and Canada has appropriated $973 toward the expenses of some potato delegate to go and look over the situation. Whether we get some of the potatoes as well as a report for our $973 is not made clear. If our delegate is a good mixer he ought to be able to snaffle a couple of sacks at least so we could find out for ourselves just what the Peruvian spud looks like.

We'd be in favor of starting over again on the potato business provided we could get for this country the right kind of a potato. Never yet have we had it. The ideal potato would among other things have these qualities:

They could be plowed in and they'd grow in any kind of land.

They would not rot on low land in a wet season.

They would have the kind of tops at which potato bugs would turn up their noses and go away disgusted.

They would never need to be hilled up.

The potatoes would all come out of the ground when you pulled on the tops and then there would be no danger of sticking a fork in them at digging time.

There would be no small potatoes.

If the Peruvian potato comes up to that standard then it will be worth a $973 expedition. If not then it is doubtful if we want it at any price.

A Man-Sized Winter

We are inclined to believe our winter weather is quite up to the mark, and the people who are living today have not very much to learn from the recital of their elders about the good old days and the great old winters.

It's out in the country where they get the full sweep of it. In the city too we have so much snow just at the moment we hardly know where to put it. When we do get things fairly well cleaned up then we get some more and have to start over again.

Some of the country roads are described as being "plugged," and that word seems to fit well enough. It tells what has taken place. There are trucks which make daily trips from the city and they come to drifts which have a degree of finality in their size which cannot be disputed. They are formidable things. They mount to the point where they obliterate fences and when a road gets that way it is right enough to say it is "plugged."

What can we do about it? Not a thing except note that each day as it passes brings us closer to spring. But the past generation and their tall tales impress us little enough now. We are living in days when even Pat Cullen gets stalled with the Examiner truck. Then we know for certain things are bad out in the country.

A Lady In Their Midst

The Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities was disturbed for a moment at the opening by the presence of a lady. She was Miss Vera M. Carpenter, who is clerk of the township in Aldborough, which is in the general direction of 35 miles west of St. Thomas. There had never been anything like it before. No woman had ever entered the convention, but Vera walked in and sat down and made herself at home and before the gathering had taken to itself anything like age the gallant men had scampered about and secured for her a bouquet, which is possibly something they seldom attend to at home.

Miss Vera attends to a number of things in her township, even to relief, and she believes our present system of handling it is about right, and if the whole thing were turned over to the Federal government there would be a good deal of patronage and graft. Ugly words are those, but Vera used them.

This lady clerk said something more, and in the saying she demonstrated she has learned something which a good many people have not yet mentally digested. Just this:

"Why worry about which government pays anyway? You and I and the taxpayers have to pay for it in the end."

Vera ought to have a good audience when she starts talking on that point and there should not be any 40-minute limit on the address. If there is a bill of ten million to be paid for relief or any other service then the people have to pay that amount. There is so much said about taking the burden off real estate that some folk may actually believe by now that if the tax is made lighter there it has entirely disappeared. Which is not the case.

The reason why so much is said about real estate levies is that it is one of the out-in-the-open forms of taxation. People can get their tax bill and look at it; when they pay their money on that bill they can count it out and know to the last red cent how much they have paid. But they pay more taxes than that during the year and say little about it because the method of collection is hidden. They do not look upon the friendly man in the store as a collector of revenue for the Federal government. He does not wear a uniform or a peaked cap, but he is a collector just the same. And all these various collectors for various governments keep on calling on the same set of people. That is why we are inclined to think Miss Vera M. Carpenter, clerk of the township of Aldborough, has a fair enough grasp of municipal finance. Just because she refuses to become excited over the old fallacy that if we do not pay it here we do not pay at all. Stubborn truth is we pay here and we pay there and the more collectors we employ the greater is the amount which we have to pay for their services.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We are still waiting for one of those very clever British cartoonists to come out with something showing the British bull dog carrying an umbrella.

"The less we have of government interference with business, the better for both government and business." Those are the words of Attorney-General Conant, and we print them because they sound sensible.

Thieves entered a Montreal clothing store, and when the owner came down in the morning he found only empty shelves and a cash register the same way. And yet there are merchants who complain they can't move their stock.

One member of the Examiner staff claims he has eight Rock hens and yesterday he gathered nine eggs and one of them had a double yolk affair. He is now in the market for one of those mechanical adding machines if he can get it at a fair price.

Thieves entered an exclusive shop in London, but missed several models being made for the Queen to wear during her forthcoming visit to Canada. So Her Majesty will be denied opportunity to use that very popular phrase about having nothing to wear.

Ottawa says there will likely be an investigation under the combines provisions into the methods of the Norfolk Tobacco Board. Archie Leitch, chairman of the Board replied, "Come along and investigate." A man with the front name of Archie should never be afraid of anything.

New York permitted a rally of the Nazi element in that city, and it took 1,700 police to keep order outside the gathering place. Next step is demand for a probe into why the gathering was allowed. And if the gathering had not been allowed there would be demand for a probe on that score too. Years ago people ran to painting and music but now we have all gone toward probing.

PEACE

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Will it take 20 months or more, for China to have lost the war, or will she lose at all; will there be one whole fighting man, left in the army of Japan, a year from late next fall?

¶ Is Russia strong beyond belief, with regiments armed to the teeth, when will she strike Japan; and has her army feet of clay, as many of the critics say, a sort of also-ran.

¶ Italians and the French will fight, I read some more of that last night, the war in Spain's not through; Rumania talks about a war, I really don't know what it's for, nor what that land would do.

¶ I'm looking now toward days of spring, when things will bloom like everything, when I'll dig in the ground; when frogs will sing as though they'd bust, and hens will find a place to dust, new glory all around.

¶ I wish these fighting men would quit, and take away their trouble kit, and hold their tongues a spell; so when I start to work my land, I'll tote no weapon in my hand, nor dodge a passing shell.

¶ I want to do my chores each day, and sell my butter and my hay, I want to paint the barn; I want these trouble men to cease, I want to have a bit of peace—without some new alarm.

Patronage Gets Aired In Debate

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. WOODSWORTH: Quite so. The hon. member has been making a violent attack upon civil servants, calling them all sorts of names without, of course, those civil servants having any chance whatever to defend themselves in this place. But that is not the worst of it; he has made an attack on the whole merit system.

Some hon. MEMBERS: No, no.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: Yes; he stated that the merit system had been promoted to satisfy the greed of certain persons.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): The civil service commission—

Mr. WOODSWORTH: That is what we are discussing just now.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): —not the merit system.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: I would say the whole question involved was the merit system, which is the basis of the work of the civil service commission. The hon. member said it was a joke. I took this down, and I think I am quoting him correctly; he said the merit system had been promoted to satisfy the greed of certain persons.

Mr. POULIOT: The so-called merit system, which is very different.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: He was referring to the system under which we are operating at the present time. He said the commission was essentially a patronage distributing body, and even at this late day in our political development he pleaded that patronage should be kept in the hands of those who have knowledge of local conditions, which in effect means that patronage should be almost entirely under the control of the local politicians.

Mr. POULIOT: Mr. Fielding said that.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: It may have been said by Mr. Fielding but I fancy the hon. member who spoke is quite in sympathy with Mr. Fielding in this regard.

Mr. POULIOT: Surely.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: Well, whatever may have been true in the earlier days of our history I submit that today the people of Canada as a body are heartily sick of the patronage system even to the extent to which it now exists. We are never going to get very much further in the way of cleaner politics as long as the patronage system exists.

Mr. MULOCK: Under the civil service commission.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: As long as it exists, I say.

An hon. MEMBER: Under the civil service commission.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: I will not say we have no measure of patronage under the civil service commission, but at least the setting up of that commission is an attempt to get away from party patronage. It would seem to me that the hon. member who just spoke is anxious to return to the old idea of party patronage. Why, only to-day I heard the possible appointment to a rather important post being discussed. I do not mind mentioning what it was—the appointment of a parliamentary librarian. What was the trend of the discussion? It was that we had always appointed a librarian who was a good party heeler, that the position was considered to be a reward for party services.

Mr. HOWARD: And have they not been very good appointments?

Mr. WOODSWORTH: I will not say that.

Mr. ROGERS: What does the hon. member mean by "party heeler"? Would he apply that term to the late Hon. Martin Burrell?

Mr. WOODSWORTH: One who has given good party service. That was the trend of the discussion to which I listened to-day.

An hon. MEMBER: Where did you hear that discussion?

Mr. WOODSWORTH: Never mind; let me finish my statement. I say that undoubtedly in this country the general feeling is that appointments, especially to certain classes of positions, are made because of party services. I would take that very library position as an illustration, if you like. Most of us liked the late Martin Burrell very much. We thought he was a fine man. He was a literary man, but I would venture to say that Mr. Burrell had no special training as a librarian. That is my position. It is a technical post to which should be appointed a man with the highest technical qualifications.

Mr. POULIOT: I rise to a point of order. Mr. Burrell was a privy councillor; he is now dead, but he was a most able man.

Mr. HOWARD: May I ask a question. Just because—

Mr. SPEAKER: Order. If the hon. member who has the floor does not give consent, he should not be interrupted.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: Mr. Burrell's name was mentioned from across the floor. I was dealing with a general principal and as an illustration said that only an hour or so ago I heard that matter under discussion. It illustrates my point, namely, that to-day a great many appointments are made primarily in order that certain people who have given party service may be rewarded. My point is—and I think that I rightly interpret the feeling of the majority—that the people of Canada are sick of this kind of thing.

Mr. TOMLINSON: Did you ever ask for anything?

Mr. WOODSWORTH: No.

Mr. TOMLINSON: Yourself?

Mr. WOODSWORTH: No.

Mr. TOMLINSON: Your party?

Mr. WOODSWORTH: No.

Mr. TOMLINSON: Any of your party?

Mr. WOODSWORTH: Not that I know of.

Mr. POULIOT: The hon. gentleman is as firm as the civil service forms require.

Mr. WOODSWORTH: I do not claim any particular credit for that, simply because we are not in a position where we can expect to get favours.

An hon. MEMBER: That is the simple reason.

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics

CAN WE AFFORD IT?

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—It is expected that if Nicholls Hospital bylaw is ever passed, the rate of interest on the $395,000 debenture issue will be 3½ per cent. It is a million to one the amount will exceed this estimate, by at least $50,000. What does this mean at the end of thirty years? The interest and sinking fund will likely increase the amount to $700,000.

About one hour was spent by council considering whether this bylaw should be put to the Protestant ratepayers. At the present time council has five representatives on Nicholls Hospital Board, but half of them never attend a meeting, I am told.

At the last meeting of the Board, one member of council attended. I asked one of them why he did not attend, and his excuse was, "they hold their meetings at an inconvenient hour, and I am not going to attend a meeting to get into an argument with those fellows."

If the taxpayers of this city are going to hand over this huge sum of money to the Hospital Board, the city council should demand a fifty-fifty representation on the Board of Management.

If the city council was contemplating such an expenditure, I think they would take more than one hour to consider the matter. The question should have been dealt with by the Finance Committee and its members should have been shown the plans; informed as to the name of the architect and his fees; and assured that local labor would have protection against outside labor.

Will the architect be allowed to open an office in Toronto, or engage a room in a hotel, where he can be convenient to outside contractors? These matters need looking into, in my opinion. We have an example at the present time of outside labor being allowed to come into the city, at the expense of local workers.

We are told we have many people with their homes half paid for, but the prospect looks bad for the remainder. It is all right for some of these gentlemen who are on easy street drawing good salaries, but what about the poor man?

Every member of council realizes the urgent need of more accommodation at the hospital, but we feel the amount asked is too large, and further that the time is inopportune.

We are told that in about two years time nearly one million dollars of debentures will have been retired. Why not wait until such time, then the taxpayers will be in a fair condition to consider the matter? There are also a new hockey rink and city hall to be thought of, to say nothing of a new custom house, post office and a bridge to replace the present floating structure at Chemong.

Last year I warned council about this Chemong Bridge matter. I told them there would be an attempt to hook the city up in this matter, as an election dodge, and was assured such would not be the case.

I would also remind the taxpayers the monthly increase in relief was one thousand dollars in January as compared with an expenditure of $16,000 in December.

Looking over the Board of Works payroll last week, I noted there was not one relief man on the list. And we have hundreds of men on relief rolls, refusing to work for 35 cents per hour, on highway construction, also refusing to cut wood. The cost is being heaped on the property owners, who are also to be asked to vote on the Hospital Bylaw.

Persons other than property owners should keep out of this discussion. Only the other morning I received an anonymous letter informing me that some lady had made the remark concerning myself, "he is just a stool pigeon for the Roman Catholic Church." Time and again I have stated in council I would be no man's stool pigeon.

In conclusion, Mr. Editor, I would like to remind some people that they are very liberal with other people's money. Mr. Britton, an expert on municipal affairs, said in Toronto recently, "We have in this country too many spenders and not enough savers."

Yours faithfully,
WALTER STOCKER.

Peterborough, Feb. 23.

• He Robbed A Trapper's Cabin

A MAN who entered and robbed a trapper's cabin on the Bear Lake road, near Barkerville, has been sentenced to 18 months in jail notes the Vancouver Province. He violated two laws, the formal law designed to protect private property, and the great, unwritten law of the wilderness designed to safeguard human life.

It is the custom in the British Columbia hinterland, as in all the wild regions of the North and West, for the owners of cabins to leave them unlocked. There is always the possibility that someone, lost and without food, or ill or hurt or in desperate need of shelter, may reach the cabin when the owner is away, and the privilege of entering and making a fire and getting something to eat may mean the saving of life.

No man of the back country begrudges the distressed traveller the wood or food necessary to relieve his distress. But an obligation rests on the man who accepts such hospitality as this. He must not rob or use an undue portion of the supplies, and, if it is at all possible, he must replace what he has taken and leave wood for the next fire.

There is always the possibility that someone else — perhaps the owner himself — may reach the cabin in as much need as the traveller who has found shelter and gone.

• When the King Is In Canada

THE absence of the King and Queen in Canada and the United States will provide the first opportunity for the operation of the Regency Act which was passed in 1937 says the Manchester Guardian.

During the King's absence abroad the Act provides for the appointment of five Counsellors of State, who shall be the Queen and the four adults next in succession to the throne. As the Queen will also be absent, four counsellors alone will presumably be appointed and these would be the Duke of Gloucestor, the Duke of Kent, the Princess Royal, and Princess Arthur of Connaught.

A point which is not clear in the Act is the age at which a person becomes qualified as a counsellor. While Princess Elizabeth can succeed to the throne at the age of 18, it is believed that she could not be a counsellor until she was 21, as the Act prescribes "full age".

The list of counsellors is destined to many variations in the next few years. Viscount Lascelles, son of the Princess Royal, will take the place of the Princess Arthur in 1944, while he in turn would be superseded by the Princess Elizabeth in 1947. When Princess Margaret Rose comes of full age, in 1951, she will take the place of the Princess Royal as a counsellor.

Another interesting point about the Regency Act is that by the Statute of Westminster it does not apply to the Dominions. The King, therefore, while in Canada will still have to undertake such royal duties as related to the Dominions, although no longer responsible for home affairs.

Canada will welcome this, as it would be rather an anomalous position if Canadian matters requiring the King's approval or assent had to be sent to London while he himself was on the spot, but it may create delay for the other Dominions and cause a somewhat involved situation.

Australian or South African affairs will have to be sent on to Canada, but English or Scottish questions can be dealt with by the counsellors.

'A BIT O' PLAID'

Oh! A bit o' plaid's a bonnie thing,
Be it scarf, or tie, or dress,
Though it's mackinaw for Bobbie,
Or rompers for wee Bess.

With a bit o' lace around the throat
It makes a dress for baby,
Tis a thing of beauty fit for queens,
Or any man's fair lady.

Aye, a bit o' plaid's a bonnie thing,
Be it Campbell, Bruce, or Cameron,
Roiyal Stewart, Robertson, Munro or Buchanan;
It warms the heart, delights the eye,
So long as 'tis the tartan.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And one of the scribes came, and having heard them reasoning together, and perceiving that he had answered them well, asked him, Which is the first commandment of all? And Jesus answered him, The first of all the commandments is, Hear, O Israel; The Lord our God is one Lord: and thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength: this is the first commandment. — Mark xii, 28-30.

SCARING BUSINESS.

EVERY business man of experience knows how susceptible the public mind is to alarmist talk, and how quickly it will lead to a curtailment of purchases. And when blue ruin is shouted from the rooftop—the modern rooftop, the broadcasting station — and when spread as well through the medium of the press, then is the evil effect multiplied. Unrest spreads, the psychology of fear operates, and purchases are kept at a minimum.

That is what Canadian business faces today. And the deplorable fact is that insofar as the buyers' strike is being aggravated and prolonged by propaganda tending to discredit Canada's financial future, the whole thing is unnecessary. It is a gratuitous blow to Canadian business, which already had been buffeted quiet sufficiently by events abroad over which Canadians have no control.—Toronto Star.

THOSE WERE THE DAYS.

SOME old-timers around Regina have been longing for a spell of old-fashioned weather as they were getting a little slack under the softness of the mildest January on record.

The old-timer is a queer bird. He likes to deal in extremes. Tell him that it is 94 in the shade and that your shirt is stuck closer to your back than prairie gumbo to a boot and he tells you that he remembers how his false teeth melted clean out of his mouth in the summer of '93. Or mention that it is 40 below and that your whiskers cracked off when the razor touched them and he will recall the winter of '98 when every gopher was wearing two fur coats. Yes, sir, that was a winter to remember....haven't had anything like it in these new times.—Regina Leader.

FAILURE MINUS PANIC.

When the New Jersey Title Guarantee and Trust Company, the second largest commerical bank in Jersey City, closed its doors the other day there was no local panic, no disastrous wave of deflation in the community. And why? Mainly, because there exists today the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation which, established in the summer of 1933, put the Federal Government's credit back of the banks. Today bank depositors in practically every bank in the country have their deposits up to $5,000 fully covered by a Federal guarantee.

In the case of the New Jersey bank, about $18,000,000 of the bank's $23,000,000 of unsecured deposits will be made good by the F. D. I. C. If a testimonial to the usefulness of the F. D. I. C. was needed, this latest bank failure — the largest to come under its authority to date—provides it. All but 400 of 39,000 depositors will be reimbursed fully and at once. — (Christian Science Monitor)

EDITING HANSARD.

The dignity of Parliament is important, but that dignity should not be a false front created by the mutilation of Hansard. The dignity of the House will not be increased if members know that they can drop the rein on the neck of their billingsgate, knowing that their offensive remarks can afterwards be expunged. Hansard purports to be a history of what is said day by day, but the published report is frequently very different from what was heard in the House. When the country pays $102,000 a year for a moving picture of the debates, it is at least entitled to insist that it shall be a true picture, painting the portrait "wart and all." It would be little loss and might be considerable gain if the whole Hansard plant were jettisoned. Sessions might be expected to become remarkably shorter, and there might even be more done.—(Toronto Telegram)

Havelock Fathers And Sons Decide To Enter Boys' Parliament Fights

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Feb. 24.—By unanimous approval of over one hundred boys and fathers present at an enthusiastic "Father and Son" banquet here last evening, Havelock will enter a candidate next fall, in the election of a Peterborough representative to the Ontario Older Boys Parliament. Sponsored by the United church boys' class, of which R. W. Goheen, principal of Havelock high school is leader, the banquet was a remarkable success. Greeted by an attendance much larger than anticipated, the guests were extremely well provided for, a lovely dinner being served by the ladies.

Seated at the head table were Inspector L. W. Copp, president of the Peterborough Boys' Work Board; Paul Meeks, Peterborough member of the Older Boys' Parliament; Rev. H. B. Neal and son Harold Neal of Campbellford; Rev. Andrew McLauchlin, R. W. Goheen, H. W. Roche, Reeve E. W. Seeney, E. Fennell, D. C. Drinkwalter, James Watson and F. Hamilton, all of town.

R. W. Goheen as chairman of the evening got things off to a lively start with a few community songs. The customary toast to "The King" headed an interesting program.

Reeve Ernest W. Seeney proposing the toast to our country, remarked about our many advantages, stressing in particular the fact that we are fortunate to be living under the British flag.

A surprise number was introduced on the program by Mr. L. W. Copp who entertained the gathering for several minutes with some sleight-of-hand tricks. Rev. McLauchlin and several others were puzzled for the remainder of the evening by a trick box which apparently had no opening. Later with a few mysterious presses. Mr. Capp opened, it and much to the chagrin of his audience withdrew a shining ten cent piece.

To the Fathers.

Toast to the fathers was expressed by Fred Hamilton, and responded to by H. W. Roche, leader of the St. John's Anglican Church Boys' League, who was present with a number of members from his class. Edward Fennell proposed the toast to the sons, with James Watson replying on their behalf.

Rev. H. B. Neal of Campbellford a well-known boys worker gave an interesting talk on the relationship of the church in boys' organizations. He introduced at the conclusion of his words, Paul Meek, of Peterborough, local member for 1938 in the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament. Mr. Meek a student at the Peterborough Collegiate and a member of St. James' United Church in that city, gave an enlightening description of the Boys' Parliament. He urged anyone given the opportunity to tend to jump at the chance, as a marvellous experience.

Guest speaker of the banquet, Leo W. Copp, of Peterborough, district inspector of public schools, was introduced to the assembly by D. C. Drinkwalter. Mr. Copp was indeed well qualified to speak on the evenings' main topic. Dealing with the different stages through which boys pass from infancy to manhood, explaining the aims and ideals of boys' organizations, he emphasized forcibly the importance of "Boys' Work."

Harold Neal, chief of the Campbellford branch Trail Rangers expressed a message from his group, and hoped that a local organization might soon be formed.

During "Open Forum" the last item on the program, several leading citizens spoke. Re-organization of the Boy Scouts in Havelock was strongly advocated by T. P. Lancaster, chairman of the high school board, and among the others who spoke were Bernard Smith, chairman of public school board, Rev. Andrew McLauchlin, Charles Roberts Sunday School superintendent, Herbert Hoard boys' class teacher, and W. D. Duncan, principal of the public school.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME.

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are even just a little hard of hearing or have head noises, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little, and is pleasant to take. Anyone losing hearing or who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.—(Advt.)

The practice of franking letters (that is sending them free of charge) to and from members of parliament at Ottawa is a continuation of a system inaugurated in the province of Canada in 1855, but it was tried some 18 years before, while the post-office was still administered from London, England. In 1837 both Houses of the Legislature of Upper Canada passed a franking act, under which the members were authorized to send their letters free during the session. This was regarded as "a colonial invasion" of British rights, and the bill was disallowed by London, despite the fact that it had been given the royal assent by Sir Francis Bond Head. Then resulted a struggle between the post-office and the legislatures, the members of which continued to mail their letters without stamps. Eventually both Lower and Upper Canada had to pay large sums to wipe out these postage arrears. When the postal service was taken over by the various provinces in 1851 the franking privilege was allowed, until 1867, when it was confined to the two Houses of the dominion parliament alone. Many attempts have been made to secure franking privileges for members of the provincial legislatures, all in vain.

Until 1892 the various departments of the dominion government had to pay postage, but on Oct. 25, 1892, an order-in-council, based on a memorandum of the post-office department, dated Feb. 24, authorized free postage for every branch of the service, followed a few weeks later by an order that no private mail should be included in the official bags, only to be disregarded, for it was for many years common knowledge that families of civil servants used to hand their letters to "Dad" to be included in the office mail, and thus save postage. Every now and again there have been stoppages of this private mail, and civil servants were warned not to "cheat the post-office." But even now a good many private letters get into the mail without postage stamps, especially when parliament is in session. Then every M.P. is deluged with requests to "use your frank."

Anglo-Australian Mystery Recalled

LONDON, Feb. 24—(CP Cable).—Fate of the Vancouver-bound bound freighter Anglo-Australian was recalled to-day by the torpedo SOS from an unidentified ship off the Azores.

Shipping circles remembered that the Anglo-Australian last reported in the same waters March 14, 1938. A Board of Trade inquiry failed to determine the mystery of the ship's disappearance though the possibility it was torpedoed was raised.

W. Smith, manager of Lawther, Latta and Company Limited, owners of the Anglo-Australian, said if the mystery ship was proved to have been the victim of a torpedo, there would be a possibility that his firm's ship suffered the same fate.

"But it is a year now since the Anglo-Australian disappeared with all hands, leaving no trace, and I hardly think her fate will ever be solved," he added.

The Anglo-Australian was on her way in ballast to pick up a general cargo at British Columbia ports. Shipping experts could give no reason for her disappearance beyond a theory she was engulfed by a huge water-spout, the result of a sudden undersea upheaval. At the time the ship gave her last report the sea was calm and continued quiet for days afterward. The vessel had two wireless sets and every modern safety device.

The official inquiry found the Anglo-Australian probably broke in half "from deck to keel" after her shelter-deck buckled. It found that more than half the freighter's deadweight was concentrated amidships, but no blame was attached to the owners. The report found it was unlikely that an explosion or collision on the high sea caused the disappearance.

Construction of homes in Chile in the last five years has been the greatest in the country's history.

Goodnight Story
By MAX TRELL

When Knarf and Hanid, the shadows with the turned-about names, came into the playroom, they found their friend, Alphonse, the goldfish, gazing out of the front window of his house. The house had four big windows: one in the front, one in the back, and one on each side. It was full of water and was called an aquarium.

"You know," said Alphonse as the two shadow-childreon drew near his window, "I've heard that outside in the great world there are lots of aquariums."

"Aquariums?" said Hanid. "You mean places with water in them, where fish swim around?"

"That's right."

Lots of Places.

"Oh! there are lots of places like that," Knarf broke in.

"Please tell me about them," said Alphonse. "I've never been out in the great world, you know. I'd love to hear about them."

"Well," said Hanid, "there's a place called the pond. It's much bigger than your aquarium. It's a nice shady place with trees growing on the bank, and water lilies growing out of the water."

"And the boys all go fishing there," put in Knarf.

Alphonse looked worried. "The boys go fishing? I don't understand—"

"And then there's a place called the lake," Hanid said hurriedly. "That's even bigger than a pond. Boats go on a lake. It's very deep, and there are lots and lots of fishes in it."

In Lake, Too.

"But people go fishing in the lake, too," said Knarf.

"And then there are the brooks and the streams and the rivers," Hanid went on. "They're different from the pond and the lake. The water runs in them. But the biggest place of all in the whole world is the ocean."

"There are lots of places like that."

"Oh!" said Alphonse. "Is it really big?"

"It's so big," said the shadow-girl, "that if you stand on one side you can't see the other."

"How wonderful!"

"And it's full of waves which roll and toss. But you can swim and swim, as far and as deep as you like."

No Nose Bumping.

"Without ever bumping your nose against the sides?"

"You can hardly ever hit the sides, or the bottom."

"I'd love to be in the ocean. That's the aquarium for me," said the goldfish. "I'd be ever so happy. I'd never want to leave it."

"But—but people go fishing in the ocean as well as in the pond and the lake," Knarf couldn't help saying. "And no one ever goes fishing in your little aquarium."

Alphonse was silent for a moment or two. Then he said: "Yes—I guess perhaps I'm quite content just where I am. But it's nice to know about those other places." And with that he swam slowly away.

Mt. Julian Enjoys Weekly Euchre

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MOUNT JULIAN, Feb. 24—Messrs Earl Shewen and Gilbert Northey won first and second gents' prizes respectively, at the euchre held at Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wilson's home at Burleigh Falls on Saturday evening. Ladies' prizes went, first to Dorothy Stone and second to Leone Church. Five tables of cards were played. The club is invited to meet at Mr. W .T. Northey's home on Saturday next.

A very enjoyable social evening was spent at Mrs. G. Lean's home on Friday when a party was given in honor of Mrs. Ernie Lean's birthday. The evening was chiefly spent in round and square dancing.

Mrs. D. Loucks and friend from Oshawa were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Lean last week.

DEATH AT THE MANOR
By M. E. CORNE

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

THE DINNER hour had come and gone and, according to Hawkins, who brought me my tray, a dreary affair dinner had been.

"Miss Daphne didn't come down, miss," he informed me in mournful accents. "I sent her dinner upstairs, but it was returned untasted."

"And the others?"

"Mr. Horace presided. He looked badly. The guests were present but—" here Hawkins' voice faltered—"but there were those empty chairs, miss—"

Those empty chairs. I shuddered. Poor Mr. Richard! What was he eating and where? He and Toots Lemoine!

At a quarter to nine I stuck my head out the door and listened for sounds from above. In her bedroom on the third floor Eliza lay, unconscious and hovering between life and death. Dr. Richards from the town had been in constant attendance for several hours. She had not a chance to recover—the fall down the stairs had fractured her skull. Her last labored breath, I knew, would be the signal for the arrest of Richard Witherspoon upon a charge of willful murder. At present he was being detained in jail as a material witness.

As I stood there half in and half out of the doorway the telephone on my bed table tinkled uncertainly. Without waiting for it to ring full blast, I ran to lift the receiver.

"Elsie?" It was Phil calling.

"Yes?"

"Is she still alive?"

"I think so."

"Listen! Will you call me at the jail as soon as she passes out?"

"Why—" I hesitated. How callous Phil was! And yet Eliza meant nothing to him, dead or alive, and nothing to me, except that I could not view the poor thing's death—calmly and coolly as though she were a worm that had been stepped on and put out of the way. "I'll call you," I said at last. And as he was about to hang up I asked: "What about Mr. Richard?"

"The kid's sitting tight. Won't open his mouth until he sees his lawyer. That's Toots' doings; she's warned him that he needn't talk unless he wants to."

"Oh!" I blessed Toots!

"Elsie" —Phil's tone took on that edge of eagerness I had come to know so well— "you could do us a big favor and the kid as well—"

"I could! How?"

"Get hold of Daphne and make her talk!"

"Daphne!" For a moment I saw red. "You think I'd do that?"

"Now wait a sec! It isn't as bad as it sounds. I've a hunch that Richard isn't guilty of murder. I'm pretty sure that he's mixed up in some dirty work with Beeman, and that it's ten to one he stole the emeralds. If he'd come through with that, well—answering to theft is better than frying!"

"Oh!" I exclaimed, and I was silent so long that he jerked his receiver hook impatiently.

"Elsie! Are you there?"

"Yes. Phil, you aren't trying to fool me, are you?"

He gave a disgusted snort. "I'm giving you a chance to do the kid a favor. His best chance lies in coming clean, but the poor dope is too scared to realize it!"

I was not entirely convinced. "What makes you think Daphne will confide in me?"

"She's a woman, isn't she? And desperate. Believe me, honey, I'm not baiting a trap. I'm playing a long shot!"

"All right." I gave my consent. "I'll try. When—when does the exhumation take place?"

"Ellis and Mac are leaving for the cemetery shortly. I'm laying low here. Don't forget: give me a ring the minute the old girl kicks off!"

I repeated my promise and hung up. Hastily I smoothed my hair and powdered my nose. As I left the room the clock beside the phone chimed nine. I had an hour in which to win Daphne Witherspoon's confidence. At ten I had an important appointment in the arboretum. And, unless I were greatly mistaken, Daphne herself would be ready and anxious to escape my company when that hour arrived.

Quietly I tiptoed down the corridor. The door of Daphne's room was tightly closed. I lifted my hand to knock. Someone spoke my name. Mr. Horace was coming rapidly toward me. At the sight of him I gasped — he looked like a living ghost!

He said tonelessly: "Eliza has just passed away."

"Oh, I am so sorry!" And I was. This morning Eliza had been alive; this evening she was dead. And the murderer at large!

"She died without speaking," he continued. "She was not able to tell us who shoved her. Poor Richard."

"But he isn't guilty!" I protested vehemently.

"Richard is, of course, innocent," said his father with no uncertainty in his voice. "He couldn't commit murder!"

"I am going to Miss Daphne," I said as he made no move to leave me. "I thought perhaps she might be able to help."

"I see." His small, colorless eyes bored into mine. The flicker of a smile passed over his face and was gone. "Perhaps she can help, Miss Ritter," he said softly, "Perhaps she can."

When he had gone I tapped lightly on the door. I had promised Phil to call him the moment of Eliza's passing; but now I meant to break that promise. What difference could an hour make, more or less? What difference to him? To Richard? To Eliza? Perhaps in the space of that sixty minutes—resolutely I turned the knob.

At my entrance Daphne whirled from the window. She cried sharply: "I didn't bid you come in!"

"No," I said quietly, "you didn't." And though the room was in semi-darkness I could see that she had been crying. Her cheeks were streaked; there was a jagged path traced through the peach of her powder; her eyes were red rimmed and swollen. I stepped forward. "Won't you believe that I am your friend? That I want to help you?"

"Help!" She laughed mirthlessly. "How can you help? How can anyone help? Richard is in jail for murder!"

"You can help him. Why do you hesitate?"

"I?" Fear leaped into her eyes. "Why do you say that?"

I countered: "Why not? It is true, isn't it?"

"So you think I have a motive in keeping my brother in jail?" She turned her back upon me and took a cigaret from a mirrored box. When she had lighted it, she faced me through the smoke. She had control of herself. She said lightly: "You have been reading mystery stories, Miss Ritter." The fear was gone; her eyes were curtained, inscrutable.

"No—" I sat down on the edge of the bed. "I haven't been reading mystery stories I have been living one."

I went on:

"The story I've been living is about a girl and a boy. They are brother and sister. The boy is troubled; he owes a sum of money to a crooked money lender; he is being blackmailed by an unscrupulous gold-digger. The girl knows about the boy's trouble. She knows about the emeralds. She knows that the boy is innocent of murder. She knows who killed her grandmother and her mother—and Eliza—"

"Eliza!" echoed Daphne, and the fear had returned, a monster was devouring her.

I nodded. "She died a moment ago. Soon the boy will be charged with murder. It looks bad for him. He has so many things to explain. The part that this boy and this girl seem to have overlooked—" I paused.

"Yes?" said Daphne. "Yes?"

"They seem to have overlooked the fact that if the boy is guilty of theft, that if he confessed his guilt, a great many of the things that puzzle the police would be cleared up. The boy and the girl don't understand this; they don't understand that stealing isn't murder."

"But suppose the boy admits—theft? Wouldn't the police then have a motive for—for murder?" Gone was her pretense of indifference. She was leaning forward, her hands clenched.

I replied slowly: "The girl would have to tell all she knows."

"Oh!" Swiftly the curtain descended. "Your story is most melodramatic, Miss Ritter," she said, shrugging her shoulders. "Surely if this girl loves her brother, she wouldn't hide any evidence that might free him."

"She might." I risked a shot in the dark. "She might if she loves also the one whom she suspects is really guilty."

"That's not true!" she cried in such anguish that I knew my shot had hit home. "You've no right to suggest such a thing!"

"You've no right to remain silent!" I challenged her. "If there is another murder, it will be on your head!"

"Go! Oh, go away!" And there was such torment in her tone that I had not the heart to torture her further.

In my own room I dialed the number of the jail.

"She is dead, Phil, I whispered over the wire. "She is dead."

"O. K., Elsie. Have you attended to the other matter?"

"I did, but it was no go."

"No?" Well, don't worry. Has Horace sent for the coroner?"

"I don't know."

"O. K.," he said again. "I'll bring him out. Sit tight and remember I'm for you."

"I'll remember."

Farmers Buck Drifts To Save Injured Man

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Feb. 24—(CP)—Farmers fought heavy snowdrifts in a two-hour battle near Centre, Prince Edward County, five miles south of here, yesterday, to bring out Elgin Bellyou, 49, farmer, discovered crushed beneath a tree he was felling in a woods near his home.

Hitching horses to a car, neighbors brought out the injured man through he heavy banks and rushed him to hospital. He was suffering a fractured skull, nose and shoulder blade.

Dr. R. M. Anderson, attending physician, who performed the emergency operation at midnight, was forced to abandon his car a mile from the scene and plough through heavy drifts on foot in order to give first aid treatment.

A Hacking, Racking Persistent Cough

The constant hacking, racking, persistent cough that sticks to you in spite of everything you do to get rid of it is the kind that is dangerous to neglect.

The longer the cough sticks, the more serious menace it becomes to your health.

But, there is a remedy to relieve coughs—coughs that won't let go. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is that remedy.

It has a healing and soothing action on the air passages, and acts as a disinfectant of the respiratory organs, destroying the germs that may produce serious complications.

The Stars Say . . .
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, February 25

A memorable day is heralded by the interesting and exciting influence of major planets. There may be sudden and surprising events, precipitated with whirlwind force and, while devastating and disturbing, the after-effects will be propitious. There should be much productive work, with the fruition of long-cherished hopes and wishes.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of advancement toward the fulfillment of fond hopes and wishes. Prosperous, productive and happy denouements are to follow sudden and devastating visitations or an unpredictable nature, but after the upheaval there will be rich culminations of cherished objectives. It is a most propitious time for pushing in the direction of high goals.

A child born on this day is likely to be a rather unusual individual. It may be expansive, independent in thought and action, with high ambitions and noble aspirations.

Millbrook W.A. Busy On Indian Girl's Togs

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 24.—The February meeting of the W.A. of St. Thomas Church was held on Monday at 8 p.m., at the home of the president, Mrs. C. M. Westmacott, with a good attendance and reports of a most encouraging nature.

Mrs. Westmacott read the prayers of the W.A. Litany after the Bible lesson had been reach by Mrs. L. H. Winslow, and the decision was reached to set aside March 15 for the annual lecture and slides on the study book on India, Archdeacon Simpson to give the covering material.

Arrangements were completed for the Auxiliary's part in the World Day of Prayer on Friday, February 24, in St. Andrew's Church, and the Dorcas secretary, Mrs. H. J. Russell, reported material all purchased for the annual bale, work proceeding on the outfit for an India girl, and the expectation that the whole will be ready to ship in April. A contribution was voted to the Toronto diocese for the gift to the diocesan secretary, who is completing 25 years of consecutive service.

The president read an interesting chapter on education work in India, and Mrs. J. W. Hilton on the spiritual awakening in that great land, which is making marked progress.

Closing with the doxology, the members enjoyed a social hour with Mrs. H. J. Russell as supper hostess.

Claims Democracy Behind The Times

TORONTO, Feb. 24 — (CP). — Jan Masaryk, son of the first president of Czechoslovakia and former Czech ambassador to England, pictured to-day the salvation of the world in co-operation between Great Britain and the United States, but "not the co-operation of guns and submarines."

Democracy has been slipping since the end of the war 20 years ago, Masaryk told the Empire Club of Canada. It has not progressed with the times and growth of the dictatorships because "we have not made up our minds how far we can go."

He said Munich was an example of where the four powers of Britain, Germany, France and Italy had given away something that did not belong to them, and it did not take either a great deal of bravery or statesmanship.

"We were told Munich was the beginning of a ne wera, an era of appeasement," Masaryk said. "But I can see no progress so far. I can't see that the method of appeasement has made any progress at all since Munich, armaments are being piled more than ever and when you see Great Britain with its present government of peace, doubling and trebling its arms it seems to me appeasement is not strikingly successful."

Steady Increase In Live Births While Still Births Down In City

The number of live births in Peterborough last year was 681 or 28.2 per 1,000 of population, as recorded in the annual report of Dr. J. M. Fraser, M.O.H.. The number of stillbirths was 25, or 36.7 per thousand of living births. Included in these figures were 219 children listed as non-residents of the city, and 11 non-resident stillbirths. The population last year was 24,146.

The rate per 1,000 of live births, residents only, was 19.1, representing 462 births last year.

The records for other years follow: population in 1937 was 23,619; total number of live births 620, rate per thousand 26.2; residents only 413; rate per thousand was 17.4.

In 1936 population was 23,044; births 632, rate per 1,000 was 27.4; residents only 432; rate per thousand of resident births 18.7.

In 1935: population 22,973; total births 565, rate 24.6; residents only 384; rate per 1,000 16.7.

In 1934: population 23,044; births 549; rate 23.82 per 1,000; residents only 394; rate 12.8.

In those five years the number of live births, classified as resident, has increased at the rate of from 12.8 per 1,000 to 19.1; and the total number, resident and non-resident, has increased from 23.82 to 28.2.

At the same time the number of stillbirths for the five years beginning with 1934 was 31, 47, 35, 34 and 25 last year; these numbers are represented by the following rates per 1,000 of living births, 56.5; 83.2; 55.4; 54.8 and last year 36.7.

The number of still girths, listed as resident only, for the five years was, annually since 1934: 21, 35, 21, 20 and 14; and the corresponding rates per 1,000 of live births were: 36.3; 91.1; 48.6; 32.3 and 20.6 last year.

The summary of these quotations from Dr. Fraser's statistics is to the effect that the number of live births in Peterborough has been steadily increasing, and the number of stillbirths has been decreasing.

Times Reversed

TORONTO, Feb. 24 — (CP). — The day is gone when farm women work "from dawn to dark to make enough money to move to the city," Mrs. W. H. Monture, Hagersville, told the women's section of the 39th annual convention of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies here to-day.

"To-day town and city people dream of getting enough money to buy land and move to the country," said Mrs. Monture.

Mrs. J. K. Kelly of Almonte said she thought women should be in charge of more departments in country fairs than at present, and should operate their departments in "a more businesslike way."

Young Farmers Conclude Course With Banquet At Keene; Expected To Give Leadership

The Department of Agriculture's three-months' short course at Keene wound up in a blaze of glory last night as successful students trooped to a platform in the Sunday School room of the United Church to receive diplomas from the hands of their teachers.

Close to 200 were present at the closing banquet last night, and warm indeed were words of the teachers to their students, of the students to their teachers. The banquet saw the end of the first such course to be held in Otonabee Township in the past fifteen years and Agricultural Representative Frank Paterson expressed himself completely satisfied with results. All teachers paid tribute to the keen attention given them by the students, expressed the hope they will all carry the knowledge gained on into their farm life.

Students who completed the short course are the most ambitious and intelligent in the district, according to M. C. McPhail, B.S.A., principal of the Kemptville Agricultural School, who was guest speaker at the banquet. He told students, their parents, and guests that these young men and women had sacrificed much to attend the school, and by so doing had shown themselves to be leaders in their community.

Will Be Leaders.

He warned that from now on, people in their neighborhood will watch their movements, and that they will be expected to give leadership, to know more than others of their age. It was their responsibility to assume that leadership, to further the case of agriculture wherever they could.

He made a plea for the development of thought in regard to farming, and urged young people to know the history of farming as it affected the present. A century ago, he said, a farmer could see just what he was accomplishing from day to day and how his position was being improved. That was true of the entire farm family for each member worked close to the other, knew intimately each detail of the farm and its prosperity. But, he continued, in time the land became cleared, fences were all erected, there were no more buildings to be "just a job of getting ahead."

And with that change came less work. No longer was there employment for every member of the family and costs of education increased for sons who were to leave the farm. No longer did every member of the family know how the farm was faring, whether money was being earned or lost. "There, I think, we saw the breaking up of the family unit. Only the head of the family knew whether they were getting ahead."

Such was the beginning of change for the worse that the speaker described. He told of the "victory bond period," and of how "a lot of money disappeared into other investments that were no good. A situation arose where there was no money to educate and establish the children for whom there was no work on the farm." Then followed the mechanized period, when autos came into vogue and "many families transferred their interest in farms to cars." After that came the period of falling prices, when not even a good farmer could hope to make a living. He paid tribute to the man who operates his farm carefully and sanely, yet is unable to make it pay. Such a result is not caused by lack of ability, but by misfortune, he said.

Return of Family Unit.

He saw a change developing in the present day, a return to the family unit that was so successful in earlier days, and claimed it is coming largely because of increased interest of youth in farm knowledge. Boys are attending agricultural schools because of lack of funds for education, he said, and because farm life offers a certain measure of security. Boys have told him that to become a physician or a dentist or a lawyer or a member of any other profession, requires as great an outlay of capital as would be needed to buy and equip a farm. And in those professions there is not nearly the measure of security to be found in farm life.

And that same thinking group is beginning to realize that knowledge of the fundamentals of agriculture is essential in this day, he said. And because their parents realize such a need, those youths are coming back home to be heard. They are the possessors of valuable knowledge and training and are accepted on an equal footing with their elders. In such fashion is farm life being rebuilt as a family unit, he claimed.

That is the vision of agricultural teachers in this province, he said; to train intelligent, keen young people to a firm understanding of the soil with which they work, and of the problems they must face. He saw the day when every farmer will be as familiar with soil requirements as he is now with the necessity of feeding salt to his cattle.

The trouble with farming to-day, he believed, is that "we have too much faith; we are victims of the spending habit; we are wasting our land." He elaborated and deplored the custom of farmers to "take a chance on their land or their stock, hoping for the best, having faith in luck.

The Toasts.

Alan Eason, student at the short course, was toastmaster, and carried out his duties in an efficient manner. Mr. McPhail was introduced by Frank Paterson, agricultural representative, who also expressed appreciation to members of Otonabee Township Council and citizens of Keene for their co-operation with the Department, and to the teachers for their untiring efforts during the three-months' course.

Harold Donaldson proposed a toast to the home economics class (girls' division), and reply was made by Loretta McCarthy. The agricultural class was proposed by Phyllis Kempt, responded to by Jack Bolin, Catherine Bolin proposed the guests, and Peter Mather, member of the Otonabee Township Council, responded.

Girls' certificates were presented by Miss Jean M. Scott of Port Elgin and Miss Elisabeth A. Atkinson Toronto, teachers during the course. Boys' certificates were presented by R. S. McKercher, B.S.A., of Dublin, Ontario, and D. A. Bell, B.S.A., of Hespeler, teachers in the boys' division.

Japanese Present Shanghai Demands

SHANGHAI, Feb. 24 — (AP). — Japanese authorities seeking a stronger hand in administration of the international settlement of Shanghai today presented their requests to repreesentatives of nations holding the concession.

The Japanese have conferred with civil authorities of the settlement and with the commanders of British and Italian defence forces and today were to confer with commanders of the United States forces. Japanese marines, yesterday with Italian consent, took over part of the Italian defence sector in the northwest corner of the city.

Because the Italian defence zone lies outside the permanent boundaries of the settlement this occupation was not regarded as invasion of the settlment itself.

The Japanese ascribed their pressure for a greater hand in the internationally administered settlement to the necessity of suppressing a wave of crime, including assassinations of pro-Japanese Chinese.

such a revolt when the government goes to the country——"

At this point Speaker Casgrain interrupted to say Dr. Fleming's 40 minutes were up and the Humboldt member took his seat without finishing his sentence.

Both M. J. Coldwell (C.C.F., Rosetown-Biggar) and J. A. Marshall (S.C., Camrose) thought it was about time to pass the treaty and get on with other business. Nearly all that could be said for or against it had been said.

Mr. Coldwell supported the treaty because it would help good relations between nations but did not regard it as an important move to the solution of Canadian economic problems. The government should get some real purchasing power into the hands of the people by promoting useful public works.

The C.C.F. member won congratulations from Dr. Fleming for preaching what he said was the King of Liberalism the Liberal party should be preaching in Saskatchewan.

All changes affecting the fresh vegetable trade since 1935 pointed to the need of increased tariff protection, Gordon Graydon (Con. Peel) said.

Instead of increases, however, the protection accorded Canadian vegetable growers had been steadily reduced until the present agreement sealed it down so low it would be impossible to produce vegetables in Ontario on a commercial basis.

The Canadian vegetable grower was certainly left in a vulnerable position.

Fruit Men Hit.

The fruit grower would also suffer by sharp cuts in his protection against United States imports and the loss of a part of the preference on apples in the British market.

"Something will have to be done in the immediate future for this branch of agriculture at least until some of these duties can be restored," said Mr. Graydon. "My suggestion is that we do what was attempted in Ontario a few years ago but on a broader scale. That is for the government, in co-operation with the growers, to launch an "eat home grown fruit and vegetable campaign."

Few consurers realized when buying Texas carrots that they might be injuring the livelihood of fellow-Canadians, perhaps even friends and relatives on the farms. Canadian fruits and vegetables could be popularised because their flavor could not be equalled by foreign grown products.

Recently, said Mr. Graydon, a Peel county grower had shipped a box of apples to Florida in exchange for a box of oranges. It cost $4.14 to send the apples to Florida and only $3.00 to bring the oranges back in the same box. This was because a special freight rate was maintained by the United Stats to encourage shipment of Florida oranges to Canada. Canadians should wake up and take appropriate measures to help Canadian growers in similar ways.

See Chamberlain As Mediator

ROME, Feb. 24—(AP).—Hints of mediation by Prime Minister Chamberlain of the differences arising from Italian aspirations toward French territory appeared today in two Italian newspapers.

Il Popolo Di Roma, in a dispatch from London, said Mr. Chamberlain was preparing a plan to settle Italy's as yet unofficial claims for French colonial concessions.

Il Resto Del Carlino of Bologna, one of Italy's leading provincial organs, at the same time listed Fascist obstacles to mediation by Mr. Chamberlain and said Italy would prefer Chancellor Hitler of Germany to the Prime Minister, but "sincerely hopes for success" on the Briton's part.

Il Popolo's dispatch said overtures were made by the Earl of Perth, British ambassador at Rome, in recent conversations here with foreign minister Galeazzo Ciano. It quoted an "excellent" British informant who, it said, did not know whether definite proposals yet had been submitted.

Nothing Official

(Confirmation was lacking in official quarters in London. The British view as explained there has been that Italy and France should deal directly.)

The Bologna newspaper asked in its account if Mr. Chamberlain understood that:

1. Italy does not intend to accept a small hand-out.

2. Italy intends that all her "natural aspirations," shall be satisfied fully.

3. Mediation means compromise and Italy rejects compromises.

It also asked if Mr. Chamberlain was not too closely bound up with a "declared military alliance with Paris" to carry out the function of a disinterested mediator. It added a question as to whether he "really understands that if Italy does not receive the territory which belongs to her she will take it without asking anybody's permission."

King George Is To Study Public Pulse

By HOWARD BERRY

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Anxious to feel the pulse of the nation and to know what his people really think about the affairs of the world as they stand at the moment, King George today was planning a series if informal parties at private houses at which he will meet leaders of all the British political parties.

King George

His majesty began his "investigation" of public feeling by attending as a guest a recent dinner given by Lord Baldwin at his residence in Eaton Square.

Six Labor party leaders were also invited to the party, and those present besides King George, his equerry, Sir Alexander Hardinge, and Lord Baldwin were:

Clement R. Attlee, leader of the Labor Party.

Arthur Greenwood, deputy-leader of the Labor Party.

A. V. Alexander, M.P. for Hillsborough, Sheffield.

Tom Williams, M.P., Don Valley, Yorkshire.

Fred Marshal, M.P., Brightside, Sheffield, and

James Chuter Ede, M.P., South Shields, Durham.

A Homely Affair

All wore dinner jackets and the party was a homely affair. The King sat on Lord Baldwin's right and Clement Attlee was on the King's right. The remainder of the party sat around the long table on the ground-floor dining-room.

After dinner King George smoked a few cigarettes, then turned to his pipe, an example followed by Lord Baldwin. After coffee and liquers the party went upstairs.

The King had expressed the desire to meet the Labor leaders in an informal atmosphere for a frank discussion of national problems.

The Laborites told the King what they thought about home policy and foreign affairs. They did not mince matters. The King sucked his pipe and listened.

There was no self-consciousness on the part of King George or of those who sat around the table with him. Lord Baldwin was a perfect host, and his Majesty was a free and easy guest of honor, in search of contacts with men who are in touch with the daily life of the country.

Thanked Guests

His majesty's plan to meet leading members of the political parties at informal parties is unique, and although there has been nothing like it in recent history, King George is following precedent to this extent—that he is disregarding precedent.

Both his immediate predecessors to the throne of Britain departed from procedure laid down by tradition. That King George has shown a desire to follow his own path, strictly within the limits of the British Constitution, is another example of his determination to maintain personal contacts.

He is getting acquainted with men who may, or may not, one day be his ministers. They are, at any rate, men prominent in the life of the nation. A wise and experienced monarch may exercise a great influence—when the right moment comes—by his close touch with such people.

Father Called Conference

More than once King George V, his father, upon his own initiative, called into consultation the leaders of the various political parties in the effort to resolve a serious situation.

In 1914 King George V invited representatives of all the parties concerned in the Irish question to a conference at Buckingham Palace.

"This was against the 'rules'." As he himself told them. "My intervention at this moment may be regarded as a new departure."

He took a similar course in the British Parliamentary crisis of 1916. Again he invited the party leaders to a conference at Buckingham Palace—an action dictated by the vast issue, the conduct of the war, which would be the sole concern of a new government.

Progressive Euchre Is Held By L.O.B.A.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Feb. 24.—The Orange Hall was prettily decorated in keeping with the Valentine season for the progressive euchre party which was held on Friday evening under the auspices of the L.O.B.A.

Eleven tables were used for the euchre and Miss Evelyn Jacket and Mrs. Orvine McGill were the prize winners. The lucky ticket for the door prize was held by Miss Irene McGill.

At the conclusion of the game lunch was served by the members and afterward dancing was enjoyed for the remainder of the evening to music furnished by Mr. and Mrs. P. Hamilton, Miss Bessie Howe and Mr. Clayton McGill.

No church services were held on Sunday owing to the severe sleet storm and in the evening residents were surprised to witness an electrical storm.

All roads are completely blocked for cars at present.

Young, Toronto; two brothers, J. Montgomery, Tweed, and G. Montgomery, State of Michigan. His wife passed away about two years ago, and a daughter died some years ago.

Think Floating Mine May Have Sunk Ship

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 — (AP). —Captain G. S. Bryan, chief hydrographer of the United States Navy, expressed an opinion to-day that a stray floating mine may have sunk the unidentified ship which yesterday flashed it had been torpedoed in the Atlantic Ocean.

Captain Bryan said the Naval Hydrographic Office was advised on January 2 that a mine had been sighted by the oil tanker California Standard about 600 miles southwest of the Azores.

The position given by the vessel which yesterday flashed an SOS was about 360 miles south of the islands.

Ocean currents and winds might easily have carried the mine the intervening 240 miles distance, naval officials said.

These officials termed a "definite possibility" that the mine was a stray sea weapon of the Spanish Civil War.

Scarlet Fever Breaks Out In Asphodel Twp.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 24.—One family in Asphodel township was placed under quarantine for scarlet fever last night, Dr. W. N. Campbell, M.O.H. for the township said. The family lives on the outskirts of this village and children from the house have been attending the public school here. Dr. J. A. MacDonald, M.O.H. for Hastings said there were no cases in the village at the present time and that he did not think the schools would be closed unless an epidemic broke out. He refused to comment on the fact that there might be some children under observation but did say that some children might be sent home from school today.

A large truck and trailer slid down a hill here last night and came to a halt with the trailer deeply embedded in a snow bank and the truck occupying the lion's share of the road. The provincial snow plow happened along a few minutes later but was unable to pass the truck. Before long an interested gallery of onlookers had gathered along with several trucks. Almost an hour later with manoeuvring, the plow succeeded in pulling the truck from the ditch to the top of the hill.

Ice cutters on Barry's and Noonan's lakes have been forced to suspend operations for the past three days owing to water almost a foot deep flooding the ice surface. They explained that the large quantity of snow resting on the ice had created considerable weight and when they punctured the ice the water gushed through. The ice averages 17 inches in depth on the lakes and a good portion has been drawn to local customers but the demand is quite heavy yet. Earl Clark built a gasoline driven circular saw ice cutter this winter for use at Noonan's lake which has eliminated the tedious work of sawing by hand. He said the machine would cut enough ice in one hour to keep his truck hauling all day. Cutting operations are being carried on along the shores of the river.

William Nehtol, traveller for the National Grocers in Peterborough, was an unexpected overnight guest at a farmhouse about five miles from here Wednesday night, it was reported here yesterday. It is understood he attempted to reach Hastings from Roseneath but gave up the idea on the third attempt and walked to the nearest farmhouse where he put up for the night. The driver of a provincial snow plow, reaching here from Norwood, said that they did not have the time to plow out the Hastings-Cobourg road but that they would attempt it last night. This is contrary to rumors here that it could not be plowed because the snow was too deep. Roads from here to Campbellford and Norwood are open.

Barrage Of Eggs Shower Bunders

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24—(AP).—Uniformed members of the German-American bund, stationed outside the doors of the Deutsches Haus here, were driven to cover by a barrage of eggs and vegetables hurled by anti-Nazi demonstrators last night.

Late comers at a bund meeting in celebration of George Washington's birthday were led through side doors into a hall where approximately 300 persons heard speakers liken Washington to Chancellor Hitler in his purposes.

The counter-demonstrators, estimated to number 100, carried anti-Nazi placards.

Speakers, including Herman Schwin, western director of the bund, criticized United States government policies which they termed antagonistic to Germany.

Seven cars of police answered a riot call at the Deutsches Haus as booing pickets outside smashed windows with rocks and drove uniformed bund members to cover from their guard stations.

Mail Man Unable To Cover His Route

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 24—The Ennismore-Lakehurst mail carrier has not been over his Gannon's Narrows route to Lakehurst this week, it is reported. The bridge at Gannon's Narrows is impassable, and he is forced to take the road through Buckhorn, which cuts off that part of his route beyond the bridge.

Two World Fairs Hurt Tourist Trade To Canada

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 24.—Addressing a citizens' meeting here Wednesday night Mayor F. P. Long suggested that the two large fairs being held in the United States this year would have the effect of cutting a large hole in the tourist trade. In his opinion many of those who would ordinarily travel north of the border will this year take in one or the other of the fairs. The meeting called for the purpose of organizing an old home week committee was conducted by the mayor who reminded those present of the great success attending the celebration held ten years ago in 1929. "The celebration was an unqualified success and there has been none in this district to compare with it. The members of the council although favoring the plan feel that it is a matter to be decided by citizens in general to decide.

Britain's industries are busier than they have been for months.
